INDIANA'S 30 MARSHALL VOTES JUMP TO WILSON ON TODAY

New York and West Lock Horns in Threatened Long Drawn Out Battle

No Break in Underwood Ranks Foss Gets 38 Votes

Special to the Quincy Ledger.

Baltimore, July 1—The Democratic convention entered upon its second week today, without any apparent change in the situation.

Two ballots were taken, making the 27th and 28th.

The 30 Indiana delegates for Marshall left him on the 28th ballot and went strongly for Wilson.

Underwood is holding his own.

Harmon is out of the running with only 29.

Those may slip away from him at any time.

Gov. Foss of Massachusetts had 38 votes on each ballot a loss of five from his vote of Saturday.

The western delegates say it will be Wilson or no one.

The result of the 27 and 28 ballots taken this morning were as follows:

	27th ballot	28th ballot
Clark	468	468 1-2
Wilson	406 1-2	439 1-2
Underwood	112 1-2	112 1-2
Harmon	29	29
Marshall	30	—
Foss	38	38
Crane	—	1

LATE ELECTRIC CAR.

The late electric car service between Quincy and Neponset went into effect Saturday night. On the trip from Quincy at 1 o'clock there was 7 passengers and on the trip for Quincy which left Neponset at 1.30 A. M. there were seven passengers. About the same number patronized the cars Sunday night.

POLICE TO ENFORCE EDICT

Another well attended meeting of the July Fourth celebration committee was held Saturday evening at the rooms of the Board of Trade.

The main interest of the meeting were financial matters and the returns as made by the collectors were very satisfactory and were such as to make the affair an assured success. While all collections are not yet in it was found that with the amount that will be received from the city the committee will have something like $1,700 at its disposal.

A rising and unanimous vote of thanks was extended to the Daily Ledger for the support which it had given the committee and for the full and complete program of the celebration as published in its Saturday edition.

It was voted to appropriate $100 for entertaining the officers and jackies for the battleship Delaware, and $50 for sundry expenses.

The matter of base ball games was satisfactorilly settled. It was voted to allow the City League $100 for the two games to be played at Merrymount Park on the afternoon of the Fourth. In addition to this the management is to have whatever receipts there may be from the sale of score cards to the spectators.

No other definite action was taken on any other matter but the general

MONEY MART RAISES DOUBTS

As to Number of New Streets to be Accepted

BY CITY COUNCIL

A regular meeting of the City Council and probably the last until after the summer vacation will be held this evening. The plan now is to adjourn until the third Monday in September as the first Monday is a legal holiday.

One of the important matters to come up before tonight's meeting is a public hearing on the acceptance of new streets.

Last year the Street Committee had reported on all the streets it planned to accept before the summer vacation but this year the committee was some weeks later, owing to the bad season in making its tour of the city. Then again the financial condition of the city makes it doubtful as to just how much money will be available for new streets this year.

The council tonight will make an effort to clean up all pressing matters that are pending, principal among which is the order for $80,000 for a new school building in Ward Three.

Anthony J. Thompson the City Square restauranter is going about today with his right arm in a sling. Mr. Thompson attempted to crank up his automobile Saturday when the handle flew out of his hand and flying about fractured his right wrist.

Squantum people have made arrangements for a glorious celebration the Fourth. Last year they made their first attempt to celebrate and were very successful. This year they have a larger program, with a parade, athletic meet, water sports, ball games, and a vaudeville in the evening.

Citizens Responding Generously to the Fund

MORE MONEY NEEDED

While the citizens are responding generously to the appeal for funds for the Fourth of July celebration, the association still finds that about $200 more is needed to make the affair the success that is desired by every one.

Persons who have not been interviewed or seen by collectors who desire to help along the good work, can forward their money direct to the treasurer, Clarence Burgin, the secretary Arthur W. Stetson, or any of the collectors whom they may know.

The money is needed to make the affair successful and creditable to the City of Quincy in every way.

HUNDREDS OF PARISHIONERS JOINED IN ANNUAL CHURCH REUNION

Parochial School Grounds Scene of Brilliant Assembly by People of St. John's Church

Dancing and Athletic Games Features of Gathering Pleasing to All

Ideal conditions prevailed for the field day of St. John's Parish, which was held Saturday on the grounds adjoining the Parochial school and hundreds of parishioners enjoyed an affair that was pronounced one of the best in the history of the church.

MICHAEL T. SULLIVAN,
One of the Committee on Sports.

JOHN J. CUNNIFF.
An Ardent Worker for the Field Day.

The field day opened at ten o'clock in the morning and ended at 10 o'clock in the evening. It also served as a sort of reunion, for many former parishioners who attended.

The booths were arranged in a most attractive manner and the varicolored bunting and streamers of red, white and blue, entwined with the stars and stripes, that adorned the booths, formed a most imposing scene. In the evening a display of electric lights and a large electric cross were the feature of the illuminated decorations.

In the morning there was a base ball game between the St. John's nine and the Northern Lights, which was won by the former by a score of 15 to 10. In the afternoon the ball game, between the Colonials of West Quincy and the Clovers of Dorchester furnished the attraction. The latter won by a score of 9 to 6. A fine athletic program was run off in the afternoon, the competitors being members of St. John's Sunday school and Parochial school.

Conspicuous among those who were present during the day were Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, pastor and his two assistants, Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Scannell and Rev. Fr. John J. Casey, Mayor Eugene R. Stone, and City Solicitor John W. McAnarney.

The results of the athletic events were as follows:

440 yard run—Won by William Costello, second Gerald Hurley, third Edward Ford.

Men Wearing Last Year's Straw Hats

Should reflect that these hats are apt to look unpresentable toward the end of the season. So if you have to buy a new hat this year, why not get it today and have a spick and span new one of the latest style to wear for the Fourth? Plenty of them at and mighty good ones they are, too. Also yachting caps and other caps for outings and travelling.

Men's Soft Shirts

Almost any kind of a shirt a man can require at $1, and a great big dollar's worth. All are new and fresh, just made from the new fabrics for the summer of 1912. Fancy percale and madras negligee, unusually well made and a good assortment of patterns.

UNDERWEAR, OUTING TROUSERS, SOFT COLLARS, CRAVATS and WASH TIES, RALSTON SHOES for men. AMERICAN LADY SHOES for women.

Everything for comfort and all priced moderately.

Open Wednesday evening. Closed the Fourth.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

That white dove of peace must have looked strangely out of place soaring over the turbulent democratic convention.

Only two more days and then the great and glorious Fourth. Celebrate moderately and sanely and you will not only feel better yourself but add to the comfort and convenience of other people.

There is no such distressing sight as a sick hen. Ever see one?

The local social organizations plan to maintain the Quincy quality of hospitality by keeping open house.

Aero club or no Aero club the aviation meeting will be held at Squantum just the same.

Now that aviation is stopped as a Sunday pastime what is the matter with shutting down on the golfists. It is all in the game.

With the Panama canal finished inside the time limit, there is strong hopes that it will also come well within the estimated limit of cost.

As we did not get the North Dakota, a Quincy built ship, we are glad to welcome her sister the Delaware.

While the bannana is thick skinned all right, it is subject to decay and a long drawn out investigation of the trust at this season might not prove wholesome or savory. In the interests of health it should be deferred until the fall.

Before all the broken friendships of this political year are mended, many battered personages will be promenading around.

"No superstitious reverence" for the Constiution of the United States can hardly be construed as a direct answer to the question, "Are you devotedly attached to the Constitution of the United States?" The men of '76 demonstrated their devotion without any equivocation.

Beverly plans to give President Taft and his family a right New England welcome.

An Italian fisherman has landed a fish with glass eyes at Boston. The next thing wou know the finney beauties will be nibbling at the hook in dress clothes and monocle.

Bryan may have won in the Baltimore convention but it is an even chance that Ryan and Belmont will have something to say before the total score is figured up and they will not do much talking about it either.

Parlimentary victories are empty trophies when compared with the genuine scalps of tangible successes.

Residents in many cities want oil on the streets to lay the dust. It would have exhausted Rockefellers deepest wells to have provided oil enough to smooth the troubled waters of the Chicago and Baltimore conventions.

CAUSE BEING PEEVED.

Assurances are held out that the threatened suspension of work in the several federal departments and the loss of pay by the employees, are to be prevented by an emergency provision on the part of Congress, today.

Congressman Fitzgerald who is attending the Baltimore convention, instead of attending to his job in Washington, is sarcastic in his reference to the peeved condition manifested all over the country by the peculiar situation which threatened.

He contends that the situation would have been met and adjusted in good time.

It might be pertinent to remark that the country had good cause to be somewhat peeved over the situation. Not only did it appeal to the employees of the government, but it set the people as a whole wondering if they were simply paying congressmen and senators to wallow around the country on campaign tours, attend conventions as political jugglers and procrastinate, merely on a question, as to which house should have the better end of the proposition or to sit at sessions of congress and attend strictly to the business of keeping this great nation moving along in a rational manner as a great business corporation.

The situation was serious. It demanded immediate attention. The eyes of the nation were turned upon it. There is grave doubt but what the two houses of congress would have continued their senseless struggling for the strategic position, while the employees of the government would have been laid off or had to wait for their pay if the agitation for action had not been so widespread.

The congressman's position or arguments are not logical. They are not tenable. The people elect congressmen to perform certain duties along business lines.

They are not elected to utilize the larger portion of their public service period in playing politics or juggling with this or that candidate or the various sections of the country.

It is about time congress settled down to serious business considerations and then if they have any spare time devote it to political manipulation.

It was the awakening of the country to the true situation by a live and public spirited press which aroused the members of congress to energetic action at the last minute and the members cannot dodge the issue.

THE FOLLIES OF 1912.

Theatre goers have been regaled the past few years by productions characterized as "Follies" of specific periods. The present year, aye the present month, has provided ample and masterly material for the "Follies of 1912."

The first act of this farcial comedy was enacted at Chicago, and there was a quick change of scene to stage the second act in Baltimore.

The various incidents of act one, while thrilling and theatrical enough in character were brought to a climax at the call of the stage manager for ballot. Thus ended the first act and the scenes and characters of this were wafted to another stage of more potential activity.

Not so with the Baltimore portion of the play. While the scenario was sufficiently productive of startling features and the leading heavy man maintained his role, to the complete exclusion of all understudies, the ordinary actors strode clear to the footlights at the balloting scene and asserted in no uncertain tone that they were part and parcel of the play and proposed to play out their parts to the end. And so we have presented the moving picture scene of innumerable ballots, without any one capable or competent enough to give the cue for the curtain to ring down.

The leading heavy man sets his jaw, strikes an attitude and the other actors pause and shudder.

Once, and once only did the slaves turn at the lash of the whip, show their teeth as the "Terrible One," stood on a bum rock and lashed them with stripes of rhetoric.

The "Wizard of Oz" for once in this cyclone was caught in the meshes of his own weaving, and came down from his high perch for a time. But nothing daunted his sword was soon flashing "Cyrano like" and the sun of victory glinted on its burnished blade.

"The Tin Man," and the "Straw Man," played their respective parts to the admiration of the gallery.

The "Spring maidens," were there in all their glory.

"Joans of Arc," were sufficiently numerous to make Maude Adams green with envy and even "The Princess," although not of Paris was in evidence.

And so the merry act continued, until the darkness of the Sabbath night, proclaimed that unlike a Chinese drama there must be a recess.

The second scene of the second act will be resumed today. The scene shifters, concealed by the darkened wings of even a southern Sabbath were at work. Their success can only be measured by the rapidity with which the climax is reached.

And so the playwrights have an easy solution of a problem. They will not have to go far afield to obtain material to stage with all the infinite or farcial combinations, "The Follies of 1912."

The Daffodil.

The poison of the daffodil is the plant's means of defense. How effective it is may be judged by the fact that rabbits, rats and other small pests which devour hyacinths and crocuses with gusto leave the daffodil severely alone.

HONEYMOON IN MAINE

West Quincy Couple Married at Jamaica Plain

BY FORMER PASTOR

John Ellis Williams, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of 23 Barry street, West Quincy, and Miss Amy Alice Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Miller of 19 Hall place, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at five o'clock at the parsonage of St. Andrew's M. E. church, Jamaica Plain, by Rev. Carl H. Raupach, a former pastor of the Hall Place M. E. church. The bride was dressed in a gray traveling suit.

Both young people are well-known in Quincy and elsewhere, the bride having been employed as a bookkeeper and stenographer by the granite firm of Hughes & Johnson. The groom is employed by a prominent business house in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams will spend two weeks at Rangeley Lakes, Me., after which they will reside at 23 Barry street, West Quincy.

UNEXPECTED GENEROSITY

Everett Concern, Unsolicited, Gave to Help Fourth

The Fourth of July celebration committee received an unlooked for donation last week when Luther S. Anderson handed the treasurer $15, which had been given him for the celebration fund by the Jarvis Engineering Co., of Everett. The Jarvis Engineering Co., do considerable work in Quincy and have just completed setting up a large pneumatic engine for the Granite Railway Co. Friday the manager informed Mr. Anderson that he would like to help along the good cause and passed over $15.

INTERESTING SIDE LIGHTS

On the New Workingmen's Compensation Law

MR. PORTER'S VIEWS

Editor of the Daily Ledger:

I was greatly interested to see, in your edition of June 26, an article concerning the new act relative to "Workingmen's Compensation." There are certain important points in the application of this law which were not touched upon in this article and which are worthy of careful consideration.

Any employer of labor may adopt the provisions of the act or not as he sees fit; there is nothing in the act by which he can be compelled to adopt it either by his employes or by anyone else.

If an employer elects not to adopt the act, he will be liable, just as he is under the present law, for damages on account of any "personal injury sustained by an employee in the course of his employment, or for death resulting from personal injury so sustained." The only difference is that he may not offer in defense as he may now under the existing law:

1. That the employee was negligent..

2. That the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow employee.

3. That the employee assumed the wish of the injury.

If an employee adopts the provisions of the new act, he is required by law to insure himself against his liability to pay compensation to an injured employee. He must also notify his employees of the fact that he has adopted the act, which may be done by posting notices to that effect at his place of business.

The employees must then decide whether they will accept the provisions of the act and if they decide to accept them, they need give no notice. If, however, they prefer not to accept compensation under the act, they may reserve their "Common Law rights," in which case they may bring suit to recover damages just as under the present law. They must however give to their employer notice in writing of their intention to reserve their Common Law rights; and this must be done within thirty days of the receipt of notice that their employer has adopted the act.

Some of the employees of any given employer may accept compensation under the new act, and some may reserve their "Common Law rights." In this case the employer will be liable for Compensation to those who accept the act, and for damages to those who reserve their common law rights.

Either or both of these liabilities may be insured against in the Stock Liability Insurance Companies now doing business in Massachusetts. Liability or Compensation may also be insured against in the so called "State Company" provided for in the act but the Common Law liability of an employer who does not adopt the act can be insured against only in a Stock Company, it cannot be insured against in the State Company.

The cost of this Insurance is a matter in which every employer is greatly interested. The rates under the new law have been submitted by the companies to the Massachusetts Insurance Department for approval. They have not yet been promulgated, although they are expected in the immediate future. They will undoubtedly be considerably in excess of the present rates, particularly in the case of the more hazardous occupations. The cost will surely be exceedingly high for Insurance against the Common Law liability of those employers who fail to adopt the act, and who thus forfeit their "three defenses" enumerated above.

Until the new rates are issued, and the provision of the new act are better understood, both by employers and employees, the Liability Insurance Companies are covering their present policy holders under binders which extend existing policies so as to cover under the new law for a period of thirty days from July 1, and they are issuing binders covering new risks for a period of ten days. In this way employers are enabled to secure protection temporarily until they can know definitely the cost of Insurance and decide in what way they will meet the new situation.

As a matter of practice it is expected that most employers will adopt the provisions of the new act, rather than assume the risks resulting from their failure to do so. Many employees, also, will undoubtedly accept compensation for their injuries, rather than reserve their right to sue at law for damages, although the amount of money which a jury might award is undoubtedly greatly in excess of that allowed under the fixed schedule of the new law.

It is hoped that this new law will benefit workingmen by allowing a reasonable compensation in case of injury, rather than making it necessary for them to sue for damages as at present. It is hoped also that employers will be encouraged to protect their employees from injury more carefully, by improving the conditions under which they work, and by adopting numerous safety devices.

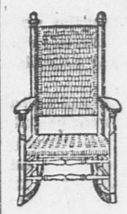

Very truly yours,
Henry W. Porter.

DO YOUR BANKING IN QUINCY

Stop a minute and think. Here is a home bank, a strong local institution. It is near the railroad station, and in the centre of city. It opens earlier and stays open later than the Boston banks. Its safety boxes are rented cheaper. You can know its officers personally. It offers you every privilege that you can get in any bank. Come in and get some facts about this.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Announcements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. T. C. Martin, pastor of the Hall Place M. E. church, took for the text of his morning sermon, Gal. 5-13. "For brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another," a text, fittingly appropriate to the coming celebration on July 4th of our national liberty and freedom. Rev. Mr. Martin spoke of the different phases of liberty and the manner that liberty in connection with these things should be regarded and the difference between right and wrong liberty.

The pastor read a letter from Mayor Eugene R. Stone in reply to the action taken by the church in regard to the Aviation Meet at Squantum.

The regular session of the Sunday school was held at the close of the morning service. The seven-fold contest which has been conducted during the past three months between the boys and girls Reds and Blues came to a close with this session, the girls having scored over 3,000 points more than the boys. Owing to a slight variation in numbers between the two sides at the commencement of the contest the committee decided to award the merits on the average of the two sides respectively, instead of on actual number of points scored by one side overthe other. As it requires some time to look in to this phase of the contest, final decision will not be made until next Sunday.

Although according to the actual number of points scored, the boys lose, nevertheless should it be found that the girls had an unfair advantage by reason of a larger number of members to start with, the margin is so close that the second decision may throw the balance the other way, thus making the girls the losers.

The annual Sunday school picnic will be held Wednesday, July 17th, at Ridge Hill Grove, Hingham. Particulars will be announced next Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their annual lawn party on the church grounds, Wednesday evening, July 10.

The Junior and Epworth Leagues held their closing sessions at 3 P. M. and 6.15 P. M. These meetings will be discontinued through July and August, the young people assisting in the regular evening service at 7 P. M.

At the evening service the pastor spoke on "The Cure for Restlessness or how to be good and do good without money."

The regular business meeting of the Epworth League will be held in the vestry Monday evening at 7.45.

The regular Prayer meeting will be omitted on Thursday evening on account of the day being a holiday.

A number of the young people of the Epworth league attended the annual picnic and outing of the Pilgrim Union Circuit of Epworth leagues of Dorchester and Quincy, held Saturday afternoon, at Houghton's pond, Blue Hill Reservation. A good time was enjoyed by all.

BETHANY CHURCH.

Rev. Benjamin F. Willmott, the pastor, gave another of his excellent sermons Sunday morning basing his thought upon Psalms 103:14, "He knoweth our frame, he remembereth that we are dust."

He said in part: "Along the ridge of divine revelations there are a number of mountain peaks which stand out in prominence. In the New Testament one of the greatest of these is John 3:16. The 103rd Psalm is the John 3:16 of the Old Testament. A Father's pity is the theme of this great Psalm.

"Even as a father pitieth his children so the Lord pitieth them that fear him."

When a person has done wrong, he does not crave human pity. He may desire human sympathy, but pity, never. Pity is sorrow for the frailty of one weaker than oneself. Thus only the pity of God is welcomed by the human sufferer.

Man's conception of God must necessarily be in terms of his own life. It was once said that if the lions were forming a religion then God would be a great lion.

Our conception of God is that of a personality infinitely greater than any human being. One cannot love the Infinite anymore than one can love the Equator. One can love and reverence a great personality such as our minds conceive God to be.

To the Eastern mind, Fatherhood was the greatest parallel but to us of the West, the motherhood of God might have greater significance because with us motherhood is next to the divine.

Man's judgment of man is of necessity not impartial. Our preconceptions and prejudices are responsible for this. God's judgment of man is wholly impartial because he knows our heritage of sin, hate and woe.

When Christ was tested by the men of his time with the coin, he made that answer unparalleled in all time when these men had said that it was Caesar's face and superscription on the coin. Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's!

On our hearts we have the image and superscription of God but they are dulled and marred by these other heritages which are ours.

But, "God knoweth our frame, He remembereth that we are dust." We are under obligation to our Father in heaven just as we are under obligation to our earthly parents. When we show ingratitude He experiences pain just as our earthly father and mother do.

And when things go wrong and we are in sore distress it is our privilege to go to Him and talk things over with him because he knows and understands.

The music at the morning service was especially good. The duet "Knights of the Cross" sung by Mrs. Moore and Mr. Hayden being exceptionally well rendered.

At the evening service the pastor preached upon the theme "Eventide with Jesus." Special music was rendered at this service also with Arthur A. Lincoln of Dorchester as soloist.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH.

With the morning service the church closed for the remaining summer months, the services to be resumed on September 8th.

Rev. Carl G. Horst preached the sermon, taking his text from Prov. 15-15 "He that hath a cheerful heart hath a continual feast." "If there were to be added another beatitude" said he "it might well be, 'Blessed are the cheerful, for they are not only light bringers but, life bringers."

Cheerfulness was differentiated from the assumed lightness of mood which carried with it no help to those with whom it comes in contact, that smiling assumption of gaiety which deceives no one, but is evidently a laborious effort to appear happy. Genuine cheerfulness gives one an habitual tendency to see the best side of life and its events, a calm and composed outlook under misfortune; it is more a mental than a physical attribute but all possess the elements of a possible cheerfulness, which should be carefully cultivated.

Faith in God is the foundation rock upon which may be built a radiating courage and cheer that shall be a constant, daily contribution to the joy of living. This cultivation of an attitude of serene cheerfulness need not preclude the sharing, with a close friend, a deep and sorrowful experience of the heart—the message of the sermon was one of admonition to those who selfishly dwell on small troubles, and of encouragement to those who are nobly showing a brave face in the midst of difficulties and discouragements.

Rev. Carl G. Horst and family will spend their vacation at their summer home two miles from Ossipee, N. H.

The president of the Ladies' Aid Alliance, Mrs. W. R. Atwood, 557 Hancock street, asks the chairmen of the various committees in charge of the Alliance fair next fall to send a list of names of those serving on their committees.

The Fresh Air committee acknowledges with thanks the goodly sum which was received on Children's Sunday. Much good can be accomplished with the amount received. The committee, however, hopes to enlarge the scope of their work and will be glad to receive additional contributions. All contributions should be sent to the chairman, Fred M. Rollins, 341 Highland avenue, Wollaston.

We want not only the people in our parish but in Wollaston to remember that till September 1, our vestry is open every Monday evening between 7 and 8 o'clock to receive flowers and fruit to be distributed by the Mutual Helpers Flower Work of Boston among the sick and shut-ins.

The members of the Fresh Air committee are F. M. Rollins, chairman, Mildred Polk, Ednah Sanborn, E. Horton Page, Stanley R. Cummings.

The members of the Flower committee through the summer are: B. Morris Hooper, chairman, Kenneth Smith, Ruth Jones, Kathrene Adams, Gladys Glover.

Rev. Carl G. Horst's address during the vacation is Ossipee, N. H. He leaves for his summer home tomorrow morning.

KICKING HORSE UPSET VEHICLE

Occupants Thrown Out but not Seriously Injured

MR. HORSE THEN STOPPED

Three persons were more or less shaken up and injured Sunday afternoon by being thrown from their carriage while coming down Great Hill at Houghs Neck. In the carriage was James V. Haley, a clerk in the Boston post office, his sister Mrs. John O'Brien and her eight year old daughter. The carriage was coming down the hill at a moderate rate of speed when the horse suddenly began to kick, overturning the carriage. The occupants were thrown heavily to the ground. The horse after doing this damage stopped. Mr. Haley was taken to the office of Dr. Ferris where his injuries were dressed. Mrs. O'Brien and her daughter, were somewhat bruised and shaken up, but not seriously injured. They were later taken to their home.

BELLS AND STILLS KEPT MEN BUSY

Fire Department Very Much on the Move Sunday

TOTAL DAMAGE VERY LIGHT

Sunday was a busy day for the fire department as the men and apparatus were called out on two bell and three still alarms during the day and evening. The first alarm from Box 421 at 2.57 P. M. was for a slight fire on the roof of a house of Ernest Donovan on West street. The fire probably started from a bon fire and damaged the roof about $10.

The second bell alarm was from Box 723 at 9.22 Sunday evening. This was for a fire in the attic of a house of Patrick McGrath on Lawrence street. The room is occupied by a boarder who either, in his half wakeful condition overturned a lamp or was smoking in bed. The bed was destroyed as was also some of his clothing. The loss will not exceed $25.

The Wollaston apparatus went out on a still alarm at 3 o'clock in the afternoon for a grass fire on Pine street.

The Central Station apparatus was called to the woods in the rear of Hardwick's quarry on Quarry street by a still alarm at 6 o'clock, in the evening.

The Central apparatus was called to a bon fire on Jackson street, at 8 P. M.

DISTRICT COURT.

Pasquale Marino was fined $50 and he was sentenced to three months in the house of correction for violation of the liquor law at Holbrook. Sentence suspended until June 30, 1913.

The continued case of Frank M. Rogers treasurer of the Boston Bay steamboat company for alleged violation of the liquor law was heard and the case again continued until July 15.

CITY AUTO CHEMICAL.

JULY FOUR.

John Kendrick Bangs.

Spread your bunting; hang your wreaths;
Let your banners be unfurled.
Shout until the welkin seethes
All about the deafened world.
Get your old time speeches out,
Cheer until you split the skies,
But be careful while you spout
Of your eyes.

Drag the ancient cannon forth,
Load it to the muzzle's brim.
Let the east, south, west and north
Echo with its blim-blam-blim!
Let the crackers hiss and spit,
Rocket sticks come down kerplunk,
But be careful how you sit
On the punk.

Let the Roman candles flare
All the darkened heavens through.
Let the mortars fill the air
Full of stars red, white and blue.
Let the fluent red lights flow,
Dimming both the moon and sun,
But be careful how you blow
Down your gun.

Roar, rejoice and speechify
Go through all the bag of tricks
With which now we glorify
Heroes of old seventy-six,
But no matter what your glee
Mid the roar of bursting bombs,
Careful, oh, most careful be
Of your thumbs!

Liberty a blessing is Worthy to be glorified,
Worthy of the fiery whiz
Of a nation full of pride,
But it seems a bauble vain,
Empty, useless thing of chance,
When there follows in its train
An ambulance!

CONDUCTOR KILLED.

A most horrible accident in which George E. Orcutt of 136 Hancock street, South Braintree, lost his life, occurred at Pemberton last Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. Mr. Orcutt was a conductor on the Nantasket beach branch of the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. and the accident took place as he was putting up the train preparatory to leaving for his home.

His helper desired to catch the next boat and Mr. Orcutt who volunteered to finish his work for him slipped or was thrown from the rear platform while trying to adjust the trolley pole. The train was being backed on to a siding in the yards for the night and as Mr. Orcutt fell he grasped a rail or part of the fender and was dragged along. He might have saved himself but his foot caught in a frog and he was torn from his hold, the cars passing over his body and literally grinding him to pieces, breaking every bone.

The body was wedged beneath the trucks so that it was necessary to send for the wrecking train and it was 6.30 o'clock or later before the remains were removed.

The body was taken to Fay's undertaking rooms, Quincy, where it was put into a tightly sealed casket owing to the horribly mangled condition which rendered it almost unrecognizable. The accident cast a gloom over the town and the most heartfelt sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family.

Mr. Orcutt was a fine type of man, an exemplary citizen, a loving husband and father, and a faithful employee. By his untimely death Braintree has lost one of her finest and sturdiest sons and one whose place will be hard to fill.

George Edward Orcutt was the son of George W. Orcutt and Annie (Fitzgerald) Orcutt and was born in East Weymouth in January, 1870.

After leaving school he started work as a shoe worker but for the last twenty-three years has been a railroad man working up from signal man to baggage master and from that to freight conductor which position he held up to three years ago. At that time he was promoted to the passenger service and was running on the electrified line to Nantasket at the time of his death.

He was married about nineteen years ago to Miss Annie Schmidt of Hingham and is survived by his widow and two children, Pauline, aged 18 and George William, 16 years old. He also leaves a brother, Charles Orcutt of Wollaston and five sisters, Mrs. Bert Morse of Braintree, Mrs. Florence Ladd and Mrs. Mary Remington of Hingham, Mrs. Lizzie Tracy of Lynn and Miss Clara Orcutt of the same city.

Mr. Orcutt was an active and earnest member of Puritan lodge, No. 179, I. O. O. F. of this town and will be greatly missed by his brothers in this order. He was also a member of the Fraternal Protective Association, the Conductors' Mutual Benefit Association and the New England Order of Railway Conductors, Division 157.

BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Branch of Putnam street have returned from a delightful visit among the Berkshires in the western part of Massachusetts.

Paul Revere Post, G. A. R., of this city, has been presented with a valuable rifle presented by Mrs. Butler. The rifle was the property of the late Rev. Mr. Butler, and was given to him by a very intimate friend in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Lincoln and two young sons of Dorchester, were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Southworth of Greenleaf street. Mr. Lincoln, who has a very fine tenor voice, rendered some pleasing solos at the evening service at Bethany church.

Flag on Highest Building

New York, July 1.—From the top of the lantern dome on the new Woolworth building, 775 feet, the Stars and Stripes floated this noon.

—Milton, the town of low tax rates, may have an increase this year owing to the heavy loss in valuation and a large increase in the state tax.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

Quincy People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills,

For Quincy kidney sufferers.

Have made their local reputation.

Mrs. G. McDonald, 276 Water street, Quincy, Mass., says: "When I used Doan's Kidney Pills in 1908 the results were so satisfactory that I publicly recommended this remedy. That statement still holds good. I felt all out of sorts for at least six months, and was at a loss to know what ailed me. I had but little energy to attend to my housework and my back was painful and weak. An acquaintance hear me complain and suggested that probably my kidneys were disordered, and advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills. I did so, and they soon fixed me up in good shape, making me feel like a different person.

PLATFORM IS PROGRESSIVE

OFFER NUMEROUS PLANKS

Tariff For Revenue Only—Vigorous Enforcement of Anti-Trust Law—Favors Income Tax and Direct Election of Senators—For Single Presidential Term—National Aid For Post Roads

Baltimore, July 1.—Bristling with Democratic progressiveness, the platform on which the Democratic party will stand during the approaching campaign, was completed by the committee on resolutions, and awaits only the approval of the presidential nominee to be presented to the convention.

Mr. Bryan, who took a most active part in framing the paper, made the prediction that it would arouse the disapproval of not more than a dozen members of the convention. Under the new rule adopted the platform will not be presented to the convention until after the nomination of the candidates. Its submission will follow the selection of a vice presidential candidate.

Planks of the Democratic platform summarized:

Reaffirms party's devotion to the principles of Democratic government as formulated by Jefferson.

Declares for a tariff for revenue only, and denounces "the high Republican tariff as the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth."

Favors immediate downward revision of present duties, especially upon necessaries of life. Also favors gradual reduction so as not to interfere with or destroy legitimate industries.

SIMEON E. BALDWIN
(Governor of Conecticut, Whose State Delegates Stay With Him)

Denounces President Taft for vetoing tariff bills of last congress. Condemns Republican party "for failure to redeem its promises of 1908 for downward revision."

Takes issue with the Republican platform as to high cost of living, contending it is largely due to high tariff laws.

Favors vigorous enforcement of the criminal features of anti-trust law. Demands such additional legislation as may be necessary to crush private monopoly. Favors prohibition of holding companies, interlocking directors, stock watering ,etc. Condemns Republican administration for "compromising with Standard Oil company and tobacco trust."

Denounces as "usurpation" the efforts of Republicans to deprive states of their rights and to enlarge powers of the federal government. "There is," says the platform, "no twilight between the nation and the state in which exploiting interests can take refuge from both."

Urges people to support proposed constitutional amendments, pending in various state legislatures providing for United States income tax and election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

As justification of the demands of the party for publicity of campaign expenditures, attention is directed "to the enormous expenditures of money in behalf of the president and his predecessor in the recent presidential contest."

Declares for presidential preference primaries.

Pledges party to enactment of law prohibiting campaign contributions by corporations and unreasonable campaign contributions by individuals.

Favors efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines and a valuation of these companies by the interstate commerce commission and also legislation against over-issuance of stocks of these corporations.

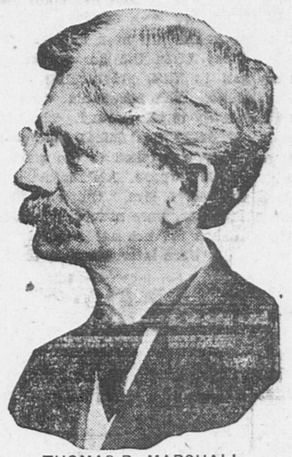

In connection with a demand for such a revision of the banking laws as will give temporary relief in case of financial distress there is a denunciation of the Aldrich bill prepared by the monetary commission.

Recommends investigation of agricultural credit societies in Europe to ascertain whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States.

Favors national aid regarding post roads.

Repeats the party's declaration of the platform of 1908 as to the rights of labor and pledges the party to an employes' compensation law.

Declares the unnecessary withdrawing of public land tends to retard development and brings reproach upon policy of conservation; declares for immediate action to make available Alaskan coal lands and safe-guarding of lives of miners.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL

Favors encouragement of agriculture and legislation to suppress gambling in agricultural products.

Believes in fostering growth of a merchant marine and urges speedy enactment of laws for greater security of life and property at sea.

Favors reorganization of the civil service and says laws should be honestly and rigidly enforced.

Recommends law reform legislation.

Reaffirms position against "policy of imperialism and colonial exploitation" in Philippines.

Welcomes Arizona and New Mexico to sisterhood of states. Demands for Alaska full enjoyment of rights and privileges of territorial form of government.

Refers to Russian treaty and renews pledge to preserve "sacred rights of American citizenship at home and abroad."

Favors parcels post and extension of rural delivery.

Commends to the states adoption of law making it an offense to discriminate against the uniform of the United States.

Renews declaration of last platform regarding generous pension policy.

he conclusion of the platform says: "Our platform is one of principles, which we believe to be essential to our national welfare," and invites cooperation of all citizens who believe in maintaining unimpaired the institutions and traditions of our country.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WHAT TO SERVE WITH SOUP.

GARNISHES for soups may be multiplied indefinitely according to the ingenuity of the housewife.

Croutons of bread are most generally served. One way of making these is as follows:

Bread In the Soup.

Croutons.—Cut bread into small cubes, heat some butter in a frying pan, toss the bread in. Shake and turn until the bread is nicely browned.

If the oven is hot the bread can be buttered lightly before cutting and browned in the oven.

An attractive crouton is cut three or four inches in length and about a half inch thick. These may be eaten from the fingers.

When croutons are used the smaller ones should be sprinkled over the plate of soup when it is served, as they lose their crispness if allowed to stand too long.

Eaten From the Fingers.

Toast Strips.—Trim all the crust from a loaf of fresh bread. Now divide the loaf through the center, tearing it apart rather raggedly. Now divide each half, and the quarters are again pulled apart. This makes eight thin frayed looking strips. Place on a flat tin in a hot oven and toast a golden brown.

Sprinkled With Crumbs.

Toasted Crumbs.—Save dry pieces of bread and toast them a golden brown. When toasted crush with a rolling pin and serve in a bowl. Spoonfuls of the crumbs may be strewn over the soup by the individual when it is served to him.

Rich Croutons.

Puff Paste Croutons.—These may be served with chicken soup or with puree of game. The puff paste is cut into squares of half an inch each and baked a delicate brown.

Egg Rolls.—Pass the cooked yolks of two hard boiled eggs through a sieve, mixing in about a tablespoonful of sifted flour. Add a half teaspoonful of melted butter, pepper, salt and enough raw yolk of egg to make a paste. Shape into little rolls, coating these with white of egg and then with flour. Fry in butter till golden brown. Serve with consomme.

Made of Chicken Livers.

Sauted Balls.—To serve with chicken soup balls made of chicken livers are delicious. Take two ounces of the livers, the yolks of two eggs and a quarter of a teaspoonful of finely chopped parsley, with salt and pepper to taste. Saute the livers in butter, pass through a fine sieve, season and mix with the yolks of eggs to make balls. Treat these with egg and breadcrumbs. Saute in butter and drain on paper for use.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

When the girl reached the swamp she sat on a log and thought bitterly over the absolute expense she was compelled to meet. Every member of her particular set was having an expensive photograph taken to exchange with the others. Elnora loved these girls and boys, and to say she could not have their pictures to keep was more than she could bear. Each one would give to all the others a handsome graduation present. She knew they would prepare gifts for her whether she could make a present in return or not. Then it was the custom for each graduating class to give a great entertainment and use the funds to present the school with a statue for the entrance hall. Elnora had been cast for and was practicing a part in that performance. She was expected to furnish her dress and personal necessities. She had been told that she must have a green dress. And where was it to come from?

Every girl of the class would have three beautiful new frocks for commencement—one for the baccalaureate sermon, another, which could be plainer, for graduation exercises, and a handsome one for the banquet and ball. Elnora faced the past three years and wondered how she could have spent so much money and not kept account of it. She did not realize where it had gone. She did not know what she could do now. She thought over the photographs and at last settled that question to her satisfaction. She studied longer over the gifts, ten handsome ones there must be, and at last decided she could arrange for them. The green dress came first. The lights would be dim in the scene and the setting deep woods. She could manage that. She simply could not have three dresses. She would have to get a very simple one for the sermon and do the best she could for graduation. Whatever she got for that must be made with a guimpe that could be taken out to make it a little more festive for the ball. But where could she get even two pretty dresses?

The only hope she could see was to break into her collection, sell some moths and try to replace them in June. But she knew that never would do. No June ever brought just the things she hoped. If she spent the college money she knew she could not replace it. If she did not the only way was to try for a room in the grades and teach a year. Her work there had been so appreciated that Elnora felt with the recommendation she knew she could get from the superintendent and teachers she could secure a position.

She wanted to start to college when the other girls were going. If she could make the first year alone she could manage the rest. But make that first year herself she must. Instead of selling any of her collection, she must hunt as she never before had hunted and find a yellow Emperor. She had to have it, that was all. Also, she had to have those dresses. She thought of Sinton and dismissed it. She thought of the Bird Woman and knew she could not tell her. She thought of every way in which she ever had hoped to earn money and realized that with the play, committee meetings, practicing and final examinations she scarcely had time to live, much less to do more work than the work required for her pictures and gifts. Again Elnora was in trouble, and this time it seemed the worst of all.

It was dark when she arose and went home.

"Mother," she said, "I have a piece of news that is decidedly not cheerful. My money is all gone."

"Well, did you think it would last forever? It's been a marvel to me that it's held out as well as it has, the way you've dressed and gone."

"I don't think I've spent any that I was not compelled to," said Elnora. "I've dressed on just as little as I possibly could to keep going. I am heartsick. I thought I had over $50 to put me through commencement, but they tell me it's all gone."

"In my opinion you'd best bring home your books and quit right now," said Mrs. Comstock. "You can't be fixed like the rest of them. Don't be so foolish as to run into it. Just stay here and let these last few days go. You can't learn enough more to be of any account."

"I can't!" said Elnora desperately. "I've gone on too long. It would make a break in everything. They wouldn't let me have my diploma!"

"What's the difference? You've got the stuff in your head. I wouldn't give a rap for a scrap of paper. That don't mean anything!"

"But I've worked four years for it and I can't enter—I ought to have it to help me get a school when I want to teach. If I don't have my grades to show people will think I quit because I couldn't pass my examinations. I must have my diploma!"

"Then get it!" said Mrs. Comstock.

CHAPTER XIV.

Wherein Mrs. Comstock Hears Elnora Play on Her Father's Violin.

ELNORA went upstairs and did not come down again that night, which her mother called pouting.

"I've thought all night," said the girl at breakfast, "and I can't see any way but to borrow the money of Uncle Wesley and pay it back from some that the Bird Woman will owe me, when I get one more specimen. But that means that I can't go to—that I will have to teach this winter, if I can get a city grade or a country school."

"Just you dare go dinging after Wesley Sinton for money," cried Mrs. Comstock. "You won't do any such thing!"

"I can't see any other way. I've got to have the money!"

"Quit, I tell you!"

"I can't quit—I've gone too far!"

"Well, then, let me get your clothes, and you can pay me back."

"But you said you had no money!"

"Maybe I can borrow some at the bank. Then you can return it when the Bird Woman pays you."

"All right," said Elnora. "I don't have to have expensive things. It will be warm, so I can go bareheaded."

Then she started to school, but was so tired and discouraged she scarcely could walk. Four years' plans going in one day! For she felt that if she did not get started to college that fall she never would.

After that the days went so swiftly she scarcely had time to think, but several trips her mother made to town, and the assurance that everything was all right, satisfied Elnora. She worked very hard to pass good final examinations and perfect herself for the play. For two days she had remained in town with the Bird Woman in order to spend more time practicing and at her work.

Often Margaret had asked about her dresses for graduation, and Elnora had replied that they were with a woman in the city who had made her a white dress for last year's commencement when she was a junior usher, and they would be all right. So Margaret, Wesley and Billy concerned themselves over what they would get her for a present. Margaret suggested a beautiful dress. Sinton said that would look to every one as if she needed dresses. The thing was to get a handsome gift like all the rest would have.

It was toward the close of the term when they drove to town one evening to try to settle this important question. They knew Mrs. Comstock had been alone several days, so they asked her to accompany them.

While they were searching the stores for something on which all of them could decide Mr. Brownlee met Wesley and stopped to shake hands.

"I see your boy came out finely," he said.

"I don't allow any boy anywhere to be finer than Billy," said Sinton.

"I guess you don't allow any girl to surpass Elnora," said Mr. Brownlee. "She comes home with Ellen often, and my wife and I love her. Ellen says she is great in her part tonight. Best thing in the whole play. Of course you are in to see it. If you haven't reserved seats you'd best start pretty soon, for the high school auditorium only seats a thousand."

"Why, yes, of course," said the bewildered Sinton. Then he hurried to Margaret. "Say," he said, "there is going to be a play at the high school tonight, and Elnora is in it. Why hasn't she told us?"

"I don't know," said Margaret, "but I'm going."

"So am I," said Billy.

"Me, too," said Wesley, "unless you think for some reason she don't want us. Looks like she would have told us if she had. I'm going to ask her mother."

"Yes, that's what she's been staying in town for," said Mrs. Comstock. "It's some sort of a swindle to raise money for her class to buy some silly thing to stick up in the schoolhouse hall to remember them by. I don't know whether it's now or next week, but there's something of the kind to be done."

"Well, it's tonight," said Wesley, "and we are going. It's my treat, and we've got to hurry or we won't get in. There's reserved seats, and we have none, so it's the gallery for us, but I don't care so I get to take one good peep at Elnora."

"S'pose she plays?" whispered Margaret in his ear.

"Ah, tush! She couldn't!" said Wesley.

"Well, she's been doing it three years in the orchestra and working like a slave at it."

"Oh, well, that's different. She's in the play tonight. Brownlee told me so. Come on, quick! We'll drive and hitch closest place we can find to the building."

Margaret went in the excitement of the moment, but she was troubled.

When they reached the building Wesley tied the team to a railing and Billy sprang out to help Margaret. Mrs. Comstock sat still.

"Come on, Kate," said Wesley, reaching his hand.

"I'm not going anywhere," said Mrs. Comstock, settling comfortably back against the cushions.

All of them begged and pleaded, but it was no use. Not an inch would Mrs. Comstock budge, so they left her.

They found seats near the door where they could see fairly well. Billy stood at the back of the hall and had a good view. By and by a great volume of sound welled from the orchestra, but Elnora was not playing.

Out in the warm summer night a sour, grim woman nursed an aching heart and tried to justify herself. The effort irritated her intensely. She leaned back, closed her eyes and tried to make her mind a blank, to shut out even the music, when the leading violin began a solo. Mrs. Comstock bore it as long as she could and then slipped from the carriage and fled down the street.

She did not know how far she went or how long she stayed, but everything was still save an occasional raised voice when she wandered back. She stood looking at the building. Slowly she entered the wide gates and followed up the walk. Elnora had been coming here for almost four years. When Mrs. Comstock reached the door she went inside. The entrance to the auditorium was packed with people and a crowd was standing outside. When they noticed a tall woman with white face and hair and black dress one by one they stepped a little aside, so that Mrs. Comstock could see the stage. It was covered with curtains and no one was doing anything. Just as she turned to go a sound so faint that everyone leaned forward and listened drifted down the auditorium. It was difficult to tell just what it was; after one instant half the audience looked toward the windows, for it seemed only a breath of wind rustling freshly opened leaves, just a hint of stirring air.

Then the curtains were swept aside swiftly. The stage had been transformed into a lovely little corner of creation, where trees and flowers grew and moss carpeted the earth. A soft wind blew, and it was the gray of dawn. Suddenly a robin began to sing, then a song sparrow joined him, and then several orioles began talking at once. The light grew stronger, the dew drops trembled, flower perfume began to creep out to the audience; the air moved the branches gently and a rooster crowed. Then all the scene was shaken with a babel of bird notes and other sounds of nature. The voices died and soft, exquisite melody began to swell and roll. In the center of the stage, piece by piece the grasses, mosses and leaves dropped from an embankment, the foliage softly blew away, while plainer and plainer came the outlines of a lovely girl figure, draped in soft clinging green. She played as only a peculiar chain of circumstances puts it in the power of a very few to play.

STRIKE BREAKS OUT AFRESH

Boston Elevated Lines Have Renewed Trouble

ONE MAN SHOT BY POLICEMAN

Peaceful Week Closed by Night of Warfare—Scores Are Arrested—Men, Women and Children Are Injured—One Car Thrown Off Its Trucks—Rioting Kept Up Until Sunday Morning.

Boston, July 1.—One man was seriously shot, more than a score were injured, including women and little children, a dozen cars were stoned and scores of men were arrested during strike riots late Saturday night and early Sunday in the South End, South Boston, Roxbury and Dorchester districts. One car was overturned.

The wounded man is William Cook of 52 Cliff street. According to the police Cook was shot during a disturbance at Blue Hill avenue and Dewey street, in the Roxbury section. The police say the bullet was fired by Patrolman Arthur Scholl, who fired over the heads of the crowd. One bullet struck Cook. The police insist the shooting was accidental.

One of the most significant features was the rapidity with which the rioting spread from one section of the city to another. Starting in the South End at 9:45, the trouble spread until it reached Roxbury and South Boston and kept up until Sunday morning.

The first indication of the attack which was made upon the cars became apparent at 10 o'clock, when two wagon loads of patrolman were sent to Dover and Washington streets, where the striking carmen were holding a mass meeting.

Scarcely had the meeting adjourned when the trouble broke out. Within two hours eight trolley cars were stoned and the pasesngers thrown into a panic; an elevated train was bombarded south of Northampton street; another surface car was riddled on Hampden street, near Dudley street, Roxbury, and finally overturned, and within a few minutes an outward bound Fields Corner car—the last from Dudley street terminal—ran the gauntlet of stones hurled by mobs between Blue Hill avenue and Uphams corner on Dudley street.

The motorman of the latter car, as well as the passengers, hid behind the dashboards and between the seats as the car whizzed along without a controlling hand. One man was seriously cut on the forehead as the driverless trolley whizzed around the dangerous curves.

No disturbances have been reported since that time.

IDENTIFICATION IS POSSIBLY MADE

In the Headless Trunk Blackstone River Mystery

Woonsocket, R. I., July 1.—Identification of bloodstained clothing found in the Blackstone river indicates that the body of the headless woman found in the stream near Dame's grove last week is that of Mrs. Angele Parmenter, 27 years old, who has been missing about five weeks.

Henry Deslover, 27 was arrested Sunday afternoon, and was subjected to a grilling examination by Chief Lowell J. Boston of the Woonsocket police. The man denied all connection with the crime.

Record Altitude Flight

Vienna, July 1.—At the international aviation meet the Austrian aviator Csakay, whose real name is Miller, reached an altitude of approximately 13,779 feet. He carried a passenger. The previous altitude record with a passenger was made by Prevost at Courcy, 9840 feet. Roland G. Garos holds the individual height record of 13,943 feet.

AVIATORS IN THRILLERS

Crowd Held in open-Mouthed Wonder by Feats

WOMEN FLYERS FEATURE

The third aviation meet at the Squantum field, opened Saturday, before a good-sized gathering of people who witnessed some good flying and thrilling stunts under favorable weather conditions.

The feature which gave it its greatest distinction was the flying of Miss Blanche Stuart Scott and Miss Harriet Quimby—the first time women were ever seen operating flying machines in New England.

When it comes to skill, however, even the women must doff their hats to such men as Lincoln Beachey, Glenn L. Martin and Charles K. Hamilton. These three aviators fairly electrified the crowd of more than 5,000 who were present and held most of them rooted to their seats until the last gun was fired about 6.30 P. M.

The flyers will be out this afternoon in full force.

WEDDING BELLS PEAL FORTH

For Two Couples at St. John's Rectory

Daniel Flanagan, the well-known newspaper dealer of South Quincy and Miss Monica E. Claire were married Wednesday evening at St. John's rectory by the pastor, Rev. Fr. John J. Coan. The bridesmaid was Miss Zamma Galvin and the best man was John Tite Jr. A wedding reception followed the ceremony at the house of the groom's mother, Mrs. Margaret Flanagan, on Centre street.

In the presence of a large gathering of friends, Miss Emma Lemieux, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lemieux, was united in marriage to Frank Laurandeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Laurandeau, of Reardon street at the rectory of St. Mary's church, West Quincy, Wednesday evening by Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy. A wedding reception took place at the home of the bride and a two weeks' honeymoon is being enjoyed in New York.

FLYNN AND HIS HAMMER

Midnight Prowler in for Good Drubbing

IT WAS ONLY THE CAT

Awakened from his slumber about three o'clock Sunday morning, by a noise in the front parlor, ex-councilman William H. Flynn, of Sumner street, got out of bed and prepared to tussle with a burglar. Before decending the stairway the former solon, who is an athlete of note, gathered his wits together and made every preparation with which to direct his attack.

The best method of self defense finally dawned on him and securing a hammer, he proceeded in search of the intruder, prepared to do all the knocking that was necessary. He sought no assistance in his undertaking, but preferred to accomplish the task in his usual manner.

The noise in the parlor could still be heard and the undaunted Flynn still went in pursuit of his prey. He invaded the parlor and after diligent search was assured that his pet cat had been the cause of all the trouble. There was no further need of the hammer and the genial ex-councilman went back to finish his sleep.

FOURTH OF JULY

outline of the days program was discussed informally. Everyone was more than pleased with the way in which the celebration plans were moving and it can be safely said that the celebration will eclipse anything ever attempted in Quincy.

A final meeting before the celebration will be held at the Board of Trade rooms on Tuesday evening, and a large attendance of all interested.

Chief of Police Frank E. Burrell, will be instructed to issue a proclamation to prohibit the firing of powder crackers setting off of any other noise producing instruments, during the assembling or passage of the parades in any part of the city, and also at Merrymount Park while the fireworks exhibition is in progress.

Violations of this edict will be vigorously prosecuted as the police have received their instructions to that effect.

The degree team of Quincy lodge of Moose will give an exhibition drill in front of the grand stand in City Square, on the morning of July 4th, at 8 o'clock, prior to the starting of the parade.

—The success of the use of schools as social centres in Chicago has been so marked that a committee of the board has recommended the substitution of movable desks and tables for the permanent desks and seats which have been commonly used by pupils. Such a change would make a school room easily convertible into a hall for lectures, dances or games and various social entertainments. The recommendation is one which other cities could well follow.—Taunton Herald.

UPHOLDS MR. ADAMS.

Editor Daily Ledger:

The article in your Wednesday edition signed by "Marshall Adams," voicing a protest against the city's appropriation of $1,000 towards the Fourth of July celebration, carries a protest that is being echoed by many of our citizens. This action on the part of the Council, and of the Mayor if he endorses the appropriation order, must lead citizens to wonder if the promises of business-like, economical government by the Executive have been forgotten. With an impending tax rate of $23.00, and the common knowledge about city hall that many of the department appropriations of the anual budget will be practically exhausted by the close of the first half of the year, there must be dense ignorance on the part of the members of the Council as to the city's present financial condition, or else a reckless indifference of our city's welfare.

Of course the excuse of patriotism has been advanced, but a patriotism that finds it so easy to spend the other man's money is a different brand than that which cares for and protects a community's welfare.

Albert Nickerson.

No warrants have yet been issued for the arrest of Morrison I. Swift and Caleb F. Howard, who spoke in Quincy Square, to a large audience Friday evening, for alleged violation of a city ordinance. The chief is still working in the matter and City Solicitor McAnarney is determined to prosecute the men for speaking without a permit.

CITY OF QUINCY

IN COUNCIL.

May 20, 1912.

Ordered:

That Section 1 of Ordinance No. 19 be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 1. A police department is hereby established which shall consist of a Chief of Police, a Captain, a Lieutenant, an Inspector, two Sergeants and as many patrolmen as, from time to time, may be deemed necessary by the City Council and a reserve force of as many men as the laws of the Commonwealth permit.

Passed to be ordained June 24, 1912.

SOUTH QUINCY TOOK 2 GAMES

Clinched Their Hold on First Place in City League

ON OTHER DIAMONDS

South Quincy won both games of the double-header,p layed witht he West Quincy team on the Water street grounds and thus made its hold on first place in the Quincy City League still more secure. The score of the first game was 6 to 1, and the second 5 to 2.

The West Quincy lineup was considerably changed, but lack of team work was largely responsible for both defeats. Wood and Murphy, who did the bulk of the battery work for the strong St. John's "Prep" team of Danvers this year were the battery for the West Quincy team, but their support was poor. Fahey, the Medford High twirler, performed for the winners, and was hit hard, only the brilliant fielding of his team mates cutting off the batting record of their opponents.

Timely hitting and ability to run the bases were the producers of victory.

In the second game the opposing pitcher's were Dam and Williams. Both were effective but the support accorded the latter was not sufficient to win.

A large number of spectators attended. Gillis, the third sacker for South Quincy contributed one of the greatest plays ever witnessed in Quincy, by pulling down a hot liner with his gloved hand. There were men on bases at the time and the catch undoubtedly prevented the Railers from tieing the score. The summaries:

CLOVERS WINNERS.

The Colonials of West Quincy played with the Clovers of Dorchester in connection with the field day of St. John's parish and lost by a score of 9 to 6. Hebert pitched for the Colonials, but did not let himself out in his usual manner. McDonald played a fine game behind the bat for the losers and McPherson was also conspicuous. For the winners O'Brien and McCarthy excelled.

STEAM ROLLER TACTICS WORK IN CITY COUNCIL INTIMATED

Street Building Orders Carried Through With Rush, Then Wheels Were Chalked

Monday night's meeting of the City Council was a short one yet considerable important business was transacted. There was some sharp discussion on some of the orders and Councilman Studley declared that there was an attempt to railroad matters through and while that he intended at one time to vote for an order he did not now intend to do so. Another Councilman declared that the steam roller was working over time. Finding that sufficient votes had been mustered to put certain orders through they were taken up. The first of those was the order for West street which was in the calendar. This order went through. The order for completing Squantum street was then taken from the table and also passed. Then came the Penn street paving order. This was taken from the table. The roller however had then got tired and after a brief debate the order was killed.

An attempt was made to reconsider the vote and lay the order on the table but the point of order was raised that, as the order had once before been reconsidered it could not again be reconsidered a second time. The point was ruled well taken and the order died.

The other discussion came on a report of the Finance committee which attempted to send several items in the order to the Executive. A minority report was made by Councilman Ericson and after considerable discussion the minority report was substituted for that of the majority and the order passed.

Councilmen Sandberg and Sodergren were absent.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing constables for the aviation field. Confirmed.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Board of Health asking for an additional appropriation of $300 for cleaning brooks. Laid on the table until later when an order for that amount was offered by Councilman Craig and referred to the Committee on Health.

Communications were also received from the Mayor appointing constables which were confirmed

The constables appointed by Mayor Stone Monday night were Edward P. Powers and Charles C. Powers to act at the Casino skating rink, Alexander Black, John Sargent and Niles Dahlberg for one year, and Daniel J. Griffin, Walter E. Burrell, William F. Cain, Dennis J. Ford, Michael Lyons, William F. Donaher, as constables at the aviation field from June 29 to July 13.

PETITIONS.

A petition from the Electric Light Company for a relocation of poles was referred to the Committee on Streets.

A communication was received remonstrating against the acceptance of Park Lane. Referred to Street Committee.

An application of the Boston Bay Steamboat Company to transport liquor was received, under suspension of the rules, and referred to the Committee on Licenses.

The School Committee sent a communication relative to the use of the old Wollaston school building considered at the last meeting of the School Committee. Referred to the Executive.

WILLARD AND MISS QUIMBY HURLED THROUGH AIR 1,000 FEET TO DEATH

1,000 Spectators Horror Stricken and Powerless to Render Aid. Cause of Catastrophe Unknown

William A. P. Willard, manager of the aviation meet now in progress at the Harvard field, Atlantic and Miss Harriet Quimby, the noted lady aviator were killed by falling from the machine of the latter about 6.25 o'clock Monday afternoon. This is the first fatal accident at this aviation field.

They fell about 1000 feet and the catastrophe was witnessed by about 1000 people who had remained on the field after the contests of the day were ended.

Miss Quimby had flown, with Mr. Willard as a passenger, to Boston Light, had returned and was about to descend from a height of 1000 feet to the field when the accident occurred which caused women to shriek and men to turn sick at heart.

The spectators had been watching with the keenest interest, for some minutes, the return of Miss Quimby from the light at a height of about 3000 feet. She descended gradually as she approached the field over Squantum Head and at a height of about 1200 feet she circled over the field and Dorchester Bay, still coming slowly down.

When at a point in the sky over the mouth of the Neponset River and opposite the getaway she turned the machine and dipped as if to make a long, straight glide to the getaway.

HARRIET QUIMBY
Aviator Killed at Squantum

A moment after she started on the downward glide and at a rather sharp angle Willard seemed to jump from the machine, although he may have pitched out over the head of Miss Quimby, who sat about three feet in front of him.

When he left the machine the tail went straight up and Miss Quimby fell out. Both bodies came tumbling straight down, Willard first. He struck the water with a great splash and she struck it at nearly the same spot just afterward.

The machine came down, head first, and glided slightly forward in the descent. It struck about 100 feet forward and to the northeast of the spot where the bodies struck. It turned turtle the moment it struck the water and threw up an immense cloud of water.

The tide was low and there was not four feet of water where the bodies and the machine struck about half way between the Squantum shore and the Neponset shore.

The bodies came to the surface almost immediately and floated lifeless. The machine stuck in the mud with one of the planes and the chassis sticking up out of the water.

A number of Signal Corps men on horseback rushed to the little beach from the aviation field. Several rowboats were hurrying to the scene, and finally the crowds from the grandstands rushed down the getaway with Harry Willard, son of W. A. P. Willard, hatless and coatless, in the lead.

He was first at the beach and started to rush in where he saw the bodies floating, but was held back by the signal corps men and others, for the boy acted as if he was crazed.

"Let me go," he cried. "I want to save my father."

DELEGATES BREAK FROM CLARK AND GATHER TO WILSON'S SUPPORT

Illinois, Michigan, Virginia and W. Virginia Join in Stampede

(Special to the Quincy Ledger.)

Baltimore, Md., July 2—The convention looks very much like Wilson. It is the opinion that his nomination cannot be checked.

Clark's support is dropping away from him steadily.

Wilson passed the majority mark on the 43rd and 44th ballot this afternoon.

Harmon and Foss held their own at the 27 mark.

FIVE DROPPED TO DEATH

As Vaniman Dirigible Exploded at Atlantic City

OPERATOR, EXPERIMENTING

Five more victims to air were credited to the great death roll, today, at Atlantic City, N. J.

Melvin Vaniman, his brother, Calvin Vaniman; Fred Elmer, George Boulton and Walter Guest were the victims by the explosion of the dirigible balloon Akron, which burst while 2,000 feet in the air.

The men fell into three fathoms of water and the bodies had not been recovered two hours afterward.

Vaniman has been making numerous secret experiments with an interior air bag by which he expected to control the rising and lowering of the balloon. Vaniman was positive he had solved the problem of aerial navigation. It is believed by many that he had equipped the Akron with this new device and that its operation may have caused the accident.

Vaniman, who acted as the chief engineer of the Walter Wellman flight, which ended disastrously, has held a

EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

"Jim" Vahey, must be pluming himself for the gubernatorial nomination this fall. Many would like to know if he is to rank with the regulars or progressives.

The license allowed witnesses in the Thaw and Darrow cases, are not conducive to a wholesome respect for the dignity of some courts.

The Ancients on their way to England will be half seas over July Fourth.

Poor Regina decorated for a festival is covered by the shroud of death in the path of the cyclone.

The manner in which some of the Roosevelt papers are booming some of the democratic presidential candidates would indicate that their sympathy was not purely of the unselfish type.

The placing of Doctor Wiley and Doctor Cook in one class is poor taste on the part of some one. The former stood for something, while the latter could not find a pole to balance himself with.

Gov. Wilson's attitude during this whole embroglio is both dignified and worthy of respect.

About every one appears to have settled the question of the party conventions. It is being kicked around more lively than "the houn' dawg."

Boston represents two extremes in base, best and worst.

It is most desirable that boys and all others will take this matter into consideration and use judgment and discretion in their mode of celebrating.

June might have been juicier but then as a whole she was fairly good and maintained the reputation of an ideal wedding month.

What an awful awakening for Bryan after his oft repeated boast of representing 6,500,000 voters if he appealed to the country at the present time for endorsement.

Governor Wilson contended that he did not think the occasion required and besides his attendance at the Baltimore convention would be undignified. A gentle rebuke to other presidential aspirants.

The Boston elevated railroad could utilize the strikers as witness to prosecute "knocking down" strike breakers if all the stories of the former are gospel truth.

Quincy people will see four Quincy teams on the diamond July Fourth.

Quincy is honored by the attention of the biggest ship of the navy, even if she could not come within hailing distance.

THE THIRD TERM.

Now that the excitement of the Chicago convention is ended it would be well for American citizens, voters, to sit down for a minute and calmly consider the possibilties of the third term germ, which has only cropped out twice since that famous and wise declaration of the first president of the United States, whom had he felt inclined could have been dictator of the country as long as he lived.

But the wisdom of Washington was profound, far seeing and looking forward into the vista of years to come with the knowledge handed down from history he foresaw such a hysterical uprising as this country has witnessed in the past few months. If Washington never did anything else of note in his long and useful life, he handed down this precious heritage which should be treasured and observed above all others.

The time for self appointed demagogues, would be leaders, frothing with specious and reckless wordings, meaningless phrases when analyzed contain nothing upon which one can lay a finger, have passed away. Calmness and consideration should mark leadership of today. And that those qualities are not found behind the impetuous ranting of a dictator is evident to the student of human nature.

Millions are needed to launch a third or fourth party upon this country. Where are those millions coming from? Not from the people directly because they are burdened enough at the present time.

But a privilege seeking class will furnish it. Is it within the range of common sense and present day business activity and greed to assume, or even try to persuade oneself to assume that those who will provide the sinews of war will not demand something in return.

Of course they will and that they will not be crushed, dominated or sidetracked by the great leader of the people goes without saying.

The breaking into the third term regime, means establishment of a precedent which once entered upon will be difficult to unshackle.

It is no far cry across the borders of Mexico. All the American people have to do, when considering the third term and its opening wedge to indefinite power is to look across that border and remember Diaz and his reign.

There might be some men who would work marvelous good out of such power, but the number who would work harm is by far greatly in the majority.

The American people should beware lest they fasten the yoke around their necks. Once it is fastened the chain cannot be so readily severed. A continuous performance president with the machine he can build up would be more absolute in control than any monarch of Europe.

THINK OF THE SICK.

To try to completely suppress the small boy in his ambitious and patriotic endeavors to make noise at this time is an undertaking which seems well nigh impossible. Those who feel the strongest upon the subject, hearken back to the days of their boyhood and cannot find in that period anything which would justify them in being too harsh upon the boy of the present period.

But there is no necessity of continued, ear splitting and nerve racking noise to manifest patriotism.

A certain allowance however must be made for the boyish spirit and enthusiasm.

But while allowing for this enthusiasm, it would be well to consider the feelings of others.

It would be strange indeed if some one was not sick in some part of Quincy. In localities where people are known to be ill, it is hoped that the boys will use their common sense and not indulge in any noise in those sections of the city, where patients may be annoyed or their very life endangered by unnecessary commotion.

SOCIAL-LABOR CANDIDATE

Gave Platform of the Order to Street Crowd

ADVOCATED LABOR UNITY

Fully 200 people gathered at the corner of Hancock and Granite streets last night and heard Arthur E. Reimer, Presidential candidate of the Socialist Labor Party speak upon economic conditions and the relations existing between capital and labor. He spoke for nearly an hour and proved an interesting talker.

He said among other things: "The capitalistic class controls the people of this country, as they hold the jobs. No man can get a job without the consent of those men. There are 5,000,000 people living on charity in the United States today. The average American citizen wants a master. There are plenty of labor laws on this statute book if they were enforced.

"Leave the politicians alone and unite for self protection. By unity of action the wheels of industry can be stopped short and then the capitalist would have to give in. You do not see the capitalist going to the legislature to ask for laws to reduce the wages 10 per cent. No they hold a little meeting and the result is they tack a notice up on the wall.

"If you were united you could tack your little notice upon the wall demanding the 10 per cent increase and they would have to give it.

"The negroes were chattel slaves. The white men are industrial slaves. The capitalist gains his power by bringing, color, race and religious differences between the workmen.

"They can have it so that half this country would be on one side of a line and half on the other both ready to shoot each other at the word of command.

The reason the big corporations are successful is because it is a case of union men against union men.

"If the engineers, firemen, and others of the elevated railroad were to quit with their brothers of the strikers not a car wheel would be turned in Boston when the strike was started.

"If all were united under one head, instead of being divided into crafts it would be impossible to bring a strike breaker into Boston. The working people have the power.

If they unite under Socialist labor banner, as Industrial Workers of the world they have a chance to win what they desire. Throw over the politician and work for yourselves"

He took occasion to condemn the tactics and principles of the democratic and republican parties. The latter was now entirely split up and that the only thing that saved it from destruction was the fact that its leaders unite and agree when it comes to a critical point. The democrats have a fine chance this year, but they are all reaching out, eager for the graft and personal selfishness has been the cause of continual fighting and thus there has been no unity in the party and so defeat is assured.

The socialist party and the socialist labor party were compared. The former was condemned for sacrificing principle for votes and added that its leaders are not consistent, inasmuch as they suit themselves to conditions in their speeches in different parts of the country.

The socialist labor party was international in its scope and was making greater strides every year. He added that its object was to unite the working class of the country and thus establish a political party that would be conducive to the welfare of the working class.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Reimer agreed to submit to questions. In conversation he was asked by Calib Howard, a member of the I. W. W. if he had been issued a permit. Mr. Reimer said he had been refused a permit but claimed that he had nothing to fear since he had nothing to say which in any way advocated violence. He then took occasion to score socialists who are still in doubt as to whether violence should be employed as a means to gain justice and said that all such should be incarcerated.

Mr. Reimer also spoke of the immigrant as being the bane to capitalist. He said that the native born citizens had become subject to capitalistic exploitation and that they seemed unable to estrange themselves from it. He said that when conditions become unbearable for the immigrant, he would rebuke such methods without much hesitation.

As an instance he cited the case of the strike of the Gilette Safety Razor Company in South Boston. He said that about 800 immigrant girls were employed there and the entire 800 went out on a strike; while only 50 of the American girls went out, the other 150 remaining at work.

CITY COUNCIL

Councilman J. R. S. Ross presented petitions for the oiling of Sea street which was referred to the Executive and for a granolithic sidewalk on Whitney road which was referred to the Committee on Streets.

ORDERS.

The Finance Committee reported on the order for $80,000 for the new school building in Ward Three recommending that the order be amended by adding the date of approval of the plans and specifications by the School Committee and adding the borrowing clause which provides for the payment of $8,000 a year, for ten years, the bonds being dated August 1. Report accepted. Order read and ordered to a second reading.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order for $100 for fire alarm boxes. Order passed.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order for $5,000 for grading the Montclair school lot. Order passed.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order authorizing the collection of taxes. Laid on the table.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order for $565 to extend the water mains in the Mt. Wollaston cemetery. Order passed.

The Committee on Streets reported ought to pass on the order granting the Street Railway Co. a relocation of tracks at Squantum and Houghs Neck. Passed.

The Committee on Streets reported ought to pass on the order granting the Q. E. L. & P. Co. a location for poles. Passed.

The Committee on Ordinances reported ought to pass on the order amending the Tax Collectors Ordinance. Under the amendment it is provided that all taxes must be paid by the first of October instead of the first day of November. Also that if not paid by the first day of December a summons shall be issued, instead of the first day of January. Order passed.

HEARING.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on the acceptance of a number of streets, after which the hearing was closed and the order recommitted. No one objected to them.

ORDERS.

The Finance Committee reporting on the order containing a number of items recommended that the items for bubble fountains at the Ward Two Bath house, lights over the entrance to the Washington and Massachusetts Fields school entrance and sheathing the lathe room at the High school be referred to the Executive and that the order should then pass. The minority report of the committee ought to pass was adopted.

Councilman Ericson presented the minority report that the order ought to pass and he moved the subsitution of the minority for the majority report. Quite a little discussion followed after which the minority report was substituted on a rising vote of 15 yes and 5 no. The order then took its second reading and was passed under suspension of the rules 16 yes and 4 no.

Yes—Bailey, Barker, Beeman, Boyd, Craig, Devaney.

On motion of Councilman Studley it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be until next Monday evening.

Councilman Abele offered an order which provided that parties supplied with water for private fire service should have their water service metered. Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Councilman Thompson offered an order authorizing the Mayor to offer a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of any party or parties setting fire to any granite manufacturing plant. Order adopted.

The order appropriating $2,500 for the completion of West street took its second reading, the rules were suspended and the order passed 16 voting yes and 4 no as follows:

Yes—Barker, Beeman, Boyd, Carruthers, Craig, Cunningham, Devaney, Ericson, Forde, Gauthier, Gilliatt, Mahoney, Richards, C. A. Ross, J. R. S. Ross, Studley—16.

No—Abele, Bailey, Murray, Thompson—4.

On motion of Councilman Cunningham the order for $4,000 for rebuilding Squantum street, was taken from the table and the order passed 16 voting yes and 5 no. On this vote President Hobbs voted thus giving the order the necessary 16 votes. The vote was:

Yes—Bailey, Barker, Beeman, Boyd, Carruthers, Craig, Cunningham, Ericson, Forde, Gauthier, Gilliatt, Hobbs, Mahoney, Richards, C. A. Ross, J. R. S. Ross—16.

No—Abele, Devaney, Murray, Studley, Thompson—5.

On motion of Councilman Richards the order for the paving of Penn was made to the railroading through street was taken from the table.

It was at this time that reference of orders and of the steam roller working overtime. The order was put on its final passage and failed to pass 10 voting yes and 10 no as follows:

Yes—Boyd, Craig, Cunningham, Ericson, Forde, Gauthier, Mahoney, Richards, C. A. Ross, J. R. S. Ross—10.

No—Abele. Bailey, Barker, Beeman, Carruthers, Devaney, Gilliatt, Murray, Studley, Thompson—10.

Councilman Richards moved reconsideration of the vote whereby the order had failed to pass.

Councilman Abele raised the point of order that a motion to reconsider had already been voted upon once and that the motion was not in order. President Hobbs ruled the point well taken.

The loan order for $13,300 for permanent sidewalks took its second reading and was passed under suspension of the rules.

Adjourned at 9 until July 8.

Men Wearing Last Year's Straw Hats

Should reflect that these hats are apt to look unpresentable toward the end of the season. So if you have to buy a new hat this year, why not get it today and have a spick and span new one of the latest style to wear for the Fourth? Plenty of them at and mighty good ones they are, too. Also yachting caps and other caps for outings and travelling.

Men's Soft Shirts

Almost any kind of a shirt a man can require at $1, and a great big dollar's worth. All are new and fresh, just made from the new fabrics for the summer of 1912. Fancy percale and madras negligee, unusually well made and a good assortment of patterns.

UNDERWEAR, OUTING TROUSERS, SOFT COLLARS, CRAVATS and WASH TIES, RALSTON SHOES for men. AMERICAN LADY SHOES for women.

Everything for comfort and all priced moderately.

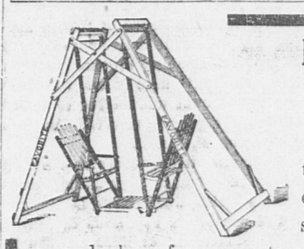

Open Wednesday evening. Closed the Fourth.

WON IN LAST INNING.

The Makarias of Quincy defeated the Middleboro Athletics Saturday afternoon 7 to 5. The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Makarias	1	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	3—7
Middleboro	0	0	0	0	2	1	0	2	0—5

NORWOOD 8—Y. M. C. A. 5.

The Norwoods defeated the Quincy Y. M. C. A. team at Merrymount Park, Saturday afternoon by the score of 8 to 5.

Up to the fifth inning, Foster had shut out the visitors without a hit or a man reaching first base but in this inning a base on balls, some slow fielding by the infield and a long home-run to right field netted Norwood 4 runs. Several good chances to score were thrown away by the home players, as they had men on base in nearly every inning, but poor base-running kept their score down.

The features of the game were the hitting of Holmes and Croucher of the locals who got 3 hits each and the pitching of Houch of Norwood who struck out 9 men.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Norwood	0	0	0	0	4	0	2	0	2—8
Y. M. C. A.	2	0	2	0	0	0	0	1	0—5

Batteries, Foster and Holmes, Houch and Bernies. Umpires, Jones and Myers.

SIX ELECTED TO COUNCIL

Of Granite Cutters at Largely Attended Meeting Unions

A joint meeting of the three branches of the Granite Cutters' Union was held Monday evening and these members of the council elected for three years. Peter Josephine, Malcolm McKenzie, Charles A. Osborne, For six months, Michael Tracey, John Bryan, John Tyte.

Thomas Rogan and Arthur Tremayne were nominated for the office of business agent. They will be voted for next month.

The meeting was held in Hibernian hall, and was attended by about 400.

FIVE DROPPED TO DEATH

strong ambition ever since to succeed where Wellman failed.

Watched by more than a thousand people, the Vanimans and their three helpers took the big balloon from the hangar for a tryout preparatory to Melvin Vaniman's proposed trans-Atlantic flight, and for several minutes the dirigible darted about over the thoroughfare, apparently in excellent condition and perfect control.

Then Vaniman pointed her nose upward and rose slowly until the Akron was nearly half a mile above the earth. Apparently then a warm stratum of air was encountered, for suddenly the big bag exploded and the framework with the five men darted to earth like a plummet.

BURNED BY GASOLINE.

Ray, the twelve year old son of Edward A. Melendy of 11 Grant street, was severely burned Monday afternoon in a peculiar manner by a gasoline shower. Ex-Councilman James M. Nowland was going down Hancock street in his Stanley automobile when something went wrong The boy who happened to be near by started to assist Mr. Nowland by pumping up the gas that feeds the torch Mr. Nowland was on the ground fixing the car and the boy was hard at work pumping when suddenly the gasoline spurted out in a sheet of flame, into the boys face. Fortunately his eyes were not damaged but he was quite badly burned about the face arms and body. He was taken to his home near by and his injuries dressed by Dr. Garey.

DISTRICT COURT.

William Dunn of Holbrook was fined $10 for drunkenness. Sentence suspended until September 12.

Michael McDonough was fined $10 for digging clams without a permit in Quincy.

FUNDS ARE PROVIDED

That the Wheels of Government May Continue to Revolve

Washington, Juy 2.—Both the house and senate agreed to a resolution extending current appropriations through July, thus preventing the tie-up of the machinery of the government which was threatened. The situation is caused by the failure of congress to pass some of the big appropriation bills. Just before President Taft left for Philadelphia he signed the measure, which now becomes law.

After many ineffectual efforts to find Speaker Clark, Representative Alexander of Missouri was chosen speaker pro tem of the house and signed the resolution extending the annual appropriations. The speaker could not be found at his home or at the Capitol. He was believed to be in secret conference over his candidacy.

WILLARD AND MISS QUIMBY

But the men held him and finally one of the Signal Corps men waded in and reached the body of Mr. Willard about the time that a rowboat reached that of Miss Quimby. Both bodies were placed in the boat and brought as near the shore as possible.

Willard's legs and back were broken and his skull crushed. It was thought at first that the woman was alive, but this hope was soon dispelled as her legs and back were broken.

Medical Examiner Frederick E. Jones of Quincy was summoned and viewed the bodies, after which they were removed to John Hall's undertaking morgue on Hancock street.

In the meantime a crowd had collected on the beach. Among them was Miss Vanderbilt, the friend of Miss Quimby, who came over with her from New York and was stopping with her at the Touraine. Miss Vanderbilt was prostrated and almost swooned, as did Leo Stevens, the manager of Miss Quimby.

He fell into the arms of some men who were standing near by and moaned and moaned. Then he and Miss Vanderbilt wept in each other's arms for a moment. It was a pitiful scene.

Harry Willard stood, mud-spattered and with tears in his eyes, looking at his father, until some one threw a coat over the body. Then both bodies were covered up, to await the arrival of the medical examiner from Quincy, Dr. Fred E. Jones.

Men spoke in whispers. Women sobbed. Every one felt sick at heart. It was the end of what had been an unusually fine day, during which some great flying had been seen over the aviation field.

When the accident happened Miss Blanche Stuart Scott was in the air, and had been circling over the aerodrome for more than 10 minutes. She saw Miss Quimby come up out of the northeast at a great height from Boston Light and looked up at her as she circled over the aviation field and bay.

At the time, however, when the accident occurred Miss Scott had turned and her back was to Miss Quimby's machine.

She could tell, however, that something had gone wrong when she saw the crowd rushing down the getaway. She kept on up, made a turn, came back to a point close to where the accident occurred and then saw what had happened. She flew down to the field to the getaway and alighted, displaying unusual nerve under the circumstances.

When asked a little later what she thought of the accident she shrugged her shoulders and said: "It's terrible, but it's what is happening every day."

Then she stepped into an automobile and drove away from the field.

It is impossible to describe the feeling that came over everybody at the meet in a space of a few minutes. When Miss Quimby stepped into the machine at about 15 minutes before 6 she was all smiles. A young woman friend, a Miss Stevenson, took a seat in the passenger pit behind her, and was photographed, for Miss Quimby had promised to take her on a flight as soon as she came back from the Light with Mr. Willard.

After the photograph had been taken Mr. Willard, who had donned a gray sweater and an aviation cap, stepped into the passenger seat behind Miss Quimby, and the machine was wheeled into the getaway.

Everybody seemed unusually happy at the moment. Willard was smiling, Miss Quimby was smiling, and their friends on the getaway were "jollying" them about such a sudden elopement.

The body of William A. P. Willard was removed to the undertaking rooms of David H. Curtis, of 387 Dudley street, Roxbury, late Monday evening, for funeral arangements later.

Mr. and Mrs. William Quimby, parents of the noted female aviator, arrived in Boston from New York this morning, and came to Hall's undertaking rooms, Quincy in an automobile, shortly after eleven o'clock this morning, in company with A. R. Stevens, Miss Quimby's manager and a couple of intimate friends. Mr. Quimby preferred to remain in the automobile and did not view the remains of his daughter.

Arrangements were made to take the body to New York for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Quimby were so deeply affected by the unfortunate fate of their daughter that they were unable to make any statements or discuss any of their plans regarding the burial.

Earl Ovington, the retired aviator, who rounded Boston light last year in a monoplane similar to Miss Quimby's, happened to be observing the machine through a pair of powerful glasses. He said that he saw the tail of the machine shoot up and the body of the machine roll over slightly to the left, followed by the dropping of the bodies from the left side of the machine.

Ovington rowed out to the wreck after the accident to learn if possible the cause. He declared on his return that the left control wire had cracked the warping lever and depressed the plane to the left, throwing out the occupants by the suddenness of the tilt.

Miss Quimby probably will pass into history as the first American woman aviator. She won the first aviation license ever granted a woman in America, made an American endurance record for women, and last spring she brought her fame to a climax as the first woman to pilot an aeroplane across the English channel.

Miss Quimby, outside of her aviation activities, was a well-known magazine writer connected with Leslie's Weekly.

Miss Quimby is the fourth woman to lose her life in an aeroplane accident.

W. A. P. Willard, the manager of the Boston meet, who was killed while riding with Miss Quimby, was father of Charles Foster Willard, who was one of the pioneer aviators of the Curtiss school and he was an electrical engineer and inventor.

The deaths of Miss Quimby and Willard bring the total of aviation fatalities for the present year up to forty-one, compared with seventy-three in the whole year of 1911.

Miss Blanche Stuart Scott was flying in the air at the time. The field had been cleared especially for the two women aviators. The first that Miss Scott knew of the tragedy was when she started to descend and found the field covered with wildly running men and women. Realizing that something had happened, she circled the field until it was cleared, and collapsed when she was told what had happened.

DICK OBEYED ORDERS.

The Observant Citizen in the Boston Post says:

I am told that Henry F. Tilden, treasurer of Quincy, intends to increase the surplus in his strongboxes and that right away. He was last week made acting Mayor for a few days, and immediately called the tax collector on to the carpet and gave out these instructions:

"Dick, you have got the law on your side, go ahead and get some money, and get it quick."

As Dick and Mayor Tilden are strong friends, the orders were carried out.

KEPT ROLLER MOVING

President Hobbs of the City Council reported Monday night in crutches. It seems that while in bathing at Atlantic beach Sunday he ran up the beach and stepping on a stone turned his ankle in such a manner as to snap one of the cords. Although admonished to take his bath in a bath tub in the future he says that as soon as he can walk he will go in bathing in the salt water again.

A Fifty Horse Power Rambler Thorobred

The Rambler Greyhound

You are not the man who likes to speed, but any fellow with red blood hates to take the dust.

We all want the same thing—good road ability at ten to twenty miles an hour—but we must have speed ability in reserve.

You don't want it often but when you do you want it badly.

Here are three fifty horse power thorobreds.

The Rambler Valkyrie—a whirlwind for power at a moderate price. A four-passenger with 36 inch wheels and 4½ inch tires, as comfortable as a touring car; as handy as a roadster—$2250.

The Rambler Moraine—a seven passenger, comfortable, handsome, family touring car with 40 inch wheels—$2500.

The Rambler Metropolitan—a seven passenger, torpedo type touring car, 128 inch wheel base and 40 inch wheels—$2850.

4th HOLIDAY FOR POSTMEN

All Employees of Post Office Get the Day

Carriers and clerks in the Boston postal district including Quincy, are to have a holiday on July 4 for the first time in the history of the local office. This boon for the men has been obtained by William C. Mansfield postmaster. Mail is light on July 4, and heretofore there has been but one delivery.

Collections will be made as usual and special delivery letters will be delivered. Outside of that business at the post office will shut down on the holiday.

Signs have been posted in the Quincy post office giving notice that the office will be closed July Fourth and that while special delivery letters will be delivered that there will be no delivery by the carriers.

FELL FROM TREE GIRL BROKE ARM

Dorothy Johnson Tried to Fix Swing, With Bad Results

While attempting to fix a swing for her enjoyment about six o'clock Monday evening. Dorothy, the ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, of Upland road fell from a tree in front of her home and had her left arm broken. She fell about a distance of 13 feet and landed heavily on the ground. She was attended by Dr. John Gordon.

FIRST M. E. WOLLASTON.

"Our Obligation to the Church" was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. Wesley Wiggin at the Methodist church Sunday. Mr. J. A. Sedgwick, the superintendent, had charge of the Sunday school and conducted the Review lesson. Mr. Albert Leigh of Watertown led the Epworth League at 6.00 o'clock taking for his subject "The Permenance of Truth." At the 7.00 o'clock service the pastor spoke on the "New Patriotism." He said in part:

"The New Patriotism is a call to meet present duty. The prepared man is the called man. The ready man is the doer and the winner. When we speak of patriotism we think of the civil war or other wars where sacrifices have been made, and on memorial occasion when we commemorate the loyal deeds of the heroes of the past we are patriotic. But the new patriotism has a deeper meaning and a wider application. Because of the old idea of patriotism which was almost always made to refer to scenes of war or in anticipation of war men have criticised it as the one vice that has done most to retard the progress of civilization. So in every age and in every country voices have been raised against it.

"But today patriotism is coming to have a different meaning and a deeper significance. The true patriot is not only the one who fought, and bled and died, but the one who lives and thinks and acts, in the interest of truth, for the cause of right and in behalf of humanity. The new patriotism is embodied in the words 'I am ready.' It is a call to meet present duty. Fifty years ago to die for one's country was patriotism. Today the new patriotism is to live for one's country.

"The man who speaks the truth at great costs is a patriot. He, who fights the saloon, political corruption, bribery, greed, graft, and vice in every form is as much a hero as he who fought the enemy on battlefields. To be a true citizen soldier in the time of peace and stand for principle and defend every righteous cause is as much the work of the hero as any that fought in behalf of the Union.

"The new patriotism will love its country. To love one's country is to desire to make it great and just and efficient, protector of liberty, promoter of virtue, molder of brotherhood, preacher of righteousness, leader of nations, defender of the truth, and interested in all that pertains to good government.

"To love one's country is to place it above mere party. To do this we must act from highest motives, unselfish purposes and christian principles."

Miss Marion S. Nevers will supply as organist during Mrs. F. G. Bennett's absence on her vacation. There will be no preaching service at 7.00 o'clock during July and August. The Epworth League will hold its service at 7.00 o'clock instead of at 6.00 o'clock during the summer months.

ST. RAILWAY CO. ACCEPTS ACT

Bay State Lines Up for Workmen's Compensation

REVIEW OF PROVISIONS

The Bay State Street Railway Company announces its decision to accept the so-called Workingmen's Compensation Act which became effective July 1. This new act provides that in an action to recover for personal injury sustained by an employee in the course of his employment, or for the death resulting from personal injury so sustained that it shall not be a defense that the employee was negligent, that the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow employee, or that the employee has assumed the risk of injury, as have been previously recognized in such cases when brought before the courts in common law suits.

The act also creates a state insurance company intended to provide insurance for those, accepting the act at cost. The acceptance of this act is not compulsory on the part of either employer or employee.

The employees may give notice that they reserve their rights and intend to sue at common law. Should they do so they will be in exactly the same position as before the passage of the act. Their employees will then be liable for such damages under the common law as may be assessed by injuries, whether or not the employers have accepted the act. The employers also may refuse acceptance and take their chances at common law. If they do accept the act, however, they will be liable as set forth in the act to such employees as have accepted it and liable under the common law to those who have not.

It is believed, however, that the act is a long step forward in bringing about a more mutual satisfactory method of adjusting the questions of such liability as are constantly arising.

It is provided in the act that the employees who accept its provisions shall receive in case of death or injury the following benefits; medical and hospital services during the first two weeks after the injury, the Weekly payments where the injury incapacitates employee for a period exceeding two weeks from earning his full wage. In case of death resulting from the injury, those wholly dependent upon the injured person get a weekly payment of one-half his average weekly wages (but not more than $10 nor less than $4 a week) for 300 weeks. Those partly dependent get lesser amounts and where there are no dependents only the expenses of the last sickness and burial up to $200 are required to be paid.

For certain specific injuries the following amounts which are in addition to all other compensations, are to be paid: For the loss of both hands, both feet, one hand and one foot, a reduction of one-tenth of normal vision in both eyes, the employee gets a weekly payment of one-half his average weekly wage (but not more than $10 nor less than $4 a week) for 100 weeks. For loss of either foot, or hand, or eye, one-half weekly wage (but not more than $10 nor less than $4 a week) for 50 weeks. For loss of two or more fingers (including thumbs or toes) at or above the second joint, one-half the average weekly wages (but not more than $10 nor less than $4 a week) for 25 weeks. For loss of at least one phalange of a finger, thumb or toe, one-half the average weekly wages (but not more than $10 nor less than $4 a week) for 12 weeks.

In case of total incapacity the injured employee gets one-half the average weekly wages (but not more than $10 nor less than $4 a week) up to 500 weeks, or $3,000 maximum

While the incapacity is partial he gets one-half the difference between his average weekly wages before the injury and the average weekly wages he is liable to earn thereafter (but not more than $10 nor less than $4 a week) for a period not exceeding 300 weeks as a maximum.

If the employer is injured by reason of the serious and wilful misconduct of the employer or any person regularly intrusted with and exercising powers of superintendence, the amounts of compensation as above are doubled, and the employer is himself liable for this extra compensation.

The operation of this new act is under the supervision of an industrial accident board of five appointed recently by the governor.

MUSICIANS ON THE DELAWARE

Clarinet and Piccolo Players Wanted for the Band

The following self explanatory letter will be of interest to Quincy musicians who desire to join the navy and at the same time see the world while cruising in one of "Uncle Sam's" ships:

Provincetown, Mass.
June 28, 1912.

Editor Ledger, Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I have several vacancies in the Band on this ship which I would like to fill while in your city next week. In 1907 I recruited a band from Quincy, Maynard and Boston for the "Vermont," and had a very good band so would like to get some more musicians of the same kind if there are any more in your city.

I have at present a very good band and have had the best in the fleet on this ship the Delaware being an exceptionally good ship for band. We play the best of music as enclosed program will show.

I am a Boston man and studied with some of the best tutors there, including those at the New England Conservatory so am quite different from the bandmasters, Massachusetts musicians expect to meet in the navy. Musicians are treated as musicians on this ship.

Will you kindly insert in your "Daily Edition" that I would be glad to hear from Musicians especially clarinetists and piccolo players who wish to join this band. Pay $33. and $35. per month and food, clothing, etc.

Sincerely yours,
W. F. Berry,
Bandmaster U. S. N., U. S. S. Delaware

RABBI TIED NUPTIAL KNOT

Skoler-Grossman Wedding According to Jewish Rites

In the presence of over a hundred and fifty relatives and friends, Miss Gertrude Grossman and Bernard Skoler, both of Quincy, were united in marriage at Clan McGregor hall, Monday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Julius Sandolavitz, rabbi of the Quincy Synagogue. The bride was attended by Miss Fannie Cohen of Boston and the best man was Hyman Cohen, also of Boston.

The bridesmaids were Miss Anna Grossman and Miss Eva Sherad. Guests were present from Boston, Malden, Chelsea, Weymouth and New York. The newly married couple were the recipients of many presents and telegrams of congratulation. After a two weeks' honeymoon in Washington and New York, they will reside at 100 Intervale street, South Quincy.

Following the reception a banquet was held, at the conclusion of which dancing was in order, and enjoyed until midnight. The music was by Sorocka's orchestra. The hall was prettily decorated for the event with potted plants, ferns and flowers of all kinds.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Campaign against Enameled Faces of High School Girls Stirs Proper Minded Hubbites—No Reason why Sweet Sixteen Should Paint Like a Circus Clown—Boston Kiddies View with Regret the Exportation of a Host of Shetland Ponies—Magnificent New Bandstand on Historic Common Symbolizes Musical Achievements of American Athens.

Conventions follow on the heels of conventions in the Hub, and each week sees the interested groups of strangers exploring historical and recreational spots. The American Institute of Electrical Engineers took the town by storm in their 29th annual convention, and crowds of people in attendance upon the aviation meet swell the number of summer tourists who stop for a day or two in Boston on their way to northern summer resorts. The deadness which usually marks the American city in summer is seldom present in the New England capital, even though the Back Bay presents an unbroken facade of shuttered windows.

A Boston newspaper is conducting a campaign—or is acting as a medium through which a large group of club women are conducting a campaign—against the prevailing styles of dress and adornment worn by the young girl of from 14 to 17 years of age. There is, of course, plenty of material for unlimited newspaper articles, and numberless illustrations to go with them. Setting aside any question of the unsuitableness of the short, clinging skirts, invisible stockings, screaming colors and brazen exposure of gowns cut a la ballroom, to say nothing of hairdressing achievements, one sometimes wonders what perversion of mentality suggests anything attractive, charming or beautiful in the enamelling process which makes a girl's face look like that of a circus clown, white-painted with vivid red cheeks which in daylight have a lavender-blue tint that shrieks falsity two blocks away. One is impelled with a desire to seize a stout knife and scrape away the enamel to find if there is a real face beneath. But these high school girls will doubtless outgrow the present mad desire to look ten years older than they are, and will become sensible and useful women and mothers some day, provided that in the present weird efforts to attract the attention of the boys they do not lose every chance of ever gaining the regard of a decent man.

A shipment of 100 Shetland ponies for England was a cargo item such as Boston never saw before, these ponies having been raised on a farm in Illinois where pony breeding has become a large and profitable industry. So many Shetland ponies black, brown and spotted have been bought for boys and girls in Argentina and Germany during the last few years of prosperity there, that a good many children in New England who are yearning for a pony outfit will have to do without. Pony prices are much more attractive for the breeders than for the parents who want to buy them. The first export shipment back to the original stamping ground of Shetland ponies followed close on the heels of the exports of cargo after cargo of anthracite coal for Newcastle and other parts of England and the pony shipment was more remarkable than sending "coals to Newcastle." For Shetland ponies you know always have come from the Shetland islands, Scotland and England to the United States and the idea of sending them abroad seemed preposterous until Theodore S. Simpson, who has a pony farm near Chicago, at Oswego, Ill., discovered that a law was going into effect July 1 prohibiting the use in the coal mines of England of any ponies under four years of age. Some years ago another law was passed which has prohibited the use of Mares and fillies in the mines. The new requirements made a big demand for Shetland ponies small enough to work in the low mine galleries of England and Wales. The mine owners found that prosperity down in Argentine had caused a demand to spring up for ponies and the supply in the Shetland islands and Scotland was depleted. That is how the order was given to an American breeder and it is said he expects hereafter to have a regular market in Europe for the ponies which necessarily were imported from there only a few years ago.

Much more than just a litle bandstand in a public park appears in the domed white marble George Francis Parkman memorial bandstand on Boston Common, dedicated Sunday, June 23. As brought out by Professor Louis C. Elson, of the New England Conservatory of Music, in one of the dedicatory addresses, the new addition to New England's most famous outdoor gathering place symbolizes Boston's musical leadership. In Boston was printed the first musical book in 1640. Here, in a little music shop, the first American Composer, William Billings, wrote hymns in hours when customers were scarce. To the New England capital Gottlieb Grupner came from Germany to organize the earliest American orchestra. In Park Street Church the first choir was started in 1910 and on Dec. 25, 1815, the Handel and Haydn Society gave the first modern concert. In 1838 in Boston music study was for the first time in America introduced into a public school system. In 1853, under the initiative of Dr. Eben Tourjee, the New England Conservatory, the first school of professional music in this country opened its doors. In 1880 the organization of the Boston Symphony Orchestra made the Hub a still better place for serious students of music. In 1902 with the removal of the New England Conservatory to the Fenway district and the building of Symphony Hall in the near vicinity began the formation of the great musical centre in America. In 1908 the first plans for local grand opera were broached, leading to the erection of the Boston Opera House and the formation of the Conservatory's school of opera. Many more superlatives have occurred in the steady development of the Puritan city into one of the world's greatest musical capitals. These advancements, through the munificence of Mr. Parkman, are now fittingly memorialized in the historic Common.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

NEW BEETS.

SELECT beets that have fresh green leaves. Cut off the tops about two inches above the root. Wash, but do not break the skin. If they are boiled cook until tender, salting them a half hour before taking off the fire. Then rub off the skins. Slice large beets, quarter small ones. Season with salt, pepper and butter. When dressed beets are left after a meal they may be washed in water to remove the seasoning and kept until they are needed for salad or other dishes. The tops of summer beets may be cooked separately as greens and served like spinach.

A Vegetable Hash.

Beet Hash.—To make this take a cupful of potatoes, a cupful of beets, half a cupful of cabbage. Chop them together, season and warm in butter in a frying pan. Serve when they are browned, adding slices of cold boiled eggs.

Novel Pancakes.

Beet Fritters.—Boil a large beet until it is tender, then mash it fine in a mortar, add the yolks of four beaten eggs, two spoonfuls of flour and three spoonfuls of cream. Sweeten to taste. Grate in some nutmeg and the peel of half a lemon. Mix well and fry the fritters in butter. Serve hot.

Creamed Beets.—Cook the beets until tender. Remove the skin when they are taken out of the water and chop in small pieces. Add salt and pepper and a cupful of cream to four cupfuls of the chopped beets. Stir in some sugar, a little vinegar and several pieces of butter. Place the beets in a baking dish and bake in the oven for fifteen or twenty minutes.

A Nice Luncheon Dish.

Lyonnaise Beets.—Wash some beets, taking care not to break the skin. Put them on the fire and boil until tender in salted water. When done scrape and slice thin or cut into dice. Heat in a frying pan two tablespoonfuls of vinegar with one of butter, a small chopped onion, salt and pepper, and add the beets. Cook for ten minutes, stirring, that they may not scorch.

Cream of Beet Soup. — Take four bunches of beets, pare, grate and strain. Let them scald. Boil a pint of milk and add to it the hot beet juice. Stir in a saltspoonful of salt, a little cream, a tablespoonful of sifted flour and two of butter. Mix slowly into the soup. Stir until the soup is as thick as cream.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

At the doorway a white faced woman bore it as long as she could and then fell senseless. The men nearest carried her down the hall to the fountain, revived her and then placed her in the carriage to which she directed them. The girl played on and never knew.

That was Friday night. Elnora came home Saturday morning and went to work. Mrs. Comstock asked no questions, and the girl only told her that the audience had been large enough to pay for the piece of statuary the class had selected for the hall. Then she inquired about her dresses and was told they would be ready for her. She had been invited to go to the Bird Woman's to prepare for both the sermon and commencement exercises. Since there was so much practicing to do, it had been arranged that she should remain there from the night of the sermon until after she was graduated. If Mrs. Comstock decided to attend she was to drive in with the Sintons.

It was almost time for Wesley to come to take Elnora to the city when, fresh from her bath, with shining, crisply washed hair and dressed to her outer garment, she stood with expectant face before her mother and cried, "Now my dress, mother."

Mrs. Comstock was pale as she replied, "It's on my bed. Help yourself."

Elnora opened the door and stepped into her mother's room with never a misgiving. She hurried to the bed to find only her last summer's white dress, freshly washed and ironed.

Somewhere a dainty lawn or mull dress simply must be hanging. But it was not. Elnora dropped on the chest because she felt too weak to stand. In less than two hours she must be in the church at Onabasha. At last she opened the door.

"I can't find my dress," she said.

"Well, as it's the only one there I shouldn't think it would be much trouble."

"You mean for me to wear an old washed dress tonight?"

"It's a good dress. There isn't a hole in it! There's no reason on earth why you shouldn't wear it."

"Except that I will not," said Elnora. "Didn't you get me any dress for commencement, either?"

"If you soil that tonight I've plenty of time to wash it again."

Sinton's voice called from the gate.

"In a minute," answered Elnora.

She ran upstairs and in an incredibly short time came down wearing one of her gingham school dresses. With a cold, hard face she passed her mother and went into the night. A half hour later Margaret and Billy stopped for Mrs. Comstock with the carriage. She had determined fully that she would not go before they called. With the sound of their voices a sort of horror of being left seized her, so she put on her hat, locked the door and went out to them.

Wesley was waiting before the big church to take care of the team. As they stood watching the people enter the building Mrs. Comstock felt herself growing ill without knowing why. When they went inside among the lights, saw the flower decked stage and the masses of finely dressed people she grew no better. She could hear Margaret and Billy softly commenting on what was being done.

"That first chair in the very front row is Elnora's," exulted Billy, "cos she's got the highest grades and so she gets to lead the procession to the platform."

"The first chair!" "Lead the procession!" Mrs. Comstock was dumfounded. A wave of positive illness swept over her. What had she done? What would become of Elnora?

CHAPTER XV.

Wherein Elnora Is Graduated With the Bird Woman's Help.

As Elnora rode to the city she answered Wesley's questions in monosyllables so that he thought she was nervous or rehearsing her speech and did not care to talk. Several times the girl tried to tell him and realized that if she said the first word it would bring a torrent of tears. The Bird Woman opened the screen and stared unbelievingly.

"Why, I thought you would be ready, you are so late!" she said. "If you have waited to dress here we will have to hurry."

"I have nothing to put on," said Elnora.

"Did—did"— she faltered, "did you think you would wear that?"

"No. I thought I would telephone Ellen that there had been an accident and I could not come. I don't know yet how to explain. I'm too sick to think. Oh, do you suppose I can get something made by Tuesday so that I can graduate?"

"Yes, and you'll get something on you tonight, so that you can lead your class, as you have done for four years. Go to my room and take off that gingham quickly. Anna, drop everything and come help me."

The Bird Woman ran to the telephone and called Ellen Brownlee.

"Elnora has had an accident. She will be a little late," she said. "You have got to make them wait. Have them play an extra musical number before the march."

Then she turned to the maid. "Tell Benson to have the carriage at the gate just as soon as he can get it there. Then come to my room. Bring the thread box from the sewing room, that roll of wide white ribbon on the cutting table and gather all the white pins from every dresser in the house. But first come with me a minute.

"I want that trunk with the Swamp Angel's stuff in it from the cedar closet," she panted as they reached the top of the stairs.

They hurried down the hall together and dragged the big trunk to the Bird Woman's room. She opened it and began tossing out white stuff.

"How lucky that she left these things!" she cried. "Here are white shoes, gloves, stockings, fans, everything."

"I am all ready but a dress," said Elnora.

The Bird Woman began opening closets and pulling out drawers and boxes.

"I think I can make it this way," she said.

She snatched up a creamy lace yoke with long sleeves that recently had been made for her and held it out. Elnora slipped into it, and the Bird Woman began smoothing out wrinkles and sewing in pins. It fitted very well with a little lapping in the back. Next, from among the Angel's clothing she caught up a white silk waist with low neck and elbow sleeves, and Elnora put it on. It was large enough, but distressingly short in the waist, for the Angel had worn it at a party when she was sixteen. The Bird Woman loosened the sleeves and pushed them to a puff on the shoulders, catching them in places with pins. She began on the wide draping of the yoke, fastening it front, back and each shoulder. She pulled down the waist and pinned it. Next came a soft white silk dress skirt of her own. By pinning her waist band quite four inches above Elnora's, the Bird Woman could secure a perfect Empire sweep with the clinging silk. Then she began with the wide white ribbon that was to trim a new frock for herself, bound it three times around the high waist effect she had managed, tied the ends in a knot and let them fall to the floor in a beautiful sash.

"Elnora," she said, "forgive me, but tell me truly. Is your mother so extremely poor as to make this necessary?"

"No," answered Elnora. "She is—is different."

"Oh!" panted Elnora. "Is that me? You are a genius! Why, I will look as well as any of them."

The organ began rolling out the march as they came in sight. Elnora took her place at the head of the procession, while every one wondered.

Mrs. Comstock gripped her hands together and shut her eyes. It seemed an eternity to the suffering woman before Margaret caught her arm and whispered: "Oh, Kate! For any sake look at her! Here! The aisle across!"

Mrs. Comstock opened her eyes and, directing them where she was told, gazed intently and slid down in her seat on the verge of a collapse. She was saved by Margaret's tense grip and her command, "Here, idiot, stop that!"

In the blaze of light Elnora climbed the steps to the palm embowered platform, crossed it and took her place. Sixty young men and women, each of them dressed the best possible, followed her. There were manly, fine looking men in that class which Elnora led. There were girls of beauty and grace, but not one of them was handsomer or clothed in better taste than she.

Billy thought the time would never come when Elnora would see him, but at last she caught his eye, then Margaret and Wesley got faint signs of recognition in turn, but there was no softening of the girl's face and no hint of a smile when she saw her mother.

"Oh!" panted Elnora. "Is that me?"

Heartsick, Katharine Comstock gripped her seat and tried to prove to herself that she was justified in what she had done, but she could not.

A WRECKED CITY

Capital of Saskatchewan Devastated With Great Loss of Life

Regina, Sask., July 2.—Forty-one bodies have been recovered from the ruins caused by the tornado which occurred here. The death list probably will be confined to fifty. The military has been recalled from its annual encampment and is in charge of the city.

On Lorn street, one of the principal residence thoroughfares, scarcely a building is left standing. The Cnadian railway yard is a flat expanse of ruined shops and trains. Not a whole car remains in the yard. Some of them were picked up by the wind and carried for several blocks. The whole north side of the city is practically wiped out. No one knows how many are dead on that side. A canoe was carried from Wascana lake to Victoria park, a distance of three-quarterss of a mile, and dropped there. Sailing vessels were picked out of the water and strewn over the southern portion of the city. The cupola of the Baptist church was dropped in the middle of the street three blocks away.

Nearly all the churches were totally destroyed, as were the Y. M. C. A., telephone exchange, from which most of the seventy-five girls escaped, great grain elevators, Masonic temple, new public library, warehouses, factories, offices and store buildings. Six hundred families are homeless.

The sweep of the storm, the worst in the history of the Canadian northwest, was over a city which only a short time before had completed the work of decking itself in gala attire for the celebration of Dominion day. Bunting and flags covered buildings everywhere and networks of colored electric lights were strung and ready for illumination. Through these gaily decorated streets the tornado swept and within a half hour Regina had been turned into a city of mourning. In the track of the storm building after building lay in ruins swathed in its shroud of gay-colored bunting.

New Army Bill

Washington, July 2.—A new army appropriation bill, without the clause which would force General Wood out as chief of staff and prevent others from attaining same, has been passed by the house.

HONORABLE CAREER ENDED

William E. Horton, Known in Quincy, Passed Away

There were hundreds of sad hearts, not only in Foxboro but in many other communities, when news came of the death of William Edgar Horton, Principal of Foxboro High School for forty-one consecutive years.

Mr. Horton's death occurred at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, Tuesday morning, June 25th, and was sudden and unexpected.

Both as teacher and citizen Mr. Horton was held in the highest esteem by instructors in all grades, pupils and the people of his town, and he has been honored in many ways since that anniversary, particularly by his former pupils, who loved him for his sense of duty, his honest, painstaking work, and for his abiding affection for each and every one of them. He was the friend in need, and consequently was the friend in deed.

Mr. Horton was born in Canton, March 12, 1844. He received his early education in the schools of his native town, and prepared for college at Mr. Stone's English and Classical school in Foxboro, and Stoughtonham Institute in Sharon. He entered Amherst college in 1863, and graduated from that institution in 1867. After a short period of teaching in Canton he was elected in 1869 to the position of Principal of Foxboro High school since which not only many parents have graduated under his administration, but their children as well.

Mr. Horton owned a house for many years at Houghs Neck and for nearly twenty years was trustee of Union chapel.

From the incorporation of the Foxboro Historical Society up to the time of his death, Mr. Horton was its president. For many years he has been secretary of the trustees of the Boyden Library, and he was also the Second Vice President of our Board of Trade. For years he was one of the town's auditors. He was a member of Bethany Brotherhood and was an attendant of Bethany Congregational church, of which Mrs. Horton and his two sons are members.

His sons, Frank P. Horton of Quincy and Ralph T. Horton of Albany, N. Y., have been honored with very high and responsible positions in the business world. The first son, Frank, has for years been with the Employers Liability Insurance Company of Boston, and the second son, Ralph, is a civil engineer in charge of the construction department of the New York Central R. R. with headquarters at Albany.

Funeral services were held June 28 in Bethany church, Foxboro, Rev. Claude A. Butterfield, pastor officiating, assisted by Rev. James W. Flagg of Merrimac and Rev. Mr. Sayre of Union Chapel, Houghs Neck.

LAWN PARTY.

The annual lawn party of the Women's Alliance of All Souls' church, Braintree, was held on the spacious grounds of George O. Wales' estate on Elm street, Saturday afternoon from three until six o'clock.

There was a large attendance and plenty to amuse in the way of tennis, croquet, quoits, the donkey game, etc.

In one tent, delicious lemonade was served and at a larger one, ice cream, cake and strawberries in bountiful quantities were to be had for a small sum.

Mr. and Mrs. Wales as always, were delightful hosts and made everybody feel at home by their genial hospitality. The lawn party has been a regular thing for the past twelve years and is always the last entertainment of the Alliance until the coming of Autumn.

The beautiful view and the cool breezes are always a great inducement for people to attend and the affair was very well patronized. The committee of arrangements consisted of, Mrs. Herbert F. Kneeland, Mrs. F. A. Bower, Mrs. Eben Prescott, Mrs. Walter J. Harrison, Mrs. Geo. O. Wales, Mrs. Lillian Porter, Mrs. George S. Young and Miss Jennie Edgcomb.

FEDERATION WOMEN

Discussed Suffrage Question Gingerly and Prepare For Election

San Francisco, July 2.—There is a divergence of opinion as to the advisability of bringing the question of suffrage to the fore, many of the delegates inclining to the belief that a discussion might be precipitated that would rive the prevailing harmony.

The contest for the presidency in succession to Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis goes on. The friends of Mrs. Philip Carpenter of New York and of Mrs. Percy Pennypacker of Austin, Tex., who are the only candidates who have so far appeared in the field, are busy pleading their cause. The Masaschusetts delegation is pressing the candidacy of Miss Georgia E. Bacon of Worcester, Mass., for first or second vice president. Miss Bacon for three years was president of the state federation.

An exhibit of maps and photographs was one of the features marked the sessions of the department of conservation.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Emma Crocker of Fitchburg, Mass., and Miss Wyra L. Dock of Philadelphia.

MONEY NOT IN SIGHT

Officers Failed to Appear at Aviation Field

MATTER AJUSTED TODAY

The thirty-five Quincy police officers on duty at the aviation field did not report for duty Monday for the reason that they claimed there was no money in sight. The men reported at headquarters at noon preparatory to starting for the field. Chief Burrell went to the field and not receiving the money for Saturday's salary at $3 per day each, he telephoned back to the station and the men did not go down. About half an hour before he took his fatal flight Manager Willard turned the necessary money over to Chief Burrell so that the officers will report for duty today.

Chief Burrell, Inspector McKay and Inspector Goodhue were eye witnesses of the fatal accident. To their mind it seemed as though Mr. Willard had either jumped from the machine or had been thrown out. This upset the balance of the monoplane which was tipped forward, throwing Miss Quimby out.

BRIEFS

Carmille B. Fuller of Hall Place, West Quincy has gone to Belfast, Me.

On account of Thursday being a holiday, the grocery and provision stores of the city will not close as usual Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wesley Fuller and daughter Sarah of Hall Place left this morning for Bridgewater, Me., after which they will visit other places. Mr. Fuller is on a business trip.

—Major Roche of the French army is responsible for the statement that 25 per cent of the accidents sustained by aviators are due to lack of natural aptitude, 25 per cent to poor construction in the aeroplanes, 13 per cent to insufficient training of the pilots, 13 per cent to a total misconception of the limitations of the aeroplane, from 10 to 12 per cent to atmospheric conditions, over which the aviator has no control, and 6 per cent to sheer recklessness of aviators who go up without testing their machines or land on unfamiliar ground. —Scientific American.

SAILORS WANT BALL GAME

Would Play Any Strong Quincy Team the Fourth

ALWAYS PLAY GOOD BALL

No doubt they can be accommodated.

United States Ship Delaware, July 1, 1912.

Sporting Editor Quincy Daily Ledger.

Dear Sir: This ship will arrive near your city tomorrow and I am writing to ask if we can arrange a base ball game between one of your local amateur teams and our own.

We do not put up a high class game but the enlisted men like to play whenever opportunity offers and I imagine there is a team of youngsters about town who will be willing to spend an afternoon teaching us the game. Of course there is no money connected with this affair. We prefer not to play for gate receipts but if that is your custom we can arrange later about our part in it.

We have played seven games this season because as you know our chances for practice are few. I really do not wish to give you the impression that we are a fast team aggregation. We have played other ships teams and compare very favorably with them. Hoping you can arrange for a game for us or put this letter in the hands of the right person with the hope of seeing the manager of the team on our arrival,

Very truly yours,
A. M. Cohen,
Lt. U. S. N.

P. S. Wednesday P. M. would seem best time. If we do not parade Thursday P. M. we can play them as well as Wednesday.

DELEGATES BREAK

Illinois, Michigan, and Virginia turned from Clark to Wilson on the 43rd ballot, and West Virginia followed the lead on the next ballot.

It is the general opinion that the convention will stampede to Wilson on the 45th ballot.

Clark with 329 has not balance of power enough to check the Wilson victory as that number falls short of a blocking third, 362 1-2.

ON THE BENCH WITH THE FANS

Many Sidelights on Local Base Ball Conditions

SIZING UP THE WORK

South Quincy seems to have everything its own way in the Quincy City league and the other teams will certainly have to do some hustling to throw "Joe" Ford and his "War Cries" from their high pedestal. It must be admitted that the team play of the leaders is the best of any of the nines that now compose the league. Perhaps it may be due greatly to the number of years which the South Quincy team has been playing together, but the two days' practice which the boys indulge in each week is evidently productive of a great deal of good.

It might not be a bad scheme for the other teams to take pattern after the South Quincy boys, for base ball, like everything else which is to be perfected, requires practice, and a great amount of it too. It was not that the players on the West Quincy team were no good that caused them to go down to defeat twice last Saturday at the hands of the South Quincy combination, but rather was it lack of team play. The majority of the players hardly knew each other, not alone to say never played together and it is not to be supposed that a fast aggregation could be rounded out in a day.

It would be well for Manager Barry to keep the same team and there is no doubt but what he can develop a fast contingency of players if he but adopts the right methods.

Russell Mannix certainly was missed at third base for West Quincy Saturday and his ability as an infielder was never more appreciated than during the two games, when critical moments demanded a player who was fast, aggressive and accurate, both in fielding the ball and throwing. And right here it might be well to suggest to Manager Barry, that whenever a misplay or even a couple of misplays are made, it does not right matters by having the manager of the team take the place of the player who has unfortunately made an error. Barry has already done this on two occasions and on each time he has made matters worse, for everytime he has been given a chance at bat he has struck out and his fielding has been anything but brilliant, in fact it is claimed he has in no way showed an improvement over the players for whom he substituted.

That one handed drive of a line driver by Gillis of South Quincy in the second game Saturday, was about the neatest and best piece of work that has been executed on a local diamond. Gillis certainly is an infielder without a peer in the league. He accepts everything that comes his way and his pegging to the initial sack has made him a great favorite with the fans. A little improvement with the willow and he will be fast enough for any of the minors.

There will be plenty of base ball for the Fourth and the national pastime will surely be a conspicuous figure in all parts of the city.

The Orients have now made it twelve straight victories. This is the best record of any Quincy team this season and it looks as if "Tim" Cremins and his tribe will make a strenuous bid for the championship honors of the city. The real test of the season for the Orients will come when they face the Colonials of West Quincy in August. These teams are bitter rivals and the fans of the city have been anxiously awaiting the time when they will cross bats.

The teams have been a long time coming together, due to the fact that the managers of each nine could not agree to certain propositions. It was expected that they would play in connection with the Fourth of July Celebration and the game would have proved a good drawing card. The Orients say that the Colonials, instead of giving them a game, told them to go and get a reputation. The Colonials contend that the Orients wanted all the gate receipts regardless of whether they won or lost. However, the teams will meet in August and then we will be able to determine what team has the right to be classed as the faster.

Manager Smith says that his Quincy A. A. players will make rapid strides from now on and says that his team will be in the race nip and tuck to the finish. Louis has the team all right and if the boys display the article of ball they are capable of doing, the Cannibals will surely make things hot for the winners.

Luck or no luck, it must be handed to "Chesty" Williams for the vim which he puts into the game at all times, as well as the enthusiasm which his presence in the lineup always produces. If Manager Barry had nine such players as the Chief's driver, he would have no occasion to entertain fear from any team of the Quincy City league.

Evidently the Greater Boston league got cold feet, for it failed to put in an appearance at the Water street grounds, as scheduled Monday.

Wood and Murphy make a good battery but a pitcher and catcher do not make a base ball nine.

All the fans who have seen Dam play this year, claim that he is travelling as never before. Both in pitching and hitting he has been a tower of strength to the South Quincy team and from his present form would be well able to fill a berth with the New England league.

And still, we have yet to see those press benches at the Water street grounds erected.

It is too bad that "Jimmie" Burke has been forced by uncontrollable circumstances to relinquish his position as official scorer of the league.

EVEN TWELVE STRAIGHT

Orients Whitewash Dorchester Team Saturday

The Orients made it twelve straight by blanking the Temple Class nine of Dorchester at Franklin Field Saturday to the tune of 8 to 0. The Quincy players outclassed the home team in every department of play and experienced little difficulty in connecting with the delivery of Weiner.

Bradley pitched for the winners and was in good form. The Orients played an errorless game. The features of the contest were the fielding of Carlson and a home run drive to deep centre by Cremins.

The score by innings:

ILLINOIS EXECUTIVE IS ON THE FENCE

In Doubt Who Will Be Strongest In His State

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 2.—Robert R. McCormick of Chicago, who was leader of the Illinois delegation for Colonel Roosevelt at the Republican convention, but who was one of the first to say that he would not follow the former president in the formation of a new party, came to Oyster Bay with the statement that Governor Dineen of Illinois, who cast his lot with President Taft, could not carry his state on the Taft ticket and that he (McCormick) had come here to open negotiations with the colonel. Although Mr. McCormick did not make the statement in so many words, he intimated that he had come to Oyster Bay as an emissary from members of the Republican organiaztion.

"The progressive movement has developed more strength than I thought at first," said Mr. McCormick. "I have come to the conclusion that Taft cannot carry Illinois."

"Are you going back to Roosevelt?"

"I don't know," he replied. "I want to talk it over with Colonel Roosevelt."

"What will Governor Dineen do?"

"I don't know what he will do. He wants to be elected governor and recent developments have been such that he does not know where to stand."

Towards Success for the Fourth Celebration

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE

All of the details for the grand celebration in Quincy are practically completed and all that now remains to make the day a howling success is the weather and the weather man promises that this will be all right.

While a meeting of the celebration committee was held Tuesday evening there remained but little to do other than to hear reports from the chairmen of the several committees. They all reported things as being in fine shape for the celebration.

Chairman James Elcock of the Finance Committee reported that everything was coming all right and while the amounts appropriated aggregated $1,900 he thought the committee would have that amount of funds. He however urged the necessity of having more than enough money for the reason that there were always some expenses at the tail end that had not been thought of and then again he

500 JACKIES FOR PARADE

As announced in Tuesday's Ledger, the battleship Delaware arrived in Nantasket Roads, where she dropped her mud hook and in a short time boats with liberty parties were seen leaving her port gangway, and men were landed at Hull and Houghs Neck for 48 hours leave of absence.

Many of the sailor lads remained in Quincy, visited the Fore River Company's yard and other points of interest Others hotfooted it to Boston.

Early in the afternoon Ensign Ernest F. Patch, coming ashore at the Fore River bridge proceeded to the city proper in the electric cars, and presented the compliments of Commander John Hood of the ship.

Later the mayor accompanied by Col. Henry L. Kincaide, and the Editor of the Ledger went on board the ship to return the official visit in behalf of the city and the Fourth of July Association.

The visitors were met at the starboard gangway by Executive officer Lt. Com. H. B. Price and escorted to the Cabin of Captain Hood and presented in due form after which they enjoyed a pleasant hour's chat with the captain.

Capt. Hood said he would send on shore, four companies of sailors, with 16 officers, a band, and ambulance corps. The jackies would be in white. They would land at Houghs Neck where special cars would convey them to City Square in time for the parade at 8.30 o'clock.

One company of marines would land at the same time and proceed to Weymouth.

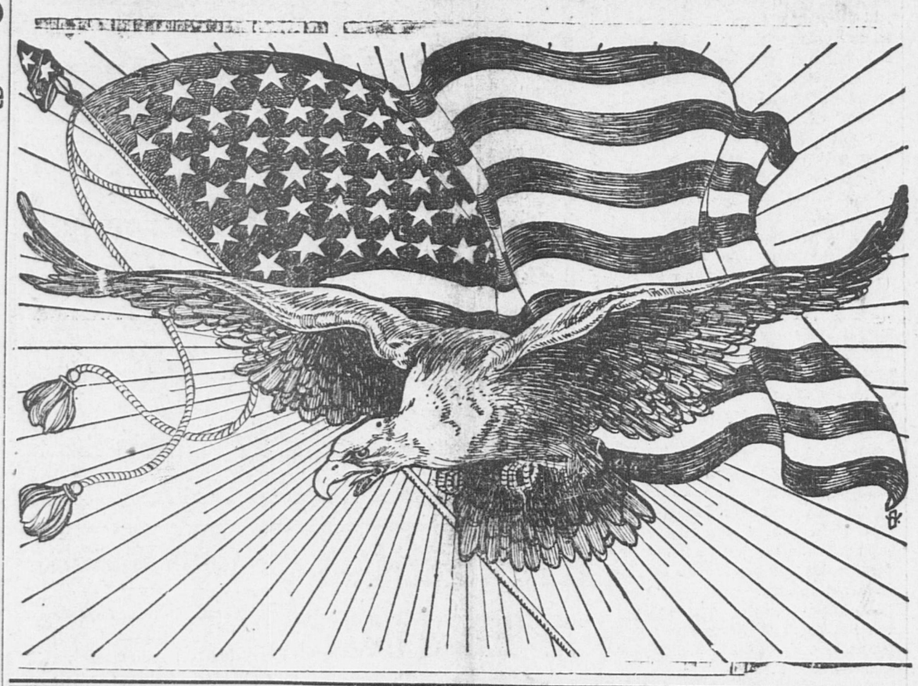

A delegation of officers from the ship, as many as could be spared would land later and be entertained by members of the committee.

Capt. Hood said he was a class mate, shipmate and wreckmate even of Commodore John Ring (retired) of Quincy, as they were on the U. S. S. Kearsarge when she was wrecked. He said he would like to see his old shipmate before his vessel sailed from Quincy and no doubt the feeling is reciprocated and they will meet and talk over old times.

When the committee left the ship Capt. Hood paid them the compliment of accompanying them to the starboard gangway when they embarked on the launch for the home journey. Ensign Wolfe was in charge of the launch on the return trip

GOVERNOR WOODROW WILSON
Chosen by the National Democratic Convention as Presidential Candidate

GOV. WILSON THE WINNER

Convention Vote of 990 is Made Unanimous

MARSHALL FOR VICE PRES.

Baltimore, July 3. — Governor Woodrow Wilson of the state of New Jersey received the Democratic nomination for President of the United States in the convention yesterday.

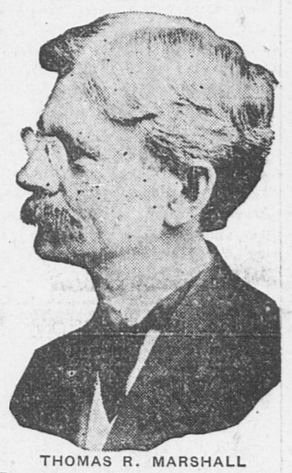

The deadlock was broken in the 46th ballot, when the managers of the campaigns of Speaker Champ Clark, Governor Harmon, Congressman Oscar W. Underwood and Governor Foss bowed to the inevitable and withdrew their candidates.

The nomination of Governor Wilson was made unanimous by the convention, and after days of bitter fighting the convention wound up with splendid harmony and an expressed determination of all the factions to get together and support the nominee of the party.

At the finish, Thomas F. Ryan, August Belmont and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany, and the ninety delegates of New York were on record for Governor Wilson.

It was a fight between the old political machines and the "folks back home," and the latter won.

BOY SCOUTS FOR PARADE

Showed Good Spirit by Donation to 4th Fund

The Quincy boy scouts met at their headquarters on Washington street, Tuesday night and listened to a very interesting talk by Councilman Devaney. Mr. Devaney spoke on patriotism and urged the boys that they could well manifest that spirit by turning out in the Fourth of July parade, Thursday.

The boys were very enthusiastic over the thought of turning out on this occasion and all the members will do well to appear at the headquarters, Thursday morning in season to form ranks and march to the place assigned them in the early morning parade.

The boys even went further to show their interest and enthusiasm for the Fourth of July celebration. Just prior to the opening of the meeting of the Fourth of July Association in the Board of Trade rooms, a committee of three from the Boy Scouts appeared and handed to the treasurer, a crisp bank note, the spokesman of the party remarking: "This is the contribution of the Quincy Boy Scouts for the celebration."

It certainly was most gratefully received.

OLSON PINNED UNDER CAR

By the Upset Driver Escaped Injury, But Arrested

CAUSE A MYSTERY

While going home from Houghs Neck shortly after two o'clock this morning, Alfred D. Olson, of 76 Copeland street was pinned under his automobile in the vicinity of Sea and Palmer streets, as a result of the machine turning completely over. James Foley, who lives near the scene of the accident ran to the assistance of Olson and aided by a couple of men, pulled him from under the automobile.

Thinking that Olson was badly injured, Foley ran to the home of James McLellan at Adams Shore and telephoned for the police ambulance. On the arrival of the police ambulance, it was found that Olson had not been so seriously injured as was at first thought. He was asked to drive the machine to the police station, where he was placed under arrest on a charge of being drunk and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The case came up before Judge Albert E. Avery this morning and was continued until July 8. Attorney Frank Tirrell appeared as counsel for Olson.

According to Olson's story, he had been to Nantasket. From there he went to Houghs Neck for his machine and was coming along the vicinity of Mosquito Woods when the car skidded and turned over. Olson sustained no injuries, but it is nothing short of miraculous that he was not killed.

COLLINS RECOVERING.

Timothy J. Collins, the well-known newspaper man, was able to be out Tuesday and enjoy an automobile ride with ex-Mayor William T. Shea. He is rapidly convalescing from the operation which he underwent some time ago and expects to be back in the harness within a fortnight.

EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

If Gov. Foss was at all superstitious he has no chance at Baltimore. His name first appeared on the thirteenth ballot and he reached high tide on the skiddoo ballot 23.

Miss Scott was unmoved by the death of her fellow aviator, merely remarking, "It happens every day."

All up for the Fourth of July celebration so that it may be a credit to Quincy.

The expected has happened. A movement is on foot to secure a full pardon for Mrs. Cusumano.

The death toll of the flying machines will far exceed that of the old time insane Fourth of July celebration.

The Elks will graze in Portland, Ore., next week and everything is being done to give the "Exhausted Roosters" a good time.

The Vincent girls are rapidly marching into the net of wedlock.

Nantucket has struck a progressive gait. There is a movement in favor of the automobile in the usually winter ice bound island. They should hail the chance to thaw out in the summer time with the gasoline wagons.

Quincy depositors in the Postal savings bank would eat up all the interest on car fare trips to Boston everytime they have to deposit.

That proposed Portland trip promises to be the best ever. The Pjama market has already felt the effects of the Quincyites journey.

Rockefeller even wanted a rebate on a little two by nine ferry boat. Can you beat it?

The parting salute to Miss Quimby "Throw Bill Overboard," brings to mind the old saying, "Many a truth is spoken in jest."

The political prophets after the Chicago and Baltimore conventions had better take a day off and gather up the fragments of their scattered imaginations.

It was painful to see how the anti-progressives figured out the justification of Underwood's hold on the convention.

THE HOME NEWSPAPER.

A writer in one of the newspapers of a large city rather jocosely refers to the locals in a country paper with the pompous finality "They would never find their way into the columns of a metropolitan journal."

And why not pray? The news columns of the great metropolitan journals are filled with just such stuff, as appear in the country paper every day, levelled of course by the position and wealth of the individual and community so singleized for special mention.

The news columns of the great metropolitans are only the natural evolution developed by greater commercialism and individual distinction, in proportion to the community.

The person mentioned in the country daily is as of much importance in his community, as the captains of industry in their larger spheres. And certainly they are of more solid worth to the world at large than flighty actresses and chorus girls, men of the Thaw type women of the Gaby Delys pattern and others of lesser note, made conspicuous wholly by the exploiting in those great metropolitan journals.

The average country newspaper is in the main accurate. How much can be said along those lines of many of the great metropolitan paper?

The country publisher and editor is not looked upon as a purchasable commodity.

The country newspaper does not hammer away for a time at some particular branch of legal or even questionable character until the men engaged in the latter enterprise, at least, come across with the necessary advertising sop and then the "great wrongs" inflicted upon the public by this terrible scourge," this "oppressor of the people," are dropped and forgotten, as though they were dreams.

The country newspaper is just as useful in its sphere, as the great metropolitan daily.

The former at all times can be carried into the home, without being censored.

The great metropolitan dailies have their particular field also.

But if picturing and special featuring a "monkey dinner," or a "dog breakfast," is accepted as the standard of advancement and high browedness of the metropolitan daily, then the country newspaper has nothing to learn in the way of giving better and more desirable service to its clientile.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE.

One hundred and thiry-six years ago, the declaration of Independence was signed by that devoted body of men who cast their fortunes and lives into the swirling ring of strife which led to the independence of the 13 colonies, the neucleus of the greatest republic the world has ever seen.

We of the present day have but slight conception of the daring of that body of colonial heroes.

That some of them did not engage in the war and the hardships of the eight years campaigning, is not to their discredit. Their position was more perilous than the men in the field. Prices were put upon their heads and even bribes were held out to some of them to desert the cause they had embarked in. But they all held steadfast to their allegiance. Once the die was cast by the promulgation of that momentous document there was no turning back for a single one of them.

There lives and fortunes were in the balance. How gallantly and nobly they stood faithful to their vows, we of the present generation who reap the benefits may amply judge.

For eight long years the struggle for independence was waged. High minded foreign gentleman of rank served in the Revolutionary armies without pay. France lent her aid in a substantial manner owing to the splendid diplomacy of Franklin. The surrender at Yorktown of Cornwallis, dashed the hopes of the British empire to maintain its control of the American colonies south of St. Lawrence.

The war ended, the greatest problem of all confronted those men. But their giant intellects, their power to look ahead, their process of divination and probing into the future were equal to the occasion.

The Constitution which has stood as a bulwark against slavery, invasion and tyranny for more than a century, is just as effective in its operation today as it was at the beginning.

We as a nation have every reason to feel proud of our growth and development in the short span of years which have elapsed since Yorktown.

We should not be too arrogant. We should be patient and tolerant.

We should never forget the sacrifices, endurance and perils which those men of over a century ago met with such sublime and unselfish courage.

They labored not alone for their own welfare but for that of the millions who would follow them.

In those days where selfishness is prone to be uppermost, where the love of gain is so great, where combination is the master mechanic of all destiny, we should pause and consider what those men wrought by their unselfishness, and try to bring it into the every day existence that we may be the better for it and continue to develope and prosper as a united, happy nation, with equal rights to all and in the latter utterances of the martyred Lincoln, "a government of the people, for the people and by the people."

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS.

Every day, almost, says the Boston Advertiser, one may still read in print some new indictment against the "criminal carelessness" which sacrificed so many lives on the ill-fated Titanic, but there are few protests against the criminal carelessness which sacrificed the life of Wilbur Wright so recently, and the lives of many thousands of human beings in the United States every year. Typhoid fever is just as surely to be prevented by proper precautionary laws and regulations, as the loss of the victims of the Titanic might have been prevented. The one notable difference is that typhoid fever claims many more victims. But both disasters are due to criminal carelessness, which could be ended very quickly if public opinion were to insist upon the remedy.—Taunton Herald.

LAWN PARTY TO AID CAUSE

St. Mary's Church Building Fund Swelled by Receipts

A lawn party in aid of the building fund of St. Mary's church was held Tuesday evening on the land on the boulevard situated at the corner of Barry and Reardon streets, West Quincy. The affair was largely attended and was held under the auspices of the Common street table, to be connected with the coming annual lawn party of St. Mary's parish.

The grounds were prettily decorated with an array of Japanese lanterns, while bunting of all descriptions was displayed in a most conspicuous manner. Many attractions added to the enjoyment of all who were present. In one corner was erected a tent, in which a fortune teller related past, present and future incidents to those desirous of hearing them. The booths were arranged in artistic style and tonics, ice cream, cigars and numerous other things were disposed of in abundance.

Games of all sorts were indulged in and there was plenty of fun and amusement for all. In the centre of the lot was erected a dancing platform which proved one of the best features of the evening, as it was well patronized. The music was by Morisette's orchestra.

The guests of the evening were Rev. Fr. Henry T. Grady and his assistant Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy and Hon. William T. Shea.

The committee in charge included Miss Margaret Farrell, chairman, Mrs. John Burke, Miss May Gilrain, Miss Kate Farrell, Miss Eva Bertrand, Miss Marie Garrity, Miss Isabelle Smallett, Mrs. Celia Laurandeau and Mrs. Laura Bertrand.

KEYS TO REMAIN IN GLASS BOXES

For Immediate Use in Case of Fire Chief's Plan

Chief Litchfield stated this morning that the call men of the department would be on duty at their several stations all night. He further said that it was not his intention to remove the keys from the break glass boxes as he had rather respond to a false alarm than to have a big fire start and be delayed because the key of the box could not be found.

THE FLAG GOES BY.

H. H. BENNETT.

Hats off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky;
Hats off!
The flag is passing by.

Blue and crimson and white it shines,
Over the steep tipped ordered lines,
Hats off!
The colors before us fly;
But more than the flag is passing by.

Sea fights and land fights, grim and great,
Fought to make and save the state;
Weary marches, and sinking ships;
Cheers of victory on dying lips.

Days of plenty and days of peace;
March of a strong land's swift increase;
Equal justice, right and law,
Stately honor and reverend awe.

Sign of a nation, great and strong,
To ward her people from foreign wrong;
Pride and glory and honor, all
Live in the colors to stand or fall.
Hats off!

Owner Missing, Auto In River

Springfield, Mass., July 3.—The finding of a touring car completely submerged in the Connecticut river, near the West Springfield side led to the discovery that John J. Gumpher, formerly of Boston, an automobile dealer, missing since June 13.

EVERYTHING BOOMING

hoped that the committee would be able to start in next year with a surplus of at least $100 rather than to have a deficit. He also urged all having bills against the association not to wait several days before presenting them but to do so at once.

Capt. George A. Wardwell of the parade committee reported that present indications were that the parade this year would eclipse anything ever before attempted in Quincy.

Everything was going all right and the military division would be a good one. Up to the present time it was definitely known that in this division would be about 500 jackies from the battleship Delaware with band, Co. K of the 5th Regiment, M. V. M., of Hingham, John A. Boyd camp Spanish War Veterans, British Naval and Military veterans, Sons of Veterans and the Boy Scouts.

Col. Kincaide reporting for the automobile parade said that all plans had been completed and it was assured that they would have a splendid parade.

George F. Elcock of the fireworks committe reported that the fireworks would be brought to the park on the morning of the Fourth as the manufacturer said that if not set up until nearly the time wanted, that they would be fresh and make a better display. The Boston manager and six of his best men would be on the grounds.

In connection with the fireworks it was voted to communicate with the street railway to see if it could not be arranged to have a supply of cars on hand to take care of the crowd after the display.

C. H. Johnson of the children's committee reported that he was already to supply the children with ice cream and that the places of distribution had been well advertised.

Charles W. Hanscom of the refreshment committee was empowered to get at least 1,500 paper drinking cups for the use of the jackies and any other supplies necessary. The refreshments for the sailors of the Delaware will be served on the Adams Academy grounds.

James E. Neary of the Athletic committee reported that his department was coming all right. There would be three amateur games, as follows:

Ward Two playground at 4 o'clock between the Y. M. C. A. and Orients.

The two big games would be held at the park in the afternoon and the running race would finish on the lower ball field.

The matter of the game with nine from the battleship Delaware was brought up and Chairman Neary said that he had arranged with A. F. LaRose of the Y. M. C. A. for a strong team from that association to play the jackies The game would be played at Merrymount Park at 11.30 A. M.

Up to the present time there had been twelve entries for the road race as follows: Dominic Faci, Dominic Venditti, Walter Norling, Harold Barton, Paul H. Skevakis, S. F. Phelan, Charles W. Wade, Dominic Dorando, John T. Smith, Peter Fauzzith, Arthur Rosen. John F. Shaw.

Entries for this race would close at 8 o'clock tonight and entries should be made before that time either with Mr. Neary at 70 Chestnut street or A. F LaRose of the Y. M. C. A.

The illness of the Vice President, James F Burke was mentioned and while unable to be present at the meetings owing to illness he had not forgotten them and had sent his contribution as usual It was then voted that a committee of three be appointed to write Mr. Burke a letter from the association expressing regrets at his illness and the appreciation of the association for what he had done. It was also voted that a similar letter be sent to Albert L. Whitman who is also ill. James H. Elcock, George T. Magee and Dr. Fred E. Jones were appointed as a committee to write the letter.

It was voted that tickets to the grand stand be sent to the members of the City Council.

The meeting than adjourned until this evening to complete any minor details that may arise.

CATHOLIC CLUB LAWN PARTY

Ladies of Houghs Neck Conducted Most Successful Affair

The grounds adjoining the Great Hill House, Houghs Neck, were the scene of the first annual lawn party of the Houghs Neck Ladies' Catholic club, Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The affair was a decided success and many were present during the afternoon and evening.

Flags and varied colored bunting were used in the decorations in the afternoon, while a display of Japanese lanterns and electric lights added great brilliancy to the effect in the evening. The booths, which were presided over by members of the club, were also handsomely decorated.

In the afternoon games of all sorts were held for the children and dancing, in Brown's Bungalow, to the strains of Carey's orchestra, brought the affair to a close shortly before midnight.

The guest of the occasion was Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Scannell, assistant pastor of St. John's church.

The following committee was in charge: Mrs. S. T. Peterson, chairman, Mrs. Patrick F. O'Brien, Mrs. Jason L. Harvey, Mrs. Walter H. Buchan, Mrs. Arthur H. Dunham, Mrs. David Fenner, Mrs. Dennis D. Driscoll, Mrs. John County, Mrs. John W. Collins, Mrs. Roswell Y. Woodbury, Mrs. Helen O'Toole, Miss Annie Noonan, Miss Lucy Noonan, Miss Bessie Hogan, Miss Fannie Hogan, Miss Helen Gagan and Miss Mary A. Leary.

The man who had dominated the convention from the first to the last and who had made the nomination of Governor Wilson possible, Colonel William J. Bryan, sat in his chair with the Nebraska delegation and smiled happily as the great convention was being brought to an end.

The convention became a love-feast last night when it met to select a running mate for Governor Wilson. The intense bitterness of the past week seemed to have disappeared.

When the convention suspended the regular order of business—the nomination of a vice presidential candidate—shortly before 11 o'clock, to make way for the reading and adoption of the platform, six candidates for the vice presidency had been placed in nomination. They were:

Governor Burke of North Dakota.
Governor Marshall of Indiana.
Elmore W. Hurst of Illinois.
Martin J. Wade of Iowa.
James W. Preston of Maryland.
Champ Clark.

The suggestion of Champ Clark for second place on the ticket was the feature of the evening's performance. The sentiment of the convention was strongly in favor of giving the speaker the place if he would accept it. H. H. Dean of Georgia placed Clark in nomination and took the convention unawares. The Clark leaders held excited conferences and the speaker himself was called on the telephone.

Despite a speech by former Governor A. M. Dockery of Missouri withdrawing Clark's name, and a telegraphed statement from the speaker himself declaring he would not take the place, the convention was still hopeful of his final acceptance, and one of the reasons for the suspension of the vote on the nominations was the desire of the leaders to make sure of Clark's position.

Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana was nominated for vice president early this morning after two ballots had been taken following the refusal of Champ Clark to accept the nomination under any circumstances.

It was Bryan's convention. He had the power in the convention to give, but not to take. He announced at the beginning that he proposed to nominate a progressive candidate and have the convention adopt a progressive platform.

He did both. He demonstrated that his power of leadership is stronger in the party today than ever before in the sixteen years in which he has been fighting.

Politically, the results of the convention have a far-reaching effect. Considered in contrast with the fiasco in Chicago, the Democratic party has, in the very crisis of its existence, accepted the opportunity which was held out to it.

Had the Democratic party failed to nominate Governor Wilson, a bolt would have been inevitable. The party would have been disrupted and the third party of Colonel Roosevelt would have been a potent factor in the great contest in November.

The convention was in many respects one of the greatest and its conclusions are as far reaching as any in the history of the Democratic party.

The nomination of Governor Wilson also marks the end of the sectional feeling, which had been fast dying out since the Civil war. Governor Wilson was born in Virginia, and so was his father. His strength came from the north and the middle west.

But the sentiment of the country in favor of Wilson had been made so obvious in the past few days that the delegates had to give way and, in the main, it was this feeling that broke the stubborn Clark line of battle.

Selected Platform Planks

Declares for reduced tariff; the high Republican tariff "is a systsem which makes the rich man richer and the poor man poorer."

Favors prevention of holding companies, interlocking directorates, stock watering and discrimination in price control,

Insists that federal remedies for the regulation of interstate commerce and for the prevention of private monopoly shall be added to and not substituted for state remedies.

Pledged to enact laws prohibiting corporation or excessive individual campaign contributions.

Favors a single presidential term.

Favors federal supervision and regulation of all common carriers.

Opposes "Aldrich" and central bank bills.

Would prevent gambling in agricultural products by organized exchanges or others.

Favors a merchant marine and free Panama tolls for American vessels.

Would rid present legal system of delays, expense and uncertainties as now administered.

Favors territorial rights for Alaska.

Favors establishment of parcels post.

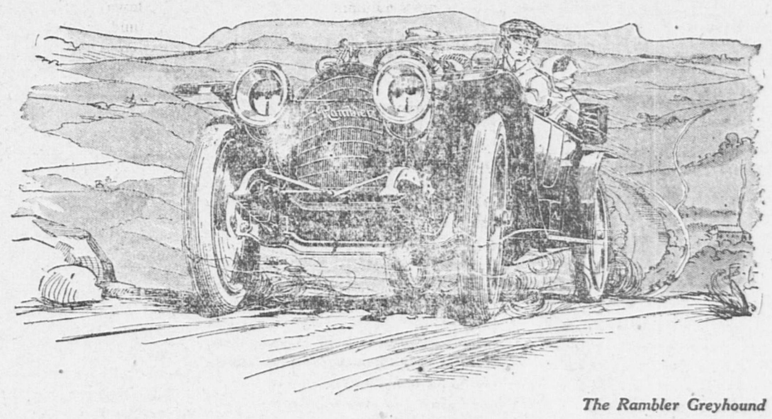

Favors state laws forbidding discrimination against United States uniforms.

A Fifty Horse Power Rambler Thorobred

The Rambler Greyhound

You are not the man who likes to speed, but any fellow with red blood hates to take the dust.

We all want the same thing—good road ability at ten to twenty miles an hour—but we must have speed ability in reserve.

You don't want it often but when you do you want it badly.

Here are three fifty horse power thorobreds.

The Rambler Valkyrie—a whirlwind for power at a moderate price. A four-passenger with 36 inch wheels and 4½ inch tires, as comfortable as a touring car; as handy as a roadster—$2250.

The Rambler Moraine—a seven passenger, comfortable, handsome, family touring car with 40 inch wheels—$2500.

The Rambler Metropolitan—a seven passenger, torpedo type touring car, 128 inch wheel base and 40 inch wheels—$2850.

Write your name on a postal and mail it to us. Just say, "I want to see the 50 H. P. Rambler."

LONG RUN AND SHORTER RUN

For Fire Department to Fires Creating Light Damage

The fire department got two runs Tuesday afternoon, both near together. The first alarm was from Box 18 at 2.16 and was for a fire in the house of Fred Young on Roxbury street, near Quincy woods, and occupied by Mr. Young who is a member of Engine 3, Boston. The fire started in a barrel outside of the house and ran up the side of the building to the roof, thence to the ridge pole burning a strip about four feet wide all the way. The fire however did not get inside of the house. The loss is estimated at $100.

The second alarm was from Box 224 at 3.10 and was for a slight fire on the roof of a house on Mt. Ararat road owned by John Lund. The fire started from a chimney, a new fire having been built to burn up some loose matter. The fire was confined to the loss of a few shingles and $5 should pay the damage.

COURT MEN TO MEET IN QUINCY

Sheriff John Quinn and Others to be Guests

A meeting of the Massachusetts Court Officers association will be held at the new court building in Quincy on Tuesday, July 9, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. On this occasion the association will have as its guests Sheriff Quinn of Suffolk county, and members of the Committee on Public Service and Counties of the legislature. Matters of important interest to the association will also be discussed.

THE FOURTH PROGRAMME

Plenty Doing to Keep Every One on the Move All Day

FIREWORKS FITTING FINALE

The Great and Glorious Fourth of July will be with us tomorrow and all patriotic residents of Quincy, and none within the borders of the city are found beyond that pale, will unite in celebrating the anniversary of the Nation's birthday.

That the enthusiasm which prompts this outburst is universal and recognized on every hand.

In fact it is so wide spread in its scope that the city will enjoy two distinct and separate observances with events in keeping with the day, but all are animated by the same spirit and the promoters of both celebrations, unite in wishing success to the undertaking of the other.

The Quincy Fourth of July Association will have charge of the celebration in the city proper under the leadership of Mayor Eugene R. Stone and an able corps of lieutenants.

The Atlantic celebration will be under the control of the Ward Six Patriotic Association, led by the president of that organization, Frank E. Badger and an efficient force of aids.

The bells of the city will peal forth their joyous salute in honor of the day, morning, noon and night.

The night before as usual will no doubt witness many social gatherings.

Many social organizations plan to keep open house to entertain local and visiting friends.

Under instructions from the mayor the police will see that a safe and sane observance of the day is carried out.

People in all parts of the city should clean their yards and premises of rubbish and other combustible material to lessen the danger from fires starting from fire cracker and fireworks.

People all over the city are requested to decorate their premises and if they cannot do this, at least display the American flag.

All persons having flag poles should display their colors and no doubt the mayor will see that the flag is displayed from the mast head at every school building.

The programs of each association for the observance of the day, with other events which will be accepted as features of the holiday within the city limits are presented below. The celebration in the city proper appearing first.

CIVIC, MILITARY, ANTIQUE PARADE.

Chief Marshal Dr. F. E. Jones.

Chief of Staff, Capt. George A. Wardwell.

Military Division, Capt. George E. Adams.

Societies Division, Adj. David Hansen.

Antiques and Horribles, Galen Vinton Bowditch.

Civics and Trades Division, Leo J. McMaster.

ROUTE OF PROCESSION.

The parade will move over the following route.

Hancock street to Washington street, to Mill street, countermarch to Washington street, to Maple street, across Chestnut and Hancock streets to Granite street, to Brewer's corner to Water street ,to Franklin street, to School street, to Hancock street, to City Square past the reviewing stand in front of City Hall.

This route is probably a little over three miles long, and will be covered in about one hour and a half.

The various divisions will form on the streets adjacent to the junction of Hancock and Adams streets and the streets assigned to each division will be made known in the general orders

The Chief Marshal extends a cordial invitation to any citizen having a mount to become a member of his personal staff or one of the division staffs. All having mounts are requested to send their names to the secretary of the parade committee at the rooms of the Board of Trade and they will be assigned a position.

It is the intention of the parade committee to make this year's parade eclipse anything of a similar nature ever held in Quincy. Up to the present time 18 handsome silver cups as well as various shields and banners have been secured and will be given as prizes for the different features.

Th parade committee is anxious that the patriotism of all should be aroused to the extent that they will enter the parade and co-operate with the committee in making the parade a hugh success, and are requested to send their entry to the secretary at the Board of Trade rooms as soon as possible.

AUTOMOBILE PARADE.

START AT 10.30 A. M.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

[By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

(Concluded from last issue)

When at last the exercises were over she climbed into the carriage and rode home without a word. She did not hear what Margaret and Billy were saying. She scarcely heard Sinton, who drove behind, when he told her that Elnora would not be home until Wednesday. Early the next morning Mrs. Comstock was on her way to Onabasha. She was waiting when the Brownlee store opened. She examined ready made white dresses, but they had only one of the right size, and it was marked $40. Mrs. Comstock did not hesitate over the price, but whether the dress would be suitable. She would have to ask Elnora. She inquired her way to the home of the Bird Woman and knocked.

"Is Elnora Comstock here?" she asked the maid.

"Yes, but she is still in bed. I was told to let her sleep as long as she would."

"Maybe I could sit here and wait," said Mrs. Comstock. "I want to see about getting her a dress for tomorrow. I am her mother."

"Then you don't need wait or worry," said the girl cheerfully. "There are two women up in the sewing room at work on a dress for her right now. It will be done in time, and it will be a beauty."

Mrs. Comstock turned and trudged back to the Limberlost. The bitterness in her soul became a physical actuality and water would not wash the taste of wormwood from her lips. She was too late. She was not needed. Another woman was mothering her girl. Another woman would prepare a beautiful dress such as Elnora had worn last night. The girl's love and gratitude would go to her. Mrs. Comstock tried the old process of blaming someone else, but she felt no better. She nursed her grief as closely as ever in the long days of the girl's absence.

Among Elnora's graduation gifts was a queerly shaped package brought to the Bird Woman's by Billy. The Bird Woman bent over her as she opened it and tested the fabric with her fingers.

"Why, bless my soul!" she cried. "Hand woven, hand embroidered linen, fine as silk. It's priceless! I haven't seen such things in years. My mother had garments like those when I was a child, but my sisters had them cut up for collars, belts and fancy waists while I was small. Look at the exquisite work!"

"Where could it have come from?" cried Elnora.

She shook out a petticoat with a hand wrought ruffle a foot deep, then an old fashioned chemise the neck and sleeve work of which was elaborate and perfectly wrought. On the breast was pinned a note that she hastily opened.

"I was married in these," it read, "and I had intended to be buried in them, but perhaps it would be more sensible for you to graduate and get married in them yourself if you would like. Your mother."

"From my mother!" Wide eyed, Elnora looked at the Bird Woman. "Do you suppose she can be insane?"

"Yes," said the Bird Woman, "stark, staring mad—wildly insane if she does not love you and care what becomes of you."

Elnora arose and held the petticoat to her. "Will you look at it!" she cried. "Only imagine her not getting my dress ready and then turning around and sending me such a petticoat as this! Ellen would pay $100 for it and never blink. I suppose mother has had it all my life, and I never saw it before."

"Go take your bath and put on those things," said the Bird Woman. "Forget everything and be happy. She is not insane; she is embittered."

Soon Elnora was ready for her dress. She never had looked so well as when she again headed the procession across the flower and palm decked stage of the high school auditorium. When she looked into the eyes of a white faced woman next to Wesley and Margaret she slipped a hand to her side and raised her skirt the fraction of an inch, just enough to let the embroidered edge of a petticoat show a trifle. When she saw the look of relief which flooded her mother's face Elnora knew that forgiveness was in her heart and that she would go home in the morning.

It was late afternoon before she arrived, and a dray followed with a load of packages. Mrs. Comstock was overwhelmed. She sat half dazed and made Elnora show her each costly and beautiful or simple and useful gift, tell her carefully what it was and from where it came. She studied the faces of Elnora's particular friends intently. The gifts from them had to be selected and set in a group. Several times she started to speak and then stopped. At last between her dry lips came a harsh whisper.

"Elnora, what did you give back for these things?"

Elnora handed her mother a handsome black walnut frame a foot and a half wide by two long. It finished a small shallow glass covered box of birch bark, to the bottom of which clung a big night moth with delicate green wings and long, exquisite tailers. A more beautiful thing would have been difficult to imagine.

"I must get to work, for it is almost June, and there are a few more I want dreadfully," said Elnora. "When I get them I will be paid some money for which I have worked a long time."

AVIATRICE BODY SENT HOME

Funeral Service and Burial will be in New York

The body of Miss Harriet Quimby, who was killed by a fall from her aeroplane at Atlantic Monday, was taken to Boston on the 6.12 train from Quincy Tuesday evening. Later in charge of relatives the body was shipped on the midnight express to New York, where funeral arrangements have been made and burial will follow

LAID AT REST.

The funeral of Patrick J. O'Rourke, of 157 Crescent street, West Quincy, was held from his late home this morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock by Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy. The musical portion of the mass was the Gregorian chant, rendered by the regular choir under direction of Mrs. Mary McKay Reardon, organist.

There was a large gathering of relatives and friends at the funeral services. Burial was at St. Mary's cemetery and the floral tributes were many and beautiful. The pall bearers were John Ferriter, Daniel Duggan, William Duane, Edward Forbes, Charles Morrell and Jeremiah Hinchon.

The deceased was for twenty years janitor of St. Mary's hall, and in that capacity had endeared himself to many people. He was also a member of Division 4, A. O. H., and of St. Mary's C. T. A. and M. R. society. He is survived by a wife, two sons, Joseph a well-known athlete and Frank, and a daughter Rita.

BRIEFS

There will be a dancing party at the Squantum Yacht club this evening

The youngest son of J. A. Keating of Washington street had the misfortune to fall on Monday breaking his right arm.

Maple lodge, K. and L. of H., will entertain their deputy from Boston as a special guest at their regular meeting tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Garret Robinson of 144 Upland road are receiving congratulations on the birth of a 10 pound boy born Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moorhead and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crowell of Elm street and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barron of Orchard place will entertain relatives and friends from Milford over the fourth.

While the office of the school department has been closed for the summer vacation, yet John L. Miller, chairman of the school committee, is always on hand to attend to school business at 47 Liberty street.

George W. Nash of Abington, formerly of Wollaston, announces the engagement of his daughter Louise Hammond to George K. Drew of Wollaston. Both the young people are well known and are receiving congratulations from many friends.

Charles H. Johnson who has met with such marked success with his illustrated lecture "Historic Quincy," giving it not only before most every club and organization in Quincy but throughout the state, is preparing another lecture with "George Washington" as the subject. He has been looking up old prints and data and the lecture will be finely illustrated.

—Theodore M. Vaill, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, just back from Europe, speaking of the appalling poverty which prevails in Europe says that "if it were not for the millions spent abroad by Americans every year there would be a social revolution and an upheaval throughout the continent." That is probably true; and there are persons who apparently would like the prevalence of similar conditions on this side of the water.—New Bedford Standard.

NARROW ESCAPE OF QUINCY MAN

Big Hotel Fire at North Adams Tuesday Morning

LOST CLOTHES AND MONEY

Edgar Emery of Edison street, Quincy, was among those who luckily escaped from the fire which totally destroyed the Wilson House in North Adams, about four o'clock Tuesday morning. Mr. Emery was awakened by one of the clerks and lost no time in getting to the street. He did not stop to put on much clothing and the result was that he lost considerable of his wearing apparel, together with a purse of money, and a bag, containing articles belonging to the Patch Drug Company, for whom he is engaged as a travelling salesman.

RE-APPOINTED PORT DIRECTOR

Admiral Bowles' Ability Recognized by Governor Foss

Among the appointments of Gov. Foss sent to the Council this morning was that of President F. A. Bowles of the Fore River Ship Building Co. as a director of the Port of Boston for three years. President Bowles was one of the first board of directors and the nomination is therefore a reappointment.

THE HEART SOME PUMP.

A man has 500 muscles, 1,000,000,000 cells, 200 different bones, 4 gallons of blood, several hundred feet of arteries, and veins, over 25 feet of intestines and millions of pores. His heart weighs from 8 to 12 ounces, its capacity is from 4 to 6 ounces to each ventricle, and its size is 5 by 3 1-8 by 2 1-2 inches. It is a hollow, muscular organ and pumps 22 1-2 pounds of blood every minute. In 24 hours it pumps 16 tons. It beats about 72 times a minute. In one year an average man's heart pumps 11,680,000 lbs. of blood.

NO FLAG ABOVE OLD GLORY.

Mr. Heyburn Offers Two Resolutions In the Senate.

That no flag, banner or emblem should be officially permitted to wave above the stars and stripes is the contention of Senator Heyburn. He understands that on forts and battleships other ensigns are often elevated above the national colors.

To ascertain the actual facts Mr. Heyburn offered two resolutions, which were adopted by the senate. One is addressed to the secretary of the navy and the other to the secretary of war. Each calls for the real situation concerning this matter in the army and navy.

In the opinion of Mr. Heyburn, there should be legislation, if necessary, to prevent any official of the government from displaying any emblem, flag or banner above Old Glory.

DEAD WOMAN AVIATOR

Boston, July 3.—The body of Miss Harriet Quimby, the daring woman aviator, who met a tragic death when her Blerlot monoplane plunged into Dorchester bay from a height of 1000 feet, was taken to her home in New York for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. William Quimby, parents of the young woman, came after the remains. They were accompanied by Miss Quimby's manager, Leo Stevens, Miss Helen Vanderbilt, a close friend, and William Hillard, the former aviator and friend of the unfortunate woman flyer.

The funeral of William A. P. Willard, her passenger, who also was killed in the fatal plunge, was held today. Burial will be at Sterling, Mass.

The other aviators taking part in the Squantum meet held a meeting at Hotel Lenox, and after discussing the accident voted to continue their flights.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

COOKING CRABS.

WHILE they may be hard to digest, crabs are popular on account of their delicate flavor.

Soft shell crabs are esteemed a special delicacy. These are crabs when the new shell is forming.

Crabs should be used when freshly caught.

They are prepared for cooking by pulling off the sand bags and shaggy appendages from the side. Then they must be washed and thoroughly dried

For boiling crabs should be heavy and of medium size. They may be killed by plunging head first into boiling water.

Delicately Flavored.

Fried Soft Shell Crabs.—Take off the waste, wash, dry and dip in beaten yolks of eggs and then in cracker dust. Season well with pepper and salt. Have lard boiling, put the crabs in and fry until a delicate brown. Place on a hot dish and pour a little melted butter and a little lemon juice over them Garnish the dish with parsley.

These Are Well Cooked.

Fricassee of Crabs.—Scald six crabs. Take off the claws, clean the body carefully and remove the outer shells. Place butter in a frying pan and when melted stir in a tablespoonful of flour and let brown; then add a chopped onion and parsley. When browned add a gill of boiling water and the crabs. Season with pepper and salt and let simmer for one hour.

A Chafing Dish Method.

Flaked Crab.—Canned crab meat may be used for this. Take a can of the crab meat and with a silver fork divide it into small pieces, adding two chopped hard boiled eggs, one tablespoonful of minced parsley and salt and paprika to taste. Prepare in the chafing dish about two cupfuls of rich cream sauce, blending an even tablespoonful each of melted butter and flour and diluting to the proper consistency with milk or cream. When the sauce boils stir in the other ingredients. Serve on rounds of hot buttered toast or in crab shells.

Served In the Shells.

Crabs Stuffed.—Take a dozen of the crabs, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half onion, one sprig of parsley, pepper and salt. Boil the crabs for a few moments, crack them and pick out the meat. Put the butter in a frying pan and when melted fry the minced onion and parsley in it. Add the meat to this and season well with pepper and salt. Have the empty crab shells cleaned and fill them with the meat. Sprinkle with cracker dust and bits of butter. Place in the oven to bake. They will brown in twenty to thirty minutes. Serve in shells.

MOTORMAN SOLD LIQUOR

His Land Office Business at Germantown

CHECKED BY POLICE

Albert Halpin a motorman on the street railway was arrested and taken from his car in City Square Tuesday afternoon on a warrant charging him with violation of the liquor law. He was arraigned in court this morning and entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $50. It is said that Halpin lived in a bungalow near Hanley's boat yard at Germantown and has been doing a land office business supplying the ardent to thirsty callers.

QUINCY BRIDE AT W. GRANVILLE

Frisbie-Walters Nuptials Largely Attended

A pretty wedding took place at West Granville, Mass., last Sunday, June 30, when Miss Blodwin W. Walters, of Quincy, was married to Fred A. Frisbie, of West Granville. The wedding took place at the Congregational church, which was beautifully decorated with white roses and hemlock.

Rev. E. L. Graves officiated, and the bride and groom were assisted by the maid of honor, Miss Daisy S. Lyon, of Eastford, Conn., the bridesmaid, Miss Estella M. Frisbie, of Granville, and Porter M. Frisbie, also of Granville. The ushers were Clarence E. Deming, of New Boston, and Albert Sheets of Granville, while the organist was Miss Mabel Rivers, of Springfield, Mass.

The wedding was largely attended, among the guests were some Quincy friends. Mr. and Mrs. Frisbie are visiting Quincy during their wedding tour, and will be at home at West Granville after August 1st.

OUR FLAG.

William T. Lander.

You all well know the story, as told of Betsey Ross,
Who made our starry banner to supplant St. George's cross,
Which our grandsires proudly planted in the face of British foe,
And carried it to victory—one hundred years ago.

You have known our nation's heroes, and the glorious work they've done,
When the "Boys in blue" fought for that flag—way back in '61.
They bore it forth on many a field of carnage, death or strife,
And 'neath its folds, mid battle roar, gave up their strength and life.

They bore it through Virginia's mud and Carolina's sands,
On Mississippi's winding stream and torrid southern lands.
They brought it back triumphant, nor lost a single bar,
While on its azure field of blue there glittered every star.

It proudly floats o'er Philippines and Cuba's sea-girt coast,
The emblem of a country free—America's proud boast.
From every schoolhouse in our land, "Old Glory" flies with pride,
Teaching the nation's growing youth for what their fathers died.

Each year upon Memorial day—o'er mounds and silent graves,
"Old Glory" flutters in the breeze above our country's braves.
We'll honor, then, our starry flag so old yet ever new,
Pride of our heart, our soul's delight the red, the white, the blue.

The flag that stands for liberty, to men of every race,
No slaves, none wear the shackles, joy beams in every face.
On every land, o'er every sea, it proudly waves on high,
Our blood-bought flag, our country's flag, no nation dares defy.

Keeping the Hands Smooth.

It is possible to have smooth hands even if one is a housekeeper and dishwasher. Obtain from the druggist 5 cents' worth of tragacanth, which is enough for a year's use. Dissolve a spoonful of this in three times as much water. Let stand in a covered teacup for twelve hours. Then fill the cup with water, and you may apply the thin jelly which is made freely to your hands after each washing. A few drops of your favorite perfume and a little glycerin added to the jelly improve the lotion.—Woman's Home Companion.

TRIED TO BLOW UP STREET CAR

Dynamite In Switch Found Just In Time

Boston, July 3.—A desperate attempt was made to blow up a Boston Elevated railroad car which was crowded with passengers on Columbus avenue.

The motorman, who brought the stick of dynamite to the Lenox street car barns, said that he saw a stout man run out from the sidewalk to the switch, stoop over, then stand up and run back to the curbstone and down a side street. The motorman stopped his car several feet from where he saw the man stopping over the rail.

The motorman found a stick of dynamite about a foot long wedged in the switch. After stabling his car he took the explosive to Captain Hanley of the Roxbury Crossing station, who delivered it over to District Chief Ryder of the fire department, who declared it to contain about 60 percent gelatine and to be of the same quality as the sticks found on the tracks in Brighton, Brookline and Mattapan.

Thousands Lined Streets to Witness Passage of the Parades and Marathon Races

Record Multitude at the Fireworks. The Events of the Day in their Order. Success Marked Every Effort.

The great and glorious Fourth of July has winged along its 136th milestone in the passage of time and today it is as far away from us as ever.

The third successive celebration of the day by the citizens of Quincy, was if possible an even greater success than that of its predecessors.

The weather conditions started off in the morning as though they would be ideal, but as the day advanced the heat increased in intensity, and about noon time it reached the limit of its strength.

This of course made it somewhat uncomfortable for marchers and others who were forced to active movement, but the heat was no where near as severe as one year ago and then there was a little air stirring which afforded some relief.

And taken all in all there was every reason to feel considerable gratification over the weather and the way things moved along.

It was a safe, sane, and sensible Fourth of July celebration in every way.

There were a number of fires and much damage resulted, but those could not be directly attributed to any recklessness on the part of the citizens in celebrating.

The lack of rain, making everything as dry as tinder increased the possibilities of fires.

The lumber men of the city, wisely wet down their stock and maintained a constant guard of a large force of men over their premises to safeguard against fires, which was a very wise precaution.

The night before was not very noisy. There was the usual crowd parading up and down Hancock street the greatest congestion being in the vicinity of City Square.

In South Quincy and other sections of the city crowds gathered and blew horns and made some noise, but the dins of the previous years when bedlam was let loose were conspicuous by their absence. Clubs and private families kept open house and entertained in a most lavish manner.

Along towards twelve o'clock the crowds on the street began to thin out, much of the noise ceased and after one o'clock, only now and then a lonesome horn would be heard to break the stillness of the night.

The day was ushered in with the ringing of bells, which was repeated at noon and night. Flags were displayed all over the city, the flags of the school and other public buildings floating proudly on the breeze.

The events of the day moved along with commendable rapidity. There were only slight delays at times and those were not sufficient to cause any annoyance.

The grand stand was one mass of brilliant color, and beauty, with the light summer dresses of the many women present and the scene was enlivened by the many colored ribbons and fancy colored parasols which were sported.

Capt. J. Hood of the battleship Delaware and his staff were the center of attraction as they reached the stand.

Capt. Hood, told the Ledger representative that this was the first time he had seen his boys on the march, and judging from the smiles which wreathed his face, as the white backed lads yipped by with their swinging business-like gait, and the din of the applauding thousands ringing in his ears, he felt satisfied that his boys in this department as well as in many others were up to the standard and the equals of any in the ships of Uncle Sam's fleet.

Then for a few moments every one was thrilled and many trembled with fear for the consequences.

The fire alarm sounded. The whole square in front of the grand stand was a confused mass of people, men, women, children, horses, carriages, electric cars and automobiles.

Many people thought the day was to be marred by a terrible catastrophe. Fortunately it was averted by the quick work, and good judgment of every one concerned.

Members of the committee, policemen and the cooler heads in the crowd, hustled the people out one side, directed drivers of teams and automobiles to swing out and a clear passage was effected.

The drivers of the fire apparatus showed splendid nerve and judgment. Warned by the cries of those in the street, the drivers held their foot on the brakes, the reins were gathered in taut and the horses kept under perfect control.

The emergence from this thrilling and spectacular situation without injury to any one, not even the scratching of paint on a carriage was about as sublime a result of cool judgment and good work as one could wish to see.

Every one is deserving of credit for the manner in which the chaos of almost certain disaster was turned into an orderly mass of two lines of people with a good passage way between.

There was even another chapter to this startling situation.

The crowd on the grand stand, startled by the rapidly moving panorama, rushed forward to get a better view of what was going to occur.

There was an ominous crackling, a slight buckling, of the stage near the forward part.

Many were prepared to jump rather than get caught in the crumbling timbers and mass of people. But again the coolness of every one asserted itself and threatened disaster was averted.

Every one stepped back, and the strain on the platform was divided over its entire area and the danger was over.

The fireworks display was a dandy. Chairman of the fireworks committee George F. Elcock had worked hard and if anything went wrong he would have felt pretty bad about it, but everything worked smooth and the thousands were happy and satisfied.

The end of the fireworks saw every one pretty tired from the constant movement of the day and they were eager enough to get home and take their rest.

At midnight last night, quietude reigned supreme in every part of the city and at no point was it more noticable than in City Square.

Everybody was astir bright and early, the morning of the Fourth, ready to enter heart and soul into the spirit of the celebration. The early morning parade was announced to start promptly at 8.30 and it was but a few minutes late. Long before the time for the start however the street cars had been bringing crowded freights into the square which was soon packed to suffocation.

Those who had seats in the grand stand sought good places, though for that matter one seat was a good as

In addition to the bell alarms the Wollaston apparatus responded to three still alarms for bonfires; West Quincy went out on four still alarms and Atlantic on four still alarms. These were all for bonfires and grass fires. Hose 4 at Quincy point responded to several bell alarms but no still alarms and Combination 3 at Houghs Neck did not move a wheel, during the Third and Fourth.

ATLANTIC PEOPLE PROUD OF THEIR FOURTH CELEBRATION

Burlesque Ball Game All to the Merry. Fireworks Close Busy Day

The most complete and varied program ever held characterized Atlantic's celebration this year. With bonfire, parade, athletic contests, ball games, aquatic sports, fireworks and other diversions the day held much of interest for every member of the sixth ward.

Accompanied by the light of red fire, the tooting of horns and the bursting of cannon crackers a large bonfire was set off on the Ward Six playground shortly before twelve.

Although not on the regular program the bonfire attracted a large crowd, about two thousand watching the event. The affair was a very orderly one this year, no actions of rowdyism attending it.

The morning parade got under way shortly before seven and was worthy of note for its completeness and distinctive features. The parade formed at the corner of Botolph street and Newbury avenue and headed by a detail of police and the military band from Fort Banks moved over the following route:

Newbury avenue to Squantum street, to Hancock to Billings road, to Faxon to Edwin street, to Park, to Squantum, to Botolph, to Clive, to Walker, to Squantum, to Billings, to Atlantic, countermarching to Hancock, to Walnut, to Oak, to Linden, to Hancock, to Madison, to Newbury avenue, to Sagamore street, to the Ward Six playground where it disbanded.

Thousands of spectators were on the line of march and houses on the

At Home and Abroad, All United in Home Event

Squantum's celebration of the Fourth of July was a round of pleasure that will long be remembered by the residents of that delightful shore resort which is fast becoming one of Quincy's most wide-awake suburbs.

From sunrise to long after sunset there was a continuous round of events, participated in by practically every resident of the community. The pretty bungalows that dot Squantum's streets were handsomely decorated in honor of the day. Hundreds of guests were entertained and found much pleasure in the fine program which had been prepared by the energetic Fourth of July committee of the Squantum Improvement Association under whose auspices the celebration was held.

Squantum's rosebuds were astir with the sun and on their beautifully decorated float they left for Atlantic at 6 o'clock where they took part in the Ward 6 parade and captured first prize. The Squantum dandelions, a

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The Fourth is over. Now for the circus.

Everybody worked hard and the reward was worth the effort.

The closing event, the fireworks display was up to the standard and in keeping with the celebration as a whole.

The wholesale kosher meat merchants have turned the tables on the strikers by cutting off the supplies. This may mean that 150,000 people in New England may be forced to a vegetarian diet.

People drinking from bubbles do not have to cover the metal with their lips. It is just so that the lips will not come in contact with the drinking vessel that this law was put into operation.

Bryan is satisfied with the result of Baltimore. It now remains to see whether the people shares his views on the subject.

Dr. Flint's opinion on Thaw is fully up to the standard of his name. There is no mistaking his views on Thaw.

Four towering aspirants for nomination honors found their presence at the conventions worked disaster to their hopes. Among them Gov. Foss of Massachusetts.

Gov. Wilson kept cool and cooly walked off with the prize.

Candidate Reimer says the steel trust has established a plant in India, so that there is no danger from immigration of the Indians to work in American steel works. They have the chance to blow the blast furnaces right at their own door.

The man who tried to shave himself the morning after a night before celebration usually finds that as a vivisectionist operator he is a complete success.

Oregon claims the distinction of having the youngest governor in the country. He must have learned his political lesson when in his teens.

While the Democratic platform was not adopted until after the candidate was selected, the candidate together with the whole country had a chance to know what kind of a structure he would plant his feet on.

It is illegal to tip a waiter in Kentucky. The long suffering in other states should join a union and compel their legislators to do likewise.

New York five years behind in solving her transportation problem will find it hard work to catch up if the population grows at the present rate.

WALKING GOOD EXERCISE.

Walking is agreed to be one of the best possible exercises for the development of limbs and body. This brings us to the oft repeated claim that the American people do not take exercise enough in this department.

That is all buncome. The suburbanite can find almost as much time as any one else. It is only the fact that they will not take it.

People in the cities can hardly go a block, but they must hop on and off street cars. If they walked they would feel the better for it, improve their health and last but by no means least save many nickles.

Anyone living in the suburbs could find the time to take a walk of a mile or two after dinner each night. They would benefit by it. It would loosen their muscles, give them proper development and make them enjoy their sleep better.

The English people walk a great deal. As a race they are healthy and robust. Americans think they cannot spare the time for exercise and walking. It would be better for them and prolong their lives if they could be made to believe different.

FOR GREATER SAFETY.

As day succeeding day brings its fresh and awful toll of terrible deaths from air flying the people stand aghast at the multiplicity and wonder if there is any manner in which it can be checked.

Builders of machines and motors should use the utmost care. Inspection of each in their most minute parts should precede and follow every flight, so that any defects may be discovered and remedied before the flight is entered upon and the effects of the journey upon the machine, the wear and tear during flight may be gauged. All of those things it is assumed are done by the mechanicians. The operator depends no doubt upon their skill and judgment. Yet in how many instances have machines pronounced absolutely perfect, so far as human intelligence and skill could determine, met with disaster and death to the operator.

The suggestion of Aviator Martin that straps be used by flyers appears to be a good one, but the straps should be arranged so that they would be an aid rather than a hindrance. The problem is a serious one. Until the machines are made as near perfect as human ingenuity can devise no doubt the death toll will continue at its alarming rate.

The distressing feature about it is that the heavy toll of life in no way compensates, in any measure, as no evidence is revealed of the cause of the accidents so that preventatives can be applied.

Down front was the judges and a large table containing the prizes, that were to be awarded to the several features. The judges expected to be taken over the route in automobiles but there were not cars enough for all. Shortly after the parade started Capt. John Hood, Lieut. Commander W. R. Gherardi, Lieut. S. C. Rowan, Lieut. P. L. Basseit and Lieut. H. Brown of the Delaware arrived and took seats on the reviewing stand. Others on the reviewing stand were Mayor Stone Senator George L. Barnes, Representatives Walter E. Piper, and William J. Leslie, Lieut. Commmanders Robert Craig, Oswaldo Ferdinandez and M. Bianchi, of the Argentine Navy.

Over in front of the Adams Building and Savings Bank building was a long row of automobiles, filled with sightseers while the windows of the Granite City Club and offices in these buildings were also filled with sightseers. The officers on the Council Chamber floor of City Hall, also contained their quota of sightseers. In fact every good view point was taken advantage of and City Square was black with humanity.

The parade formed on Hancock street near the Adams Academy, the several divisions forming on side streets. The jackies from the battleship Delaware arrived at Houghs Neck at 8 o'clock and were brought to City Square in special cars. Arriving they marched down Hancock street, as far as the residence of Dr. J. A. Gordon where they wheeled about into line and the parade immediately started.

The horse of Marshal Bowditch was a little late in arriving and he started in the parade on foot. A noble white steed soon arrived however and he was soon seated comfortably on his mount.

It seems as though a little mistake was made at the start in having the parade turn into Washington street, direct from Hancock street instead of marching past the grand stand and thence through Temple street to Washington street, as those in the grand stand had to wait until the end of the parade before they had an opportunity to see it.

All along the line of the parade there were great crowds gathered to see the marchers pass and many of the features were heartily cheered. The jackies of the Delaware came in for much applause all along the line for with their natty white uniforms and perfect step they were indeed an inspiring sight. The march past the reviewing stand was also finely executed and it was noticed that as the colors passed the officers of the Delaware on the reviewing stand came to a salute and uncovered, setting an example which the others were quick to follow

After the parade the jackies marched to the grounds of the Adams Academy where they were drawn up into line, batallion front, with the colors to the fore. Then Capt. George E. Adams, marshal of the military division presented the command with the silk banner and silver cup had been awarded them. In making the presentation. Capt. Adams expressed his apreciation of the fine appearance the men had made and extended to them the courtesies of the city, inviting all to return to Quincy and enjoy the afternoon features and fireworks in the evening.

The prizes were accepted in behalf of the jackies by Lieut. Commander Bloch, with many thanks.

The sailor boys were then refreshed with orangeade after which they marched to Coddington street where they again boarded the special cars for Houghs Neck.

While the crowd was waiting in City Square for the parade to return, three blows, the Chiefs call sounded on the fire alarm bells. This was a still alarm and was for a fire in the barn on the Randall estate on Adams street, which had again broken out. In response to this call the fire apparatus dashed through the square adding to the spectacular effect. When they went through the square they had to slow down somewhat however.

With its usual hospitality the Granite City club kept open house and entertained a large number of the ladies of the members, who were refreshed with ice cream, cake, fruit, sandwiches and lemonade.

After the parade was over the club entertained the officers of the battleship at lunch in Colonial hall.

The parade was about twenty minutes passing a given point and it passed in review of the grand stand on its return shortly after 10 o'clock. At first it was attempted to give out the prizes as the features passed, but to avoid confusion this was given up and a representative of each feature was instructed to call at the judges stand after the parade and get their prize. For this reason there was no regularity in giving out the prizes, that is they were given out as fast as called for. Those to be awarded prizes were as follows:

BRILLIANT AUTOS FLASHED BY

Admiring Thousands in the Big Turnout the Fourth

The automobile parade started immediately after the finish of the feature parade and as anticipated it was a very pleasing as well as a most successful feature. There were nearly one hundred automobiles in the line, several of which were very prettily decorated.

Col. Henry L. Kincaide, the Chief Marshal of this parade rode in his auto, with Mrs. Kincaide, the car being very prettily decorated with flowers.

The most elaborate and unquestionably the handsomest car was that of Miss Edith Ames, daughter of Natham Ames. This car was one mass of white Mr. Ames and his family who occupied the car also being in white. The white fluffy material was very tastefully draped about the sides and end of car.

Dr. Francis Abele, Jr., had his car decorated with flags and the occupants dressed to represent the Colonial period.

Huntington Walcott Post, G. A. R. of Milton also attracted considerable attention. In this car were a number of veterans of the Post and they carried their colors aloft.

The most striking as well as grotesque car was that of A. P. Russell, of Wollaston. This car was occupied by five colored (?) men with long snowy white whiskers.

President Hearn of the Board of Trade had his car decorated with the American colors and carried a banner which admonished all to join the Board of Trade.

Fenniman's Taxi Service Co., had one of their taxi cars in the line with a load of young misses. They also had their seven passenger touring car in line.

Another car that attracted considerable attention was that of J. Warren Nightingale. This car was prettily decorated with crimson ramblers and looked as sweet as the fair ladies who occupied the car.

The A. T. Stearns Lumber Co., had a log cabin built on their float and they carried the drum corps over the route.

The palm for attractiveness however was carried off by the half dozen charming young ladies who occupied a canopied car which bore the label "suffragettes." The young ladies wore men's sailor straw hats, and blue jackets. Some of the men in the grand stand were heard to remark as they pased, that if all suffragettes were like these they might vote.

Delcevare King was in his electric with a group of young children who had a jolly time. They wore American flag caps.

There were also many other cars that might well be mentioned but for lack of space.

This parade was led by Chief Burrell and Officer Philips in a runabout. The two bands also rode in motor trucks.

The prizes for this parade were awarded as follows:

In adition to the above a banner and cup was awarded to the Woman's Relief Corps.

While the parades were in progress and during the afternoon, Charles H. Johnson, chairman of the Children's committee and aids visited the several wards of the city and distributed free ice cream. Ice cream was supplied to 2,500 children.

Chairman Johnson speaking of the children's entertainment said that it was remarkable how orderly and patient the children were all over the city. This was especially true at the Common street distribution point where 575 children with tickets stood patiently in line waiting their turn. There was no pushing or crowding on the part of any of them, and they seemed to realize that they were being served as fast as possible and were content to wait for their turn.

The days celebration wound up with a grand display of fireworks at Merrymount park. Just how many were gathered at park is hard to estimate but there were many thousands. People began to wend their way to ward the park as early as six o'clock so as to be able to secure a good place from which to witness the exhibition. Not only did they come on foot but the electric cars brought thousands from al over the city while as many thousands came in wagons upon which seats had been arranged. Then there were automobiles without number so that at 8.30 when the exhibition was started the park and street was black with humanity.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Never before in the history of B. F. Keith's Theatre in Boston has this beautiful playhouse housed such a summer attraction as "The Meistersingers Camping Out." This magnificent scenic production, in which the Harvard, Schubert and Weber Male Quartettes of Boston appear, is without question the most superb spectacular effort ever staged in vaudeville. The beautiful scene showing a camp on the shores of the Rangley Lakes, the realistic lighting effects, and the splendid voices of "The Meistersingers," all combine to make this the greatest summer attraction ever seen in Boston. For the second week of "The Meistersingers" limited engagement, a complete change of program will be made, with new soloists. Surrounding this great feature will be one of the strongest vaudeville shows ever arranged. Practically every act is new to Boston, and the bill contains novelty enough to please the most diversified tastes. Leo Carrillo, the celebrated mimic and impersonator of Chinese and Italian characters, will appear with his new monologue introducing some of his inimitable dialect stories; and other big features will be the Aslington Girls, an original novelty; "In Old New York," a big musical comedy with a large company of funny comedians and pretty girls; Brenner and Ratliffe, liveliest of entertainers the Great Sutcliffe troupe of Scotch dancers, acrobats, and bagpipers; Newkirk and Evans Sisters in droll songs and chatter, and Juggling Wilson a funny clown

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The biggest stock event that Boston has seen in years will take place next week when Lindsay Morison presents Miss Nance O'Neil, supported by the Lindsay Morison Stock Co., at the Majestic Theatre in "The Fires of St. John." This will be the first time that this noted American tragedienne has ever appeared in stock at popular prices, and the first time she has appeared here since a year ago last winter when she played in "The Lilly" at the Hollis Theatre.

The playgoers of Boston and vicinity are already familiar with Mr. Morison's coup in securing such a noted star as Miss O'Neil to head his company. It has caused no end of comment, and certainly has greatly added to Mr. Morison's reputation as a stock manager. The salary to be paid Miss O'Neil each week will reach four figures, but it is almost sure that the returns will justify the outlay.

"The Fires of St. John" is Miss O'Neil's greatest play success, she having played it in nearly every country in the world. It is a German product, full of strong situations and tense climaxes. Since its translation Miss O'Neil is the only American actress who has been able to properly interpret it.

The full strength of Mr. Morison's company will be used in the support of Miss O'Neil, including Howell Hansel, Edward Nannery, Wyrley Birch, Frances Woodbury, Edna Oliver and Bella Cains. A mammoth scenic production has been built for the staging of the piece, and nothing has been left undone to make the offering the very biggest that Boston has ever seen in stock. Despite the enormous expense of Miss O'Neil's engagement, and the cost of the production, Mr. Morison has decided that there will be no increase in the popular prices.

ARMY OF CLOWNS.

The Downie & Wheeler's World's Best Shows Combined present along with their comedy department this year numerous prominent jesters, commonly called "Clowns," Frank Belmont and Al. F. Wheeler, Jr., are the principal jesters and associated with them are 30 Kings of the Clowning World. Along with these funny chaps, others also assist with comical antics. When intermingling with citizens on the streets none of them would be suspected of wearing the loose robes of a fool, but when they are in the ring with their make-up on, they laugh and the crowd laughs with them. A jolly lot, who will certainly help to unload, at least temporarily, the cares from the minds of thousands of people.

Clowning is an art of itself, the best clowns are born, not made. The fun department of the Downie & Wheeler's Combined Shows is fully up to the standard of its other departments; in fact, many people will testify to the statement that the clowns with this show are worth the price of admission, their work is appreciated, as the present strenuous life of most people causes them to relish a little pure nonsense now and then. Everything in all departments of the Downie & Wheeler Circus this year is positively new, refreshing and up-to-date. Artists, performers, producers of novelties from everywhere on the face of the globe, forming the most wonderful diversified, and pleasing show the world has ever seen. The big show will exhibit in Quincy Wednesday, July 17.

A Fifty Horse Power Rambler Thorobred

The Rambler Greyhound

You are not the man who likes to speed, but any fellow with red blood hates to take the dust.

We all want the same thing—good road ability at ten to twenty miles an hour—but we must have speed ability in reserve.

You don't want it often but when you do you want it badly.

Here are three fifty horse power thorobreds.

The Rambler Valkyrie—a whirlwind for power at a moderate price. A four-passenger with 36 inch wheels and 4½ inch tires, as comfortable as a touring car; as handy as a roadster—$2250.

The Rambler Moraine—a seven passenger, comfortable, handsome, family touring car with 40 inch wheels—$2500.

The Rambler Metropolitan—a seven passenger, torpedo type touring car, 128 inch wheel base and 40 inch wheels—$2850.

Write your name on a postal and mail it to us. Just say, "I want to see the 50 H. P. Rambler."

The burlesque ball game between the fat men and the lean men took place on the playground at 8.30. The teams dressed in every conceivable costume played an enthusiastic game until the time limit was reached.

The Fat Men put one over the Lean Men winning out by a score of 10 to 1, in four innings despite the fact that the losers had a team of twelve men.

A home run by Davis of the Fat Men brought in three men. Frank Badger scored the only run for the losers.

The lineup:

Fat Men—Poland, Clark, Stevens, Hall, Cheney, Irving, Barber, Hadlock Flynn.

Lean Men—Wilson, Brown, Badger, Smith, Pendleton, McMahon, Bennett, Langelier, Apellonio, Whall, Murkland, Fuller.

The athletic events were run off in good style on the playground under direction of the following committee:

Joseph P. Clark, chairman; Harry B. Wilson, James A. Smith, John McClure, Edward Keohane, Frank Johnson, Edward Hall.

A feature of the sports was an exciting horse race between Miss Margaret White and Miss Phoebe Buckley, the result being decided a dead heat.

The events resulted as follows:

Girl's 50 Yard Dash; time 7 seconds—Won by Alice Wilson, Gladys Arthur, second; Olive Holland, third.

Mile Run; time 4 minutes, 40 seconds—Won by Robert Gerstel, Ralph Knapp, second; Charles Kendall, third.

50 Yard Dash—(Boys under 10)—time 8 seconds—Won by Edwin Heap, George Clark, second; Malcolm Kennedy, third.

220 Yard Dash; time 22 seconds—Won by Teddy Keohane, Nat McClure, second, William Knapp, third.

100 Yard Dash; (boys under 16) time 12 seconds—Won by Ralph Hadlock, Clifton Young, second; Loyal Safford, third.

Shot Put—Distance 33 feet, 5 1-2 inches—Won by Frank Mullen, Thos. Wilkinson, second, Edwin Poland, third.

440 Yard Run; time 58 seconds—Won by Charles Kendall, William Knapp, second; Nat McClure, third.

Broad Jump—Distance 16 feet, 4 5-8 inches—Won by Ralph Knapp, H. Messenger, second; Read, third.

The baseball game between the Tiger A. A. of Atlantic and the St. Mary, Jr's., of West Quincy, resulted in a victory of the home team by a score of 7 to 3.

The lineup:

St. Mary's—Carruthers, c, Connors, p, Duggan, 1st, McDonald, 2d, Quinn, 3d, ss, Flaherty, 3d, Carroll, cf, Manning, cf, Bennett, rf.

Score by innings:

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION

man George F. Elcock announced through a megaphone that the exhibition was now about to commence and that the first piece an American flag followed by a salute of 21 bombs would be touched off by Mayor Stone.

His Honor applied the torch to a fuse and in an instant a line of flame ran up to a small pin wheel. At first it loked as though he had fired the wrong piece. In an instant however a sheet of flame ran along an invisible wire to another wheel some distance away. There was an explosion and a shot of fire ran back over the wire with a loud report and the next instant the flag set piece was burning. It was a very pretty effect and well executed.

From then on for a little over an hour the multitude were held spell bound by the display. While there were not as many set pieces as usual what there were was good. The bombs exploding in the air were grand and taken as a whole the major part of the exhibit was one of the best ever seen in Quincy. Everything went off without an accident and by 9.45 the thousands were again wending their way homeward. The street railway had hundreds of cars in waiting on Hancock street going in both directions.

MUCH ACTIVITY THE NIGHT BEFORE

One Man's Leg Crushed. Firemen on the Jump

There was plenty of activity the night before.

There were great crowds on the street, especially young people, and they were out for a good time, their horns and cheering being evidence to that effect. There was but little disturbance of any kind up to that time.

Most of the clubs in the various parts of the city kept open house and entertained members and friends. In City Square the rooms of the Granite City club were the mecca for many of its members and their friends. The Wollaston orchestra was present all evening and up to midnight rendered some lively music. In the dining room were lemonade, sandwiches and fruit of all kinds.

Some of the members occupied seats in the windows overlooking City Square and enjoyed watching the crowds on the street while listening to the music, and incidentally enjoying the cool breeze which always prevails through these windows. Others enjoyed themselves at cards or billiards until midnight at which hour most of the members and guests had taken their departure.

Over in City Square there was a large crowd moving about but they were generally orderly and there was no serious disturbance. The late cars from Houghs Neck brought a large crowd of young people, most of whom belonged out of town and as usual they made considerable noise. The last car from Houghs Neck arrived at 12.30 and it dumped a mob into the street. They took the 1 o'clock car for Neponset.

Shortly after 12 o'clock there was a great crowd who made a rush for the 12.30 car for Neponset. One of these was William Dunnigan of 7 Mayfield street, Dorchester. He attempted to board the crowded car while it was in motion and in doing so lost his hold and slipped his right foot going beneath the car, the rear wheels of which passed over it crushing it to the knee. Several doctors were soon on hand and the police ambulance was called and the injured man removed to the City Hospital.

On the arrival at the City Hospital Drs. Hunting and Reardon were in waiting to attend to the man's injuries. He however absolutely refused to let a surgeon touch him, and it was only until Chief Burrell sent an officer to the station and placed the man under arrest for drunkenness that he consented to allow the surgeons to bind up his foot. This was all that he would allow done. On the morning of the Fourth his own physician came out from Dorchester and took him to the Carney Hospital. His injuries were not necessarily serious.

Up to midnight there had been but one fire alarm, that was from Box 37 which sounded at 9.26 and was for a large bonfire on Franklin street in the rear of the John P. Bigelow house.

It was not long after midnight however before the fire alarm bells began to sound and from then on until morning there was an almost continuous sounding of alarms. It was one of the busiest nights the firemen had ever had and not a wink of sleep was possible. Not content with the night before there were also half a dozen more alarms during the Fourth and if anyone is glad that the Fourth is over it is the firemen.

A complete list of the fire alarms from Wednesday afternoon up to this noon will be found in another column.

BRITISH VETS HELP CELEBRATE

The National Holiday in Quincy's Demonstration

Othello confessed to the gentle Desdemona or her father the Venetian Senator I forget which that he could not grace his course with studied eloquence and gave as his reason that at the tender age of seven years he had given himself to the grim labors of the tented field.

I, the scribe of this, do not know at what age the various members of our guests the British Naval and Military Veterans volunteered to serve their Sovereign and their empire, but this I do know, some of them have slept on the bleak and cold shores of the Crimea in the early fifties, more of them on India's coral strand in the late fifties when the Mutiny rivalled Hades itself, more of them in the shadow of the Sphinx and lead by Lord Wolsley marched on to Tel-El-Kebir on that cold grey morning on the 13th of September 1882. Again on the frontier of Afghan, up the Black Mountain, across to Chitral, back to Egypt, and the Nile on to Khartoun, and with just breathing space to the sand and sage bush covered Veldt of South Africa. Their deeds and acts of valour have dotted the world over, and from whence do they come? From the four corners of the mighty empire, from dear old England the mother-land, from the shaggy slopes of Caledonia, from the vales of Wicklow and the Hills of Kerry, from the mansion and the coal fields of Wales, and from the snow capped Hills of Canada and it is they and their forefathers who have made an empire that the sun never sets upon. They come to our fair city as our guests and to them we extend a New England welcome for New England is because old England was. They visit us on our National Holiday and help us celebrate it. We extend the hand of fellowship to them and the response is hearty, racial and religious differences finds no lodgement in them. They have been honored guests at Portland, St. John, N. B. Halifax, N. S. Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, Providence, R. I., they have been honored by his Majesty George V on two occasions. By Lord Roberts, etc. What is the secret of their popularity? Perhaps their Commanders are an index, so let me call the roll. There was and is that sturdy Highlander Black, then Canada furnished a Commander, Graham, both army men, and the land of Nelson produced the next, Grant of the Navy. England was twice again represented by two true types of British Soldiers, Smith and Muldowney, and the gallant principality of Wales was represented by Stokes and I was nearly doing another injustice to Old Ireland but she was represented by McNamara, and this year the Navy has another inning for the Commander is Cole of that branch. Some of them and some of their honorary members reside in our fair city and to all we bid a hearty welcome.

SCRATCH MAN WON MARATHON

Only Six Finished Out of Field of Thirteen Starters

Thirteen runners started and only five finished in the five mile handicap race held Thursday afternoon in connection with the Fourth of July celebration, under the auspices of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. The run proved to be one of the most interesting features of the celebration and was viewed at different points by hundreds of spectators.

There were originally sixteen entries. Fourteen put in an appearance, but when it was time to start the race Dominic Dorando, refused to run because the handicappers had decided to allow him but 30 seconds handicap, instead of one minute and thirty seconds, which was the original intention.

It seems that when Dorando put in his entry blank, he failed to state the number of prizes he had won during his running career. In this way the handicappers knew nothing of his capabilities and allowed him the limit. When they found out what he had done in the line of racing, they reduced his handicap. Dorando was dissastisfied and refused to compete, saying that he had not run a race for two years and was not in training.

The runners kept closely together for about half the distance. The race started at Quincy Square, then proceeded along Hancock street to Quincy avenue to East Howard street, to Washington street, thence back to City Square to Merrymount park, where the finish was made.

Most of the runners who failed to finish retained enough vigor to go back to the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., without any aid. Paul Skevakis and N. Faielly collapsed on Howard street and were picked up in an automobile and taken back to Quincy and treated by Dr. C. Wendell Garey, one of the officials.

Harry Barton who led the field up to within a hundred yards of the finish, took the wrong course at Merrymount Park. He was told by a bystander that he was going in the wrong direction, and just as he was about to take the right course, he fell exhausted to the ground. He became hysterical and it was some minutes before he was brought back to his normal condition.

The winner of the race, Domenic Fascia of the Italian American A. C. who started from scratch, finished first He won the first place prize and also the time prize. His time for the race was 29 minutes, 53 seconds.

Albert Hayden, with a handicap of one minute and 30 seconds, run, competing unattached, finished second in grand style his time being 32 minutes, 53 seconds. The third runner to cross the tape was Harry Williams of Quincy High school, who had a handicap of one minute, a most promising plucky little runner, was third. His time was 34 minutes, 55 seconds. Domenic Vendetti, of the Italian American A. C. finished fourth his time being 35 minutes, fourteen seconds. He had a handicap of one minute. He was the strongest runner at the finish.

William Pletch, running unattached, was fifth. His time was 37 minutes, 19 seconds. He had a handicap of one minute, 15 seconds.

The last man to finish was Charles W. Wade, unattached, whose time was 39 minutes, 48 seconds.

The prizes consisted gold watch, first, silver shaving set, second, leather suit case, third, ebony military brushes, fourth, lucky curve fountain pen, fifth, detachable handle umbrella, sixth. The time prize was a leather traveling bag.

The baseball game at Merrymount Park between Makaria and West Quincy was stopped at an early stage, to allow the runners to finish.

The officials were: James E. Neary, referee; Louis F. LaRose, starter, Leo P. Noonan, clerk of course, Dr. C. Wendell Garey, chief inspector and Alfred LaCroix, Lucian Thayer, Peter M. Sullivan, William Strong, inspectors and George A. Sullivan and Geo. Wilson, timers. The race started promptly at three o'clock.

JACK JOHNSON IN 9TH ROUND

Wolgast Is Unfairly Awarded Lightweight Championship

Las Vegas, N. H., July 5.—"Exit Jim Flynn." a hopeless white hope. Battered but still fighting, bathed in gore from head to foot, and with a knockout his inevitable finish, the "man-eating fireman" lost to John Arthur Johnson, king of all heavies, in the ninth round. Police interference 1 minute and 45 seconds after the closing period started brought the titular clash to a sudden finale, while both men were milling at a terrific pace.

As Captain Fred Fornoff, New Mexico mounted police, later stated, the bout had not been a contest of boxing skill. Instead wholesale butchery was being committed, with the dusky gloved monarch slowly but surely pounding Flynn into the Land of Nod. Both fighters had resorted to foul tactics, though Flynn was the first offender, butting, clawing, biting, swearing like a mad man, and repeatedly disregarding the warnings of Referee Ed Smith.

Ad Wolgast, with the aid of Referee Jack Welch, retained his claim to the lightwight championship in the Vernon arena, when he was given the decision over Joe Rivers of Los Angeles in the 13th round.

SQUANTUM ROSES

clever take-off of the more ornamental float, also took part in the Atlantic parade capturing third prize.

The Squantum parade took place at 9 o'clock. There were over 100 people in line and the costumes were original and fantastic. Of course the big feature was the float, "Squantum Roses." The parade moved through the principal streets and was witnessed by fully 1000 people. The judges reviewed the parade from the veranda of Dr. William R. Donovan's bungalow and prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies' best feature, Squantum Roses; Men's best feature, Squantum fire department; Men's best feature, 2d prize, Squantum dandelions; Ladies most effective costume, Mrs. Charles Bostwick as a Spanish lady; 2d, Mrs. Charlotte Jepson and Mrs. Ebon Carlson, as Neptune and a mermaid; 3d. Mrs. Louise Holt, Mexican lady; Men's most comic costume, first, Charles F. Westlake as Happy Hooligan in a boat; second, Perley Bostwick as Admiral Togo. Special mention as a fine feature of the parade, Robert Gran and Holjer Gran as an organ grinder and a monkey.

As the judges announced there were so many fine features that the awarding of the prizes was a very difficult task. The judges were Mrs. James Foster, Dr. William R. Donovan and Dr. Place. The girls whose beauty as Squantum roses brought first prizes in both the Atlantic and Squantum parades were: Miss Eva Adams, Miss Blanche Adams Miss Thelma Holt, Miss Hazel Harvey, Miss Ethel Morse, Miss Hazel Lovejoy, Miss Francis Landgrane, Miss Annie Morrill, Miss Katherine Grady, Miss Franc, Miss Jones and Miss Logan. Parker Reed dressed in a page's costume added a pretty touch of color to the float. The work of decorating the float and making the costumes for the girls reflected great credit on a ladies committee of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Squantum Improvement association. This committee consisted of Mrs. C. E. Carlson, Mrs. Perley Bostwick, Mrs. William A. Reed, Mrs. Gustave Wunderlich, Mrs. John R. Nelson, Mrs. Charles Bostwick and Mrs. Joseph Uppling. These ladies in their patriotic spirit and interest in Squantum worked day and late at night for three days to see that every detail of the float was carried out in perfect harmony. They deserve great credit for their earnest work in behalf of Squantum.

The Squantum Dandelions were James Allen, Edward Carlson, Robert Adams and David Olson. James Loughan was the originator of the take-off on the Squantum Fire department and it was one of the most humorous hits of the parade. There were a score of handsomely costumed women in the parade all of whom deserve great credit for their originality and fine appearance. Among these were Mrs. Stuart Knight as a girl of '75, Miss Phyllis Bostwick and Mrs. Gertrude A. Smith as Squantum's baby girls; and many pretty Squantum children who were in a division by themselves.

The parade was followed by a burlesque baseball game on the Squantum oval between teams of the Squantum Improvement Association and the Boston Postal Clerk's Outing club. The clerks won.

In the afternoon all Squantum with its guests went to Callahan's oval where the athletic events were held. The competitions were mostly of a humorous character and brought out a lot of good natured fun as well as keen rivalry. The winners of these events were: Large Boy's running race, first Francis Callahan, small boy's running race first by Edward Kehoe, second Leroy McKenzie, girl's running race, first Evelyn Hibbard, second Florence Swanson, third Hildergard Swanson. Men's running race, first Dr. Leslie Priest, second Robert Adams. Boy's shoe race, first Gordon Scott, second Arthur Drake. Men's pipe race, F. W. Anderson, second Dr. Leslie Priest. Boy's junmping contest, first Edward Culen. Small boy's jumping race, Arthur Drake. Girl's ball throw, first Miss Lettie McCarthy, second Miss Mary Landry. Ladies spoon race first Miss LaNavette, second Miss Irene Crowley. Men's wheelbarrow race, first William E. Harvey, second Albert F. Welch. Ladies' wheelbarrow race, Miss Frances Allen, second Miss Mary Landry.

In the evening there was a vaudeville show held on the veranda of the Squantum Inn. The program was varied and full of delightful numbers, all of the parts being taken by Squantum residents. The hit of the show was singing of southern melodies by Mrs. Louise Holt, a talented actress, who had just returned to Squantum for the summer months after a long New York engagement. The other numbers of the program were: piano solo, John Loughan. Jig dancing, Mr. McNevin. acrobatic stunts, Charles Westlake, harmonica and banjo playing, John Marden. Lightning sketches John Jepson. Whistling solo, Joseph Uppling, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Bostwick. Cornet solo, Charles Bostwick. Song, Mr. Johnason. Instrumental trio, the Misses Rund and Elmer Harper. Miss Phyllis Bostwick and Miss Thelma Holt were accompanists.

The prizes for the day's events were then presented by Charles H. Singleton, chairman of the 4th of July committee. The audience then sang "America" to the accompaniment of cornet, played by Charles Bostwick. Three cheers were given for the 4th of July committee whose earnest and hard work had supplied such a delightful day for Squantum residents and their guests and lastly for Squantum. The entire day and all the events was a fitting exhibition and a delightful testimonial of the spirit of harmony, local pride and public spirit that prevades that beautiful little shore community at Squantum.

CHAPTER XVI.

Wherein Margaret Sinton Reveals a Secret.

"ELNORA, bring me the towel, quick!" cried Mrs. Comstock. "Hurry! There's a varmint of some kind!"

Elnora ran into the sitting room and thrust the heavy kitchen towel into her mother's hand. Mrs. Comstock swung open the screen door and struck at some object. Elnora screamed wildly.

"Don't, mother, don't!"

Mrs. Comstock struck again. Elnora caught her arm.

"It's the one I want! It's worth a lot of money! Don't! Oh, you shall not!"

"Shan't, missy?" blazed Mrs. Comstock. "When did you get to bossing me?"

The hand that held the screen swept a half circle and stopped at Elnora's cheek. She staggered with the blow, and across her face, pale with excitement, a red mark rose rapidly. The screen slammed shut, throwing the creature on the floor before them. Instantly Mrs. Comstock's foot crushed it. Elnora stepped back. Excepting the red mark, her face was very white.

"That was the last moth I needed," she said, "to complete a collection worth $300. You've ruined it before my eyes!"

"If I had known it was a moth"—Mrs. Comstock wavered.

"They are what have paid for books, tuition and clothes for the last four years. They are what I could have started on to college. You've crushed the last one I needed before my face. You never have made any pretense of loving me. At last I'll be equally frank with you. I hate you! You are a selfish, wicked woman! I hate you!"

Elnora turned, went through the kitchen and out the back door. She followed the garden path to the gate and walked toward the swamp a short distance when reaction overtook her. She dropped on the ground and leaned against a big log. When a little child, desperate as now, she had tried to die by holding her breath.

"You little huzzy!" she gasped.

But Elnora was gone. Her mother stood staring.

"She never did lie to me," she muttered. "I guess it was a moth and the only one she needed to get $300, she said. I wish I hadn't been so fast. Pshaw! She can find another. Maybe moths are like snakes, where there's one there's two."

Mrs. Comstock took the broom and swept the moth out of the door. So it was from creatures like that Elnora had got her school money. In one sickening sweep there rushed into the heart of the woman a full realization of the width of the gulf which separated her from her child.

"We are nearer strangers with each other than we are with any of the neighbors," she muttered.

So one of the Almighty's most delicate and beautiful creations was sacrificed without fulfilling the law, yet none of its species ever served so glorious a cause, for at last Mrs. Comstock's inner vision had cleared. She went through the cabin mechanically. Every few minutes she glanced toward the back walk to see if Elnora was coming. She knew arrangements had been made with Margaret to go to the city some time that day, so she grew more nervous and uneasy every moment.

Noon came, and she prepared dinner, calling, as she always did, when Elnora was in the garden, but she got no response, and the girl did not come. A little after 1 o'clock Margaret stopped at the gate.

"Elnora has changed her mind. She is not going," called Mrs. Comstock.

"You must be mistaken," said Margaret. "I was going on purpose for her. She asked me to take her. I had no errand. Where is she?"

"I will call her," said Mrs. Comstock. She followed the path again and this time found Elnora sitting on the log. Her face was swollen and discolored and her eyes red with crying. She paid no attention to her mother.

"Mag Sinton is here," said Mrs. Comstock harshly. "I told her you had changed your mind, but she said you asked her to go with you, and she had nothing to go for herself."

Elnora arose, recklessly took a short cut through the deep swamp grasses and so reached the path ahead of her mother. Mrs. Comstock followed as far as the garden, but she could not enter the cabin. Margaret Sinton approached colorless and with such flaming eyes that Mrs. Comstock shrank back.

"What's the matter with Elnora's face?" demanded Margaret.

Mrs. Comstock made no reply.

"You struck her, did you?"

"I thought you wasn't blind!"

"I have been for twenty long years now, Kate Comstock," said Margaret Sinton, "but my eyes are open at last. What I see is that I've done you no good and Elnora a big wrong. I had an idea that it would kill you to know, but I guess you are tough enough to stand anything. Kill or cure, you get it now. You! The woman who don't pretend to love her only child, and all for a fool idea about a man who wasn't worth his salt!"

Mrs. Comstock picked up a hoe.

"Go right on!" she said. "Empty yourself. It's the last thing you'll ever do."

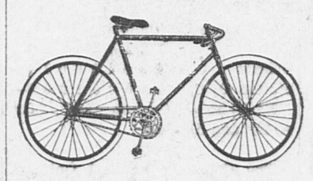

"Then I'll make a tidy job of it," said Margaret. "You'll not touch me. When Robert Comstock shaved that quagmire out there so close he went in, he wanted to keep you from seeing where he was coming from. He'd been to see Elvira Carney. They had plans to go to a dance that night"—

"Close your lips!" said Mrs. Comstock in a voice of deadly quiet.

CARRYING MOTOR SPARES.

Oftentimes motorists seem to think that no care is necessary in carrying spare tires, says a Michelin expert. Uncovered envelopes are tossed on roofs of limousines where sun and rain beat upon them. Unprotected inner tubes are thrown carelessly into tool boxes where they come in contact with sharp tools.

Needless to say, such practices are destructive. Strong light is very injurious to rubber. So, likewise, is heat. For these reasons, if no other, spares should be kept in cases.

Moisture and oil are also injurious to tires Waterproof wrappers which keep out light, moisture and oil and at the same time protect spares from injury by contact with sharp substances, can be had of any accessory dealer. Every motorist should use them.

Cardboard boxes are never satisfactory for carrying tubes in a car. Every vibration of the car causes chafing between the box and tube, and since cardboard is harder than rubber, the tubes will inevitably be injured. Covers for inner tubes should take the form of bags which will fit snugly around the tube.

DELAWARE GAVE FIRST DRUBBING

To the Strong Local Orient Team Thursday

It took the strong U. S. S. Battleship Delaware nine to administer the first defeat of the season to the strong Orients, by a score of 6 to 1, at Merrymount Park, Thursday.

Both Johnson and Bradley pitched well, but errorless playing by the visitors, enabled them to carry off the victory. The team work of the Delaware players was of a high order and every one in the lineup acquitted himself in fine style. Five errors by the Orients proved costly and figured largely in their defeat. It was the first upset the Orients had after a clean record of twelve straight.

A feature of the game was a home run by Carlson, who tallied the only run made by the losers. The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Delaware	0	3	0	0	1	1	1	0	0	— 6

Batteries:—Johnson and Hayden, Bradley and Ciardi.

OTHER GAMES.

Dispirited in no way by their defeat at the hands of the U. S. S. Delaware, the Orients came back strong in the defeating the Station Outing club at the Ward 3 playgrounds, 3 to 2 The game was stubbornly contested. Frank Markham drove in the winning run. A feature of the game was a home run by Anderson.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

Batteries — Carlson and Ciardi, Avery and DiBona.

The Colonials defeated Quincy Y. M. C. A. on the Ward two playgrounds Thursday afternoon, the score being 17 to 6. The score by innings:

NOTES OF CIVIC PARADE

Maj. Fred E. Jones entertained the members of Co. K 5th Regt. at lunch at his home after the parade.

The fireworks at Merrymount Park were given by the American Fireworks Co. of Boston.

A meeting of the General July Fourth Committee will be held at the rooms of the Board of Trade Tuesday evening. The committee desire that all bills against the association be presented at that time.

E. J. Lennon feels somewhat disgruntled because one of Boston papers had him down as receiving a shield as leader of the British Naval and Military veterans. As a matter of fact Mr. Lennon was a feature by himself and did not receive a prize, although many thought his feature deserving of recognition.

Too Late For Classification.

LOST—A gold watch fob, locket shape on a gold cross . Letters H. L. B. on locket. Two photographs in locket. Reward to finder on return to Ledger office. tf

TO LET—House keeping suites of 3 4 or 5 rooms and bath, fully furnished from $20 per month upwards. All improvements. Cool, shady verandas. Airy rooms. Miss Spear, 118 Granite street. 5-1t

NOTES OF AUTO PARADE.

As the auto parade wheeled into Atlantic on the Fourth, the band very appropriately struck up "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot."

Some little delay was experienced in getting the auto parade under way, this was due to the brisk fire on Adams street, which took away many autos, the failure of our local concern to send their trucks as agreed for the use of musicians, and the congested condition in city square at the time the Auto parade was scheduled to start.

Some criticism was heard regarding the speed of the autos in the auto parade. Chief Burrill who led the procession was instructed to move at a 12 mile speed. This was the average speed although at times this speed was reduced to 8 miles pasing thickly settled districts. On the boulevard where no people were in sight the speed was increased to 15 miles. The actual time consumed in covering the 12 miles route was one and one quarter hours which included the wait at the roailroad crossing for trains passing the South Quincy station.

In a gathering of urchins on Copeland street one enthusiast exclaimed as the Chief Marshal passed "Gee there's Governor Guild." "No you chump" piped up another "that's Kincaide." Many citizens along the route mistook the chief marshal for the Mayor.

Umpires Colligan and Murphy.

Miss Rose Pitonof was the big hit at Sandy beach, off Webster street where over 5,000 gathered to watch the water sports.

Besides giving an exhibition of diving and fancy swimming she acted as judge of the girls diving contest and when she came ashore after her exhibition she received an ovation which interrupted the other events for some time.

Miss Pitonof showed a number of styles of diving and got a great hand when she did the life saving act.

Among her strokes were the French stroke, sculling forward and backward, somersaults, a porpoise at play, and the Australian crawl stroke, the fastest swimming stroke known.

Her dives included the side sailor, head dive, jack knife, bullfrog. Another dive in which she came up feet first caused applause while the "Here we go" dive which resembles Annette Kellerman's Australian "splosh" caused a great laugh.

Another feature was the speed exhibition of the racing power boat Premier III with McIntyre as skipper. The speed with which she cut through the water held the crowd fascinated for a long time.

The water sports were under the direction of the athletic committee and resulted as follows

Open Race—Won by Ralph Knapp, holm, lf, Kelley, cf, Trow p, Dana, third.

Girls' Diving Contest—Won by May O'Brien, Laura Bean second, "Anna Waters," third.

Relay race—Won by Leo Goyette and Reggie Gay, Ryder Gay and Ralph Knapp, second.

Diving Contest—Won by Henry Safford, Archie Briggs, second.

Riding the Barrell—Won by Lawrence Bean.

The hand tub playout on the Playground at five o'clock drew a large crowd. In the contest were the "Granite" of Quincy, D. J. Nyhan captain; the "Hydrant" of Milton George MacCaffrey captain and the "Union" of Braintree, Charles Graham captain.

The "Union" of Braintree won out with a stream of 186 feet, 7 inches. The "Hydrant" of Milton came second with 180 feet 11 inches to her credit. The "Granite" met with a lot of hard luck and was only able to throw 145 feet 2 inches.

The judges were: Captain Maybury of Braintree, captain, F. G. Schahrer of Wollaston, B. F. Guptill of Braintree and John Moir of Atlantic, D. J. Nyhan and Stephen H. Edwards formed the committee.

The closing event of the varied day was the display of fireworks in the large field between Faxon road and the Shore boulevard witnessed by several thousand people.

The fireworks were of high grade and pleased every one.

PLAYGROUNDS TO OPEN.

The Coddington school playgrounds will be opened Monday, July 8, at 9.30 with a flag raising. The grounds will be in charge of a skilled supervisor and will be equipped with ample apparatus. All boys and girls under 16 years are invited.

AVIATOR'S NIGHT.

The Squantum Yacht club observed the "night before" with an Aviator's Night." Over 150 couples enjoyed social dancing to music of the club's orchestra. The floor was in charge of Harvey W. Locke. It was intended to have some of the leading aviators present but owing to the recent fatalities at the meet this was impossible.

The committee in charge were Perley N. Rogers, Luce J. Jacobin, Henry N. Locke and William I. Hartley.

MRS. AUBREY HILLARD.

After a lingering illness of several months Mrs. Aubrey Hilliard passed away at her home 87 Middle street, Braintree Thursday evening, July 4. She was a daughter of the late Alva S. Morrison and wife of one of Braintree's most respected citizens. She is survived by her mother, two sisters, her husband and two children. Mrs. Alva M. Dow and Curtis Hilliard. Mrs. Hilliard was an active member of All Souls 'church and the Cochato club until her failing health kept her at home. The funeral will be held at her late home on Sunday at 2.30 P. M.

EXPRESS TRAINS IN COLLISION

Bring Death to Forty-One and Injures Fifty

REAR END CRASH THE CAUSE

Other Deaths Will Probably Follow—Fog Hides the View When Warning Semaphores Are Passed—Two Coaches and One Sleeper Torn Asunder—Injured Overcrowd Hospital Accommodations

Corning, N. Y., July 5.—Forty-one persons are dead, three so badly hurt that their deaths are expected, and more than fifty are suffering injuries, the result of a tail-end collision between the crack Buffalo limited of the Lackawannna railroad and a train of express cars, in the thick fog above Gibson Narrows, two miles from this town, in the dawn of Independence day.

Trainmen say that this loss of life was caused by the carelessness of the engineer of the express train, who ran at a sixty-five mile an hour rate of speed past a frantically signalling flagman and the warning of a dropped semaphore arm, into the passenger train standing still upon the track with its hundred or so sleeping passengers.

The dead, which filled to overflowing the morgues of the little town, are in many instances so frightfully mangled that identification is almost impossible.

The engine of the express train ripped its way throught the two day coaches in the rear, filled with holiday excursionists, killing instantly everyone in them, plowed on through half of a steel Pullman, throwing the sleeping car off the track, and then came to a standstill with the green carpet of the Pullman flung about its pilot.

Engineer Schroeder of the express, who is blamed by the authorities for the accident, jumped or was thrown when the crash came. He sat on a rail high up on a hill near the scene of the accident watching in a dazed way the wrecking crews at work.

The number of deaths from the wreck has reached forty-one, of whom but twenty have been identified. No New England people have been listed.

Engineer William Schoeder of Buffalo was at the throttle. He told several witnesses after the wreck that he had seen no flagman and that he had not noticed the semaphore a half mile down the track, and again 100 yards behind the stalled passenger train. He jumped and by the momentum of the train was thrown clear of the wreck, practically uninjured.

The women in the sleeper were in a pitiable condition. Most of them lost their clothes and jewelry and were taken to near-by farmhouses or in friendly automobiles to Corning two miles away.

Fortunately the wreckers did not have fire to battle with, for the derailed trains were wet down by rain before there was a chance for the flames to spring up.

Most of the bodies found were badly mangled. The cars themselves were one heaped up mass of wreckage, jamming into each other in telescope fashion. The last two cars on the express remained on the track and ater were used as hospital coaches. A special train from Elmira had brought surgical assistance from that city and it was this train that afterwards aided in removing the dead and injured.

At the Corning hospital, which has accommodations for only forty patients, some of the injured had to lie upon the floors until the physicians could reach them and give them necessary attention.

The people of Corning have opened their homes to the injured who could not find accommodations at the hospitals or whose injuries were too slight to warrant their crowding other persons from the institution.

SKULLS AND BONES

Brought to Light by Steam Shovel on New Road

Providence, July 5.—Operations were precipitately suspended for a time on the roadbed of the Southern New England railway here when the scoop of a giant steam shovel came up with seven skulls and other human bones.

An investigation revealed the fact that the shoved had dug into a burial ground dating back previous to the landing of Roger Williams and used as a cemetery by the Narragansett Indians and their descendants, the Walmsley family. It was within fifty feet of this place that Amasa Walmsley was hanged for murder, June 1, 1832. The bones will be reburied.

FLIM-FLAM WORKERS FIND SHOE MAN EASY MARK FOR THEIR OPERATIONS

Boston Firm Notified by Telephone Delivers Four Pairs of Shoes for Quincy Dealer

A Similar Attempt on Another Concern Not So Successful

Some smart thieves have been making use of the name of Fred Zolar of the Granite Shoe store to obtain a supply of footwear for themselves without going through the formality of paying for them.

Although the game is an old one, there are always a few suckers left in the box and it worked in this case One day early in the week an unknown party called up a wholesale firm in Boston, with whom Mr. Zolar does business and informed the man, who answered the telephone that he was Mr. Zola. He had an order for some shoes. He wanted four pair. He gave the size and quality, taking care to order the best quality. As he was in a hurry for the shoes he would send an express team after them.

Shortly after an express wagon drove up to the door of the wholesale shoe firm and a young man got off and ran into the store and asked for Zolar's bundle. It was delivered to him. Out he ran again but instead of getting onto the express wagon he ran down the street.

When the driver of the wagon got tired of waiting he went into the store to see where his passenger was. But he was missing. Then it was that things began to look a little hazy and the Quincy store of Mr. Zolar was called by telephone. The true facts were soon learned.

The next day another firm was called up in a similar manner and four pairs of shoes ordered. The clerk here however was wise and he waited a few minutes and then called the Quincy store to ask some minor questions about the order. Of course he was immediately informed of the fraud and this time the man got no shoes.

The case has been reported to the Boston police who are on the lookout for the party who is laying in a stock of shoes without paying for them.

FIREMEN ON THE JUMP

Three Bell and One Still Alarm in Eight Hours

TOTAL DAMAGE NOMINAL

Friday night was another busy one for the fire department for during that period the Central station apparatus responded to three bell alarms while the Atlantic combination responded to one still alarm.

The first alarm of the night was from Box 48 at 10.45 and was for a fire in the Everson stone crushing building situated on the old O. T. Rogers Granite Co. property on Willard street. The loss was slight and cause unknown.

At 10.50 the Atlantic Combination responded to a still alarm for a fire among the planking on the Neponset bridge.

At 1 o'clock this morning an alarm sounded from Box 41. This was for a blaze in an out building on the Andrew Young estate on Granite street. It was evidently an incendiary. The loss was small.

The last alarm of the night came in at 555 this morning from Box 147 situated in the yard of the Granite Railway off Bates avenue. The fire was in one of the small railroad switchman's houses on the line of the Quarry railroad. It is supposed that tramps, or drunks, occupied the building last night and started the fire. The loss here will not be large.

TO COLLECT BACK TAXES

Collector Childs Gets Warning From the State

HE WILL GET BUSY

The Tax Commissioner is determined that back taxes in the cities and towns of the Commonwealth must be collected, otherwise a suit will follow. This morning Tax Collector Child received the following letter from the Attorney Generals office bearing on the question.

The Tax Commissioner has referred to the Attorney General the following uncollected taxes of The City of Quincy:

1904,	1,341.90
1905,	1,947.65
1906,	2,953.67
1907,	3,695.70
1908,	4,308.54

Under provisions of St. 1912, 272 it becomes the duty of the Attorney General to bring suit to collect these taxes.

If before suit is instituted you wish to make any statement with reference to the matter I shall be glad if you will communicate with me, within one week from this date."

Very truly yours,
Andrew Marshall,
Asst. Attorney General.

In relation to the above Collector Child says of the total amount involved in the above statement about $8,000 is for poll taxes and $10,000 for real and personal estate.

Some of it is absolutely uncollectable and the only thing to do is for the Assessors to abate that and to proceed under the law against the remainder.

The matter is to be taken up today by the Mayor, City Solicitor, Assessors and Tax Collector.

Collector Child has been criticized in some quarters because he has taken strenuous methods in many cases to make delinquents pay up. In quite a few cases he has seized money due parties that was in the treasurers office. It will be seen by the above letter however that he has the law on his side and that the Tax Commissioner is determined that back taxes shall be collected. Under the law of 1912 the Tax Collector is personally responsible for uncollected taxes.

AN EFFICIENT COMMITTEE

Conducted Town River Yacht Club Celebration

An excellent program was carried out by the Town River Yacht club on Independence Day and hundreds of people were treated to a most enjoyable afternoon and evening. The residents of Ward Two in particular were greatly benefited by the program and the most successful manner in which every detail was carried out attested sufficiently to the rapid strides that have been made by Quincy's newest clubhouse during the past year. The committee through whose efforts a successful program was furnished was comprised of Commodore Thompson B. Crane, J. R. Mellen, S. C. Drake, R. M. Harmon, J. B. McBride, Joseph Carruthers, Charles Foster, A. B. Barrows, W. E. Lee, W. Caldwell, W. Clapp, J. Martin and C. Cranshaw.

LIVING UP TO THEIR IDEALS

Gleaners are Capable of Accomplishing Much Good Work

The "Gleaners" of the Swedish Baptist church held their regular monthly meeting last night at the home of the Misses Elsie and Lillian Carlson in Braintree. The meeting was very well attended considering the long walk necessary to reach their destination and a very enjoyable time was spent.

Plans were discussed for a fall concert which it was decided to hold on September 25th. The program is to consist of a missionary talk by the Rev. Mr. Parsons of Cambridge, a former missionary in India and other features.

The calling cards of the "Gleaners," which the society had just had printed, were then distributed to each member, who was to consider it her special duty to visit any of her neighbors or friends who are ill, and thus a larger territory can be covered than if two persons were appointed to do this work for a month, as was done the previous month. A report is to be rendered by all the members at each meeting, as to the work that has been done.

After the business of the evening was over, ice cream and cake were served, and a social hour spent, after which the company adjourned to meet again next month at the home of the president, Miss Lillian Lindberg.

The "Gleaners" is a missionary club and its aim is to be faithful in small things, and to try to bring cheer and happiness to those who are ill. It has not been organized very long, but it has already occasioned much pleasure by keeping the church supplied with flowers on Sunday.

WRIGHT-PARKER NUPTIALS

At Danvers Attended by Many Relatives and Friends

Surrounded by relatives and friends Mr. Alfred Ambrose Wright of New York and Miss Catherine Spurr Parker of Boston, daughter of Mrs. John Whitney Hall of Quincy were married Wednesday at 4 o'clock at Danvers by Rev. Arthur S. Burrows.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. French of Dayton street where the ceremony was performed was one mass of greenery and white and a large centre piece of white sweet peas decorated the dining room table.

The bride who was unattended looked charming in a beautifully embroidered mull gown over white silk, with a bandeau of pearls in her hair. The only other ornament she wore was a handsome pearl necklace and pendant a gift of the groom, and she carried a large shower bouquet of white sweet peas. A reception followed the ceremony.

For a number of years Mrs. Wright has been a teacher in Boston at the school for crippled children and a purse of gold from the trustees and a silver and gold sugar and creamer from the teachers showed their respect and esteem. She also was the recipient of quantities of silver.

WOLLASTON RESIDENT DEAD.

Mrs. Jane E. Jones, widow of Robert S. Jones passed away at the home of her daughter, 22 South Central avenue, Miss Laura Jones late Thursday evening. Funeral services will be held from her late residence Sunday afternoon and will be conducted by Rev. Joseph Walther. The deceased is survived by two sons and a daughter and has been a resident of Wollaston for many years.

ATLANTIC MEET FOR NEXT WEEK

Managers Decide to Add Two Days to Original Plan

WIND AN OBSTACLE FRIDAY

The seven days' aviation meet at the Harvard aviation field at Atlantic which was scheduled to close today will be continued into Monday and Tuesday of next week.

On July Fourth there was an attendance of 10,000 but there was a delay on the part of the aviators in making their flights owing to a difference with the management on financial matters which was finally adjusted.

It was rather tame at the aviation field at Atlantic Friday. The wind was even worse than on the preceding day. A hot wind blew between 30 and 40 miles an hour from the southeast across the field, and in gusts that ricocheted in all directions when they struck the ground.

Only one aviator went up Glenn L. Martin and he made two flights. The first time he flew at a height of about 1,000 feet and circled over the aerodrome four times.

The second time about 5.30 o'clock, he flew to a height of 4,000 feet. He went up in broad circles and was over Dorchester Bay a good deal of the time. After making a final broad sweep over the aerodrome he shut down on his power before the wind and again proved the extraordinary stability of his biplane by gliding leisurely to earth with the wind and into the wind. The propeller was revolving, but the roar of the engine had ceased and he came down almost as noiselessly as a balloon.

When about 50 feet from the earth he turned on his power, the spark caught all right and he flew low for a few moments getting into the getaway from the west and making a splendid landing in front of the grandstand. It was as skillful a bit of flying as was ever seen on this field

BOYNTON SUSPENDED FROM CHURCH WIFE JOINED IN APPROVING ACTION

Stirring Scenes at the Park and Downs Session Both Sexes Taking Active Part

Contention That Boynton Broke Faith Upheld by Committee and Society

At a special meeting of the parishioners of the Park and Downs Congregational church, Friday evening, it was voted, 73 to 20, to suspend from church membership Chester A. Boynton of Revere until January 1, 1913.

The action followed the report of the standing committee who voted 4 to 3 in favor of suspension charging that Mr. Boynton had broken faith with it by filing suit against the pastor Rev. William B. Ayers when he had promised to either withdraw from the church or cease all action against the pastor.

This move of the society threatens to split the church as Mr. Boynton declares he will appeal and push the case to the limit.

The vote was reached only after an exciting meeting of nearly two hours length in which hissing and applause played an important part.

The move of the standing committee was the result of a suit by Chester A. Boynton of Revere against the pastor Rev. William B. Ayers for $25,000 in which Mr. Boynton claims alienation of his wife's affections.

The standing committee went into secret session at 7 o'clock in an ante room of the church with Chester A. Boynton before it. During the session several women members of the church did picket duty in an effort to keep away the reporters.

After hearing Mr. Boynton the committee argued pro and con and after a long discussion voted 4 to 3 in favor of suspension. One member did not vote. The pastor Rev. Mr. Ayers was not at this meeting.

Composing the standing committee are William J. Colby, chairman; Charles A. Richardson, clerk; A. M. Barstow, treasurer of the church; Lieutenants J. D. Willson, William Kershaw, George Holmes, C. A. Chase and Frank C. Blake.

The public prayer meeting was held directly following and in spite of the fact that the reporters had been informed they might enter by the pastor Mr. Ayers their passage was barred by church members.

A. J. Podbury, a member of the church arrived with Patrolman Michael Donovan the local officer and ordered the newspaper men off the premises. Rev. Mr. Ayers apologized after the meeting for remarks that had been made to the reporters by a man in the church.

The pastor led the prayer meeting and read passages from Isaiah. He took for his subject the relation of man and beast and urged his congregation not to follow certain people in the world who are constantly over riding the rights of others and who ruthlessly pursue their own desires.

At the close of the prayer meeting non-church members were requested to leave, curtains were pulled down, windows closed and the society was called together to consider the action of the standing committee.

Mr. Ayers left at this point and upon being interviewed by reporters refused to make any statement, saying he had been advised against doing so.

EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Poor President Taft is having more trouble among the staff of his cabinet.

Health expert Wiley having tried his hand on the republican party is now to wage a campaign among the democratic hosts.

Marathon runs by men not in condition and in no way trained to the required endurance should be abolished.

The Fourth of July celebration committee will commence operations earlier next year.

Our friend George F. Elcock was the happiest man in Quincy, Friday. The fireworks display went off well and everybody liked it. No need of further explanations.

Peas came high but some people would just as soon think of going without a turkey Thanksgiving as without peas July fourth.

That third party movement seems to be dying a natural death. Some of the most eager advocates have settled down to the fact that their own political future would cut some figure one way or another in the bolt.

The official handicapper came in for his usual portion at baby Marathon race.

No one worked longer or with greater zeal for the Fourth of July celebration than "Jim" Neary.

The Saturday night "joshers" club will hold a regular session tonight.

Every section of Quincy is keen to the idea of keeping alive the traditions of July Fourth.

The other night a big furniture power truck swept through City Square, without a light in evidence fore or aft. The trick should not be repeated as the police will be more on the lookout in the future.

Governor Foss has announced his retirement from politics. He has found it both lively and expensive no doubt.

The Franklin Field firework display was a disappointment to 10,000 people. More than three times that number found nothing to complain of in the Quincy display.

The republicans have not settled upon their standard bearer as yet.

WHAT'S THE USE.

When all is said and done, of what particular use are those gruelling Marathon or baby Marathon races on holidays, and particularly in warm weather. Neither science nor health are advanced a particle by the endurance trials.

Young men and boys jump right into such contests without a particle of preparation and think they will be able to stand the terrific strain without any after effects. The Quincy road race of July Fourth demonstrates the folly of such a course. Some of the young men in the race admitted they had been out the night before and in fact none of them had changed their modes of living, and actually no training had been entered upon. Such recklessness should be checked. Out of 13 starters, only six finished and of that half dozen only one could have run a dozen steps beyond the tape without falling in his tracks.

Seven were eliminated, and one was carried to the Y. M. C. A. raving in delirium and a doctor's services were needed to bring him around.

In all such events, every candidate should be examined by a physician before he is permitted to compete but under no circumstances should a man or boy be allowed to start who has not trained for several days and kept good hours, getting plenty of sleep and hearty nourishment. It is doubtful if another road race will be held in connection with a Quincy celebration and certainly not under such conditions as prevailed Thursday.

MASTERS OF SITUATION.

The gravity of the situation, as the great crowd of people, street cars, automobiles, horses and carriages in City Square, on the ringing of the fire bell Thursday afternoon, made many people grow pale and shudder at the thoughts of the probable outcome. It did not seem possible that a passage way could be cleared through that mass of humanity and transportation. Members of the committee and police worked in a most skilful, efficient and successful manner. Looking from the grand stand one could see the two pieces of apparatus coming down that stretch. The chariot race from Ben Hur flashed through the mind. Again memory turned to histories pages and recalled the manner in which great masses of people were hewn and cut down by war carriages.

Those outside the front ranks of the crowd and on the grand stand stood powerless to offer assistance. It was a thrilling moment. The police and committee members worked splendidly. As the three horse hitches on the big machines came down the stretch the drivers leaned over, gathered up the reins tighter, caught the horses in control and were ready to stop if need be. It was a moment which called for quick action and it was evident, as soon as the danger was over that the police, members of the celebration committee and drivers of the apparatus were masters of the situation and could prevent its getting beyond their control.

PROFIT BY EXPERIENCE.

The Fourth of July Association, this year was certainly fortunate in the successful outcome of every one of the features undertaken. It is not from a harping critical standpoint that any comment is made at this time. But during the course of events it was evident to many that there was chance for improvement in managing many details. The association for one thing was handicapped by the late commencement of the campaign. This can be prevented by an earlier start next year.

Then there were many minor details which should have been mapped out long before that were left until the last minute which created some little confusion, fortunately nothing more serious. The experiences of the past however are valuable and no doubt will be profited by in many ways.

The members of the association are earnest and conscientious workers. They perform the arduous and gratuitous labors with great cheerfulness, their only reward being the pleasure and recreation afforded to others. They should be encouraged in their efforts and should feel that any criticism offered is only in a friendly way and with the hope of lightening their burdens and making their labors easier. System counts in everything, whether in the conduct of business or a celebration.

FAVORED BY PROVIDENCE.

It is a very common complaint among those who are shiftless or indolent or careless and improvident, that the other fellow is always lucky or "favored by providence." But the so-called "providence" always finds in every case something in the "favored" man to work on, or to work with. "The Lord helps those who help themselves" is not in the Bible in so many words; but the spirit of it is there, all the way from Genesis to Revelation. It is not so much a question of how much salary or wages one gets, or the time that he has, as it is of the use that he makes of them. If he saves some part of his salary or time, no matter how little, for some good purpose, he will generally be "favored by Providence." But if he uses it all up on things that he thinks he wants right now, he is pretty sure to find himself unlucky. Stephen Girard once told a clerk who was trying to excuse himself for some failure that he had usually found that people who were good at making excuses were seldom good for anything else. Whenever you find yourself blaming someone else for your failures, or trying to excuse yourself for being unlucky, it is a good idea to look carefully under your own hat and see how much of the fault lies right there. You will generally find the most of it there if you look for it honestly and faithfully. It may be true that it is your money and your business and your time, and you have a right to use them as you please. But you will also have a right to the results of such use and you will be sure to get them. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."—Haverhill Gazette.

IT PAYS.

It is related that when President Vail of the American telephone and telegraph company announced that he intended to spend $250,000 in an advertising campaign some of his directors objected, and said: "Why, everybody knows about the telephone."

To this Mr. Vail replied: "Everybody knows about it, yes; but everybody doesn't think about it." He spent the $250,000, and the company's gross business increased $750,000 that year.

There is a world of significance in that little anecdote, and it is all the more valuable because of the magnitude of the corporation concerning which it is told. No business is so large that, if it is an honorable and meritorious affair, it won't be benefited by having the attention of the great public directed to it, and new thoughts stirred up about it.

Nothing so focuses public attention as that which is presented to them every day in constantly varying forms And this can be done only by the daily paper.

ON THE FIRING LINE TO END OF CONTEST

E. F. Bault for Business Agent of Granite Cutters

Quincy, Mass., July 5, 1912.
Editor of Ledger:

I noticed in your issue of July 3 a list of names placed in nomination for business agent for Quincy branch of Granite Cutters of Quincy and my name left out of the contest. The rumor circulated that I had resigned. I wish to state that I have not resigned nor do I intend to but will stay on the firing line till the contest is over.

If you will insert this in your paper you will oblige and correct a bad mistake.

Respectfully yours,
E. F. Brault,
23 Brooks avenue,
Quincy, Mass.

AVIATION MEET

for any other, for that matter— and the aviator was loudly applauded when he stepped from his machine.

Just before Martin made this flight the spectators were informed that return checks would be given them at the gate, good for today, owing to the fact that so little flying had taken place.

Miss Blanche Scott was not permitted to fly Friday because of the wind.

There still exists it is claimed between most of the aviators and the management of the meet as fine and complete a set of misunderstandings as it is possible to conceive of. These misunderstandings have been growing ever since the death of Mr. Willard, until at the present time it looks like a hopeless tangle, with complications enough to task the legal ingenuity of a Supreme Court Justice.

All but two of the aviators now on the field claim their contracts have been broken by the management, and Samuel Carver, the agent of the financial interests behind the meet, said last evening that practically all of the aviators had been paid what was due them on their guarantees, but that those who did not fly Friday had forfeited all of their prize money to date. He said Charles K. Hamilton had been paid $1,182, which is $182 more than was due him on his guarantees. Fish had received $960, Peck, $200, Tirrell $250. Page's money is involved in the legal complications arising from the suit between the Burgess-Curtis Company and Leo Stevens.

Six of the aviators say that the agreement entered into between them and the management on the afternoon of July 4 renders void the previous contracts, which they claim had not been lived up to by the management. Under the new agreement Hamilton, Fish, Page, Tirrell, Peck and Freeman were to get the gate receipts of the meet on the 4th and thereafter to satisfy; first, all moneys due them to that date, whether prize money or guarantee money, and all that should become due to them thereafter. They demanded the gate money after the meet Friday, but did not get it.

As a result they said Friday evening that they would not fly today.

Mr. Carver said that from his understanding of the contracts he doesn't owe the other aviators any prize money because they did not fly yesterday. He said the question of danger did not enter into it. He said further that the militia had been paid and that all workmen and others would be paid every cent that was due them.

THE ANNIVERSARY PATRIOT.

The Seventy-Fifth Anniversary edition of the Quincy Patriot to be published very soon is growing bigger, new sections being added to accommodate all who wish to be represented. The publication is somewhat delayed because patrons and advertisers have not sent in their copy but other detail has gone ahead and a paper of 5000 copies and of 4 or 5 sections will be printed There will be an industrial section devoted to granite, shipbuilding etc., and advertising; another devoted to the 25th anniversary of Quincy as a city finely illustrated; one of Quincy men and their homes will be of particular interest; then of course there will be a bit of Patriot history and of course Quincy history. The edition will be full of illustrations from photographs taken especially for the Anniversary Number.

TEACHER'S PROTEST

Failed to Influence Miss Quimby Against Flying

HAUPERT'S VIEWS

Andre Haupert, the aviator who taught Miss Harriet Quimby, the woman aviator who was killed on Monday at Atlantic said that from what he knew of the accident he thought it was unavoidable.

"I think Miss Quimby was descending with full power on when the machine struck an air pocket and threw both her and the passenger from their seats. The shock was so great that she evidently lost control of the machine at once.

"Until I have seen Miss Quimby's mechanic and heard the full details I can think of no other way in which the accident might have occurred.

"Miss Quimby was using a 70 horsepower machine, which was hard to manage, and with her it was an experiment. Her old machine was of 50 horse-power.

"I also have the impression that the flying at Atlantic is not a safe one, and I had advised Miss Quimby not to take part in the meet. After she made her channel flight I had hoped she would give up flying, as I consider it far too hazardous an occupation for a woman.

"I have always done my utmost and to discourage both Miss Quimby and Miss Moisant, who was also my pupil. While they were under my care however, I found them most careful and ready to accept suggestions.

"Miss Quimby, I think, was ambitious to prove that women were the equals of the men flyers and was spurred on to attempt too much. Both Miss Quimby's father and mother had been alarmed for her safety.

"Miss Quimby always insisted that she did not take any risks and, therefore nothing could happen to her."

CONDITIONS AT LAWRENCE SCORED

Drastic Criticism by Federal Bureau of Labor

Washington, July 6.—Labor conditions in the big textile mills at Lawrence, Mass., are subjected to a drastic criticism by the federal bureau of labor, in its report to the senate on the textile workers' strike in that city last winter.

The report made no recommendations; but it stated that in order to live, the father of a family must send either his wife or his child to the mills, and that the average pay received by 21,000 employes during a week late in 1911 was $8.75, which was probably reduced during other weeks by lack of work.

PUT ON YOUR MUFFLERS

Not Winter, but the Summer Article on Boats

POLICE ON WAR PATH

It may be of interest to Quincy owners of power boats to know that the muffling law will be enforced more rigorously than ever.

Mufflers must be attached to boats of all sizes sufficient to comply with the law.

Officer Grady of the state police it is understood has been assigned to the enforcement of this law.

Ports along the North shore were visited last week, and the names of boats and owners whose mufflers did not conform to required regulations were taken.

They will be summoned into court and probably given a chance to make the necessary changes in their boats so that they will no longer be offenders against the law.

Quincy boat owners whose crafts are shy on the muffler proposition should get busy and save themselves trouble and possible law expense by making the changes immediately.

The plan of campaign includes a series of raids on motor-boat owners who are not complying with the statute, and probably the state fisheries steamer Lexington, manned by the state police, will be used in suppressing the nuisance. All parts of the coast will be visited.

One of the most recent expressions of public opinion on the subject is the formation of the Motor Boat Muffling association, with Ellerton James of Nahant as its presiding officer.

Among the many complaints received is one from G. Loring Briggs, manager of the Boston Floating Hospital. He writes:

"The Boston Floating Hospital accommodates 120 permanent patients who are cared for both day and night. Oftentimes one-third of these children are on the dangerous list or so critically ill that it is a matter of life and death with them, and of course our mortality is large, as we receive the most desperate cases. We also take care of 120 day patients, either ailing or convalescent, accompanied by their mothers.

"It will be apparent that motor boats passing our ship, either during the day or at night, when it is anchored in the harbor, cause us a great deal of annoyance. The simple passing of a fisherman's boat or a boat used by a man in the course of his business is serious enough, but in addition our patients suffer from the noise of pleasure boats which cruise around us in order to inspect our institution, disturbing the quiet of our patients, so essential to their proper care and recovery."

Complaints are coming in by every mail to the officers of the Motor Boat Muffling Association, of which Ellerton James of Nahant is the president, Stoughton Bell of Cambridge, secretary and general counsel, and Robert W. Hill of Salem, associate counsel, and the association is determined to co-operate with the state and local police to the fullest extent of its funds in the confident belief that the public will welcome a proper enforcement of this law.

SUMMER VACATION

Looms Up Pretty Good to the City Fathers

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening and if present plans materialize it will be the last meeting until after the summer vacation. It was planned to have adjourned last week but as another reading was necessary on the order for $80,000 for the new school building at Ward Three an adjournment was taken for a week.

The Finance committee have but two matters before them and as they met Friday evening it is possible that even these two matters may be reported upon Monday evening. This will clean up the calendar of all important matters, except those before the street committee, such as the acceptance of new streets. This committee is hard at work on these matters and will report as soon as possible.

MOFFAT WEDDED WESTERN GIRL

Former Atlantic Man and Sioux City Belle

HAVE BRILLIANT CEREMONY

A wedding artistic in its appointments took place in Sioux City, Iowa, June 19th, when Miss Alice Heathcote Day and Mr. William Colgan Moffat, of Chicago, formerly of Atlantic, Mass., were united in marriage at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Edgar H. Stone, 624 Jones street. Rev. W. M. Short, of the First Congregational church, performed the ceremony before fifty relatives and friends. Mrs. John McDonald played the wedding march. Palms and ferns formed a background for the canopy under which the wedding party stood. Pink and white roses and peonies were used in profusion in the living rooms. American Beauties were used in the library and a basket of pink roses graced the dining room table. The bride was attended by her sisters, Miss Abbie Day and Miss Marion Day, who were bridesmaids. Miss Louise Day, who led the bridal party down the stairs, was flower girl. Mr. John Kelly was groomsman.

The bride was gowned in white satin with pearl ornament and tulle trimmings. A tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms fell to the end of her train. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white sweet peas.

A buffet luncheon was served after the ceremony.

Mr. Moffat and his bride departed late in the evening for Minneapolis and St. Paul on a lake wedding trip. The bride wore a traveling suit of navy blue serge, with hat and gloves of corresponding shade. Mr. and Mrs. Moffat will be at home in Chicago after September 1.

JUNE WEATHER HARD ON CROPS

Dryest Month Known at the Blue Hill Observatory; Temperature Also Averaged High

June was notable for being the dryest month of any name on record at Blue Hill. The total precipitation of .53 inch was 2.54 inches less than the normal amount and occurred on seven different days. In June, 1911, the total was 4.766 inches. Drought conditions during the month were intensified by higher temperatures than usually experienced. The mean temperature of 65.7 degrees was 1.8 degrees above the average for June and the highest since 1909. The maximum of the month was 89 degrees on the 2nd, and the lowest reached was 40 degrees on the 8th.

There was less than the usual relative humidity and about the average amount of wind. The prevailing wind direction was west, and there were no gales during the month. There was less cloudiness than is customary, and the total amount of sunshine was 11 per cent. more than normal. Thunderstorms occurred on the 3rd and 6th, and there were frosts in the surrounding lowlands on the mornings of the 8th and 10th. L. A. Wells,—Blue Hill Observatory.

PARAGON CABARET.

As tremendous as has been the popularity of Paragon Park annd its Palm Garden in the seasons past, and especially last season when the Cabaret was made a new and important feature, the vogue of this seaside resort in this its eighth season is unprecedented. The Palm Garden has gained such wide spread fame for its excellent cuisine and superb service and for its generous Cabaret programme that it is the regular thing now to find patrons standing in line on the broad Palm Garden verandas awaiting their turn for the next vacant table. This is not only the case around six o'clock, when the dinner rush begins, but continues until after nine o'clock, the hour for starting the Cabaret. But patrons do not have to wait long, for guests are constantly coming and going and the Palm Garden wil seat no less than a thousand.

Fireworks are made a special feature of the Park's programme every Wednesday and Saturday evening, and every Sunday evening the grand Italian illumination continues to be a notable feature.

Post Office Men to Temporarily Forget Duties

There is reason to believe from reports current that the annual summer outing of the Superintendents' Association of the Boston postal district at Revere beach, Tuesday afternoon, is to be "some event." C. L. Hammond, postmaster of Quincy, who is president of the association, has sent out notices to the members of the hour of meeting and the programme for the afternoon and evening.

The members will take in everything along the boulevard. At 4.30 P. M. the banner event will be pulled off, the baseball game between a team captained by Postmaster Mansfield and Superintenednt Weston of the registry division at central office. Superintendents Treadwell and Thomas will be the umpires, and the spectators are requested not to argue with them on any doubtful decisions. "Doc" Brennan will, of course, be present and examine each of the players before they start the battle. The baseball game will be followed by a bang-up fish dinner.

DONOVAN IMPROVING.

Pooch Donovan, formerly of Quincy, the famous Harvard trainer who has been sick with pneumonia for several weeks, at his home in Natick, is improving. The disease took a turn for the better a day or two ago and hopes for his recovery are now held out.

TWO MORE STARS ADDED TO FLAG

Arizona and New Mexico New States in the Union

Arizona's and New Mexico's stars on Thursday were added to the flag, those states having entered the Union since last Independence day. Not since July 4, 1890, have two stars been added to the flag at the same time. Idaho, Montana, Washington, North and South Dakota then took their places in the constellation.

Since all the continuous territory of the nation has now been organized into states, and there is small prospect of statehood for Alaska, Hawaii or Porto Rico for many years, the flag will remain unchanged probably for a long time.

The President's flag, which long had a red field, will have a blue field after today.

WAS JUDGE HANFORD SICK AND INFIRM?

Congressional Committee Hears Detectives and Bartenders

Seattle, July 6.—With all the private detectives and bartender witnesses disposed of, the house judiciary committee, when it met yesterday, still was far from the end of the efforts to learn whether United States District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford was suffering from intoxication or physical weariness and infirmities when, according to testimony, he dozed on street cars, nodded in court and wavered in his walk.

The sub-committee will next take up the injunctions issued by Judge Hanford in the so-called Rainier Valley single fare fight. The restraining order issued by Judge Hanford in the alleged collusive suit of the trustees of the Seattle, Reanton and Southern Street railway bondholders led to a mass meeting in Seattle Aug. 15, 1911, during the progress of which the judge was denounced by speakers, while a jeering crowd outside hanged an effigy labelled "Hanford." The arrests which followed the mass meeting will be thoroughly investigated, it is anonunced.

BRIEFS

H. H. Holmes was in charge of the Board of Trade rooms Thursday and served orangeade to hundreds of people who visited the room to witness the parade or rest during the day.

W. C. Caldwell held a whist party Friday evening in Stone's hall.

Percy Taber of Baxter street has accepted a position in Peabody.

At the Sunday evening service at Bethany church Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt will officiate at the organ and John E. Greene will be the soloist.

Much sympathy is felt for Mrs. A. F. Nelson of Billings road who is confined to her house because of a street car accident.

ADAMS WHITNEY.

Funeral services for Adams Whitney who died on Monday were held Wednesday afternoon at his late home on Orchard place, Rev. Edward Norton officiating. Beautiful flowers and a large gathering of relatives, neighbors and friends attested to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Although one of the oldest men in the city he enjoyed good health, taking a walk nearly every day. Death came suddenly and almost painlessly. Mr. Whitney complained of not feeling quite right and decided to lie down awhile and passed away in less than an hour.

He is survived by a son, William H. Whitney of Wollaston, and two daughters, Miss Marie Whitney and Mrs. Lewis N. Curtis of Orchard place with whom he made his home.

VACATION CLASSES.

The vacation classes at the Quincy Women's Clubhouse, Goffe street, will open Friday, July 12th at 9 o'clock A. M. These classes give free instruction in plain sewing. Embroidery and physical culture. Girls from 10 to 15 years of age are eligible.

NORRIE VS. NORRIE.

Mrs. Ethel Parker Norrie was on June 28th granted a divorce decree nisi, from John Norrie on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and given the custody of their infant daughter. The case was contested.

BEAN BAG CONTEST.

Two candidates were initiated at the the meeting of the Knights and Ladies of Honor held Wednesday evening in Protection hall. It was expected that the Deputy and suite would attend but they failed to put in an appearance.

A bean bag contest was a feature of the evening and prizes were won by Calvin Fletcher and Mrs. Charles P. Gould. The affair was in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Almira Huston, Mrs. Thomas Huston and Miss Isabelle McVurnie.

OFFICERS JOIN STRIKE

French Shipping In Crisis With the Government

Havre, France, July 6.—The strike of seamen and dock laborers which is spreading rapidly throughout France was accompanied by serious rioting here. A number of strikers took possession of a local steamer and when expelled and driven off by the police gathered again at the docks and met the police and a detachment of infantry which had been called to support them with showers of stones, bricks and other missiles. Many of the soldiers and police were injured by bricks hurled from windows of houses in adjacent streets.

Marseilles, July 6.—The officers of the French Line steamers decided to join the striking seamen and dockers. This completely paralyzes the mail service of this company in the Mediterranean. Additional destroy-

DR. ANDREW'S RESIGNATION

Means Severe Loss to the Entire Nation

PROFOUND ECONOMIC EXPERT

Washington, July 6.—No episode of the Taft administration has promised to be of more far-reaching interest, if not importance, than the sensational resignation of Dr. A. Piatt Andrew, an assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of fiscal affairs. This is in many respects the most important post in the treasury service, involving as it does the larger policies which have to do with making the administration of the department either a success or a failure, and it is vital to the prestige of the department that it be filled by a man of the highest capacity.

Dr. Andrew came to the post with a remarkable record of achievement. His reputation as an authority upon economic topics had been made long before he entered the government service and he already had been called from private life to important public duties when he first entered Washington as a government official. He was an undergraduate at Princeton, a graduate student at Harvard university and studied also at the universaries of Halle, Berlin and Paris. In 1900 he received the degree of doctor of philosophy at Harvard and in the same year was made instructor of economics at Harvard. Three years later he became assistant professor of economics, which position he occupied until 1909, giving courses of lectures upon the general principles of political economy and upon the history and theory of money, banking and commercial crises.

It was this equipment which attracted the attention of the members of the national monetary commision when that body was instituted by congress in 1908. The services of Dr. Andrew were sought by the commission, with the result that he was granted two years' leave of absence by Harvard, was engaged as the financial expert of the commisison, and, with Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, chairman of the commission, visited London, Berlin, Paris and other financial centres, conecting information relative to the organization and practices of foreign banks.

The amount of work put into the preliminaries of the report of the monetary commission by Senator Aldrich and Dr. Andrew was little short of gigantic. Some forty volumes of the publications of the commission were edited and published by Dr. Andrew, constituting the most comprehensive library of the world's banking ever written or compiled.

Meantime Dr. Andrew had entered the government service and was conducting a noteworthy work as a government official while still acting as adviser of the commission. In 1909 he was appointed director of the mint and during the year of his administration the organization of the several mints and assay offices was radically overhauled, thereby accomplishing an annual saving of more than $320,000.

Dr. Andrew stepped from the office of director of the mint to that of an assistant secretary of the treasury in June, 1910, and has rendered conspicuous service in the preparation and furtherance of legislation tending toward the improvement of our currency system and the adoption of more businesslike methods in the administration of the internal affairs of the department.

Dr. Andrew has rendered no greater or more timely service to the government than in his numerous articles upon currency and banking, exposing the fallacious practices of the past and calling for reform.

In his scathing review of "The Treasury and the Banks Under Secretary Shaw" Dr. Andrew laid a heavy hand upon the practices of the past which have given cause for so much hostile criticism, and in his "The United States Treasury and the Money Market" he showed the necessity and wisdom of an absolute divorce of the government from the operations of "the street."

This is the kind of a man with whom President Taft has thought it well to dispense in preference to his secretary of the treasury.

48 HORSES BURNED AND 46 SAVED

Stables of H. P. Hood & Sons Makes Spectacular Fire

Boston, July 6.—Forty-eight horses were burned to death in a fire last night that destroyed the two-story wooden stable of H. P. Hood & Sons, milk dealers, located in Charlestown.

The property damage amounted to $60,000. Three alarms were sounded.

The fire was the most spectacular that has been seen in Charlestown for some time. The flames lighted up the skies, and could be seen for some miles, drawing an immense crowd to the spot.

Burning embers were carried over the roofs of the numerous wooden buildings in the vicinity, some of which ignited and caused double anxiety on the part of the firemen.

Forty-six horses were rescued from the burning building by a number of volunteers led by the 60-year-old watchman, Herbert White. At least fifteen of these are unfit for work on account of the burns they received.

In adition to the number of horses lost about seventy-five sets of harness, a number of pungs and a quantity of hay and feed were destroyed.

CIVIL SERVICE EXTENDED

To Cover Skilled Workmen In All Navy Yards

Washington, July 6.—Ten thousand navy yard mechanics will pass under the protection of the civil service law when President Taft signs the executive order now being prepared by the navy department officials in conjunction with the civil service commissioners.

Theoretically these men have been shielded against the vicissitudes of political changes by a system of regulations governing the employment boards in navy yards and stations, but these were subject to change or abolition at the will of the person who might be at the head of the department and lacked the binding force of the law.

The men now in the yards are not to be required to undergo examinations, but newcomers will be subjected to severe practical tests and must also pass physical examinations. A regulation that anyone leaving work and seeking reinstatement must place his name at the very bottom of the roll of eligibles is regarded as a probable deterrent to strikes.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Walking in Hub's Parks Gets a New Impulse—Zoo and Aquarium Attract Universal Attention—Many Additions to City's Amusement Resorts Interest All New England—Amusing Tale of a Literateur and a Cat.

Not the least entertaining of the summer season's incidental happenings is the drama with variations enacted on nearly every country-bound train from the big terminals in the Hub. A recent effort to do the humane elected one retiring and modest literary gentleman to the star position in one of aforementioned dramas. One stray cat called "Blackie" had for some weeks been given shelter in the author's domicile, and when the summer exodus approached the cat was destined for the animal rescue league. The master demurred, and after much discussion and pleading it was decided that, although there was a small kitten already tagged for the country, "Blackie" should also go along and have a happy summer, provided the literary gentleman would assume entire charge of transporting it. This he did, to the amusement and chagrin simultaneously of a car full of passengers, who alternately pitied and cursed the much frightened and expostulating cat, and then alternately pitied and cursed the kind-hearted, uncomfortable man of the family. The stray, the kitten, the wife and two children and the baggage were finally transferred to the waiting farm wagon in safety. The crowning injury came when the unappreciative feline discovered a kindred soul on the next farm and related her experiences in prolonged and soul stirring notes for lo! these many hours of the qufet country night.

'Why not Go to Boston and See the Points of Interest?" asks a booklet widely distributed by the Boston Elevated Railway Company about its stations and elsewhere. A knowledge of some of the attractions that since last summer have been added to the list of historic shrines might almost make timely a booklet on new points of interest that await the vacation visitor in Boston. Aside from the things which every New Englander has seen the progress of the past twelve months in creating new effects has been extraordinary. There are, for example, the rapid transit extensions which people have not ceased talking about—the sumptuous Cambridge subway with its picturesque and admirably planned stations; the long, white East Cambridge viaduct which has given a final touch of beauty to the lower end of Boston's Charles River pleasure basin; the architecturally wonderful power station on the South Boston harbor front, which is also a crowning engineering achievement. The public pleasure resorts reached on a five cent carfare have also witnessed important betterments since the summer of 1911. At Marine Park, the breeze swept tip of the South Boston peninsula, the final work is being expended on Boston's magnificent Aquarium, financed out of the Parkman Fund, and destined to be one of the show places of the New England capital. The Aquarium that is somewhat inadequately housed at Castle Garden, New York, is in point of attendance the world's most frequented public museum. It is predicted that the visitors at the modern and perfectly equipped South Boston aquarium will in the first season run into the hundreds of thousands. Franklin Park, too, is now drawing crowds of strangers as well as residents of the neighborhood—the result of the earliest installations of the extensive zoological garden that is being laid out, a herbaceous garden having already been completed and the bear cages and the world's largest flying cage standing ready early in the summer to receive their inmates.

An important addition to the means of assistance in seeing these and many other Bostonese allurements is to be recorded also. Strangers in the town have often discovered in the sight-seeing trolley that starts twice a day from Park Square a mode of becoming quickly acquainted with the historic associations of the old town and its nearby suburbs. Many have also been introduced to the personally conducted walking tours in downtown Boston which start from Park Street Church. It is something unique, however, to discover that park guidance is a regular form of free ciceronage in the Hub. The Boston parks, built up at the expense of many millions, have been less generally used than was expected. Now there has come into being a "Public Recreation League" which, among its activities arranged from headquarters at 6 Beacon Street, conducts Saturday afternoon walking parties in the parks—sometimes in the Middlesex Fells, the wild forest reservation to the north; sometimes at Great Blue Hill, the highest point of land on the Atlantic coast from Maine to Mexico; sometimes in the nearby parks reached in fifteen or twenty minutes ride from down town. Guides and boy scouts help to make these excursions enjoyable. On two recent occasions the walks ended with an exhibition of folk dancing on the green given by young girls from a North End settlement house. So popular have these park walks become that two or three parties are arranged simultaneously. The Boston Park Commission realizing their success have made it possible that regularly on Saturday afternoons one of the officers of Franklin Park shall be present to show visitors the new and old features of his domain—the zoo with its present and prospective wonders, the shady recesses of the Wilderness and the marvellous vistas from the craggy heights. These trips are proving to many New England people who cannot afford to go to Europe that there are things remarkably well worth seeing right in Boston.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Jesse helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

"You know I wouldn't dare open them if I was not telling you the truth. It was hot in the woods, and I stopped at Carney's as I passed for a drink. Elvira's bedridden old mother heard me, and she was so crazy for some one to talk with I stepped in a minute. I saw Robert come down the path. Elvira saw him, too, and she ran out of the house to head him off. He brought her his violin and told her to get ready and meet him in the woods with it that night and they would go to a dance. She took it and hid it in the little loft to the wellhouse and promised she'd go."

"Are you done?" demanded Mrs. Comstock.

"No. I am going to tell you the whole story. You don't spare Elnora anything. I shan't spare you. I went to Elvira, told her what I knew and made her give me Comstock's violin for Elnora over three years ago. She's been playing it ever since. I won't see her slighted and abused another day on account of a man who would have broken your heart if he had lived. He was one of those men who couldn't trust himself, and so no woman was safe with him. Now, will you drop grieving over him and do Elnora justice?"

Mrs. Comstock gripped the hoe tighter, and, turning, she went down the walk and started across the woods to the home of Elvira Carney. With averted head she passed the pool, steadily pursuing her way. Elvira Carney, hanging towels across the back fence, saw her coming and went toward the gate to meet her. Twenty years she had dreaded that visit. Mrs. Comstock's face and hair were so white that her dark eyes seemed burned into their setting. Silently she stared at the woman before her a long time.

"I might have saved myself the trouble of coming," she said at last. "I see you are guilty as sin."

"What has Mag Sinton been telling you?" panted the miserable woman, gripping the fence.

"The truth," answered Mrs. Comstock succinctly. "Guilt is in every line of your face, in your eyes, all over your wretched body."

"If you knew what I've suffered!"

"Suffered?" jeered Mrs. Comstock. "That's interesting. And pray, what have you suffered?"

"All the neighbors have suspected and been down on me. I ain't had a friend. I've always felt guilty of his death! I've seen him go down a thousand times, plain as ever you did. Many's the night I've stood on the other bank of that pool and listened to you, and I tried to throw myself in to keep from hearing you, but I didn't dare. I knew God would send me to burn forever, but I'd better done it, for now he has set the burning on my body, and every hour it is slowly eating the life out of me. The doctor says it's a cancer"—

Mrs. Comstock exhaled a long breath. Her grip on the hoe relaxed, and her stature lifted to towering height.

"I didn't know or care when I came here just what I did," she said. "But my way is beginning to clear. If the guilt of your soul has come to a head in a cancer on your body, it looks as if the Almighty didn't need any of my help in meting out his punishments. I really couldn't fix up anything to come anywhere near that. If you are going to burn until your life goes out with that sort of fire, you don't owe me anything.

"If you will gather a lot of red clover bloom and make a tea strong as lye of it and drink quarts I think likely it will help you, if you are not too far gone. Anyway, it will cool your blood and make the burning easier to bear."

Then she swiftly walked home. Enter the lonely cabin she could not, neither could she sit outside and think. She attacked a bed of beets and hoed until the perspiration ran from her face and body, then she began on the potatoes. When she was too tired to take another stroke she bathed and put on dry clothing. In securing her dress she noticed her husband's carefully preserved clothing lining one wall. She gathered it in a great armload and carried it out to the swamp. Piece by piece she pitched into the green maw of the quagmire all those articles she had dusted carefully and fought moths from for years and stood watching as it slowly sucked them down. She went back to her room and gathered every scrap that had in any way belonged to Robert Comstock, excepting his gun and revolver, and threw it into the swamp. Then for the first time she set her door wide open.

She was too weary now to do more, but an urging unrest drove her. She wanted Elnora. It seemed to her she never could wait until the girl came and delivered her judgment. At last in an effort to get nearer to her, Mrs. Comstock climbed the stairs and stood looking around Elnora's room. It was very unfamiliar. The pictures were strange to her. Commencement had filled it with packages and bundles. The walls were covered with cocoons, moths and dragon flies were pinned about.

Under the bed she could see a half dozen large white boxes. She did not know what they contained. She pulled out one and lifted the lid. The bottom was covered with a sheet of thin cork, and on long pins sticking in it were dozens of great, velvet winged moths. Each one was labeled, always there were two of a kind, in many cases four, showing under and upper wings of both male and female. They were of every color and shape.

Mrs. Comstock carefully closed and replaced the boxes and again stood looking around the room. This time her eyes rested on some books she did not remember having seen before, so she picked up one and found that it was a moth book. She glanced over the first pages and was soon eagerly reading. When the text reached the classification of species she laid it down, took up another and read its introductory chapters. Then she found some papers and studied them.

She went downstairs thinking deeply. Being unable to sit still and having nothing else to do, she glanced at the clock and prepared supper. She went out and sat on the front doorstep watching night creep all around her. She started eagerly as the gate creaked, but it was only Wesley Sinton coming down the walk.

"Katharine, Margaret and Elnora passed while I was working this afternoon, and Margaret got out of the carriage and called me to the fence. She told me what she had done. I've come to say to you that I am sorry. She has heard me threaten to do it a good many times, but I never would have got it done. I'd give a good deal if I could undo it, but I can't, so I've come to tell you how sorry I am."

"You've got something to be sorry for," said Mrs. Comstock, "but likely we ain't thinking of the same thing. It hurts me less to know the truth than to live in ignorance. Now, if Elnora will forgive me we will take a new start and see what we can make out of what is left of life. If she won't then it will be my time to learn what suffering really means."

QUINCY PEOPLE IN RECORD TRIP

Across the Atlantic With Ex-Governor Douglas

Ex-Governor William L. Douglas accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Drake of Quincy, arrived in East Boston, on the Franconia, about 7.30 P.M. Wednesday after having made a trip across the ocean and back which came near to equalling the record. Mr. Douglas left New York on the Luisitania, June 18, for the sole purpose of surprising his daughter, son-in-law and two grandchildren, who returned from France and Italy after a ten months' stay.

The Luisitania was somewhat delayed as a result of the failure of a propeller to work properly. Mr. Douglas left her at Fishguard and rushed to Queenstown, where he arrived two hours before the Franconia started.

The ex-governor took his party by complete surprise. The Franconia carried 133 saloon passengers, 323 second cabin and 534 steerage.

Mr. Drake is associated in the shoe business at Brockton with ex-governor Douglas.

A GOOD FEATURE.

The H. M. Hansen Shoe Company had a fine feature in the Fourth of July Trades division of the parade. A large float was on one of the company's teams and several workmen from the shop were engaged in making shoes at the benches.

It was a truly good trades feature.

The feature was awarded a first prize, as the best feature of the parade a silver shield on mahogany background, and this the firm will have properly inscribed and hung up in the shop, where the men can all the time see it.

QUINCY BOYS WON.

In the field day events of the Brockton Young Men's Hebrew association at Holbrook, Thursday, Taunton defeated Quincy in the ball game by a score of 9 to 8.

W. Wolf of Quincy took third prize in the one mile run, and Sidney Grossman of Quincy won first prize in the shoe race.

CLARA A WINNER.

But three of the class D boats of the Quincy yacht club took part in the annual open race of the Hingham yacht club yesterday afternoon. They were the Dartwell of Commodore Whittemore, Clara, Herbert W. Robbins and Dolly III, W. W. Arnold. The latter boat was disabled during the race and the Dartwell won the race over the Clara by barely 6 minutes.

DISTRICT COURT.

Frank M. Dunbar was fined $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

CAHILL WENT TO MEET COUSIN

Has Not Been Heard from Friends Fear for Safety

The many friends of John Cahill of Washington street, Quincy Point, feel somewhat alarmed at his sudden disapearance. Cahill left Sunday afternoon, in a motor boat, bound for Boston Light, to meet a cousin named Michael Flaherty, but has not been seen since.

Some think that he has gone to visit friends. Cahill is well known in Quincy and is a member of the champion degree team of John Adams Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

BOYNTON SUSPENDED

He declared that he knew of no legal action having been started against him but refused to say whether or not any papers had been served on him.

Chester A. Boynton, the plaintiff alleges service was made on Saturday afternoon, June 22, by Deputy Sheriff Beede of Brookline and that the return has been filed.

The special meeting was presided over by Chairman William J. Colby of the standing committee as moderator who stated the findings of the standing committee.

A unanimous rising vote was taken to conduct all business of the evening legally and in accordance with the rules of the church,

Chester A. Boynton was called upon and started to read the following letter to show his cause for being present.

Wollaston, July 1, 1912.

"C. A. Boynton:

Dear Sir—I am instructed by the committee to notify you to appear before the standing committee of the Park and Downs church on Friday, July 5, 1912, at 7 o'clock in the evening to answer the charge of violation of your word to the standing committee given on the night of June 4, 1912, to the effect that you would either withdraw your name from the church or that you would cease all action or insinuations against our pastor.

"In your letter of June 11, 1912, to the clerk of the church you made known your intention of not withdrawing your name but in a few days you entered suit against the Rev. Mr. Ayers.

In view of your failure to keep faith with the standing committee and in view of the antagonism against the pastor and the church you are requested to give good and sufficient reasons why your name should not be dropped from the church roll.

"If you, or a representative of yours who must be a member of the church fail to appear the committee will take action in your absence. There will also be a meeting of the church directly following the committee meeting, at which you or a representative will be privileged to appear in your own defense.

For the committee
(Signed) C. A. Richardson,
Clerk.

Mr. Boynton then started out to justify himself in the stand he was taking and had spoken but a few sentences when he mentioned the pastor's name.

A. W. Dingwell at once jumped up on objection claiming that names should not be mentioned and personalities should be kept out of the meeting. The chair sustained this objection.

Hardly had he again started and mentioned an incident which he termed a "star chamber" proceeding when Lieutenant James B. Willson made the objection that he was not talking on the charges against him. This was sustained by the chair amid further enthusiasm.

Mr. Boynton continued and was further interrupted by objectors and hissing. Applause continually greeted the rulings of the chair.

Finally discouraged in his efforts to put his case before those present Mr. Boynton desisted, claiming that he was not being given a square deal and roundly denouncing them for applying what he termed the "gag rule."

Friends of the pastor claim their objections were justified by the fact that the questions under discussion was simply on the question of the alleged breaking of Mr. Boynton's word to the standing committee and that he should have touched solely upon this, Mr. Boynton claims he does not remember having made any such statements.

A motion was made and quickly seconded for Mr. Boynton's temporary suspension. In a standing vote that was taken the motion was carried 73 to 20 in favor of suspension.

Mrs. Boynton voted in favor of suspension and against her husband.

The intense feeling that had been aroused was shown when the majority lingered outside the church after the meeting to discuss the question, two of the members almost coming to blows.

George W. Colburn an ardent supporter of Mr. Boynton claims the latter was badly used at the meeting.

Mr. Colburn fruther claimed that Mr. Ayers has falsified regarding his age. He claims that in the registry of voters in Quincy on September 21, 1911, he gave his age as 32 when in the year 1906 at Watertown, N. Y., he swore he was 32 then. Mr. Ayers' birth certificate in Walkertown, Canada, Mr. Colburn claims shows him to be but 27.

In an interview with a Ledger representative at the time of his installation on March 29, 1910, Rev. Mr. Ayers refused to give his age but stated that he was born near Toronto, Canada, of American parents. His early education was received in a boy's school at Toronto.

Later he entered high school in Minneapolis, whither his father was called by business interests. Much of his early life was spent in travel under the guidance of tutors.

In 1900 he first preached in a mission church in the slums of St. Paul. Since then he has held various pastorates, the last three being in New York State and of the Methodist denomination.

In 1909 he felt his pastorate at Cape Vincent, New York, and took up special courses at Harvard University and Andover Theological Seminary.

Chester A. Boynton who until the present difficulties resided with his wife and Mr. Ayers on Beach street, Wollaston is at presnt living at Revere.

Mr. Boynton is financial agent for a large Boston department store and was one of the most active workers in raising funds for the new church. He recently served as president of the East Norfolk Union of Christian Endeavor.

His wife, Mrs. Boynton was Miss Helen T. Willett, daughter of Daniel H. Willett of Bromfield street Wollaston. She was a graduate of the class of 1905, Quincy High school and married Mr. Boynton on August 6, 1907. She is 26 years of age.

HORSE RAN FOR TWO MILES

Reported to Have Knocked Down Woman

AND BROKEN LEG

A horse said to belong to Jacob Goldstein of Hall place ran away Friday night and before he was captured he had knocked a woman down fracturing her leg. The horse started from East Milton shortly after nine o'clock. The animal ran down Willard street, thence into Copeland street to Brewer's corner. Here he knocked down a Mrs. Walsh who suffered a fractured leg.

This is the same horse which Harry Katz was leading when he was struck by an electric car and killed at West Quincy about a month ago.

Stars and Stripes Over Gray

New Orleans, July 6.—For the first time in history the Stars and Stripes fluttered over the Confederate Veterans' Home here. The flag raising marked the celebration of the Fourth, and was intended to reciprocate a sentiment expressed by the Edward W. Kinsley Post 113, G. A. R., of Boston, donor of the flag.

WOLLASTON'S TOURNAMENT

Post Entries Allowed in the Medal Event Today

Secretary S. B. Reed of the Wollaston Golf Club has received a number of entries for the open tournament which is being held on the links at Montclair this afternoon. Post entries are allowed, so that there undoubtedly will be a large field of players. This has been the rule ever since the club began to hold its one-day midsummer open tournaments several years ago, one event coming in July and the other in August. While the fair greens at Wollaston have suffered from dry weather, like all other courses, the putting-greens will be found in good shape.

GOOD BALL AT WATER ST. TODAY

West Quincy and Quincy A. A. to Cross Bats

Quincy base ball lovers will have a good base ball attraction at the Water street play grounds this afternoon, when the West Quincy team, champions of the Fourth of July contests and the Quincy A. A. team will cross bats.

Both teams are tuned up to concert pitch, and want this game very much so that every player wil do his prettiest to gain a victory today.

The Quincy City league is giving the people of the city a good clean article of base ball besides developing players for wider fields and greater opportunities. These facts should be weighed and appreciated towards the end of a liberal patronage.

The management is not looking for a gold mine in the enterprise. If they come out square it is as much as they expect, but they do like to see the people show appreciation of their efforts. The games are clean, above board, rowdyism is not permitted and the players are fully as much in control of the umpire as in any game of the big leagues and in many cases more so.

The game will be called at 3.30 o'clock.

MODERATOR COLBY'S STATEMENT OF WHAT HAPPENED AT MEETING

Denies Any Stormy Scene or Active Animosity by Mrs. Boynton Against Her Husband

Geo. W. Colburn Claims Boynton Was Not Treated Fairly at the Hearing

The supporters of the Rev. William B. Ayers who are in the majority, are much roused over what they term the grossly exaggerated reports published of the special business meeting held by the Park and Downs church on Friday evening.

Many claim that the meeting was conducted fairly and in a parliamentary manner and that Mr. Boynton was given ample opportunity to speak on the point at issue—the alleged breaking of his faith with the standing committee, being only shut off when he degressed and attempted to speak on other matters.

William J. Colby, chairman pro tem of the standing committee who acted as moderator of the meeting Friday, last night issued the following statement for the standing committee:

"The publication in various papers of erroneous accounts of the business meeting of the Park and Downs church held last Friday evening make it necessary that a correct and official statement of that meeting be given to the press.

Chester A. Boynton was called before the executive committee of the church to answer to the specific charge of having broken faith with the committee in an agreement made between Mr. Boynton and the committee a few weeks ago. Whatever interpretation Mr. Boynton made of the letter summoning him to appear before the committee, the fact remains that committee voted to summon Mr. Boynton before them on the one specific charge of the violation of his faith with them and that the one charge brought against him at the committee meeting was this one charge and no other.

After hearing Mr. Boynton the committee excused him from the meeting and went into private session. At this session seven members voted on the question of what action to recommend to the church body. Three voted for his dismissal and four for his suspension. The action therefore recommended to the church meeting immediately following the committee session was for suspension.

At the meeting, contrary to the reports, there was no disorder except a single attempt at hissing made by perhaps a dozen members. This attempt the moderator instantly

SCHOOL BOARD CHECKS MOVE

EXPLANATION NECESSARY

A somewhat peculiar situation exists relative to the old Wollaston school building. Some months ago the School Committee declared that the building was very unsafe and dangerous to be longer used for school purposes. It was also said that the building had been condemned by the State police as being unsafe. A new new school building was erected at a cost of $75,000 and is now in use.

The next move was taken by the City Council passing an order setting apart the old school lot as a public park to be known as Safford Park, which order was promptly signed by the Mayor. Then the City Council passed an order authorizing the Mayor to sell the old school building at auction. This order was also signed by the Mayor.

Now the school committee comes forward and in a communication states to the City Council that it is not through with the building as yet for owing to the crowded condition of the Massachusetts Fields school it may be necessary to use the old building next fall.

To many it looks as though the school committee were playing a little politics. With the new Wollaston school building and the new eight room building at Montclair which will be opened in September it is hard for the ordinary person to see just how the school committee can need the old Wollaston building. Then again if the building is unsafe and entirely unfit for school purposes it does not seem as though the school committee would care to use it. There is a nigger in the wood pile somewhere.

Those With False Alarms Keep Firemen Busy and Anxious

The alarm from Box 432 at 12.30 Saturday was for a grass fire on Furnace avenue.

Late Saturday afternoon the Wollaston apparatus went out on a still alarm for a fire on the plank walk on Newport avenue near Presidents bridge. It is not known how the walk took fire but one section was burned up.

A false alarm was rung in from Box 617 located at Squantum at 8.12 Saturday night. The Atlanntic apparatus made a quick run and on its arrival the recall was sounded.

Sunday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock the central station auto was called on a still alarm for a grass fire on Howard avenue Quincy Neck.

ONLY ONE BID FOR KISSLE MACHINE

Chief's 50 H. P. Runabout Thrown in for Good Measure

Bids were opened by Mayor Stone Saturday noon for furnishing the city with one Kissle automobile chemical engine. There was but one bid. This came from S. Scammell & Sons and was for $6,000 and included in addition to the Kissel chemical engine one four cylinder 50 horse power chiefs runabout.

SUNDAY CONCERT APPRECIATED

By Members and Friends of the Squantum Yacht Club

The first of a series of Sunday afternoon concerts was held on the broad piazzas of the Wollaston Yacht club yesterday afternoon. The occasion was a most enjoyable one and the following pleasing program by Provosts orchestra was rendered.

March—Waldmere, Losey
Overture—Southern Pastime Catline
Waltz—Over the Waves
Overture—Sunshine and showers Flath
Intermezzo—Pearl of the Pyranes, Frank
Selection—Bohemian Girl, Balfe
Waltz—The Skaters, Waldtenfal
Reverie—Apple Blossoms, Roberts
March—69th Regiment, Ham

A feature of the program was the vocal solos of Adolph Restelli who finely rendered "I'd love to live in loveland with a girl like you" and "My love is greater than the world."

The concert lasted from 3 until 6 o'clock and was greatly appreciated by the members and their guest who enjoyed the music and the cool breezes. The concerts will be continued each Sunday afternoon during the months of July and August a varied program being presented.

MERRY PARTY AT THE NECK

Miss Boutilier's Birthday Celebrated by Young People

Twenty-five couples attended the party tendered Miss Jennie Boutilier, of Rock Island road, at the Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum Saturday evening, the occasion being her seventeenth birthday. Guests were present from Quincy Dorchester, Roxbury, Brighton, Braintree, Melrose and Winthrop.

The affair took the form of a dancing party and was in order from eight o'clock until midnight.

Miss Boutilier was assisted in receiving by Miss Grace Carmes, Miss Josephine Levoie, Miss Elizabeth Boutilier and Miss Madeline Corse. The programs were given out by Gladys Sturgis and Master Chester Puppell.

Miss Boutilier was the recipient of many useful and costly presents. The matrons were Mrs. A. Boutilier, Mrs. S. Boutilier, Mrs. Walter Sturgis, and Miss Anna Wood.

There were many feature dances, including the cag waltz, surprise two step, kiss waltz, Jimmie Valentine, broom and unwelcome waltz, and forfeit game. Music was furnished by Boutilier's orchestra. Miss Boutilier is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Boutilier and is well known in Quincy social circles.

RED MEN HONOR THE DEPARTED

With Annual Memorial Service at Park and Downs Church

MANY LESSONS IN SERMON

An impressive memorial service was held Sunday evening, by the Hodenosaunee Council of the Improved Order of Red Men at the Park and Downs Congregational church in memory of their departed brothers.

Those who have passed away during the year were:

John Fox who died December 31, 1911.

Michael J. Hurley who died May 31, 1912.

A large delegation was present from the order and the auditorium was filled by the regular congregation and others.

The services were conducted by the Rev. William Bingham Ayers, pastor of the church and opened with the processional "Onward Christian Soldiers" by the vested choir.

The doxology was sung and an inspiring invocation by the pastor preceded the responsive reading. A hymn, "Father in thy mysterious presence kneeling" was sung by the congregation and the Scripture lesson taken from the second chapter of Corinthians I was read.

Following "When the day is done" a selection by the choir Mr. Ayers offered an earnest prayer asking that the true value and true estimate be put on the things of the world and that we resurrect all the goodness and nobility there is in a man.

"Hear my cry, Oh Lord" a solo by Arthur F. Capen came after the response and was followed by the choir selection "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel."

Mr. Ayers preached an eloquent sermon on "Self Improvement" taking for his text I Corinthians 2. 11. "For who among men knoweth the things of a man."

"This," said Mr. Ayers, "is the oldest question in the experience of mortals. It stands typical of every age. We may be a fallen race but we have come a long way since our first parents came to the earth.

"We have developed the trait of self examination and have grown in morality and discovered until civilization advanced.

"Man alone has power for self examination, which means self improvement. From the earliest times men have sought knowledge.

Every great movement in history has been a selfish movement. By wars man has sought to increase his territory, by revolution to lower the cost of his bread, by pushing forward into new lands to increase his knowledge of them.

"Man has sought no less to improve his character and soul. Man is placed in the world with limitless resources at hand. It is not a wilderness but a garden.

"Man's natural instinct is for self development. Man's impulses are to go better. There is a difference in the method. Some have turned to nature, others to the sea, still others have harnessed rivers to do their bidding.

"Go on! Develop and create. Apply the things of nature to your own ends and find by appropriation the purpose of divine ends.

The world fulfils its purpose only as man improves it. In its wild state it is very little use.

"Fruit and vegetables are made larger and more abundant by human agency. Man's touch has transformed the quarry into the castle. Creature power has formed man has transformed.

"We have attained through the centuries and still we keep on our upward way. We work to make life livable. Our striving makes it better, our aim makes it useful and our ambition makes it necessary.

Man is elected to finish the work God began. The threads of God's purposes and the tools are left for his use.

When men catch the meaning and true significance of this cities will cover the fields and ships dot the seas.

TEMPERATURE REACHED RECORD MARK FOR SEASON AT NOON TODAY

Hot Wave Been on the Job for 16 Days--- Rain Sadly Needed to Save Lawns and Vegetation

City Workmen and Granite Men Forced to Quit Their Labors

Although everybody knows without being told that the weather has been hot for a number of days it is perhaps not generally known that today is the hottest yet. Starting way back to the 20th of June it began to get hot. On that day at noon the temperature registered 85 degrees and it has not gone lower than 80 at noon but on two days since that time. June 27 the glass said 74 at noon and on June 22 it was 77. Every other day the glass at noon has been over 80, and for the past six days it has been over 90. Commencing July 3 with a 93 degree temperature the temperature at noon has been 91, 92, 92, 91, until today when the glass said 95.

The only thing in the way of relief is that the nights have been cool. Showers have been frequently promised by the weather bureau but none have materialized. Vegetation has suffered much from the lack of rain and unless rain soon comes many gardens will be burnt up.

Today is probably the worst feeling day of the season for not only does the temperature run high but the humidity is also high and is causing much suffering. Many of the men in the city departments quit work this morning on account of the excessive heat and in the stone sheds there are but very few working. While the stone sheds are hot it is nothing compared to the heat in the quarries and it is next to impossible for men to work in these holes.

It will be remembered that a year ago the same kind of weather was experienced although last year the temperature ran a little higher than this year. A year ago it was not until the sixteenth of the month that the temperature fell to 80, and not until the 21st did it fall into the seventies. In fact a year ago the whole month was an exceptionally hot one.

There was no noon mail delivery in all the districts of the Boston Post Office today owing to the excessive heat. The other deliveries, however, were made according to schedule.

This order by Postmaster Mansfield of course included the men at the Quincy Post Office.

ENJOYING HER RIPE OLD AGE

Mrs. Kingman, Writer and Linguist Passed the 89th Milestone

Mrs. Martha S. Kingman of 25 Maple street observed her 89th birthday Saturday and celebrated the occasion by entertaining a large number of friends. Despite her advanced years, Mrs. Kingman is hale and hearty and chatted most pleasantly with those who called and paid their respects.

She received many gifts. Mrs. Kingman was born in Weymouth, July 6, 1823, and is the daughter of Zakariah and Anna (Bates) Kingman. She attended the public schools there and later went to a private school.

She married Ebenezer Kingman December 2, 1843 of Randolph and resided there till 1878, when she moved to Quincy. Her husband died in 1877.

She is a linquist of more than ordinary ability and has frequently distinguished herself by her writings, of both prose and poetry and is a woman of cultured refinement.

Four children have been born to her, of whom three, Edward W., Charles, and Miss Anna H. are still living. She is a prominent member of the Bethany Congregational church and among those who paid their respects to her on this occasion was the pastor, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott.

$41,000,000 the national toll of imported jewels last year. Just think what a number of hungry mouths that would feed and how many idle people it would furnish with employment. And all the time it may only have been used to decorate many scrawny arms and giraffe like necks.

The wind may not at all times be desirable but it served one good trick, last week in preventing a sensational mid-air wedding. The recess committee to codify the election laws would do well to dump the whole lot overboard and recommend something, safe, sane, sensible and reasonable, that people would understand, for future operation.

The woman who coughed up the frog which had been a year in her stomach has no further excuse for croaking.

Every Ledger has been sold the past few days so that we have hardly a copy on hand for reference and the press worked over time at that. The daily circulation is forging ahead showing appreciation of the endeavors of the editor to give the people of the city good clean home news and plenty of it.

SAFE AND SANE FOURTH.

A safe and sane fourth has been demonstrated to be the very thing which the people desired to show their patriotism and yet not in such a manner that injury was possible to life and limb. It is a happy reversal of conditions which speaks worlds for the judgment and sensibility of the American people. For years, the noisy, crude, almost savage celebrations have held full sway. The death and accident toll each year were enormous. Then came the movement for a quieter observance which spread with commendable rapidity and until this year the sentiment was almost universal all over the country.

There were however a few places which still stuck to the old style. They as usual had their quota of deaths and accidents.

In the places where saner observances held sway, deaths were unknown ,accidents only of the average kind were recorded and the fire departments in many places could have just as well taken a day off, so little were their services required.

Some idea of the good results from the safe, sane and sensible celebration may be gathered from the figures which are indisputable.

The deaths of the country, for 1910, were 131, for 1911, 57 and this year, but 20. This is enough to show that the reform is reducing the number of deaths and accidents. There can be no excuse for returning to the old style.

UNFORTUNATELY TOO TRUE.

The United States heads the list of nations in the recently published international list of crime. Commander Eva Booth holds to the opinion that this is due to the laxity of punishment for offences in this country.

Unfortunately Miss Booth's contention is only too true. But we really did not require her scientific expression on the subject to be well aware of the fact. It is unfortunate that crimes in this country are not punished to the extent which the offence demands. Aside from the question of right or wrong on capital punishment, offences are not measured up to their standard in the punishment column. There is countless delay, and the more money a person has the greater chance for delay. The fellow with little money however has not much to figure on in the way of sympathy.

Then there is a maudlin coterie of busy bodies who are never happy unless in the lime light, appealing to this or that official, for clemency, or rushing in to lead some movement for the saving of this one or that one from punishment. There is another crowd who swamp the prisons with red neckties, cake, pies, flowers and other dainties for the prisoners. This class comes in for their share of newspaper notoriety.

Every one who commits murder makes a strong plea for life imprisonment. Gaining this point, it is not long before appeals for pardon come pouring into the governor.

Men sentenced for other offences also get off with light punishment. They are given long sentences. They enter upon them. Then the wife is pictured as devoted to her husband. Why should she be otherwise. They are poor she is forced to some lady like employment to maintain body and soul. The sons however stick to their college career. The husband is adjudged ill. Doctor agree he cannot live. The pardon comes. A trip to Europe. The return to health and wealth. The lawyers admit receiving an immense fee for their services. And so it is in many other cases.

Some misguided people even went so far as to make a strong appeal for the pardon of Pomeroy and about the same time, tools to be used in boring out of his cell were found in his possession.

It will not be long before the McNamara's will be pleading for pardon.

And so it goes along. The long drawn out trials are not absolutely necessary to test the merits of a case.

The Crippen case is cited as an instance of the speed with which English courts administer justice. That case certainly was one of the most cleverly handled and quickest solved, considering its apparent mystery in the history of crime.

Possibly speedier and more merited punishment may diminish crime, but the problem is how is the change to be brought about?

MODERATOR'S STATEMENT

stopped declaring it to be entirely out of order and that there must be no further instance of it. There was none. There were no cat calls, no loud talking, and no talking at all except after recognition by the chair, also contrary to the reports. Mrs. Boynton herself made no public utterance and many of the remarks attributed to Lieut. Wilson, and others, including Mr. Boynton himself, were not made.

At this meeting Mr. Boynton was given the same opportunity to appear for himself in answer to the one charge of breaking faith as he was given before the committee. Upon this one specific charge he was allowed full speech, but the moment he digressed from this one subject, he was justly called to order by the moderator, especially as his digressions invariably were personalities against members of the church not on trial at this meeting, and were not a defence of himself.

Mr. Boynton claimed that he was being deprived of the right of free speech. The moderator ruled that Mr. Boynton was not being deprived of the right of free speech as regarded the one point at issue, but that he would not be allowed to speak upon any other subject except the one under discussion.

The rulings of the moderator were according to parliamentary usage and were not made in any spirit than to conduct the meeting in an orderly and business-like manner. The rulings were as firm against any violations of the meeting by those in favor of the committee's recommendations as by those against it.

The vote of the church was 75 to 20 for the acceptance of the recommendations suspending Mr. Boynton from the church until further consideration by the committee and the church or until January 1, 1913.

This should be understood, also, the pledge made by Mr. Boynton was that he would either withdraw his name from the church or would cease all action and insinuation against the pastor and the church. He was not forced to this pledge, but consented to make the promise after the argument had been made to him how harmful it was to the whole church community for him to retain his membership with the Park and Downs and yet carry on an opposition against the pastor and the church. That is, he was not forced to an issue, but the two propositions were placed before him in argumentive form and he deliberately replied that he would, within ten days, choose between the two. In a letter to the clerk of the church he stated his decision not to withdraw his membership. Shortly after this he instituted his suit against Mr. Ayers, still retaining his membership and by that action broke his pledge to the committee.

The church took action against Mr. Boynton not because he instituted a suit against the pastor, but because he failed to keep faith with the committee and the suit happens to be the form of insinuation which Mr. Boynton adopted.

In reference to the complaints of discourtesy made by various reporters the committee wishes to state that the committee regarded the entire matter as wholly a personal one within the church and except for the wrong impression conveyed in Saturday's papers the committee would prefer not to be quoted.

For any actual discourtesy that may have been unintentionally given to the reporters by any one connected with the church the committee offers its apologies.

For the Standing Committee of the Park and Downs Church,
William J. Colby,
Chairman pro tem.

In an interview with a Ledger representative Mr. Colby further said:

"It is the feeling among a good many men of the church that the church today with all its enterprises is in reality a large Christian business institution dependent for its best work upon the harmony and co-operation existing within the body. The big majority of the church members, both men and women, are hearty believers in the integrity of the pastor Mr. Ayers, they support his pastorate, particularly after the finding of the committee of ministers of the Suffolk South Conference appointed to investigate the charges preferred against Mr. Ayers by Chester A. Boynton and others, and wish to continue their church work under the efficient leadership of Mr. Ayers.

They feel strongly that if there is a small minority in opposition to Mr. Ayers that this small minority should seek church relationship elsewhere rather than remain where they refuse to lend their support and continue in such opposition as to materially handicap the work of the church."

George W. Colburn a staunch supporter of Chester A. Boynton and one of the leaders of the opposition to Mr. Ayers is greatly incensed over the stand taken by the majority of the society and the committee.

"Every organization has its controversies," said Mr. Colburn "and it is only through discussion pro and con, followed by voting, that we are able to arrive at the best results.

"If a party has done an injustice the act will naturally meet with opposition. In a court of law both sides are given a hearing. The "steam roller" method of crushing out all opposition is fundamentally wrong in any system.

"I do not know what statement Mr. Boynton made to the committee, but I do know that he was not given a square deal before the church business meeting on Friday.

"The subjects Mr. Boynton had in mind to speak upon were on this particular point concerning his supposed pledge, but he scarcely had a chance to complete a sentence.

"Judging from recent occurrences the opportunity for a fair hearing in the future would be impossible and it will not be surprising if some move is soon made by those who oppose Mr. Ayers to ask for their letters.

A special business meeting will be held on next Friday evening directly after the regular prayer meeting. At this meeting it is understood, a change in the personnel of certain committees will be taken up as well as other business.

At the regular services Sunday morning, at which communion was observed, and at the memorial service of the Red Men in the evening no public allusion was made to the subject most on the minds of the congregation.

Before and after the services, however, discussion was rife and all voiced the wish that the present controversy would soon cease and the church go forward on the work intended for it to do.

QUIET WEDDING AT THE RECTORY

Brooklyn Man Takes Popular Quincy Girl for Bride

In the presence of a few relatives and friends, Miss Mary A. Sullivan, daughter of James A. Sullivan, of 44 Payne street, was married to H. Arthur Gendron of Brooklyn, New York, at two o'clock Saturday afternoon at the rectory of St. John's church. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Fr. John J. Coan.

The bridesmaid was Miss Nellie Desmond and the best man was Hector Gendron, brother of the groom. The bride was handsomely attired in white messaline and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. After a two weeks' honeymoon, the most of which will be spent in different parts of New York state, the newly married couple will reside at Brooklyn, New York. The bride is well known in Quincy and her many friends were pleased to hear of her marriage. She was employed for over ten years as bookkeeper in the Quincy office of the Adams Express Company.

GRASS SICKLE CUT KILLS MAN

James B. Rose Formerly of Quincy Victim of PECULIAR ACCIDENT

James Rose, of 10 Centre street, a widely known resident of West Quincy has the sympathy of a number of friends on the sudden death of his son James B. Rose, which occurred Saturday afternoon at Ware. The deceased met his death as a result of an accident in which he cut his left forearm with a sickle.

He was going to Aspen Grove Cemetery at the time to cut the grass on his family lot. On the way he met some boys who were playing ball. Not thinking of the sickle in his hand, Rose made an attempt to catch the ball and struck his forearm, severing the muscles, arteries and veins to the bone. He was taken to the Ware Hospital where an operation was performed. He seemed to rally for a while but died at four o'clock in the afternoon.

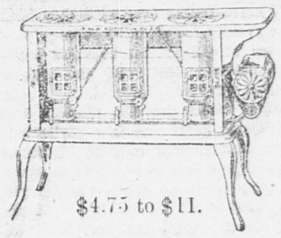

James B. Rose was born at sea, while his parents were on their way from England to America and lived in West Quincy until fifteen years old when he went to Ware to engage in the granite business. He is survived by a wife, four children, his father James Rose, of Quincy, a brother, and three sisters, Miss Josephine and Miss Amy of Quincy and Miss Mary Rose of Brockton. He was a prominent member of Quincy Lodge of Odd Fellows.

DO BUSINESS HERE AT HOME

If you are a resident of Quincy, we suggest that you patronize the merchants of your home city. Why go to Boston for goods that can be bought handily and economically here? We stand for the interests of Quincy, and like the Quincy merchants, we give our customers good value. For instance, a safety deposit box in our vault for $5 a year that would cost you $10 in Boston.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Announcements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. T. C. Martin of the Hall Place M. E. church, West Quincy, exchanged pulpits with the Rev. A. A. Wright, D. D. of Cambridge, pastor of the Atlantic M. E. church at the morning service Sunday.

Mr. Wright preached on "Jesus and the Cornerstones of revealed truth." He took his text from Paul's letter to the Ephesians 2:19-22. "Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints and of the houshold of God; And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief cornerstone, in whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord; in whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit."

Mr. Wright laid down four propositions relative to this subject:

First, "Religion is the only realm in which there are only two personalities;—God and one moral creature."

Second, "The Book is the Book of Religion."

Third, "The foundation stone—the Holy Spirit is the only infallible interpreter of the book."

Fourth, "The individual human conscience validates the interpretation of the Holy Spirit."

Sunday school met at the close of the morning service.

At the evening service the pastor, Rev. T. C. Martin preached on "A safe and sane Sunday."

On Wednesday evening, July 10th, the Ladies' Aid will hold their annual lawn party on the church grounds.

Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30.

The annual Sunday school picnic will be held Wednesday, July 17th at Ridge Hill, Hingham.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

At the Wollaston Congregational church Sunday morning the Rev. Edward Norton took for his text the first verse of the 21st chapter of Revelation,—"There was no more sea." He said in part:

"John was a prisoner of the sea, on the isle of Patmos. To him the sea was a symbol of angry power and of separation.

"In that better world there is no sea; that is, no loved one in exile, no wrench of parting. It is a land of eternal reunion, of eternal stability, the land of pleasures that are forevermore.

"It has been said, 'Live this life as you should and the next will take care of itself,' but we need the thought of heaven, to help us live this life as we should."

Following the sermon, four persons, two young men and their wives, were received into church membership.

The communion service followed.

No session of the Sunday school was held.

The Christian Endeavor consecration meeting at six o'clock was led by Miss Madeline K. Morse.

No further sessions of the Sunday school or Christian Endeavor meetings will be held until September.

Arrangements have been made to hold union services with the Baptist church during the summer. They will be held in the Baptist church on Sundays, July 14, 21 and 28, and August 4. They will be held in the Congregational church on Sundays, August 11, 18, 25 and September 1.

BETHANY CHURCH.

Communion Sunday was observed at Bethany church yesterday with the pastor, Rev. Benjamin A. Millmott in charge of the services. Preceding the communion exercises, the pastor preached a short sermon on the subject, "Who is greatest." He said in part: "Nowadays power is considered the great thing. A man of strength is the man who can control. The general idea of a man of power is one who by his various forces gathers great power to himself for the purposes of self-aggrandizement. In our Christian life, the aim is not strength or power for self but strength for service."

In illustrating his text, Mr. Willmott drew from the pages of history three examples of men who had a dominating purpose to gain power. "Over in England there was once a boy who one day was stretched out upon the grass dreaming of the future and there came to him a firm purpose to own the estate which had slipped out of the possession of his family. As the boy grew, the purpose increased in its intensity and the boy, who was fast becoming a man determined to regain control of the Hastings estate at all costs.

"As a man, with the same purpose in his mind, he was sent to India, and everything which he possessed that meant power, was sold that he might raise enough money to buy his ancestral estate. Warren Hastings was brought back to England and was impeached. The power which he had obtained, transmuted into money, failed to give him greatness and the goal which he most desired.

"Another English lad, from the county of Kent was lying on his back in the fields one day dreaming of the day when he could own his home. He was a poor boy without any very great prospects but the dominating purpose which he had enabled him to surmount, all obstacles and Charles Dickens was able not only to secure the home for his family, but could count among his friends all those who knew him personally or through his works.

"Another lad in the square of a Southern town witnessed the auction of a little slave girl and there resolved that if he should ever have it in his power to do so, he would hit that system of slavery such a blow that it would pass out of existence for ever and Abraham Lincoln as president of the United States generalled the war which freed the slaves throughout the country.

"Great power transmuted into service for others determines the greatness of a man. He is greatest who serves most. The ethics of Jesus are all that will save this country and England from anarchy. All of us can serve in some way, through our wealth, learning or some particular talent we may possess. The majority of us are without great power but if we do that which comes to our hand and do it the best we know how, each may have some claim to greatness."

The communion service followed the sermon and two new members were received into the fellowship of the church. George Edmondston, coming by letter from the First Presbyterian church, Aberdeen, Scotland, and Mr. Harold England on confession of faith.

FIRST U. P. CHURCH.

Morning topic "Our goodly Heritage." Evening topic—"Some of the dangers threatening our National Life." Mr. Grahan Patterson sang "Saved by Grace" with good effect. There will be a meeting of the corporation of the congregation on Thursday evening at 7.30 for special business.

DRAKE-GARDNER HOME WEDDING

Quincy Man Wedded to Brooklyn Girl—They Will Live in Quincy

On Sunday, July first, at one o'clock Miss Marie Frances Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Gardner of 579 Carlton avenue, Brooklyn, New York, and Harry Morton Drake of Quincy, Mass., were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the members of the two immediae families by the Rev. P. F. Barton, pastor of the Sheepshead Bay M. E. church. Miss Mabel Glenn Mates, a cousin of the bride was the only attendant.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white voile with trimmings of baby Irish lace and carried a bouquet of white lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was in white marquisette over pink and carried pink roses and sweet peas.

The Gardner home was prettily decorated with pink and white rosebuds, palms and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake are at North Weymouth for the summer. In the fall they will make their home in Quincy.—Brooklyn Eagle.

PLAYGROUNDS IN FULL SWING

Children Will Have Chance at Them Every Day

Large numbers of children turned out for the opening of the playgrounds of Wards One, Three and four this morning, under the auspices of the Quincy Playground committee of one hundred. The exercises will be conducted every morning and will begin with a flag raising. Miss Hazel Boller and Fred Kingsbury are in charge of the playground of Ward One, in back of the Coddington school.

BOATS RACE IN HOWLING GALE

Bumped Around in Rough Sea, Many Seams Started

ALL TUCKED IN REEFS

A fleet of fifty yachts took part in the annual open race of the Squantum Yacht club Saturday afternoon off the club house at Wollaston beach in a howling southwest breeze that was extremely perilous for the boats and caused the skippers to take precaution to tuck in reefs. Pumps were necessary in the case of many of the yachts on the homeward run to keep the water down in the cock pits, some of the older boats being so roughly shaken as to start the caulking, yet there were few accidents and fortunately no serious ones.

Local interest centered largely in the Cape Cat class and class S boats. In the former class all of the boats were reefed, as no mortal could hold them down with the high wind and full sail. Commodore Whittemore in the Dartwell lead the fleet over the course and was a winner with ex-Commodore Robbins, Clara second, and Rear Commodore Crane in the Iris third.

In class S the Maritza was an easy winner. The other Quincy boats to race were the Wanderer, F. E. Daws in class A, Eleanor, W. L. Jefferson who won the race in class C, and the Dorchen 11 in class 1. A. W. Finlay who won the second position in his class.

GUARANTEE NOT IN SIGHT

Orients Left Field in Seventh Inning, With Score a Tie

The Orients played seven innings to a tie with the Farley A. C. at Brookline Saturday the score being 3 to 3. In the fourth inning Manager Cremins notified the manager of the home team that he desired the guarantee to be paid at the end of the seventh. Failing to see the color of the money the Orients left the field.

The Farley A. C. is composed of high school players and the contest was interesting from start to finish.

The features of the game were the playing of both pitchers, Shay and Bradley and the hitting of Cremins. The score by innings.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Orients	0	0	2	0	0	0	1			—3
Farley A. C.	1	0	0	0	2	0	0			—3

Batteries—Orients—Bradley and Ciardi; Farley A. C. Shay and McAnarney.

—The Pittsfield Journal makes a strong point when it says: "About this time a great army of possible $1,500-and-more-a-year men become $2-a-day men, because they haven't either the price, the faith, or the grit to stick to school a few years longer."

RED MEN HONOR DEPARTED

"Man has a purpose for his existence. He should make the most of his opportunities. Inventors have been teaching us for many years to make use of the means at our disposal. We need great thoughts as well as great things.

"Man's body is a temple that is not to be ignored or neglected. We must keep it pure and invigorated. We must not pervert it with evil.

"How important it is to keep it growing in strength and beauty, active in good things, into an example of well formed humanity.

"Your lodge is only another answer to the human question of how to make the most out of life.

"In your lodge charity should not be the cause but effect of certain fundamental principles.

"Your lodge should promote the true spirit of benevolence and charity, wholesome principles, fraternal council and social intercourse."

A hymn, choir recessional and benediction by the pastor closed the service.

DISTRICT COURT.

Thomas Smith of Quincy was arraigned for drunkenness and for creating a disturbance on the street cars at Braintree. He was fined $10 for drunkenness and the case for disturbance on the cars placed on file on payment of five cents fare to the street railway.

Michael Carr and Charles Balzarni were fined $3 each on account of costs for drunkenness at Quincy.

Anna L. Blackstrom was arraigned for alleged statuatory offense at Quincy. Case continued until Wednesday on $100 personal recognizance.

The continued case of John F. Welch for violation of the automobile law at Weymouth was called. He was found not guilty and discharged.

The continued case of Alfred P. Olson for operating an automobile at Quincy while under the influence of liquor was heard. He was found guilty and fined $25.

HIGH SCHOOL SYSTEM SCORED

Rural Grade Students Fail to Meet Grades

REPORT NATIONAL EDUCATORS

Condition a Menace to Educational Progress—"Country Child Is a Neglected Child"—Teaching of Scientific Farming and Fruit Growing Recommended—Teachers Are Bookish, Scholastic and Abstract

Chicago, July 8.—The little red schoolhouse is so "unattractive" that "more than two-thirds of the 12,000,000 pupils in the rural public schools fail to reach a high standard in their studies."

That condition was described as a menace to educational progress, and as one of the reasons why the country child looks longingly toward the city, in a report submitted before the National Council of Education. The council met preliminary to the opening here today of the fifteenth annual convention of the National Education association.

The conditions surrounding the traditional "little red schoolhouse" were described as so deplorable that the council considered a plan to have the national association employ an expert to investigate and report on rural districts.

E. T. Fairchild, state superintendent of public instruction, Topeka, Kan., and James Y. Joyner of Raleigh, N. C., declared that "the country child is the neglected child and the country schoolhouse a neglected schoolhouse."

They said the importance of rural education was shown in the fact that of the 20,000,000 school children in the United States 12,000,000 attended country schools, yet less than one-third of the rural pupils were able to meet their grades.

The teaching of scientific farming and fruit-growing, with special reference to local conditions, was recommended as an incentive to renewed interests in rural education.

A. J. Matthews, president of the state normal school, Tempe, Ariz., said he believed Arizona had solved the rural school problem by a law which allows any rural school with eight pupils or more to draw on the state for $1000 annually.

"Too many pupils are being turned out of the public schools without any knowledge of how they are going to make a living," was the substance of a report submitted by J. A. Shawan, superintendent of schools at Columbus, O., on "The Educational Progress of the Year."

High school education throughout the United States was branded as "generally bookish, scholastic, abstract and inadequate to meet the practical problems of life," in a report submitted to the national council of education. The report, based on investigations conducted in twenty-five states indicates that school teaching is just where it was thirty years ago and that this backwardness is due to the plan of high school to prepare pupils "for college and universities rather than for life," "the whole trouble with our high schools education," declared David Felmley, president of the state normal school, in reading the report, "is that it is regarded too much as merely a preparation for the university. Instead of dealing with the problems of life today the students are taught to deal with the language, policies and customs of fifteen centuries ago. Nearly all of the high school teachers are college graduates who have no adequate knowledge of affairs outside of colleges. Their teaching is, therefore, bookish, scholastic and abstract.

"We need a change of aim in high school teaching, a look in the direction of the farm, shop and home. While we do not recommend an education entirely vocational, we urge a departure from the college idea.

"We also think more attention should be given to the training of teachers from among high school pupils," concluded Mr. Felmley. The conclusion of the committee that more progressive methods should prevail in high schools, was based on inquiries among 120 normal institutions, all of which reported that high school pupils who wanted to teach usually had not been adequately prepared for their work.

BARRE HAS A TORNADO

Which Unroofs Buildings and Floods the City

Barre, Vt., July 8.—Wind, rain and lightning combined did damage estimated at $25,000 in Barre and vicinity. Lightning struck a business block tearing a hole in the roof. The high wind gained hold under the roof as a result of the aperature and unroofed the building. The damage to the building and stock was estimated at $10,000.

The Episcopal rectory was also unroofed, and several other buildings were damaged, while a deluge followed the windstorm. Hen coops and doors were washed down the main thoroughfares. Telegraph and telephone wires were carried down with the falling trees. The sewers were unable to carry off the flood.

Two women were struck by one of the falling trees and received severe injuries. Many other people had narrow escapes from the same fate.

Shot Fired as Industrial Workers' Meeting Adjourns

Boston, July 8.—Shooting and stabbing followed the close of the protest meeting over the arrests of Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, Industrial Workers of the World leaders, which was held in Faneuil hall last night.

For the first time in its history a shot was fired within the famous Cradle of Liberty when, over the heads of the assembly, a bullet sped at a group of officers attempting to make an arrest, skimming Sergeant Horton's breast. Policeman John Fox of the City square station was stabbed in the head. The arrival of police reserves prevented the meeting closing in open riot.

Luigi Galleani, who was one of the speakers, stood on the lower step and urged the crowd not to attempt to rush the hall. "Use sense. Use sense. Get back," he cried. The action of Galleani prevented serious trouble.

HANFORD WITNESSES AFRAID

Fear Their Business Would Suffer If They Appeared

Seattle, July 8.—In the Judge Hanford inquiry case, Charles Peterson, a timber and coal land dealer, testified that several times he had seen Judge Hanford apparently under the influence of liquor.

"There is no question in my mind that the man was very drunk," he said. Peterson said he begged that he be not brought into the case as his business probably would be affected.

One witness said that he had been told at the conference by Representative McCoy that the "lawyers of the city were apparently afraid to go ahead and say anything" regarding Judge Hanford, and "that there ought to be some people in Seattle who would have the courage to come forward to testify."

Chairman Graham requested the newspapers to print the committee's request that anyone having material evidence should present it so that when the committee left Seattle it could not be said that an opportunity had not been given for such testimony. Mr. Graham, after referring to the difficulty of obtaining evidence, said the sub-committee had come to seek incriminating evidence and if enough incriminating evidence were found, to recommend impeachment of Judge Hanford.

FOUR VESSELS IN COLLISION

Two Liners Collide and Another Rams Battleship

FORTUNATELY NO LIVES LOST

Steamer Commonwealth Rams Battleship New Hampshire—Bunker Hill and Commonwealth Collide Off Point Judith—First Liner Puts In at Newport—Other Two Make New York and Boston

Boston, July 8.—Fog early yesterday morning was responsible for two serious collisions, in which three of the largest and most modern passenger liners plying New England waters were put out of commission and panic and loss of life averted only by the excellent discipline of the crews involved and the coolness of the officers.

In Newport harbor the Fall River liner Commonwealth, Captain Apleby, with nearly 1000 passengers aboard, about 4.30 rammed the United States battleship New Hampshire, Captain Oliver, and both vessels were badly damaged, the war vessel being saved by the stout armor plate.

The Metropolitan line steel steamer Massachusetts, Captain Colberth, bound from Boston to New York, rammed her sister steamer, the Bunker Hill, Captain Hawes, off Point Judith, at 1:30 a. m., and tore a hole eighteen feet high and fifty feet wide in her upper works. The Massachusetts' bow was stove in and she proceeded to New York leaking badly.

Misunderstood signals are given as the cause.

Pasengers on the Bunker Hill were thrown from their berths and inclined to be panicky, but their fears were quieted and the vessel continued to Boston.

The prow of the Commonwealth crashed into the battleship's stern, cutting into her body above the protective deck. The stem of the Commonwealth went through the after compartments of the gun and berth decks, completely wrecking them. The captain's after cabin and the blower room beneath it were also splintered and shattered to bits.

The light bulkheads in the after compartments were torn away. All this was found out, of course, after the divers had had a chance to get down and see the extent of the damage.

Quick action by the officers and men on board the Commonwealth saved a panic, and all were assured that there was no danger, and that within a few moments all would be landed in Newport.

Upon arrival at Newport the damage to the Commonwealth was found to be rather more extensive than was at first thought. It was found that a hole eight feet, or more, long was stove in her starboard side, near the prow. The guard rail was pulled away, and the bow flagpole was tilted to starboard. It was found also that the steel hull of the big ship was dented and torn, the bow fender was turned, and the steel plates below the water line were crumpled and crushed like paper.

The sheathing of the starboard topsides of the Bunker Hill were ripped off from a point just aft of midships for fifty feet, laying bare the chief engineer's stateroom, the barber shop and main dining hall. The steel plates were crumpled up like paper.

Passengers on both steamers were panic stricken. Women rushed about the decks, scantily clad, and life preservers were donned.

The officers succeeded in bringing about order in a short time and both vessels proceeded on their respective courses, the Massachusetts to New York and the Bunker Hill to Boston.

A large number of the 700 passengers on the Bunker Hill, many of whom are from Boston, afterwards signed a testimonial recognizing the effective work of Captain T. Edward Hawes and the officers of that vessel.

All Organized Labor In Greater Boston May Quit

Boston, July 8.—A general strike if organized labor in Boston and its vicinity may be called to support the striking Elevated railway employes.

At its regular meeting yesterday afternoon the Boston Central Labor union unanimously passed resolutions directing its executive board to consider the advisability of such action. This board is to report its findings either at a special meeting of the Central Labor union or at its regular meeting two weeks hence. It is authorized to call a special meeting if it deems it necessary.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FRUIT WATER ICES.

WATER ices made with fresh fruit are the most acceptable of summer desserts.

As a few turns of the vessel every five minutes will do in making ices it is not necessary to have a freezer to make them. They can be prepared in a tin pail, which may be whirled around in the vessel containing the ice and salt.

Water ices are made like ice cream except that water takes the place of cream in their composition and they need less turning to bring them to the right consistency.

Here are some recipes for fruit water ices given according to the directions of a French chef:

Cool and Wholesome.

Pineapple Ice.—Put a pound of lump sugar in a saucepan. Add to it a pint of water and boil for ten minutes. Meanwhile peel a sufficient amount of pineapple to weigh just three-quarters of a pound when peeled. Place this in a mortar and pound to a fine paste. Then add to it the juice of a large lemon freed from pips and strained and the boiled sirup. Mix very thoroughly and rub through a fine wire sieve. Freeze and turn out carefully.

Made With Berries.

Currant and Raspberry Ice.—Put a pound of sugar in a saucepan. Add a pint of water and bring to the boil; continue boiling for ten minutes. Meanwhile rub one and a half pounds of red currants and a quarter of a pound of raspberries through a hair sieve into a clean basin. Add to it the juice of two lemons, freed from seeds and carefully strained, a few drops of either cochineal or carmine coloring and half a pint of cold water.

Mix all together and add the boiled sirup. Mix again, strain through a fine strainer into the freezer and when three parts frozen place it in fancy molds. Leave for two hours and then turn out and serve.

Plain raspberry ice may be made by substituting a pound of ripe raspberries for the combined currants and raspberries.

Peaches or Apricots.

Apricot Ice.—Rub six or eight ripe apricots through a fine sieve. Crack the stones and take out the kernels. Place these in a mortar, add to them a dessertspoonful of orange flower water and pound them to a paste. Mix them with the apricot pulp and reserve.

Place a pound of the best sugar in a clean saucepan. Add to it a pint of water, bring to the boil and continue boiling for ten minutes. Then add the juice of two large lemons carefully strained, half a pint of cold water and the apricot pulp. Mix, strain into the freezer and when three parts frozen put into molds. Peaches may be used instead of apricots.

SOME TEMPTING MUFFINS.

MUFFINS are nice to eat with fruit. Just try them with berries or a baked apple. They will be found to be just as delicious as when served with tea, as the English prefer them.

The muffin recipes given here will serve to illustrate this fact:

Fruit Muffins.

Huckleberry Muffins.—Take two and a half cupfuls of sifted flour, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, two beaten eggs, melted butter the size of an egg, a large pinch of salt, one cupful of huckleberries. Mix sugar, flour, baking powder, salt, add milk, then eggs and last add berries, slightly floured. Bake twenty minutes in moderate oven.

Light and Dainty.

Raspberry Muffins. — Take a half pound of sifted flour, one-half cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt. Add gradually three-fourths of a cupful of sweet milk and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Add the yolks of two eggs and beat the mixture thoroughly. Now take two teaspoonfuls baking powder and the well beaten whites of the eggs. Have ready, washed and dried, one cupful of raspberries. Sprinkle with flour and put into muffin batter. Bake like ordinary muffins.

Cream Muffins.—Take the yolks of two well beaten eggs, a pint of flour, three-fourths of a cupful of cream, the whites of the two eggs beaten stiff, a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, a half teaspoonful of soda and a half teaspoonful of salt. Mix these ingredients, fill the muffin pans with the batter and bake. Serve very hot.

With a Cereal.

Rice Muffins.—Take two cupfuls of boiled rice, two cupfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a cupful of milk and three eggs. Mix the rice with the milk and eggs and mash free from lumps. Sift the flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together and stir with the rice to make a smooth, thick batter. Grease the muffin pans, but do not heat them. Fill two-thirds full and bake in a quick oven.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By

GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. He helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

CHAPTER XVII.

Wherein Mrs. Comstock Possesses the Limberlost.

THEY shook hands, and Sinton went down the road, while Mrs. Comstock entered the cabin. She went to the supper table, but she could not swallow food. Then she heard the front screen. She reached the middle door as Elnora touched the foot of the stairs.

Elnora closed the stair door behind her and for the first time in her life threw the heavy lever which barred out any one from downstairs. Mrs. Comstock heard the thud and knew what it meant. She reeled slightly and caught the doorpost for support. For a few minutes she clung there, then sank to the nearest chair. After a long time she arose and, stumbling half blindly, she put the food in the cupboard and covered the table. She took the lamp in one hand, the butter in the other and started for the spring house. Something brushed close by her face, and she looked just in time to see a winged creature rise above the cabin and sail away.

"I got to go where they are if I get them," muttered Mrs. Comstock.

She hurried into the cabin, set the lamp on the table and stood thinking deeply. She went to the barn for the pair of stout high boots she used in feeding stock in deep snow. Throwing the boots by the back door, she climbed to the loft over the spring house and hunted an old lard oil lantern and one of first manufacture for oil. Both of these she cleaned and filled. She listened until everything upstairs had been still for over a half hour. By that time it was after 11 o'clock. Then she took the good lantern from the kitchen, the two old ones, a handful of matches, a ball of twine, and went from the cabin, softly closing the door. She skirted the back of the garden, crossed a field and came out on the road. Soon she reached the Limberlost. She hunted until she found the old trail, then followed it, stumbling over logs and through climbing vines and grasses.

By and by she began to see the wavering flight of something she thought near the right size. She had no idea where she was, but she stopped, lighted a lantern and hung it as high as she could reach. A little distance away she placed the second and then the third. Something large as a small bird was fluttering around. Mrs. Comstock began to perspire, while her hand shook wildly. She began to pray aloud.

"This way, oh, Lord! Make it come this way! Please! You know how I need it! Oh, Lord, send it lower!"

The moth hesitated at the first light, then slowly, easily it came toward the second, as if following a path of air. It touched a leaf near the lantern and settled. As Mrs. Comstock reached for it a thin yellow spray wet her hand and the surrounding leaves. When its wings raised above its back, her fingers came together. She held the moth to the light. It was nearer brown than yellow, and she remembered having seen some like it in the boxes that afternoon. It was not the one needed to complete the collection, but Elnora might want it, so Mrs. Comstock held on. Just there the Almighty was kind or nature was sufficient, as you look at it, for following the law of its being when disturbed, the moth again threw the spray by which some suppose it attracts its kind, and liberally sprinkled Mrs. Comstock's dress front and arms. From that instant, she became the best moth bait ever invented.

Moths were coming. She had one in each hand. They were not yellow, and she did not know what to do. She glanced around to try to discover some way to keep what she had, and her throbbing heart stopped and every muscle stiffened. There was the dim outline of a crouching figure not two yards away, and a pair of eyes their owner thought hidden caught the light in a cold stream. Her first impulse was to scream and fly for life. Before her lips could open a big moth alighted on her breast, while she felt another walking over her hair. All sense of caution deserted her. She did not care to live if she could not replace the yellow moth she had killed. She set her eyes on those among the leaves.

Pete Corson parted the bushes and stepped into the light.

"Oh, it's you!" said Mrs. Comstock. "I might have known! But you gave me a start. Here, hold these until I make some sort of bag for them. Go easy! If you break them I don't guarantee what will happen to you!"

"Pretty fierce, ain't you!" laughed Pete, but he advanced and held out his hands. "For Elnora, I s'pose?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Comstock. "In a mad fit I trampled one this morning, and by the luck of the old boy himself it was the last moth she needed to complete a collection. I got to get another one or die."

"Then I guess it's your funeral," said Pete. "You dig for that kind, and they are not numerous, so's 'at you can smash 'em for fun."

"Well, I can try to get one, anyway," said Mrs. Comstock. "I forgot all about bringing anything to put them in. You take a pinch on their wings until I make a poke."

Mrs. Comstock removed her apron, tearing off the strings. She unfastened and stepped from the skirt of her calico dress. With one apron string she tied shut the band and placket. She pulled a wire pin from her hair, stuck it through the other string, and using it as a bodkin ran it around the hem of her skirt. Her fingers flew, and shortly she had a large bag. She put several branches inside to which the moths could cling, closed the mouth partially and held it toward Pete.

Pete slipped several more moths into the bag.

"Now, that's fine, Mrs. Comstock," he said. "I'm sorry, but you'll have to make that do. You must get out of here lively. Your lights will be taken for hurry calls, and inside the next hour a couple of men will ride here like fury."

"Well, I'll see them make me go," said Mrs. Comstock. "I've got Robert's revolver in my dress and I can shoot as straight as any man if I'm mad enough. Any one that interferes with me tonight will find me mad a-plenty. There goes another!"

"We are close to the old case," said Pete. "I think I can get into it. Maybe we could slip the rest in there."

"That's a fine idea!" said Mrs. Comstock. "They'll have so much room there they won't be likely to hurt themselves, and the books say they don't fly in daytime unless they are disturbed, so they will settle when it's light, and I can come with Elnora to get them."

They captured two more, and then Pete carried them to the case.

"Here comes a big one!" he cried as he returned.

Mrs. Comstock looked up and stepped out with a prayer on her lips. She could not tell the color at that distance, but the moth appeared different from the others. On it came, dropping lower and darting from light to light. As it swept near her, "Oh, heavenly Father," exulted Mrs. Comstock, "it's yellow! Careful! Pete, your hat, maybe!"

Pete made a long sweep. The moth wavered above the hat and sailed away. In its flight it came straight toward Mrs. Comstock. She snatched off the remnant of apron she had tucked into her petticoat band and held the calico before her. The moth struck full against it and clung to the goods. Pete crept up stealthily. Another moth followed the first, and the spray showered the apron.

"Wait!" gasped Mrs. Comstock. "I think they have settled. The books say they won't leave now."

"Now, shall I?" questioned Pete.

"No. Leave them alone. They are safe now. They are mine. They are my salvation. God and the Limberlost gave them to me! They won't move for hours. The books all say so. Oh, Heavenly Father, I am thankful to you, and you, too, Pete Corson! You are a good man to help me. Now, I can go home and face my girl."

Elnora had sat by the window far into the night. At last she undressed and went to bed, but sleep would not come. She had gone to the city to talk with members of the school board about a room in the grades. There was a possibility that she might secure the moth and so be able to start to college that fall, but if she did not, then she wanted the school. She had been given some encouragement, but she was so unhappy that nothing mattered. Yet Margaret Sinton had advised her to go home and try once more. Unable to sleep she arose at last, and the room being warm, she sat on the floor by the window. The lights in the swamp caught her eye. She was very uneasy, for quite 100 of her best moths were in the case.

She hurried down the stairway softly calling her mother. There was no answer. She lightly stepped across the sitting room and looked in at the open door. There was no one, and the bed had not been used. Her first thought was that her mother had gone to the pool, and the Limberlost was alive with signals. Pity and fear mingled in the heart of the girl. She opened the kitchen door, crossed the garden and ran back to the swamp. As she neared it she listened, but she could hear only the usual voices of night.

"Mother!" she called softly, then louder, "Mother!" She returned home. The time was dreadfully long before she heard her mother's voice.

Mrs. Comstock entered, dragging her heavy feet. In one hand she held the lantern, and in the other, stiffly extended before her, on a wad of calico, reposed a magnificent pair of yellow Emperors.

The girl shrank back to the shadows.

"Yes, anywhere inside the door," replied Mrs. Comstock as she moved a few steps to make way for him. Pete's head appeared. He set down the moths and was gone.

"Thank you, Pete, more than ever woman thanked you before," said Mrs. Comstock.

She placed the lantern on the table and barred the door. As she turned Elnora came into view. Mrs. Comstock leaned toward her and held out the moths. In a voice vibrant with tones never before heard she said, "Elnora, my girl, mother's found you another moth."

IT MUST BE TRUE

Quincy Readers Must Come to That Conclusion.

It is not the telling of a single case in Quincy, but scores of citizens testify. Endorsement by people you know bears the stamp of truth. The following is one of the public statements made in this locality about Doan's Kidney Pills.

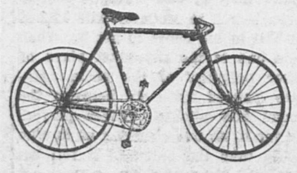

Charles J. Somers, barber, 17 Newcomb street, Quincy, Mass., says; "It is a pleasure for me to tell of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, for the benefit of other kidney sufferers. This remedy worked wonders in my case. Lame back and weak kidneys bothered me for ten years and nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. The promptness with which this remedy cured me was astonishing. My strength and energy was restored and my health improved one hundred percent. I shall always endorse Doan's Kidney Pills when I have the opportunity." (Statement given September 2, 1908.)

A LATER ENDORSEMENT.

On August 9, 1911 Mr. Somers was interviewed and he said: "I am only too pleased to verify my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. I still take this remedy occasionally and it keeps me in good health."

CONDITIONS AT LAWRENCE

As Seen by United States Labor Commissioner

NOT PECULIAR TO THAT CITY

Situation Amounted to a "Social Revolution"—Highest Wages Seldom Exceeded $12 Per Week—One-Third Employes Are Females—Unskilled Laborers Were Unorganized—Half Population Depended on Mills

Washington, July 8.—The Lawrence strike of last winter, the subject of a hearing before the house committee on rules, which attracted the attention of the country from one end to the other, amounted to a "social revolution," in the opinion of Commissioner of Labor Charles P. Neill in a report forwarded to the senate in response to a resolution introduced some weeks ago by Senator Poindexter of Washington.

While Commissioner Neill makes few comments on the situation which led to the strike in the mills operated by the American Woolen company, the acts he discloses leave no doubt as to the conditions in Lawrence. The report shows the higest wages paid the ordinary operatives when the mills ran at full time seldom exceeded $12 a week; while one family of a father, mother and three children had to live on the father's earnings of $5.10 a week.

The facts tell how mothers had to farm their children out during the day in order that husband and wife might earn enough to keep the family in the bare necessities of life. The children usually began working at 14 years of age. Of the employes 55.4 percent were males and 44.6 percent females.

After describing the demands of the operatives, who asked the same pay for the fifty-four-hour week going into effect under the Massachusetts law on Jan. 1, that they had received for the fifty-six-hour week, the report says:

"No adequate conception of the meaning and the permanent social consequences of the doctrines promulgated during the period of bitter struggle can be had without some comprehension of the spirit and sentiment that animated the leaders and some of the strikers. The circulars and posters widely distributed during the strike indicated the spirit that lay behind the struggle."

Most of the strikers, the report points out, were non-English speaking, who had been without method of dealing with their employers. The unskilled laborers were unorganized and had no way to voice their protests.

"It naturally followed," writes Commissioner Neill, "that when they broke out in a hastily planned and more or less violent protest against a reduction of their wages, they were ready to follow any leadership that gave them effective direction and furnished them financial resources for the struggle."

Commissioner Neill and his associates found that one-half the population of Lawrence, 14 years old and over, was employed in the mills or dependent on them.

Lawrence has a population of 85,892, and there are 60,000 persons dependent on the mills. The allied crafts among the English speaking operatives had a total of only 2500 members, when the strike broke out, while the Industrial Workers of the World has a paid-up list of 300 members. Thus there were less than 3000 union operatices in Lawrence.

Continuing the report says:

"The actual economic condition of the families of the workers of the textile mills of Lawrence cannot be easily pictured by a mere statement of individual earnings. It is obvious from the figures that the full earnings of a large number of adult employes are entirely inadequate to maintain a family. Thus the full time earnings of 7275 employes, or about one-third of the total covered in this investigation, are less than $7 a week. Of the 7275 earning less than $7 a week, 5294 were over 18 years old and 36 percent of the 5294 were males.

"These wages, however, are not peculiar to Lawrence. The wages of the textile workers in that city are not lower than in most other textile towns. The plain fact is that the textile industry, as far as earnings are concerned, is in a large part a "family industry." It gives employment to men, women and children.

"The normal family of five, unless the father is employed in one of the comparatively few better paying occupations, is compelled by necessity to supply two wage earners in order to secure the necessities of life.

"In studying the Lawrence strike, wage data were secured from payrolls for 21,922 textile mill operatives, or one-third of the total number of people in Lawrence 14 years old and over. The average rate of wages for the 21,922 textile mill employes was 16 cents per hour, approximately one-fourth (23.3 percent) of the total number earned less than 12 cents an hour, and almost one-fifth (20.4 percent) earned 20 cents and over per hour. The average amount actually received by the 21,922 employes during a week late in 1911 in which mills were running full time was $8.76. Almost one-third (32.2 percent) of the total number received less than $7 during the week, and approximately one-half as many (17.5 percent) received $12 and over during the week."

FATHER STANDS HELPLESS

As Three of His Daughters Are Drowned In His View

Amesbury, Mass., July 8.—Wading off a sand-spit directly into the deep ship channel of the Merrimac river, Christina, 15; Hazel, 11, and Virginia MacBeth, 13, three sisters, were drowned withing sight of their father and home shortly before the noon hour yesterday, and Miss Ethel Fowle alone was saved through the presence of mind of Elizabeth MacBeth, who went to her aid in a rowboat.

The victims were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley MacBeth, residents of the Point Shore district of Amesbury, that section near the Newburyport line. The father of the MacBeths stood on the opposite bank and saw the disaster, unable to aid.

OUIMET'S 72 UNTOUCHED

Big Field in Open Medal Play of Wollaston Club

CAMPBELL RUNNER -UP

Francis Ouimet's 72 in the open medal play handicap at the Wollaston Golf Club Saturday was six strokes better than his nearest gross competitor, T. F. Tully. They were the only golfers to get around the course in gross figures better than 80 out of a field of 90 starters.

Ouimet won the gross and tied at 69 for the net with Joseph A. Campbell of Wollaston, whose 82 for a 13-handicap golfer was a fine performance. Ouimet elected to take the gross.

Ouimet drove some terrifically long balls from the tee, the longest of which came at the 17th, 310 yards. There Ouimet drove within eight feet of the cup. His card:

CAR MUCH BATTERED

S. L. Durkee of East Braintree had a narrow escape from a serious accident on Hancock street, near the corner of Bridge street Saturday evening. He was coming up Hancock street in a runabout at a moderate rate of speed and when near the corner of the two streets his stearing rod broke causing him to lose control of the car. The result was that the car went toward the sidewalk striking a hydrant a glancing blow, yet sufficient to break it of and send a stream of water into the air which made a running river of the street gutter until the water department men arrived and shut it off.

The car was quite badly damaged. One wheel was knocked completely out, another had its spokes taken out and a third was in bad shape owing to the springing of the front axle. As soon as the accident happened Mr. Durkee ran back to the street railway car barn and notified the water department by telephone. An employee of the department was on the scene in a few minutes and shut off the water Had the car ben going fast Mr. Durkee would have been seriously injured.

BRIEFS

THE CONTEST A MEMORY GEM

Quincy A. A. and West Quincy Hold High Carnival of

ERRORS AND LOOSE PLAYING

The Quincy A. A. team was defeated by the West Quincy team at the Water street playgrounds, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 10 to 8 after every one thought the former had the contest tucked away for keeps.

The game as a whole was an illuminating spectacle.

As an historical exhibit of the National game it can be handed down as a memory gem for future ball tossers to conjure with.

Quincy A. A. was first at the bat and Keohane was given a pass, advancing to second on a poor throw of Pitipitt. Ryan and Duggan struck out. Hoxie laced the ball to deep left field which Duggan misjudged by four rows of apple trees, Keohane scoring, Hoxie being credited with a two bagger, but was left on second as Cunningham struck out. For West Quincy Duggan struck out, Mannix batted to Delaney and died at first. O'Connell singled to left field, stole second and was left as Mulligan batted to Kelly and was an easy out at first.

Second inning—Byron made a good stop of McCarty's hot bounder, but spoiled by a poor throw to first, McCarty going down to second on the play and advancing to third on a passed ball. Boyle struck out. Delaney was given a life, Hebert batted to Mannix who threw Delaney out at second. Byron fumbled Keohane's bounder. A wide throw to the plate sent McCarty in, but he would have been out but Kelly dropped Pitipitt's throw. Ryan flew out to O'Connell. For West Quincy, Desmond batted to Boyle and was out at first. Byron flew out to the catcher. Malone singled to right field but was caught at second on Pitipitt's hit to Boyle.

Third inning—For Quincy A. A. Duggan singled between first and second, was advanced to second and third on Hoxie and Cunningham's sacrifices to Kelly and Mannix, and was left as McCarty was out at first on Mannix's throw. For West Quincy, Kelly batted to McCarty who fumbled. Duggan sacrificed Hebert to Cunningham but was left on second as Mannix fouled out to Pitipitt and O'Connell flew out to Ryan.

Fourth inning—Quincy A. A. went out in one, two, three order. Boyle batted to Mannix and Delaney to Maloney, both dying at first and Hebert struck out. West Quincy broke the ice in this period. Mulligan singled over second, and was advanced to second on a passed ball and romped home on McCarty's fumble of Desmond's bounder, the latter doing down to second on the throw to the plate. Byron sacrificed Boyle to Cunningham, advancing Desmond to third where he stayed as Malone flew out to Hoxie and Pitipitt batting to Hebert made the third man out.

Fifth inning—Byron and Maloney of West Quincy changed places in this inning. For Quincy A. A. Keohane was given a pass, reached second when Byron dropped Pitipitt's throw, advancing to third on Ryan's out down the first base line and scoring on Duggan's three bagger over short stop down to the tall grass near the center garden. Hoxie contributed a single over third, scoring Duggan. Cunningham singled by first. Cunningham got two far off second, and Kelly getting behind him with the ball in his hand forced Hoxie to beat it for home and he was thrown out at the plate. Cunningham made the third man out on McCarty's fielders choice. West Quincy took the lead in this session. Kelly drove the ball over third for a single, went to third on Duggan's hit over short stop and scored on Mannix's long fly which was taken by Ryan. Duggan in the meantime was advanced by a wild pitch, and scored on Mulligan's single over short stop, after O'Connell had struck out. Keohane dropped Desmond's long fly and Mulligan scored. Byron batted to McCarty who kicked the ball in his effort to get it. Then came one of the skyrocket plays or rather misplays of the game. Maloney popped up a fly between the second and pitcher. Three players run for it, no one coaching as to who should take the ball and it fell between the three of them as Desmond pranced home. Pitipitt batted to Boyle and was the third man out at first, leaving Byron and Maloney on bases. The whole team batted in this inning.

Sixth inning—For Quincy A. A. Boyle was given a base on balls. Delaney struck out. Hebert singled over third, but was caught on second on Keohane's bounder to Maloney. Ryan batted to Kelly and was retired at first. For West Quincy Kelly drove the ball to the brook in left field for three bases, scoring on Keohane's muff of Duggan's fly. Mannix singled over third. O'Connell singled to left. Mulligan flew out to Keohane. Desmond batted to Boyle who touched third putting out Mannix and then snapped the ball to second, in time to catch O'Connell, executing a double play.

Seventh inning—Duggan opened for Quincy A. A. with a three bagger to left field. Hoxie flew out to Duggan, the other Duggan scoring on the play. Cunningham batted to Maloney and died at first and McCarty flew out to Maloney. For West Quincy, Byron flew out to Keohane. Maloney batted to McCarty who fumbled. Boyle fumbled Pitipitt's bounder and they both scored on Kelly's drive to left field which was good for two bases, but in the effort to stretch it to three, Kelly was caught at third on the throw of Keohane. Duggan flew out to McCarty.

Eighth inning—Quincy A. A. had a chance to score but failed to seize it. Boyle batted to Byron who fumbled. Delaney batted to Mannix who threw Boyle out at second and Delaney was saved from being doubled by Byron's poor throw to first by which he reached second. Hebert batted to McCarty and Delaney was caught at third. Keohane batted to Mannix who fumbled, but no damage resulted as Ryan flew out to Mulligan. West Quincy added one more to its score. Mannix singled to left, and reached second on Keohane's error, third on O'Connell's out Hebert, Cunningham and scored on Mulligan's single. Mulligan advanced to second and took third on a passed ball, but was left there as Desmond struck out and Rooney who batted for Byron flew out to Keohane.

Ninth inning—Duggan opened the last inning for Quincy A. A. by striking out. Hoxie sent a triple to deep center. Cunningham batted to Mannix who threw wide to first and Hoxie scored. McCarty struck out. Boyle got first on an error took second and third on a wild throw of Rooney and scored on Delaney's double to left field. Hebert batted to Kelly who threw to first and the skyrockets were ended.

Respectfully represents Adelaide M. Tupper of Cambridge, County of Middlesex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, that she is the owner in fee simple absolute of a certain piece or parcel of land in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, aforesaid Commonwealth, called Wollaston, being lot ten (10) in block three (3) as shown on said plan of said section drawn by D. Granger & Son and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, at the end of Book 403, and bounded and described as follows:—Northeasterly on Central Avenue, seventy--five feet; Southeasterly on lot number nine in said block one hundred and twenty-five feet; Southwesterly on lot eight in said block seventy-five feet; and Northwesterly on lot eleven in said block one hundred and twenty-five feet. Containing 9413 square feet. Being premises conveyed to your petitioner by deed of Lafayette G. Blair dated October 21, 1886, and recorded in Norfolk Deeds, Book 584, page 82.

That your petitioner upon the 21st day of October, 1886 conveyed by mortgage deed, for the alleged consideration of one dollar et al, the said estate to Clifford A. Luce, guardian of Emily W. Luce and Mabel R. Luce of Rochester, New York; that your petitioner at the same time gave a note of even date signed by her for the sum of two hundred dollars payable in five years; that the record title is encumbered by said mortgage; that your petitioner has during all this time and still holds full absolute, open undisputed and uninterrupted possession of the said premises under claim of right in fee simple absolute. Said possession being for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time limited in the mortgage for full performance of the condition thereof. Said mortgage is recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 584, Page 83.

That the said defendants never have nor do they now exercise any right in said premises.

That your petitioner has done no acts in recognition of the mortgage note or mortgage deed since it became due.

That the Statute of Limitations bars action as against both the mortgage note and mortgage deed.

WHEREFORE your petitioner prays that the said mortgage be discharged and for such further relief as the Honorable Court may deem proper.

By her Attorneys,

POINT RAISED THAT MAYOR HAS NO VOICE IN SEWER ASSESSMENTS

Councilman Abele Springs a Surprise at the Meeting of the City Council

Brief Session, But Much Important Business Transacted

A regular meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening and it is the last meeting probably until September as when the Council adjourned it was to the call of the President. Monday night's meeting was a short one although considerable business of importance was transacted. Among the important matters disposed of was the passage of the order appropriating $80,000 for a new twelve room brick school building with assembly hall at South Quincy. Another order passed was that appropriating $1,000 to complete a small section of paving on Hancock street, Atlantic.

Councilmen Forde, Gilliatt, Mahoney, Studley and Sandberg were absent.

RAISED NOVEL POINT.

A communication was received from the Mayor returning without his approval, order No. 237, relative to assessments for main sewers His reasons for vetoing the order were as follows:—

"Order No. 237 is hereby returned without my approval. I withhold my approval from this order because I desire to take the matter up with the council and believe the subject matter of this order should receive further consideration before the adoption of such an order."

Councilman Abele who offered the original order for the special Committee on Financial investigation raised a fine point. It was that the Mayor had nothing to do with the approval or disapproval of the order. He claimed that under the special sewer act it was provided that the City Council should fix the amount abutters should pay for the construction of the main sewer and that the Mayor had no part in it.

President Hobbs turned to the City Solicitor saying that the point raised was one that he was not prepared to rule upon.

City Solicitor McAnarney said that the question raised was a new and novel one. It was also a very important one and should not be passed upon quickly or after a five minutes' consideration. He should want time to consult the act as well as the charter for the point raised was an entirely new one. If the communication was laid on the table it would do no harm as he could give his ruling at the next meeting.

Councilman Abele said that it was nothing that the Mayor had to do with and that the matter was already a law as it had been passed by the Council.

City Solicitor said that if the contention of the Councilman was correct then it would do no harm to have the matter laid on the table as sewers

COLLECTOR CHILDS GIVES INTERESTING FIGURES

Amounts Collected by City for Each Month Shown at a Glance

Poll Tax Payers Made a Good Record During the Month of June

One of the most interesting documents issued from City Hall this year was given out by Tax Collector Child this morning. It is a very concise table and gives at a glance the several amounts collected by the city through the Tax Collectors office by months during the present year to July 1. The report shows that the total collections of his office to date have been $222,230.46 of which something like $199,580.67 was for taxes and accrued interest. The table also shows that during the month of June $7,674 in poll taxes for the current year were collected.

A somewhat similar table is published every month in the City Auditors and Treasurer's statement but that statement only gives the amount of taxes in the several years collected and not the amounts for street sidewalk and sewer betterments.

THERMOMETER IN RECORD AVIATION JUMPED TO CENTURY MARK TODAY

Brief East Wind Offered Temporary Relief But the Agony Was Soon Renewed

Workmen in Many Parts of the City Forced to Quit Their Jobs

The temperature which has been flirting about the nineties for the past few days took another jump today and at 11 o'clock the thermometer at Pettingill's store registered just an even 100 degrees which is a record breaker for this year. One day last year it reached 101

The morning was unusually hot and sultry There was scarcely a breath of air and it was almost suffocating Everybody had the same story that it was the "hottest yet." Shortly before noon the wind backed around to the east for a few minutes and the relief was instantaneous. It was but a brief respite however for shortly after it was again from the southwest quarter and the heat producing wave was working overtime to make life a burden for humanity in general.

Everywhere the lack of rain is felt. Monday afternoon a shower threatened, but while rain and electrical storm made their appearance in some parts of Massachusetts, Quincy did not partake of the cooling shower.

Men at work on the highways and in the trenches, carpenters on roofs and workmen performing labor where they are exposed to the full glare of the sun, were forced to quit work this forenoon.

LEG SEVERED NEAR HIP, JOSEPH CRYAN DIED SOON AFTER

The Exact Cause of the Accident a Mystery Which Officials Try to Probe

Tragedy Happened in Effort to Start Disabled Car

Joseph Cryan aged about 35 years of Dysart street, employed as day dispatcher at the street railway car barn died at the City Hospital about 11 o'clock Monday night the result of an accident earlier in the evening on Hancock street by which he was run over and his left leg severed just below the hip.

Just how the accident happened has not as yet been determined and the street railway officials are busy today trying to unravel the mystery.

As near as can be learned the Weymouth Landing car due in City Square at 6.25 o'clock became stalled on Hancock street just north of the car barn Mr. Cryan took another car from the barn and acting in the capacity of motorman ran the car down the upward track to the disabled car and for the passengers to change cars.

When the relief car reached the disabled car it is said that he shifted the trolley but neglected to throw the controller lever, which reverses the direction of the current, so that when the power was turned on the car would go in the opposite direction from that intended.

He then went to the rear of the car to see that all was right and the motor man was given the signal to go ahead. The result was that owing to the north controller lever not having been thrown off the car when given the power backed instead of going forward as it should have gone. The result was that before he could get out of the way he was knocked down and the heavy truck passed over his left leg which was completely severed.

Rev. William J. Duffy and Officer O'Neil of the Metropolitan police were on the car and they rendered what assistance was possible. The passengers on the car however especially the women became excited and jumped from the car and fainted.

One of the motormen ran to the car barn and summoned the police ambulance which made a remarkable quick run. The unfortunate man was taken to the City Hospital being accompanied by Rev. Fr. Duffy and the police. At the City Hospital he was placed on the operating table and his injuries dressed by Dr. Walter L. Sargent, Dr. F. Ramon Burke and Dr. D. B. Reardon Cryan was conscious up to the time he was placed on the operating table and conversed with Fr. Duffy. He died from the shock however shortly before 11 o'clock.

His wife was notified of the accident and hurried to the hospital where she was allowed to see her husband. Later when he began to get so low she again visited the hospital but was not allowed to see him. Finally one of the nurses told her that he had died and Mrs. Cryan immediately collapsed and had to be attended by the hospital attendants.

All last evening officials at the street railway car barn tried to learn how the man was but were unable to learn anything from the party who answered the telephone as they were directed to telephone Dr Sargent. It was however late before he could be connected with.

Mr. Cryan has been in the employ of the street railway for a number of years and was looked upon as a very efficient official and a man who was bound to soon rise to an important position in the street railway business. He was for several years night dispatcher at the Quincy car barn and a few weeks ago was promoted to day dispatcher. He leaves a widow and three children two sons and a daughter

MR. BOYNTON MAKES ANSWER TO STATEMENT OF MR. COLBY

Claims Friendly Members of Standing Committee Not Notifed of Friday's Meeting

According to Figures One-Half the Congregation in Receptive Mood

The possibility of a new church, composed of those not in favor of Rev. William B. Ayers as pastor of the Park and Downs church, was the answer, last evening, of Chester A. Boynton to the invitation conveyed in Chairman Colby's published interview that those in opposition to Mr. Ayers should seek church relationship elsewhere.

"Fully 75," declared Mr. Boynton, "are dissatisfied with conditions at present and about 40 are in active opposition." Mr. Boynton termed the statement of Chairman Colby an "uncalled for invitation to get aboard the band wagon or get out."

That the movement for a new church is underway with 40 members behind it was the declaration of Mr. Boynton. Mr. Boynton further stated that about 45 had signed a petition to have the complete findings of the Suffolk South Association of ministers regarding Mr. Ayers made public.

Mr. Boynton claims that the records of the June meeting were incompletely and erroneously kept in as much as his statement that the Suffolk South association made findings other than those given out to the public were not mentioned.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

If the weather man does not come across with some rain soon, the big interests will have further excuse for boosting the price of vegetables and possibly ice, claiming that the heat is shrinking the latter commodity, while burning up the former

J. Bruce Ismay is given a fine coat of whitewash by English investigating board, while the Cosmos Duff-Gordon's are not mentioned.

McVeagh and Andrews are fighting it out at long range. Get together gentlemen, form a union and apply for intervention by an arbitration board.

Air navigation is not such a novelty as in its first stages, so that people do not flock so readily to witness the performances.

The date of agreement on one subject by Mayor Fitzgerald and the Boston finance commission some weeks back should have been marked as a red letter day in the calendar.

The contest at the Park and Downs church is getting interesting.

How long is Boston to stand for the dragging apart on purely political and personal grounds of the Mayor and finances commission, handicapping public business?

A group of people in Rogers park, Chicago the other day felt the hair raised from their head from some unknown cause. The average boy and girl after a recital of ghost stories in passing a cemetery at night has often had the same experience.

It does not appear to be all harmony in the state democratic camp over the gubernatorial nomination.

What a fine ballot the people would have in November if every one who felt like starting a new party could get a list of candidates on the ballot.

Jim Nugent deposed boss of New Jersey and Gov. Wilson are to hold a peace conference. It would seem as if the Governor would have to swallow hard to accept the support and friendship of a man who called him "a liar and ingrate."

Abstain from alchoholic stimulant and meat diet, take a cold sponge bath daily, and don't hurry, worry or flurry in a word just keep cool and you will be better off while this hot wave lasts.

Complaints come from all quarters of women spoiling nice white dresses and skirts from contact with tar on the streets. White shoes also come in for their discoloration.

T. R. is credited with being satisfied with the third party arrangement so far. Oh joy. If that is true it is the first time he has expressed satisfaction over anything for a long time.

AN EXPLANATION NEEDED.

The action of the Quincy school board in notifying the City Council that the old Wollaston school may be needed to meet congested conditions at the Massachusetts Fields school this fall, calls for some explanation from that body.

The mere announcement that the building is needed for the purpose suggested is not sufficient to clear the atmosphere at this time. If this building is really needed then it would seem that the new building failed to meet all the demands and another school building is needed in that locality.

Undoubtedly the school board has good reason for its message to the City Council.

But there are other considerations which enter into a discussion of the situation.

The City Council committee gave a hearing to people interested in the abolition of this building and the establishment of Safford park on the school lot, and nearby land.

The sentiment favoring such an action was almost unanimous on the the part of those attending the hearing. The members of the school board must have been aware of the proposed action. They probably had some idea of the desires of the petitioners and the intentions of the City Council committee. If such was the case, and they needed the building it seems only reasonable to assume that a representative of that body could have attended the hearing and laid the facts before those interested.

The need of the school to accommodate an overflow from the Massachusetts Fields school undoubtedly was fully as apparent at that time as it is the present day.

Yet so far as can be learned no effort to enlighten the City Council as to the needs of the school board were made until action had been taken towards the removal of the school. If as is claimed the building has been condemned for school purposes by the state building inspectors then to make it tenentable would surely require some expenditure of money.

As the building can only be of temporary use any way, it is a question if this expenditure would be warranted in view of events as they stand. If the necessity of the building for overflow purposes is needed now, then the same necessity it seems must have been as prominent when the first consideration of the removal of the building was underway.

In view of the whole condition, and from an impartial and unbiased overlook of the situation, it would seem that some explanation from the school board is needed to clear the atmosphere and disabues the minds of the citizens of any wrong impressions which they may have gained.

TRIO OF NAMELESS OBJECTS.

A French paper publishes a story purporting to tell of "three men prominent in Paris Society," deciding by a game of cards which should have the combined resources to enter upon a campaign to win the widow of one of the wealthy Titanic victims. The name of the woman is bodly used but the names of the three alleged men are suppressed. Those three namesless objects, they cannot be called men, to characterize them as such would degrade manhood and lower every honest conception of the title, pooled their $3,000 and sat into a card game. The winner to make the trip, for the "Conquest of a woman." A manly occupation indeed. The agreement calls for the payment of 1,000,000 francs by the winner to each of his kennel mates.

If it comes to America it should be given the reception it richly deserves. The door of every honest person should be shut against such a creature. However society may kowtow to foreign and impecunious bearers of noble names with ignoble instincts, even the meanest gorveller to title should feel in duty bound to close the door against such as described, and if by letter of introduction. entrance is sought the bearer should be shown to the kennels in whatever part of the American estate they may be located.

The husbands of those women showed themselves in every sense of the word to be high minded, noble, self sacrificing gentlemen who faced the danger calmly with a heroism unparalelled. It should be the duty of living American gentlemen to save them intrusion from such as the French paper mentions.

ISMAY EXONERATED.

The report of the British board of investigation into the Titanic disaster is about as flabby a document as one would care to peruse. Ismay is cleared of any responsibility and lauded for his consideration of those on the steamer. His consideration must have been of the negative type as he took good care to save himself, without knowing if there were any women who might be rescued. The English lord and his dressmaker wife are not mentioned in the report to be submitted but the sailors, are made the scape goats because they did not return to pick up people floating in the water.

The men in those boats were responsible according to the orders they received for the lives of those in the boat which they manned. Accepting the situation as it really is, without diving too deeply into the wells of sympathy those men were only performing the duty assigned them. Then again they were English sailors in the presence of a higher caste of their countrymen and if report is true, paltry money was offered by those blue bloods to preserve their lives without regard to the poor strugglers in the water. In case of trouble arising from the sailors following out any humane intention they may have felt, let us pause and consider in view of this white washing of really reprehensible people what would have been the condemnation poured upon the head of those poor simple sailors. The board may give Ismay as deep a coat of white wash as it desires, but that will not militate against public opinion, which is the same today as it has been from the first.

LEDGER STORY APPRECIATED

Capt. Wardwell Expresses His Views on Handling of Celebration

Quincy, July 6th, 1912.
Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

Allow me to congratulate you upon your complete and correct account of the July 4th Celebration. It is a matter of great satisfaction to know that at last we have in Quincy a reliable up-to-date paper that is rapidly coming into line with the best papers of the day. And I wish to assure the present Editors of the Ledger that their efforts are appreciated.

And while we must appreciate the hard work done by the staff of the other Quincy Daily paper I would defy anyone to get a very comprehensive idea from the account of the Celebration as published.

I do not know who reported it or where they got their news but this I do know that any school boy would not have called the float that Hodenosaunee Tribe of Red Men had in the parade. "The Death Scene of Capt. John Smith," history tells us that Capt. Smith died a peaceful death. The representation was the "Saving of Capt. John Smith by the Indian maiden Pocahontas." And in the list of prize winners there were a great many mistakes. We realize that getting correct items is hard work, but I do know that the Editor of any paper should not draw on his imagination too much when it comes to local news.

Again thanking you for your splendid edition of Friday's Ledger I have the honor to be,

Yours sincerely,
Capt. G. A. Wardwell,
Chairman Parade Committee,
Quincy July 4th Association.

A CORRECTION.

Editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger:

The item in Saturday's Ledger in regard to the divorce case of Norrie vs. Norrie was evidently furnished by some person partial to the libellant and is absolutely misleading. In justice to my client, Mr. Norrie, I know that you will gladly make the correction.

A divorce was asked for alleging the statutory offence, cruel and abusive treatment, and failure to support. Judge Fessenden, before whom the case was tried, made the positive finding which is a matter of record, that there was no evidence of the statutory offence, or failure to support, and said that under no circumstances would ae allow her alimony for which she asked. Mr. Norrie then withdrew further opposition and the decree nisi was made on the simple ground of cruel and abusive treatment. This, however, was not done until the libellant had returned certain property of Mr. Norrie's which she had taken and until she had also signed the following agreement which is on file and which speaks for itself:—"I, Ethel P. Norrie of that part of Quincy in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, called Wollaston, hereby covenant, promise and agree that I will properly care for and bring up my infant daughter Pauline Elaine Norrie so long as she is confided to my care, custody and control by the court: giving her suitable education and training; and I further covenant, promise and agree neither to do anything, or allow anything to be done to prejudice said Pauline Elaine Norrie against her father. John Norrie. It is also agreed that the father may see the child at all reasonable times."

You will oblige me by making this correction.

George W. Abele.

MR. BOYNTON'S ANSWER

In reply to Chairman Colby, Mr. Boynton gives out the following statement: "Granting that the church today is in reality a large Christian business institution, it would seem that it should have for it's head a Christian minister who is working at all times for the success of the institution and its members, instead of spreading by methods which would not be tolerated by Tammany Hall itself, strife and dissension among those members; who does not bear the reputation of having been dismissed by two previous churches for good and sufficient reasons and who places the work of the Master ahead of all other considerations.

"The meeting on June 4, before which I was called, was not a regularly called business session, as admitted by Mr. Ayers, who was present. Two of the members of the standing committee who are known to be personal friends of mine had not been notified at all that there was to be a meeting. They were Mr. Matchner and Mr. Barstow, the latter the church treasurer.

"I recognized the whole affair as one of spite, due to the institution of my personal suit against Mr. Ayers, the pastor.

"While there were but twenty votes against suspension at the meeting Friday night, there are over fifty members who have always been loyal supporters of the church, many of them being charter members who shouldered the burdens of the church in years past when the members were few and the work difficult. These members are now contemplating withdrawing in a body and forming a new church. It is the direct result of what we consider the uncalled for invitation from William J. Colby for us all to get aboard the band wagon or get out.

"I wonder if the committee that is keeping brotherly supervision over Mr. Ayers as a result of the trial before his fellow ministers has been consulted in this last move. Doubtless Mr. Colby, before asking us to shut up or get out, conferred with the committee having charge of Mr. Ayers' affairs and conduct. If he didn't he probably ought to have done so."

Just how the numbers stand regarding the split hardly anyone cares to say. It is evident by the figures however that the entire voting strength of the church by no means made itself felt on Friday evening.

It is estimated that there were 120 at the meeting Friday evening. Of these 75 voted for and 20 against Mr. Boynton's suspension.

Of those present 25 did not vote. The church membership at present totals 199. On those figures 79 of the members stayed away from Friday's meeting and 104, more than half the membership have not made known their stand on the question under discussion.

CRAP SHOOTERS GET IN TROUBLE

It is Charged They Have been Offending in Other Ways

GOODHUE AFTER 35

Through the efforts of Inspector Alfred W. Goodhue and a detail of police officers, thirty-five young men, between the ages of 14 and 25 years, will be hailed into court this week on complaints that have been issued. Abouth three o'clock Sunday morning, inspector Goodhue and police officers, lay in wait at the Water street ball grounds, to survey the actions of the young men, who, it is alleged, have caused much damage in the line of destroying property, and stealing from stores and people.

Early Sunday morning it is said the disturbers in question invaded the ball grounds and started in by shooting craps. A number of them were caught while others managed to get away. Inspector Goodhue made inquiries and successful in securing the names of 35 who were implicated. He has secured complaints against them and expects to have the entire gang in court this week.

CHOIR AND ALTAR BOYS

On Outing to Nantasket as Guests of Pastor Grady

Twenty-two altar boys and thirty members of the choir of St. Mary's church, were treated to an outing at Nantasket today by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Henry T. Grady. The party left Quincy this morning at 9.30 in a special car.

The assistant pastor, Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy accompanied the party. The program consisted of a shore dinner, followed by games and sight seeing. It is expected that the party will arrive home about seven o'clock this evening.

15 CHILDREN CONFIRMED

Interesting Service at Finnish Congregational Church

A class of fifteen, nine girls and six boys, received the rite of confirmation at the Finnish Congregational church at seven o'clock Sunday evening. The rite was administered by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Lillback.

The church was taxed to its capacity with parishioners for the occasion. Greenery and flowers were conspicuous in the decorations. Special music was rendered by the choir.

Previous to the services, the children to receive confirmation had all been examined. A sermon, appropriate to the service was preached by the pastor, after which the conferring of diplomas took place.

The parents of the children all read verses to them at the close of the service and presented them with gifts.

CITY COUNCIL

were being constructed all the time. If however it was not right it would work harm if it should be allowed to pass without consideration.

It was voted to lay the order and veto on the table for further consideration.

WOLLASTON SCHOOL BUILDING.

A communication was received from the Mayor returning the communication from the School Committee relative to the use of the old Wollaston school building. In his communication he stated that the Council had passed orders setting apart the lot as a public park and to sell the old building at auction. He would like some information from the Council as to what it wanted him to do with the communication. The communication was laid on the table.

LICENSE APPLICATIONS.

A number of applications for minor licenses were received and laid on the table until later when Councilman J. R. S. Ross offered orders granting the licenses which were adopted.

The Committee on Licenses reported orders granting minor licenses which were adopted.

REPORTS.

The Committee on Health reported ought to pass on the order for $300 for cleaning brooks.

Councilman C. A. Ross offered an amendment making the amount $150 and charging the same to the Excess and Deficiency Fund. Order as amended adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light Co., a relocation for poles. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported a substitute order for the order appropriating $32,000 for water extensions making the amount $15,000. Ordered to a second reading.

The Finance Committee reported a slight amendment to the borrowing clause on the order for $1,000 to complete the paving on Hancock street. Order passed, Councilman Abele voting no.

FINANCIAL INVESTIGATION.

"The special committee appointed under Order No. 13 to whom were referred certain deficit bills of the year 1911, having further considered the same beg leave to make the following partial report:

Among the deficit bills referred to this committee earlier in the year were three bills contracted for expert services in connection with the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. for the abolition of grade crossings amounting in the aggregate to $1,200, the principal one being that of the expert engineer amounting to $800. Although we are informed by the City Auditor that bills had been rendered for these sums by the several parties and approved by the former Mayor, only one could be found, and we therefore did not consider it proper to recommend their payment at that time. Bills have since been rendered and approved by the City Solicitor. The last services were rendered by the engineer about one year ago.

No satisfactory reason was given why the matter was not promptly called to the attention of last year's Council when the bills were rendered. We say this, not in the spirit of antagonism, but in all fairness to the parties rendering the services and to the city itself. When a bill is withheld for such a length of time, justly, or unjustly suspicion attaches to it. We have no reason however to doubt that the services were rendered as stated and we believe that the bills should be paid for the reasons as stated in our previous report on deficit bills.

Another matter to be considered in this connection is the fact that the City Council of 1908 made two special appropriations aggregating $2,500 for expert services, being for this particular purpose. the money to be expended under the direction of the Mayor. As this was a specific appropriation for a specific purpose it would seem to have been the duty of the executive not to exceed the appropriation. If however, he later considered it necessary to expend more money forthat purpose, he should have asked the City Council as he had done before. for further sum and this undoubtedly would have been given if the facts warranted. The contracting of indebtedness in excess of the appropriation was a usurpation of legislative function by the Executive that should be condemned.

Accompanying the report was an order appropriating $1,218.88 to meet the deficit bills above referred to, the sum to be charged to the supplementary tax receipts of 1911 received in 1912. The order was adopted.

On motion of Councilman Craig the report of the Finance Committee on the order for rebuilding Independence avenue was taken from the table. The question was on acceptance of the report of the committee which was ought not to pass. The report of the committee was rejected.

Councilman Craig then offered an amendment to the order adding the borrowing clause for $8,000. Read and placed in the calendar.

Councilman Murray offered the following resolution which was adopted:

"RESOLVED, that when application is made for extension of water service either through private property or unaccepted streets, whereby the returns to the city through payment for water used will not be equivalent to six per cent, interest on the cost of such extension, the individual or individuals making such application shall be required to sign an agreement guaranteeing to the City of Quincy an amount equivalent to six per cent. per annum on cost of such extension, said agreement to be in form as per attached copy."

The agreement blank was in conformity with the above resolution.

ORDERS.

On motion of Councilman Richards Rule 1, was suspended and it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be subject to the call of the President.

The order appropriating $80,000 for a new school building in Ward Three took its second reading the rules were suspended and the order passed to be ordained.

GARBAGE APPROPRIATION.

Councilman Cunningham asked for the Chairman of the Board of Health to appear before the Council.

When he appeared the Councilman asked Chairman Teasdale in regard to his appropriation for garbage. If it would be sufficient to last the balance of the year, to which the Chairman replied he did not think so.

Councilman Cunningham then asked how much of his appropriation had been expended.

Chairman Teasdale replied that he could not tell off hand. Had he known that he was to be asked that question he would have looked up the figures.

Councilman Cunningham then asked if $4,000 had already been expended thus far this year if the $2,000 remaining in the appropriation would be sufficient for the next six months. Chairman Teasdale said he hardly thought so.

He was then asked if he had taken up the matter with the Mayor and he replied no.

The Council adjourned at 9.17.

CHARITABLE WORK PLANNED

By the Martha Society of the Finnish Church

A meeting of the Finnish Woman's Society otherwise known as the Marthas, will be held this evening at the Finnish Congregational church. The organization was formed some time ago, with the prime object of performing charitable work for needy Finnish people. The pastor has outlined the policy and work of the organization.

A special meeting of the same society will be held Saturday, for the purpose of arranging for a social entertainment the proceeds of which will be devoted to the interests of poor Finnish families.

ARCHBALD IS DENOUNCED

By Entire Judiciary Committee of House of Representatives

Washington, July 9.—Chairman Henry D. Clayton of the commitee on judiciary of the house of representatives, presented to the house thirteen articles of impeachment against Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the United States court of commerce. Mr. Clayton's report was unanimous from his committee.

"The conduct of this judge has been exceedingly reprehensible and in marked contrast with the high sense of judicial ethics and probity that generally characterizes the federal judiciary," the comittee says in summing up its findings of misbehaviors in office against Judge Archbald. His business transactions while a judge on the bench were held to unfit him for further service on the bench and a resolution was presented impeaching and haling him for trial before the United States senate.

"Your committee is of the opinion that Judge Archbald's sense of moral responsibility has become deadened," said the report. "He has prostituted his high office for personal profit. He has attempted by various transactions to commercialize his potentiality as judge. He has shown an over-weening desire to make gainful bargains with parties having cases before him. To accomplish this purpose he has not hesitated to use his official power and in such he has degraded his high office and destroyed the confidence of the public in his judicial integrity. He has forfeited the condition upon which he holds his commission and should be removed from office by impeachment."

ICE CREAM CARNIVAL

1200 Little Folks Buried Their Faces in Cones

One of the enjoyable features of the Ward Six Celebration of the Fourth was when over 1,200 children received ice cream at Headquarters. They especially enjoyed it because it was all theirs and their smiling faces made it particularly enjoyable to those who waited upon them. For over an hour and a half a steady stream of children came in one door and went out another, keeping ten ladies continuously serving and three men keeping the line in order. Many of the children reported having lost their tickets but that was no bar to their receiving their cream.

PLAGUE PRECAUTIONS

Ordered by Government Along the Atlantic Coast

Washington, July 9.—A newly discovered case of bubonic plague was reported to the public health service from Santruce, Porto Rico.

Every Atlantic and gulf port is enforcing strict precautions against the spread of bubonic plague into this country. They were directed, in view of the plague outbreak at Havana and Porto Rico, to confer with the city health officers and urge the collection, examination and destruction of rats, especially on the waterfront. Flea-infected rats and the most common means of spreading the plague.

Orders went to Havana to commence thorough fumigation of all vessels bound for United States ports.

DEATH OF MRS. DECKER

Former President of General Federation of Women's Clubs

San Francisco, July 9.—Mrs. Sarah P. Decker of Denver, former president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, died in San Francisco following an operation for intestinal trouble.

Mrs. Decker, who was the widow of Judge Decker of Colorado, was before her marriage Sarah Platt Chase. She was born in Nashua, N. H., about fifty-four years ago. Her father was Edwin Chase, a great temperance advocate, who was known as the "fighting and praying deacon." Her mother was Maria Adams. Mrs. Decker spent her early childhood and girlhood in Holyoke, Mass. She then lived for a time in New York and went to Denver in 1887 and immediately became prominent in civic affairs.

She was a member of the D. A. R. and W. R. C. of Colorado. She was well known in New England, having attended many club conventions in that section and in 1904 she made an official visit to all of the New England states.

CALL NATIONAL PROGRESSIVES

For National Convention In Chicago Aug. 5

SICKELS SUPPORTS TEDDY

Telegram to William Allen White Is Illustrative—Call Signed by Representative Men of 40 States—College Men, Editors and Politicians Join—Three Democrats Among Signers

New York, July 9.—Roosevelt headquarters made public here a long telegram which Colonel Roosevelt sent to William Allen White at Emporia, Kas., the first paragraph of which reads:

"Our appeal nationally is, of course, to all men of progressive principles, regardless of past party differences. The action locally must be guided by the needs of the local situation. In any state where there is no real Republican party I am entirely content that the local organization should call itself by the title of Progressive Democratic if that is the local desire and if they support the national progressive electors. Where, as in New York, New Mexico and Colorado, the local organizations of both the Republicans and the Democratic parties are hopelessly boss-ridden and reactionary, then we must have a straight progressive ticket from top to bottom, independent of both the old parties. Where, as I understand to be the case in Kansas, South Dakota, California and other states, the local Republican organization is progressive and represents the principles for which we stand, I hope that they will be able to make the fight locally for good government in whatever effective organizations they have."

A call to the people of the United States who are in sympathy with the "National Progressive movement" to send delegates to a national convention to open in Chicago Aug. 5, has been given out by United States Senator Joseph M. Dixon, Theodore Roosevelt's campaign manager. The call is signed by members of the committee chosen at the meeting held at the close of the Republican convention in Chicago, and also includes signatures of Roosevelt followers in forty states, as follows:

Alabama, Oscar R. Hundley.
Arizona, Dwight B. Heard.

SNAPPY STYLES.

Color Contrasts that Bring out Lines, and make for Becomingness, Frills, Plentiful as Wave Foam, Universally Worn...

Surely never before did the girls have such a chance to look their prettiest for the straight silhouette which remains fashionable is varied endlessly in all sorts of becoming ways. With the new wrinkles in coatees, sashes frills and pipings it's an easy matter to so change the aspect of a last year's gown that its own maker would fail to recognize it.

CONTRASTS IN COLOR.

Color contrasts and the mixing of odd materials are carried to the limit of combination seemingly and then there are others. Pipings and facings and bands of odd colors bring out the lines of a costume or turn a trying sombreness of hue into stunning becomingness. No one need hesitate to select black, brown, or gray, because it does not accord with one's coloring. White accessories at the neck, and a dash of blue, yellow, red or lilac will make anything right if judiciously used, also no shortage of material need appall the home maker, when contrasts are the smart note in up-to-date fashions.

NEW COMBINATIONS.

Skirts of combination lingerie have such a way of riding up that the new corset covers that finish with slim knickerbockers confined at the knee promise to be almost universally adopted by Fall. Some made of white China silk, and thin pongee, are especially comfortable when the thermometer soars to distressing heights.

FRILLS AND FRILLS.

If you don't quite know how to change or improve the appearance of your coat, suit or blouse study some of the frills that have broken loose like an epidemic, and find the kind that suits you. There are frills wide, narrow, flat, flaring, plain, trimmed, pleated, ruffled, adjusted in every variety of line. Coats have a frill on both sides of the front opening, that flares out toward the face, or lies meekly down on the outside like continuous narrow revers. Sleeves of all sorts have these same finishes, draperies are edged with them, hats use them for brims, crowns, and upstanding trimmings. They add a touch of grace and becomingness to any rig if you apply them discreetly and are sure that they are fresh and dainty for surely nothing is more unattractive than a mussy frill.

Grinnell, all of Providence; Second district, Stanley Curtis, East Providence; Third district, John E. Carney, Pawtucket.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

TOMATOES USED WHOLE.

TOMATOES look better if they can be served whole. If they are to be used raw, scald and peel at least an hour before they are to appear on the table. Then keep them on ice until time to use.

Large firm tomatoes are the best. Choose those that are well colored. They have a more decorative appearance when served on a layer of lettuce leaves.

A Nourishing Dish.

Tomatoes and Nuts.—Cut a slice from the stem ends and scoop out the inside of ten large tomatoes. Put the pulp into a basin, add to it two ounces of butter, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, half a pound of nuts boiled and grated and season all with pepper and salt. This should be of the thickness of cream. Fill the tomatoes with the mixture and serve either hot or cold.

With Many Ingrediants.

Tomato Surprise.—Take four tomatoes of equal size, two tablespoonfuls of cold pounded fish, a tablespoonful of chopped cucumber, half a teaspoonful of minced parsley, salad cream, or, if that is not available, moisten with oil and vinegar. Cut the tomatoes in half crosswise and scoop out the centers, being very careful to preserve their shape. Put the tomato pulp into a basin with the finely pounded fish, the chopped cucumber and parsley and blend all with salad cream, or, if that is not obtainable, moisten carefully with oil and vinegar. Fill the cup with this mixture, stand each on a curled lettuce leaf on a dish and serve.

Baked Tomatoes.

Tomatoes and Peppers.—Take tomatoes of uniform size, wash them and cut off the tops. Take out the pulp and add to it enough breadcrumbs to stiffen it and a green pepper chopped very fine after the seeds have been thrown away. Season with salt, pepper, a dash of sugar and a teaspoonful of melted buttter. Put this mixture into the tomatoes, set them in a greased pudding dish, sprinkle lightly with sugar, cover and bake fifteen minutes. Then uncover and bake for fifteen minutes more.

Tomato Trifle.—Use tomatoes of equal size. Cut them in halves and scoop out the centers. In each one break a fresh uncooked egg. Dust with salt and pepper and cover each with a spoonful of white sauce, then with grated cheese. Put in a hot oven and bake till the eggs are set.

FILLETS OF BEEF.

THE fillet is a strip of beef generally taken from under the section of backbone included in the rump and sirloin. It is removed whole when it is to be used for a fillet.

The short fillet is the part from the rump; that from the sirloin is called the long fillet.

The rump fillet weighs about two pounds and a half and is much cheaper than the long fillet.

The fillet has little flavor in itself and so is highly seasoned and flavored when cooked.

The upper surface is often larded with salt pork.

Broiled Over the Coals.

Short Fillets.—Broil the fillets over clear coals, taking care not to burn or scorch them. When cooked to a medium degree take from the broiler, rub well with butter, sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper, sprinkle with a few drops of lemon juice and minced parsley and send to the table.

Served With Tomatoes.

Fried Fillet of Beef.—Cut two pounds of fillet of beef into round slices half an inch thick. Sprinkle with pepper and salt. Cut the fat off the beef into pieces. Heat two ounces of butter in a frying pan and fry the fillets for five or seven minutes, then brush over each with glaze.

Place a border of mashed potatoes on a dish; lay the fillets on it with alternate slices of baked tomato and the fried beef fat. Have a piece of maitre d'hotel butter on each fillet. Fill the center with nicely cooked vegetables and pour round a little good beef gravy.

Deliciously Flavored.

Take half a pound of fillet of beef, three mushrooms, two teaspoonfuls of minced onion, half a pint of stock or water, half an ounce of glaze, a sprig of parsley, thyme and marjoram, half an ounce of butter, one ounce of flour and salt and pepper.

Wipe the meat, trim off all fat, cut the lean into square pieces. Peel and chop the onion and the mushrooms.

Tie the herbs together with fine strips of cotton. Melt the butter in a clean saucepan, add to it the onion and flour and fry them carefully a nice brown.

Add the stock and stir till it boils. Now put in all the other ingredients and simmer very slowly for one and a half hours or till the meat is quite tender.

Season carefully. Arrange the meat neatly in a hot dish. Strain the gravy over and put the mushrooms round.

MORMONS WILL FIGHT

Chihuahua Is Now Held by the Mexican Federals

Chihuahua, Mex., July 9.—General Victoriano Huerta, commander-in-chief of the government forces in northern Mexico, has now established his headquarters in the city of Chihuahua. General Tellez and General Rabago, in command of two brigades of cavalry, entered the city a short time before Huerta, but were immediately dispatched northward toward Casas Grandes, to head off the fleeing rebel army.

Agua Prieta, Sonora, July 9.—Americans of the Mormon colonies are mobilizng to defend their property against the rebel bands. The rebel advance guard from Casas Grandes is approaching Colonia Morelos.

Cong. Ames to Retire

Lowell, Mass., July 9.—After ten years of service in congress as the representative of the Fifth Massachusetts district, Congressman Butler Ames has announced that he would not be a candidate again this fall.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. He helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Elnora awoke at dawn and lay gazing around the unfamiliar room. She noticed that every vestige of masculine attire and belongings was gone and knew without any explanation what that meant. For some reason every tangible evidence of her father was banished, and she was at last to be allowed to take his place. She turned to look at her mother. Mrs. Comstock's face was white and haggard, but on it rested an expression of profound peace Elnora never before had seen. As she studied the features on the pillow beside her the heart of the girl throbbed in tenderness. She softly slipped from the bed, went to her room, dressed and entered the kitchen to attend the Emperors and prepare breakfast. The pair had been left clinging to the piece of calico. The calico was there and a few pieces of beautiful wing. A mouse had eaten the moths!

With the first thought of her mother, she caught up the remnants of the moths, burying them in the ashes of the stove. She took the bag to her room, hurriedly releasing its contents, but there was not another yellow one. Her mother had said some had been confined in the case in the Limberlost. There was still a hope that an Emperor might be among them.

Elnora took a large piece of mosquito netting and ran to the swamp. Throwing it over the top of the case, she unlocked the door. She reeled, faint with distress. The living moths that had been confined there in their flattering to escape the night and the mates they sought not only had wrecked the other specimens of the case, but torn themselves to ribbons on the pins. A third of the rarest moths of the collection were antennaeless, legless, wingless and often headless. Elnora sobbed aloud. "Everything is gone!" she said.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Wherein Mother Love Is Bestowed on Elnora, and She Finds an Assistant.

BUT her mother's love remained. Indeed, in the overflow of the long hardened, pent up heart, Elnora was almost suffocated with tempestuous caresses and generous offerings. Before the day was over she realized that she never had known her mother at all.

For the next few days Elnora worked at mounting the moths her mother had taken. She had to go to the Bird Woman and tell about the disaster, but Mrs. Comstock was allowed to think that Elnora delivered the moths when she made the trip. If she had told her what actually happened, the chances were that Mrs. Comstock again would have taken possession of the Limberlost, hunting there until she replaced all the moths that had been destroyed. But Elnora knew from experience what it meant to collect such a list in pairs. Valiant as she was in any good cause, this time she was compelled to admit that she was defeated. It would require hard work for at least two summers to replace the lost moths. When she left the Bird Woman she went to the president of the Onabasha schools and asked him to do all in his power to secure a room in one of the ward buildings.

The next morning the last moth was mounted and the housework finished. Elnora said to her mother, "If you don't mind, I believe I will go into the woods pasture beside Sleepy Snake creek and see if I can catch some dragon flies or moths."

"Wait until I get a knife and a pail and I will go along," answered Mrs. Comstock. "The dandelions are plenty tender for greens among the deep grasses, and I might just happen to see something myself. My eyes are pretty sharp."

Near the creek, following it toward the bridge, Mrs. Comstock found a large bed of tender dandelions and stopped to fill her pail.

Elnora remained within calling distance and was having good success. At last she crossed the creek, following it up to a bridge. There she began a careful examination of the under sides of the sleepers and flooring for cocoons. Mrs. Comstock could see her and the creek for several rods above.

Around the bend came a man. He was bareheaded, dressed in a white sweater and waders which reached to his waist. He kept on the bank, only entering the water when necessary. He had a queer basket strapped on his hip, and with a small rod he sent a long line spinning before him down the creek, deftly manipulating with it a little floating object. He was nearer Elnora than her mother, but Mrs. Comstock thought possibly by hurrying she could remain unseen and yet warn the girl that a stranger was coming.

"Possibly I could get that for you," suggested the man.

Elnora was under the bridge, one knee planted in the embankment and a foot braced to support her. Her hair was tousled by wind and bushes, her face flushed, and she lifted her arms above her head, working to loosen a cocoon she had found. The call Mrs. Comstock had intended to utter never found voice. "Possibly I could get that for you," suggested the man.

"Oh, I do hope you can!" answered Elnora. "It's quite a find! It's one of those lovely pale red cocoons described in the books. I suspect it comes from having been in a dark place and screened from the weather."

"Is that so?" cried the man. "Wait a minute. Are you making a collection?"

He reeled in his line, laid his rod across a bush and climbed the embankment to Elnora's side, produced a knife and began the work of whittling a deep groove around the cocoon.

"Yes. I paid my way through the high school in Onabasha with them. Now I am starting a collection which means college."

"Onabasha!" said the man. "That is where I am visiting." He paused to rest, for the bridge flooring was hard lumber, and the task he had set himself not easy. "Possibly you know my people—Dr. Ammon's? The doctor is my uncle. My home is in Chicago. I've been having typhoid fever, something fierce. In the hospital six weeks. Didn't gain strength right, so Uncle Doc sent for me. I am to live out of doors all summer, and exercise until I get in condition again. My name is Philip Ammon. Don't you want help?"

Elnora parried the question.

"Have you ever hunted moths, Mr. Ammon?"

"Enough to know the ropes in taking them and to distinguish the commonest ones. I know enough to help you all right."

"Aren't you going north?"

"All depends on how this fever leaves me. Uncle says the nights are too cold and the days too hot there for me. He thinks I had better stay in an even temperature until I am strong again. I'll have this cut out in a minute. You better say 'yes,'" he persisted. "It would be a real kindness. It would keep me out doors all day and give an incentive to work. I'm good at it. I'll show you if I am not in a week or so. I can 'sugar,' manipulate lights and mirrors and am familiar with all the expert methods. I'll wager moths are thick in the old swamp over there."

"They are," said Elnora. "Most I have I took there. A few nights ago my mother caught a good many, but we don't dare go alone."

"All the more reason why you need me. Where do you live? I can't get an answer from you. I'll just go tell your mother who I am and ask her if I may help you."

The cocoon came loose. Philip Ammon stepped down the embankment, turning to offer his hand to Elnora. They went to Mrs. Comstock.

"Mother, this is Mr. Philip Ammon of Chicago," said Elnora. "He has been ill, and he is staying with Dr. Ammon in Onabasha. He came fishing down the creek and cut this cocoon from under the bridge for me. He feels that it would be better to hunt moths than to fish until he gets well. What do you think about it?"

Philip Ammon extended his hand.

"I am glad to know you," he said.

"You may take the handshaking for granted," replied Mrs. Comstock. "Dandelions have a way of making the fingers sticky, and I like to know a man before I take his hand, anyway. That introduction seems mighty comprehensive on your part, but it still leaves me unclassified. My name is Comstock."

At last Mrs. Comstock finished the greens.

"You are three miles from the city and less than a mile from where we live," she said. "If you will tell me what you dare eat, I suspect you had best go home with us and rest until the cool of the day before you start back. Probably some one that you can ride in with will be passing before evening."

Philip Ammon was on his feet. Picking up the pail of greens and his fishing rod he stood waiting. Elnora led the way. Mrs. Comstock motioned Philip to follow and she walked in the rear.

Elnora proceeded slowly, chattering about everything along the trail. Philip was interested in all the objects she pointed out, noticing several things which escaped her. When Elnora turned toward the gate of her home Philip Ammon stopped, took a long look at the big hewed log cabin, the vines which clambered over it, the flower garden ablaze with beds of bright bloom interspersed with strawberries and tomatoes, the trees of the forest rising north and west like a green wall and exclaimed, "How beautiful!"

Philip Ammon was ravenous for the buttermilk, and when he stretched on the bench in the arbor the flickering patches of sunlight so tantalized his tired eyes, while the bees made such splendid music, he was soon sound asleep.

When Elnora and her mother came out with a table they stood a short time looking at him. It is probable Mrs. Comstock voiced a united thought when she said, "What a refined, decent looking young man! How proud his mother must be of him! We must be careful what we let him eat."

They returned to the kitchen where Mrs. Comstock proceeded to be careful. She broiled ham of her own sugar curing, creamed potatoes, served asparagus on toast and made a dandelion salad and a delicious strawberry shortcake. When everything was ready she touched Ammon's sleeve.

"Best have something to eat, lad, before you get too hungry," she said.

"Please hurry!" he begged laughingly as he held a plate toward her to be filled. "It's mighty kind of you to take me in. I hope I will be man enough in a few days to do something worth while in return."

CAMORRISTS HELD GUILTY

Verdict Which Surprised All the World

TRIAL LASTED 16 MONTHS

Nine Held Direct For Murder—Balance as Members of a Criminal Band—Five Years Spent In Preliminary Investigation — Forty-Two Originally Held—700 Witnesses Examined—50 Lawyers Appeared

Viterbo, Italy, July 9.—The verdict in the Camorra trial has been handed down. Nine of the accused were unanimously declared guilty of the murder of Gennaro Cuocolo and his wife. The remainder of the band were found guilty of belonging to a criminal association.

The president of the court immediately sentenced the condemned men, Sortino, Cerrato, Salvi, Morra, di Gennaro, Alfano, Rapi and di Marinas were sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment and to ten years' police police surveillance; di Mattio to ten years and six months' imprisonment and ten years' surveillance; Vitozzi, the priest, seven years' imprisonment and to two years' surveillance; the others to five years' imprisonment and three years' surveillance.

Few have believed that the Italian jury and court would have the courage to condemn the criminals. It was on March 11, 1911, that the examination of witnesses began. This was preceded by a preliminary investigation of five years.

Of the 42 persons originally indicted three were never captured; three died during the trial, while 20 were liberated owing to the fact that they had already served the maximum time possible for sentence in the event of a conviction.

Although the specific charge brought against the 42 orginally arrested for the crime was the murder of Gennaro Cuocolo and his wife at Naples, the real object of the prosecution was a supreme attempt on the part of the Italian government to break up two great criminal organizations in Italy, the Camorra of Naples and the Mafia of Sicily. The government had expected that if it secured convictions in the present case the leaders of both organizations would be frightened out of the country.

Altogether over 700 witnesses were heard during the trial, but notwithstanding this the prosecution's case rested almost entirely on the testimony of Abbatemaggio, a former Camorrist and informer. Ciro Vitozzi, a Roman Catholic priest, concerning whose alleged double life many sensational revelations were made, was one of the defendants. Another was Ericone Alfano who was arrested in New York. This man was the leader of the Camorrists and was also said to be the guiding spirit of the black hand gangs in the United States.

Originally over fifty lawyers appeared for the defence but gradually, either because the Camorrists had not the money to pay their fees or because they pretended to be poor in order to excite the pity of the jury, the number of lawyers was reduced to eighteen.

An entire regiment of infantry was sent to Viterbo to surround the court. During the trial two companies of infantry, 150 carbineers and fifty detectives have been constantly on duty. The Cammora trial has cost the state more than $500,000.

The minutes kept by the clerk of the court have covered 12,000 pages of typewritten matter and the reports of the investigating judges have filled sixty volumes. More than 50,000 documents have been produced and read during the trial.

GREAT COAST CHANGE

Recent Volcanic Action May Close Up Behring Strait

Seattle, July 9.—Permanent alteration in the climate of the Alaskan coast through shifting of warm ocean currents by lifting of the sea bottom, the opening of new fishing banks, of unestimated value and the eventual closing of Behring straits, owing also to a rise in the floor of the sea, are among the scientific probabilities now suggested by investigation of the eruption of Mount Katmai a month ago.

So far as the earth's surface is concerned, the eruption was beneficial, the volcanic ash having already stimulated plant growth. Geologists assert that the tops of submerged mountains which form the Aleution isles are rising steadily through pressure on the sea bottom from enormous amounts of sediment, and, after eventually cutting off Behring sea, will continue to rise until what is now the sea will be replaced by a great sweep of land.

Richard Weds Bessie

Greenwich, Conn., July 9.—Richard Harding Davis, the novelist, who was recently divorced by his first wife, was married here to Miss Elizabeth G. McAvoy, known on the stage as Bessie McCoy, the Yama-Yama girl.

EDUCATORS ALSO HAVE PROGRESSIVES

Win First Round For Holding Winter Sessions

Chicago, July 9.—Supporters of the "progressive" movement in the National Educational association won the first fight at the opening of the association's fiftieth annual convention. The board of directors representing schools in every state in the country voted to change from summer to winter the time for the annual meetings of the National Council of Education. A movement also was started to make the winter the time for holding the full session of the association.

More than 10,000 educators had been enrolled when Carroll G. Pearse of Milwaukee called the fiftieth annual convention to order.

At a caucus progressive delegates decided to present the name of E. T. Fairchild, state superintendent of public instruction of Kansas, to make the race for president against Miss Grace C. Strachan, president of the Interboro Woman's Teachers' association of New York city.

Charges of irregularities in granting memberships in the National Educational association and of discourtesy in replying to complaints will be preferred against Secretary Irwin Shepard at the meeting of the board of directors.

The charges, which will be the first step in a campaign to oust Secretary Shepard, will be presented by the Chicago teachers and principals through one of the directors.

Secretary Shepard and his aides are charged with having refused to allow Chicago teachers to take out active memberships in the name of their schools at the convention in Boston two years ago, although such memberships were sanctioned by the directors.

—Some skippers of big ships are agreed that searchlights on the boats would be worse than useless. Nevertheless a German liner found such a light very handy in finding her way in New York harbor the other night. A light of 80,000 candle power throwing strong rays five miles ahead proved useful that time and will again. The searchlight is likely to become a part of every liner's equipment whether or not binoculars are provided for the lookouts.—Framingham News.

QUINCY CUP DATES SET

Six Challengers Will Make an Effort to Lift the Cup

HARPOON WILL DEFEND

The dates for the races for the Quincy Yacht club Challenge cup have been set for the week of August 28. There will probably be seven yachts in the series of races as there are six challengers for the cup, namely the Boston, Corinthian, Eastern, Manchester, Hingham and Beverly clubs. The cup will be defended by Charles F. Adams 2d in the Harpoon which has for the past two seasons shown her heels to everything in the sonder class line that has appeared. Just what yachts will be sent by the challenging clubs has not been announced as yet as under the terms of the agreement the challenging club has up to within twenty-four hours of the first race to name its boat.

The races will be sailed during the morning the time for the start on the first two days being at 9.30 A. M. The third day the race will start at 10 and the remaining days of the series at 10.30, 11 and 11.30 if as many races are necessary.

KEYES HELD FOR LARCENY

Abandoned Ice Wagon and Did Not Turn in Cash

CHANCE TO MAKE GOOD

Albert W. Keyes of Weymouth was arrested by Officer Avery on Adams street Monday night for the Weymouth police by whom he was wanted for the alleged larceny of money amounting to $70 from William H. Mace of Weymouth. Mace conducts an ice business and Keyes was employed as a driver. He claims that Keyes took out a load of ice and not only disposed of the ice but never came back, leaving the team abandoned.

Officer Avery was instructed to watch out for the man and Monday evening found him at the Eaton Ice Co. plant looking for work. He was locked up for the night and was arraigned in court this morning for alleged larceny and given an opportunity to make restitution.

THERMOMETER

No prostrations from the heat were reported in Quincy.

In other places the thermometer ranged from 101 to 105 in different sections, which is undoubtedly a record which has seldom been equalled.

The extreme heat limit was reached between noon and one o'clock in the afternoon.

SENSATIONAL STORY DENIED

Ousting of Church Officials Not Contemplated

TWO VACANCIES TO FILL

That the purport of the call for a special meeting next Friday evening is not as sensational as certain people and papers make out is the contention of the standing committee of the Park and Downs Congregational church.

The call stated that among other things the selection of an assistant treasurer and the appointment of a member on another committee would be discussed.

In certain quarters it was declared that this meant nothing less than forecasting the dismissal of A. M. Barstow, the present treasurer of the church, who is a leader on the Boynton side.

Charles A. Richardson, clerk of the church hastened to deny any foundation for this impression.

On June 11th Chester A. Boynton resigned as assistant treasurer of the church and also as financial secretary of the building fund.

At this same meeting the nominating committee was empowered to present to the church names selected by them to fill these two vacancies.

This is the matter announced to be brought before the meeting next Friday evening. The offices of treasurer and assistant treasurer are separate and distinct, the appointment of an assistant treasurer in no way affecting the office held by Mr. Barstow.

That other business may legally be brought before the Friday evening meeting is admitted but such if any, has not been made public.

BRIEFS

MAY BE VICTIM OF THE HEAT

Gilrane Suffering From Weather Went in Direction of Quarry

ALARM SOUNDED

The lost child call was sounded shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon to summons aid to search for James Gilrane an old man 67 years of age who has been missing from his home on Quarry street since early this morning. When last seen he was going toward Carrol's lane. Mr. Gilrane has been suffering for several days with the excessive heat and it is thought that he may have been overcome and fallen into one of the many old quarry holes along Carrol's lane. He had on a dark suit, blue shirt and felt hat but no coat.

When Mr. Gilrane came to this city years ago he was employed in the vicinity of Carrol's lane and it is thought that he may have gone to seek out some of the places known to his early days and possibly may have accidentally fallen into one of the old quarries.

CROSSED WIRES SENT IN ALARM

Firemen Had Run For Nothing in Monday's Heat

Box 26 was sounded at 2.15 Monday afternoon in a somwhat mysterious way, for when the department arrived at the box they not only found no fire but found that the box had not been opened. It is thought that in some way the wires became crossed causing the alarm to sound as the electricians have been unable to account for the sounding of the box.

PRANK OF A BASEBALL.

Funny Stunt That Once Won a Game For the Washingtons.

Following is an interesting story told by Hugh S. Fullerton in the American Magazine, in an article describing freak plays that have won baseball games:

"On the old Washington grounds, when Washington was in the National league, the players left the field by passing under the stands, and the entrance to the passage was closed by a cellar door arrangement which sloped down to the ground. The doors, of course, were kept closed during games, but at the top, cut in the planks of the stand, was a small square hole to permit the players to reach through and unlatch the doors when they desired to leave the field.

"During one game I saw a ball, which had been thrown wild to the plate in an effort to cut off the tying run, roll up the doors and disappear through that hole. The batter circled the bases and scored the winning run. The Chicago club, under Anson, was beaten and protested the game on the ground that the opening existed in violation of the rules. In the investigation of the complaint an attempt was made to force a ball through the hole, and, although it was pounded with a bat, the ball refused to pass through the hole until the cover gave way.

"After that almost every team that came on the grounds tried to put balls through the hole and failed. How that thrown ball managed to twist its way through the aperture never has been explained satisfactorily."

—A former United States naval officer in a recent address in New York, offers another suggestion for the increased safety of ocean going ships. He would have the decks of passenger ships made double, with air tight metal compartments between the two sections, which would prevent the ships from sinking below a certain point when the water came in the hold. The proposition seems feasible, but its practicability is a matter for the experts to decide.—Milford Gazette

MORE LAND FOR LIBRARY

Albert Crane Bought Lot on Spear Street For Purpose

8,000 FEET INVOLVED

Among the recent real estate transfers is a parcel of land containing about 8,000 square feet from Mrs. G. W. Morton to Albert Crane of Stamford, Ct., The property in question is that on Spear street adjoining the Thomas Crane Public Library and now occupied by Mrs. A Isabelle Davis.

It was way back in 1871 that the inhabitants of the town of Quincy conveyed this property to Lydia L. Averill the deed being signed by the three Selectmen then in office. Recently however it has been found that the Selectmen in question had no authority to sign such a deed and the City Council at a recent meeting authorized the Mayor to sign a confirmatory deed.

While it has not as yet been transferred to the city it is understood that it is the intention of Mr. Crane to reconvey the property in question to the City of Quincy as a part of the library property.

BOSTON AERO CLUB STARTED

Plan is to Build a House at Squantum Grounds

MEMBERSHIP TO 500

No disqualification of the aviators who made flights at the third Boston aviation meet, which closed on Saturday with a loss placed at $25,000, is expected by Glenn R. Martin, who is to go to New York this week, fly at Atlantic City and appear before Col. Samuel Reber and the directors of the Aero club of America.

Organization of a Boston aero club was started at the conclusion of the meet on Saturday, with Earle L. Ovington of Newton Highlands and A. J. Philpot of Boston as the prime movers. This means of supporting aviation is considered by the club supporters and the aviators at the meet as necessary and it is said by them that meets are no longer feasible.

The membership of the club is limited to 500, and it is given out that already there is a list of 200. A clubhouse, to be built on the aviation grounds at Squantum, is projected.

CRANE AND LODGE ODDS WITH TAFT

Trouble Began by Dr. Andrew's Forced Resignation

Washington, July 9.—Friends of President Taft were expressing anxiety yesterday because of the relations between the president and Senators Crane and Lodge of Massachusetts, which were reported dangerously near the breaking point. The Massachusetts senators are aggrieved at the attitude of the president in the trouble in the treasury department as a result of which Dr. A. Piatt Andrew was forced out as assistant secretary because of trouble with Secretary MacVeagh.

The appointment of a judge for the New England circuit was also a matter of discussion. The president was known to favor the appointment of Judge Parsons of New Hampshire while both Senators Crane and Lodge were urging that Judge Frederick Dodge of Massachusetts be named for the place.

It is thought that the president will yield to the pressure brought to bear on him and grant a further consideration of the Andrew case.

As to the other matter at issue, it was thought here that the senators would united to demand the appointment of Judge Dodge to the circuit court vacancy caused by the death of Judge Schofield.

FOSS PROBABLY FAVOR WALSH

Not a Candidate For Governor a Third Time

Boston, July 9.—Governor Foss reiterated his determination yesterday not to be a candidate for re-election this year.

During the day he talked with a number of Democratic leaders, including National Committeeman Dr. John W. Coughlin of Fall River and Representative Martin M. Lomasney.

Governor Woodrow Wilson is very anxious to make a good showing in the New England States and is very desirous of having the strongest possible Democratic state tickets in New England this fall.

Although Governor Foss had not heard form Governor Wilson yesterday, he said that he did not believe his decision to retire could be changed. He stated in a discussion of the situation that Hon. David I. Walsh was the strongest candidate and personally pledged him his support.

The candidacy of District Attorney Pelletier was discussed and the governor stated that in his judgment Mr. Walsh would be a far stronger candidate than the district attorney because of his ability on the stump.

Although Mayor Fitzgerald is generally credited with supporting Mr. Pelletier, he has not indicated his preference to date. At the Democratic convention in Baltimore the mayor introduced Mr. Walsh everywhere as the next governor of Massachusetts.

A COLOSSAL HARP.

Veritan's Aeolian Giant Had Strings 320 Feet In Length.

The largest harp ever made, so far as is known, was that invented and constructed by M. Veritan, provost of Burkli, near Basel. It was known as the gigantic meteorological aeolian harp. It was 320 feet in length and was erected in the garden of its inventor in 1787.

This harp consisted of fifteen iron wires, 320 feet in length, stretched between two poles. The wires were from two to three inches apart, the largest being one-sixth of an inch in thickness and the smallest one-twelfth of an inch. They were placed in the direction of north and south and inclined in such a manner as to form an angle of from twenty to thirty degrees with the horizon, being stretched by means of rollers properly disposed for the purpose.

Whenever the weather changed the wires sounded with such loudness that it was impossible to go on with a concert in the house. The sound sometimes represented the hissing noise of water in rapid ebullition, sometimes that of a harmonicon and sometimes that of distant chimes or an organ.—Exchange.

Natural Enough.

OFFICE HOLDERS SEEK SAFETY

Republicans Plan For Both to Withdraw

WANT A COMPROMISE MAN

Nation Wide Movement to Be Attempted—Desire Taft and Roosevelt to Drop Out—Many Office Holders Feel Split Party Means Their Defeat—Circulation of Petitions Will Start This Week

Washington, July 9.—A nation-wide movement to petition President Taft to withdraw as the Republican presidential candidate is being backed by a large number of Republican office holders who feel that they face defeat in November unless the breach in the party can be healed.

These men include members of congress, member of state legislatures which will elect senators, state and county office holders and party candidates.

If the movement to petition Mr. Taft to withdraw gains any volume, it is said, the same men in the interest of party harmony may ask Colonel Roosevelt also to withdraw as a prospective candidate for an independent nomination, and permit a compromise selection of some man agreeable to both factions of the party.

The circulation of petitions, it was declared, would start within a week.

It was said the movement would begin simultaneously in every state. The organierzs are now circulaing blank forms of petitions and appointing supervisors, who in turn will engage canvassers to solicit the signatures of Republican voters.

The movement is in the hands of several well known members of congress. They are being aided by many of the extreme Roosevelt Republicans.

The sponsors of the plan say one of its first results would be to let Mr. Taft know if there are any considerable number of regular Republicans who believe he should step aside in the interest of harmony.

AROUND THE CIRCLE

Campaigning Again, Is the Desire of President Taft

Washington, July 9.—An interesting fact stands out in connection with the mixed political situation of the day, and it is that President Taft is supremely confident that he will be re-elected. The president never doubted for one minute that he would be renominated at Chicago, and he seems just as confident that he will be re-elected in November.

The president is anxious to take a speaking part in the campaign. He believes that he can do himself good by talking directly to the people. If he has his way about it, he will start on a speaking tour about the first of October and stay out among the people until election day.

Among influential men in the party there is a somewhat widespread feeling that Mr. Taft did not do himself any good by going on the stump in the primary election states in the preconvention campaign. It is pointed out that his experience in the preconvention campaign demonstrated that it is waste of time to engage in personalities with the third-term candidate. In spite of the advice that the president go to his summer home at Beverly and remain there until after the election, the probability is that he will have his own way about it and will arrange to make a speaking tour.

PROHIBITION CONVENTION

Threatens to Discard Old Name and Assume That of Progressive

Atlantic City, N. J., July 9.—Maintaining that the Prohibition party is the orginal progressive party, a determined effort will be made by the leaders to change the party name at the national convention, which opens here tomorrow.

With the prospect of a new party under the Roosevelt leadership now practically assured, Prohibition leaders here in advance of the convention insist that if any is entitled to be named "progressive" it is their party, which ever has stood for advanced political principles.

Though the party to be formed next month in Chicago is being referred to as the "progressive party," the Prohibitionists point to the fact that the organization as yet unborn had not been christened and that they are entitled to the new name if they choose to take it.

The movement to rechristen the party has been considered for some time and at this convention delegates from all the states are coming prepared to take a determined stand. The New York, Pennsylvania and Nebraska delegations are reported to be practically solid in favor of a change of name.

UNOFFICIALLY COLBY GIVES HIS VIEWS AS TO DUTY OF MINORITY

Either Join Majority or Withdraw to Some Church With More Harmonious Fellowship

Work Cannot Be Successfully Conducted By Two Distinct Elements

Members of the Park and Downs Congregational church are today receiving a letter from Chairman William J. Colby of the standing committee.

In an endeavor to make clear his position Mr. Colby has clearly stated the attitude of the "majority" toward the "minority" which is, that if the latter cannot join forces with the "majority" it would be best for the church and all concerned if the "minority" withdrew and worshipped where they can be happy in their church relationship.

The letter is as follows:

Wollaston, Mass., July 9, 1912.

To the members of the Park and Downs Church:

The statements which I made to the Press and which were published in Monday's papers were, in some instances, in some of the papers, misquoted, particularly the part referring to the attitude of the "majority" towards the "minority."

I did not state that more members would be either suspended or dismissed. That is a matter wholly for the church to decide. I simply expressed the growing conviction that it seems impossible for the two distinct elements in the church to work together in that spirit of harmony and co-operation necessary for the well being of the church.

The question then is shall the minority continue to make it impossible for the majority to go on with their church work under happy conditions; shall the minority withdraw; or by some miracle of christian brotherhood will the minority join forces with the majority?

The church cannot work efficiently with two distinct elements in its membership—all must agree to that. Then what is the best thing to be done?

It would seem to be that as many of the minority who will not work with and for the church, as it is now established, or who are not in accord with it, should seek a church fellowship where they can be happy in their church relationship.

That is the view expressed, unofficially, as voicing the opinion of many of the majority, and which I endeavored to make clear in my statement to the press.

Sincerely yours,
(signed) William J. Colby.

COMMITTEES IN BOUNDS

In Their Expenditures for the Fourth Celebration

TOTAL EXPENSE ABOUT $2000

The Fourth of July Association met at the Board of Trade rooms, Tuesday evening, to figure up the voyage for the celebration, which every one declared had passed off so successfully.

The greatest source of satisfaction to the members of the association was the knowledge that the general public was heartily pleased with the celebration in all its details, and satisfied with the efforts of the association to present a celebration worthy of Quincy.

At the meeting Mayor Eugene R. Stone, the president of the Association presided. The records and roll call of officers were read by secretary Arthur W. Stetson and approved.

Then came the great problem of the whole event, the financial question.

As far as obtainable all the outstanding bills were presented. Of course as in every case like this there are some bills, which did not get in and possibly it will be some time before they are presented.

Every one having a bill against the association should present it at once for payment, so that the association may know just how they came out.

As figured out last night, the total expenditures to date, were $1,749.86, with some few bills to be heard from which will probably bring the total up to $2,000.

There are always small bills, which creep into celebrations, which cannot be foreseen at the start, but crop out every little while and cannot be avoided. No doubt there are some of those bills yet outstanding.

Then there is a bill for labor on the grand stands which has not been presented.

It is a matter of gratification that with two exceptions, every committee, kept within the appropriation allowed and had something to turn into the general fund.

The publicity committee, was only allowed $50 and they spent $54.25. All things considered the committee cannot be censured for this slight overdraft.

Charles H. Johnson, who had charge of the children's entertainment comes in for severe censure however. He had an appropriation of $100. With his corps of helpers he distributed ice cream to 2,500 children, paid every bill and overdrew his appropriation just one cent. There was some talk of impeaching Mr. Johnson for such tremendous expenditure, but after a heart to heart talk last night the problem was "How did he do it?" Not over run, but accomplish so much for so reasonable a sum.

The expenditure as received and approved Tuesday night were as follows:

Fireworks, including chairs,	$589.00
Parades,	431.80
Music,	298.60
Sports,	167.92
Entertaining guests,	38.28
Children,	101.01
Publicity,	54.25
Office expenses of secretary, sundries,	70.00
Total,	$1,749.85

HEALTH BOARD GAVE HEARING

On Petition to Abate Alleged Nuisance in Meadow

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

The Board of Health gave a public hearing Tuesday night on the petition to abate the alleged nuisance on the meadow bounded by Coddington street, Woodward avenue, and Valley street by draining the premises. The petitioners claimed that the land was a breeding place for mosquitoes and was a detriment to the health of the community. Six or seven citizens appeared in favor of the petition. The only opposition came from the Russell heirs, owners of the property who were represented by Judge E. C. Bumpus. Judge Bumpus was unable to be present in person but sent a letter. He claimed that the meadow was not a detriment to the public health.

The petition was brought under the law which provides that the owners and abutters may be assessed betterment for the work. After the hearing the Board of Health took the matter under advisement.

BOYS ON OUTING TO NANTASKET

Choir and Altar Boys of St. Mary's Church Guests of Pastor

The members of the choir of St. Mary's Church, together with the altar boys, went on an outing to Nantasket beach Tuesday guests of the pastor Rev. Fr. Henry T. Grady. A special trolley car conveyed the party of thirty choir members and twenty-two altar boys to and from their destination and the outing was enjoyed by all.

The special car left Quincy Square at 9.30 o'clock, and upon arrival at the beach, a shore dinner was enjoyed. Paragon Park was visited and the various sights were taken in.

After a dip in the briny, the party returned to Quincy, arriving home at eight o'clock. The trip was in charge of Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy, assistant pastor.

SECTION OF HOUGHS NECK THREATENED BY FLAMES

Cottages Sprinkled to Save Them. Crozier Family Had Narrow Escape

Taylor Place at Germantown Destroyed. Many Small Blazes Followed by Two of Pretty Good Proportions With Heavy Loss

It would seem as though the fire department was getting more than its usual amount of work of late and while up to Tuesday night and this morning the fires were but incipient ones nevertheless they have given them many runs. Scarcely a day passes now but what there are two and three or more alarms. Tuesday was no exception to the rule. Aside from the alarm from West Quincy at noon as published in the Ledger that day the department had several other runs.

At 1.58 an alarm from Box 66 was rung in for a fire in a coal box in the rear of the Sagamore block on Sagamore street. But little damage was done however.

About 9.25 Tuesday evening the central station was called by telephone to a fire in the house of Mrs. George Taylor at Germantown. The fire did not seem large at first and as soon as discovered A. W. Finlay telephoned Chief Litchfield. The chief was half way to the fire when Box 15 was rung in. The fire was a lively one and distroyed the house and practically ruined the barn adjoining. The house and barn are situated at the extreme end of Germantown near the water and the blaze could be seen plainly from the Weymouth shore. Many people from Weymouth came over in boats.

Just how the fire started is not known but the neighbors are inclined to the belief that it started from a stove in the L of the house. The cottage has been vacant up to Tuesday when Mrs. Taylor and her son came down for the summer. They were seen about the cottage in the afternoon getting it in shape and apparently everything was all right until neighbors were startled by a cry of fire by Mrs. Taylor's son. Mr. Finlay immediately telephoned the fire station and the chief with the auto chemical had reached the Adams farm when the alarm sounded. This alarm brought the central station combination and truck and the combination from Houghs Neck. Several lines of hose were laid from the hydrant which brought the water pressure down considerable so that it was deemed advisable to have the steamer on hand in case any of the other cottages took fire, and it was called by three blows on the alarm bells. There were several other cottages near by and although they took fire several times, their occupants were able to put out the sparks with the aid of lawn hose. Many of them fearing a fire piled their belongings in the street.

When the apparatus arrived the cottage was a roaring mass of flames and no power could save it. So rapidly did the flames spread that the occupants were unable to save any of their effects.

From the cottage the flames communicated to the barn adjoining and it was a hard fight to save this. As it was the barn was practically ruined for it was less than five feet away from the cottage.

The fire made a bright illumination and attracted a large crowd of people many coming over from the Weymouth shore in boats.

Chief Litchfield estimates the loss on the cottage, barn and contents at $3,000.

A cottage, a stable and a garage, which was used as a storehouse, on Fensmere avenue, Houghs Neck, all owned by the Pandora Park Company, were totally destroyed by fire this

COUNCIL MEMBERS

Entertained by Squantum Improvement Association

THAT SECTION GROWING

In celebration of the fact that the Quincy city council had made an additional appropriation of $4,000 to complete the boulevard from Atlantic to Squantum the Squantum Improvement Association at its meeting Tuesday night had as its guests President Ralph W. Hobbs of the council, and the members from Ward Six. The delegation was entertained by John R. Nelson to an automobile ride about Squantum Park and to dinner at the Squantum Inn.

The guests were enthusiastically received and speeches were made at the meeting by Councilmen James N. Cunningham, Ernest R. Sodergren and Herbert G. Beeman, ex-Councilman John Moir and President Hobbs.

The $4,000 appropriation, makes a total of $22,000 for the boulevard between Atlantic and Squantum and the speakers assured the Squantum residents that when completed it would be as fine a road as there is in the state. Contracts will be signed immediately for completing the work.

The guests were introduced by Mr. Nelson, President C. E. Carlson expressed his pleasure in presenting the guests to the association.

President Hobbs said, "We do willingly everything we can for Squantum. Councilman Callahan is already known as the champion of Ward Seven. The $4,000 you have just received will finish the street to the end of the line. I am glad to see you continue your organization for that is the way you will receive something for your community. I am glad to see that no one in Squantum is advocating making this a city by itself."

Ex-Councilman Moir said he was delighted to again visit Squantum. He

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

"Principles and policies" are two good words and mean a lot, but some thing specific as to the character of the commodities mentioned is needed to satisfy people as to the candidates intent.

The International Bible Students association has voted that "Hell does not exist." The hope is father to the thought. However voting on this earth with regard to the said domicile has very little to do with what is coming to us later.

Base ball games could be played from 15 to 30 minutes quicker, if the players would refrain from practicing between the innings, and the umpire sent the batter to his place in rapid order.

MacVeagh would cause less embarressment to the administration it would seem if he was to gracefully step down and out at this time.

Politicians have been prating about the high cost of living, economists have devoted months in studying up and making exhaustive reports on the subject, when the whole question could be answered in a sentence of not more than ten words. Barnum was right when he said the people of this country liked to be humbugged.

A potato war in Brockton has reduced the price to 15 cents a peck. We never thought we should live to be an advocate of war, but we firmly endorse a continuance and extension of this struggle, with its possible results. Sherman certainly did not include all kinds of wars in his definition.

America leads the world in the Olympic games.

Boston is living up to its reputation on disturbances to right alleged wrongs. The Boston Tea party produced good results.

And now a Boston Common Councilman wants the poll tax abolished. It might just as well be for the way it is collected in some places.

In what fertile brain did that story of leading republicans, outside a certain coterie, petitioning President Taft to withdraw, find root?

The republican senatorial contest promises to loom up pretty big on the political horizon.

Yes we all know it. It is hotter than hot and the only way to get any comfort is trying to forget it.

That tar in the City Square run some the past few days.

T. R. is reparing the most elaborate political chart ever made .Glad to hear that he has settled upon something definite. Up to the present time, his whole attitude has been somewhat hazy.

What a combination, Roosevelt and Bryan for president and vice president, with a swap about after two years. This is two serious a question and besides the weather is too hot to indulge in deep jokes.

THE POLL TAX.

We have not heard any great crying demand on the part of the rank and file of the voters to abolish the poll tax in this state. It is true that many cities carry as an asset a large amount of unpaid poll taxes, but if the officials assigned to the task of collecting the tax performed his duty, this evil would be greatly minimized.

A Boston councilman has started a movement to abolish the tax. His object we can only imagine.

Taken in a general way, the average citizen takes a pride in paying his poll tax. It makes him feel that he is paying his part of maintaining the government. Such persons have not rushed forward with any demand for abolishment of the poll tax. It would be preferable to have a canvas to get at the mind of the voters in this respect before hasty action is entered upon simply to provide some politician or office seeker, a handle to proclaim as a reason for his advancement that he has done this or that for the relief of the tax payer. Undoubtedly the self same personage may have voted to appropriate money for wasteful expenditure in other directions.

BARNES AS CHAIRMAN.

The selection of William Barnes, Jr., as chairman of the Republican National committee to manage the present campaign is not being embraced with the wildest enthusiasm by members of the party all over the state. Mr. Barnes is undoubtedly a strong, able and wise politician from a New York standpoint. He may compass all the traits that go to make up a strong, able and sound director and leader. Still there is in some sections of the country opposition to his holding down this important job. This sentiment should be considered. It is nothing against Mr. Barnes ability.

Party harmony, unity of action and purpose are stronger and more potent forces for the republican party at the present time than certain traits and ambitions of individuals. It is no secret that the republican leaders realize that they have a severe contest before them. A false move here and there will bring defeat to the candidate and wreckage to the party. The numerical strength of those false steps cannot mount too high. And where they are obvious to the most casual observer they should be avoided.

WHITE SLAVERY.

A magazine writer advances the father ridiculous argument, that "White slavery is a disease of the social body, that it cannot be cured by treating the symptoms but by eradicating the cause." He further says the cause is "economic that the cause is poverty and the only way to cure white slavery is to cure poverty." The article closes with the contention that socialism will cure the evil.

As well contend that to cure murder permit the slayer full powers, to satisfy his desire. To prevent stealing, invite people so inclined to take their pick of what they desire wherever and whenever they see it. In fact, abolish completely the term crime and eradicate the punishment and permit people to do just as they like.

Then there is the usual gush about an industrial system, living wage and all that kind of thing, which is handed around like a toy balloon from one writer to another, only clothed in different language to give it the idea of a brand new idea, an original brain development.

What a fine time for the New York cadets. They should take heed to this argument in their defence. No doubt every one of them will hustle out seeking a job, as soon as they learn of this writer's cure for the system of which they are alleged to be the past masters.

Similar organizations in other cities will feel that they must respond to the call and get out and work. The terrible scourge upon our society and humanity will then be removed. A most pleasing sophistry. As a collection of words the magazine article may find its place in a certain niche.

As an argument worthy of reasonable consideration it is of about as much value as a snow ball on a red hot frying pan. What has poverty got to do with the traffic which is a blot upon some communities?

Poverty does not drive the white slaves to become the playthings and wage earners for useless and brutal personages of the opposite sex.

Why should women submit to such a fate? What influence has the padrone over the soul and body that makes them his fawning creatures, the means of his life of luxury and idleness?

The answer is simple and contained in the one word—politics.

The New York cadets, banded together have votes. They can turn those votes, in a body over to certain organizations who control candidates. The control of the votes by the organization gives the latter a hold on the candidate for office and office holder and the cadet organization knows it is secure from molestation by the office holder.

The claim that white slavery is due to poverty is as groundless as it is absurd.

HOUGHS NECK FIRE

morning. In addition, the roof of the Pandora hotel was considerably damaged and much loss was sustained by water. The total loss has been estimated at $7.000. The destroyed buildings were partially insured.

It seems that about 3.45 this morning. Mrs. Etta P. Moses, wife of John P. Moses, proprietor of the Pandora hotel and manager of all the destroyed property, was, awakened by the cracking of fire. She lost no time in getting to the telephone, in an effort to notify the Houghs Neck fire department. She noticed that the fire was raging in what was formerly a garage, but which of late has been used as a store house.

Through some reason or other, she was unable to connect with the Houghs Neck house and then proceeded to notify the Central Station. In the meantime Walter Darrow, 17 years old who lives near by noticed the fire spreading rapidly and pulled in the alarm from box 17, situated near Dunham's store.

After notifying the Central station, Mrs. Moses opened all the exits in the hotel and started to rouse all the occupants, of whom there were 150 in number. They all got out of the hotel as best they could and escaped uninjured. A second alarm was necessary to prevent the entire section of the city from being consumed.

The cottage, situated near the store house, was occupied by James Crozier of Dorchester, with his wife and five children. They were all rescued by people who had come to the scene of the conflagration. This cottage was destroyed with its contents.

Within a short time the whole of Houghs Neck had been aroused and hundreds of residents flocked to the fire.

Many of the cottage owners in the vicinity played water on their houses, to prevent them from burning. It was feared that Moore's Bungalow would go up in flames, but an amusement place of flying horses next to it, of sheet iron prevented any damage to the dance hall.

To add to the excitement the firemen had some difficulty with the hose and also in getting the proper water pressure, but matters were soon adjusted and active work soon begun.

Three horsese were rescued from the stable. The Crozier family lost everything, including clothing, and were lucky to escape with their lives.

Only the cool-headedness and remarkable nerve of Mrs. Moses, prevented the entire section from burning up and it was through her actions that serious accidents were averted and lives probably saved.

The cause of the fire is not definitely known, but it is alleged that it may have been the result of an explosion of a balloon, which had been set ready for use and put in the store house Tuesday.

The assessed valuations of the buildings totally destroyed are: Cottage, $150, store house $200 and barn $800. The Pandora hotel, the roof of which was damaged, is assessed for $5,000.

MR. MILLER EXPLAINS

Claims School Buildings Increase Has Not Kept Pace WITH ATTENDANCE GROWTH

Chairman John L. Miller of the school board in an open letter to the Ledger offers an explanation of the action of the school board in objecting to the sale and removal of the old Wollaston school building.

He thinks the school committee has no apologies to offer for their vote.

That might be said of any vote, yet even if the school board feels that way about it, the public has some right to explanation of their action.

The gratuitous insinuation by Mr. Miller that the Ledger article was inspired by those "who can see no good that the school committee does, and can see politics at long range, because their minds dwell on that and feed on it three times a day," is hardly worth considering.

The main point is that the action of the school board, appeared somewhat strange to a great many people and an explanation was required to clear the atmosphere.

Mr. Miller offers the explanation which is presented below.

It was known for some weeks that the City Council planned to remove this building to make room for a park.

There was no "jumping up" to perform that act, like a jack in the box. A hearing was given on the park matter in May and this removal was referred to at that time.

Mr. Miller's letter follows:

Quincy, Mass., July 19, 1912.

Editor Daily Ledger:—In your issue of the 18th, I note an article on the front page headed "School Board Move to Sell Old Wollaston School," in which insinuations are made against the honesty of purpose of the School Committee, by their recent vote to retain the old Wollaston school building. You say "To many it looks as though the committee was playing politics." Well all I can say is that the School Committee is not responsible for the lack of correct vision of this so-called "many." The School Committee is dealing with facts, and not "Niggers in the wood pile," as you say, but as practically the same article appears in another local paper, a person would not have to draw deep at the wells of imagination to think your article was inspired by those few who can see no good that the School Committee does, and can see politics at long range, because their minds dwell on that, and feed on it three times a day.

I think the School Committee have no apologies to make for their vote. The city charter distinctly says "The generall management and control of the public schools of said city shall be vested in a school committee." In persuance of that article, when a new school house is built it is turned over to the School Committee by the Executive, and henceforth is wholly under the jurisdiction of the School Committee until such time as they are done with it and return it to the Executive, which the committee has not done, when up jumps some one to take it away by force. Now Mr. Editor, doesn't this look more like politics of the cheap brand than any action of the School Committee?

Now a few facts that can easily be proven. First, do you consider that while we have built five new school buildings and made additions to two more in the past ten years, yet there are only two small buildings that are really new schools. The others take the place of old worn out buildings. For instance, take the Coddington, we had from fifty to seventy-six pupils to a room. The new building was so built that only fifty could be put in a room, so the new building cares for only about one hundred and five more pupils. Then the new Wollaston school has two more rooms than the old one, yet they will only accommodate forty-four pupils to the room, with a total of 528 for the building, while the old building had some 450, or 78 less than the new one. The city has provided additional accommodation for 100 at the Quincy

78 at the Wollaston
105 at the Coddington
176 at the Atherton Hough
372 at the Montclair

making a total of one thousand, while the school population has increased nearly two thousand in the same time.

The Massachusetts Fields district has been so congested for the past two years that we have had to use the corridors for class rooms. No section of our city is growing nearly so fast as this section and Atlantic, as people from other places have lately found out what a charming residential place this district is, and with the laying out of the Wollaston Park annex as an up-to-date home property, with well laid out streets, granolithic sidewalks, and modern improvements, it doesn't take much of a prophet to predict what will happen in the next few years.

With the new Wollaston building full in September, the corridors of the Massachusetts Fields school used the past year, with 40 of them graduating, and 100 new scholars coming in for that building, with every room in the New High school occupied and full in September. I ask you, in all fairness, if the School Committee is not justified in being anxious about school accommodations? Is there anything that looks like cheap politics in wanting to retain the old Wollaston building. Of course it will have to have a new fire escape, and the sanitary arrangement will have to be improved, but, will it not be infinitely better than too much crowding. Mr. Editor, many of us remember when we had to use the old High School building as an annex to the new for some four years, although it was in much worse condition than the old Wollaston building. We can have little hope of getting more than one school building a year on account of the city finance, yet in September there will be enough new scholars to almost fill two buildings, with High School accommodation demanding attention.

Now Mr. Editor, as the colored population is very small in our city, the School Committee has no "Nigger in the woodpile," and no more politics than all good citizens should have. They are not out to throw pap to any one, but for the good of our school children, first, last and always.

Yours very truly,
John L. Miller.
Chairman School Committee.

DROWNED IN QUARRY HOLE

James Gilraine Found After Search by Police AFFECTED BY THE HEAT

The body of James Gilrain aged 83 years who had been missing since early Tuesday morning was found before 5 o'clock that night by Chief Burrell and a squad of officers in an old quarry hole adjoining Trainor's quarry. Mr. Gilrain had been under the weather from the heat for several days and Tuesday morning wandered away and when last seen was going in the direction of Carroll's lane. Becoming alarmed at his absence the police were notified and a lost child call was sounded shortly before 2 o'clock. This did not bring many searchers however and a little later it was deemed advisable to send in another call. This was done at 4.29 and brought some help. Chief Burrell with a detail of officers headed the searching party.

A hat such as worn by Mr. Gilrain when last seen was picked up near the Trainor quarry which gave the first clew to his possible fate. Grappling irons were then brought into play and the pond dragged and the body located.

Mr. Gilrain was a gardner and had been employed on the Adams estate for many years.

ACCIDENTALLY TURNED POWER

Joseph Cryan Started Car Which Killed Him

CAR MEN GRIEVE FOR HIM

Investigation on the part of the street railway officials Tuesday brought out the facts in relation to the accident by which Joseph Cryan lost his life. It seems that he had run a car down Hancock street to take the place of a disabled car on the Neponset, Weymouth Landing line. The cars were close together and the passengers had changed cars and the car was about ready to start when the unfortunate man stepped between the two cars and stood on the fender. Reaching up he took hold of the controller handle to take it off and in doing so he accidentally turned on the power. The two cars came together with a crash pinning him by the leg between the two bunters.. As one of the bunters was a little higher than the other they came together like the blades of a pair of scissors almost cutting his leg off.

Although Officer O'Neil of the Metropolitan police who was on the car applied a tournequit to his leg he lost considerable blood and it was the loss of blood coupled with the shock that caused his death.

There was an air of sadness at the car barn all day Tuesday at the untimely death of Mr. Cryan for he was a man universally liked by men as well as one in which the officers of the company had the utmost confidence.

There is still considerable feeling on the part of the railway officials and friends of the unfortunate man at their inability to learn of the unfortunate man's condition until after he had been dead some time. Many times after the accident the hospital was called but every time the answer was the same, "you will have to see the doctor."

In the hospitals in Boston there is a bulletin posted in the office near the telephone upon which the condition of every patient is noted and one has but to call one of these hospitals to immediately get an answer. Some such an arrangement in Quincy would be appreciated by people having friends who are patients.

COURT OFFICERS' ANNUAL OUTING

Sheriff Quinn of Suffolk County Did Not Appear

Owing to several of the members of the court officers being away on vacations the meeting of the association held at the court building Tuesday afternoon was not as largely attended as usual. The meeting was entirely informal and no business of importance transacted. Court Officer Marden showed the party over the new building and served light refreshments. An informal discussion of matters pertaining to the good of the association was held but as stated above no definite action was taken.

It was expected that Sheriff Quinn, of Suffolk county would be the guest of the meeting and address the members but he was detained at his office by business engagements.

COUNCIL AT SQUANTUM

was warmly received as it was through his good work that Squantum received its first appropriations of $10,000 and $8,000 for Squantum street.

He said, "There are many minor improvements you should now receive. You should have more lights; you should see the Mayor about oiling and watering your streets. Wards 5 and 6 are doing a great work in upholding Quincy in her financial condition. From 50 to 75 acres a year are being built on mostly in Wards 5 and 6. A permanent substantial growth is being made in these wards, I don't know what would happen to Quincy financially but forthese wards. But we can't expect such good homes to be built here without city improvements.

Mr. Beeman congratulated the association upon having one member who was continuously on the job getting improvements. He referred to ex-President Kenyon. "Nature has given you a mighty good send off in your location. Every man who joins your improvement association is a man worth while.

You need deep water mains and while I am in the Quincy City Council I will vote for the things which I consider worth while."

Councilman Cunningham said that he was glad to see that the association had adopted the policy of securing a few improvements each year. "When I attended your dinner in Boston this winter you had a hundred things on your list that you wanted but you finally compromised on half a dozen things which you have secured. The financial condition of the city is now very bad. Your tax rate may be $22.00, $23.00 this year. The last few administrations have left bills which must be paid. Within a couple of years the tax bill should drop to $19.00. You will get new lights when the new street railway contract is made and the new auto chemical at Atlantic will give better fire protection. You should have deep water service on Ocean and Green streets.

Councilman Sodergren said he was glad to meet the members of the association, and glad to see such interest taken to improve the community.

On motion of Mr. Nelson a rising vote of thanks was given the Councilmen for attending the meeting.

Mr. Eager made a hit by singing an Irish song.

Ex-President Kenyon reported to the association that the street cars were running half hour throughout the day with a 10.35 P. M. car from Neponset four days a week and 11.35 on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Chairman Callahan of the clubhouse committee reported that no action had been taken by the committee pending a special meeting of the association to be called next week.

President Carlson appointed a committee of three to take up the matter of securing a switch on Hancock street to avoid the present nuisance of riding backwards on cars from Neponset carbarns to railroad station. Messrs. Kenyon, Nelson and Anderson were made members of this committee.

It was voted to have a committee to confer with the Chief of Police regarding police protection at Squantum on special occasions.

The matter of a lawn party was taken up but dropped after a spirited discussion as it was the concensus of opinion that the ladies of Squantum were far better qualified to conduct such an affair.

YACHT CLUB PARTY.

The most largely attended hop of the season was held at the Quincy Yacht club Tuesday evening. Dancing began at eight o'clock and concluded shortly before midnight. Refreshments were served and the affair was pronounced enjoyable in every way.

The music was by the Wollaston orchestra. The committee in charge was Harry S. Crane, Andrew Burrell and George Tupper.

HILLES HEADS TAFT CAMPAIGN

Massachusetts Man Chosen as National Secretary

TAFT NOT TO BE SACRIFICED

Private Secretary of the President to Resign—Barnes Probably Chairman of Executive Board—Reynolds Provided For as His Position Expires—Wilson, Roosevelt and Debs Classed Together

Washington, July 10.—Chairman of the Republican national committee—Charles Dewey Hilles of Ohio.

Secretary—James Burton Reynolds of Massachusetts.

Secretary to the president, to succeed Charles D. Hilles—Gus J. Karger of Ohio, or Carmin A. Thompson of Ohio.

The chairman of the national committee will be surrounded. or supported, by an executive board or campaign committee, of which William Barnes, Jr., of New York will probably be chairman and in charge of the campaign of the east, while Joseph B. Kealing of Indiana, as a member of this board, will have immediate supervision of the campaign in the west. This executive board or campaign committee, as well as other sub-committees, and the detailed plans for starting the campaign off, will be further considered at an adjourned meeting of the sub-committee of the national committee.

The president, it is understood, expressed the wish that Mr. Barnes of New York and Mr. Kealing of Indiana should be members of the executive board of the campaign committee that is to assist Mr. Hilles in the management of the campaign. The president said to members of the subcommittee that he regretted the loss of Mr. Hilles' services in the White House. He told members of the committee that he would make either Gus J. Karger or Carmi A. Thompson, both Ohio men, secretary in place of Mr. Hilles. Mr. Karger has been identified in a way with the administration for the last two years as publicity man. Mr. Thompson is an assistant secretary of the interior department.

The election of Mr. Hilles as chairman of the committee and campaign manager means that the interests of the nominee for president are under no circumstances to be sacrificed. Mr. Taft has let it be known since the politicians came to town that he wants the Republican party preserved everywhere, but he does not want it preserved at the expense of its candidate for president. In other words he intends to insist that as the party's nominee for president he shall not be sacrificed anywhere in order that the party organization may be kept intact.

Hilles is forty-five years of age and is an Ohioan by birth. Next to Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, Hilles is considered the greatest authority in the country on juvenile corrective work. He was appointed assistant secretary of the treasury in April, 1909.

Reynolds, the new national secretary of the tariff board, which is slated for congressional extinction Aug. 1. He was for years secretary of the Massachusetts Republican state committtee. His home is in Boston.

Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts is said to have dictated Reynolds' choice. The new secretary is considered a strong "administration" man. Retiring Secretary Hayward was regarded by some members as slightly pro-Roosevelt.

Ralph Williams is slated for appointment as one of the "big five" advisory committee to be placed in charge of the Pacific coast headquarters.

Chairman Hilles will practically dictate the membership of both the executive and advisory committees.

There are indications that Taft and his advisers believe the chances good for victory this fall. For the first time in the deliberations of the leaders in any major party the Socialist vote is being regarded as a factor in an election.

The way the situation was outlined yesterday Wilson, Roosevelt and Debs may be expected to divide the radical vote, Wilson getting the most, Roosevelt second, with Debs receiving more votes than were ever polled by the Socialists before. The leaders have told Taft that under such circumstances he will get all the conservative votes, which they said would be enough to elect him.

INJURED IN CAR WRECK

Charles J. O'Malley of Atlantic Had An Ankle Broken

AND KNEE INJURED

Charles J. O'Malley, of 77 Botolph street, Atlantic was among those severely injured in the train wreck in the rear of Paragon Park, Nantasket, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. O'Malley sustained a broken ankle and an injury to his left knee.

In an interview with a Ledger reporter this morning, Mr. O'Malley stated that he considered himself lucky in not being killed, as he fell beneath a car and was only about three inches from the wheel. He said he felt the wheel grinding and thought surely that his death was at hand.

Instead of trying to save his own life, Mr. O'Malley was solicitous about the welfare of an aged lady, who had been hurled from her seat. In an effort to place her in safety, he himself was thrown under the car.

Mr. O'Malley declares that it was nothing short of miraculous that a number were not instantly killed as a result of the wreck. He himself is badly injured and fears he will be laid up for some time.

Mr. O'Malley is well known in sporting circles and has resided at Atlantic for the past four years.

Two Braintree residents were also injured in the accident. They were Mr. and Mrs. George C. Madden and his wife of Franklin street, South Braintree. Mr. Madden had his left shoulder dislocated and sustained injuries about the hips. Mrs. Madden was badly shaken up.

BRIEFS

Mrs. B. B. Weatherbee, nee Henrietta Stenzel, of New Jersey, is visiting her parents on Botolph street.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanford York and family of Botolph street are visiting relatives in Rockport, Maine.

Maurice Power of Bigelow street sailed Tuesday on the Franconia for a visit to his former home in Bristol, England.

Mrs. Dame and her daughter, Marjorie, of Botolph street, have gone to Maine where they will remain for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Marble of East Squantum street went to Maine Monday, where they will visit relatives for a few weeks.

Miss Zenith Torrey and her niece Zenith Kilpatrick both of Newbury avenue went to Gloucester today for a weeks' sojourn.

Mrs. David T. Drummond and daughter, Miss Nellie Drummond of Pleasant street are summering at Southport, Maine.

Mrs. Chester Lewis, nee Nichols, of Dorchester, is spending part of the summer at Monponsett, Mr. Lewis going down the latter part of the week.

Mrs. William Fleming and children of Euclid avenue and Miss Mollie Knight of Willett street are leaving today for Harpswell, Maine, where they will remain for the rest of the summer.

These hot days bring large numbers of bathers at the Atlantic beach Even many who do not bathe in the salt water go down to sit on the beach. There surely isn't a cooler place in Atlantic.

Dorcas Society connected with the Swedish Lutheran church met at the home of Mr. Halteen on Gothland street. Business meeting was followed by a social. There was a large attendance.

—The editor of the Survey strikes a true and needed note when he says that we have to deal with anarchy above as well as below in our country. "There is no cure for the lawlessness of the street and the shop which does not rest upon a respect for law and a full guarantee of legal and constitutional rights." There is a strong suspicion among the lower classes in this country that the dice of law are loaded, and that, while the poor man is held strictly to obedience to the statutes that refer to him, the rich man or the man of power can, by means of legal assistance or by influence in high places, go on undisturbed in his disobedience to the plain requirements of Congressional or State law. If this be an error, it is one which is wide-spread and which encourages the cynicism of the lower classes.—Christian Register.

NANTASKET HAS ELECTRIC SMASH

SPEEDING AROUND CURVES

Wonder That No One Was Killed—Injured Cared For at Paragon Park—Forward Cars Wrecked—Traffic Held Up For Hours—Motorman Has Miraculous Escape—Travel Was Light at the Time

Nantasket, Mass., July 10.—Eighteen people were injured in the wreck of the four-car electric train on the curve near Paragon Park, yesterday afternoon, and traffic was tied up for several hours.

The forward truck of the first car left the rails. The forward car cut down several telegraph poles and crashed into the park fence, derailing the three trailer cars.

The forward cars were badly damaged, running gear wrecked and woodwork splintered. The crash alarmed hundreds of visitors in Paragon Park.

All of the injured people were removed to the administration building at Paragon Park, and a hurry call was sent for doctors from Hingham and elsewhere.

William Cogill, the motorman of the train, who was pinned between the fender and the fence of Paragon Park, and miraculously escaped instant death, was taken to him home in Cohasset shortly after the accident.

The accident was one of the most peculiar that has happened on the electric line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford line for a number of years past.

Excessive speed in rounding the curve and spreading rails is thought to have been the cause of the accident.

Several of the passengers claim that just before reaching thee long curve excessive speed was used in rounding the curve. At any rate when the curve was reached a minute before reaching the station a terrific bump and jolt was felt by those in the first car, followed by the derailment of the car. As the car tore along the roadbed at undiminished speed it struck several telegraph poles and uprooted or snapped them short and this caused the car to swerve from the path and make for the fence at Paragon Park, plowing through the sandy embankment where it struck with a crash and came to a stop. The second car or trailer likewise followed the first and came to a stop across the tracks, after ripping off both trucks and splintering the running boards or steps and strewing the roadbed with wreckage. Both cars narrowly missed going through the fence inside the park.

The two other cars in the rear although derailed did not leave the roadbed. They were easily put back by the wrecking trains.

As the accident occurred in such a manner that the cars were thrown across both the north and southbound tracks, traffic was suspended until the roadway could be made clear again. To add to the delay the power was shut off for the entire line, and hundreds of passengers from incoming boats at Pemberton, coming from the city, were held up and were obliged to wait for several hours before traffic could be resumed. Later in the evening one train was run at intervals, but this proved insufficient, and thousands of returning excursionists were forced to wait for the ingoing boats, which were filled to capacity. It was after midnight before the wreckage was entirely removed to permit of traffic being resumed on the line.

GOTHAM POLICE INSURED

New York, July 10.—Contracts will be signed within a few days under which all the members of the police department will have their lives insured. The insurance will be effected through several blanket policies. Grouping the several contracts together, it is said to be the largest life insurance deal ever made.

The New York police department has in round numbers some 10,000 members. The contracts proposed will insure these 10,000 members for between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 with annual premiums of something like $150,000. The cost to the individual policeman, who will pay a flat rate without regard to age, will be approximately $15 per $1000.

Wise Advice From Senator Gore

Sea Girt, N. J., July 10.—There is much speculation concerning the course Governor Wilson will take regarding the governorship. Judge Wescott and Mr. Hudspeth advised him not to resign until about inauguration day. Senator Gore of Oklahoma said he didn't believe any good Democrat should resign from a job until he had to.

ST. THOMAS IS KEY

Niels Gron Fears Denmark May Control the Panama Canal

Berlin, July 10.—Stealthy designs on American supremacy over the Panama canal lie hidden behind recent developments in the Danish West Indies, according to Niels Gron, a Danish-American traveler and publicist.

Mr. Gron is known in American and European political circles as the negotiator of the treaty of 1902, whereby the United States attempted to buy Denmark's colonial possesssions in the West Indies.

Mr. Gron has been carrying on a vigorous public campaign throughout Denmark against the Danish "money trust" in connection with its recent acquisition of an incalculably valuable government concession for improving and exploiting the harbor of St. Thomas, which has been called the key to the Caribbean, and which, in the opinion of many, practically dominates the entrance and exit to the Panama canal.

The affiliations of the "money trust" which captured the concessions are such, Mr. Gron asserts, that the danger of the control of St. Thomas' harbor falling at some time into German or even Japanese hands is, and will remain a real and ever imminent one.

ELKS CHOOSE EXALTED RULER

Report Shows It the Wealthiest Order In America

Portland, Or., July 10.—The formal opening of the forty-eighth grand lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks marked the oening of the session.

Thomas B. Mills of Superior, Wis., was elected grand exalted ruler of the Elks for the ensuing year. C. H. Ward of Pasadena, Cal., was elected grand esteemed loyal knight.

Rochester, N. Y., probably will receive the honor for 1913 of holding the convention, the opposition by Cincinnati, it is said, not being vigorous. So far the only city that is preparing to make a contest next year for the 1914 convention is Atlanta, Ga.

According to the annual report of the grand secretary, the total value of property owned by the subordinate lodges at the close of the fiscal year, March 31, was $20,391,832.45, which, according to the report, makes the order the wealthiest in America.

The total membership in the order as shown by the secretary's report is 384,724, a net increase of 25,065 in the last year.

The report shows thirty-one lodges with a membership of over 1000. Brooklyn shows the record for the best growth. This lodge received 1694 applications and a total of 814 were initiated, making the present total 3693, leaving approximately 850 to be initiated by the incoming exalted ruler.

TO CHANGE NATURE

Would Bar Office Holders From Political Organizations

Washington, July 10.—Representative Hull of Tennessee has introduced a bill forbidding officers, agents, clerks or other employes of the United States government to become delegates of any political party to any national convention held for the purpose of nominating a president or vice president.

It is also provided that no government employe shall "hold or occupy any official position in any national branch of any political organization organized or constituted for the purpose of influencing" the nomination of presidential candidates.

Will Speak at Boston

Boston, July 10.—Colonel Roosevelt will speak Aug. 17 at Point of Pines, at a mass meeting to be held there.

COLONEL'S WAR MAP SCHEME

Most Elaborate Political Chart Ever Prepared

TO GET ELECTORAL VOTES

Plans to Capture Local and State Tickets From Either Party—Stay Within the Party Wherever Possible—Illustrative Data From Every District—Vermont to Support Democratic Candidate For Governor

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 10.—Plans have been outlined whereby Colonel Roosevelt hopes to capture local or state tickets from both the Democratic and Republican parties in furtherance of his purpose to put the new third party on its feet. It is proposed to execute the move within the party organizations where the Roosevelt sentiment is strong enough to make such an attempt feasible.

"In certain districts," said Colonel Roosevelt, "the Republican nominations will be captured for progressives who will support our candidates for electors. In other districts this will be done through the Democratic organizations."

As the first step in the plan, there is under preparation what will be perhaps the most elaborate political chart of the country which ever has been made. When it is completed Colonel Roosevelt's organizers will have data from every congressional district in the country, in the shape of information regarding the strength of the Roosevelt following, conditions in both the Democratic and Republican state and district organizations, tables showing the vote in past national elections, and lists of the best available number for the new party among the political workers and the leading men in business and the professions.

This will be Colonel Roosevelt's war map. It will show him at a glance where the best field lies in each state and district for the success of Roosevelt electoral candidates, and whether to attempt to work through the Republican or Democratic organizations or by placing complete independent tickets in the field. In some cases it is hoped to arrange for fusion of the independent and the Republican or Democratic tickets, provided the candidates on the local tickets will support the Roosevelt electors in exchange for having the Roosevelt strength thrown behind them. To make this possible, the fight will be carried into the party organiaztions, to procure the nomination of men who will support Roosevelt candidates for electors.

Roosevelt Electors Wanted

Spokane, July 10.—Progressive Republicans at a meeting here decided against putting a new party ticket in the field for state and county officers. The meeting recommended progressive Republican candidates to file for the state primaries on the Republican ticket. The meeting, however, adopted resolutions declaring that the progressives do not regard the Chicago convention as binding on the regular Republicans, "Roosevelt being the overwhelming choice of the voters and of a majority of the delegates of the convention." The resolution advocates a state convention to select delegates to the national progressive convention in ChicagoA, ng. 5, and the selection of seven presidential electors of the progressive ticket in the state.

Fusion In Vermont

Bethel, Vt., July 10.—The following telegram to Colonel Roosevelt from Wallace Bachelder of Bethel, chairman of Vermont Roosevelt league, is indicative of the action that will be taken by the Vermont progressives in the state and national campaigns this year:

"At several conferences Vermont progressives agreed the new party should nominate tickets for state officers and for presidential electors this year. All also agreed that new party should nominate for governor Hon. Harland B. Howe of St. Johnsbury. The Democrats have already placed him at the head of their ticket."

Osborn Against New Party

Lansing, Mich., July 10.—Governor Chase S. Osborne of Michigan, in a statement, expresses the hope that "all good Republicans will refuse to join the malcontents" in the formation of a new party, and says those who are not satisfied with Mr. Taft as a presidential candidate can get what they want by voting for Woodrow Wilson.

North Carolina For Roosevelt

Greensboro, N. C., July 10.—Republican state leaders active in the recent campaign in support of Theodore Roosevelt at a conference here adopted resolutions favoring remaining with the old party and the selection of Roosevelt electors in November.

Pennies Make Dollars

Washington, July 10.—Treasury officials estimate that there are now 1 952.131,861 pennies in circulation.

WALKER IS EARLY

Former Massachusetts Speaker Secures Nomination Papers

Boston, July 10.—Former Speaker Joseph Walker is the first gubernatorial candidate to take out nomination papers for the coming primary contests. Walker is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and so far, he said, he has heard of no opposition within the regular Republican ranks.

The regular progressive Republicans are drawing up a "letter to the people," in which the support of progressive Republican candidates and principles will be asked during the coming state and national contests.

BALLINGER IN HANFORD TRIAL

Name Crops Up In An Old Court Scandal

Seattle, July 10.—Several acquaintances testified before the congressional committee that Judge Hanford never drank more than "a gentleman ordinarily drinks."

Attorney L. J. Finch told the committee he was counsel for the ship building firm of Heckman & Hanson, which, about ten years ago, went into voluntary bankruptcy with assets, Finch said, of $60,000 and only $24,000 in liabilities. A receiver was appointed and sold the property to a man who, the witness asserted, was acting in the interest of a bank of which former Secretary of the Interior Ballinger was counsel. Appearing before Judge Hanford, Finch secured a reference of the matter to a referee in bankruptcy with a view to reopening the case. When, however, he demanded that the bank produce its books the matter was put up to Judge Hanford, who not only declined to reopen the case, but criticised the attorneys.

"I told him," said Finch, "that with these books I could produce evidence sufficient to disbar Ballinger and his colleagues," referring to other attorneys who had appeared with Ballinger in the affair. "Make that good or I'll disbar you," witness said Hanford replied. The judge, Finch said, later called a meeting of the Seattle Bar association, at which resolutions were adopted exonerating Ballinger. A committee appointed to consider the disbarment of Finch reported it could not find evidence upon which to act, whereupon the judge, in open court, expressed regret at his own inability to do it.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MAKING OATMEAL PALATABLE.

OATMEAL is rich in nutritious material. The outside grain, however, is such that unless it is well cooked it is hard to digest. For persons who exercise vigorously it is an excellent food. It is especially rich in fats and is therefore a good diet when the weather is damp or chilly.

If oatmeal is steamed it should be cooked for three hours in case it has previously been soaked or for six or more if it has not.

There are many ways of serving oatmeal other than as the conventional breakfast mush. Many persons who abhor the cereal served with milk and cream will take it in other forms.

Good For the Youngsters.

Oatmeal Cookies.—These cakes will be liked by the little folks. They are as wholesome as delicious. To make them warm and beat together a cupful of honey and three-fourths of a cupful of butter. Add two beaten eggs, a pinch of salt, one cupful of washed and chopped raisins. Sift two teaspoonfuls of baking powder with two cupfuls of flour and stir with two cupfuls of oatmeal into the mixture. Add half a cupful of hot water. Put on buttered tins and bake in a moderate oven. Serve either hot or cold.

Simple Cakes.

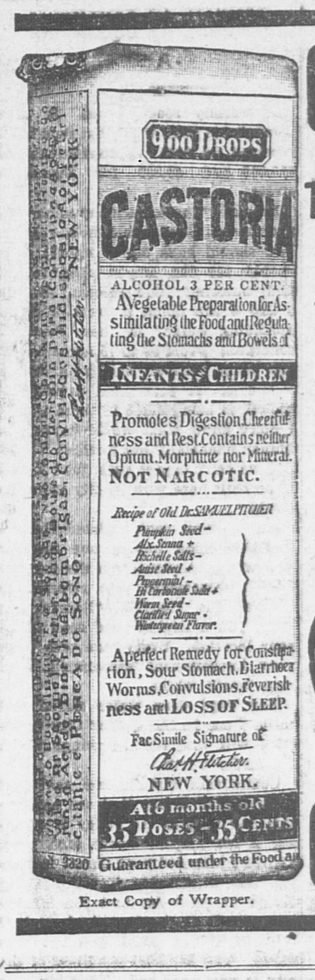

Oatmeal Breakfast Cake.—Rub two ounces of butter into half a pound of oatmeal. Add salt to taste and mix with cold water. Roll out rather thinly, form into small cakes and bake in a moderate oven. Butter and serve hot.

Oatmeal and Bananas.—Cook oatmeal in the usual way. After placing it in the cereal dish slice bananas over the top, sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve with cream. If desired other fruit may be substituted for the bananas.

A Nutritious Cake.

Scotch Oatcake.—To prepare it take one pound of medium oatmeal, two ounces of butter or good dripping, a small teaspoonful of salt and water. Put the oatmeal and salt into a basin; rub the butter into it; then mix in enough water to make it into a smooth, stiff dough. Sprinkle some oatmeal over the board and rolling pin. Put the mixture on the board and roll out to the desired thickness; then either cut it in pieces about three inches square or stamp out rounds with a cutter. Slightly grease a frying pan. Put in a few cakes and bake over a slow fire. If preferred, they may be put on a greased baking tin and baked in the oven.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Billy helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

They talked of flowers, moths, dragon flies, Indian relics and all the natural wonders the swamp afforded, straying from those subjects to books and school work. When they cleared the table Ammon assisted, carrying several tray loads to the kitchen. He and Elnora mounted specimens, while Mrs. Comstock washed the dishes. Then she came out with a ruffle she was embroidering. At last Ammon said he must go or his friends would become anxious about him.

"May I come tomorrow afternoon and chase moths awhile?" he asked Mrs. Comstock as he arose. "I've got to remain outdoors some place, and I'm quite sure I'd get well faster here than anywhere else. Please say I may come."

"I have no objections if Elnora really would like help," said Mrs. Comstock.

In her heart she wished he would not. She wanted her newly found treasure all to herself for a time at least. But Elnora's were eager, shining eyes. She thought it would be splendid to have help and great fun to try book methods for taking moths, so it was arranged. As Ammon rode away Mrs. Comstock's eyes followed him. "What a nice young man!" she said.

"He seems fine," agreed Elnora.

The next morning Mrs. Comstock called to Elnora, "The mail carrier stopped at our box."

Elnora ran down the walk and came back carrying an official looking letter, in which the position of lecturer on natural history was offered to Elnora, at a salary of $720 a year, with $200 for expenses.

"It is a new position. They never have had anything like it before. I suspect it arose from the help I've been giving the grade teachers in their nature work. Mother, dear, I am going to accept this, of course. The work will be a delight. I'd love it most of anything in teaching. You must help me. We must find nests, eggs, leaves, queer formations in plants and rare flowers. I must have flower boxes made for each of the rooms and filled with wild things. I should begin to gather specimens this very day."

Elnora was on her feet. Her face was flushed and her eyes bright.

"Can I help you?" Mrs. Comstock's strong face was pathetic.

"Indeed, yes!" cried Elnora. "I never can get through it alone."

Ammon came whistling down the walk between the cinnamon pinks, pansies and strawberries. He carried several packages, while his face flushed with more color than on the previous day.

"Only see what has happened to me!" cried Elnora, offering her letter.

"I'll wager I know!" answered Ammon. "Isn't it great? Every one in Onabasha is talking about it."

He laughed as he sat, breathing shortly.

"It doesn't seem possible that a fellow could lose his strength like this. My knees are actually trembling, but I'll be all right in a minute. Uncle Doc said I could come."

Then he began unwrapping packages and explaining to Mrs. Comstock how to cook the compound. He followed her into the kitchen, kindled the fire and stirred the preparation as he talked. While the mixture cooled he and Elnora walked through the vegetable garden behind the cabin and strayed from there into the woods.

CHAPTER XIX.

Wherein Philip Ammon Is Shown Limberlost Violets.

AMMON looked at the girl in wonder. In face and form she was as lovely as any one of her age and type he had ever seen. Her school work far surpassed that of most girls of her age he knew. She differed in other ways. This vast store of learning she had gathered from field and forest was a wealth of attraction no other girl possessed. Her frank, matter of fact manner was an inheritance from her mother, but there was something more. Once, as they talked he thought "sympathy" was the word to describe it and again "comprehension." She seemed to possess a large sense of brotherhood for all human and animate creatures. She might as well have been a boy, so lacking was she in any touch of feminine coquetry toward him. He studied her wonderingly.

As they went along the path they reached a large slime covered pool surrounded by decaying stumps and logs thickly covered with water hyacinths and blue flags. Ammon stopped.

"Is that the place?" he asked.

Elnora assented.

"The doctor told you?"

"Yes. It was tragic. Is that pool really bottomless?"

"So far as we ever have been able to discover."

"And you were born here?"

He had not intended to voice that thought.

"Yes," she said looking into his eyes. "Just in time to prevent my mother from saving the life of my father. She came near never forgiving me. A little farther along is my violet bed. I want you to see it."

She led him into a swampy half open space in the woods, stopped and stepped aside. Ammon uttered a cry of surprised delight. A few decaying logs were scattered around, the grass grew in tufts long and fine. Blue flags waved, clusters of cowslips nodded gold heads, but the whole earth was purple with a thick blanket of violets nodding from stems a foot in length. Elnora knelt and slipping her fingers through the leaves and grasses to the roots, gathered a few violets and gave them to Philip.

"Can your city greenhouses surpass them?" she asked.

Ammon sat on a log to examine the blooms.

"They are superb!" he said. "I never saw such length of stem or such rank leaves, while the flowers are the deepest blue, the truest violet I ever saw growing wild. They are colored exactly like the eyes of the girl I am going to marry."

Elnora handed him several others to add to those he held.

"She must have wonderful eyes," she commented.

"No other blue eyes are quite so beautiful," he said. "In fact, she is altogether lovely."

"It is customary for a man to think the girl he is going to marry lovely. I wonder if I should find her so."

"You would," said Ammon. "No one ever fails to. She is tall as you, very slender, but perfectly rounded; you know about her eyes; her hair is black and wavy, while her complexion is clear and flushed with red."

Elnora knelt among the flowers as she looked at him.

"Why, she must be the most beautiful girl in the whole world," she cried.

Ammon laughed.

"No, indeed," he said. "She is not a particle better looking in her way than you are in yours. She is a type of dark beauty, but you are just as perfect. She is unusual in her combination of black hair and violet eyes, although every one thinks them black at a little distance. You are quite as unusual with your fair face, black brows and brown hair. Indeed, I know many people who would prefer your bright head to her dark one. It's all a question of taste—and being engaged to the girl," he added.

"Edith has a birthday soon. If these last will you let me have a box of them to send her?"

"I will help gather and pack them for you, so they will carry nicely. Is she interested in nature?"

"What interests Edith Carr? Let me think. First, I believe she takes pride in being just a little handsomer and better dressed than any girl of her set. She is interested in having a beautiful home, fine appointments about her, in being petted, praised and the acknowledged leader of society. She likes to find new things which amuse her and to always and in all circumstances have her own way about everything."

"Good gracious!" cried Elnora, staring at him. "But what does she do? How does she spend her time?"

"Spend her time!" repeated Ammon. "Well, she would call that a joke. Her days are never long enough. There is endless shopping to find the pretty things, regular visits to the dressmakers, calls, parties, theaters, entertainments. She is always rushed. I never get to see half as much of her as I would like."

"But I mean work," persisted Elnora. "In what is she interested that is useful to the world?"

"Me!" cried Ammon promptly.

"I can understand that," laughed Elnora. "What I can't understand is how you can be in"— She stopped short in confusion, but she saw that he had finished the sentence as she had intended. "I beg your pardon," she cried. "I didn't mean to say that. But I cannot understand these people I hear about who live only for their own amusement. Perhaps it is very great. I'll never have a chance to know. To me it seems the only pleasure in this world worth having is the joy we get out of living for those we love and those we can help. I hope you are not angry with me."

Ammon sat silently looking far away, with deep thought in his eyes.

"You are angry," faltered Elnora.

His look came back to her as she knelt before him among the flowers and he gazed at her steadily.

"No doubt I should be," he said, "but the fact is I am not. I cannot understand a life purely for personal pleasure myself. But she is only a girl, and this is her playtime. When she is a woman in her own home, then she will be different, will she not?"

Elnora never resembled her mother so closely as when she answered that question.

"I would have to be well acquainted with her to know, but I should hope so. To make a real home for a tired business man is a very different kind of work from that required to be a leader of society. It demands different talent and education. Of course, she means to change, or she would not have promised to make a home for you. I suspect our dope is cool now. Let's go try for some butterflies."

"You should hear my sister Polly!" said Ammon. "This was her last year in college. Lunches and sororities were all I heard her mention, until Tom Levering came on deck; now he is the leading subject."

"Is Edith Carr a college girl?"

"No. She is the very selectest kind of a private boarding school girl."

As they went back along the path together Elnora talked of many things, but Ammon answered absently. Evidently he was thinking of something else. But the moth bait recalled him, and he was ready for work as they made their way back to the woods. He wanted to try the Limberlost, but Elnora was firm about keeping on home ground. She did not tell him that lights hung in the swamp would be a signal to call up a band of men whose presence she dreaded. So they set out, Ammon carrying the dope, Elnora the net, Billy and Mrs. Comstock following with cyanide boxes and lanterns.

First they tried for butterflies and captured several fine ones with little trouble. They also called swarms of ants, beetles, bees and flies. When it grew dusk Mrs. Comstock and Ammon went to prepare supper. Elnora and Billy remained until the butterflies went to bed. Then they lighted the lanterns, repainted the trees and followed the home trail.

PROHIBITIONISTS QUARREL

Over Practical Politics and Too Much Church Politics

Atlantic City, N. J., July 10.—A presidential nomination boom based on a new issue that would substitute practical politics for "church politics" in the Prohibition movement was started here last night on the eve of the Prohibition national convention.

Finley C. Hendrickson of Cumberland, Md., was launched as a candidate for the Prohibition presidential nomination by the Maryland delegation, which will appeal for his selection as the party standard-bearer on a broad platform, especially urging that there be more earnest appeal for votes outside the churches and less of the energy of the party be expended in "howling for the church vote."

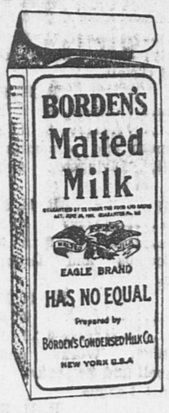

Mr. Hendrickson, who is a member of the Prohibition party executive committee, is a strong advocate of more practical politics in the Prohibition movement.

Another tangible boom for the party ticket was precipitated at a reception to the delegates when the Massachusetts delegation arrived with friends and banners proclaiming "Chafin and Watkins for 1912," the party ticket in 1908. Eugene W. Chafin of Illinois was the presidential nominee and Aaron S. Watkins, vice presidential nominee, in the preceeding campaign and many are urging their renomination.

THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

The Man, the Woman and the Cash Are Missing

West Attleboro, Mass., July 10.—Edward Coggshal, a farmer, has taken out a warrant for the arrest of Hiram Taylor, his farm hand, charging him with stealing $125.

Hiram, according to Coggshal, took the latter's wife along too. Coggshal told Sheriff Brown that upon arriving home his wife was missing; a little further search revealed the fact that Hiram was missing. He next thought of the money, the savings of some months, whose hiding place none but himself and his wife knew of. That was gone, too.

—Westerly, Rhode Island, whose granite industry is its distinctive business, is to have a public building of white marble. This is on a par, says the Milford Gazette with the proposed use of other than Milford granite in our new post-office building. In neither case is it a very good advertisement of the town's important industry. A reasonable view of the fitness of things would suggest the appropriateness of the use of the local product in both cases, but local pride seems to have little weight with the powers that be in such matters.

Light Shower This Afternoon Held Out Some Promise

Tuesday was recorded in the archives as the hottest July 9 on record. To say that it was hot would be a mild way of expressing it. At 11 A. M. the thermometer in City Square registered an even 100. Usually after noon the air seems to cool off somewhat. Not so Tuesday for as the day advanced so did the heat until at 4 o'clock glasses varied from 104 to 106 in the shade. There was not a breath of air and everybody was nearly suffocated. Sundown did not bring much relief for the evening and night was uncomfortably hot, so much so that sleep was almost impossible. During the early evening, or late afternoon the clouds became heavy in the horizon and it looked as though suffocating humanity might get a shower. While it may have rained on the shore the interior sections of the country did not get any rain.

This morning there seemed to be a little more air stirring but the air was hot and heavy. At 11 o'clock the glass registered 99 degrees or one degree less than Tuesday at the same hour. Showers are promised for Thursday and everybody is hoping that the prediction will come true.

About the only cool place Tuesday evening was on the water and thousands took advantage of the early evening tide to take a dip in the ocean and thus get cooled off somewhat. Wollaston beach was black with bathers as was also all of the other shores where bathing is possible. At the city bath house there was another large crowd and they remained in the water as long as the tide permitted. Although an addition was built to the city bath house last year it is now too small to accommodate the crowds, especially on such hot nights as during the past few days.

The shower commenced shortly after two o'clock.

The storm seemed to follow the river and moved off down along the north shore.

The rain only lasted a few minutes in this vicinity.

SUDDEN DEATH OF J. W. GREGG

Addressed a Lodge Gathering in Quincy Monday Night

James W. Gregg of Everett, former grand master of the grand lodge of the United States, I. O. O. F., M. U., died from heart disease Tuesday, at his home. While he has not been in vigorous health for some time, he addressed a lodge meeting in Quincy Monday night. Mr. Gregg was perhaps the best-known Manchester Unity Odd Fellow in the country and devoted much time and effort to promoting and extending the order. He was born in Ireland of Scottish parents, 61 years ago, and came to this country in 1870.

MRS. JOY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet C. Joy, widow of Elbridge Joy, took place from Hall's undertaking establishment Tuesday afternoon. The services were of a simple character and were conducted by Rev. Benjamin A. Wilmott, pastor of the Bethany church. There was also the ritual service by the Woman's Relief Corps, of which the deceased was a member, under direction of Mrs. Emma Marnock. Burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The late Mrs. Joy was in her 70th year, and was one of the oldest residents of Quincy.

Long In the Public Eye.

Opinions regarding what constitutes being before the public may vary, but one Kansas City negro who presides over the buffet in a certain Kansas City club has an opinion which is original, to say the least. The negro and a customer were engaged in a friendly debate regarding the former's age a few days ago. Their respective opinions varied about twenty years, the negro holding out for the smaller number of years.

"You've been around Kansas City twenty years, and you can't make me believe you're young," the customer argued.

"Ah knows Ah've been in business here for a great many years," was the reply, "but that's not saying Ah'm old. You see, Ah's been befoh de public so long people jest natchly thinks Ah'm older than Ah am."—Kansas City Journal.

NO SYMPATHETIC STRIKE AT PRESENT

Citizens of Boston Hope to Effect a Settlement

Boston, July 10.—The executive committee of the Boston Central Labor union last night voted to defer its recommendation of a general sympathetic strike to aid the striking street car men, following representations made to them by prominent citizens, who believe they will be able to effect a settlement.

The committee voted to allow a reasonable time for the citizens who appealed to them to take action and for the finding of the state board of arbitration on its investigation of the strike.

PENSION FOR MRS. SCHLEY.

Senate Votes $150 a Month to Hero of Santiago's Widow.

Mrs. Annie R. Schley, widow of Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, will receive a pension of $150 a month if the house concurs in a bill passed by the senate. The committee on pensions opposed the naming of such a large amount, but was finally overruled.

The bill passed was introduced by Senator Rayner, who served as chief counsel for Admiral Schley before the court of inquiry that passed on his action at the battle of Santiago. He made an eloquent plea for the dead naval hero. It developed during the discussion that Mrs. Schley has an income of but $450 a year in addition to the pension of $12 per month allowed under existing laws.

A brief but rousing speech was made by Senator Rayner, who asserted that Admiral Schley was in command of the American naval forces at Santiago and entitled to all the credit for the destruction of the Spanish fleet.

Europe's First Railway.

The first railway in Europe ran its first train on May 5, 1832. It went from Brussels to Mechlin.

HARRIS AGAIN A CANDIDATE

Barnes, Cushing and Wolcott Pledge Their Support

TO THE CONGRESSMAN

Congressman Robert O. Harris of Bridgewater will be a candidate for re-election to congress this fall, and his constituency will be the new Fourteenth district.

Councillor J. Stearns Cushing of Norwood, Senator George L. Barnes of Weymouth and Representative Roger Wolcott of Milton, have pledged him their support.

Congressmann Harris has issued the appended announcement to the voters of the district, with the joint letter from the other three announcing their position.

Daily inquiries whether I intend to, and frequent requests that I do stand for re-election require, in fairness a decisive answer.

I therefore announce that I am a candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket. Now that I meet men from all parts of the country, it is a source of pride to find that even the most captious criticism halts at the boundaries of our Commonwealth, and that admission is frankly made that here may be found models in legislation and civic affairs in imitation of which other communities are strenuously striving. A Massachusetts, and Old Colony man by birth and lifelong residence, I am a believer in the traditions and policies of the State. As a member of the Republican party, which for a period longer than my life has preserved and adhered to those traditions, and has been responsible for those policies, I have seen and now see no reason to change my political faith. I am confident that the Republican party has not lost its progressive quality, or its constructive ability. I believe that its statesmen in the future, as in the past, will wisely meet and solve the new problems now crowding to the front. Having had opportunity to see and know the actions and reasons of many men I believe that in the future, as in the past, the best interests of the people will be safer under Republican control. Now and then, as you may recall, I have performed public service, sometimes that in behalf of the town, sometimes for the state. Now as always my candidacy is openly submitted to the voters, and now as heretofore, I am presenting my case to the voters with no other "machine" than one composed of neighbors and willing friends. Without making claim or argument as to the value or merit of what I have done in the past, believing that with continued opportunity I can be of service to the people, I submit my candidacy to the voters, simply stating that I should esteem a renomination and re-election highly.

Robert O. Harris,
East Bridgewater.

Boston, Mass., July 10, 1912.

Hon. Robert O. Harris, East Bridgewater, Mass.

Dear Mr. Congressman:—As there has been some mention in the press of our names as possible candidates for Congress in the new Fourteenth Congressional District, we deem it not improper to write you saying that we are not candidates for the position which is now so ably filled by you and we are very glad to tender you our support and such assistance as it may be possible for us to render in the coming campaign.

We believe that your experience, acquired during the term of Congress which you have already completed and your general acquaintance with public affairs is an asset which should not be lost to the district and one which should render your nomination and election beyond question.

We desire to assure you of our support and our confidence in your success.

Respectfully,
George L. Barnes of Weymouth.
J. Stearns Cushing of Norwood.
Roger Wolcott of Milton.

BEFOGGING HAZE

Cause of Death of Bedel In Overturned Machine

Chalons-sur-Marne, France, July 10.—Rene Bedel, one of the most experienced airmen and the holder of the Pommery cup for cross-country flying, which he won from Jules Vedrines, met his death before the eyes of some thousands of French troops who were assembled on the reviewing ground at Mourmelon-le-Grand.

He was about to descend when his monoplane struck the telegraph wires which the prevailing haze evidently prevented him from seeing. His machine capsized and Bedel was thrown to the ground. It is believed that he was not killed by the fall but the motor of his aeroplane fell on his body and he was crushed almost beyond recognition.

—Will some of our good friends who are so fond of insising that the tariff is primarily and secondarily responsible for the high cost of living, kindly explain to us how they apply it to the price of eggs, for example. That furnishes about as good an instance as can be found. The price of good eggs last fall was about 25 cents per dozen. It increased later until the same grade of eggs was selling at 50 cents a dozen. At present the price is 25 cents. Now the tariff on eggs has remained at 5 cents a dozen for 13 years. Will some kind person tell us why our merchants did not rush their orders to Canada and import eggs to supply the demand if the tariff was the only thing fixing the price.—Waltham Free Press.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 27 No. 161 QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 11, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

BIG AMOUNT APPROPRIATED BY COUNCIL OUTSIDE THE BUDGET

First Six Months of Year Witnessed Abnormal Expenditure For Some Departments

Council Took Action on Large Number Papers in That Time

Some idea of what the City Council accomplished in the nineteen meetings held during the first six months of the year when it is known that it received and acted upon 105 communications, 70 petitions and 272 orders, not including the mass of business sent over to it from the council of last year. The orders acted upon do not include about 200 orders for minor licenses that have been granted.

In view of the many allusions that have been made to the financial situation of the city it will be interesting to know what the appropriations made by the City Council aggregate. These figures as given by the City Auditor show that the total amounts appropriated aggregate $150,545. Of this amount $111,200 was for school purposes, $26,885 for highways, $6,760 for Fire Department, $1,200 for Police Department $1,500 for parks and $3,000 for sewer house connections.

It might also be stated that the grand total does not include $50,000 appropriated for water extensions, and $40,000 for main sewers which amounts are under special acts and outside of the municipal debt limit.

The amount $150,545 is said to be nearly as much as the entire amount appropriated during the year 1911.

This sum is exclusive of the amounts credited to the various items of the annual budget.

BIG STORM FULL OF PROMISE FAILS TO RELIEVE HEAT SITUATION

Lightning Plays Merry Pranks. Thunder Adds Applauding Accompaniment, But the Rainfall Light

Trees Split, Cars Stalled, Telephones and Other Electric Wires Out of Commission. Old Sol Won Battle Above the Clouds

Suffering humanity received a brief respite Wednesday afternoon when there was a shower of a few minutes' duration. While the rain which fell was not particularly heavy it served to cool the air and the sun baked streets. It was but a little after 2 o'clock when the sky become overcast and there was the sound of distant thunder, which grew heavier as it approached. Then the shower broke and for a few minutes the long waited for rain began to fall.

The shower was followed by one of the heaviest electrical showers that has occurred for a long time. The thunder was unusually heavy and the lightning flashes very vivid. First there would come a heavy roll of thunder and the next minute a sharp crackling sound that seemed to rip and tear through the air. It was terrible for a time and timid ones received a bad fright.

The sound was terrifying. People who were never before timid of the electrical pranks paused in awestricken wonder at this marvelous display.

The local main relief endured but a few minutes. The drops were large and encouraged the belief that a much needed deluge was preluded by this skirmish line of water. But the hope was vain.

The rain as it struck the heated dust piles in the street, formed globules or rebounded into the air again.

Hardly had more than enough rain descended to wet down the surface, than there was a rapid change of atmospheric scene.

The clouds parted right and left and the sun broke through a perfectly blue sky with clouds of azure hue, adding to the effect.

It was a magnificent and inspiring spectacle. If possible the heat became more intense. Then while heavens' artillery and power lightning plant was working overtime, Old Sol vied with the latter, in the brilliancy of his exhibit and while the contest was prolonged and stubborn, Sol won out.

Brilliant sunshine, filling the vast canopy of heaven and flooding the earth with warm golden light, the sky ripped here and there at times, by spiteful jagged lines of lightning, while thunder rolled out mighty peals

DECIDED DROP IN TEMPERATURE

Lightning Struck House and Caused Slight Fire

RAINFALL WELCOMED

A much needed rain storm passed over Quincy this noon and was accompanied by a severe electrical display and thunder although the latter was not as severe as that of Wednesday afternoon. There was a noticeable drop in the temperature. It began to thunder shortly before noon and by 12 o'clock the rain was coming down in torrents. It was a very heavy rain and soaked into the burnt up ground.

The residence of James P. Flanagan on Field street was struck. The bolt entered through the roof and went down clean through the house tearing off boards and ripping down plastering. The bolt also set fire to the house and an alarm was sounded at 12.15 from box 25. By the time the department arrived however the occupants of the house had recovered from their fright and had extinguished what fire there was. It is estimated that the house was damaged $100 by the lightning and fire. The street railway company also had two of its cars burnt out by the storm.

The shower had passed over inside of half an hour and the sun came out hot although the rain had served to cool the air somewhat.

Besides cooling the earth with the heavy rainfall the storm cleared the atmosphere and a lower temperature followed. At noon Wednesday the thermometer registered 99, and there was a drop of 16 points to 83 at one o'clock this afternoon.

WARD 6 PRIZE WINNERS

Happy Gathering When Trophies Were Distributed

EVERY ONE ENTHUSIASTIC

In Ward Six it has always been customary to have a meeting several days after the celebration of the Fourth for the awarding of prizes won in the parade, field, track and water sports. This meeting was held on the lawn of Charles E. Cherrington, Clive street, Wednesday evening, at 7.45.

The large tent was prettily lighted with Japanese lanterns and various colored lights and the gathering of about 250 people made the scene a very attractive one. Odd Fellows Band led by Edward L. Goodridge furnished music for the evening, they representing one of the features of the parade, for which a prize was won.

The prizes for the parade were awarded by Charles E. Cherrington. This was followed by the presentation of the silver loving cups by Joseph P. Clark, chairman of the Athletic and water sports committee.

Refreshments were served by the same committee that served ice cream to the children on the fourth, in charge of Mrs. W. P. Hill and Mrs. H. G. Beeman.

The lemonade table was in charge of Frank R. Whall, the efficient chairman of the fireworks committee.

Best Feature: Uncle Tom's Cabin—Float—Edward J. Gallagher $20.

PRETTIEST FLOATS.

First, Squantum Roses—C Carlson $10.

Second, Our School—Maud Briggs $9.

Third, Montclair School—Edward F. Parlee $8.

Fourth, Hayride—William L. Buckley $5.

RELIEF CORPS LAWN PARTY

At Academy Grounds Attracted Large Gathering of People

Many people attended the lawn party of Woman's Relief Corps, No. 103, held Wednesday afternoon and evening on the grounds surrounding the historic Adams Academy. The affair was a decided success and a large sum of money, which will be used in defraying the expenses entailed in maintaining the academy, under the custody of Paul J. Revere Post G. A. R., was realized.

The booths were decorated with red white and blue. A hurdy gurdy furnished music in the afternoon.

In the evening, the academy was thrown open for dancing and a large number indulged in the light fantastic to the strains of Taddei's orchestra. All the patriotic societies of Quincy were well represented.

The following were in charge of the different booths:

Candy booth:—Mrs. Isabelle Souther, Mrs. Alexis Nason, Mrs. Sarah Williams

Flags—Mrs. Emma Marnock, Mrs. Kate Blaisdell, Mrs. Ardella Savage.

Ice cream—Mrs. Mary Jones, Mrs. Charlotte Dorley, Mrs. Annie Cole.

Sandwiches and lunch—Mrs. Ella Hayden, Mrs. Annie R. Brown, Miss Lena Allen.

Tonics—Miss M. Lizzie Furnald, Mrs. Susan Huston, Mrs. Haberdasher Williams.

Games—Mrs. Annie T. Morrison, Mrs. Levina Dorley.

The fortune teller was Alberta Huston.

The reception committee comprised Mrs. Mary T. Powers (president of the corps) Mrs. Cyland Richardson, Mrs. Ardella Savage, Mrs. Marion Baker, Mrs. Eliza Penniman, and Mrs. Isabelle Holmes.

FOY-JOSEPHINE WEDDING BELLS

Ceremony Performed at Rectory of St. John's Church

A wedding of unusual interest to the younger people of Quincy took place at the parochial residence of St. John's church, about seven o'clock Wednesday evening, when Miss Emily F. Josephine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Josephine, of 162 Water street, became the bride of Charles J. Foy, of Wooster, Ohio. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties.

Miss Mary Josephine, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while the best man was Geraldo Martinelle, of Quincy. The bride was handsomely gowned in white marquisette, wore a picture hat and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

After the ceremony, a wedding reception took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Margaret Burke of Hancock Court.

The bride is well and favorably known in Quincy and her numerous friends were pleased to be informed of her marriage. The groom is also well-known in Quincy and resided here up to two years ago, when he left for Ohio to engage in business.

The newly married couple will reside at Wooster, Ohio.

—Sterling American common sense is what is now most needed in the affairs of this country. Common sense has solved all of its battles, of whatever nature, heretofore, whether on the tented field or in legislative halls. We are in danger of being led away from its simple and elemental guidance by the nostrums and lures of doctrinaries—some of them honest, a few of them charlatans, more of them misguided.—Atlanta Constitution.

PREPARING FOR CITIZENSHIP

Finnish Residents Being Instructed by Pastor

MANY JOINING CLASS

The Finnish residents of Quincy, those who have not already become naturalized citizens are taking a great interest in the subject and under the direction of Rev. John Lillbach, pastor of the Finnish Congregational church are making great progress along those lines.

Rev. Mr. Lillbach has formed a class of his countrymen, and they meet once a week and he lectures them upon citizenship, the constitution, and their duties as citizens of this great republic. The classes are largely attended showing the interest which the people take in this subject.

Rev. Mr. Lillbach explains to them the political system, machinery and government of this country, and they are proving apt pupils and making great progress. In a short time a large class will be ready to make their first declaration towards citizenship.

MAYOR AFFIXES JOHN HANCOCK

To the Contract for the New Auto Chemical

Mayor Stone signed a contract with S. Scammell & Sons, this morning for an automobile chemical, Messrs. Scammell were the only bidders. The contract calls for the delivery of the engine in ninety days. The chief's touring car will be delivered immediately. As Chief Litchfield already has a runabout the car will be used by the police department.

JOSEPH CRYAN LAID AT REST

Last Solemn Tribute to Popular Street Railway Man

BY OFFICIALS AND EMPLOYEES

The funeral of Joseph Cyran, the street railway dispatcher who was killed Monday night as the result of an unfortunate accident, was held this morning at 8.15 from his late home 27 Dysart street and with a high mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. John J. Coan as celebrant. The musical portion of the mass was the Gregorian chant which was sung by the regular choir with John Mahan as organist. At the offertory Miss Josephine McCarthy sang "Pie Jesu" and after the mass Mrs. Mary King sang the "Libra."

The services were very largely attended among those present being General Superintendent John Conway, Supt. Thomas Gammon of the Quincy division, Asst. Supt. Timothy Donahue of the East Weymouth division and assistant claim agent James W. Parker. Besides there was a large delegation from the local street railway employees' union headed by John Faircloth, president, also a delegation from Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus and Merrymount lodge, A. O. U. W.

After the mass the body was escorted to St. Mary's cemetery at West Quincy by the street railway men in a draped car. The bearers were Daniel Driscoll and John Curley representing the street railway employees, Timothy J. Ford and Richard Barry representing Quincy Council, K. of C., and Charles H. Johnson and Edward Tingley representing Merrymount lodge, A. O. U. W.

The flowers were very many and beautiful one carriage being required to transport them to the grave. Among the flowers were large set pieces from the street railway officials, street railway employees, Knights of Columbus and United Workmen.

ROSS GETS THE PEN.

Mayor Stone signed the order this morning for the new twelve room brick school building in Ward Three. He used a brand new pen and pen holder, which will be presented to Councilman C. A. Ross who worked hard for the new school building.

Wollaston Yacht Club Proved Hosts Worthy of Occasion

FINE PROGRAM GIVEN

The members of Gettysburg Post 191 G. A. R. of Boston were the guests on Wednesday evening of the Wollaston Yacht club and in turn entertained its members and friends with a fine program of war and campfire songs interspersed with speeches.

This is the first time that a Grand Army post is known to have been the guest of a yacht club and the pleasure of the novel occasion proved it worthy of repetition. Paul Revere Post of Quincy was also a guest of the evening.

The Gettysburg delegation arrived in Wollaston at six o'clock and were

BOAT CAPSIZED IN THE STORM

Four Atlantic Men Have Narrow Escape in Harbor

IN WATER 20 MINUTES

Thursday afternoon Frank R. Whall Joseph P. Clark, Harry Wilson and Charles Johnson, all well known residents of Atlantic, went down the harbor in a sail boat. Off Long Island they were caught in the severe lightning and thunder storm, during which their sail was split and boat capsized. The men were in the water some 15 or 20 minutes, with oil skins on before they were rescued. It is fortunate that the accident was not a serious one, as Mr. Johnson is well past middle life.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

LETTERS MUST BE SIGNED

Or Else They Will Be Consigned to the Waste Basket

Mayor Stone desires the general public to know that any communications sent to him unsigned are immediately consigned to the waste basket. His Honor says that nearly every day he receives unsigned letters but that he will pay no attention to them. Persons desiring to be taken notice of must sign their names, which will be kept secret.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

One of Thaw's alienists says he will do murder again but would be safe abroad under the care of the keeper. The keeper it would seem was taking desperate chances under this expert testimony.

The National teachers' association, likewise held in Chicago, had a lively row within their ranks, but wisely decided that it was not a matter for the records of the organization.

The rioting, demolishing of cars and terrorizing of passengers, continues on the elevated road despite the claim that everything is quiet and peaceful. The travelling public seem to have few rights which are respected in this case.

No rain in Quincy from May 30 up to the present time, except on June 17, up to yesterday.

Gompers has set the stamp of his approval upon the Democratic platform.

Congressman Harris will be a candidate for reelection thank you.

"Dakota Dan," Russell is having trouble with his lawyers now on the verge of the reopening of his suit for that fortune which he claims.

The mercury has been working over time the past few days.

That thunder sound in the heavens yesterday was a welcome one even if it did drive some timid people to the cellars, garrets and hay lofts.

The Boston Labor Unions display good judgment in seriously considering the subject before they plunge the city into the horrors of a general strike.

It would seem that the Council's intention to put Mayor Fitzgerald in a hole failed of its purpose. His honor is even cleverer than Roosevelt in wiggling out of tight corners.

A primary school boy would have thought of a better campaign coup than that of petitioning President Taft to resign as a candidate.

May rainy, June dry and July—the suffering ones can fill in according to taste.

A writer says he observes an embroidery class and judges some good needlewomen may be turned out. Just like a man. What's embroidery got to do with needlework. A good lace maker might be a regular sailmaker when it came to sewing.

Boston remains at the top, but there is considerable up and down movement on the part of the next three clubs in the National league race.

Pity the poor human who has to get into a cuff collar, boiled shirt and dress clothes this kind of weather.

That little bit of air that stirred around yesterday was a blessed relief.

When it comes to fire alarm signals Quincy is in a class of its own.

If one could only close their eyes to the situation they might be persuaded that Abraham Lincoln had returned to earth and was a third term candidate.

NEEDED A BLUE PENCIL.

As we stated some time ago, President Taft needs nothing so seriously in this campaign as a board of strategy or editor, armed with a blue pencil, empowered to pass upon all the material which this or that good intentioned person may care to rush into print with in support of the president.

Most of this gratuitous material is ill advised, has been treated in other forms time and again, and in many cases, contain phrases or sentences which cannot do the candidacy of the president any good. Unfortunately, in too many instances, these effusions are only the outpourings of an ambitious limelighter, who wants to keep more before the candidate than presenting material for his success, so that in the latter event he can turn back to the files of some paper and exclaim, "There's what I did for you Mr. President."

Everything that is for publication regarding the candidate, whether by committee or individual should first be submitted to a competent board and its every phase analyzed. It is better to prevent mistakes than to explain the good intentions after they have been made and borne fruit.

THE DEAR OLD LAWN GOING.

It is truly distressing to pass along any of our streets, and witness the parched, browned and burned condition of many of the lawns of the city. It is a fact that many have been completely ruined and in order to regain their former standing will have to be resodded or a new layer of grass seed planted.

It is really a matter of painful consideration to gaze upon those once green and inviting spots and see them grown russet hued under the burning sun and because of the long drought.

Gardens and flower beds and trees and rose bushes have suffered in the same manner. Vegetation of all kinds is sending forth its voiceless yet no less touching appeal to be saved from extermination.

In many cases, hope of rain, deferred the use of the garden hose until the damage was created and only regrets are to be heard on all sides by those people who placed their dependence so strongly upon natural relief. Some aid would be afforded by dew, but the sun has absorbed that great boon of nature and the grasses are as dry at night and morning as they are in the noon day. The appeal of those mute, ruined gardens and shrubs is stronger than if voiced in clarion tones.

A REASONABLE MEASURE.

The suggestion of the Boston Chamber of Commerce for a law, which would in a measure do away with strikes or lockouts or any other extended differences between labor and capital to the detriment of the community at large, is a wise one. The only criticism which can be offered to it is that it was not thought of long ago and put into effect.

In the main it would provide that all matters of difference between employer and employed should be submitted to a commission for consideration before any strike or lockout is inaugurated. Both sides shall agree, to abide by the decision.

Either employer or employed violating this provision, shall be subjected to severe punishment.

This seems a reasonable and fair manner of adjusting such differences without the annoyance of strikes, and bitterness which they engender to say nothing of the riot and disorder created.

Apropos of the wisdom of this course, the complete lack of any power or prestige of the present board of arbitration to frame up to the present situation in Boston, is evidence sufficient to show its complete lack of capacity or power. Of course this cannot be attributed to the personal intentions or lack of ability of the members of that board, but it is doubtful, if they have the power to adequately carry out their purpose for the improvement of conditions.

WILL PREACH TONIGHT.

Rev. Edward A. Hart, of Fitchburg, who is visiting Rev. John Lillbach will preach at the regular service at the Finnish Congregational church this evening.

LIGHTNING STRUCK CAR

Passengers Jumped as Sheet of Flame Shot Upward

The blowing out of an electric car, on Hancock street, near Granite street, Wednesday afternoon, added to the excitement, produced by the storm in that vicinity. For a minute it seemed as if the car was one all on fire, as it looked completely enveloped in flame, and people on the street for the moment were horror stricken over the possible fate of the passengers.

It was an East Milton car, No. 1532, bound for City Square, well loaded. As the car approached the incline near Granite street, there was a short flash of lightning followed by a tremendous peal of thunder.

The lightning struck the trolley wire, and running down the pole, entered the car, and burned out the fuse, and then passed along without doing any further damage.

In a moment the car was apparently enveloped in flame. A sheet of flame shot up in front. Several women on the front seat made a spring and landed in the street, and made their way from the scene as rapidly as possible.

Conductor John C. Faircloth pulled the trolley wire off. The car was out of commission.

A Weymouth Landing car, came up behind and attempted to push the disabled car to the square to clear the track but the operation took over 15 minutes as it was an up hill push on slippery tracks.

A new fuse was set into place on the forward car, but the moment the power was turned on it blew out with a brilliant trail of flame up the front of the car.

BIG STORM

at every flash of the lightning, thrilled the beholders as no artificial stage set scene could do.

It was a strange spectacle indeed and one seldom witnessed. The storm played all around from every point of the compass, seeming to move around in a circle, hovering, over Quincy centre.

The wind kept steadily from the south. About 3.30 o'clock there was a quick shift and the wind veered in little to the Southeast. Relief was in sight and hope sprang up anew for a cool spell.

After a duel of about an hour, the electrical storm gave up the contest with the sun and retreated sullenly, spitting out sharp lightning as it retired and hurling back a spiteful volley of thunder.

Then for a minute the sun as if proud and conscious of its victory veiled its face for a few minutes and again there was a light downpour of rain in big spatters, but it was soon over, the sun resumed its functions, but the storm had brought the east wind and the latter a comfortable and cooling air which lasted through the night.

It was a blessed relief to the people who have suffered so from the heat during the past 12 days.

While there was a lowering of the temperature today, the humidity was higher than usual and the general mugginess which prevailed gave one a heavy and uncomfortable feeling.

The street car service, was temporarily discommoded by the storm. The electric company shut off the power several times. The fire alarm system suffered some damage. More than 200 telephones were put out of commission and the telegraph service was handicapped all on account of the storm.

While a number of places were struck not a great deal of damage was done. One of the first places to be struck was the house of C. Theodore Hardwick on Chestnut street. Here the bolt struck the chimney knocking off the top. It then made its way to the earth tearing off some of the clapboards on the side of the house. The house was unoccupied at the time and the bolt fortunately did not start a fire.

Another bolt struck the house of Mrs. Flora E. Gomez, at 9 Edwards street. The chimney was knocked over and the bolt tore away some of the boards on the side of the house and entered the ground making a large hole.

A barn of B. F. Hodgkinson at Germantown was struck and a few boards torn off. Three farm hands who had sought shelter in the barn were knocked down as was also several cows.

Up on Gass place, a lightning bolt indulged in some peculiar pranks, on the premises of Officer Corbett. The officer was away at the time, on his regular patrol, and his wife and three children were in the house. Although very much frightened and they had good cause to be from the nature of events which happened on the premises they fortunately escaped injury.

A lightning bolt first struck a large tree and damaged it. Then a small shoot from the main bolt, jumped across space attached itself to the smaller tree and splintered the bark off that tree as it shot downward to be imbedded in the earth. The main bolt in the meantime had been attending strictly to business and boring down through the center of the large tree, split it in half, besides detaching a large branch and casting it through the air a distance of 30 feet.

Another small limb was torn from its fastenings and smashed through the glass of the kitchen window. Fortunately none of the occupants of the house were hurt by the lightning, flying trees or shattered glass.

The cottage of Louis Crossman on Spring street, Houghs Neck, was struck the bolt tearing away one corner of the rear of the house and smashing four windows.

The chimney on the house of Harry Greenlaw on Babcock street was struck and shattered, as was also the chimney on the house of Mrs. George Taylor on Great Hill. Several yachts off Houghs Neck were torn from their moorings and drifted ashore.

Another bolt seemed to strike the trolley wire on Quincy avenue near the Central Fire station causing a deafening crash which frightened a horse that started to run but was stopped by Edward Desmond.

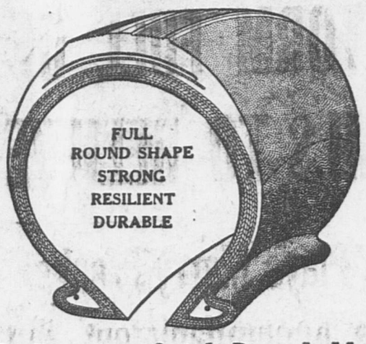

The storm was particularly heavy along the shore front and while it is not known that any of the cottages were struck their occupants got a bad fright.

Several hundred telephones were put out of commission by the storm and the burning out of telephones probably saved many houses from damage. It is a well known fact that a telephone wire in the house is a good thing during a lightning storm for the lightning will follow the wires to the ground and thus save the house. This was shown in the house of Miss Annie Prescott on Russell Park occupied by Mrs. Russell. The bolt evidently followed the telephone wire into the cellar where it ploughed a furrow in the ground and then disappeared. The occupants of the house got a fright and the house was filled with sulphur fumes. No damage was done other than to put the telephone out of commission.

The flag pole on the Wollaston Golf club house was struck by lightning during the storm and shattered its entire length. The bolt then made its way to earth without doing any damage to the building.

The Bay State Street Railway company had 24 cars burned out and disabled, at various points along their lines.

WATERFRONT FIRE

In East Boston Caused a Loss of $200,000

Boston, July 11.—Two hundred thousand dollars' damage was caused by a fire which started in the planing mill of the George McQuesten company's lumber yard in East Boston, and spread to the pockets of the Suffolk Coal company.

The cause of the fire is unknown. Three alarms called much apparatus from the city proper and Assistant Chief Williamson and two engines and their hose companies from Chelsea.

When the fire spread from McQuesten's plant to the coal wharf it trapped some of engine 9's men, and they had to abandon a 150-foot line of hose and run for their lives. As they had been the first arrivals they were farther down the wharf. The flames sread so fast that it became necessary for the two fireboats to pull out the ship Lewis, which was loading lumber.

Forty horses were taken out of McQuesten's stable and eighteen from the coal company's stable.

Smoke from the burning coal and pitchy lumber formed a tremendous volume, went high in the air and was blown to the northeast over East Boston, Winthrop and Revere, and far out to sea. This smoke cloud was visible along the North Shore and by those on ships far out to sea. The smoke could be seen also by people in all parts of Boston and the surrounding cities and towns, and soon wild rumors were spreading throughout the surrounding places.

PASSENGERS ARE FERRIED

White Mountain Traffic Delayed by Forest Fires

Intervale, N. H., July 11.—Fire caused considerable damage at several points in the White Mountain region. Traffic on the Boston and Maine railroad is delayed by the burning of a wooden bridge over a small stream in the town of Madison.

The White Mountain express train from Boston was held up just below the stream and a special train was sent down from North Conway to take the passengers after they had been ferried over the river. The bridge will have to be rebuilt before any trains can pass over it.

A forest fire which has been raging since Sunday in the Pinkham Notch, just east of Mt. Washington, and on the slope of Wildcat mountain, is still beyond control.

Another forest fire burned over a large territory at Twin mountain.

ELEVATED MEN GIVEN THE LIE

At Hearing Before the State Board of Arbitration

TWO SENSATIONAL SCENES

On two occasions Wednesday, the hearing before the state board of arbitration on the elevated strike came near ending in a sensational manner, when two of the witnesses testifying on the Elevated's side of the case were accused of lying.

Richard P. Barry, senior member of the board, during the morning session refused to question Superintendent Joseph L. Webber of Division 1, after he had been examined by Chairman Howland of the board.

"I want to tell this witness to his face that I don't believe half of what he has said, even though he is under oath," declared Mr. Barry. "This is a disgusting exhibition. I consider this hearing a farce. I know from other sources that what this man has said is part garbled and part untrue. I could ask him a hundred questions, but what's the use?"

Attorney Henry Hurlburt, representing the Boston Elevated Company, in reply stated that if the witnesses who had come to the hearing at the suggestion of the board were to be insulted he would withdraw them at once.

Superintendent Carl S. Barns of Division 2 was called. Mr. Barry had withdrawn his chair from the table where the board was sitting. After a few moments he got up and left the room, and remained away from the hearing for a long time.

A second interruption came when Superintendent Barns testified that he had discharged a conductor named Matthias Nesdale because he had refused to take a Sunday night detail." Nesdale, who was in the rear of the room, shouted: "You're a liar."

Confusion followed this remark, and it was some time before quiet was restored and the hearing continued, although renewed statements were made that the hearing would be stopped if the interruptions continued.

BATES FAMILY GATHERING

At Whitman in August Promises to be Big Event

The sixth annual reunion and the business meeting of the Bates Association, Incorporated, will be held at the Congregational church, Whitman, August 2.

All persons having a Bates ancestor, either by descent or marriage, are eligible for membership, and all persons who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

The Executive committee is requested to meet at 1.30 P. M. The annual business meeting will convene at 2 P. M. As this is the first meeting under the Act of incorporation, a full attendance is desirable. It will be necessary, in order to vote at the meeting, that each member sign the roll, and the books will be open for signatures at one o'clock.

An interesting program is being prepared.

The officers of the Association are:

President—Frank A. Bates, South Braintree, Mass.

Vice Presidents—Albert C. Bates, Hartford, Conn., Gardner Bates, Charlestown, Mass., Walter L. Bates, South Weymouth, Mass.

Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. Newton W. Bates, Austinburg, Ohio.

RUBBER SOLES SAVED HIM

Malden Boy Owes His Life to Make of His Shoes

Kenneth McClellan, 12, of 11 Forest street, Malden, barely escaped electrocution through touching a pole holding up the feed wire of the trolley line at Malden.

The insulation on the feed wire had burned out, so that the current was carried from the trolley wire down the iron pipe.

Several children playing near the pole received slight shocks from the ground, but not suspecting the deadly force of the current dared one another to touch the pole. Little Kenneth McClellan took two jumps and placed his hand upon the pole. The force of the shock he received threw him backward into the street about five feet.

Luckily he had on tennis shoes with thick rubber soles, which partially broke the circuit. As it was he escaped without serious injury. The force of the current in the pole was several hundred volts.

HIDING FAMILY SKELETONS

Charles D. Hilles, the President's secretary, always accompanies the chief executive on his trips to Beverly, Mass., in the summer. Just outside of Beverly there are many fashionable homes with grounds which include private bathing beaches.

"I wonder why so many people have these private beaches," commented the President one afternoon, when he was autoing up the North Shore.

"Some of them," said Hilles, "appreciate the value, no doubt of this means of hiding the family skeletons."—Popular Magazine.

TO REDEEM HIS STATE

Pardons Convicts Held Under Contract Labor

Little Rock, Ark., July 11.—Executive opposition to the penal system of Arkansas, with especial reference to county convict camps, manifested in their administration by Governors Fishback, Clarke, Davis and others, was culminated in an omnibus pardon by Governor Donaghey releasing from custody all convicts in the custody of E. N. Weigel, county convict contractor.

Governor Donaghey referred to these conditions repeatedly in his recent campaign for re-election, declaring county convict camps of the state a blot upon Arkansas and that the system means the murder of youths, morally and physically.

The murderer often escapes with a year or two, but the country boy caught with a pistol in his pocket or that imbibes a little too much rye and raises a row, finds himself on the county farm for a term as long.

WOLLASTON YACHT CLUB

dined in Sparrow's Cafe on the beach. A reception at the home of H. K. Ellis followed and at eight o'clock the veterans filed to the club house.

Provosts orchestra struck up a march and the veterans made a brave appearance as they marched in, in single file.

The first number "When the boys in blue are gone" was rendered by the Post the solo part being sung by E. F. Webber of the original Webber quartet.

Ex-Commodore F. E. Dawes of the club rendered "The boys of '61" accompanied on the piano by Miss Eleanor Woodside.

Commodore E. A. Bean in behalf of the club welcomed the veterans and referred in terms of praise to the "boys in blue" who had endured four years of awful battle that the Union might be preserved.

"The country," said Commodore Bean, "hardly appreciates what was done by the soldiers during the Civil War and the privileges we now enjoy as a result. We owe the veterans a duty that money can never repay and I hope we will never forget that duty."

Comrade John A. Keefe of Gettysburg Post was introduced and spoke in glowing terms of "the Navy."

"We hear many stories," he said, "about the American soldiers and the services they rendered during the Civil War but we do not hear much about the navy.

"The army had many writers ready with the pen. It had many photographers to take pictures of bivouac and camp fire.

"It was not so with the navy. The hardships and discomforts of naval discipline were not agreeable to the reporters and photographers, therefore it is not as well known. Even since the Civil War the navy has not been a favorite theme with historians.

The navy, nevertheless, has had a noble history and a record of many noble daring and magnificent performances to its credit."

Comrade Keefe referred to the Sabbath morning when the "Monitor" steamed out and saved the fleet and to that other Sabbath morning when the Alabama was sunk by the Kearsage. Many other glorious achievements were mentioned by the speaker. "In all its wars the navy has maintained its reputation everywhere. Together the army and navy are invincible as against the whole world."

He closed with the sentiment conveyed in the words of the song "The army and navy forever. Three cheers for the red, white and blue.

"Mrs. Maguire" and "Boots and Shoes" two old camp songs were sung by the veterans and a 'cello solo was played by Theodore Smith of Wollaston accompanied by William Provost.

Past Commander Amos R. Storer of the Gettysburg Post spoke eloquently on "The Army."

"Civilization" he said "is a growth, not a creation. Everywhere it has advanced through the horrors of war. I have a feeling that a Divine Power guides all this.

"When it wanted a Moses or a Caesar it touched a divine spark of inspiration. When a new nation was to be formed it reached across the centuries and touched a Washington.

"It went, not to gilded palace or the temple of learning, but to the western woodland and brought forth a Lincoln to guide the helm of the great ship of state and anchor it in the harbor of peace."

Comrade Storer referred to the Spanish War, the development of Japan, the awakening of China.

"Everywhere civilization advances by the horrors of war and the Grand Army of the Republic and the loyal women that stood by may well feel proud that in their day and generation they took part in the great evolution of civilization."

The solo "When you and I were young" was sung by Comrade Webber with a chorus by the Post.

Comrade Phillips of Paul Revere Post gave two recitations "Why the old folks kept the farm" and "The soldier tramp."

The Post song "Oh Gettysburg" which the post warbles twice a month was sung and produced prolonged applause. In closing the "high ball song" was rendered and the meeting adjourned to the strains of the national anthem.

Pipe and cigar were enjoyed by the veterans and after their departure a short social dance was enjoyed in the hall of the yacht club.

REPUBLICANS ARE HOPEFUL

They Feel In Massachusetts That Taft Can Be Elected

SENTIMENT MORE FAVORABLE

History of Presidential Elections Shows Campaigns Won When Defeat Seemed Certain—Third Party Movement Weak

Notwithstanding the professed belief of the Democrats that their candidate for president is to be elected this fall there is a much stronger feeling today among Republicans than ten days ago that President Taft can be elected if his supporters get to work in earnest and continue persistently until the close of the campaign. Following the convention at Chicago some Republicans felt discouraged over the outlook. That is not true today, at least not in any such degree. There is nothing in the situation when it is carefully analyzed which should give discouragement or cause party workers to feel despondent over the outcome of the campaign. It has often been the history of previous presidential canvasses that the campaign which is started in a somewhat discouraging way has been fought to a successful issue, through the intelligent labors of the party leaders, and through circumstances which have developed some time after the convention.

The nomination of Mr. Bryan on the free silver platform in 1896 appealed to a great number of voters at first blush. The country was undergoing an era of low prices, especially in agricultural products. There was a feeling that gold had appreciated and in this way brought about the depreciation in the prices of commodities. Farmers were sighing and crying for dollar wheat, and the plaint of the farmer was simply characteristic of the attitude of men in all lines of production. Democratic orators were crying that high prices meant prosperity and low prices meant ruin and that there was not enough of the circulating medium to make prices normal.

The Situation In 1896

The Republican party faced a situation that was simply overwhelming in its indications of coming defeat. The campaign was in this condition when both tickets had been placed in the field. It is true that leading party men in the east refused to support the Democratic program and organize a third party, but in the middle and western states and in some of the southern the enthusiasm for Bryan and free silver was so great that it would have discouraged almost any man except Marcus A. Hanna, chairman of the Republican national committee.

It is a matter of history how the Republican party waged that campaign against the mightiest odds, and which resulted in the election of William McKinley of Ohio as President of the United States. It was not accomplished without the hardest kind of hard work in every state and that kind of effort will be necessary in the campaign which now confronts the country in order to secure the re-election of Mr. Taft. Certain conditions could not have been more discouraging than they were in 1896.

Third Party Is Not Active

It is evident that the Republican party in this campaign has to wage a determined fight for the success of the Republican ticket. There does not appear to be much life in the third party progressive movement. Those who have studied the situation with some care believe that whatever that movement may amount to it will draw as heavily from the Democrats as from the Republican ranks. It is noticeable that there is a much better feeling now among Republicans who were supporting Mr. Roosevelt than there was before the convention. A great many leaders in that movement decline to follow Mr. Roosevelt into the new party and they express their intention of supporting the Republican party and making their contests for progressiveness within the party lines. Of the men who were leaders in the Roosevelt canvass for the nomination a great many now realize that when once they step outside of the party fold they are no longer members of the old party nor qualified to participate in its primaries. The members of the new party would be limited to nominations within that party and none of them are able to say they would be successful as candidates to win an election to any position in any district in the commonwealth.

Cost of Living Is Everywhere

It is clearly evident that the Democrats intend to lay much stress in the campaign on the cost of living and thereby to secure if possible converts from the Republican ranks. The Democrats insist that the tariff is responsible for the high price of commodities. They say this notwithstanding the fact that high prices prevail in every country on the face of the globe. When they insist that the tariff is responsible for the high cost of living they seem to forget that prices in England have advanced practically as much in proportions as in this country. They forget that every country in the world has its cost-of-living problems. In France the housewives raised a riot because of the high prices of meat and attacked the shops of the dealers.

The cost of living is not confined to the countries which have protective tariffs. As a matter of fact this question is quite as acute in low-tariff countries as in those having high tariffs. The consumer can easily discover by exercising a little thought that in many directions at least, the cost of living in this country is governed by the law of supply and demand. In the case of potatoes for instance, it was a shortage in the crop last year which forced the prices in cities to something like $2 per bushel where $1 has usually been the normal price. It was the drought last year and not the tariff which governed the price of potatoes. A similar investigation would reveal many similar causes for in nine-tenths of the cases where prices have advanced the causes have been the same.

The Facts Will Be Shown

It is quite within the possibilities that these facts may be shown to the satisfaction of the voters before the election comes around next November. That is where a part of the campaign work must be done. It is the province of political organizers to educate the voters to the facts which enter into the issues of the campaign.

It is said it will be the endeavor of the Democrats to show that the trusts make high prices. As a matter of fact it has been shown conclusively in the past as a general proposition that trust-made articles are those which have not generally been advanced with the exception of meats and a few other commodities. The great majority of trust-made goods have either remained the same in price or been lowered.

Hope.

The miner in his cabin
Dines sparingly on crumbs
And dreams as he is feasting
Of wealth that never comes.
Hope, at his table sitting,
Smiles in a friendly way
And tells him he is certain
To make his venture pay.

Out on the dreary hillside
A hole is in the ground
In which, to lead him onward,
Some streaks of wealth are found,
And so he keeps on digging
Perhaps throughout the year,
But every shining pebble
Brings to him added cheer.

His hands are gnarled and calloused,
His beard is streaked with gray,
And there as he grows older
He slowly works away
And every evening hoping
The coming day will score;
That with another nightfall
Will come the yellow ore.

Thus with his pick and shovel
He toils in rain and sun;
At night in lonely bunkroom
Dreams of a fortune won.
On him the yellow metal
Has cast its awful spell,
For others have been lucky,
And why not he as well?

Good Idea.

"Kitty is such a nice little girl"

"I never noticed anything remarkable about her, though."

"Why, she believes everything I tell her."

"Great Scott, man! There is your opportunity. Marry her at once."

—The school children of Germany are taught to swim without the use of water. It is claimed that the proper stroke and motions of the arms and legs are more readily acquired in this manner than in the water, as is the more general way of teaching swimmers. The student is suspended by a wide belt from an overhead rail, while the feet are attached to a pair of ropes running over pulleys and adjustable to various requirements. The pupils thus suspended are then taught how to perform the movements of the breast stroke until the action becomes almost instinctive. The advantage in teaching these movements in such a way is that the pupil is not distracted by the fear of a ducking.—Natick Bulletin.

MARITIME EXPRESS WRECK

Engineer, Fireman and a Tramp Are Killed by Same

Halifax, July 11.—Three men were killed and two score persons injured in a wreck on the Intercolonial railway at Grand Lake.

The engine of the Maritime express left the track and plunged down an embankment into the lake dragging with it the mail and express car and piling the baggage cars up at right angles on the track. Engineer James Clark and Fireman Peter McGill were carried to their death in the locomotive and an unknown tramp who was riding the blind baggage was crushed to death. The wreck is believed to have been caused by a defect in the engine.

None of the passenger cars left the rails

NIAGARA FALLS NOT INJURED

By Diverting the Water For Electrical Purposes

MORE A PRESERVATIVE

Withdrawal of water from the Niagara River, for the purpose of generating electrical power, is preserving rather than injuring Niagara Falls, according to a committee report presented at the recent meeting of the National Electric Light Association at Seattle.

The explanation is that the enormous flood has slowly worn away the ledges, until recent years a spot of soft limestone has been reached, almost in the center of the Horseshoe cataract. A V-shaped notch has been guttered out, which is eating its way back into the rock at the rate of five feet a year.

The suction caused by this receding channel is injuring the beauty of the cataract by drawing water away from the sides and concentrating it midstream, and fear is expressed that the Horseshoe Falls will eventually contract into a narrow whirlpool rapids.

In 1908 Major Keller, in charge of the survey of Niagara made by the War Department, suggested that further injury might be prevented by constructing a submerged dam in the river just back of the danger point. This would deflect the current toward the sides, thus saving erosion at the notch and at the same time improving the appearance of the Falls near shore.

The work was declared to be feasible, but owing to the expense involved no steps have been taken so far to carry it out. Meanwhile, according to the authority quoted, the withdrawal of a fraction of the stream above the Falls for power purposes, although inappreciable so far as the appearance of the cataract goes, lessens the enormous pressure at the apex and reduces wear at the middle of the beautiful horseshoe curve.

Fortunately, diversion of water cannot be carried to excess. Rigid limits have been set by the lately negotiated Canadian-American waterways treaty, so that, except for the effects of Nature itself, the grandeur of Niagara is safeguarded for the future.

LITTLE SISTERS ARE KILLED

By Express Train at Somerville Grade Crossing

OUTFIT CRUSHES DOWN GATE

Horse Purchased For Their Pleasure—Approaching Home Became Unmanageable—Older Sister Had Head Cut Off—Other Died on Way to Hospital—Carriage Smashed and Horse Killed

Somerville, Mass., July 11.—Paulina P. Chmiell, 15, and her sister, Cecilia, 12, were killed shortly after 9 o'clock last night at the Dane street crossing of the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine railroad, being struck by the inward-bound Bellows Falls express. Paulina was killed outright, her head being cut off. Cecilia lived long enough to be lifted into the police ambulance, but died on the way to the hospital.

The two were in a carriage, which was broken into kindling wood and the horse killed.

The father of the girls is John Chmiell, and he was sitting on the piazza awaiting their return from a drive when told of the affair. He was nearly crazed with grief, moaning and sobbing and pulling at his hair until he was taken in charge by friends.

The train which struck the carriage was due at the Somerville station at 7:33, and was an hour and a half late. It was going at high speed.

The accident was due to Paulina, who was driving, being unable to control the horse, which smashed through the guard gates. The train was so close that there was no chance for the girls to escape.

The crossing is one of the two for which orders will be introduced at the meeting of the aldermen this evening to close the street preparatory to abolishing the crossing.

The girls were coming from the direction of Washington street. The horse was going at a swift pace and Paulina was standing up trying to stop him. She did not have the strength, and the crazed animal crashed through the gates.

The body of Paulina was found 200 feet down the tracks, while her sister, Cecilia, was found about 100 feet.

The horse had but recently been purchased for the children. He was supposed to be kind and without vicious habits.

It is thought that when the animal saw he was nearing home he became anxious and started into a gallop, from which Paulina could not break him.

The mother and younger brother are on a visit to Poland. They left Somerville the first of June. The father is a manufacturing chemist.

BALLINGER DUAL ATTORNEY

His Name Will Not Down In the Hanford Case

Seattle, July 11.—The judicial conduct of Federal Judge C. H. Hanford in the bankruptcy case of Heckman and Hansen, shipbuilders, occupied the time in the house judiciary subcommittee hearing to determine whether impeachment proceedings shall lie against the judge. Attorney Jerry L. Finch, the complaining witness, was on the stand all day.

Finch accused Judge Hanford of unjudicial conduct in his refusal to open the estate of the bankrupt firm and in the whole conduct of the case.

Incidentally Finch charged that Richard A. Ballinger, former secretary of the interior, appeared first as attorney for the maker of a note and shortly afterward as counsel for a bank that foreclosed a mortgage by which the note was secured. Finch testified that the five creditors with claims of $23, who petitioned Judge Hanford to have the estate closed, were mostly clerks in Ballinger's office.

TO SUCCEED SCHOFIELD

Judge Frederick Dodge Promoted to First Circuit Court

Boston, July 11.—Judge Frederick Dodge, now of the United States district court, will be federal judge of the first circuit, which includes all the New England states. He will succeed the late Judge Schofield.

President Taft sent the name of Judge Dodge to the senate yesterday for confirmation.

Judge Dodge was recommended by Senators Crane and Lodge, and great political influence was brought to bear through them to obtain his appointment.

Martial Law Proclaimed

Lisbon, July 11.—Martial law was proclaimed throughout northern Portugal, with the exception of the city of Oporto, as a result of the revolutionary uprising. A force of 1200 royalists captured the village of Cebeceirasdebasto, killing the governor and his secretary. Federal troops and artillery have been sent against the rebels.

SHOE AND LEATHER SHOW

Opened to Exhibit One of New England's Great Industries

Boston, July 11.—More than three-quarters of a million dollars' worth of exhibits, showing machinery, materials and products of New England's shoe and leather industry, are on display at the sixth national shoe and leather market-fair, which opened yesterday afternoon in Mechanics' building.

During the week it is estimated that these exhibits will be inspected by 25,000 persons interested in some branch of the business. Manufacturers, buyers, jobbers, retailers and salesmen are expected from every part of the United States, Canada and Mexico and many foreign countries.

SPECIAL APPROPRIATIONS

To Guard Against Bubonic Plague and Restores Tariff Board

Washington, July 11.—Appropriations of $250,000 for the tariff board and $20,000 for the international waterways commission were restored to the sundry civil bill as reported by the senate.

Because of the bubonic plague situation the house appropriation for prevention of epidemics by the public health service was increased from $100,000 to $500,000.

BERGER PLAN TO PROVIDE WORK

Socialist Congressman Would Loan Government Money

Washington, July 11.—A special money fund for "Willing Workers" to be loaned to states, counties and cities for public improvements is the solution of the idle labor problem suggested in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Victor L. Berger, the Wisconsin Socialist. The bill urges that the government loan money—of special issue—for extensive improvements, and thereby give work to the unemployed.

"How soon an industrial crisis will come I do not know," said Berger, in supporting his bill. "We all know the government helped the rich man's panic in 1907 by loaning $42,000,000 to J. P. Morgan, which he loaned out at 6 percent, utilizing the people's money and the needs of the hour to increase his own wealth.

"There are always 2,000,000 unemployed and in hard times twice that number. My bill would give employment to thousands, and later millions, providing an 'elastic' currency plan.

"If the government can help the bankers and Wall Street brokers, let it help the unemployed. But, of course, the bankers will oppose my currency and fight the plan."

SEC. WILSON QUESTIONED

Information Wanted on Son Jasper's $10,000 Job

Washington, July 11.—Representative Akin of New York introduced a resolution calling upon Secretary Wilson to explain certain alleged relations with Colorado land projects.

The resolution says that Jasper Wilson, the secretary's son and former private secretary, is now an official of an irrigation corporation at a salary of $10,000 a year and intimates that settlers in Colorado have been defrauded. It asks for a report on the Denver reservoir and Stanley dam projects.

Bubonic Deaths Number 21

Washington, July 11.—Surgeon-General Blue of the marine hospital service was notified of one more fatal case of bubonic plague in the vicinity of San Juan, Porto Rico. This brings the total number of cases in the island up to 33 and the deaths to 21.

FEAR ELECTORS WILL BE TAKEN

Taft Men Working Hard to Save College

ROOSEVELT POSSIBLY HAVE 78

Question Now Gives Taft Managers Most Trouble—They Term It a Roosevelt "Steal"—As Bad as Action He Accused Them of—Some Electors Already Chosen—Political Practices May Be Upset

Washington, July 11.—The question of presidential electors will be the first to which the managers of the Taft campaign will give their attention. They regard it as the most important and as containing the largest element of disorder, and they hope before long to straighten it out in such a manner that the people will understand the real issue. This issue is, in brief, as the Taft men see it, that Roosevelt is trying to steal the election exactly as he accuses the national committee of having stolen the Republican nomination for Taft. The machinery is a little different but the Taft men assert that the element of theft is present in the Roosevelt plans just the same and that it is just as dishonest as Republican members of the electoral college to vote for Roosevelt, as Roosevelt proposes that his men shall, as to steal a delegation to the national convention. They do not admit, of course, that any such theft took place at Chicago and they are preparing a booklet to show that it did not. Their point is that it is politically and morally dishonest for the Roosevelt electorals to go before the people in November under "false pretences," said false pretences consisting of accepting a place in the electoral college with the avowed intention of voting for some one other than the regular nominee of the Republican party, William H. Taft.

As the situation stands, no less than seventy-eight members of the electoral college may be Roosevelt men intending to vote for Roosevelt for president regardless of the fact that Mr. Taft was nominated by the regularly called convention of the party. These electors, if the Roosevelt plans should be carried out successfully, would hail from Pennsylvania, California, South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, West Virgina and possibly other states. Some of these electors already have been chosen and some have not. In Pennsylvania they were chosen at the Republican state convention, and they are all Roosevelt men. In South Dakota, they were elected at the recent state-wide primary which defeated Senator Robert J. Gamble for re-election by the narrow margin of 734, although he ran about 15,000 votes ahead of President Taft. In California the electors must be chosen before July 20 by the holdover members of the state senate and the nominees of the legislature and for congress. In Kansas a state primary will be held Aug. 6 at which presidential electors will be chosen. North Dakota has yet to chose her electors.

The Taft managers realize, of course, that as far as legal provisions are concerned, the Republican members of the electoral college are free to vote for whom ever they please, even for Woodrow Wilson, if they choose to do so. The Taft men hold, however, that electors nominated and elected on the regular Republican ticket are in honor bound to vote for the nominee of the Republican party, if he carries their state, and for them to do otherwise would be the most gross violation of honor that could be conceived in politics. For example, should the Republican ticket carry Pennsylvania in the coming election and the thirty-eight Roosevelt electors already chosen be thus made members of the electoral college, they would be expected to vote for Taft notwithstanding that their personal preferences were for Roosevelt. For them to do otherwise would be to upset the practice of politics for generations and to render the electoral college as free of party obligations as a state primary.

The Roosevelt men hold, on the other hand that they are entitled to what they have got so far; that where Roosevelt men have been chosen as Republican electors the Taft men must either put up an independent ticket, which they can do by means of petition, or permit the Roosevelt men to vote for Roosevelt in the electoral college if they are elected by the Republicans of the state. This is one of the points in hard practical politics where the Roosevelt men have an apparent advantage over their opponents and they are playing it as mercilessly as they charge the Republican national committee with performing at Chicago.

The national committee will take up the question immediately and will see to it that wherever Roosevelt electors have been chosen Taft elector will be nominated also and the interests of the party thus safeguarded to the fullest extent.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FRESH SALMON.

IF you can get fresh salmon you are fortunate in these days of high priced meat, for salmon is one of the most nutritive of flesh foods.

Here are some appetizing ways of cooking salmon:

Served With Tartare Sauce.

Grilled Salmon.—Cut the salmon into slices about an inch thick, brush them over with salad oil and broil gently over a clear fire. Turn the slices every five minutes. They will take about twenty minutes to cook. When done the fish may be pressed from the bone. Serve with tartare sauce.

Rich and Pungent.

Salmon Cutlets.—Cut salmon into slices about an inch thick, dip each in equal quantities of flour and curry powder mixed and fry in hot fat.

Serve with curry sauce made as follows: Fry a sliced onion in an ounce of dripping or butter, add a dessertspoonful each of flour and curry powder and fry for a few minutes. Pour in half a pint of stock and boil till the sauce thickens. Season and serve with the cutlets.

Boiling the Steak.

Boiled Salmon.—Butter a piece of cheesecloth large enough to hold a slice of salmon. Tie the cloth at the corners and lower it into a saucepan containing enough lukewarm water to cover the fish. Add a teaspoonful of salt, cover the saucepan and bring to the boiling point. Then let cook six or eight minutes. Lift from the water; let drain well, then remove to a plate and turn the fish unto a hot, folded napkin set on a hot plate.

A thick piece of salmon weighing two or three pounds should be cooked nearly half an hour.

Serve with boiled potato and egg or caper sauce.

For Delicate Palates.

Salmon With Bernaise Sauce.—Put salmon steaks into a marinade consisting of a tablespoonful each of olive oil, lemon juice, onion juice, a branch of parsley, a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of pepper. Let them stand for an hour, turning them occasionally. Then place them on a broiler and let them broil for six minutes on each side. Decorate with a little parsley and serve with bernaise sauce.

As Highlanders Like Them.

Scotch Salmon.—Cut steaks of salmon about three-quarters of an inch thick. Mix together two tablespoonfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of salt and one teaspoonful of pepper. Dip each side of the fish in this mixture.

Beat up an egg; brush the steaks with it. Then cover them with coarse Scotch oatmeal in the same way as crumbs are used. Again brush the steaks with the egg and cover with the oatmeal. Then fry in boiling fat until they are a pretty brown, drain well on paper and serve garnished with fried parsley.

THE GARDEN PLUM.

PLUMS are one of the most delicious foods and in the form of prunes one of the most wholesome.

Plums make an excellent preserve. Pickled green plums are sometimes put up in imitation of olives.

Wild plums make a palatable marmalade. Crab apples combine well with plums in making marmalade.

Damson plums make good jam.

Plums may be dried whole by spreading on earthen dishes and setting them out in the sun eight or ten hours a day.

A Lucious Pie.

Plum Pie.—To three cupfuls of stoned plums add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar and a little water and simmer until tender. Line the pie pan with puff paste, put in fruit and cover with an upper crust, wetting the edges to keep the juices from running out. Bake in a moderate oven.

A Fruit Novelty.

Plum Custard.—Take a pint of plums, stew them and put into a baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar, and pour over them a cream made by cooking together until smooth and thick two cupfuls of milk and two tablespoonfuls of flour. Add to this on removing from the fire a tablespoonful of butter and the yolks of three eggs, beaten light. Bake the plums ten minutes. Make a meringue with the whites of the eggs and three tablespoonfuls powdered sugar. Cover the pudding and place in the oven to brown slightly. Serve cold with cream.

An Attractive Dessert.

Plums In Rice.—Cook rice and milk until tender and dry. Add a pinch of salt when it is half done and sweeten. Pour into a border mold to set. When ready to serve turn it out carefully and fill the center with plums. The fruit must be stewed. Pour a little of the sirup over the rice and whipped cream over the plums. The kernels of the stones should simmer ten minutes in a thin sirup and then be mixed with the fruit.

A Combination Preserve.

Plum Preserve.—Take four pounds of plums, two pounds of sugar, two oranges, one pound of English walnut meats and one pound seeded raisins. The stones should be taken from the plums either before or after cooking. Put nuts and raisins through the chopper, add the juice and grated peel of the oranges, then cook all about three hours, or until as thick as jam.

TEACHERS FAVOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Elect E. T. Fairchild as National President

Chicago, July 11.—Aside from electing as president E. T. Fairchild of Topeka, Kan. state superintendent of public instruction, in a contest against Miss Grace Sheehan of New York, the National Education association, representing more than 15,000 educators, went on record as favoring:

Woman suffrage, "because women teachers redlize the responsibility of training youth for citizenship."

Promotion of international peace.

An investigation of teachers' salaries throughout the country with reference to the high cost of living.

A uniform federal law for marriage and divorce.

The promotions of plans for a national university.

The extension by congress of plans for training in agriculture, domestic economy and other industrial work in various institutions.

Greater attention in the public schools to the health of pupils.

The extension by congress of the work of the national bureau of education, "so as to embody a group of competent men and women to study thoroughly the problem of rural education, city school administration, vocational education, sanitation and hygiene and higher education, including the training of teachers."

More attention by teachers to the individual necessities of pupils for a training that will fit them for a definite occupation in life.

That the school playgrounds provide at least one square rod for each pupil.

That a greater spirit of altruism be inspired in school work.

The association condemned compulsory military training in schools not especially designated as military schools.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Elnora helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora were finishing breakfast the next morning when they heard a cheery whistle down the road. Elnora with surprised eyes looked at her mother.

It was just sunrise, but the musician was Philip Ammon. He looked stronger than yesterday.

"I hope I am not too early," he said. "I am consumed with anxiety to learn if we have made a catch."

"We will have to wander along the roads and around the edge of the Limberlost today," said Elnora. "Mother is making strawberry preserves, and she can't come until she finishes. Suppose we go down to the swamp, and I'll show you what is left of the flower room that Terrence O'More, the big lumberman of Great Rapids, made when he was a homeless boy here. He was called Freckles. Of course, you have heard the story?"

"Yes, and I've met the O'Mores, who are frequently in Chicago society."

They went down the road to the swamp, climbed the snake fence, followed the path to the old trail and then turned south along it. Elnora indicated to Ammon the trail with remnants of sagging barbed wire.

"It was ten years ago," she said. "I was just a little schoolgirl, but I wandered widely even then, and no one cared. I saw him often. He had been in a city institution all his life, when he took the job of keeping timber thieves out of this swamp, before many trees had been cut. It was a strong man's work and he was a frail boy, but he grew hardier as he lived out of doors, and he won.

"Some days his face was dreadfully sad, some days it was so determined a little child could see the force in it, and once it was radiant. That day the Swamp Angel was with him. I can't tell you what she was like. I never saw any one who resembled her. He stopped near here to show her a bird's nest. Then they went on to a sort of flower room he had made, and he sang for her. By the time he left I had got bold enough to come out on the trail, and I met the big Scotchman Freckles lived with. He saw me catching moths and butterflies, so he took me to the flower room and gave me everything there. I don't dare come alone often, and so I can't keep it up as he did, but you can see something of how it was."

Elnora led the way and Ammon followed. The outlines of the room were not distinct, because many of the trees were gone, but Elnora showed how it had been as nearly as she could.

"The swamp is almost ruined now," she said. "The maples, walnuts and cherries are all gone. The talking trees are the only things left worth while."

"The 'talking trees!' I don't understand," commented Ammon.

"No wonder!" laughed Elnora. "They are my discovery. You know all trees whisper and talk during the summer, but there are two that have so much to say they keep on the whole winter when the others are silent. The beeches and oaks so love to talk they cling to their dead, dry leaves. In the winter the winds are stiffest and blow most, so these trees whisper, chatter, sob, laugh and at times roar until the sound is deafening. When the air is cold and clear, the world very white and the harp music swelling, then the talking trees tell the strengthening, uplifting things."

"You wonderful girl!" cried Ammon. "What a woman you will be!"

"If I am a woman at all worth while it will be because I have had such wonderful opportunities," said Elnora. "Not every girl is driven to the forest to learn what God has to say there. Here are the remains of Freckles' room. The time the Angel came here he sang to her and I listened. I never heard music like that. No wonder she loved him. Everyone who knew him did, and they do yet. Try that log, it makes a fairly good seat. This old store box was his treasure house, just as it's now mine. I will show you my dearest possession. I do not dare take it home because mother can't overcome her dislike for it. It was my father's, and in some ways I am like him. This is the strongest."

CHAPTER XX.

Wherein the Limberlost Sings For Ammon.

ELNORA lifted the violin and began to play. She wore a school dress of green gingham, with the sleeves rolled to the elbows. She seemed a part of the setting all around her. Her head shone like a small dark sun, and her face never had seemed so rose flushed and fair. From the instant she drew the bow her lips parted and her eyes fastened on something far away in the swamp, and never did she give more of that impression of feeling for her notes and repeating something audible only to her. Ammon was too near to get the best effect. He arose and stepped back several yards, leaning against a large tree, looking and listening with all his soul.

As he changed positions he saw that Mrs. Comstock had followed them and was standing on the trail, where she could not have helped hearing everything Elnora had said. So to Ammon before her and the mother watching on the trail Elnora played the song of the Limberlost. To the man it was a revelation. He stood so stunned he forgot Mrs. Comstock. He tried to realize what a great city audience would say to that music from such a player with a like background, and he could not imagine.

He was wondering what he dared say, how much he might express, when the last note fell and the girl laid the violin in the case, closed the door, locked it and hid the key in the rotting wood at the end of a log. Then she came to him. Ammon stood looking at her curiously.

"I wonder," he said, "what people would say to that?"

"I did it in public once," said Elnora. "I think they liked it fairly well. I had a note yesterday offering me the leadership of the high school orchestra in Onabasha. I would gladly play for nothing just to be able to express myself."

"Give up the college idea," said Ammon. "Your mind does not need that sort of development. It is far past it."

"Do you really mean that you would give up all idea of going to college, if you were me?"

To the Man It Was a Revelation.

"If you could only realize it, my girl, you are in college, and have been always. You are in the school of experience, and it has taught you to think, and given you a heart. God knows I envy the man who wins it! I wouldn't even advise you to read too many books on your lines. You get your stuff first hand, and you know that you are right. What you should do is to begin early to practice self expression. Don't wait too long to tell us about the woods as you know them."

Not until then did he remember that Mrs. Comstock was somewhere very near.

"Should we go out to the trail and see if your mother is coming?" he asked.

"Here she is now," said Elnora. "Gracious, it's a mercy I got that violin put away in time! I didn't expect her so soon," whispered the girl, as she turned and went toward her mother. Mrs. Comstock's face was a study as she looked at Elnora.

"Have you found anything yet?" she asked.

"Nothing that I can show you," said Elnora. "I am not sure but I have found an idea that will revolutionize the whole course of my work, thought and ambitions."

"'Ambitions!' My, what a hefty word!" laughed Mrs. Comstock. "I guess we better let ambition lie. I've always heard it was safest asleep. If you ever get a bonafide attack, it will be time to attend it. Let's hunt specimens. It is June. Philip and I are in the grades. What is the miracle of June? What one thing epitomizes the whole month?"

"The birth of these big night moths," said Elnora promptly.

Ammon clapped his hands. The tears started to Mrs. Comstock's eyes. She took Elnora in her arms and kissed her forehead.

"You'll do!" she said. "Find the distinctive feature of each month, the one thing which marks it a time apart. I can't name all of them offhand, but I think of one more right now. February belongs to our winter birds. You should hear those musicians of this swamp in February, Philip, on a mellow night. Oh, but they are in earnest! For twenty-one years I've listened by night to the great owls, all the smaller sizes, the foxes, coons and every resident left in these woods, and by day to the hawks, yellowhammers, sapsuckers, titmice, crows and all our winter birds. It's about the best music we have. I just wonder if you couldn't copy that alone and make a strong, original piece out of it for your violin, Elnora?"

There was one tense breath, then—"I could try," said Elnora simply.

Ammon rushed to the rescue. "We must go to work," he said, and began examining a walnut branch for Luna moth eggs. Elnora joined him while Mrs. Comstock drew her embroidery from her pocket and sat on a log. She said she was tired; they could come for her when they were ready to go. She could hear their voices all around her until she called them at supper time. When they came to her she stood waiting on the trail, the sewing in one hand, the violin in the other. Elnora became very white, but took the trail without a word. Ammon, unable to see a woman carry a heavier load than he, reached for the instrument. Mrs. Comstock shook her head. She carried the violin home, took it into her room and closed the door. Elnora turned to Ammon.

"If she destroys that I will die!" cried the girl.

"She won't!" said Ammon. "You misunderstand her. She wouldn't have said what she did about the owls if she had meant to. She is your mother. No one loves you as she does. Trust her! Myself—I think she's simply great!"

STRIKE THREATENS NEW BEDFORD

Weavers Are Opposed to the Grading System

New Bedford, Mass., July 11.—At a meeting of the Weavers' union, is was voted that unless the cotton manufacturers of this city take down notices posted a short time ago announcing a system of grading, by 12 o'clock Saturday, July 13, the members of the union would not report for work Monday, July 15. The union received a letter from the Manufacturers' association in reply to a request for a conference on the grading system.

The manufacturers in a letter state that if the union will submit in writing a plan which in the judgment of the union is better than the one now in use, the association will appoint a committee to discuss the same with the union.

The meeting voted that it would answer the manufacturers by saying there is only one plan that it will agree to, and that is the total abolition of the grading sysaem.

SENATOR SEES MORE TROUBLE

Unless Outrages on American Citizens In Mexico Stop

MEXICAN SURPLUS PROBABLE

Deficit Had Been Expected Instead of a Surplus—Amnesty For Rank and File of Rebels—General Garibaldi at Odds With His Commander—Gomez Sympathizers Fomenting Trouble For Orozco

Washington, July 11.—"Outrages in Mexico are becoming so frequent that this country cannot put up with them any longer. There will be big developements in the Mexican situation in a few days." This was the prediction of Senator Smith of Arizona at the White House. Senator Smith added that he had talked about the situation with President Taft.

"We have got to do something: issue a proclamation or warn Mexico in some way," he said.

Mexico City, July 11.—A probable surplus of $2,500,000 is reported by Ernesto Madero, secretary of the treasury, at a cabinet meeting. He regarded this as an indication of the vitality of the country and as a sign of the conservativeness with which the budget for the present fiscal year had been drafted. The budget estimated a deficit of about $3,500,000. The reserve of $21,000,000 still is intact.

General Huerta will be authorized at once to issue a proclamation of amnesty to all rebels of the rank and file who surrender unconditionally within three weeks, according to a statement made in government circles. The amnesty will not apply to Orozco or his officers.

General Guiseppe Garibaldi, grandson of the famous Italian liberator, has resigned as commander of the volunteers recruited by the Mexican government to repel the rebel invasion of the state of Sonora. The incident revealed the serious plight of the government defensive campaign in Sonora. Garibaldi disagreed with General Augustin Sanjines, commander-in-chief of the zone, as to the best means of keeping General Orozco's rebel army from over-running Sonora. He declined to consent to a plan which he believed would mean the annihilation of his men. General Jose de La Luz Blanco is also said to mbe at odds with Canjines, and it has been discovered that many of the men enlisted on the government side are really organizers. Just how many men are disloyal is not known, but thus far eighty have been disarmed, while many have deserted. General Garibaldi is en route to Mexico City to argue his case before President Madero.

When General Pascual Orozco, Jr., arrives at Juarez he must face dissatisfaction in the ranks of his soldiers. A new rebel junta has been organized and secretly has been working among the troops of the rebel army with the idea of persuading them to abandon the leadership of General Orozco and recognize General David de la Fuent as military chief, with Emilo V. Gomez as civil head of the rebel cause. The Vasquista sympathizers, originators of the present revolt, which was appropriated by Orozco, who repudiated Vasquez Gomez, have risen again, and the mutinous spirit conspicuous among the rebels of late may be traced to Vasquista influences.

The Vasquistas have been anxious ever since Emilo V. Gomez was overthrown by Orozco to assume charge of the revolution, but not until recent events when Orozco began to meet with military reverses, have they found encouraging responses in the rebel ranks.

Lynching Was Feared

San Antonio, July 11.—With two men and two women dead and four others in a serious condition, the entire country about San Antonio is aroused as a result of the wholesale poisoning on the Rosalie ranch. A Mexican and a woman arrested as suspects were hurried away by the authorities to avoid a lynching.

Woonsocket, July 11.—In connection with the case of the woman whose headless body was found some time ago in the Blackstone river, a reward of $200 is offered to any one who would produce Mrs. Angele Parmentier-Delmar alive. The police hold to the belief that she was the victim of the crime.

BOYNTON VOTE AS RECORDED

Wrong Impression Gained From Many Stories

MISUNDERSTANDING CLAIMED

It has been claimed by many that a wrong impression has been produced by the many stories relative to the incident of the Park and Downs church bearing upon the suspension of Chester A. Boynton. The following is given out by one of the church officials, as the correct version of the vote:

"The vote of 4 to 3 by which the standing committee of the Park and Downs church recommended the suspension from membership of Mr. Chester A. Boynton turns out to have been a different kind of vote than the public has been led to believe.

"The records of the Standing Committee show that the vote stood three for dismissal and four for suspension. The public has taken it for granted that the votes of the three were against any action and has formed an opinion of the case partly on that basis. For that reason it should be generally known that the three minority votes cast were for expulsion. It is the desire of the standing committee that the true votes be made known."

CHOSEN MANAGER.

Andrew F. Anderson, one of the best known and most popular members of the Finnish colony in Quincy has been elected manager of the Finnish Cooperative store. Mr. Anderson brings to the new position abundant experience which gives promise of a successful administration. For some years he was manager of the North Star, the Finnish paper published in Fitchburg and more lately has been bookkeeper at the store he is now engaged to manage.

AUTO RIDE.

The large motor truck of the W. G. Shaw furniture company took out a jolly party of children Wednesday evening. They enjoyed a ride through the surrounding towns.

MR. GILRAINE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of James Gilraine, of 395 Quarry street extension, who was drowned Tuesday in one of the quarry holes adjoining Tranor's quarry, West Quincy, took place this morning from his late home. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock by Rev. William J. Duffy. The regular choir furnished tne Gregorian chant. Many friends attended the services. Burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

LOAN AWARDED.

City Treasurer Tilden has awarded a $25,300 miscellaneous loan and a $5,400 surface drainage loan to Blodget & Co. at 100.077. The only other bidder was Adams & Co. at 100.03.

DISTRICT COURT.

Edward C. McGovern was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Frank Grew was fined $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

The continued case of Sarah Rich for alleged larceny from the Boston Bay Steamboat Co. was heard and continued for disposition until July 18.

MAYOR STONE VETOES ORDER

On Tax Collections Because Printed Matter is Ready

UNDER OLD ARRANGEMENT

Mayor Stone has vetoed the order passed at the meeting of City Council July 1, amending the ordinance relative to the collection of taxes. The amendment as passed by the council provided that the date upon which interest should commence should be October 1, instead of November 1, and that the date upon which summons should be issued for unpaid taxes should be December 1, instead of January 1.

The Mayor's reason for vetoing the order was that the stationery, bills, etc., for this year's tax bills were all printed and that it was too late to put the amendment into effect this year. He however evidently believes in the proposed amendment for he recommends that a similar order be passed later to take effect next year. As the council has adjourned the veto can not be acted upon until a meeting is held.

It is probable that the council will sustain the veto and immediately pass another order which shall go into effect Jan. 1, 1913.

BRIEFS

The officers of Court John Ericson F. of A. will be installed Friday evening.

Rev. Edward A. Hart of Fitchburg is visiting Rev. John Lillbach for a few days.

Miss Phylis Smith of Madison street is spending about two months of her vacation with relatives in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bennett of Newbury avenue, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, July 6.

Two carloads of young ladies employed at the Tubular Rivet Co. enjoyed an outing at Nantasket Wednesday evening. At the beach they spent the evening at the Palm Garden and other places of amusement.

READY FOR TRIAL TRIP.

The torpedo boat destroyer Hanley, built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., has been delivered to the government at the Charlestown navy yard. She will be given her official trial trip in a few days.

—With the days at their longest and only a few rainy ones in the thirty, last June naturally made a new record for sunshine. Most of the time it was clear from sunup to sundown. This was true in New England and even more so in New York, where there was only one rainy day. That, however, brought 1.17 inches of rain or more than four times the precipitation hereabouts. The early days of July have been equally prolific in sunshine and the month promises to continue the record made in June.—Framingham News.

PRETTY FROCKS AT LENOX.

Silks That Show Advanced Ideas—Crepes, Border Trimmings—Soft Clinging Materials in Gorgeous Tints.

Any one who is privileged to obtain glimpses of gowns fresh from their Paris wrappings, sent direct to American clients of the famous French houses can tell without difficulty what direction fall styles will take.

PANNIER DRAPERIES.

Don't for a minute believe any of the prognostications against pannier draperies, for these are worn in fast increasing degree by the kind of people who make a style go. Not the old time panniers, bunched up on the hips, but a low graceful, curving sweep that comes well down toward the foot of the skirt, sloping away from the front on elongated pannier lines.

MATERIALS AND COLORS.

It goes without saying that materials remain and will continue to be soft and clinging and silks are well in the lead not only for present wear but for fall use. Borders are in favor in new Egyptian and Holbein designs, and cut out embroideries or pierced work in allover patterns done on silk is smart and pretty, especially for the various little coatees that go as extra garments, or as the top for costume taking the place of coat and blouse.

DICKEYS.

These are supplemented by extra neck and sleeves pieces which are mere skeletons to cover the neck, and complete the sleeve. These latter contraptions have an elastic in the hem, which slips up under the cuff and finish in ruffles of various sorts. In fact the ruffle finish for sleeves of all lengths is almost universal except in tailormade shirts.

A PRETTY RATINE SUIT.

A pretty ratine suit worn bewitchingly by a girl here, is of a pure white, very light weight variety of this "towelling" made with a plain skirt, set off with a deep bias fold of the material caught with big pearl buttons. The coat, belted with black patent leather, has a velvet Robespierre collar, with double jabot of batiste edged with Irish picot, and with the same big pearl buttons for closings. The sleeves slit to the elbow at the back are long and tight fitting, and have two inch batiste frills at the opening, and buttons of smaller size outlining the make-believe slash. A big panama hat with the fashionable black velvet band was worn with this.

NEW COLORS.

Browns have been forging to the front for some time, especially in the russet shades, and while not a specially good warm weather tint, is already smartly worn, so that by autumn it will be notable. Turkish green is very prominent both for contrasts and whole garments, while the "greenery yallery" sulpher shades are very smart. Yellows and coppers are other vivid shades in advanced styles, and velvet ribbon threadings and pump-bow sashes are additions that are especially good with a frock that needs emphasis.

LACE GOWNS AND COATS.

While chiffons are still modish laces have the first place, and are superseding lingerie dresses both for day and evening wear, while after the freakish mood that fashion so often assumes, lingerie trimmings are replacing lace on smart silk frocks. A dress of old, dull blue Charmeuse, has a wide cape collar, and long puffed under sleeves of lingerie batiste in fine Punch embroidery wrought in cream color with touches of blue in the pattern.

BELTS AND GIRDLES.

Patent leather belts are worn with anything and everything. Plain narrow black belts, or fancy ones of black and white in no end of pretty combinations. Bright red belts in contrast with the costume matched up with hat trimmings, stockings, necktie, or even shoes, for wear on board walks or where no great demands are made upon them. Silk dresses have these shiny leather belts rather more often than linens, and always they have plain tailored buckles of metal or covered with the leather.

Rosalind May.

Lenox, July 5, 1912.

OVERCOME BY HEAT.

Among the heat prostrations reported Wednesday was Mrs. Nellie Kane aged 50 years of 277 Whitwell street. She was overcome in the Public Gardens, Boston, and was removed to the City Hospital and later taken home.

PRACTICE DURING GAMES

Creates Delays Not Appreciated by the Spectators

The management of the Quincy City base ball league should make an effort to prevent unnecessary delays at the games played in their schedule at the Water street play grounds.

Of course this matter is really up to the umpire to keep the teams moving from the drop of the hat until the last man is out in the last inning, but the management could do well to tip the umpire off to this effect.

The people at the games do not like delays. Good, fast, snappy games, with plenty of movement is what they like to see.

Games are long drawn out and become tedious, when between every inning time is permitted the pitcher to limber up and the catcher to get a line on second base and by the time all the players have their little bit of practice. two or three minutes is used up. which repeated every inning it is easy to judge how much time is wasted.

Both teams have plenty of time to get in their practice before the games, and the pitchers have plenty of opportunity to limber up. When the game is started the audiences like to see it kept right on and not broken by periods of side line practice. Then again batsmen should known their turn at the bat and when they come in from the field be ready to take their place, and not wait to be called half a dozen times. This also adds to delays which could be avoided.

No doubt the management will cooperate with the players. in remedying this defect which cannot help the game at all, while its discontinuance will mean more interest, in the contests.

UMPIRING IN SOUTH.

Frank Rudderham, one of the famous Braintree family of ball players, is umpiring in the Southern league this season. Frank has had a few mix-ups with players recently, and now there is a yell in Atlanta to keep him away from there. Trailers make more or less trouble for umpires and Atlanta isn't going to be out of the running when it comes to clashing with the arbiters. The Georgia team is in seventh place, and is fighting hard to keep out of the cellar position.

QUINCY AND VICINITY IN GRIP OF THREE WILD, WEIRD STORMS

Many People Struck and Shocked, But No Local Residents Suffered Death From Their Injuries

Two Fatalities Reported From Other Places. Electrical Service Seriously Crippled by the Elements' Mad Pranks

Three distinct and separate storms swept this section of the country fore and aft Thursday afternoon, making four that had visited the district within 24 hours and left wreck and ruin in their pathway, doing damage right and left, injuring people and in a few cases death resulted.

So called greater Boston was in the centre of the storm in all its stages, and it was no light toll which the elements exacted of earth and people.

Boston, Chelsea and Cambridge and a goodly portion of the South Shore, including Quincy, Braintree, the Weymouths, Holbrook, Randolph and other places were within the grip of the electrical disturbance for several hours and every one felt the effects. It was nerve racking at times.

The rain was welcome, every one hoped that it would continue for an indefinite period to furnish dried up mother earth and the vegetation, the nourishment it so sadly needed.

But it was the thunder and lightning which proved the most frightful and appalling.

The first storm started shortly before noon and raged with unabated fury for over half an hour. The sun made its appearance for a short time, when the wind backed around and about one o'clock, another storm was in full swing, with just as much vigor as its predecessor.

Again the sun made its appearance, but a third time, the storm king prevailed, drove the sun out of business and continued the last lap in the pranks of the day. This last effort was not quite as strong as the two which preceded it, yet it was spiteful enough to make the most daring take notice and hope that it would soon pass over.

People employed in places where there was much electricity, telephone or telegraph wires, electric light wires, or great masses of steel ware, were on the nervous seat all the time, fearful of the results which the metallic and magnetic attractions might produce.

Fortunately in Quincy disaster from this source was not recorded.

At the Quincy telephone exchange and at other places where there were great magnetic attractions for electricity, the employes stopped work during the height of the storm.

The girls at the telephone exchange left the switch boards as no one could expect them to be handling electrically charged wires with such a storm raging.

The electric light plant shut down during the day, and the power house of the street railway also shut off the power at certain times during the day.

The fire alarm wire was kept jangling all the afternoon, some times for fires, but more often where the lightning struck the wires.

At many points electric cars were held up for some time when the power was shut off and as a result during the afternoon, and the early evening, the local schedule was all out of kilter. No one could find fault under the circumstances however and every one took their disappointments good naturedly thankful that things were no worse.

A great many cars were burned out and put out of commission and it was nothing novel to see cars operating in pairs, one providing motive power for both, as the other one was crippled. Fully 100 lines of the local telephone branch were put out of order, breaking up connection with 200 stations. The service to Boston and other points was also crippled for a good part of the day and evening.

While some electric light wires were burned out, the plant was not put out of commission and was equal to meeting all its obligations for night service.

The third storm brought things to a climax. It cleared the atmosphere in more ways than one. It swept the storm germs and played havoc with the heat wave which had become so deeply implanted in greater Boston soil and air the past dozen days.

The wind had been shifting from south to east and then to southeast, and finally became fixed at almost due east, when the storms ceased. In each case the wind backed around, instead of following on around the compass, always a feature to be deplored as it means severe weather conditons and Thursday all the signs in this respect were carried out in good shape.

Houghs Neck suffered in its telephone service, but damage to buildings and property was not very noticeable.

The earth had become so hardened, baked and dry from the long spell of drought and excessive hot weather, and then again the rain when it did come, arrived in such immense volume and rapid downpour that the natural sources of carrying off the water were unequal to the task. The ground where pavement did not exist, was too hard and unyielding to permit of easy percolation, so that on almost all the streets, the water finding its level formed little pools and ponds.

The earth under the water remained firm and hard for some time.

ELECTRICAL SPARKS FLYING

Injure Property and Discommode People in Their Passage

A bolt struck a tree on Quincy avenue which was splintered. The bolt then entered the house of Robert J. Williams and smashed a lot of dishes.

Lightning entered the house of Overseer of the Poor James H. Elcock, Copeland street, three times going in on the electric light wires. The rooms were filled with electricity and the lights went out for a minute. No damage was done however.

The street cars got it again Thursday and a number of cars were put out of commission. So many cars crippled by the two storms that it was necessary to put out closed cars on some of the lines.

A trolley wire was struck on Washington street causing a lively spark to fly off which struck Mrs. Albert Keating in the back. The spark ran down her back burning it quite badly.

Arthur McGilvray a clerk in the Walsh Drug Co. store at the corner of Hancock and School streets received slight shock.

A bolt entered the engine house of the Granite Railway Co. near the West Quincy depot and slightly shocked the twelve men who had sought shelter from the storm.

A bolt entered the house of Mrs. Cornelius Dunn of Filbert street. Mrs. Dunn was working over the kitchen stove at the time and the bolt knocked a frying pan from her hand and rendered her unconscious for a few minutes.

Chimneys on the houses of Dr. John T. Reynolds and Furnace Brook Parkway, and Mrs. Catherine Moriarty on Dayton street were knocked down.

One of the fire alarm circuits was burnt out during the storm of the early afternoon and another circuit was badly grounded, causing the bells to strike for a time. Men were immediately sent out to repair the damage.

COMMITTEE SETTLING UP

Celebration Association Anxious to Clean Up Voyage

LATE CONTRIBUTIONS

The Quincy Fourth of July Association checks Thursday to everyone that had presented a bill against the Association; if there are any bills that have not been presented the Executive Committee request that they be sent in immediately as the Committee will hold another meeting Saturday evening, July 13, to approve all bills and clear up the voyage.

The committee wish to acknowledge the following additional contributions:

Quincy Herd to Buffalo, No. 1	$5.00
Name to be furnished	1.00
Wesley Beckford	.50

If there are any persons who have contributed money and their names have not been published they are requested to send same to A. W. Stetson, Secretary.

COMFORTABLE CONDITIONS

Experienced When Temperature Drops From High Perch

There was quite a noticeable difference in the temperature this noon from what it has been on other days this week. Thursday at noon it was 94 degrees and today at the same hour it was 74 a difference of 20 degrees. It looks as though we might have a little milder weather for a few days at least. Another fact worthy of note is that there were but two July days last year when the temperature at noon was lower than today. On July 24 the glass at noon was 73 and on July 28, it was 61.

Tuesday and Wednesday of this week however the thermometer flirted around the century mark for several hours at a time to the great discomfort of the multitude.

GOOD FOR AVIATORS.

There has been established in New York a college for firemen, where the city firemen are trained in the best method of fighting flames and to meet the emergencies which may arise. A feature of the curriculum is to have the firemen drop from the edge of a six-story building into a net below.

SAVINGS AND INSURANCE

Both as Bearing on Industrial Conditions Discussed

AT C. L. U. SMOKE TALK

About 100 men, members of various local labor crafts, assembled at Hibernian hall, Thursday evening to attend a smoke talk and entertainment under the auspices of the Quincy Central Labor union, and they had the satisfaction of listening to two very intelligent discourses, one on Savings Bank insurance by William J. Montgomery, state actuary and the second on the new Workmen's Compensation act, by Representative Joseph A. Parks of Fall River, who is the father of the bill and one of the members of the newly created Industrial insurance commission, operating under this act.

Both speakers were listened to with considerable attention, and the interest which was manifested can be judged when Representative Parks, who had volunteered to answer any question which might be induced by his talk, did not leave the stand until 11 o'clock and then there were some who would liked to have asked more questions, but he was forced to leave at that time to take the last train for Boston.

J. M. Downes, secretary of the Union presided and introduced the speakers. The entertainment committee provided light refreshments. The session was a decided success in every way. The questions which many of those present asked showed plainly that they were students of economic measures, kept in touch with what was going on and manifested an intelligent desire for greater enlightenment upon things that appeared the least bit hazy.

Mr. Montgomery announced that in discussing his topic of Savings bank insurance he would divide it into two parts, first what was intended by the law, and second the results, which had been secured. He said among other things:

"Prior to the introduction of Savings bank insurance, so called industrial insurance companies took care of all the business along those lines Some idea of the volume of business can be gained, by the fact in that one year, the individual policies written in this state figured up to $53,000,000 and the premiums on these policies amounted to $9,500,000 Thus the people of the state paid into the companies, $9,500,000 in their weekly assessments of five, ten, fifteen or twenty-five cents.

"In this case as in everything else the poor man had to pay the highest premiums. The wealthy man or man with a large and established income could secure insurance in the larger concerns at a really lighter cost So the poor man who wanted insurance bought it just like he does, potatoes, or any other necessity and paid for it at the usual rate

"An investigation was undertaken into this system, and the officials of the companies, under oath swore that it was absolutely necessary to maintain a high rate for this kind of insurance, owing to the expenses involved. There were three things which entered prominently into this kind of insurance the great expense to the insurance, the persuasion of the agent and the methods employed. There were cases where an agent would give a name to a lamp post, send it on to the home office and the lamp post would become a policy holder.

"Then came the idea of the Savings bank insurance to serve the people at a less cost than that at which they were insured.

"In this insurance there are no high salaried officials to be considered. The state sets aside each year, $15,000, for administration expenses so that there is no great drain on any one person. Any savings bank may establish such a depart providing it complies with the conditions to set aside a $25,000 guarantee fund, and this is administered by a board of seven trustees appointed by the governor.

"The law provides that there shall

Bernard McLaughlin was fined $5 on account of costs for drunkenness at Quincy.

Wilber G. Thayer was summoned into court on a complaint for drunkenness and the case went over until July 15 for hearing.

BIBLE CLASS ENJOY OUTING

Bethany Church Party Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw

The members of the young Ladies' class of Bethany Bible school had a very enjoyable time Wednesday afternoon and evening when Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shaw entertained them at Houghton's Pond.

The party left Quincy Square in Shaw's auto truck at two o'clock, just in time to escape the storm which their Quincy friends enjoyed.

After arriving at the grove the time was spent most enjoyably playing games, walking, bathing and boating. A bountiful lunch was served at six, the table being artistically decorated with ferns and flowers. They then left for home and before dispersing the girls and guests gave a rousing "Three Cheers" for Mr. and Mrs. Shaw.

The party consisted of the following: Rev. Mr. Wilmott, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shaw, Gertrude Shaw, Grace Fisher, Miss Shaw, Mrs. Guy, Frances Burke, Margaret Hunt, Frances Murray, Irma Moody, May Williams, Ada Williams, Helen Damon, Marjorie Welsh, Addie Parks, Guy Shaw and Florence Sabian.

THAT SCHOOL PROBLEM

Mr. Whiting Has Pertinent Remarks Upon the Subject

WOLLASTON SCHOOL FIGURES

That Wollaston school question is evidently stirring people up a bit. Chariman John L. Miller of the school board recently addressed a communication to the Ledger defending the action of the school board in retaining control of the old Wollaston school. James S. Whiting has a few pertinent remarks to make upon the subject, incidentally calling Mr. Miller's attention to some points he may have overlooked and also to some "figgers," as can be seen by the following communication:

Editor Daily Ledger and Patriot:—I am surprised at the sudden awakening of the Chairman of the School Committee and his fear that the new Wollaston school building will not be large enough to accommodate the pupils of that district and also those from a possible overflow from the Mass. Fields school.

If the chairman will familiarize himself with a few statistics from the "Annual report of the school department for the year ending December 31, 1911, "page 65," he will learn that according to the report that there is but remote danger of the Wollaston district outgrowing the new school building, with its 78 excess desks for many years to come. According to the school committee report above referred to the average number of pupils belonging to the Wollaston school for the past ten years, is as follows:—

1901—330	pupils.
1902—349	pupils.
1903—353	pupils.
1904—365	pupils.
1905—363	pupils.
1906—372	pupils.
1907—363	pupils.
1908—347	pupils.
1909—374	pupils.
1910—399	pupils.
1911—385	pupils.

If we all lived up to the ideals we aspire or pledge ourselves to what a pleasant place this world would be.

The New York Sun has been asked if a son born to American parents abroad can be elected president. He is not eligible, but then if he is progressive, has principles and policies and can get the nomination there is no knowing what will happen.

ALIENIST TESTIMONY.

The present trial of the Thaw case has brought forward another crop of that interesting specie known as the alienist. How much dependence can be placed in the testimony of these alleged experts it is difficult to determine. Some claim that Thaw is insane, others that he is not insane. One comes out flat footed and says Thaw "is not insane, never has been and should be given his liberty." If this view of the case is taken seriously it presents a new phase of the case. There is a man who deliberately murdered a fellow man. By claiming insanity and another well-known reason he escaped death,—the capital punishment he merited under the law and was committed to an asylum.

Now he wishes to be released. He carelessly claims that his murderous act is of no consequence now.

That may be a way for him to view the situation, but what can the people of the country say to this repeated spectacle which they are treated to every time Thaw or his lawyers think he should have his liberty.

Evelyn Thaw claims she is afraid for her life if Thaw is set free. Judging from the way Thaw conducted the White murder there is strong grounds for her claim. This releasing a man with a keeper is the veriest kind of maudlin rot, not to be considered for a minute. How much influence would a paid keeper have over the actions of a man of Thaw's temperament? He is either guilty of murder or insane, according to the law and the law should be permitted to take its course without any further exhibitions which are neither pleasing nor edifying to the public at large. As to the alienists—well as case after case show they testify pretty near in accord with the views of the side that hires them and their interest cannot be called exactly free from some personal consideration.

WATCHING THE "OLD BOY."

Governor Foss, used the term "Old Boy," so much in talking with social or political callers that they have applied that appellation to himself now. The governor has fallen into the ways of the diplomatic politician as though grooved into the place. Even that smooth young mayor of Boston, became peeved one day when called "old boy" and snappishly told the governor he was not his "old boy."

But just at this time the Massachusetts democrats are watching the "old boy" with a great deal of interest. It is true he has declared that he is out of politics, but then you can never tell nowadays.

The candidates for governor on that side are holding back their official announcements. They are watching the "old boy," and waiting to see what his next move will be. Some of the wise ones say he is in the same position as Governor Douglas when the democrats almost on bended knees implored him to run a second year. Any one who recalls such a position of Massachusetts with the Brockton shoe man must have a very vivid imagination. Mr. Douglas did not have a look in for reelection, after half the year of his first term had expired. He wisely stepped down rather than meet defeat. But Gov. Foss has been two years in office. He may look for a third term or may aspire to be senator. At any rate his smile, his self poise, and cheery "old boy," are keeping the democrats on the anxious seat and affording some of them many unpleasant half hours.

WOMEN'S CONFERENCE

Largest in History at Northfield, With Many Innovations

The largest Young Women's Conference ever held at Northfield in now in session. The Misses McMaster's School of Dobbs Ferry has the largest delegation with 60 girls. The Cathedral School of Washington, D. C., the Westover School, the Farmington School, and delegations from all the large cities of the East and small groups from many other schools make up a total of over 600.

Men are tabooed on the Campus, but the girls, not at all dismayed have organized two ball teams, which have already played a spectacular game, have held a most exciting track meet with singing and cheering galore, and are running off a tennis tournament. They devote all the morning to Bible and Mission study, and give up the afternoons to recreation. Rev. F. B. Meyer of London is at present giving a six day course on the application of the story of Exodus to modern life, and many other prominent speakers are present.

All the buildings are crowded, and Gould Hall which is being used for the first time this season, promises to be the most popular house during the General Conference in August, when such speakers as Rev. G. A. Johnston Ross, of New York City, Rev. Charles Brown of London, Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus of Chicago, and Rev. G. Glenn Atkins of Providence will be present.

Without pause the conferences continue during this month. As soon as the girls leave, the Women's Missionary Societies take possession, which in turn are followed by the Home Missionary Conference and the Summer School for Sunday School Workers.

not be any solicitors or house to house canvassing.

"The Fore River company was the first to establish a department for the collection of the savings for its employers, and any concern employing men or women can do the same thing, having some one in the office collect the money and turn it over to the bank once a month. These are known as savings bank insurance agencies, but they do not cost the insured anything.

"There are four such banks established in Massachusetts, with 15 smaller banks as agencies, and in addition 156 companies acting as does the Fore River company.

"In the face of the views which the officials of the big companies held that they could not do business at lesser rates, after the establishment of the Savings bank insurance, those companies reduced their rates 10 per cent and in another year made another reduction of 10 per cent or 20 per cent in all. Also the policy provisions were changed, in regard to paid up policies, cash values and such, so that the things which they claimed under oath were impossible to perform without loss, have been brought about under competition and they are still doing business.

"The Savings bank insurance has been able to return to the investor as dividends on the premiums, over 16 per cent of their investment after four years. The performance of the Savings bank insurance is unrivalled in the history of any insurance organization in the country. The insured gets his insurance at a 45 per cent net cheaper rate, than before the passage of this law, under the old rates and companies.

"Not only is this a benefit to the working man but to all classes it will prove a boon in time.

"At the present time there are 6200 policy holders in the state, insured for $2,225,000, at a low rate.

"It is spreading all over the country.

"The companies used to collect in nickles, dimes and quarters, $110,000,000 a year for premiums for this kind of insurance, under varying conditions. Now it is obtainable at a lower rate, and more favorable conditions.

"The companies have changed the forms of their policies, so that there is a cash value to them, and payment whole or part, is more favorable to the insured than it was a few years ago."

Ex-Representative Joseph Parks, of Fall River, a member of the Massachusetts Industrial Board, gave a very clear and extensive talk on the "Workingmen's Compensation Act." He resigned from the legislature early in the year, to accept the appointment on the board, made to him by Governor Foss.

In the course of his remarks the speaker answered questions on the act put to him by those present and discussed the relative merits of the bill for fully two hours. He began by citing the relations of the workingman and the employer that have existed in the past, then led up to their different developments, finally concluding with the compensation act, which he declared to be the most advantageous, both for the parties concerned.

The speaker said that contributary negligence will not prevent a man becoming entitled to the compensation set forth in this act. He said that the employers of labor could not lose insomuch as their rights were protected by insurance companies, through whom this compensation would be paid to workingmen. The compensation act, he added would not affect a man in the least, with regard to whatever insurance companies he may happen to hold policies. No matter if a man received hundreds of dollars, in the event of injuries, from societies and insurance companies to which he might belong, he would still, under the compensation act be given the money that rightly belongs to him.

The bill provided for due consideration and care for the workingmen at all times. Surgical and medical attendance when injuries occured of best treatment possible. In the event of no physician at hand, the injured man has the right to call any doctor he desires and all bills will be paid by the insurance companies. The foreman of the workshop is bound to keep posted on all provisions of the bill and is required to take measures at once, whenever an injury occurs.

Another benefit brought about by the act, the speaker declared, was the quickness with which payments are to be made. Heretofore it has often happened that men who have been injured received their benefits when they were ready to go to work again, at a time when the money was of practically no use to them. Under this new act, the money will be paid after 2 weeks and will continue while the injured man is unable to work up to 300 weeks. In case of death, the money will go to the nearest of kin In the loss of a leg, arm, or any accident which would incapacitate a man for life, the money will be made in weekly payments. In such a case, the man will be retired on half pay for 300 weeks.

The speaker also dealt with the provisions made in the payment of compensation, declaring that there was no litigation and that no attachments on claims for debts could not be made on the money paid out under the compensation act. He said that every precaution would be used to prevent accidents and that it came under the jurisdiction of the board to see that all places embracing the act were equipped with every convenience conducive to the safety and welfare of the laborer.

The committee in charge of the smoker were John M. Downes, James C. Faircloth, Joseph Kennedy, and John F. Casey.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Irene Devaney at her home 7 Pearl street, Wednesday evening, by about fifty of her friends. John McConarty presented Miss Devaney with a handsome garnet ring. Games of all sorts were played and the evening was most enjoyably spent. Refreshments were also served.

The committee in charge of the affair included Miss Isabelle Donahue, John Goodhue and John McConarty. Many friends were present from places outside of Quincy, among them being Francis Reagan and Frank Garrity of Chelsea, Alice Calvin and James Currin of Hyde Park, Margaret Barker of Revere, Irene Donovan, Elihue Hemminway, Frederick Coughlan and Russell Wholly of Weymouth and Alice Barry, John Griffin, Mary Hartrey, Nina Smith, Eva St. Charles, and Geo. Donovan of Braintree.

MASS. LEGISLATURE

May Be Called For Special Session In August

Boston, July 12.—Governor Foss discussed yesterday a special session of the legislature, to be called some time during the last two weeks in August. Several times since prorogation the governor has hinted at the calling of such a session, but never so strongly as this time.

He believes that the governor's council would concur with him in calling a special session, and that it would be the best time to secure more careful attention for the railroad bills which were defeated at the last session.

CLAIMED A MISTAKE

But Court Held Miss Rich on Larceny Charge

TESTIMONY CONFLICTING

The case of Miss Sarah Rich, of New York, now residing with her brother-in-law, Abraham London, on Charles street, Houghs Neck, came up in the district court yesterday before Judge Albert B. Avery. She was arraigned on two charges of larceny, one preferred by Inspector Daniel R. McKay and the other by Frank M. Rogers, treasurer of the Boston and Houghs Neck Steamboat Company. On the first charge she was dismissed, while the latter case has been continued until July 18.

The case consumed most of Thursday A. M. in court and much of testimony was conflicting. Miss Irene Harvey, ticket seller for the steamboat company, at Houghs Neck, testified that Miss Rich approached her at the ticket office on the morning of the alleged larceny of tickets and asked about the different price of tickets to Boston. Miss Harvey said that she showed the young lady the regular tickets that were sold and also the tickets that came in book form. Miss Rich decided to buy a book. According to Miss Harvey there were six trip books fastened together with an elastic. These were used to show Miss Rich, who paid for one ticket and took the entire six according to Miss Harvey.

Frank M. Rogers treasurer of the company declared that the alleged larceny took place on Friday morning and that Monday morning the girl went up on the morning boat and when it arrived in Boston two officers took the girl to the police station where the tickets were found in her bag, that is four tickets. He however swore that a package of six books was taken.

Miss Rich said that her home was in New York and that she was employed by the London Feather Co., and had charge of their department at a Boston store. She was now residing with her brother-in-law at Houghs Neck. Continuing she said that finding the cars consumed too much time she decided to take the boat to Boston and Saturday morning she went to the wharf and inquired about tickets. She was told the price of a book was $2.50 and that the young lady in charge of the office took up a package to show her. She then handed the girl a two dollar bill and fifty cents in silver and picked up what she supposed was the book. When she got home that night in telling her brother-in-law about it they came to the conclusion that there must have been a mistake of some kind for she had four books. She intended to return the other books to the office.

Monday morning she hurried away and thought that she had forgotten the books but it appeared her brother-in-law had placed them in her bag.

She declared that she did not take the books and that the transaction took place on Saturday morning. Treasurer Rogers was equally certain that it was Friday when the incident occurred and said it was that night that in figuring up he found six missing.

This question was deemed an important point and a recess was taken while police headquarters Boston was communicated with to see just what day it was that the larceny was reported. The report from Boston came back that it was on Friday. There was also a dispute as to the number of books taken. Miss Rich said that four was all she had and that number was all that was found in her bag. Rogers however declared that six books were taken.

The court after hearing the evidence dismissed one of the complaints and said that he would find the girl guilty and place the case on file. Her counsel objected to this. He either wanted her found not guilty or guilty and in case it was the latter he was prepared to appeal the case. The court then continued the case until next Thursday.

COURT OF ST. JAMES.

What a Presentation to English Royalty Means Socially.

There is no need for jealousy and excitement about presentations at court. Any respectable American girl can be presented at the court of St. James if she have sufficient influence with some lady who is even mildly persona grata at court. And when a girl or a matron has been presented then the matter ninety-nine cases out of a hundred comes to an abrupt end.

The social cachet amounts to no more than this—that the lord chamberlain has made an inquiry into your antecedents and found nothing in their history to cause comment. In the case of Americans the inquiry cannot be anything but perfunctory.

Some people imagine that a presentation at court is followed immediately by an invitation to the next state dinner or the next state concert or the next state tea and muffins. Nothing of the kind. You must attain or inherit great social importance or be representative in some way before the king and queen ask you to dine with them.

Presentation is a pretty laborious and expensive ceremony, signifying to any one who is not in the inner social ring in London nothing.—New York Telegraph.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE IN BOSTON AND VICINITY

PARAGON—CABARET.

The principal sensation of the Cabaret Show in the Palm Garden at Paragon Park for this week, and for the coming week, is the dancing of Mlle Clarice. She is making a feature of "The Storm Dance" this week, and her work is arousing most pronounced enthusiasm. We have had Maud Allen, Ruth St. Denis, Gertrude Hoffman and Isadora Duncan—all distinctive in their work which necessitates the flimsiest of clinging draperies, and no draperies at all over the most part, but Mlle Clarice makes an entire departure from any of these noted disciples of Terpsichore. Each dance tells a story which is as easily read and understood through her wonderful art of protraying emotion in dance as though it appeared in cold print. Mlle Clarice will have an entire change of programme in her dancing repertoire next week.

There has never been a time in the history of Paragon when the crowds continued so large every day and evening as during the past ten days. It is an ideal spot for solid comfort and enjoyment these hot days, especialy when one completes the sight-seeing in the Park by spending the evening in the Palm Garden. Fireworks continue to be a feature every Wednesday and Saturday night. The sea lions in the Lagoon are a constant source of amusement.

OXFORD'S BEST CIRCUS.

Oxford saw the best and biggest show in its history on Monday when a large crowd attended the Downie and Wheeler's World's Best Shows Combined, which held its exhibition here. It was by far the most pretentious aggregation in the circus line that has ever come to town. It had another marked peculiarity and that is the entire absence of graft of all sorts and the gentlemanly deportment of all those connected with the outfit.

The performance was far superior to the shows that have been making towns of this size. Its three rings were filled for several hours with a variety of exceptional acts. A detailed account of this lengthy performance is, of course, out of question, but attention might be called to a few of the best features. These were the pony drill, with twenty-five beautiful ponies marching and countermarching in perfect precision at the command of the ring master; a grotesque comedy three bar act, the cycle feat of the great Reynard, with his blindfold ride down a sixty-foot ladder on a unicycle, and the remarkable ride, of the roulette pony which remained on a revolving wheel that defied the efforts of everyone to stay on a single minute. In addition there were hosts of other acts, acrobatic, equestrian, trained animals, clowns and the other numbers that go to make up every high class circus.

The main performance was rivalled by the side show in some of its spectacular features, especially in the act when Captain Snider enters the cage of the untameable Spitfire. This animal is probably the most vicious lion used in circus work. It has maimed two keepers already and is growing more ferocious every day It is only a question of time until she will have to be taken from exhibition work and put in a zoological garden where she cannot endanger the lives of her keepers. —Oxford News.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

For the third tremendous week of their remarkably successful engagement, "The Meistersingers" will introduce a number of new features, in addition to new songs. The combined Harvard, Schubert and Weber Male Quartettes have created a veritable sensation in their new spectacular scenic production, "Camping Out," and as a result B. F. Keith's Theatre is packed to the doors nightly with an enthusiastic crowd. All those who have not already seen "The Meistersingers Camping Out" should lose no time in visiting the "Amusement Centre of Boston" and witnessing the greatest summer attraction ever staged, for the engagement is drawing to a close and but one more week remains of a positively limited engagement. "The Meistersingers Camping Out" will be surrounded by a splendid vaudeville bill. Earl and Curtis have a dainty and clever musical comedy entitled "The Girl and The Drummer," which abounds in bright lines and catchy music. Rita Gould is a beautiful young woman with a remarkable soprano voice and some stunning gowns ;Carl McCullough is a clever impersonator; Lida McMillan and Co., will appear in an uproarious comedy farce entitled "The Wrong Mr. Allen" and other features will be the Three Parelle Sisters, European gymnasts; Muriel and Francis, two clever girls with a novel specialty; and Walton and Lester, acrobatic clowns.

QUINCY IN GRIP OF STORMS

The Weymouth fire alarm was out of commission owing to the storm and the building was burned to the ground before help could be had. The storm also did considerable other damage in and about Weymouth, Braintree and Milton.

HOSPITAL WRECKED

Fore River Plant a Magnet For Electric Storms

The enormous amount of steel, wire, and other metal necessary in the equipment of the Fore River Company shipyard, does not make it a very desirable place for a timid person, a ministers son or a nervous woman during a thunder and lightning storm. The storms of Wednesday and Thursday, played in and out around the plant, yet it is remarkable that very little damage was done at this place. On Wednesday the plant was not struck at all. On Thursday, two bolts landed on the premises.

No one was hurt. So while there is the steel and metal and the natural magnets of attraction to the lightning there is really no more, if as much danger in this locality as in any other, where there is not so much metal.

One bolt struck the Red Cross hospital tearing the enamel off of the bowls but otherwise doing no damage. One of the other large buildings was also hit and while the lightning played about the mass of steel in the yard no one was injured although several were stunned for a minute and received a bad scare.

SHOCKED BY LIGHTNING

J. F. Eaton Required Services of a Physician

J. F. Eaton, a teamster employed by the Hammond Beef Company of Quincy, and residing at 372 Washington street, Braintree, was struck by the bolt of lightning which totally destroyed the barn of A. B. Raymond, on Pleasant street, South Weymouth, about four o'clock Thursday afternoon. Eaton was unloading his team at the time he was struck.

The loud noise of thunder frightened his horses, yet he managed to stop them from running away, before he fell exhausted. He was treated by Dr. Walter L. Sargent of Quincy, who said that the injured man will not be able to resume work for about four days.

Thirty tons of hay were burned in the barn and the loss is estimated at $5,000.

STORM PRANKS HEREABOUTS

What Lightning Did to Neighboring Localities

While Quincy fortunately escaped any fatality or really serious damage from the storm, neighboring localities were not so fortunate. Some of the things happening to nearby places follow:

The barn of Almond D. Raymond at Pleasant street and Park avenue, South Weymouth, was struck at 3 o'clock. The cupola was set on fire and the flames worked rapidly down into the rest of the building. The barn was swept by the fire and a large refrigerator in it was destroyed. Mr. Raymond runs a slaughter house, and considerable meat was stored in the refrigerator. The loss was $6000.

Several horses in the barn were rescued, but 25 tons of hay were burned.

The South Weymouth Custom Laundry on Main street 40 girls were working when lightning struck the building Several were knocked down and shocked The chimney on the house of John Crokes, Oak street, and the one on the store of James Dubue on Union street, were struck and the bolts passed through both buildings, with small damage.

In Weymouth the wall and interior finishing of a house on Phillips street occupied by Edward Stone and owned by Henry Phillips and the house of Wallace Bicknell on Front street were damaged. The flag pole on the Bates Opera House was split.

In Randolph, lightning struck the house of John Dee on Maine street. Damage was $2500.

In the house of Edward Mann on Main street, Randolph, 27 panes of glass were shattered by wind and hail, and 36 panes were shattered in the home of James Gaffey not far away. The roof of a hen house owned by Lester Wilbur was blown off.

Braintree suffered heavily. Miss Mary Cameron, working in the kitchen of 288 Newport avenue, was thrown to the floor unconscious when lightning entered along the water pipes.

Fred C. Sanford had a narrow escape while driving cows to pasture. One bolt killed three cows only a few feet away from him and left him stunned in the road, while the other cows rushed past him, nearly trampling him in their stampede.

MAID DAZED BY THE BOLT

When Lightning Passed Through Hatch House at Wollaston

The house of Walter M. Hatch, on Lincoln avenue, Wollaston, was considerably damaged by the storm Thursday afternoon, though no one was injured. The bolt tore through the roof of the house, followed along the telephone wires and shot out through the kitchen. The maid happened to be in the attic at the time and was considerably dazed by the bolt, though not enough to require medical attendance. This was about the only house in Wollaston that suffered damage from the storm.

TWO KILLED BY STORM

Cambridge Girl Lost Life by Stepping on Live Wires

Two persons were killed by the storm, one in Everett and the other in Cambridge.

Harold Angell, 19 years old of Malden, instantly killed when about to shut off the windmill pump at an Everett farm.

Florence Scully, 12 years old, of Cambridge, instantly killed by stepping on live electric wire that had fallen in Norfolk street, Cambridge.

PASTOR TODD COMMENDED

By His Parishioners of the South Boston Church

A meeting was held in the Fourth Presbyterian church, South Boston, Wednesday, night by members of the church and others to show their appreciation of Rev. James Todd, pastor. Mr. Todd's friends were relieved when he declined the secretaryship of the New England Sunday Protective League, as acceptance of the position would necessitate his departure from South Boston, where he has lived for years. Among those who addressed the gathering were Alexander McGregor of the governor's council and City Councillor Walter Ballantyne, who spoke in complimentary terms of Mr. Todd and expressed pleasure in the fact that he was to remain. Mr. Todd told of his long residence in South Boston and praised the district.

Rev. Mr. Todd was a former pastor of the Quincy church.

PARISH LAWN PARTY.

"A real lawn party" is what Rev. Fr. Henry Grady, pastor of St. Mary's church, says will take place Saturday on the grounds adjoining the parochial residence. The committees in charge all report great progress and good weather is all that is required to make the event the greatest in the history of the parish.

A special attraction in connection with the athletic events will be a base ball game between two picked teams, composed of parishioners. There will be an African dodger, cane ringing and other attractive features of such an occasion. The reception committee plans to accommodate hundreds of present and past parishioners.

Dancing will be enjoyed afternoon and evening and a band will furnish music.

GREENLAND'S ICEBERGS.

Their Progress Southward Lasts From February Till August.

Those monsters of menace to navigation, icebergs, are formed from huge pieces broken from the glaciers of the north, which the Arctic currents carry southward until they melt away in the warmer waters of the gulf stream. The terrible procession begins in February, and not until the end of August is the ice season supposed to be over in the north Atlantic.

Each year brings its regular reports of thrilling sights and collisions and losses in the ice fields from the incoming steamers during the spring and summer months. Certain years stand out as unusually bad ice years, but the general story is much the same. Once, during the month of May, 143 icebergs were sighted off Cape Race in a single day.

One of the largest icebergs on record towered 850 feet above the surface of the sea. As hardly more than one-tenth of the berg is out of water, this would mean a mass of ice 7,000 feet (one and one-third miles) from top to bottom. Its volume was calculated to be about 580,000,000 cubic feet and its weight some 16,000,000 tons!

Icebergs need not be extraordinarily high to be stupenduous. Lieutenant Peary reported a berg 12,500 feet long (over two and one half miles), 11,600 feet wide and 186 feet high. It was estimated to weigh 1,202,398,000 tons. Another measured farther north contained 27,000,000,000 cubic feet of ice and weighed no less than 2,000,000,000 tons.—New York World.

BOGUS GEMS.

Imitation Diamonds of Paste Are the Best Counterfeits.

It is always wise when buying a white topaz to purchase it from a reliable dealer, inasmuch as rock crystal and even lead glass are often sold under that name.

Colorless beryl yields a very brilliant and diamond-like stone when properly cut. Indeed, many gems and even phenacite and rock crystal often passed in former days as diamonds, even under the scrutiny of experts, such exact tests as refraction and specific gravity being unknown until comparatively recent years.

No imitation of the diamond, however, is so brilliant as a skillfully cut piece of the kind of lead glass known in the trade as "paste." The play of color in these counterfeits is often very beautiful, but the glass "diamond" possesses no luster, this term being applied to the light reflected from the top surfaces of a gem. The flashes of light and color that give brilliancy come from the interior, being thrown from the rear surfaces of the stone.

The glass diamond is soft and is attacked chemically by a number of things with which it comes in contact by wear, for both of which reasons it soon becomes dulled. — Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

ODD FEAT OF SCIENCE.

Magnet Used to Draw Pins From Throat of Woman.

A magnet was used by the physicians of St. Agnes' hospital, Philadelphia, to extract pins which had lodged in the throat of Miss Mary Lafferty, eighteen years old, 1245 Snyder avenue, that city.

While sewing Miss Lafferty placed a number of pins in her mouth. Frightened by the sudden appearance of some one in her room she swallowed them.

She was taken to the hospital, where an X ray photograph of her throat was made. By means of a magnetized steel bar, pin after pin was taken from her throat until the number reached ten. This operation was performed with ease and without pain to the patient, who refused to take an anesthetic.

After this operation had been completed the girl complained of a pain in her chest. An X ray photograph of her chest was made and disclosed a pin lodged there.

An operation was to be performed by the means of a minute magnet to extract this pin, but when the time for the operation came the pin had gone down into the stomach.

PELLETIER FIRST IN BAY STATE

General News on the Political Situations Everywhere

TAFT NOT ENDORSED BY IOWA

Real Belief Is Foss and Walsh Will Head Ticket Again—Oklahoma Progressives Will Fuse—Mayor Fitzgerald Out For Senate—Ex-Governor Draper Willing—Hisgen Crowd Organizing to Support Roosevelt

Boston, July 12.—District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier has taken out a full set of nomination papers for governor. The papers were delivered to the district attorney's chief clerk, Joseph C. Wolff, and will be distributed throughout the state at once.

It does not necessarily follow that Pelletier will be an active candidate for the Democratic nomination. The papers, if the requisite number of signatures is secured, may never be filed with the secretary of the commonwealth, or, if filed, they may be withdrawn within the time limit. Pelletier has probably taken out papers as a precautionary measure.

Foss and Walsh will probably head the Democratic ticket again in Massachusetts this fall. No well informed politician has much doubt of that. Walsh has seen the governor this week, and has talked frankly to him. He told him that if he, Foss, desired to run again, he would be the last man to try to crowd him out, but would support him to the best of his ability.

Foss, with his characteristic frankness, asked him to "wait a few days." Walsh is "waiting." He has taken out no nomination papers. He will probably see the governor again this week. Friends expect that Walsh will be unopposed for second place.

Dissension In Iowa

Des Moines, July 12.—Efforts of Governor B. F. Carroll, a Taft adherent, to have the Republican state convention pass a resolution indorsing the platform adopted at the national convention failed, the resolution being tabled, 773 to 342, and his efforts to eliminate from the report of the majority of the resolutions committee the section condemning as fraudulent the Chicago convention also failed. Governor Carroll was a member of the resolutions committee, but the majority report, as adopted by the convention, was written by the progressives, who controlled the convention throughout. Neither Taft nor Roosevelt was mentioned in the resolutions adopted, which commend "Republican achievements and indorse progressive policies."

Delegates from Iowa to the Roosevelt progressive party convention in Chicago Aug. 5 will be named at a state convention to be held here July 24, according to plans adopted at the meeting. District conventions will be held at the same time as the state convention. In addition to naming a delegate to Chicago and organizing a permanent state committee, the state convention will choose electors for the third party ticket.

Seventy-five supporters of President Taft held a conference and formed a state central committee which will work despite the refusal of the Republican state convention to indorse the president. James H. Thewin of Cedar Rapids was made chairman. Governor Carroll, who tried to stem the anti-Taft tide at the convention, is a member. It is proposed to carry on the Taft campaign in Iowa in co-operation with the state and national committee.

Fitzgerald Will Campaign

Boston, July 12.—I nabout a month Mayor Fitzgerald will begin his speaking campaign for the United States senatorship.

"Governor Foss has assured me that he will not be a candidate for the United States senate against me," the mayor said, "all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. I do not know whether the governor intends to seek re-election."

To secure the senatorship, the Democratic party will have candidates in every senatorial district throughout the state. It will be the first time in many years that the party has presented a complete ticket throughout the state.

Planning "Bandanna" Campaign

Boston, July 12.—The "Red Bandanas" as 15 State street are planning a comprehensive New England campaign. Rhode Island Roosevelt men were in a conference with Masaschusetts third party men there.

Later in the week there will be conference with men from Connecticut. Early next week it is planned to hold an open meeting in Vermont, either at Rutland or Montpelier, where the leaders will discuss the situation and make their plans for the future.

Oklahoma Progressives to Fuse

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 12.—The progressives will make no effort to put a state ticket in the field, but will vote for the candidate which they believe to be most progressive, whether he be Republican, Democrat, Socialist or Independent.

Seven progressive Republicans, nominated as Oklahoma Republican electors, have declared they will vote for Theodore Roosevelt, if elected. An effort will be made, it was said, to induce the six other Oklahoma electors to follow the same course.

Hisgen Men For Roosevelt

Springfield, Mass., July 12.—Richard J. Talbot, who was a candidate of the Independence league for attorney general in 1907, when Thomas L. Hisgen made his run for the governorship, said that the former members of the Independence league are organizing for the purpose of lending their solid support to the candidacy of Roosevelt.

Brockton Roosevelt Party

Brockton, Mass., July 12.—The third party men have organized here. Albert M. Rollins, president of the Roosevelt Committee of One Hundred, was elected temporary president of the new league, and Henry H. Williams and Charles F. Millett were chosen secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Senatorship Attracts Draper

Boston, July 12.—When asked about the United States senatorship, former Governor Draper said:

"I esteem the United States senatorship very highly. The place has a great attraction for me. I am seriously considering becoming a candidate for it."

Third Party at Worcester

Worcester, Mass., July 12.—William R. Healie was elected chairman of the national progressive party. Wilfred L. Todd was chosen secretary and a committee of ten appointed to perfect the organization.

NO MERE ADJUNCT

Will Canada Be of Great Britain, Says Premier Borden

London, July 12.—The Canadian premier, Robert L. Borden, was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the Colonial Institute here and he was accorded a great reception. The other guests included Lord Strathcona, the high commissioner for Canada; the Earl of Selborne and four of Mr. Borden's cabinet colleagues.

In a spirited speech the premier declared Canada did not propose to be a mere adjunct even of the British empire. He agreed that the defense of the empire could best be secured by one navy, but contended that, while Canada would not shirk responsibility in that respect, she must have a voice in the policy of shaping that defense.

RUSSIAN PAPER ATTACKS THE JEWS

Would Prohibit From Civil and Military Positions

St. Petersburg, July 12.—A journal issued by a leader in the douma insists on the necessity of "eradicating the Jewish excrescence which has become deeply incrusted on the body of the Russian people." The manifesto demands the exclusion of all Jews from all civil and military employment by the state in order that "they shall not have an opportunity of demoralizing, poisoning and oppressing the people, pending their total expulsion from Russia."

In specified terms the manifesto urges that there should be no Jewish judges, advocates or jurymen. It insists that Jewish doctors should not be allowed to attend Christians and no Jew should be permitted to become chemists.

"PURE" CLOTHES

Is the Aim of Bill In Congress on Labeling Fabric

Washington, July 12.—Representative Victor Murdock, Republican insurgent and author of many attacks on Schedule K, has introduced a ten-page bill which is in effect a pure food law for all fabrics and articles of clothing. Mr. Murdock's idea is that it should be unlawful for any person to manufacture any fabric or article of clothing of wool, cotton, silk, hair or fibre, which is "misbranded," such misbranding to be determined by the bureau of chemistry under the guidance of some textile Dr. Wiley.

According to Murdock, the term "pure-wool" as used in this act, shall be understood to mean "sheep's wool which has not been previously used in the manufacture of any other article, goods or fabric, and the words 'woolen goods' shall be held to mean goods or fabrics composed wholly of such wool."

All woolen goods which are composed of pure wool, says Mr. Murdock, must be labelled "pure wool," others being marked "mixed goods," and so on. The bill further provides that from time to time samples of fabrics and articles being imported into the United States shall be delivered to the secretary of agriculture for testing, and that if they are found to be impure, the secretary of the treasury shall refuse delivery to the consignee.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CARAMEL DAINTIES.

STRICTLY speaking, a caramel is a sirup made by cooking sugar to what is known to confectioners as the seventh degree.

Sweets which are made in different ways, but which have various flavors, are also known as caramels. They are generally of chocolate, sugar and butter and dark colored. They are among the most delicious of desserts.

Here are ways of preparing them:

A Rich Layer Cake.

Caramel Cake.—Take one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two eggs, one-half cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one and one-half cupfuls of flour. Bake in layers.

For the filling take two cupfuls of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two-thirds of a cupful of milk and vanilla to flavor. Boil until thick enough to spread.

A Cold Pudding.

Caramel Pudding.—Take a pint of milk, one egg, three ounces of breadcrumbs and two ounces of loaf sugar. Place the breadcrumbs in a bowl and pour the boiling milk over. Cover and leave for an hour. Beat well with a fork and add one well beaten egg and any flavoring liked. Pour into a buttered dish and bake very slowly till just set. Turn out and leave till cold. Put sugar into a saucepan with half a gill of cold water, boil it quickly, stirring meanwhile until coffee colored, adding more water if necessary. Pour over the pudding. Serve cold.

A Pink Confection.

Fruit Caramel.—Take a pound of loaf sugar. Put it into a saucepan with half a teacupful of water and let it dissolve. Add two tablespoonfuls of cream, one-half ounce of butter and a heaped tablespoonful of honey. Bring all to the boiling point over a slow fire. Then boil rapidly for twenty minutes. Drop a little of the mixture into cold water. If it becomes hard and brittle it is done. When cool stir in an ounce of raspberry jelly or strained juice of raspberry. When nearly set mark in squares with the back of a knife.

Made With Gelatin.

Caramel Mold.—Put three-quarters cupful of granulated sugar on the fire until melted and a light brown in color, add one-half cupful of water slowly and let boil until the caramel is dissolved. Have ready one-quarter box gelatin softened in one-quarter cupful of cold water and stir it into the hot caramel. Keep on stirring until dissolved, strain into a dish placed over cracked ice, then stir occasionally until the mixture begins to thicken. Fold in one and one-half cupfuls of heavy cream beaten until stiff, turn into a wet mold and let harden on ice.

EGGS WITH VEGETABLES.

ON midsummer days, when it is desired to eliminate meat, eggs cooked with vegetables make a savory variation in the bill of fare.

Hard boiled eggs may be sliced and served as a salad with almost any cold vegetables.

The vegetables can be chopped and placed in tiny baking dishes with one or two eggs broken over them to be served individually.

Here are some timely ways of cooking eggs:

A Wholesome Way of Serving.

Eggs With Spinach.—Break four eggs into a dish, beat them well, then add a pint of milk, a half teaspoonful of salt, pepper and onion juice. Brush custard cups with a little melted butter and pour in the egg mixture. Put the cups in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven and bake until firm.

To try them take a silver knife and run it in the center, and if it comes out clean the custard is done. Turn the eggs out on a bed of the prepared spinach.

A Rich Dish.

Eggs With Mushrooms.—Take a cupful of minced mushrooms, a cupful of stewed tomatoes, one or two slices of onion minced, three raw eggs and salt, pepper and cayenne. Put a scant tablespoonful of olive oil in the frying pan and when hot add the onion and cook a light yellow. Take care it does not burn. Turn in the other ingredients, and as soon as the eggs are set this is ready to serve.

A Use For Leftovers.

Eggs In Potato Nests.—Take some cold potatoes, mash and shape into nests. Place on a buttered tin. In each nest drop an egg, and on the egg place a bit of butter and dash of red pepper and salt and a teaspoonful of cream. Bake until eggs and potatoes are brown. Serve hot garnished with celery.

With Much Seasoning.

Eggs and Carrots.—Take one pint of milk, one onion, two cloves, one carrot, a small bunch of parsley, four eggs, two ounces of butter, one and a half ounces of flour, one pint of milk and salt and pepper.

Put the milk in a saucepan with the cloves stuck in the onion, the carrot and parsley and let this simmer for half an hour.

Boil the eggs for twenty minutes; then remove shells and cut each in half. Melt the butter in a pan with the flour and stir it in smoothly. Next pour in the milk and stir over the fire till it thickens.

Season well with salt, pepper and lemon juice.

UREY WOODSON'S SUCCESSOR

J. C. C. Mayo Is New Democratic National Committeeman From Kentucky.

John C. Calhoun Mayo, the new member of the Democratic national committee from Kentucky, succeeds Urey Woodson, who has been on the committee for many years. Mayo is one of the powers behind Governor McCreary and is one of the most influential men in the state.

Twenty-five years ago Mayo, now forty-eight, was a schoolteacher in the Kentucky mountains. Today he is worth from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000.

Mayo now has a $250,000 home in Paintsville, Johnson county, Ky., his native town. He and his companies control hundreds of thousands of acres of coal land. They are pushing the railroads into the mountains and building towns of 5,000 and 10,000 population.

In politics Mayo has always been a Democrat, and for several years he has been active. Only in the past two years, however, has he become a factor. He is one of the delegates at large from the state to the Baltimore convention.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

[By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Elnora helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

Mrs. Comstock returned with serene face, and all of them helped with the supper. When it was over Ammon and Elnora sorted and classified the afternoon's specimens and made a trip to the woods to paint and light several trees for moths. When they came back Mrs. Comstock sat in the arbor, and they joined her. She went into the cabin, but she returned almost instantly, laying the violin and bow across Elnora's lap. "I wish you would give us a little music," she said.

The violin played on until Elnora was so tired she scarcely could lift the bow. Then Ammon went home. The women walked to the gate with him and stood watching him from sight.

"That's what I call one decent young man!" said Mrs. Comstock. "To see him fit in with us, you'd think he'd been raised in a cabin, but it's likely he's always had the very cream o' the pot."

"Yes, I think so," laughed Elnora, "but it hasn't hurt him. I've never seen anything I could criticise. He's teaching me so much unconsciously. You know he graduated from Harvard and has several degrees in law. He's coming in the morning."

Next morning Ammon came early, and he and Elnora went at once to the fields and woods. Mrs. Comstock had come to believe so implicitly in him that she now stayed at home to complete the work before she joined them, and when she did she often sat sewing, leaving them wandering hours at a time. It was noon before she finished, and then she packed a basket of lunch. She found Elnora and Philip near the violet patch, which was still in its prime. They lunched together. Then Mrs. Comstock carried the basket back to the cabin, and Ammon and Elnora sat on a log, resting for a few minutes.

"Do you remember your promise about these violets?" asked Ammon. "Tomorrow is Edith's birthday, and if I'd put them special delivery on the morning train she'd get them in the late afternoon. They ought to keep well that long. She leaves for the north next day."

"Of course you can have them," said Elnora. "We will quit long enough before supper to gather a great bunch. They can be packed so they will carry all right. They should be perfectly fresh, especially if we gather them this evening and let them drink all night."

Then they went back to hunt Catocalae. It was a long and a happy search. Ammon came to Elnora at dusk daintily holding one by the body, its dark wings showing and its long, slender legs trying to clasp his fingers and creep from his hold.

Elnora studied the black wings intently. "I surely believe that's Sappho," she marveled. "The Bird Woman will be overjoyed."

"We must get the cyanide jar quickly," said Ammon. "I wouldn't lose her for $100. Such a chase as she led me!"

Elnora got the jar and began gathering up paraphernalia.

"When you make a find like that," she said, "it's the right time to quit and feel glorious all the rest of that day. I tell you I'm proud. We will go now. We have barely time to carry out our plans before supper. Won't mother be pleased to see that we have a rare one?"

"I'd like to see anyone more pleased than I am!" said Philip Ammon. "I feel as if I'd earned my supper tonight. Let's go."

He took the greater part of the load and stepped aside for Elnora to precede him. She went down the path, broken by the grazing cattle, toward the cabin and nearest the violet patch she stopped, laid down her net, and the things she carried. Ammon passed her and hurried forward.

"Aren't you going to"— began Elnora.

"I'm going to get this moth home in a hurry," he said. "This cyanide has lost its strength, and it's not working well. We need some fresh in the jar."

He had forgotten the violets. Elnora stood looking after him, a curious expression on her face. One second so—then she picked up the net and followed. At the blue bordered pool she paused and half turned back, then she closed her lips firmly and went on. It was 9 o'clock when Ammon said goodby and started to town. His gay whistle floated to them from the farthest corner of the Limberlost. Elnora complained of being tired, so she went to her room and to bed. But sleep would not come. Thought was racing in her brain, and the longer she lay the wider awake she grew. At last she softly slipped from bed, lighted her lamp and began opening boxes. Then she went to work. Two hours later a beautiful birch bark basket, strongly and artistically made, stood on her table. She set a tiny alarm clock at 3, returned to bed and fell asleep instantly.

She was on the floor with the first tinkle of the alarm, and hastily dressing, she picked up the basket and a box to fit it, crept down the stairs and out to the violet patch. When the basket was filled to overflowing, she set it in the stout pasteboard box, packed it solid with mosses, tied it firmly and slipped under the cord a note.

Then she took a short cut across the woods and walked swiftly to Onabasha. It was after 6 o'clock, but all of the city she wished to avoid were asleep. She had no trouble in finding a small boy out, and she stood at a distance waiting while he rang Dr. Ammon's bell and delivered the package for Philip to a maid, with the note which was to be given him at once.

On the way home through the woods passing some baited trees she collected the captive moths. She entered the kitchen with them so naturally that Mrs. Comstock made no comment. After breakfast Elnora went to her room, cleared away all trace of the night's work and was out in the arbor mounting moths when Ammon came down the road. "I am tired sitting," she said to her mother. "I think I will walk a few rods and meet him."

"Who's a trump?" called Ammon from afar.

"Well, not you!" retorted Elnora. "Confess that you forgot!"

"Completely," said Ammon. "But luckily it would not have been fatal. I wrote Polly last week to send Edith something appropriate and handsome today, with my card."

CHAPTER XXI.

Wherein Elnora Makes a Confession.

THESE days were the beginning of the weeks that followed. After June the moth hunts grew less frequent—the fields and woods were scoured for material for Elnora's grade work. Mrs. Comstock was a great help. Always her practical thought and sterling common sense were useful. When they were afield until exhausted they came back to the cabin for food, to prepare specimens and classify them and to talk over the day.

One warm August afternoon a blue-coated messenger entered the gate.

"I have a message for Philip Ammon."

Mrs. Comstock stepped to the back door and clanged the dinner bell sharply, paused a second and rang again. In a short time Ammon and Elnora came.

"Are you ill, mother?" cried Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock indicated the boy. "There is an important message for Philip," she said.

Ammon muttered an excuse and tore open the telegram. His color faded slightly. "I have to take the first train," he said. "My father is ill and I am needed."

He said goodby to Mrs. Comstock, repeatedly thanked her for all her kindness and turned to Elnora.

"Will you walk to the edge of the Limberlost with me?" he asked. Elnora assented. Mrs. Comstock followed to the gate, urged him to come again soon and repeated her goodby. Then she went back to the arbor to await Elnora's return. As she watched down the road she smiled softly.

"I had an idea he would speak to me first," she thought, "but this may change things some. He hasn't time. Elnora will come back a happy girl, and she has good reason. He is a model young man. Her lot will be mighty different from mine."

On the road Elnora spoke first. "I do hope it is nothing serious," she said. "Is he usually strong?"

"Quite strong," said Philip. "I am not alarmed, but I am very much ashamed. I have allowed him to overtax himself until he is down, and mother and Polly are north at our cottage. He's never been sick before, and it's probable I am to blame that he is now."

"You have had a fine time?" asked Elnora.

They had reached the fence. Ammon vaulted over to take a short cut across the fields. He turned and looked at her.

"The best, the sweetest, the most wholesome time any man ever had in this world," he said. "Elnora, if I talked hours I couldn't make you understand what a girl I think you are. I never in all my life hated anything as I hate leaving you. It seems to me that I have not strength to do it."

"If you have got anything worth while from me," said Elnora, "that should be it—just to have strength to go to your duty and to go quickly. Goodby! You must hurry!"

MEXICAN REVOLT FOR MEXICANS

Orozco Declares Rejected Offers From Abroad

REBEL CONFERS WITH CHIEFS

Custom House In Juarez Becoming Historical Meeting Place—Plans Laid For Extensive Guerilla Warfare—Orozco Promises Foreigners Shall Not Be Molested—General Destruction of Railroads Along Lines

Juarez, Mex., July 12.—In the same custom house where President Taft once met former President Diaz, and where also a year ago Francisco I. Madero established his triumphant rebel government, sat Gen. Pascual Orozco, Jr., weaving the torn threads of his unsuccessful military campaign against the federal government. The rebel chief, while admitting his defeat in an organized movement, made it plain that the guerilla warfare now being planned was calculated to severely harass the Mexican government, but contemplated neither friction nor alliance with any foreign government. Toward the United States he said he entertained no ill-will. From nations said to be friendly to his cause, he added that he wished no assistance.

"This is a revolution by Mexicans and for Mexicans," he explained with emphasis. It is true that we have received offers of assistance from abroad, but we have patriotically rejected them."

Declaring the Madero government had circulated false stories to injure the rebel cause, Orozco said:

"We do not want foreign complications. Our fight is in Mexico alone."

Inconspicously General Orozco had come to Juarez, the new rebel capital, from Encinillas, 184 miles south, where the outposts of the rebel army on the Mexican Central railroad are now stationed. In a little yellow caboose, preceded only by a locomotive, the rebel leader made the journey to Juarez, arriving in the darkness unknown to all except a few who secretly met him. Only a handful of officers and an Associatetd Press correspondent accompanied Orozco. He came at the request of his father, Colonel Pascual Orozco, Sr., who is in charge of the Juarez garrison. The rebel chief left his private car near Laguna. For a short distance General Orozco helped fire the locomotive.

General Orozco conferred with his subordinates over a more effective prosecution of the rebellion. He believes that by guerillla warfare the government of Madero ultimately can be overthrown. The guerilla campaign has been mapped out secretly. Nine columns have gone in all directions, some to the south to attempt to cut General Huerta's line of communication from Chihuahua City to Torreon, and others westward toward the Mexican Northwestern railroad, where they will check the federal advance from Chihuahua and assist in the rebel invasion of the state of Sonora. General Orozco gave his attention also to the situation in the Mormon colonies in northern Mexico. He reiterated his promise of earlier days in the revolution that foreigners and their property would not be molested.

General Orozco probably will be in Juarez only a short time, returning back along the Mexican Central toward the outposts, 184 miles away, where he will receive reports by courier from his various flying columns.

The Mexican Central railroad is slowly being destroyed in front of General Huerta's federal forces. The presence of General Orozco on the line of the Mexican Central is calculated to draw the main government columns along that route to Juarez, but the rebel system of railroad destruction will prevent the federals from reaching the vicinity of Juarez and the American border for at least two months. In the meantime, General Orozco considers that his men will have invaded Sonora and obtained control of the state, as well as a large part of the Pacific coast.

Washington, July 12.—Thirty Krag-Jorgensen rifles and 10,000 rounds of ammunition have been sent to the American consul at Hermosillo, Sonora, Mex., by the war department. The guns are to be used as protection against rebel raids.

AS JURY ACQUITS HE ADMITS GUILT

Lawrence Man's Impatience Costs Him Sentence

Salem, Mass., July 12.—If Patrick Devlin of Lawrence were not such an impatient man he would be free today. Instead he is locked up at the state farm, Bridgewater, for an indefinite period.

Patrick was on trial before a jury charged with drunkenness. All the evidence was in and the jury had retired. After a while Patrick became fidgety. The longer the jury stayed out the more impatient he became. Finally he arose and said: "Your honor, I would like to change my plea from not guilty to guilty." The change was noted by the clerk: Suddenly the door opened and the jury trooped back into court.

"What do you say, Mr. Foreman and gentlemen of the jury, is the defendant guilty or not guilty?" asked the clerk.

"Not guilty," replied the foreman.

Patrick was crestfallen. Having changed his plea he had to take his medicine. Although the jury said that he was not drunk Patrick said that he was drunk, and so the court decided that he ought to know better than the jury.

ONE HUNDRED ESCAPE

But Six Lose Lives In West Virginia Mine

Moundsville, W. Va., July 12.—Six men perished, three others are dying and 100 had narrow escapes from death when the Panama mine of the Ben Franklin Coal company, just outside of this city, was wrecked by a gas explosion.

David Brooks, an American, was rescued from the gas filled workings in a terribly burned and dying condition. In getting him out C. E. McCabe, manager of the Fort Pitt mine, almost lost his own life.

He insisted on the cage being rushed down to the bottom of the shaft and managed to penetrate the wrecked workings, coming on Brooks with his clothing burned off and his entire body terribly charred. McCabe carried Brooks to the cage and signalled to be hauled to the surface. Both men were unconscious when lifted from the cage.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

To Meet and Listen to the State Chairman's Views

Judge Thomas P. Riley of Malden, chairman of the State Central Committee will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Democratic City committee, to be held this evening in Electa hall. Alfred J. LaCroix will preside.

LABOR LEAGUE TO PICNIC

The first annual picnic of Labor League No. 8, will be held at New Downer Landing, Saturday July 20. If the weather is rainy, the picnic will be postponed to the following Saturday.

The committee in charge has arranged a program of athletic events and in addition there will be a base ball game between the Orients and the Hampstead A. A. Dancing will be enjoyed both afternoon and evening and a band concert will also be furnished.

SPIRIT OF THE TIMES.

In the small Canadian town of Waterville the Roman Catholics, according to the Montreal Gazette, have no church. Until recently a visiting priest, Fr. Choquette of Compton, has celebrated mass in the town hall. This building was burned down and Fr. Choquette, meeting the provincial grand master of Orangemen in Montreal, jokingly suggested that the order's lodge room in Waterville seemed the most available substitute. To his surprise the grand master took him at his word and he has been celebrating mass in the lodge room ever since.

Boy School Hero

Winthrop, Mass., July 12.—The Edward B. Newton grammar school at the Centre, which was first used only last September after an expenditure of nearly $200,000, was struck by lightning yesterday and was saved from destruction only by the presence of Albert ("Buddy") Malone, a 14-year-old pupil, who ran to the police station with the alarm after the bolt had knocked him down and tossed him several feet.

GOLFERS' TALK INTERRUPTED

In an Abrupt Manner by Rude Jolting of Lightning

FLAG POLE A CONDUCTOR

Dr. W. G. Kendall, Charles A. Price and Professor A. H. Rice had an experience at the Wollaston Golf club, Montclair, Wednesday, which they would not care to repeat. Dr. Kendall and Professor Rice had been playing on the links and when the storm came up the doctor suggested that they go back to the clubhouse. On the way he told the professor how susceptible the links were to lightning, but the professor did not seem to be impressed.

They went upstairs in the clubhouse to the doctor's locker room, where they were joined by Mr. Price, and the three were having a "nineteenth hole" discussion when there came a terrific crash and the next thing they knew the flagstaff of the club was a mass of splinters. The staff was located within fifteen feet or so of the spot where they were seated; all around them were steel lockers, and the window was open. How the lightning failed to visit the steel lockers after demolishing the flagstaff is a mystery. The golfers were not affected by the closeness of the lightning. The doctor says that he hopes the club will put up another flagstaff before the next thunderstorm it proved such an excellent conductor.

If the school committee really fears that the new Wollaston school is too small, it can easily overcome that difficulty by utilizing the new Montclair school, which for years to come will be much too large for that district, by turning all pupils living on and north of North Central avenue into that school. The Montclair school is but 2,000 feet from North Central avenue, and should the occasion ever arise, the Wollaston school can thus be readily relieved of congestion. As the average membership of the Wollaston school shows at this time an increase of but 55 pupils over that of 1901, and 13 pupils over that of 1906, and a decrease of 14 pupils over that of 1910, I believe that the sudden fear of the chairman of the School Committee is unfounded that the new building will be soon outgrown.

Great stress is also laid by him upon the supposition that the Massachusetts Fields school will be also soon outgrown and the overflow go to Wollaston school. According to the School Report above referred to this building is equipped with 426 seats and in 1911 had an average membership of 388 pupils page 65, Report of 1911, 2 pupils less than the average of 1904, 8 pupils less than in 1905, 3 pupils less than in 1906, 16 pupils less than in 1909, and 15 pupils less than in 1910. These figures last quoted do not seem to bear out the chairman's assertion that there will be a sudden demand for the old Wollaston school building from that section. The proposed new building in the Quincy district Ward 6, which will probably be built within three years, Report of 1911, page 13, will relieve any possible congestion which may take place in the Massachusetts Fields school district.

I have used these figures as I have found them in the annual report of the School Committee. If those figures are correct, it seems to me that the Chairman of the Committee is mistaken when he sets up the claim and argues that the old Wollaston school building is needed for school purposes in the immediate future. The statistics of his own report refute his argument in the Ledger of July 10th for the retention of the old biulding and the rescinding of the Safford Park order. As the letter was signed by the Chairman of the School Committee in his official capacity, I assume that it was prepared under the direction of and represents the views of a majority of the committee.

James S. Whiting.

Wollaston, July 11, 1912.

FREAKY ACTIVITY

Of Wednesday's Storm Manifested in Many Ways

The storm of Wednesday was as freaky in its movements as could be imagined. Seldom if ever are so many peculiar manifestations observed.

If there had been general rain in proportion to the amount of lightning and the number of thunder claps, some of which were exceptionally heavy, the fields would have had a soaking. But the storms of the afternoon were exceedingly freakish. One or two places reported a heavy downpour, with streets partly washed out and gutters like small streams; other cities and towns which caught the full brunt of the storms, so far as lightning and thunder were concerned, had only apologies of showers. A few reported that there were hailstones before the thunder and lightning began and a few drops after the pyrotechnics had ceased, but otherwise a "dry" storm.

South of Boston the storm was more violent than on the north, so far as thunder and lightning were concerned, although the amount of rain was no greater, perhaps not so much. Quincy seemed to be the centre of a series of storms on all sides. Some sections had fairly heavy showers, while others had hardly enough to beat down the dust. Flashes of lightning and crashes of thunder seemed to come from half a dozen different sides almost simultaneously and a number of places were struck. A yachtsman at one of the clubs on Wollaston beach says that for several minutes rain was coming down fairly hard on one side of the clubhouse, while on the other side there was not a drop. The Neponset River seemed to be a dividing line for the storm, for Neponset, across the river, did not get any rain and comparatively little of the "aerial artillery."

BRIEFS

John Q. Newcomb, clerk at Quincy post office, is on his annual vacation, taking several day trips to various points.

Mrs. William E. Howe of Bigelow street left Wednesday night by boat for Bangor, Maine, and will visit her sister, Mrs. William A. Hodges, at Skowhegan.

Steel doors have been placed in position at the entrance to the banking rooms of the Granite Trust Co. Other precautions have been taken to make the rooms absolutely burglar proof.

Thomas Waugh, a sub-master in the high school at Willimantic, Conn., is a guest of his sister, Mrs. John McDonald of Bigelow street, while attending the summer school at Harvard university.

The homestead of George A. Brackett of Chestnut street is looking very attractive in its new colors. A large house like this always looks well when painted yellow with white trimmings and dark green blinds. The change is very marked.

A wireless from Stockholm, says that one of the foremost rooters and cheerers for the American contestants at the Olympic games is Councilman at large Edward J. Sandberg. He will probably be called upon by the City Council on his return to give an eye witness account of the games.

—The Rhode Island society of the Cincinnati sounded a patriotic note the other day, when it adopted resolutions protesting against the proposed destruction of the famous old warship Constellation. As the Cincinnati rightly contends, the wooden relic of glorious victories in 1812 should retain the vessel in Narragansett bay as a monument to our early navy.—Barre Vt. Times.

MRS. SARAH PLATT DECKER

Well Known Suffragist Who Failed to Survive Dangerous Operation.

BODY OF MRS. DECKER

Lies In State In Colorado's Capitol—City Pays Tribute

Denver, July 12.—For the first time in the history of Colorado, Governor Shaffroth has asked that the body of a woman be permitted to lie in state at the capitol.

The woman whose memory is thus honored is Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, former president of the National Federation of Women's clubs. Her body was brought from San Francisco and the governor suggested that it lie in state at the capitol for at least two hours. The mayor has ordered all city and county offices closed during the hours set for the funeral services.

PROHIBITION PLATFORM

All Kinds of Progressive Planks Presented Party

Atlantic City, N. J., July 12.—Insurgency broke out in earnest in the national Prohibition convention here and succeeded in bringing about an adjournment of the morning session without the transaction of any other business than a rule to take up during the afternoon the election of a national chairman by the convention itself. This was an insurgent victory. Attempts were made to go ahead with the nomination of presidential and vice presidential candidates, but the insurgents had decreed that the national chairmanship should first be settled and they had their way.

Beside the abolition of the liquor traffic the platform favors: The election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; presidential terms of six years and one term only; uniform marriage and divorce laws; the extermination of polygamy and the complete suppression of traffic in girls; suffrage for women upon the same terms as to men; court review as to postoffice decisions; the absolute protection of the rights of labor without impairment of the rights of capital; the settlement of all international disputes by arbitration; the initiative and referendum; tariff commission; an elastic currency system; complete and permanent separation of church and state; abolition of child labor in the mines, workshops and factories; equitable graduated income and inheritance taxes; conservation; clearly defined laws for the regulation and control of corporations; greater efficiency and economy in government service.

DAUGHTER DIES MOTHER SUICIDE

Friends Prevent Father Taking His Own Life

West Acton, Mass., July 12.—Mrs. Clayton S. Shattuck, temporarily deranged by the death of her only daughter, Mildred, 17 years old, of Bright's disease, ended her own life in an adjoining room by drinking carbolic acid.

Her husband, who left the death bed of his daughter to find out the meaning of the sound of the fall in the next room, was prevented from committing suicide only by the forcible interference of friends, who caught him in time.

Friends are guarding him, fearful that he will be able to carry out his threat to die. He has been an express messenger on the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine, and he and his wife and daughter were very popular in the town.

GREAT BRITAIN MAKES PROTEST

Against Free Tolls For American Vessels

CLAIMS FORBIDDEN BY TREATY

Say Free Panama Tolls Would Be Discrimination—British Embassy Presents Note to That Effect—Argument on the Way From London—Majority In Congress Favors Free American Tolls

Washington, July 12.—The lines have been drawn for a great diplomatic struggle between the United States and Great Britain over the question whether this country may discriminate in favor of American vessels in the administration of the Panama canal. The disagreement may terminate in the submission of the question to The Hague tribunal.

A series of diplomatic and legislative conferences has developed the fact that the forces in the American government which favor allowing American ships free passage through the canal are in control. These forces take the position that there is nothing in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, under which the canal was built, to prevent this concession.

The diplomatic struggle precipitated by the note from Mitchell Innes, charge of the British embassy, it is expected, will be fought along the following lines:

Great Britain will take the position that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty provision, which forbids discrimination in favor of the interests of any nation, in the conduct of the canal, would operate against the provisions of the Panama bill now under consideration in the senate. This provision will be supported by a lengthy argument now on its way from London by mail, which will be presented to the state department and transmitted to congress immediately upon its arrival.

The United States will hold that so long as the ships of all foreign nations are accorded the same treatment in the use of the canal, the United States may pass American ships free, or rebate the tolls charged them. This position was taken by the house when it reversed the report of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, which would have prevented free passage to American ships, and passed the bill.

The ultimate passage of the measure now before the senate seems assured. The men behind the bill in the senate say that the British note would not prevent consideration of the measure whenever it could be reached in the ordinary course of business. But the position of Great Britain will strengthen the opposition to the free provision.

While the British note caused some comment on the unusual incident of a foreign nation interfering with legislation in a formative stage, it was pointed out that this was the only course by which Great Britain could oppose the measure.

Just as soon as the bill becomes a law, under supreme court decisions, it supersedes all treaties bearing on the same subject matter, and would thus leave Great Britain no ground for objection after it had been written on the statute books.

The state department probably will not reply to the British argument on its own behalf, but will regard itself as subject to the action of congress on the bill, and will allow congress to dictate any reply to the British protest.

Should the bill become a law over the protest of great Britain, it is scarcely expected that the matter will end there, as British, and particularly Canadian interests, undoubtedly would force further diplomatic action by London, and when these means were exhausted, The Hague tribunal would be the court of last resort.

Extradition Covers Western World

Washington, July 12.—Those who flee justice in the United States will hereafter find no place on the western hemisphere safe from extradition. By signing an extradition treaty with Honduras the state department closed the last avenue of escape.

HINDU JUSTICE.

The Case of the Cat That Carried the Fire to the Cotton.

Four Hindus, partners in business, bought some cotton bales. That the rats might not destroy the cotton they purchased a cat. They agreed that each of the four should own a particular leg of the cat, and each adorned with beads and other ornaments the leg thus apportioned to him. The cat, by an accident, injured one of its legs. The owner of that member wound around it a rag soaked in oil. The cat, going too near the hearth, set this rag on fire and, being in great pain, rushed in among the cotton bales, where she was accustomed to hunt rats. The cotton thereby took fire and was burnt up.

The three other partners brought a suit to recover the value of the cotton against the fourth partner who owned this particular leg of the cat. The native judge examined the case, and this was his decision:

"The leg that had the oiled rag on it was hurt. The cat could not use that leg. In fact, it held up that leg and ran with the other three legs. The three unhurt legs therefore carried the fire to the cotton and are alone culpable. The injured leg is not to be blamed. The three partners who owned the three legs with which the cat ran to the cotton will pay one-quarter of the value of the bales to the partner who was the proprietor of the injured leg."—London Telegraph.

FEAST OF THE VULTURES.

Magic of a Tiger's Carcass In the Open Air In India.

The vulture is seen at its best when a dead tiger, brought into camp to be skinned, is exposed in the open. Overhead is a cloudless sky and not a bird to be seen in that great void by the human eye.

The tiger's body is thrown from the pad to the ground, and before the skin has been removed there above one and always nearing the earth are the vultures circling, poising like things of air, now a dozen of them, in a few minutes a score or two and then a hundred strong. Then, when the flayed carcass of the tiger is left by those who skinned it, the vultures descend.

Down they come like feathered thunder out of the sky, and from east and west and north and south, the very embodiment of power while they whirl aloft and in their quick descent to earth, and now, as they waddle around that carrion beast, misshapen ghouls, whose only apparent strength is that of the ravening jaws which tear and gorge the tiger's flesh until within the hour naught of that splendid brute remains but a clean picked skeleton.—Sir Edward Bradden's "Thirty Years of Shikar."

HAS PROOF OF AYERS' INNOCENCE DECLARES REV. ASHER ANDERSON

Secretary National Council of Congregational Churches Held Investigation in N. Y.

Former Parishioners Extended Glad Hand to Rev. Mr. Ayers

Rev. Asher Anderson, D. D., secretary of the National Council of Congregational churches, returned to Boston Friday after a four days' visit to New York and declares that he has proof of the falsity of charges preferred against Rev. William B. Ayers previous conduct in New York by various members of the Park and Downs Congregational church.

When seen by a Ledger representative in the Congregational rooms, Boston, this morning Dr. Anderson stated that he had secured conclusive proof of the innocence of Mr. Ayers.

Dr. Anderson has been from the first a believer in Mr. Ayers but he considers the proofs he now holds should convince any doubters.

In his investigation Dr. Anderson was accompanied by Rev. William B. Ayers and the former declares that no minister could have been more cordially received by his previous flock than was Mr. Ayers.

Rev. George L. Cady, D. D., pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, Dorchester, who first believed that something was wrong with Mr. Ayers is now said to be convinced that he was incorrect in his estimate.

Charels A. Richardson clerk of the Park and Downs church has requested from Dr. Anderson a report of the later's investigation in New York.

Dr. Anderson awaits an official request from the church body and when this is received there is no doubt that the statement will be forthcoming.

This matter will probably come up at the special meeting to be held Friday evening from which the request to Dr. Anderson will no doubt be forwarded.

Regarding his trip Dr. Anderson said:

UNITED STATES LEADS WAY IN STOCKHOLM OLYMPIAD

Sweden 29 Points in Rear and England 47 at the Close of Contests Friday

Lieut. Patton Fifth in Pentathlon in Field of 41 Competitors

The fourth annual Olympic games at Stockholm have now traveled along for two weeks and the Americans are 29 points ahead of their nearest competitors the Swedes, in all the sports, run off up to Friday.

The performance of John Paul Jones of Cornell, was a severe disappointment to American hopes in the 1,500 metre race. Jackson the English man who won it fainted and was unconscious for an hour.

The score up to the figuring on the events of Friday night, is as follows:

United States	100
Sweden	71
Great Britain	53
Germany	26
Finland	23
France	19
South Africa	11
Norway	10
Denmark	11
Italy	9
Australia	9
Canada	8
Hungary	8

Russia, Greece, Belgium, Austria each; Holland 2. 3

The American athletes won two more events at the Olympic games Friday. Fred W. Kelley, University of South California, took the final heat of the 110-meters hurdle race, while Wendell and Hawkins, also representing the United States, ran sec-

NINE AVIATORS SUMMONED

Before the Aero Club of America to Answer Charges

Nine aviators who took part in the recent aviation meet at Boston have been summoned to appear before the license committee of the Aero club of America on July 16, charged with having taken part in a meet unsanctioned by the Aero club.

The hearing will be held in the office of Maj. Samuel Rober of Whitehall street. The aviators summoned to appear are Lincoln Beachey, C. K. Hamilton, Palmer Fish, Glenn L. Martin, Phillips W. Page, Paul Peck, Geo. A. Gray, Arch Freeman and Frank J. Terrill.

Beachey is in the West. Hamilton, it was stated has resigned from the club. Fish and Hamilton declare they will continue to fly as outlaws. Paul Peck declares that the club is doing just the right thing.

CAPT. THOMAS DIED IN NEW YORK

Well Known in Quincy, Grandson of Deacon Thomas

Captain George William Thomas passed away in New York City after a long and serious illness. He was well known in his youth in Quincy being the grandson of the late Deacon George Thomas. Captain Thomas followed the sea from his youth up having had command of many large vessels, the last seven years sailing from Savannah.

Capt. Thomas will be remembered for his cordial ways and pleasing disposition.

Clerical and Draughtsmen Force to Occupy Colonial Hall

Colonial hall, one of the best adapted public halls for small parties is hereafter to be used for office purposes. The hall has been leased by the Granite Railway Co., who will use it for their force of clerks, draugtsmen, etc. The office of Luther S. Anderson, the manager of the company is also located in the Savings Bank building occupying two large rooms on the front of the building. The detail office work however has heretofore been transacted at the company's plant at West Quincy. It is understood that the hall is not to be cut up into small apartments but will be used as one large office.

Colonial hall has been one of the most popular halls in the city for small parties, and during the winter months there is scarcely a night that the hall has not been in use for dancing parties, theatricals, etc. It will be greatly missed next winter.

LEGISLATIVE AGENT.

Among the filings of legislative expenses with the secretary of state for work performed during the legislative session of the present year, are two of the Bay State Street Railway Association, one of $515 paid to Bentley W. Warren and another of $500 paid Burdett and Wardwell.

OPTIMISM CONSPICUOUS

At First Meeting of Democratic City Committee

STATE CHAIRMAN SPOKE

The first meeting of the new democratic city committee was held Friday evening in Electa hall and was a most enthusiastic gathering. Alfred J. LaCroix, president of the committee, presided and the principal speaker was Judge Thomas P. Riley, of Malden, chairman of the state central committee, who outlined the plans that would be put into effect this fall in the interests of those candidates who were aspiring to office on the democratic ticket.

Other speakers, all of whom praised chairman Riley for the activity and zeal he is displaying in the interests of the party and who talked on the democratic possibilities this coming fall, included Representatives David Murray of Hyde Park, originator of the famous Hyde Park annexation bill, Frederick Grady, of the republican town of Dedham, John Dwyer of Weymouth, Hon. Richard Olney 2nd of Dedham, J. J. Keegan of Hyde Park and Michael O'Leary secretary of the state central committee. At the conclusion of the meeting papers for congressman from the fourteenth district were circulated for Richard Olney 2d a ofrmer member of the legislature and at one time a candidate for lieutenant governor. It was also said that Representative Murray was being urged to run but has not yet reached a decision in the matter.

In opening the meeting chairman LaCroix congratulated the members for turning out in such large numbers and told of the many plans which the committee was contemplating, especially for the benefit of Quincy democratic candidates. He said that no stone would be left unturned to give all candidates every possible aid and closed by urging all to put their shoulders to the wheel. He introduced as the first speaker Michael O'Leary of Cambridge, who gave a number of statistics concerning the elections of last year, showing the remarkable punctures in the republican tires by the big votes made by democratic candidates and holding out the hope that democrats would cross the line in the majority this year. He talked at length upon registration and told of the result it would have upon the elections.

Judge Riley talked for over an hour. In the course of his remarks, he spoke of the progress that had been made in the democratic party from time to time and told of the work accomplished by his predecessor McLeod and McDonald. He said that an active campaign would be conducted in every city and town throughout the state. Governor Foss, who, he declared, had paved the way for great democratic possibilities this year.

"Every man affiliated with a democratic state committee must be a live one. We are out to accomplish things this year and we will do everything to bring about the desired results," continued the speaker. "We want no dead wood in the camp. No dead wood will be kept, whether it be hidden under the fostering wings of a governor, mayor of Boston, senator or representative. All dead ones must sever their connections by September.

Continuing he said "And if success crowns our efforts, the city or town committee which has been responsible for that success will receive due recognition for efficient work, while I am chairman. If there is to be a judgship given or an appointment of a medical examiner made in Quincy, it will not be the Mayor of Boston who will tell who that man is to be, nor will it be the party boss or party leader, but it will be the democratic city committee who shall rightly name the man whom they want appointed to that office.

Chairman Riley gave a number of statistics dealing with the work of the coming campaign and was loudly applauded at the conclusion of his address. He thanked the committee for the enthusiasm manifested at the first meeting of the campaign in Quincy.

POPULAR NEWSY GIVEN A RING

Friends Completely Surprised John J. Byrne

The many friends of John T. Byrne the popular Ledger boy of Quincy held a surprise party at his home at 207 Whitwell street, Friday evening. The surprise was complete when Miss Esther Asklund presented him with a very pretty ring in behalf of those present. The evening was spent in playing games and each one in turn giving a piano and vocal solo. Refreshments were served and the fun continued until 10.30 when the happy party broke up with many good wishes to John. Among those present were Miss Esther Asklund, Elsie Broberg, Elsie Kardell, Leona Byrne, Annie Lundgren, Hilda Erickson. Eugrenia Wilbas, Bessie Deane and Margaret Gallagher of Brockton. John G. Byrne, George Norris, Elmer Asklund, Walter Halvosa, William Hibbett, Eric Nelson, Harry Erickson, Henry Brown, Waldron Hibbett, John Mahoney, Mr. and Mrs. Lauton of North Weymouth and Mr. Thomas Wood of Quincy, were invited guests of the family all of whom were present.

CAMBRIDGE TAX RATE IS $20.40

The First in the State to Be Announced

The tax rate of Cambridge for this year has been announced as $20.40, an increase of 90 cents over the rate of last year. The amount of real estate is valued at $97,325,800, and personal at $18, 453,500. These figures show an increase of $1,000,000 personal and $3,000,000 real. This is the first city of the state to make its rate public.

BOYNTON'S SUCCESSORS ELECTED AT BUSINESS MEETING OF CHURCH

Session Marked by Decorum and Complete Lack of Excitement or Demonstration

Future Action of Committee is Endorsed

The special business meeting held directly following the prayer meeting at the Park and Downs church on Friday evening, in contrast to that held a week ago, was not in the least exciting.

The election of two members to fill offices vacated, the endorsement of a statement of position put forth by the standing committee and the admission of three new members formed the principle items of business according to official reports. There were about 100 at the meeting.

Alonzo V. Bissett was elected assistant treasurer and Victor Harrie to the building committee both offices having been made vacant by the recent resignation of Crester A. Boynton.

The following statement in which the standing committee defined its position and forecasted its future course of action was endorsed by the meeting after brief discussion.

"It should be understood by the church that the standing committee is endeavoring to handle the situation in which the church finds itself with due reference to the dignity and honor of the church as an institution with a realization of both the 'majority' and 'minority' elements concerned, and with the determination to do justice to its trust as sponsors for the church, guided by the knowledge that we are all human and that the spirit of Christ himself was strong in forbearance though not weak in the upholding of justice when the cause demanded action."

A member of the committee, referring to the standing committee's position at present, declared that the reason it did not recommend any definite action last evening was due to the fact that it was thought best not to give out any opinion until it had finished its work.

It was aiming to get the thing adjusted in the right manner. To that end it was working cautiously and carefully with a view that ultimate harmony prevail.

In answer to a question the member admitted that once the committee had worked out its course of action some definite step would be recommended to the church. What it would be, he declared he could not say.

The leaders of the so called 'minority' are refusing to talk at the present time except to comment on past and present occurences.

They have nothing to say on the subject of the new church it was rumored would be started and the opinion has been expressed by several that the opposition was either temporarily out of amunition or was biding its time for a coup to be sprung at an early date.

If such a move is made it is a matter of conjecture whether it will take the form of a wholesale withdrawal from the church or some more definite form of attack upon Mr. Ayers.

It is understood that a certain clergyman was recently requested to come to Wollaston and address certain members of the minority. Just what this action may be taken to mean is uncertain.

Chester A. Boynton has filed with Charles A. Richardson, clerk of the church, his intention to appeal from the action of the church in suspending him, Boynton, from membership. This will be referred to the ministerial council early in the fall.

Regarding the request to the body of ministers which had Mr. Ayers on trial that his findings be made public, it was announced to be unfeasible to call the clergymen together at this time of year and that the matter would be laid over until fall.

The meeting of last evening was adjourned until next Friday but it is thought from the present outlook that it will be still further adjourned.

SPECIAL OFFICERS APPOINTED.

Mayor Stone has appointed Alexander Black and Niles Dahlberg as Special Police Officers. These are the two men who successfully passed the civil service examination for the police service last April.

EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

By all means Quincy granite should be used in the construction of the annex to the Boston City hall.

The Progressive campaign starts out under a new name. It now flourishes the title of "Crusade." Crusaders of the olden times, often wrangled with each other and failed in their missions.

Turn loose the cats, let nature take its course and then Boston will have nothing to complain of in the dock rat nuisance.

Thaw will know the result of the present case in two weeks. If left to a verdict of the people, he would not be held so long in either hope or doubt.

It seems to be the moral duty of electors who cannot vote for the man whom they are elected to vote for to step down and out and let some one else have the job.

It would seem as if the last announcement of the "Old boy," was clear enough to the most of the people. He says he will not run a third term and there is no string to his statement.

Now that the United States has signed a new extradition treaty with Honduras the last refuge of the absconder on the western continent has been closed.

George B. Cortelyou while chairman of the National republican committee of 1904 and 1908, is troubled with loss of memory regarding the funds, contributions and distributions.

Doc. Wiley may be a wizard on food, drugs and health but we have not heard of any diplomas being handed out to him as a political expert or prophet.

Lorimer, at Bay attacked his enemies, insinuating that they had nothing on him in alleged crooked politics.

It seems rather a tough proposition if this country paid out over its millions for the Panama canal without American vessels securing any advantages therefrom.

Go it gentleman, let us have all the light there is on this Wollaston school question. The Ledger has no axe to grind, or "nigger in the wood pile." Its columns are open to a free and fair discussion of the subject, muckraking of course eliminated. The more light that is thrown out the better the people will like it and become familiar with the true conditions.

It is working. The other day a Boston fisherman reported seeing the sea serpent and another rode a whale on Georges. Next! Only let them come a little slower. When they come in junks like that, scepticism is liable to creep in.

It is now announced that the Irish home rule bill will not pass as early as expected.

Chairman Hilles, will not have much of a vacation this summer, but he will have a mighty fine rest after November. It remains to be seen of the rest will be peaceful or otherwise, sweetened with the laurels of success or soured by the bitter draught of defeat.

The vacation season is in full swing and a great many of the townspeople are away for varying periods seeking rest and recuperation. Because of the heated term, most all entertainments especially those of an indoor nature are suspended and affairs in general are moving slowly. In consequence of this the news to be gathered is of a different character and perhaps not so plentiful as in the rush season. The Ledger desires to publish all interesting happenings in Quincy and will do all possible to get accounts of them. If you know of anything of importance in town happenings just tell a reporter and he will see that the affair is "written up." We want to get all the clean readable news and desire the cooperation of the general public to this end.

ALIENISTS OPINIONS.

It might seem as if the above subject was exhausted. At any rate it has come to be somewhat of a joke in serious murder trials.

Both sides have alienists and those professionals testify for the side by which they are engaged.

It would be much better to eliminate them entirely from trials as much of their deductions are farcical.

As a justification of this claim the following extracts of opinions in the last Thaw hearing are offered as worthy exhibits:

Dr. Austin Flint—Thaw is a true paranoiac and might commit another homicide if given his liberty.

Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald—Thaw is a true paranoiac with homicidal tendencies, and would be a public menace if liberated.

Dr. John W. Russell—Thaw is constitutionally inferior, and under his former conditions of life might commit another murder.

Dr. William White—Thaw is not insane and would do no harm if liberated.

Dr. Adolph Meyer—Thaw is not insane and never has been. He is a plain murderer. He should be given his liberty.

GIVE THE CATS A CHANCE.

Only a short time ago there was an agitation tending towards the licensing of cats in the City of Boston. No one offered any solution, as to the disposition of the poor Tabbies and Tommies, who roamed about at will, without home or master. Possibly they were to be exterminated. This would no doubt have proved an expensive undertaking. Take every cat, for instance. In order to be properly and orthodoxically removed from back yard fences, it is not unreasonable to assume that there would have to be nine killings in each case, except of course where an eleven o'clock boot jack might have blotted out one or more of the lives. It would be hard for the exterminator however to go into this matter of figures. To be sure that the cat became extinct the executioner would have to make nine jabs, and perhaps an extra one for good measure at each of the feline tribe. But a light dawns upon the darkened horizon of the catty tribe. Boston has entered upon a rat exterminating crusade. The very chance. Gather up, round up, corrall in any reasonable way, all the stray cats in Boston and vicinity. When grouped within the pound, grease their paws so that they would not care to wander back to their old haunts. Then caravan them to the water front and let them loose on that army of rats.

This would serve two or even more purposes. The cat tribe would be preserved, the rats would be slaughtered, the City of Boston would be saved the latter expensive process and the cats would have plenty of good fat rat pickings for food. They would thrive. Their back fence choruses would be eliminated and every one, except the rat would be satisfied. Of course give the cat a chance.

QUINCY GRANITE SURE.

The Boston chamber of Commerce, to its credit be it said, steps into the breach and advocates the use of Quincy granite for the annex to the Boston City hall. A commendable proposition and one to which we must heartily subscribe as possibly does every citizen of Quincy. Apropos of the activity of the board of the neighboring city, what would prevent the Quincy Board of Trade from manifesting a little activity along the same lines.

The contract for this building is about $716,000. A goodly portion of that amount must be used for granite. Quincy granite is available. Quincy granite manufacturers are undoubtedly ready and willing to take the burden of supplying the necessary goods. Under those circumstances some local movement to secure some of the contracts would not be amiss. It has been suggested that the Quincy Board of Trade, meet in special session, take up the question from all view points and urge the Quincy material in the construction. While on the subject the addition to the Boston Custom house should not be forgotten and the Congressmen from this section should be urged to use their influence for Quincy granite to form a part of this new structure.

Action is needed to bring about results. Let Quincy mercnants, the Quincy Board of Trade and all other influences which can be brought to bear, pull together to bring about this laudable and desirable end.

CHURCH A RESTING PLACE.

At New Bedford every afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock the Unitarian church is thrown open to the public. There are no services of any kind, but the church with its restfulness and peaceful suggestion is open to any who may choose to enter. The New Bedford Standard says there may be a caretaker somewhere in the building, but if so he keeps out of sight. It is possible that if such a scheme should prevail more generally in churches it would be abused—shouting throngs of little children would no doubt invade the place at times, and perhaps adults who had no friendship for religion and who would do the place no good. But it is a pleasant thought to have such a building open to supply a need of the weary, and to give them a place where they may enjoy a little peace and may take a little thought of something besides the rushing and hustling of the business world.—Brockton Enterprise.

WORK AND THE BOY.

Canvassing the possible reasons which keep New Bedford boys from taking advantage of the opportunities afforded by the Textile school to fit for a life work, the president, at the graduation exercises said:

"Is it because the young men of this city do not appreciate the value and worth of the school, that is rated one of the best not only in this state but in this country and in the world?

"Is it that they believe that some other vocation offers greater inducements for the future in importance and remuneration?"

And then he asked this:

"Is it that they are looking for soft jobs with good pay and little work to begin life with?"

To such as these, he added, the textile schools hold out no inducements and he hoped they never will. If they should, they would only be paving the way for disappointment and failure, for mill work is no soft job and the young man who goes into it with the idea that it is, is doomed to learn his mistake.

As a matter of fact, where is the soft job that gives good pay for little work? Perhaps it does occasionally exist and some person who counts himself lucky gets it. But the chance for such jobs are not many—and self-respecting, capable young men and women ought to be thankful, for ease is not the basis upon which successful career and the satisfactory life is built.

As Mr. Hatch put it: "Men who achieve success in life are those who, in their youth and early manhood, labor with brain and brawn, early and late, and not those who spend working hours in idleness. Boys have only to observe the successful men about them, to assure them of this."

The best service that can be done a boy is to teach him that work is the natural outlet of his energy; and the best lesson a boy can learn is how to develop energy and use it usefully.—New Bedford Standard.

BIBLE STUDENT ASSOCIATION

Work of the Organization Outlined by Secretary Webber

The International Bible Students' Association is carrying on the greatest reformation movement since the days of Martin Luther. It is an Association of layman and clergymen from every denomination, and is absolutely non-sectarian.

Its work is world-wide in scope, extending to every land under the sun. Never in the history of the human race has there been such an extensive proclamation of the Truth. It is carried on by means of the printed page in the publication and distribution of bibles, bible-helps, religious journals, newspapers and books, and orally by public lectures delivered in every land and in all languages by men of recognized ability and Christian character. Its lectures include some of the greatest Bible scholars of the age.

Its purpose is to enlighten all mankind as to the true teachings and opinions that have come down to this generation from the darker past; to defend the Scriptures against the rapid encroachments of higher criticism, evolution and infidelity; to make known the cause of all the ills of mankind. and to point to the way that leads to lasting and eternal happiness.

G. F. Webber, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

The Sunday school of the Hall place M. E. church will hold their picnic Wednesday at Highland Park instead of Hingham as first announced. All friends of the Sunday school are invited. Car leaves West Quincy at 9.10.

ATTENDED ANNUAL OUTING.

Bay View lodge. L. O. L., and John Adams Ladies' circle were among the several thousand present Friday at the annual outing of the Loyal Orange League at Wrentham. Rev. A. M. Thompson of Quincy was one of the principal after dinner speakers. A delegation from Quincy Receptory Royal Black Knights was also present.

MEMORIAL CHURCH.

At the special business meetings of the church and parish of Memorial church Wednesday night it was found the church must be incorporated in order to get the loan of $5,000, from the Church Building Society. The church was incorporated when founded but not having acted in that capacity, the advisability of consolidating the two organizations with workable bylaws was considered.

Rev. T. W. Davison produced a set of by-laws used in the Winter Hill church of Somerville, which would conserve all rights of the parish members and assure co-operation, and efficiency in the church. These bylaws are supposed to be the most democratic and progressive in use and have been commended by the leading ministers and college presidents of the country. They give every parish member and contributor as well as church members a say in the management of the church, and parish members can hold every office but that of deacon, superintendent of Sunday school and clerk.

The only change necessary to meet the conditions would be the election of the executive committee (or trustees) by the church instead of a separate organization and the church would assume all financial obligations.

Committees of three from the parish and three from the church were chosen to meet with the pastor and bring in suitable resolutions which will consider the interest of the church and congregation and report at another meeting next Wednesday evening.

McCONNELL'S CLASSY HORSE

Objected to Plain Plebian Rope Fastening

MOLLIFIED BY PEANUTS

Ernest McConnell, who is engaged in the fruit business with his father on Hancock street, was given quite a surprise Friday afternoon when his horse, which he had fastened to a post in the rear of the store about fifteen minutes' previous, walked up to the front door, without any team or harness and stood on the outside looking in about three o'clock Friday afternoon. Ernest was taken so suddenly that he was at a loss to understand what the animal had done to appear like a circus horse.

He went to where he had tied the steed and a survey of the situation convinced him that some one had been interfering with the beast. The bridal was taken off the horse's head and a rope placed in his mouth. This, according to "Ern" as he is most familiarly known, rather infuriated the equine, who separated himself from the harness, only after considerable damage had been done to it and found no difficulty in leaving the team behind and going on a pleasure trip. The horse was satisfied in remaining in front of the store and after receiving a few peanuts was conducted to the rear of the store and placed in his usual driving apparel, hitched to the post and for the rest of the afternoon congratulated himself that he knew a thing or two about getting rid of objectionable trappings.

It was used largely however by confirmed drinkers eventually setting men crazy who used it constantly.

ond and third, respectively. in this event, and Albert L. Gutterson of the University of Vermont, captured the running broad jump with a new Olympic record of 24 feet 11 inches.

The United States also finished second and third in the discus, fifth in the modern Pentathlon, and won places in many of the heats in other events, the finals of which are yet to be decided.

The final heat of the 400-meter swim—breast stroke—was won by Bathe of Germany in 6m 29 3-5s. Henning of Sweden was second in 6m 35 3-5s, and Courtman of England third, a yard or two behind. Bathe led throughout.

The final heat of the 100-meter swim, free style, for women, was won by Miss Fanny Durach of Australia in 1m 22 1-5s. Miss Wilhelmina Wyle, Australia, was second in 1m 25 2-5s, and Miss Fletcher of England third.

The first heat of the 800-meter swimming for teams was won by the United States in 10m 26 2-5s. Hungary was second in 10m 34 3-5s, and England third in 10m 39 2-5s. America's win was due largely to the lead secured by the Hawaiian Kahanamoku.

In spite of the enforced absence of Longworth, Australia entered a team composed of Hardwick, Healy, Champlan and Boardman and swam over in the second heat with Germany. Notwithstanding they were not pressed, the Australians covered the course in 10m 14 2-5s or 12 seconds less than the time of the Americans.

The jury to consider protests, of which Mr. Sullivan is the American member in refusing Germany's protests against the disqualification of her relay team, decided that the jury's function was only to pass upon the interpretation of the rules by the judges when questioned.

Lieut. Patton's success in securing fifth in the modern pentathlon against 41 other officers, the best of the European Armies makes the American cavalry lieutenant one of the popular personages of Stockholm. The Swedish officers who beat Patton had the great advantage of long training on the ground and the American had to ride a strange horse.

The American Marathon runners have stopped work and will take no further practice for Sunday's struggle. They spent the day in fishing.

The community on the Finland has had a little excitement of its own. In the absence of the captain ashore, the junior officers refused to man the launches for disembarking the athletes on account of a feud between some of them. It is expected that a treaty of peace will be arranged when the captain returns.

CONGRESSMEN IN BAY STATE

Greatly Affected by Third Party Movement

MAY GIVE DEMOCRATS LEAD

Republican Bolt Would Affect Nearly All Districts If Candidates Appear—Butler Ames' Retirement Will Weaken Chances In Fifth—Sixth, Ninth, Thirteenth and Fifteenth Seem the Safest

Boston, July 13.—The Roosevelt party may prove a considerable factor in the congressional elections in Massachusetts if it puts a candidate into every district. If the bolt is large, it might result in the election of ten Democrats out of the total of sixteen, and possibly twelve, though the figures gave the Democrats only five when the redistricting bill of 1912 was drawn.

By the figures of the last congressional election, the present First district had only 558 Republican plurality. Therefore Congressman Lawrence's successor, if the third patry draws any material number, will be a Democrat.

In the Second district the actual Democratic plurality was 368. Therefore Congressman Gillett has a narrow chance if the Rooseveltians split off many votes. In the Third there was a Democratic plurality of 415, which would elect Representative Pope of Leominster, the probable Democratic candidate, over Congressman Wilder. The new Fourth had a Republican plurality of 1376, but that is Congressman Thayer's district, Democrat, and he will run again with good chance of election.

In Butler Ames' district, the Fifth, there was a Republican plurality of 2193, but Ames has been strong, above the normal party strength, for various reasons, and his successor cannot expect to equal his vote. Deduct more Roosevelt votes and there will be probably a Democratic congressman there. The Sixth district had 5223 Republican plurality for Gardner and seems safe. But the new Seventh had an actual Democratic plurality of 2176 and therefore seems likely to go the same way this time. The new Eighth had only 1081 Republican margin, and if the Roosevelt contingent breaks in anything like expectations there will be another Democrat there. The new Ninth has 3161 Republican majority and is probably safe. The next three have heavy Democratic majorities, made so by intent by the Republicans, in order to bunch the Democratic vote.

The remaining districts are Republican, all of them seemingly safely so, except the new Fourteenth, or Congressman Harris' district. The had a Republican plurality of only 1579. Now Brockton is in it, and that is the hottest Roosevelt place in the state, with a local committee of 100, headed by Dr. Charles S. Millet, busy. Such activity is likely to cut down that narrow plurality.

As outlined, that would give the Democrats eleven districts to five for the Republicans. The new Sixteenth district is pretty hot for Roosevelt, compared with other parts, though it may not be a large total. But the margin was only 2136 in that at the last congressional election, and thus there is quite a plausible outlook that the Democrats might carry twelve districts and the Republicans four.

MADERO LOAN REPORTED

By Which Mexico Will Increase Her Standing Army to 70,000

New York, July 13.—Francisco I. Madero, father of the President of Mexico, has left New York to return to Mexico. According to A. C. Charlot, who has copper mining interests in the province of Sonora, the elder Madero returns with a new program for a standing army of 70,000 men for Mexico, to be put through by the Madero government.

The father of the President of Mexico had completed the financing for this new government policy, according to Mr. Charlot, who declared that the $10,000,000 necessary had been promised the elder Madero by bankers here.

Senor Madero had returned to New York from Washington two days ago. Among other missions in the United States, according to the mining man, Senor Madero had been here to give assurance to this government that the Madero government would take effective means to prevent further revolutionary disturbances from upsetting Mexico's peace. The program for a standing army of 70,000 men was said to be the assurance offered by Senor Madero.

"Orozco is finished," said Mr. Charlot. "He can go no further. The people of Sonora are not for him as he thinks. They will fight him, instead. They are with Madero and Orozco will soon nnd this out. They are sick and tired of revolutions. These troubles are practically finished now."

JACK JOHNSON SUBDUED

Little Bailiff Makes White Despair Look Sheepish

Chicago, July 13.—Jack Johnson, champion prizefighter, with a sheepish smile and no retort, stood in a federal court while a mild-mannered five-foot bailiff taught him a wholesome respect for the judiciary and its adjuncts.

Johnson and his wife were arraigned on indictments charging them with smuggling a $9000 diamond necklace into this country from Europe. After a short formal arraignment they were released, pending trial, on $5000 bail each. Johnson regarded the proceedings as a joke. He laughed loudly, flashed his diamods and swung his arm.

When arraigned he bit on a big, black cigar. He kept his straw hat on. When about to be sworn he raised his clenched left fist as if on the defensive in a prizefight ring.

Quick as a flash Ed Marsales, the little bailiff jerked down Jack's left arm, pulled the cigar from his mouth and jerked off his hat.

"Put up your right hand," commanded the bailiff.

The negro fighter obeyed without a murmur. His triumphant grin melted into one that might be described as foolish. The proceedings were over in a moment.

No date was set for the hearing of the charges against Johnson and his wife. If the court, in the event that the couple are found guilty, should impose the maximum penalty, the prizefighter and his wife would have to spend two years in prison and pay a fine of $5000.

TAFT OUT IN NEVADA

State Convention Failed to Nominate Presidential Electors

Carson City, Nev., July 13.—President Taft may be without representation on the Repubican party ticket in Nevada at the elections next fall.

By an oversight which now seems irremediable, the state convention which elected delegates to the Chicago convention neglected to nominate presidential electors as provided by state law. A conference of party leaders discussed the possibility of holding another state convention.

BRIEFS

Mrs. John Murray, who started a dry goods store in Music hall Atlantic two years ago, has developed her business so that she will move into the store in Sagamore block, now occupied by Branscheid & Marten, when they move into their new block next week.

Several neighborhood food sales are to be held on Saturdays under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church for the Parish house fund. Today the sale is held at the home of Mrs. Edward F. Parlee, Division street, Montclair. Next Saturday it will be held at Mrs. Theodore Parker's, Russell street, Atlantic.

Mr. and Mrs. George Call of South Braintree are moving into the double house owned by Angus Stewart.

As a result of the formation of a Parents' and Teachers Association, and the co-operation of the councilmen of the ward, an assembly hall is being constructed in the Quincy school building.

Thursday's thunder storm did a good deal of damage in the Bellevue Park and Montclair districts. The electric light wires were struck on Ardelle street, Montclair, and the house belonging to E. F. Young on Eliot avenue, Bellevue Park was struck.

The electrical storms Wednesday and Thursday caused some damage at Atlantic. Wednesday afternoon a bolt struck in Dr. Kendall's yard damaging the fence. Thursday a bolt struck the house of C. H. Claflin on Botolph street. The roof of the house was damaged. The bolt bounded off into the field at the back of the house.

SHAWONDASEE CLUB.

Social life is in full swing in the North Weymouth Bluffs summer colony and the Shawondesee club is the center of activity. A number of events are scheduled for the season, which no doubt will prove as successful as in the past.

Dancing has been made a regular Wednesday evening feature this season, and the music is furnished by the Wollaston orchestra which is in itself an attraction.

Whist parties and other entertainments will alternate on Saturday nights.

ANDREW SAVED HIS SUPERIOR

Inside Story of the Panama Bond Issue

MACVEAGH NEARLY RESIGNED

New England Particularly Interested In Treasury Squabble—White House Entered Into Panama Bond Issue Without the Knowledge of Treasury Secretary—Andrew Agreed to Resign If MacVeagh Was Forced Out

Washington, July 13.—Since the recent explosion in the treasury department public curiousity has been alive as to the inside facts of the attempted Panama canal bond issue of 1910, referred to in the fiery letter of resignation of the assistant secretary of the treasury A. Platt Andrew. It is particularly interesting to New England readers, as Dr. Andrews and the senators who have sustained him, are from that section.

Dr. Andrew's reference to this incidentwas brief but pungent. He said that the White House in 1910 entered into negotiations for an issue of Panama bonds without the knowledge of the secretary of the treasury. and he added that he agreed at the time that should the embarrassing situation lead the secretary of the treasury to resign, he would resign with him. This item of news was perhaps more surprising than any other in the extraordinary letter of the retiring assistant secretary. The incident of the proposed bond issue never has been explained, and it may be only a matter of simple justice to all concerned to state the facts as they have transpired since Dr. Andrew hastily left Washington.

In the tariff act of 1910 congress authorized the treasury to issue bonds to cover the expense of constructing the Panama canal. Nevertheless, a large portion of the expense of construction has been paid out of general revenues and the issues of the bonds have continuallly been two or three years behind the actual expenditures for this purpose. This course is perfectly within the law, as the act did not require but merely authorized the issue of bonds to pay for this canal. And this has been good business policy, as it has tended to discourage extravagance on the part of congress in other directions, by preventing the accumulation of a surplus.

Of course, the one risk involved in the policy was that the working balance in the treasury might become so reduced that a bond issue would become necessary at a time when the financial market was ill prepared to absorb it. If such a situation were to occur, it would of course be embarrassing for the administration to issue its bonds at a low price.

This probably was the consideration which led the White House to consult with certain New York bankers in the fall of 1910, without the knowledge, much less advice, of Secretary Mac Veagh. The president had returned from Panama just before Thanksgiving day and set about the preparation of his annual message. The elections of a few weeks before had revealed a disagreeable revulsion of feeling toward the administration through the country, and Democratic victories had occurred in many states which were traditionally Republican. The president and his advisers undoubtly were anxious to forestall every possible ground for future criticism.

At any rate, on the following Tuesday two members of one of the leading banking houses in New York, a bank which has been traditionally interested in the negotiation of government bonds, came to Washington on the president's invitation and spent most of the day in consultation with the president and his staff. Tuesday is one of the "cabinet days," and Mr. MacVeagh was present at the cabinet meeting all the morning and returned again to the White House in the afternoon. At the same time these bankers in the same building had under advisement the terms of a bond issue and were telephoning to their colleagues in New York in regard thereto, although Mr. MacVeagh, the secretary of the treasury, was unaware of the whole precedure. The proposition which was favored in the conference and which was communicated by telephone to the leading bankers in New York and discussed by them, was an issue of $100,000,000 in bonds yielding 2½ percent and bearing the circulation privilege.

The progress of these negotiations was discovered by Dr. Andrew, who brought the matter to the secretary's attention. The secretary at once went over to New York and confirmed by personal interview the existence of a situation which, in the construction put upon it by Dr. Andrew, appeared to have no other outcome than Mr. MacVeagh's withdrawal from the treasury.

At this juncture, it is learned, Dr. Andrew and one or two other officials in the treasury rallied to Secretary MacVeagh's support. They agreed to leave the treasury instantly with him if he were forced out and enlisted a similiar agreement from some of their colleagues. Meanwhile they secured the aid of various senators who interceded with the president on grounds of party expediency and personal sympathy not to enforce Mr. MacVeagh's resignation by any such means. Nelson W. Aldrich, it is said, was one of the senators who interested himself in Mr. MacVeagh's plight and personally appealed to the president, with whom he had much influence in matters appertaining to the treasury, to suspend the embarrassing negotiations. The president took the advice thus offered, at the instance of Dr. Andrew the negotiations ceased, and no public reason for the withdrawal from the cabinet of the head of the treasury department longer existed.

CHAFIN AND WATKINS

Lengthy Struggle Over Attempt to Change Party Label

Atlantic City, N. J., July 13.—A change of the party name was proposed to the Prohibition national convention here. Suggestions that the party had outgrown its name, which have been discussed informally since the gathering here of the delegates brought a definite proposal from Rev. S. H. Taft of California that the convention adopt the name "Conservation party."

"I wish the convention to consider the importance of changing the name from 'Prohibition' to 'Conservation' party," said Rev. Mr. Taft. "The name of Prohibition does not in any full measure signify the great purpose for which we stand pledged—to take the government from the hands of corrupt political parties ruled by the rum power. Added to the fact that the name inadequately sets forth our purpose and work," he continued, "it has been discredited and robbed of its former meaning by the law-defying attitude of the dominant rum-ruled parties. The name has become a handicap instead of an inspiration. Let us prove our right to public confidence by keeping step with the onward march of events as did the old Liberal party, which changed its name before it attained the overthrow of slavery. Conservation means all that progressive means and more. Let us take it before some other organiaztion has appropriated it."

Other names suggested by delegates are "Progressive party" and "Liberal party." The name was left unchanged.

Eugene W. Chafin of Illinois and Ariozna, nominee four years ago, was again chosen as the candidate for Pesident of the United States, with his former running mate, Aaron S. Watkins of Ohio, for vice president.

COWARDLY DRIVER KILLS WOMAN

Leaves Body In Road and Flees From Arrest

West Bridgewater, Mass., July 13.—Miss Ellen Hennessy, 27, the daughter of James Hennessy, railroad gate tender here, was killed last night on the Brockton road at Pine Hill cemetery by an automobile, the occupants of which fled at full speed after the accident.

They were chased by the driver of a second machine, who witnessed the accident, but they escaped.

The police were notified and although given but a meagre description of the machine which killed the girl, have sent out an alarm to all neighboring towns to be on the lookout for it.

It is alleged that the machine which struck the young woman was a small runabout and carried no lights.

The machine stopped about 100 feet beyond the point where Miss Hennessy was struck and a man got out for a moment, examined the fore part of the auto and then jumped in again and started off at full speed.

DORR PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Alleged Murderer Seems to Be In Best of Health

Salem, Mass., July 13.—William A. Dorr, alias W. A. and Willis A. Dow, of Stockton, Cal., pleaded not guilty to the indictment charging him with the murder of George E. March, the wealthy Lynn soap manufacturer whose body was found on the marshes near the Point of Pines on the morning of April 12, when arraigned in the superior criminal court. The indictment was in two counts. Judge Quinn remanded Dorr to jail without bail for trial, probably in the fall.

When Dorr arrived back east after being extradited from California he was in a state of collapse and in the care of a nurse. Now he shows no sign of that breakdown, which the police say was caused by fear.

Australians Seek Meat Trade

Brisbane, Aus., July 13.—An American-British combination has purchased a site on the Brisbane river for the erection of packing houses which are to cost $1,750,000. They are to have a capacity for 600 cattle and 5000 sheep daily and it is hoped that a considerable chilled meat trade will be developed with America on the completion of the Panama canal.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Esperantists Make Hub Resound with Strange Cacophonies—Uncle Sam, as Arbiter of Public Morals, May Deal Cupid a Severe Jolt—Suffragists in July Prepare for November Jollification—Electric Railway Opportunities for Young Men from Villages and Farms.

The United States and Canada have hoofed it to the big national shoe and leather market-fair in the Mechanics' building, officially opened July 10. Foreign countries also have their standing at the Hub's big exposition, and many interesting events and entertainments occupy their time. "Canadian Day" at the fair was set aside for the special interests of the northern neighbors, taking place on Friday, July 12th. Automobile trips, harbor excursions and banquets lent spice to the business routine, and the crowds of visitors found the truth of Boston's reputation as a summer resort despite the heat, which, to put it gently, was mildly uncomfortable.

Master Cupid will get a sad jolt from Uncle Sam, if Postmaster Mansfield's recommendations are carried out. The "mean old thing" (meaning Mr. Mansfield—not Cupid) has sent to Washington for permission to put a stop to young girls calling at the general delivery window of the post office to intercept letters which would otherwise be delivered into the hands of their family. The postmaster is not vindictive and does not want to put Cupid down and out entirely, but he does draw the line at having his office turned into a marriage bureau. The result of this move will probably necessitate the lovelorn Juliet's arising at an earlier hour than usual in order to get the mail before mother does, if she still persists in corresponding with the young man of whom her parents do not approve. The Boston girl of puritanic lineage thinks it is undoubtedly a good thing that such clandestine correspondence should be put under the ban, since there are always a certain number of misguided young women who persist in writing and receiving letters which they dare not show their parents. Yet how about the husband who goes to the same general delivery window and intercepts the letter containing a check which he does not want his wife to see? Isn't sauce for the goose equally good food for the gander? Here is a poser for suffragists. Some Boston girls, at any rate, are real mad about it, and think that Uncle Sam is about the meanest ever.

For the big suffrage parade to be held in New York on November 9, immediately after the Presidential election, plans are already enthusiastically under way, according to intimations received at the Boston headquarters, 585 Boylston street. It is to be an evening parade, in which the marchers will carry torches. It is reported that the Men's League for Women's Suffrage was the instigator of the parade, which is expected to surpass the demonstration on May 4, and the men's league is sharing equally the responsibility with the women. Electrically decorated automobiles, illuminated floats, banners, and horsemen and horsewomen carrying torches will make the scene a brilliant one. Open air meetings will be held in Union Square and the permit allowing for 10,000 marchers has already been granted. Meantime the summer campaigns of the country and shore resorts are going on steadily and the ranks of the suffragists are swelling week by week.

Boston welcomes the Esperantists this week at the 25th anniversary celebration of the founding of their language. Anyone who thinks Esperanto is a myth should be present in Copley Square when the conventionists start on a sight seeing trip around the Hub. It immediately presents itself as a well understood, comprehensive language which is talked by hundreds of well informed people. More than 120 magazines are printed in Esperanto and the works in general literature run considerably over a hundred. The Boston convention is under the auspices of the New England Esperanto Association and the Boston Esperanto Society, which have joined to entertain the American association. Many of those in attendance at the Boston meeting planned to sail on July 13 for the Eighth International Esperanto Congress at Cracow, Poland. The party will be called the Nordamerika Karavano and will include in its itinerary the Azores and Mediterranean ports and thence extend across Austria. A surprising array of evidences of the extent to which Esperanto is being used as commercial language in many countries was among the interesting features of the convention.

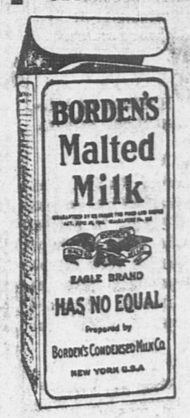

More opportunities than ever before for bright young men of New England to enter the electric railway business appear to have been created in Boston since a strike was started a few weeks ago by a minority of the Boston Elevated Company's men. The strike itself appears to be dropping from notice, because more than two thirds of the carmen have remained enthusiastically loyal to the company and because the public for the most part has had no sympathy whatever with the violent methods employed by the strikers. The displacements, nevertheless, due to the abrupt withdrawal of more than 800 of the younger conductors and motormen has necessarily made more vacancies in the service than ordinarily occur. So highly prized in the past has been the chance to learn street railroading in Boston that in a single year more than 10,000 applications have been received for the few hundred vacancies to be filled. These have come from all sorts and conditions of men—former ministers, educators, actors and musicians as well as from representatives of the mechanical and manual trades. While no preference has ever been given to one class of candidates over another the management has always been especially glad to entertain applications from sound and serious minded young men of the farms and villages of New England and the Canadian provinces. To those, if they are able to pass the required examinations, a calling is offered with good wages at the start and every possible opportunity to rise in the service. A specific case lately prominent is that of the new chief instructor of the Boston Elevated Company's training school, which has proved invaluable during the test of the services caused by the present partial strike. Mr. Ching about 15 years ago came up to Boston from Prince Edward Island and entered the services as a motorman. He was intelligent, alert and loyal. Soon he was appointed as inspector of equipment. Then he was assigned to supervision of the breaking in of motormen. Within the past few months he has been given a chance to try out ideas of his own in the training of both motormen and conductors in an industrial school room which is distinctly a model of its kind. Young men of this kind find no reason to complain that the individual is lost sight of in a great organization like that of the Boston Elevated Company. The very bigness of the system gives them their chance to show the stuff they are made of.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

Ammon gazed at her. He tried to drop her hand and only clutched it closer. Suddenly he drew her toward him. "Elnora," he whispered, "will you kiss me goodby?"

Elnora drew back and stared at him with wide eyes. "I'd strike you sooner," she said. "Have I ever said or

"Elnora," he whispered, "will you kiss me goodby?"

done anything in your presence that made you feel free to ask that, Philip Ammon?"

"No!" panted Ammon. "No! I think so much of you I just wanted to touch your lips once before I left you. You know, Elnora"—

"Don't distress yourself," said Elnora calmly. "I am broad enough to judge you sanely. I know what you mean. It would be no harm to you. It would not matter to me, but here we will think of some one else. Edith Carr would not want your lips tomorrow if she knew they had touched mine today. I was wise to say 'Go quickly.'"

Ammon still clung to her. "Will you write me?" he begged.

"No," said Elnora. "There is nothing to say save goodby. We can do that now."

Ammon held on. "Promise that you will write me only one letter," he urged. "I want just one message from you to lock in my desk and keep always. Promise you will write once, Elnora."

Elnora looked straight into his eyes and smiled serenely. "If the talking trees tell me this winter the secret of how a man may grow perfect I will write you what it is, Philip. In all the time I have known you I never have liked you so little. Goodby."

Elnora crossed the road, climbed the fence and sought the shelter of their own woods. She took a diagonal course and followed it until she came to the path leading past the violet patch. She went down this hurriedly. Her hands were clinched at her sides, her eyes dry and bright, her cheeks red flushed and her breath coming fast. When she reached the patch she turned into it and stood looking around her.

The mosses were dry, the flowers gone, weeds a foot high covered it. She turned away and went on down the path until she was almost in sight of the cabin.

Mrs. Comstock could not understand why the girl did not hurry to her with what she would have to tell. She went out and wandered around the garden. Then she stepped into the path and started back along the way leading to the woods, past the pool now framed in a thick setting of yellow lilies. Then she saw and stopped, gasping for breath. Her hands flew up, and her lined face grew ghastly. She stared at the sky and then at the prostrate girl figure. Over and over she tried to speak, but only a word came.

Elnora uttered one wild little cry and fled into her mother's arms. "Oh, mother!" she sobbed. "Will you ever forgive me?"

Mrs. Comstock's arms swept together in a tight grip around Elnora.

"There isn't a thing on God's footstool from a to izzard I won't forgive you, my precious girl!" she said. "Tell mother what it is."

Elnora lifted her wet face. "He told me," she panted, "just as soon as he decently could—that second day he told me. Almost all his life he's been engaged to a girl at home. He never cared anything about me. He was just interested in the moths and growing strong."

"Elnora"—the mother's head bent until the white hair mingled with the brown—"Elnora, why didn't you tell me at first?"

Elnora caught her breath in a sharp snatch. "I know I should!" she sobbed. "I will bear any punishment for, not, but I didn't feel as if I possibly could. I was afraid."

"Afraid of what?" the shaking hand was on the hair again.

"Afraid you wouldn't let him come!" panted Elnora. "And, oh, mother, I wanted him so!"

For the next week Mrs. Comstock and Elnora worked so hard there was no time to talk, and they were compelled to sleep from physical exhaustion. Elnora took all the dragon flies and butterflies she could, and when she went over the list for her collection, she found, to her amazement, that with Ammon's help she once more had it complete save a pair of yellow Emperors. From every source at her command she tried to complete the series with these moths and could not find any for sale.

Then came a notification that Elnora would be compelled to attend a week's session of the teachers' institute held at the county seat twenty miles north of Onabasha the following week. They went to Onabasha together and purchased a simple and appropriate fall suit and hat, goods for a dainty little colored frock and a dress skirt and several fancy waists. Margaret Sinton came down and the sewing began. When everything was finished and packed Elnora kissed her mother goodby at the depot and the train pulled out. Mrs. Comstock went to the bank and inquired for the cashier.

"I want to know just how I am fixed here," she said. The cashier laughed. "Well, you haven't been in a hurry," he replied. "We have been ready for you any time these twenty years, but you didn't seem to pay much attention. Your account is rather flourishing."

Mrs. Comstock sank into a chair and waited while the cashier read a jumble of figures to her. It meant that her deposits had exceeded her expenses from $100 to $300 a year, according to the cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry, butter and eggs she had sold. The aggregate of these sums had been compounding interest throughout the years. Mrs. Comstock stared at the total with dazed and unbelieving eyes. Through her sick heart rushed the realization that if she merely had stood before that wicket and asked one question she would have known that all those bitter years of skimping for Elnora and herself had been unnecessary. She arose and went back to the depot.

"I want to send a message," she said. She picked up the pencil and with rash extravagance wrote: "Found money at bank didn't know about. If you want to go to college come on first train and get ready." She hesitated a second, and then she said to herself grimly, "Yes, I'll pay for that too," and recklessly added, "With love, Mother." Then she sat waiting for the answer. It came in less than an hour "Going to teach this winter. With dearest love, Elnora."

Social Realm

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the season for Weymouth people took place Saturday evening at the Quincy Yacht club, the occasion being a reception and dance tendered to Mrs. Bradford Burrell and son Leon of Elkhart, Indianna, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Harris of Front street, Weymouth. A reception was held from seven until eight and then dancing was enjoyed until ten o'clock. Mrs. Burrell was Miss Lizzie Hunt previous to her marriage and several of her schoolmates attended the event and renewed school exploits together. This is the first visit east by Mrs. Burrell for over fifteen years.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Marble of East Squantum street went to Maine Monday, where they will visit relatives for a few weeks.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Becker of East Milton are at The Glenmere, Ocean Bluff, Brant Rock, Mass., for the month of July.

* * *

Mrs. D. A. Golden and Miss Alice Golden of Squantum street, sail from New York, today for Hamilton, Bermuda, where they will spend the next two weeks.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. French, nee Gannett, of Akron, Ohio, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gannett of Canton avenue, Milton.

* * *

Monday afternoon the ladies of the Cochato club held one of their pleasant bridge whist parties on the club piazza. There were five tables in play and the souvenirs were distributed to Mrs. Arthur Gould, Mrs. Frank Perry and Mrs. G. D. Bullock. This party was under Mrs. Bullock's direction. Mrs. Clayton R. Marstin of Washington street will have charge of next Monday's party.

DANCING PARTIES.

The Wollaston and Squantum Yacht clubs will hold dancing parties at their respective club houses this evening.

MRS. AUBREY HILLIARD.

Anna Gertrude Hilliard was born in Braintree, Sept. 23, 1862, her parents being, Alva S. Morrison of Braintree and Elizabeth Curtis of Weymouth. She was educated in the Braintree schools and was a graduate of Thayer Academy. In 1882 she was married to Aubrey Hilliard and except for a few years when she was first married, she has always lived in Braintree. For the past five years she has been an invalid and on July 4th she passed away. Services were held at her late home on Sunday, July 7. She was a devoted wife and mother and a most thoughtful and generous friend. She is survived by her husband and two children, Curtis M. Hilliard and Mrs. Alva M. Dow.

HORSE STRAYED FINED 10 BONES

Police Plan to Check Habit of Leaving Horses on Streets Without Attendants

Many complaints have been received by the police of teamsters who have a habit of leaving their horses in the public streets unhitched and without attendants. In many such cases the horse wanders about endangering the lives of small children who happen to be on the street, and in addition to this the animals often wander upon private lawns which are cut up by their hoofs so that they become a nuisance. Edward Asnes tried the trick, Friday with the result that he was halled into court this morning and fined $10. He did not have the ten handy and it became a case of pay up or work out the fine at the county shoe shop at Dedham. He finally appealed and was held in $200. When he raises the fine he will probably come into court and retract his appeal and pay up.

ELIGIBLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Davenport and Niles Establish Title to Contest for Cups

The finals in the July Fourth tournament of the Quincy Tennis club doubles were played this week between Davenport and Niles and Page and Currier and was won by the former team in three straight. As a result of their winning the match they are eligible to play for the championship cup for doubles. This is a perpetual cup and to challenge for it a pair must have won a tournament.

The match for the cup therefore will be played on the Quincy courts this afternon between Davenport and Niles and Barker and Hillman of Wollaston the present holders of the cup.

BRIEFS

William T. Lyons of Conant street is in New York city on a visit to friends.

Mayor Stone who has been out of the city on a business trip returned this morning.

The male quartet of the First Presbyterian church will render music at the Sunday evening service.

Ronald Shaw of Wollaston is visiting his grandmother Mrs. A. J. Shaw of Sea street, North Weymouth.

The Adams Academy is being repaired being made ready for the Grand Army who have been appointed custodians of the building.

Milton's tax rate although higher than last year cannot be said to be very high being only $11.50 and below the average of the last ten years.

Grover Perry of California will speak in Quincy Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Electa hall, Johnson building under the auspices of the Ettor and Giovannitti defence committee.

HAPPY KITTY HAS TWO TAILS

Michael Griffin Proud Owner of Cat With Double Caudle Appendage

Most kittens when born are satisfied if nature provides them with one tail. A kitten was born at Hall's stable this week however which is in the nature of a freak for it has two tails. One of the tails is jet black and the other immaculate white. The kitten belongs to Michael Griffin one of the men employed at the stable.

BIG ATHLETIC CARNIVAL

For Boys and Girls to Open at Play Grounds Next Week

The all around athletic championships will begin next week on the following days:

Ward One—Wednesday afternoon.
Ward Three—Tuesday afternoon.
Ward Four—Thursday afternoon.

Two events will be contested on each afternoon and for the first contest the running broad jumps and the 50 yard dash have been chosen.

The boys and girls will be divided into three classes as follows:

Class A.—Under 10 years of age.
Class B.—Under 10, 11, 12 years.
Class C.—Under 13, 14, 15 years.

Points will be scored as follows:

5 for first place, 3 for second.

2 for third and 1 for fourth place and a careful record will be kept of all point winners. At the end of the playground season a grand athletic carnival will be held on the Ward Three grounds and all the point winners will compete for the city championship.

DISTRICT COURT.

William C. Nelligan, Murdock Cameron, and Paul Purcell were fined $10 each for disturbing the peace at Weymouth.

Joseph McLaughlin was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy and had his sentence suspended until July 27.

Edward Asnes was fined $10 for allowing his horse to remain in a public street unhitched. He appealed and was held in $200 for the grand jury.

The continued case of Domenic Frivolli for alleged violation of the liquor law at Quincy was called and he was defaulted.

Mrs. Maria Kantola of Ashtabula, Ohioe, has been visiting her three daughters living in this city and belonging to the Finnish Congregational Church. She will leave for Ohio next week in company with her oldest daughter Hilda Maria, wife of William Huovinenx, next week, after spending three delightful weeks in Quincy.

PROOF OF INNOCENCE

"I have visited personally parties who are represented as having made statements detrimental to the character of Mr. Ayers. It is sufficient to say that in every instance the charges are refuted absolutely.

"I consulted with representatives at Cape Vincent, Watertown and Brownville. Everywhere I went where Mr. Ayers accompanied me, he was most cordially welcomed and received with heartiest greetings. I saw in all about 100 people. and in no instance did I hear anything that would reflect against Mr. Ayers.

"With reference to the more serious charges, which the ministers in their investigation considered, it is sufficient to say that I visited the party in his own home and received from him a statement in which he not only showed how he had been grossly deceived in that lies had been told him, but also a complete and absolute retraction in full of every detail mentioned in the original statement.

"I sincerely believe that when the public statements have been fully considered, the Rev. William B. Ayers will be fully vindicated.

"I went on my own responsibility into this investigation, and I found that in every place visited Mr. Ayers had a miltitude of friends and every one spoke kindly of him. He was welcomed in every home, and people wanted him to come back and preach to them.

"I also received from S. H. Brown, the district superintendent of the Methodist church of Watertown, the following statement

"To whom it may concern:

"In statements that I made in regard to Rev. W. B. Ayers I had no intention whatever to say ought against this young man that was detrimental to his moral character or standing with mankind and Ihave written no letter giving any person the right or authority to publish such letters.

"S. H. BROWN."

"Watertown, N. Y., July 8. 1912."

That the present movement to oust Rev. William B. Ayers was instigated by a clique which has for years controlled the affairs in the church is the claim of a number who attend the Park and Downs Congregational church.

When Mr. Ayers came to Wollaston, so the story runs, he attempted to arouse new interest by putting new blood in a few of the church offices. The clique, it is said, objected and when Mr. Ayers refused to be dictated to trouble ensued.

The claim is made that the clique was successful in obtaining the resignation of a previous minister when he interfered with their plans and succeeded in still retaining their power.

With Mr. Ayers, it is alleged, the case was different and when they saw their rule on the wane and Mr. Ayers continuing to hold a powerful hand, the members of the clique resorted to every means within their power to cause his withdrawal from Wollaston. Whatever the merits of this story are. the fact remains that it is given due credence in certain quarters of Wollaston and furnishes what some people say is a reasonable explanation of a good deal of the present trouble.

Dr. Anderson declared that the above story was obsolutely true and that he would stand back of every word of it.

FOSS AND WALSH OR ONLY FOSS

To Be or Not to Be, That Is the Question

Boston, July 13.—That Governor Foss is seriously considering becoming a candidate for re-election is the statement of David I. Walsh of Fitchburg, who had a conference with Governor Foss yesterday by appointment.

Mr. Walsh, who was the runnig mate of the governor last year, favors the candidacy of the governor, and says that he is willing to become a candidate again for lieutenant governor. But if the governor finally decides not to become a candidate for governor, Mr. Walsh says he will himself become a candidate.

Governor Foss told Mr. Walsh that he was being asked by many people to run for governor again. Mr. Walsh then said that he wanted a decisive reply in three days so that he might have opportunity to prepare his nomination papers.

"Governor Foss is seriously considering the demands that are being made upon him to be a candidate for re-election. I hope he will decide to run again. If he doesn't I shall be a candidate," said Mr. Walsh.

"I told the governor that in case he should decide now not to be a candidate and later if he should change his mind and become a candidate I would not withdraw. Once in the contest I will not quit."

JUNIOR BASE BALL LEAGUE

To Be Formed of 18 Local Teams in Central Wards

The Playground base ball league will be formed on Monday afternoon and all boys under 16 years who desire to join a team in this league are requested to be on hand at the nearest playground to their homes. Six teams will be formed at Ward One and will take the names of the American League teams; six teams at Ward Three with the National League Teams as titles and four teams at Wadr Four, with the leading colleges as favorites. Games will be played every morning and afternoon except on the days of the athletic meets and a record will be kept of all league games. The leading team of each league every week will play the leaders of the other playgrounds. For the final week, a worlds championship series will be planned with special prizes for the winners.

Girls' teams are also being formed and a series of games with the various playgrounds is being arranged.

R. T. CRANE MAY FAVOR WILSON

Was a Strong Backer of Senator La Follette

Sea Girt, N. J., July 13.—Charles R. Crane of Chicago, who contributed heavily to Senator La Follette's campaign fund, and Charles VanHise, president of the University of Wisconsin, Senator La Follette's ardent supporter prior to the Chicago convention, took luncheon today with Governor Wilson.

Close friends of the governor said that Mr. Crane had transferred his preference from the Wisconsin senator to Governor Wilson and would be willing to do all he could to bring about the success of the Democratic ticket. The telegram announcing Mr. Crane's acceptance of the governor's invitation to luncheon followed on the heels of this statement.

Governor Wilson conferred with Robert S. Hudspeth, William F. McCombs, Josephus Daniels, North Carolina's committeeman, and E. E. Grosscup, Democratic state chairman of New Jersey, upon the message which he will send to the national committee at Chicago Monday.

When the conference ended, Governor Wilson said that there had not been time to consider all the points involved in the message and that it might be modified at a further meeting which is schedule to be held today here. Messrs. McCombs, Hudspeth, Grosscup and Daniels expect to leave this afternoon to convey the message.

Marie's Birthday.

"Marie is going to have a birthday party."

"Really? How old will she be?"

"She was twenty-one last year."

"I see. After twenty they always use the minus sign."

"What do you mean?"

"We'll probably be invited to help celebrate her nineteenth birthday this time."

Possible Excuse.

"He certainly has no manners."

"What is the matter with him?"

MAYOR STONE OUTLINES DUTIES OF CUSTODIANS ADAMS ACADEMY

Lengthy Communication to Paul Revere Post on Their Assuming Responsibility

Building Now Being Put in Suitable Condition For Occupancy

As announced several days ago Mayor Stone with the consent of the supervisors of the Adams Temple and School Fund has appointed Paul Revere Post, G. A. R., custodians of the Adams Academy building until such time as the Supreme Judicial court shall have taken action on the petition of the city and supervisors for a new interpretation of the deeds of trust. The building is now being put in suitable condition for occupancy. Under an order passed by the City Council the Mayor was authorized to appoint the Grand Army post as custodians of the building upon such terms as seemed best. These terms are fully set forth in the following letter from Mayor Stone to Paul Revere post.

Paul Revere Post, No. 88,
G. A. R.
Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sirs:

In view of the many conflicting rumors concerning the terms on which it is proposed to constitute your Post custodian of the Adams Academy building, I deem it best to state fully in writing the city's position in the matter.

Several years ago—in fact during the administration of the late Mayor Thompson—the supervisors of the Adams Temple and School Fund forwarded to the City Government a communication requesting authority to petition the Supreme Court to so change and modify the terms of the gifts, creating the Adams Temple and School Fund, that the Academy building could be sold, and the proceeds together with the other funds belonging to the trust used to establish a classical course at the High school. This matter was referred to the Council, and out of respect for the late Dr. William Everett no action was taken in the premises other than closing the building, and the matter remained inactive until the attorney for the Supervisors, P. R. Blackmur Esq., this year again requested permission to petition the Supreme Court, as above stated. I referred the matter to the City Council, obtained permission by a unanimous vote to so petition the said Court, and have instructed the City Solicitor to take proper action to that end. In order that you may know that this action is not the result of any move initiated by the present administration for any ulterior purpose, let me recall to your mind the fact that when the subject was first before the City Council—and Mayor Thompson, the present City Solicitor, and Mr. Blackmur, both appeared before the City Council and urged that the Supervisors be instructed to institute proceedings to make the fund available for the children of this generation. I quote the following extracts from Mr. Blackmur's opinion to the Supervisors written that year:—

"The controlling purpose of the donor (John Adams) is fully and unmistakably stated in the beginning of the first deed to be his sincere desire to promote the happiness and instruction of the inhabitants of his ancestral and native town. To that end he gives lands, the income of which is to be used in building a church and supporting a school. It is in the second deed that he provides that a stone School House shall be erected on the Hancock lot,' and although it may be conceded the donor attached importance to this particular location, it is not to be resumed that he carried such intention so far that, under the radically different circumstances existing now, he would insist on the continuance of the location for the school, if such a course would result in defeating his dominating purpose in providing for such a school. The school was actually built on that lot and has been maintained there for many years, but the income is no longer sufficient to support such a school as the donor contemplated. At the time he made the gift, schools where a classical education could be obtained were extremely few, whereas now, it is safe to say, there are half a dozen excellently equipped classical schools which, through the wonderful improvement in the means of transportation since that day, are within easy reach of the inhabitants of Quincy . Moreover, the general law now requires the establishment of high schools, and these institutions have largely taken the place of the old academies. There is an excellent high school in Quincy, where books are supplied free of charge and courses in Greek and Latin are provided, and other branches necessary in preparation for college. The result is that the attendance at Adams Academy has greatly fallen off in the last few years. Another factor that has operated against a large attendance at the Academy is the more widespread desire for higher education, and the rapid increase in wealth that has enabled cities like Quincy to establish and maintain large high schools with a large corps of teachers and a diversified curriculum, while the same prosperous conditions have taken the scholars away from both the high schools and free academies and sent them to the excellent but expensive private schools and academies that abound in this section of the country.

One significant circumstance in itself proves the effect of these changed conditions on Adams Academy, and that is the discontinuance of the tuition fee of one hundred dollars per year that was formerly exacted from a majority of the pupils. Even in the face of this, the attendance as already observed, has rapidly declined until at present there are only about thirty scholars in the school; and the income in insufficient for meeting current expenses. Unless some new plan is devised for administering this charity, the result will be that the whole foundation will be exhausted in an attempt to carry out a provision that is already highly impracticable, and in the course of a few years will be absolutely impossible. In this state of affairs, I am of opinion that the court would either devise a scheme itself, or else refer the question to a master for that purpose, by which the dominating intent of the testator would be preserved, as in Attorney General vs. Briggs, 164 Mass. 561, and to that end I am of opinion the court would authorize the sale of the present Academy site and building and the employment of the income of the proceeds, together with the income of the remaining property, for the support of the classical department of the Quincy High School. It would be an easy matter to advise some way in which to perpetuate the name of the donor.

The other details of administration would, without difficulty, be provided for by the court in substantial accordance with the provisions of the deeds of gift."

"The fact that the supervisors and the city, as the successor of the town, are strongly in favor of some such plan of administration as outlined above, would not fail to have its weight with the court. Another circumstance that might remove a possible objection is that the oldest male person of the donor's posterity, to whom under the terms of the gift the property would revert in case of forfeiture, would also assent to the proposed modification, and would be willing to execute a release of any cause of action that he might have by reason thereof."

City Solicitor McAnarney advises me that he is today of the same opinion he was when he first appeared before the Council in support of the above action, and believes the Supreme

BROAD FIELD FOR THE WORK

Of Associated Charities Indicated by Secretary

The report of the secretary of the Associated Charities submitted to the executive committee at it's meeting July 9, seems to indicate that there is a broad field for the work of the society in Quincy and the members of the committee felt gratified by the cordial co-operation of the community in the work. The report was as follows

The first month, April, twenty-two families were brought to our attention and it was thought that May would show a falling off, however the reverse was true 30 new families came to us.

The third month, June has seen 14 referred to this office which it is thought will be somewhere near the average number in the future. This month has really been our busiest month and we have been able to accomplish more real work for the families than in the two previous months. We have been able among other things to organize an effort which has resulted in the removal of a widow and her five children to her former home where she can be better cared for and where her claim on the community for assistance was acknowledged. Five interested agencies worked together to accomplish this result. In another instance of a deserted wife in poor health with two small children good co-operation between public and private charity will ensure care for the family and make possible action, which will prevent the recurrence of a similar situation. These deserted wife problems are among the hardest that the social worker has to contend with. To illustrate the value to the community of co-operation with outside agencies:—A patient from a Tuberculosis Hospital returned to his home in Quincy, and reported himself cured, when the disease was merely arrested. By want of care he was exposing others to danger of contracting the disease and by neglect in continuing treatment was endangering his own life. After careful explanations and visits to the family, arrangements are under way for him to sleep out of doors and properly care for himself. There are now 125 families known to us. In three months beginning April 1st, 66 being referred to us for assistance. These families were called to our attention by 12 different agencies, the reason for referring was in 23 cases sickness, the remainder came because of poor home conditions, immortality, begging, need of material relief, etc.

The different agencies using Quincy's new Associated Charities comprise beside private individuals, Associated Charities in other cities, Child Helping Agencies, the State Social Service Workers in Boston, Hospitals. Overseers of the Poor, school teachers, clergymen, Day Nursery, District Nursing Association, King's Daughters, etc.

During the month of June donations were received as follows:—$5 from a friend, to be used in emergency relief and $2.55 from the Kathryn Crane Memorial club. A donation previously given and not acknowledged was a generous gift of clothing from the Needlewomen's Guild.

REAL ESTATE.

Papers have gone to record in the sale of property at 52 Marlboro street, Wollaston, by Henry G. Fay to Eva J. K. Stiles. It consists of a two and a half story frame dwelling and 6300 square feet of land, all assessed at a valuation of $4400. A E. Walker was the broker.

TRIED TO JUMP OVERBOARD

Eva Steer Frustrated in Effort by Officer Corbett

SISTERS HAD A QUARREL

Eva Steer, 17 years, of Clark avenue, was arrested by Officer Henry F. Corbett for safe-keeping about eight o'clock Sunday evening, after she had tried to jump overboard from the pier of the Boston Bay Steamboat company at Houghs Neck. The girl is the daughter of Max Steer and the police say that she has caused trouble in the past, so much so as to warrant continual attention. She is at present on probation until December.

The girl was engaged in a quarrel with her sister Etta on the pier. The trouble was the outcome of an effort of Etta to get her sister to go home with her. The latter refused and started to make things look lively. The two girls engaged in a tussle and it is said that Eva was just about to jump into the water, when William Thompson, who resides at Houghs Neck came to the scene and gave his assistance to Etta to stop the quarreling.

But the girl persisted in trying to jump overboard and only the prompt arrival of Officer Corbett prevented her from doing so. The trouble attracted a large number of residents to the scene.

DOZEN ENGAGED IN BATTLE

At Houghs Neck. Police Scattered Them. Arrested Three

AFFAIR A SMALL RIOT

Axel Mangs, 21 years, of 73 Gass Place, Arvid Sundstrom, 23 years of the same residence and William Lucas of Maxim's Lane, Houghs Neck, were arrested in front of Moore's summer ball room about ten o'clock Sunday evening, by officers Henry F. Corbett and William J. Hudson, charged with disturbing the peace. At the station Mangs and Sundstrom were also booked for alleged drunkenness.

The men in company with a gang of ten or twelve others, it was claimed engaged in a free for all fight. Many of them had just come over from Peddock's Island. It is not definitely known just how the fight started but for a time it seemed as if a riot was in progress. Fully two hundred residents of the beach were attracted to the scene of the battle. The police lost no time in getting down to action and when they appeared the crowd dispersed. Corbett made a dash for Lucas, who tried to get away by climbing up on a piazza in the vicinity of hotel Pandora.

Corbett kept up the chase and got his man, while Hudson managed to take two into custody. The men were taken to the fire station, Houghs Neck and were followed by the crowds that had gathered about. The police auto made a quick run and the three men were taken to the station-house in the city proper.

FINNISH CHURCH.

Rev. K. F. Hendricksen and Rev. Andrew Raketti of the Finnish Congregational Missionary Society, preached at the services in the Finnish Congregational church Sunday. The former preached at the morning service, while the latter occupied the pulpit in the evening.

Mrs. C. E. Thomas and two children of Braintree spent the past week with Mrs. Thomas' mother Mrs. Thorne of Douglas street. This week they are visiting Mr. Thomas' mother, Mrs. David Thomas of Bunker Hill.

GOOD ADVICE BY MR. LILLBACK

Follow the Ideal in Life—Above Worldly Things

FINNISH FIELD MEETING

The annual open air service of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Finnish Congregational church was held Sunday afternoon at the third field, Merrymount Park, and was attended by a large number of parishioners. The exercises opened with a prayer by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Lillback. This was followed by two selections by the choir.

A solo was rendered by A. W. Oksanen and a poem was read by Miss Amelia Salgren. A very able address on the "Goal in Life" was given by Pastor Lillback. In the course of his remarks, he alluded to the great Olympic games now being held in Sweden. He told of the care and zeal displayed by those athletes in an endeavor to bring home laurels to their respective countries. The energy displayed in the races was also the subject of much consideration and he concluded by urging all to follow that ideal in life which was above all worldly things.

The choir sang two selections and the meeting closed with all singing a psalm together. Refreshments were served at the close of the service. The committee in charge included Rev. J. E. Lillback, Miss Ida Maki, president of the society, Edward Johnson, John U. Vainionpwa and Miss Olga Manner.

NEEDLESS FIRE CALLS

Sent In, Giving the Men and Machines Unnecessary Runs

An alarm was sounded on the Wollaston circuit of the fire alarm from Box 515 shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday night. This box sounded on the Wollaston circuit but the circuit repeater at the Central Station being temporarily out of commission owing to the electrical storm the signal did not sound on the bells in City Square. It was received at the Central Station however. The alarm was a false one rung in by a small boy.

The entire system was in working order an hour later so that had an alarm been rung in it would have been repeated on all circuits.

The alarm from Box 26 at 7.33 Sunday evening was needless and was rung in by some excited individual. The cause was the blowing out of a fuse on a street car which caused a sheet of flame to burst out for a minute. There was no loss.

LYNCH DIED FROM SHOCK

James Lynch, aged 46, one of the most widely known residents of Quincy, died suddenly as a result of a shock, at the home of Daniel Donohue, with whom he resided, corner of Quarry and Smith streets about four o'clock Saturday afternoon. The deceased was for many years a faithful employee of the city and was connected with the water department.

He was a member of Division 5 A. O. H., Quincy Stone Cutters' Union and the Irish National Foresters. His funeral will take place from St. John's Church Tuesday morning at nine o'clock. Burial will be at St. Mary's Cemetery, Randolph.

The Quincy Yacht club has arranged with the street railway company for a special car to leave City Square for Houghs Neck at 7.40 on the nights when hops are held. The special car will return at 10.45 after the hop.

SENATOR BARNES CONDUCT AT CHICAGO CONVENTION APPROVED

Veteran Republican Claims It Was Redeeming Feature of Commonplace Gathering

Bay State Men Condemned For Failure to Organize

"Chicago Unveiled," is the title of an article on the Chicago Republican convention, written by a well-known writer, under the nom de plume, "Veteran Republican." The article is a long one, although well written. Among other things the writer says:

"Of all the Republican national conventions which I have attended—and I have not missed one since 1888—that which has just concluded its work in Chicago had least of distinction in its membership.

"There were two strong delegations which reminded one of former times, New York and Indiana; but on the whole it might almost be called a 'convention of nobodies.'

"What attracted attention to the Massachusetts delegation was its impotency. To those who have seen Massachusetts represented in national conventions by George F. Hoar, Henry Cabot Lodge, Murray Crane, John D. Long, Eben S. Draper and the long line of distinguished Republicans who have shed honor upon the state in the past, the spectacle presented was pathetic. For the first time in the history of the Republican party Massachusetts took no part whatever in the organization of the convention.

"Incidentally, there was a great deal of feeling among the Massachusetts men because Hale and Arthur Hill persisted in occupying chairs in the delegation to which they are not entitled. These two young men were continually trotting back and forth between the convention hall and the colonel's headquarters at the Congress hotel like trained poodles carrying messages and instructions between their teeth. After this had been going on for two days, it got on the nerves of the Roosevelt delegates and one of them went to the colonel to remonstrate. It was suggested to the colonel that if he had any instructions to give his delegates, he should do it directly and not by the self-appointed messengers.

"I know all about it!" exclaimed the colonel. "But try to get along with them as well as you can. You know I couldn't get the people I wanted in Massachusetts and these were the best I could find. Do try to put up with them! Only keep them away from me!" At the end of the second day after Hale had tried to carry the Massachusetts standard into the Roosevelt parade, George Barnes notified both Hill and Hale that if they appeared in the delegates seats again he would call a sergeant-at-arms and have them put out.

"That was the last of the infliction and the departure of the young men was no more acceptable to the Taft delegates than it was to the Roosevelt delegates, who had been squeezed two in a chair in order to make room for them. Massachusetts visitors at the convention were relieved when it came to a close and it was no long-

EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

That sick hen has travelled more than half way across the continent in a few weeks.

If the earth enjoyed the rain bath as much as some of the humans what a jolly old time it must have had.

The National teachers association is right up to date, as bolting the convention is now clamored on many sides.

Quincy workmen evidently absorb every writing or statement bearing upon their welfare, in an eminently intelligent manner.

The Pilgrims will start out on their tour, Saturday night. No objection is made to a brass band farewell, but an icy welcome would be preferred on the return.

Dr. Low's description of the Bull Moose, with T. R. side notes, is worth reading. The Doctor was relegated to the "Nature fakir," class by the colonel.

The busting up of the Greater Boston base ball league is evidence that there are leagues enough or else some of the minor league players expect too much for training for positions in the bigger leagues.

Members of the Finnish colony in Quincy have every reason to feel proud of their national representatives at the Stockholm Olympic games, and likewise a thrill at the manner in which the brothers of their adopted country are acquitting themselves.

Can any one offer any argument justifying those commercial meetings in the manly art of self defence? In recent years the variety of champion has increased to such an extent, that almost every boxer comes forward with a claim to a title, but a delving into the records fail to make good any such claim. Does any one believe that any community is advanced by them or that any individual is elevated by those exhibitions?

If Bryan did spare the feelings of Mrs. Taft by not lambasting her husband, he need not be so ungentlemanly as to spread it all over the country. Seriously speaking however it is a small claim for an apparently big man. President Taft's position, his every act, both private and official, does not leave the impression with any one that he is lacking in courage and dignity to escape criticism by hiding behind his wife's skirts. While this story was sent out for an apparent harmless purpose, an analysis shows that it is another small way of belittling the president, like the exploded firecracker of requesting him to withdraw. A few more such senseless shafts from supposedly big men and leaders will only manifest their exact stature and serve to increase the respect for the president and the high minded purpose of the man.

Gov. Foss is still talking of a special session of the legislature. He did well not to mention it before the cool wave arrived.

CANAL LEGISLATION HELD UP.

England has conveyed to this country a note that the proposed legislation regarding the Panama canal is not entirely to her liking and requests that further consideration be given the matter. This will lead to a great deal of correspondence much diplomatic talk and writing, and the end is looked for at the Hague Tribunal.

We had an idea that American money backed up by American intelligence, progressiveness, pluck, endurance and ability to cope with large problems had made the Panama canal possible.

Something over $375,000,000 will be expended by this country before the big ditch is completed and ready for the passage of the largest ships of the world. Naturally it would seem that if there was any preference, any leniency in tolls, etc., it would be passed out to American shipping. The sentiment in Congress at the present day favors such a course. American money, brains, and other accessories have brought the canal to its present state of perfection, has improved the conditions at the canal zone and made the country habitable and has elevated the standard of living and health conditions in the Latin countries. It seems only reasonable in view of what this country has done and accomplished that if there is to be any favors shown, American shipping should partake of it. We cannot see that any other position would be satisfactory to the country at large. Still we will not be selfish. Let the matter go to the Hague and that body win its wisdom will solve the problem to the satisfaction of all concerned.

THE MAN FROM HOME.

Ex-Representative Parks of Fall River who spoke at the Central Labor Union smoke talk, Thursday night, showed clearly to his auditors that "he was the man from home." There was a certain accent which he had not rid himself of which discovered his nationality even before he revealed it himself. Some of the men in asking questions, referred to the Workmen's compensation act of Great Britain. This has been in operation since 1896, but there are many ways in which it could be improved. For example it provides that the courts shall determine vital questions at issue. Under the Massachusetts act all points at issue are decided by the industrial commission from which there is no appeal. Several of the men referred to the English act, in comparing it with the local one and inquired if the same trouble would be encountered here. Mr. Parks answered in the negative. He said he had read about the English law. "Were you ever in Manchester?" was asked in a tone which indicated that this would be a clincher for the speaker. "I was born there," was the prompt reply, "and worked in the mills there until I was 17 years of age."

Other questions followed rapidly along the same lines, until each English locality had been represented had been exhausted, and Mr. Parks modestly admitted that he had been in each place, knew of conditions there some years back, he did no say just how many, jocosely referring to his 26 years, on this earth. He convinced them that in this case he was without question "The man from Home."

INTELLIGENT QUERIES.

The smoke talk of the Quincy Central Labor Union Thursday night of last week, was marked by one positive proof of the intelligence of the working men of this city and vicinity. Two important subjects bearing upon economic conditions were treated by speakers who had made a thorough study of their subjects and were presumed to be thoroughly familiar with the science which they would work out. The Savings bank insurance and Workmen's compensation act were under consideration. The speakers volunteered to answer questions which might be presented by the listeners.

The men drank in every word that was uttered by the speakers. That the former had in other ways attempted to post themselves upon the complex features of those two enactments was likewise apparent by the intelligence of their questions. In putting the questions every man quoted the speakers correctly. It was evident to the most casual observer that the men absorbed every statement and turned it over in every way. Such interest and intelligence speaks well for the workmen of Quincy. It places them on the level if not a little above the level of men of other places in the same walks of life. This is not meant to have assumed a mistaken idea of ignorance on the part of those men, but it so often happens that unthinking men presume that the laborer does not read and analyze and educate himself that it is a pleasure to point out such instances to refute this claim.

EMPIRE STATE IS PREPARING

Three Cornered Fight With Interesting Possibilities

NO MUD-SLINGING FOR WILSON

Hilles Will Open Headquarters Tomorrow—Progressives Have Regular Republicans Worried—Present State Election Law Makes Question of Presidential Electors a Guessing Contest—Roosevelt Will Tour

New York, July 15.—This week will see the beginning of the first real work of the presidential state campaigns in New York.

Charles D. Hilles, the Republican national chairman, will be here tomorrow to open formally the committee's headquarters in the Times building. Saturday the Republican state committee will meet to name presidential electors and to issue the call for the state convention.

Even greater activity will mark the councils of the National Progressive party, and by Wednesday it is expected that provisional chairmen will have been named for thirty counties.

It is an open secret at Republican state headquarters that the progressive movement is disturbing the commanders, from Chairman William Barnes, Jr., down.

Under the Levy law each voter next November will get two ballots, one containing the names of the state and local candidates and the other the names of the presidential electors. Thus two distinct physical and mental actions are required of the voter, and the leaders are wondering what will happen.

Under this system it would be possible—and the probability is being earnestly considered—for Roosevelt to capture the New York electors, even though the progressive state ticket did not show formidable strength. It might even be possible under the system for the Democratic electors to be successful while the Democratic state ticket was not.

Western Trip For Roosevelt

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 15.—Colonel Roosevelt devoted the greater portion of the day to dictating and revising his statement of principles, which is to be made public in advance of the bull moose convention in Chicago. He said he is still uncertain as to just when he will start on a flying trip of seven days in the west to make speeches in states where primaries are to be held.

It can be stated positively that Colonel Roosevelt hoped to avoid this trip, but his final judgment is that it is necessary. He will speak in friendly territory in Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. His managers tell him that there is no doubt that the primary vote will be in his favor, and he will thus be enabled to appear at the bull moose convention with three new victories to support the third party.

It is possible that the colonel may make a speech at the starting of the Michigan third party next Saturday under the same trees that witnessed the birth of the Republican party. He will be there, if possible, but he said that the pressure of work upon him was such that he did not see how he could start on a trip until the following week.

Wilson Will Use No Abuse

Washington, July 15.—Governor Wilson intends to make his campaign for the presidency entirely without attacks upon any other candidate and he intends also to direct personally every detail of the campaign. His rule against personal attacks he expects also to enforce with his campaign managers.

Governor Wilson settled these points in the course of a conference with Representative Charles B. Smith of Buffalo, who has returned to Washington. Mr. Smith is also a newspaper man himself.

"I had gone to see Governor Wilson," said Mr. Smith, "to bring to his attention the need of a well managed publicity bureau for the campaign. He assured me that he would at once take up the matter of organizing a press bureau. The choice of William F. McCombs as national chairman means that Governor Wilson will listen to everybody, consult with many, and then arrive at his own conclusions as to what is best.

"Though he did not commit himself directly on this point, I gathered from the general trend of his conversation that he would rather not make a speech-making tour, preferring to confine himself to publishing statements and should he finally decide to make campaign speeches they will be limited in number."

ANNULMENT OF MARRIAGE

Sought by Reginald K. Randall from Serena Randall

CLAIMS ILLEGALITY

Reginald K. Randall of Quincy has filed in the office of the clerk of Norfolk County at Dedham a petition for the annulment of his marriage with Serena Randall, otherwise known as Theresa S. Ford of Boston.

The grounds on which the action is based are unusual in that at the time they were married it is alleged she had no legal right to enter into a marriage contract with any one.

She was a former wife of Leander M. Ford, from whom she obtained a divorce in Suffolk County, the decree nisi being granted October 23, 1911, the divorce becoming absolute April 23, 1912.

The marriage ceremony between Randall and Mrs. Ford according to his claim took place March 15, 1912, prior to the divorce becoming absolute.

Randall says in his petition that not only was the marriage at a time when it was illegal for Mrs. Ford to marry any one, but that it was deliberately done in an intentional evasion of law, for he says that "the marriage took place before six months had elapsed and they went to New Hampshire in order to evade the law."

An additional feature he claims is that they have never lived together since being married.

BOSTON LIGHT CONQUERED

Four Swimmers Make the Distance In Same Conest

Boston, July 15.—Amidst the shrieking of whistles which boomed forth triumphantly over the dark blue waters and the terrific cheers which burst forth simultaneously from several hundred throats, Sam Richards, the South Boston swimmer, added fresh lustre to his fame yesterday when he reached Boston light for the second time in the record-breaking time of 5 hours 15 minutes 40 4-5 seconds.

Henry T. Sullivan of Lowell, John Bray of East Boston and Augustus Wise of South Boston also caused their names to be placed on the scroll of honor by the accomplishment of this remarkable feat.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Anncuncements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH.

"Now Abideth" was the subject of an interesting sermon at the Hall Place M. E. church, Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. T. C. Martin. He took as his text 1st Cor. 13-13.

Miss Helen Martin was the soloist. The Quarterly report of the Treasurer was read.

Sunday school was held at the close of the morning service.

At the seven o'clock service the pastor preached on "Cheap things in this day of high prices." His text was taken from Isaiah 55-1, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money, come ye, buy and eat, yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price."

The Sunday school picnic which was to be held at Ridge Hill Grove has been changed and the Sunday school will go to Highland Park. The cars will leave the West Quincy depot at 9.10 A. M., Wednesday, July 17, if pleasant. If weather is stormy the picnic will be held the first pleasant day. If the picnic is to be postponed on account of doubtful weather the church bell will be rung at 8.30 A. M.

Prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7.30.

PLAYGROUND ATTENDANCE

Last Week Eclipsed All Previous Records

All records for Playground attendance for the opening week were broken by last week's figures. Ward Three, under the direction of Miss Elwell and Henry Trask took the honors with a total attendance of 1,325, 725 boys and 600 girls. Ward One in charge of Mrs. Boller and Fred Kingsbury, was a close second with a mark of 1,297, 707 boys and 590 girls. Ward Four had a very good week considering the location of the playground and totalled 600 in all, 325 boys and 275 girls. Miss Ross and Alexander Robertson being in charge of this work.

A "round robin" quoit tournament was conducted at Ward Four for boys and in the younger boys' match, Tommy Haggarty was the winner. In the older boys tournament Ralph Goslin carried off the honors.

Tuesday afternoon at Ward Three, the first contest in the all around championship will be held, with the running broad jump and the 50 yard dash as the event. The dash will commence promptly at 3 o'clock. The events will be open to both boys and girls.

CIGARETTE CAUSED FIRE

Prompt Action of Firemen Prevented Big Blaze

A still alarm called the Houghs Neck fire apparatus to the Pandora hotel, Sunday afternoon for a blaze on the piazza caused by a cigarette but which somebody had thrown there. James Malone and Andrew Scully, the firemen attached to the Houghs Neck house, were quick to arrive and extinguished the blaze which caused only a slight damage.

DIED IN SCHENECTADY.

PARISHIONERS NEAR AND FAR

Gathered to Attend Reunion of St. Mary's Church

WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL

Fully 2000 parishioners attended the annual midsummer lawn party of St. Mary's Catholic church, Saturday afternoon and evening on the grounds surrounding the parochial residence. Weather conditions were ideal for the event, which was pronounced the best in the history of the church. Many guests were present, among whom were Mayor Eugene R. Stone and city officials, Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic, Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Scannell, assistant pastor of St. John's Church Rev. Philip McCormick of Milton, who was recently ordained for a diocese in Alabama.

The grounds were laid out in most artistic style, and all the booths were handsomely decorated. A large dancing stage was erected in one corner of the field and dancing was enjoyed both afternoon and evening, until 11.30 o'clock, to the strains of Morrisette's orchestra. In the evening a display of electric lights and Japanese lanterns added great brilliancy to the scene.

All the children of the Sunday school attended in the afternoon and a feature of the program was the automobile rides which were enjoyed by the little ones. In the evening there was a fine display of fireworks. Both Rev. Fr. Henry T. Grady, pastor and his assistant Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy were on the grounds during the greater part of the time and gave great assistance to the various committees, headed by Ex-Mayor William T. Shea, who looked after the guests and saw that everything was carried out in satisfactory form.

A feature which had been billed as the attraction of the evening was a tug of war match. Members of Ave Maria and Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, were booked to compete, but the failure of the former to put in an appearance caused the West Quincy team to encounter a picked combination. The latter was captained by Edward Bennett, the well known prize fighter, and carried off the honors.

A fine program of athletic events was run off in the afternoon for boys and girls of the church by a committee composed of Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy, Robert Teasdale, John Barron and William McDonald.

100 yard dash—Won by John Connelly.

40 yard dash—Won by Joseph Connolly.

Potato race—Won by John Collins.

Sack race—Won by Edward Knight.

Race for small boys—Won by Ernest Readdy.

Three legged race—Won by Patrick Stanton and Patrick O'Connell.

Three legged race for girls—Won by Caroline Fitzgerald and Mary Manning.

Race for small girls—Won by Mabel Duggan.

MISS KENILEY DEAD.

The many friends of Miss Mary L. Keniley, the 17 year old daughter of Daniel H. Keniley, were sorry to be informed of her death, which occurred Sunday afternoon at the Mt. Pleasant tuberculosis camp. The deceased was a niece of Jeremiah Keniley, the inspector of plumbing. Her funeral will be held Tuesday morning from the residence fo her aunt Mrs. Mary E. Driscoll, 22 Franklin street. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Mary's church and burial will be at St. Mary's cemetery in West Quincy.

MAYOR OUTLINES DUTIES

Court should and will grant the city's request.

For several years there has been more or less indefinite talk by our citizens about doing something to commemorate the services of Quincy soldiers who served in the Civil War, either by erecting a memorial hall, or otherwise, but no one seems to have cared to take the initiative, and the years have been slipping by without any just recognition of the sacrifices of the men who in that war offered their all that our government and its free institutions might be perpetuated among men.

I have for years protested against such neglect and have always felt it a reflection on our City's good name that no appropriate monument has been erected to those men. So when my attention was called to the contemplated abandonment of the Adams Academy, and its site as an Academy, it occurred to me that the building although no longer adaptable for school purposes would make an ideal memorial hall, the care of which could be given to the Paul Revere Post of the G. A. R.

It seemed to me that the public spirit of the people of Quincy could be easily aroused, and by popular public subscription, fairs, lawn parties and other social functions, sufficient money could readily be raised to acquire this property and then it could be dedicated to the memory of the valor of Quincy Soldiers. Accordingly I had an order introduced in the City Council giving me authority to vest the care of this building and the adjoining land in you. The Council, by its unanimous action, approved my purpose, and the Supervisors later by their action likewise lent their sanction thereto. My attention has been called to the form of the vote of the Supervisors—and the fear your Post might have that the Supervisors might later on for some whimsical reason, seek to eject you from the building——let me advise you gentlemen that as a matter of law, the City Government and not the Supervisors has the sole power to care for the building. It is true that without objection they have been permitted in the past to exercise control over the Academy and its funds, but I am advised by the City Solicitor that so far as the building is concerned this has been by courtesy of the City Government, and not because they were legally vested with the control thereof.

The proposition the City makes to you gentlemen may be briefly stated to be,—

1. The Paul Revere Post G. A. R. to take possession of the Adams Academy—to continue to occupy it—as tenant at will, paying its own lighting, heating and janitor charges, and during its occupancy to make such repairs as may be necessary.

The G. A. R. to have the privilege of subletting to the Sons of Veterans, Spanish War Veterans and their allied auxiliaries.

2. If the Supreme Court decides that the fund may be used to support a classical course at the High School, and the building sold, then an effort be made by all the citizens to raise a fund to purchase at a fair valuation the Academy building and grounds as a memorial hall for the G. A. R. Failing to raise said money that a fair value be placed on said property and a lease for a term of years at rental sufficient to pay 4 per cent on said valuation be effected between the City and the G. A. R.

3. If the Court decides that the fund can not be used in connection with our High School, then the fund must be placed at interest for a generation, and I can see no reasonable objection to allowing the property to be cared for by the G. A. R. instead of remaining vacant and in that event the City could allow the G. A. R. to use the property as above indicated in proposition No. 1.

There is only one possible contingency which in my opinion would prevent the G. A. R. from continuing to occupy the premises and that is in the event of the Court deciding that the property must either remain vacant or else have a building thereon which can be used only for school purposes, and I am advised that it is highly impossible that any such a decree would be made by the Court.

Of course I cannot guarantee what any future administration may do, I can only speak for myself and the City so long as I am mayor, but as a practical proposition I do not believe that any administration will ever exist in Quincy which would without just cause expel the G. A. A. from the premises after it was once installed therein. It needs no prophet to predict a short and stormy career for such an administration.

Now gentlemen do not be unduly influenced by anything I may have stated in this letter. I have stated to you the facts and my views relating to the movement, but the responsibility for action must ultimately rest in you. I do, however, wish you to feel, no matter what your decision may be, that in the future as in the past, I shall be a well wisher of your Post, and shall always render it any assistance in my power, either as a private citizen or a public official.

Yours truly,
Eugene R. Stone,
Mayor of Quincy.

ADAMS HAS WORD TO SAY

About Committees' Activity Regarding Old School

Editor Daily Ledger:

Mr. Whiting, who is a past master in the art of dissecting our city's finances and other statistics, appears to have given the School Committee a bad half hour and a dose of their own statistics. In looking over the School Committee's reports I have often wondered if any person ever took the pains to study them. I see that at least one citizen has and has deducted some conclusions which places the Committee in an unfavorable light so far as the old Wollaston school lot is concerned. Their argument, as presented by their chairman, has been shattered.

If the citizens of Wollaston had first presented their Safford Park project to the School Committee and asked for permission to petition the Council for the right to have the lot turned into a park, and the old buildings cleared off, all would have been well. But unfortunately the Committee was forgotten and the petitioners went before the Council thus hurting the dignity of the Committee and placing it in a secondary position.

And it now appears as if, in order to save their face, they would assert their injured dignity and attempt to squelch the whole park project so dear to the Wollastonians.

The letter which the Committee issued through its Chairman was peculiarly weak as any one conversant with the situation at Wollaston knows that the new Wollaston school utilized in connection with the huge (for its location) Montclair school will take care of the pupils residing on the west side of the New Haven track, for many years to come.

SENATOR BARNES' CONDUCT

er possible for the delegation to make monkeys of themselves. There was only one redeeming feature to it all. That was the dignified bearing and straightforward conduct of State Senator George L. Barnes, who handled himself admirably under trying conditions. In what has been said of the Roosevelt delegates, however, it must not be assumed that all were included.

"I have been told since the convention that some of the Massachusetts delegates were grieved because, when the delegates-at-large refused to vote, the names of the alternates were called in their stead. No other course was open to an orderly conduct of the convention. The alternates were there and Massachusetts had a right to representation when the delegates shirked their duty. The anger of the Roosevelt delegates was due doubtless to the public attention thus called to the fact that the state had chosen Taft alternates-at-large, thus emphasizing the tainted title of the delegates-at-large."

OLD RESIDENT PASSED AWAY

Charles H. Brigham Sincerely Mourned at Wollaston

With the death of Charles H. Brigham, Wollaston loses one of its old residents and a prominent citizen.

Coming to Wollaston in 1880 in the 32 years of his residence his genial personality and genuineness brought him many warm friends who mourn his loss.

Mr. Brigham was born in East Boston in 1854 and grew up from a boy in the shoe concern of Hayden, Gardiner and company of Boston. With the failure of this firm he became connected with several different enterprises and finally became associated with his brother Tyler Brigham, dealing in shirt waists and ladies' garments. In this he was eminently successful and continued in the business until his death.

Mr. Brigham was taken ill in March and suffered a complication of diseases the end coming last Thursday morning with an attack of heart failure.

The funeral was held from his late home on Prospect avenue, Saturday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph Walther, a near neighbor.

The services were largely attended and there was a wealth of floral tributes. The interment was at Mount Wollaston cemetery.

The deceased was active in the affairs of the Wollaston Unitarian church and was an ex-president of the Unitarian club and a member of the Rural lodge of Masons.

He is survived by a widow and a son, E. Tyler Brigham of Lincoln avenue.

POPULARITY OF CONCERTS

At Wollaston Club Gaining as Shown by Attendance

The second in the series of Sunday afternoon concerts was held on the plazzas of the Wollaston Yacht club yesterday, the increased attendance proving that this feature has struck a popular note with the club members and their friends.

A program of twelve numbers by Provost's orchestra was enjoyed. A 'cello solo "Traumerli" by Shuman was played by Master Theodore Smith and several selected vocal solos were sung by Adolph Restelli.

The orchestral program follows:

March—Suburbanite,	Taubert
Overture—The Scarlet Crow,	Bennett
Intermezzo—Garden of Roses,	Pratt
Waltz—Treasure Trove,	Whiting
Selection—Faust,	Gounod
Reverie—Wayside Chapel,	Wilson
Overture—Orphans,	Offenbach
Waltz—Spying Cupid,	Rolfe
March—Diplomat	Sousa

FRISKY HORSE BROKE WHEEL

Owner Now Wants the City to Settle for $35

C. Leander was riding a bicycle on Copeland street a few days ago when one of the firemen attached to the West Quincy house was out exercising his horses. The horse evidently did not like the looks of the bicycle for as he passed he let fly his heels with the result that the bicycle was put out of commission. Leander was also knocked off the wheel but escaped injury. Now he sends a bill of $35 to the city to replace the bicycle.

FLEET MOVEMENTS.

The Marblehead-New York race for power cruisers will be started July 27 by the Corinthian Yacht Club. The course is about 270 miles and it is expected that eight or ten craft under 40 feet over all will participate. The racers will reach Marblehead in season for measurement and placing aboard of fuel and supplies.

John T. Cavanaugh of Quincy is bringing the 25-foot sloop Meemer around the cape from Falmouth and will enter her in the next race of the inter-club, at Winthrop, July 20, in class A. The Meemer is a Hanley design and has been owned several years by O. C. Sanborn of Winchester.

Messrs. R. E. Winslow and Wadsworth Winslow of the Quincy Yacht Club have bought the class I 18-footer the Vanken of F. D. Riley. The boat was built by the David Fenton Company from designs by Boardman, and is considered one of the best cruisers in the class. The Vanken will be raced in class I, and will probably be taken on the cruise of the Boston Yacht club.

QUINCY MAN ENGAGED.

Considerable interest is felt in society in Baltimore and Quincy over the engagement just announced of Miss Katherine Andrews of Brookline to Mr. Henry Edgeworth Frick of Quincy. Mr. Frick is a son of Mrs William Frick and a brother of Miss Mary Frick of Baltimore, where for several years they have made their home at the Stafford. The entire family connection is one of the most important in the Monumental City Mrs. Henry Barton Jacobs, one of its leading members being a first cousin of Mr. Henry Edgeworth Frick, who was exceedingly prominent and popular in the society and fashionable club circles of Baltimore until a few years ago, when he took up his residence in Quincy.

Preceptor Cleveland and Mrs. Cilley Are Missing From Exeter

Exeter, N. H., July 15.—The people of this town are stirred at the continued absence of Walter C. Cleveland, preceptor of Phillips Exeter academy and a Harvard graduate of 1904. Mr. Cleveland left town in his automobile late last Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Laburton Cilley, wife of "Burt" Cilley and a descendant of General Joseph Cilley of Revolutionary days, has also been missing from her home since Wednesday. Mrs. Cilley is about 30 years old and has two small children. Mr. Cleveland has one daughter, Marion, 11 years old. He is about 32 years old, of pleasing address, and has held high standing in the community.

Mrs. Cilley is the adopted daughter of Dr. Joyce of East Kingston, a man of large means. She was married at East Kingston and has been prominent in social affairs since coming here.

The pair are said to have gone to Portsmouth in Cleveland's automobile. From there Cleveland, it is said, sent a letter to his wife inclosing the garage ticket of the automobile and asking her to dispose of his personal effects.

Not Very Flattering.

Mary met Emily on the street. They had not seen each other for many years.

"Why, how do you do?" exclaimed Mary, effusively, topping off the salutation with a few vague pecks at Emily's face.

"Now, this is delightful," said Emily, who was older than Mary. "You haven't seen me for eleven years, and yet you knew me at once. I couldn't have changed so dreadfully in all that time. It flatters me."

Said Mary:

"I recognized your bonnet."—Popular Magazine.

Bothered by Plurals.

The Norwegian waitress who was learning English had more trouble with her plurals than with any other one thing. It seemed impossible for her to acquire the trick of putting on the letter "s" at the right time and leaving it off at others. She would invariably inquire on seeing a first helping disposed of, "Will you have more lambs?" or "Will you eat more chickens?" When corrected for this she would take pains to ask, "Will you have one bean?" and "Will you eat one huckleberry?" Finally the constant explanations of an overzealous mistress confused her past straightening out. There were guests staying over the week end, and Inga took the lady's order for a soft boiled egg, then the husband's for another. The girl, after a moment's hesitation, walked to the dumb waiter and said to the kitchen below, "One soft boiled egg for two!"—New York Press.

Norfolk, ss. LAND COURT
vs.
CLIFFORD A. LUCE
EMILY W. LUCE
and
MABEL R. LUCE.
PETITION TO DISCHARGE MORTGAGE.

Respectfully represents Adelaide M. Tupper of Cambridge, County of Middlesex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, that she is the owner in fee simple absolute of a certain piece or parcel of land in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, aforesaid Commonwealth, called Wollaston, being lot ten (10) in block three (3) as shown on said plan of said section drawn by D. Granger & Son and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, at the end of Book 403, and bounded and described as follows:—Northeasterly on Central Avenue, seventy-five feet; Southeasterly on lot number nine in said block one hundred and twenty-five feet; Southwesterly on lot eight in said block seventy-five feet; and Northwesterly on lot eleven in said block one hundred and twenty-five feet. Containing 9413 square feet. Being premises conveyed to your petitioner by deed of Lafayette G. Blair dated October 21, 1886, and recorded in Norfolk Deeds, Book 584, page 82.

That your petitioner upon the 21st day of October, 1886 conveyed by mortgage deed, for the alleged consideration of one dollar et al, the said estate to Clifford A. Luce, guardian of Emily W. Luce and Mabel R. Luce of Rochester, New York; that your petitioner at the same time gave a note of even date signed by her for the sum of two hundred dollars payable in five years; that the record title is encumbered by said mortgage; that your petitioner has during all this time and still holds full absolute, open undisputed and uninterrupted possession of the said premises under claim of right in fee simple absolute. Said possession being for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time limited in the mortgage for full performance of the condition thereof. Said mortgage is recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 584, Page 83.

That the said defendants never have nor do they now exercise any right in said premises.

That your petitioner has done no acts in recognition of the mortgage note or mortgage deed since it became due.

That the Statute of Limitations bars action as against both the mortgage note and mortgage deed.

WHEREFORE your petitioner prays that the said mortgage be discharged and for such further relief as the Honorable Court may deem proper.

By her Attorneys,

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Reve helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

Mrs. Comstock held the message a long time. When she arose she was ravenously hungry, but the pain in her heart was a little easier. She went to a restaurant and got some food, then to a dressmaker. At night she was so tired she scarcely could walk home, but she built a fire and cooked and ate a hearty meal.

Later she went out by the west fence and gathered an armful of tansy, which she boiled to a thick green tea. Then she stirred in oatmeal until it was a stiff paste. She spread a sheet over her bed and began tearing strips of old muslin. She bandaged each hand and arm with the mixture and plastered the soggy, evil smelling stuff in a thick poultice over her face and neck. She was so tired she had to sleep, and when she awoke she was half skinned. She bathed her face and hands, did the work and went back to town, coming home at night to go through the same process.

By the third morning she was a raw, even red; the fourth she had faded to a brilliant pink under the soothing influence of a cream recommended. That day came a letter from Elnora saying that she could not come home until after school Monday night. That suited Mrs. Comstock, and she at once answered the letter saying so.

"Mother!" she cried. "You my mother! I don't believe it!"

The next day Mrs. Comstock was a pale pink and the following a delicate porcelain white. That day she went to a hairdresser and had the great rope of snowy hair which covered her scalp washed and dressed.

Then she went home, rested and worked by turns until Monday. When school closed on that evening and Elnora, so tired she almost trembled, came down the long walk after a late session of teachers' meeting a messenger boy stopped her.

"There's a lady wants to see you most important. I am to take you to the place," he said.

Elnora groaned. She could not imagine who wanted her, but there was nothing to do but go and find out.

"This is the place," said the boy, and went his way, whistling. Elnora was three blocks from the high school building on the same street. She was before a quaint old house, fresh with paint and covered with vines.

Inside she could see bare polished floors, walls freshly papered in low toned harmonious colors, straw rugs and madras curtains. It seemed to be a restful, homelike place to which she had come, and a second later down an open stairway came a tall, dark eyed woman with cheeks faintly pink and a crown of fluffy snow white hair.

Elnora stepped inside the door. "Mother!" she cried. "You my mother! I don't believe it! You are perfectly beautiful, and this house is a little paradise, but how will we ever pay for it? We can't afford it!"

"Humph! Have you forgotten I telegraphed you I'd found some money I didn't know about? All I've done is paid for and plenty more to settle for all I propose to do."

Mrs. Comstock glanced around with supreme satisfaction.

"I may get homesick as a pup before spring," she said, "but if I do I can go back. If I don't I'll sell some timber and put a few oil wells where they don't show much. I can have land enough cleared for a few fields and put a tenant on our farm, and we will buy this and settle here. It's for sale."

Mrs. Comstock invited Elnora's friends to visit her and proved herself a bright and interesting hostess. She digested a subject before she spoke, and when she advanced a view her point was sure to be original and tersely expressed. Before three months people waited to hear what she had to say.

Elnora never mentioned Philip Ammon, neither did Mrs. Comstock. Early in December came a note and a big box from him. It contained several books on nature subjects which would be a great help in school work and a number of conveniences Elnora could not afford. Soon after Elnora wrote Ammon:

Dear Friend—I am writing to thank you for the books and the box of conveniences sent me for my work. I can use everything with fine results. Hope I am giving good satisfaction in my position. You will be interested to learn that when the summer's work was classified and pinned I again had my complete collection save a yellow Emperor. I have tried everywhere I know. So has the Bird Woman. We cannot find a pair for sale. Fate is against me, at least this season. I shall have to wait until next year and try again.

Thank you very much for helping me with my collection and for the books and things. Sincerely yours,
ELNORA COMSTOCK.

Ammon was disappointed over that note and instead of keeping it he tore it into bits and dropped them into the wastebasket.

Throughout the winter Elnora and her mother enjoyed the city thoroughly and the change of life it afforded, but signs of spring did wonderful things to the hearts of the country bred women. They decided to keep the city house during the summer, but to go back to the farm to live just as soon as school closed.

A BIT OF ADVICE

First—Don't Delay. Second—Don't Experiment.

If you suffer from backache; headaches or dizzy spells; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning; if the kidney secretions are irregular and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. The kidneys are calling for help. Slight symptoms of kidney trouble are but fore-runners of more serious complaints. They should be given attention before it is too late.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure kidney trouble. They are recommended by thousands. Can Quincy residents desire more convincing proof than the statement of a Quincy citizen who says that the cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected years ago has proven permanent?

W. Charlesworth, 33 Cranch St., Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly an effective kidney medicine. They fixed me up in good shape some years ago, and since then I have had no kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HEADQUARTERS NOW IN BOSTON

New Haven Road Makes Move For Convenience

The headquarters of the New Haven road are now officially established in Boston at the South Station.

It has been admitted by the New Haven that the official headquarters of the system will henceforth be in Boston and, while it could not be learned just what effect this will have on the city of New Haven, the sweeping admission was made that all supplies, from the smallest to the largest, will be bought in Boston from now on and have, in fact, been bought here for about a year. A goodly portion of these supplies were formerly purchased in New Haven.

It has been announced that four of the New Haven's "biggest men" have now established their headquarters in the new South station annex. These are President Mellen, H. J. Horn, operating vice-president of the system: H. A. Fabian, manager of purchases and supplies, and Vice-President Timothy Byrnes. Other officials from the B. & M. and from the New Haven offices are soon to take up quarters in the same building.

It was also stated that this change in headquarters is done purely "as a matter of convenience, for the New Haven is now doing more business in Boston than ever before."

JOHN SPEAR FOUND DEAD

At the Bottom of an Elevator Well in Boston

John M. Spear aged 55 years a former resident of Quincy and a son of Warren Spear was found dead at the bottom of an elevator well at 174 Portland street, Sunday morning. Mr. Spear was employed as a night watchman for Heyward Bros. Sunday morning when the day watchman David Flynn came on duty at 7.30 he saw the door of the elevator well open on the third floor and the car at the floor above. He failed to find Mr. Spear but later finding his clothing hanging in his locker began a search and found him dead at the bottom of the well. Medical Examiner Watters who was called gave it as his opinion that Mr. Spear met his death as a result of an accident.

Mr. Spear was married and lived at 78 Marshall street Somerville. He was born in Quincy and lived here many years and is well known to many of the older residents of the city.

Landed Them a Victory When Defeat Seemed Sure

QUINCY A. A. VICTIMS

After holding a safe lead for seven innings, the Quincy A. A. players weakened in the two following sessions and allowed Makaria to canter off with a 5 to 3 victory on the Water street grounds Saturday afternoon. Up to this stage of the game Hebert had pitched superb ball, but when the Makarias succeeded in fathoming his delivery, their hitting was determined and bunched.

With this victory, Makaria is now tied with Quincy A. A. for second place in the league. Brittingham was effective at all stages, allowing his opponets but four hits.

The features of the game were the playing of McKenzie, Nicoll and M. Chapman for the winners and Ryan, McDonald and McCarthy for the losers.

HOLBROOK WALLOPED

West Quincy Administered Dose Saturday Afternoon

West Quincy had an easy time with Holbrook, at Holbrook, Saturday, returning home with a 15 to 4 victory. Mulhern and Wood both pitched for the winners and kept control of the situation at all times. The winners made 18 hits, against 12 for Holbrook.

Desmond and Mannex played best for the winners, while Kelley did great work for Holbrook.

The game was featured by the batting of the visitors and the fielding of Mannix. The game was the fourth win for the West Enders in a row. Manager Barry's team will play the South Quincy team next Saturday.

THIRTEEN KILLED IN ILLINOIS

Another Rear-End Collision Takes Death Toll

Chicago, July 15.—Thirteen persons were killed and fifteen to twenty were injured in a wreck on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad at Western Springs, a suburb of Chicago, at 6:30 a. m. Sunday. Among the injured are Mr. and Mrs. Warren P. Dudley of Belmont, Mass. Mr. Dudley is secretary of the Massachusetts civil service commission with offices in Boston.

Coming through a fog with supposedly a clear track ahead, train No. 8, a fast mail, ran at full speed into the rear of train No. 2, known as the Overland express from Denver, which was standing still on the track, telescoping two of the Overland Pullman cars.

Railroad officials refused to fix the blame until after the wreck had been investigated thoroughly. Mrs. F. A. Wilcox, who was in charge of the tower from which the block signals were controlled, said she was certain the black was thrown against both trains. She collapsed after the accident and still is in a highly nervous condition.

WESTERN STATES WRECKED

By Cyclones That Kill, Injure and Devastate In Two States

Grand Rapids, July 15.—A cyclone struck this city and vicinity and injured at least fifty persons. Thousands of dollars' worth of damage was done to buildings of the city and suburbs.

Kenosha, Wis., July 15.—One woman was killed and many persons were injured in a cyclone which passed through the suburbs of this city. The storm was the most severe known in this section of the state in many years and it left a path of desolation behind. Houses were blown down, trees uprooted, barns collapsed and crops ruined.

Minneapolis, July 15.—Three persons were killed and thirteen injured by a cyclone that swept Hennepin and Ramsey counties, which include Minneapolis and St. Paul. The property damage is $100,000.

PEOPLE'S BANKS WINNING

Postal Savings Cause a Most Successful Financial Quarter

Washington, July 15.—The largest three months' business in the history of the postal service is shown by the latest financial statement.

There was a marked falling off in the volume of money sent abroad during the nine months, while the number of domestic money orders issued increased more than 5½ percent. Money sent out of the country through international money orders decreased $10,483,531.30, as compared with the same period of last year.

This change is attributed by the department to the establishment of the postal savings system.

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 27 No. 165 QUINCY, MASS., TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 16, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

PROMISE OF RISE IN PRICE OF COAL OWING TO SHORT SUPPLY

Shut Down of Mines Led to Demands Which Are Now Having Their Effects

Shortage of Cars Blamed For Lack of Boston Supply

Mercy! Boston is threatened with a shortage of coal, which means an advance in the price. As Quincy is so close to Boston she may be affected by this change in price. In Boston it is said that the price will be advanced 50 cents a ton by September first.

Only a short time ago, the coal barons advanced the price 25 cents per ton to reimburse them for a three cent raise to the miners for the labor.

The shortage of cars to transport the coal from the mines to Boston is now charged with the alleged shortage. The Boston supply is only about two thirds of the normal.

Although the coal dealers of the city do not make the same statements in regard to the prices of coal between now and September, still all seem to be of the opinion that coal is as low in price now as it will be at any time this year. The Ledger got in touch with three prominent coal dealers of the city this morning, in an effort to ascertain whether there would be any advance in prices or not.

At the office of the J. F. Sheppard & Sons Company it was stated that an increase in price may be expected at any time and that coal is now at its lowest price.

Cyrus Patch & Company said that the price of coal is uncertain, that it was liable to go up or come down but that it was not likely that any change would take place immediately.

At the office of William Cashman, West Quincy, the information was given out that the price would not be changed until September first. Then it was declared that the prices would be higher.

During the recent shutdown of mines everybody begged for half a ton at least. When the warm weather arrived coal was forgotten and all that filled the mind was vacation plans. The result is that bins are empty and practically all the orders on the books of dealers are for September delivery.

Probably more cars are being used at the present time for the carrying of coal than ever before, but most of them are on their way back to the mines. It is expected that weeks will come and go before Boston will receive enough coal for its needs, although there is prospect that all possibilities of a shortage will be obviated before next winter.

During the seven weeks' suspension of the mines the country went behind over 12,000,000 tons, and since that time every available car and barge has been pressed into service. One cause of the shortage of freight cars is the extra heavy demands of the steel trade.

Boston dealers said yesterday that practically no coal is being delivered, although inducement prices are being offered. Beginning this month whole salers will be compelled to pay 10 cents extra per ton, and there will be an advance of 10 cents per month until the winter price is reached. Consumers who neglect to order now will have to pay 50 cents extra. The first jump will probably come in September.

Reports from the mines show that coal is being taken out a little faster than called for, but, owing to the fact that most of the cars are headed toward the fields, the distribution will be by fits and starts. Every effort is being made by the railroads to bring about an equitable distribution of cars. Little relief can be expected from tidewater supplies as all barges are in use and there is a growing agreement among owners of craft that the rate should advance.

All Nations in the Stockholm Olympic Games

SWEDEN SECOND ON LIST

Monday the last day of the fourth annual Olympic games at the Stockholm stadium was devoid of sensation. The United States easily led the procession in the total number of points scored:

The bestowal of the prizes by the King, who placed laurel wreaths on the heads of the victors and shook hands with all the winners, took place in the Stadium. The American team led the march of triumphal athletes.

The triumphs of the day were divided for the most part between the United States and the Northern Nations. The latter, particularly Sweden, scored a number of points in wrestling and aquatic sports, in which the Americans did not figure.

Fired Two Shots Through His Brain in Bath Tub

Former Senator George P. Sanger committed suicide by shooting himself twice through the mouth with a revolver yesterday afternoon, at his apartments in the Hotel Ludlow, at the corner of Clarendon street and St. James avenue, Boston.

The body was found sitting up in the bath tub.

No cause is assigned for the tragic deed.

FOSS SEEKING THIRD TERM

GOV. EUGENE N. FOSS.

HON. LOUIS A. FROTHINGHAM.

HON. JOSEPH WALKER.

Gubernatorial Possibilities

Gov. Eugene N. Foss has at last decided that he will be a candidate for a third term. He is the second Democratic candidate to seek the third term honor.

General Benjamin F. Butler, after many years trial, landed at the state house, one year, and conducted the famous Tewksbury investigation.

In the early nineties, Gov. William E. Russell was elected three successive terms, the last time by the narrow margin of less than 3000 votes.

Gov. William L. Douglas, had one term, saw the handwriting on the wall, and declined to be a candidate for re-election.

Gov. Foss tossed his hat into the ring yesterday.

Hon. David I. Walsh of Fitchburg will take second place on the ticket, the same as last year.

Gov. Foss' announcement has in no wise changed the plans of district attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, will remain in the contest for the democratic nomination and will have as a running mate Hon. Edward P. Barry.

On the republican side of the house Hon. Joseph Walker is an avowed candidate. The position of Hon. Louis A. Frothingham will not be known until he returns from a vacation trip in Canada. Col. Everett C. Benton is a candidate for the republican nomination.

The governor sent word to Walsh, through his brother, Major Thomas L. Walsh, who is on Foss' staff, that he would again be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

District Attorney Pelletier is in the fight to the finish and will continue to stand for governor, notwithstanding the announcement of Governor Foss that he will run again.

When he learned of the governor's announcement the district attorney declared in no uncertain terms: "I am in this fight to stay. I relied on the governor's earlier statement that he would not again be a candidate. My campaign is well under way and has been for some weeks. Under the circumstances I shall remain in the fight to the end."

Why should Foss have stated for publication so many times that he would not run again when he was practically sure that he would? The psychology of the governor is not very hard to understand. One official Democrat puts the situation substantially as followws: "Foss is shrewd. He doesn't like to spend money. If he could create a situation where party harmony and the local backers of the Wilson and Marshall ticket might seem to hinge upon his third candidacy, he could with apparent reluctance consent 'to save the party,' and then refuse to loosen his purse strings to help fill the campaign chest."

When the reporters told him that what they wanted to know about was the governorship, he became facetious and said:

"Well old boy, the Democratic state platform declared for equal suffrage. Now, here are two handsome young men (referring to Walsh and Pelletier) who haven't qualified. I think they ought to have a chance."

Pressed further, the governor admitted that "in response to urgent requests" he had decided to run. He said: "I will run again for governor if David Walsh will run with me on the ticket. This will be my last time."

There are some who think that if Foss is defeated, and Wilson elected, the New Jersey governor may offer the Massachusetts governor a cabinet portfolio. Others think that the latter might retire and run for the United States senate. But an executive position, where he stands a chance to have his own way appeals to Foss' temperament more than a legislative one. He chafes under the necessity of consulting others.

Edward P. Barry, formerly of the executive council, has out nomination papers for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Colonel Everett C. Benton, past commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, and a prominent business man of Boston and Belmont, yesterday announced that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor this fall.

When Steer Girl Was Found Guilty and Sentenced to Lancaster

Eva Steer, the seventeen-year-old girl who attempted to commit suicide at Houghs Neck Sunday by jumping overboard from the steamboat wharf was brought into court this morning charged with being idle and disorderly. She was arraigned in court Monday and her case continued until Thursday. State Officer Davis was in court however this morning so that the case was taken up today, the girl being represented by the state officer. Several witnesses were heard to show the waywardness of the girl and after a lengthy hearing she was committed to the state industrial school at Lancaster. The parents of the girl took an appeal for her and she was held in $200 for the grand jury.

PAY POLL TAX SAVE EXPENSE

Delays Are Dangerous and Costly Now That Bills Are Out

Persons who have neglected to pay their poll tax will find this morning that their bill will now cost them twenty cents more as summons were sent out Monday night to all who had not paid up. In all about 4,200 summons were mailed. If the bills are not paid on this summons the next step will be to put them in the hands of the deputy collector which means that a dollar will be added to the bill making the total $3.20. It is better to pay up now and save the dollar, as there is an old saying that a dollar saved is a dollar earned.

GILMORE FOR CONGRESS

Brockton Man Wants Democratic Nomination in 14th

Ex-representative Edward Gilmore of Brockton, announced Monday night that he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Fourteenth congressional district. He plans to make a thorough campaign throughout the district. Richard Olney, 2d, of Dedham will probably oppose him as he is said to be about to announce his candidacy for the nomination. Quincy is now part of this district.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The express companies must come across with lower rates. Now for a reduction in the price of food and our cup of happiness will be full to overflowing.

Lorimer got his Saturday and as usual the Bull Moose claims "it all mine."

Too bad the United States did not have a look in at the Marathon race, but we must not be hoggish, there was some glory in leading the world in the contests.

Swampscott boats of a Chesterfieldian burglar. It must be so nice to robbed in a truly polite manner.

As there is no evidence that the legislature has changed its views on some of Governor Foss's policies, the calling of a special session would be like throwing $50,000 god many after a goodly outlay of bad money.

The organ grinder must give Newport, R. I., a wide berth. The chief of police say they are barred and for good reasons but declines to make the reason public.

BERGER'S IDEA.

Congressman Berger of Wisconsin, the only socialist member of the house of representatives, has presented a bill with novel provisions. It will allow the national government to loan money to states, counties and cities for public improvements to furnish work for idle laborers in times of industrial depression. On the face of it, the idea is good to look upon. One of the arguments which he uses in favor of the plan is that the government has as good right to loan its money for this purpose as to lend $42,000,000 of the people's money to break the 1907 panic. A trial of the idea advanced by Congressman Berger would do no great harm and it might be a means of affording considerable relief when most needed.

GEN. SICKLES OUTBURST.

Advancing years and the energy of misplaced and mistaken enthusiasm are the only excuses which can be liberally offered for the break of Gen. Daniel Sickles, in his speech denouncing Candidate Wilson, as a native of the south and descendant of southern soldiers and sympathizers. The war has passed into history. More than 50 years have added their balm of oil and olive branch emblem to blot out the rancor which long existed, and the united commercial and social relations have demonstrated that there is no north or south, east or west, but a united nation, differing in politics at times, but firm as the rock of Gibralter on national principles, honor and glory.

The effort of Gen. Sickles also carries with it the little lesson which many prominent men and the major portion of the press of the country has been trying to impress upon the people. That is that there are no side shows to this movement. There is only one dominating figure in the whole stage setting, with the others grouped around, silent units to perform the simple tasks assigned. If the general thought for a moment that his valiant service was to bring him into the limelight, as a figure of any prominence in this movement, he has had ample opportunity to preceive his error. His great service to the country, was too great, his sacrifices too heavy to permit of one single cloud upon them in this the sunset of his life. No doubt the general carried away by enthusiasm said more than he intended and this is the construction which all well meaning people should apply to his remarks.

THE LORIMER CASE.

The Lorimer case is ended, or at least that is the hope entertained by the entire country, although Mr. Lorimer declares that his return to Chicago is merely for the purpose of renewing the contest by securing evidence of his innocence of wrong doing. He contends that the case can be reopened because of new and material evidence, and that the senate has established a precedent for such procedure when it reopened his case after he had been exonerated at the first hearing.

It would indeed be a peculiar situation, if the case should again burst forth and the senate should a second time reverse its decision. If Lorimer is innocent that would only be tardy justice to an honorable man and he should be granted every measure of it. But on the face of the returns, things looked exceedingly dark for such a construction to be placed upon his conduct.

There is one thing that the man must be credited with, and that is courage. Alone, single handed, sick and tottering, he stood in the senate chamber and drove the stiletto of his oratory, wrath and arraignment into the hides of those who had assailed him. In justice to his claim and for the better understanding of the situation, it must be conceded that in the manner in which he lambasted some of his enemies and most bitter followers, there was a ring of truth and justice of his claim which would not be downed no matter how bombastic the denial.

It is rather a coincidence that it is just 20 years since the Chicago alleged boodling aldermen were indicted.

FRENCH JUVENILE COURT.

Following the lead of Ben. Lindsay, John Gunckel and other American reformers, France has just passed a new law to establish a juvenile court, dealing with offenders under 18 years of age. The system of administration will differ somewhat from the plans of similar courts in this country, but unusual discretionary powers will be given to the judges.

LIGHT ON CAMPAIGNS

Publicity Bill to Include President and Vice President

Washington, July 16.—The Henry bill providing for the publicity of contributions in presidential campaigns was briefly considered by the senate committee on the judiciary.

The bill found its best friend in Senator Borah of Idaho, who declared that if the committee fails to act he will move to discharge the committee and thus bring the matter immediately before the senate. The measure was passed by the house on April 20 and has been in the senate since April 22.

This bill seeks to extend the provisions of the publicity act to include candidates for president and vice president.

"All that is sought to be accomplished by this legislation," says the Rucker report on the bill, "is to secure full publicity both before and after nomination, of the source from which contributions come, the total amount received, the total sum expended and the purpose for which the same was expended.

"If reports found in the daily press are reasonably accurate and the enormous sums therein stated to have been collected and expended have actually been used or are being used in connection with contests for nomination, no stronger argument can be made for the early passage of the measure reported."

NEW PARTY OR NOTHING

Is Roosevelt's Ultimatum As to Alliances With Others

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 16.—Formation of a distinct and independent party and not the capture of the Republican party is the course which Colonel Roosevelt laid out for himself last night.

He took issue flatly with supporters of his who had advanced a proposal for effecting an agreement with the Republican organization in some states through which, under certain conditions, the strength of the Roosevelt following might be thrown behind President Taft.

The colonel will have none of it. "I shall not acquiesce," he said.

Colonel Roosevelt made it clear that he had decided upon a thorough-going fight, independent of alliance with either party, which will put him in a position to appeal to Democrats as well as Republicans. In states in which his followers have control of the Republican organization, he is ready to carry on his campaign through that medium, as he would do through the Democratic party, he said, if a similar situation should develop within that party.

But he will sanction no entangling agreements. "No compromise," is to be his battle cry, as it was in the campaign for the Republican nomination for president.

He took the ground that, having declared the nomination of President Taft fraudulent, and having taken the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Steal," as his precept in the campaign, he could not consent to a bargain with his opponents in the Republican party.

DO MINORITIES RULE?

And Is There Really Such a Creature as "the Average Man?"

A very strong and racking doubt has got into my mind. One of the very mudsills of my subconsciousness, a very "sleeper" of my cosmic house. has been loosened, and all sorts of strange fancies, like little white and leggy insects, are scampering among my wits.

For it has occurred to me that, after all, the minority are in the majority. I know it sounds crazy. I know that. Heaven be thanked! I am spared the last illusion of the insane that I am sane.

But while I have always lived, moved and had my being under conviction that the majority not only rules but also actually exists, come to think of it, I have never seen a majority, while everywhere about us is the large, active and exceedingly vocal and assertive minority.

The majority of the people in the United States believe in our present form of government, yet I never met a man in my life that did not think he could improve it.

The majority are sound and well, but did you ever run across a well woman?

The majority are sane, yet have you ever found one man indubitably so?

The fact of the matter is that the average man is a myth; he is a mathematical hypothesis; he exists only for the purpose of statistics and arguments; he is the stuff out of which generalities are formed. He is like an atom or a kilowatt or a nebular hypothesis. Everybody is abnormal. Normality is merely the imaginary point where the abnormalities balance.

I never talked any length of time with a human being who did not by and by say something like "Well, I am peculiar, I know," "I am strange," "I am not like most folks," or words to that effect.

Strange that the entire population of the globe is in the minority!

The rarest person in the world to find is the one who does, says or thinks as most people do.—Frank Crane in Chicago News.

A STRUGGLE WITH A WIFE.

How Strindberg's Unhappy Marriage Colored His Work.

The extremely unhappy married life of August Strindberg is commented upon by Clayton Hamilton in the Bookman.

"At the age of twenty-six," he says, "Strindberg fell in love with the woman who was to exert a deeper influence upon his work than any other factor in his life experience. She was already married, but she obtained a divorce and married Strindberg. For a time their wedded life was happy, and the poet in this single sunny period of his experience poured forth an amazing number and variety of literary works conceived in the romantic mood. But a little later his marriage began to be disrupted by dissensions, and the domestic life became increasingly unbearable to both parties as the years proceeded. Held together by their children, they endured a life of torture until finally, after sixteen years, they abandoned the hopeless struggle and were divorced.

"This tragic experience has colored all the later work of Strindberg. He had begun by conceiving life as war, and he now discovered in his own case that love, which is the origin and essence of life, is also war—a year long, lifelong battle without an interrupting truce. Hence he conceived love as only the obverse of a two sided passion, of which the inevitable reverse is hatred. Other poets have made the same discovery. Compare, for instance, Mr. Kipling's harrowing lines: 'I 'ate you, grinnin' there. * * * Ah, Gawd, I love you so!'"

Smothered Pig.

There is a fish in Hawaiian waters which is known by the native name of humuhumunukunukukuapuaa, which means literally "sewing up the nose." The native Hawaiian method of killing a pig to be roasted is to smother it, not cut its throat, and it is smothered by sewing up the pig's mouth and nose. This fish with the long name has spines which in ancient times were used as needles to sew up the pig's mouth; hence the name more fully means "the fish that provides the needles for sewing up the nose of the pig."

The Morning Star.

The morning star, an iron ball studded with spikes and fastened by means of a chain to a short handle, was much used in medieval times as a military weapon. It was exceedingly formidable, for when thrown it could not easily be avoided or dodged, the chain permitting it to curve around the arm or over the shield. It was confessedly modeled after a common cactus which grows in every part of Italy.

ALPINE CLUB IN EXPLORATIONS

Edmonton, Alta., July 16—Alpinists from various parts of the United States and Canada and Great Britain and continental Europe will foregather at the seventh annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada at Palliser's Vermilion Pass, 5 miles southwest of Banff, Alta., July 29 to August 9. The camp will be pitched in the forest on the south side of the summit, 5,300 feet above sea level, near which is a rushing glacial torrent, the source of the Vermilion river. The pass is hemmed in by snow-clad peaks, to the right being Snow Mountain and Mount Ball, while on the west are the Boom Lake mountains and Mount Whymper, named in honor of the noted English climber, who died early this year. Prospectors valley, in which flows Tokumm creek, gives access of a traverse of a vast snowfield in the southern faces of six of the 1 0peaks. Exploring parties will be sent out by the club to examine and report upon the new valleys and alpine features.

SACRED PLACES.

Last Sunday's Globe devoted considerable space to New England places, made sacred by historic associations. Quincy naturally comes under that head and it was estimated that 1200 people annually visit the Dorothy Q house. With respect to Quincy's place in this niche of fame the writer said:

"Birthplace of President John Adams in charge of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, and used by them as a headquarters.

"Birthplace of President John Quincy Adams, open from May to October, admission 25 cents. About 400 people visited it last season.

"Burial places of the two Presidents and their wives beneath the portico of the First Unitarian Church. Admission may be had by looking up the janitor and a fee of 25 cents is expected for the trouble to which the janitor may be put. No record kept of callers. This place might be much more popular as a patriotic shrine if some caretaker was kept at the church all the time to receive visitors.

"The Dorothy Q. House is in charge of the Colonial Dames and a charge of 25 cents is made. Part of this house is said to be the oldest structure in Quincy and to have been built by. Gov. Coddington Open all the year round. About 1200 people visited it last year.

"Outdoor shrines are the cairn on Penn's Hill, where Abigail Adams and her little son, John Quincy Adams, watched the battle of Bunker Hill, and also cairn at Squantum to mark the spot where Myles Standish made his first landing on the main land on his visit to Boston Harbor.

"Tablet on Beale street, Wollaston, dedicated to the memory of Anne Hutchinson and supposed to mark the site where she spent the first night on her journey from Boston to Rhode Island when banished from Boston."

WILLING TO PAY THEIR DEBT.

Years ago the James brothers, who sacked the express car and "went through" the passengers, stole the money box at the Kansas State Fair. They rode into Kansas City on horseback, and when the cashier was walking to the bank with the receipts of the day, about $2000, they pointed their pistols at his head, seized the box and galloped off. This was done in broad daylight, in the midst of a great crowd.

According to Eli Perkins, some time afterward one of the Kansas City reporters wrote an article about those highwaymen, saying some kind things. He called them brave, and said they had done, the most daring deed in the highwaymen's record. A few nights afterward both the brothers rode into Kansas City, went to the newspaper office, and calling the reporter out presented him with a handsome watch and chain. They said the article in question touched them in a tender spot and they desired to show their gratitude.

"But I don't feel at liberty to take this watch," said the reporter.

"But do it to gratify us. We didn't steal this watch we bought it and paid for it with our own money," continued the desperadoes.

"No; you must excuse me," continued the reporter.

"Well, then if you can't take this watch," replied the James brothers, regretfully, "what can we do for you? Perhaps you can name some man around here you want killed."—Life.

AUTO TRIP TO QUINCY PLANTS

Board of Trade Plans Such an Event to End With Dinner

Trade

President C. C. Hearn and Secretary John O. Hall are busy arranging for the trip of the Board of Trade to inspect the several industries of the city to be held July 24. As now planned the members who participate will leave the rooms of the Board of Trade at 12.30 and visit as many industries of the city as possible. Just what the itinerary will be is not definitely decided as yet but will be ready for publication in a few days. After the inspection the party will go to Norteman's at Houghs Neck for a "yankee supper," that is every man pays for his own food. President Hearn and Secretary Hall are now busy getting as many members who own automobiles as possible to volunteer to go on the trip to take the party.

This morning a circular was sent to the proprietors of many local industries asking them to forward any data about their plant they desired which will be printed in a circular which will be carried by the party on its trip.

REVENUES WILL DROP

Express Companies Claim Under Proposed Rates

The express rates prescribed in the report of the interstate commerce commission on express companies will not produce enough revenue to cover the cost of business, according to a statement issued after a meeting of the express company officials in New York.

In support of this contention it was announced that the companies would prepare statements showing what the proposed rates would produce on business actually done. It was also announced that the companies would adopt the suggestions and directions of the commission in regard to "regulation and practices."

TRAGIC FOR WHISTLER.

A White Plume Joke That Enraged the Eccentric Master.

It has been said of Whistler, truly enough, that he was proud of the white plume in his black hair. But with his pride went, naturally, a certain sensitiveness. He wanted his little tuft of white treated with respect—as a flag. It was sacred, as the white flag was to the Comte de Chambord. Most people respected Whistler's wish, but not all.

I went one day to a luncheon given by a lady whom her friends set up as a rival to Mrs. Langtry. It was a large party. When the ladies went upstairs most of the men were bidden by their hostess to follow as soon as their first cigarette had been smoked. Whistler was not told. On the contrary, a man was asked to hold him in talk for ten minutes.

Once in the drawing room the hostess produced a number of white feathers, one of which she fastened into each man's hair in front where Whistler wore his. Then she marshaled her men in line, facing the door, and sent word to Whistler in the dining room that he was staying a long time and she would like him to come up.

He obeyed, and when he opened the door of the drawing room and found himself confronted with a line of black haired men, each decorated with a white plume in imitation of his own, his face turned red and then pale. He walked slowly past the line to the end, where stood his hostess enjoying what she thought an innocent pleasantry.

But Whistler's expression had in it much more of tragedy than of comedy. "Ah, yes," he said, "very pretty, very pretty indeed. To not one of you will I ever speak again." With that he turned his back on his hostess and her guests and marched out of the room and downstairs and out of the house. Yet his anger did not last.—G. W. Smalley's "Anglo-American Memories."

A COINER OF WORDS.

Mirabeau's Busy Brain Enlarged the World's Vocabulary.

The authorities seem to assign the origin of the word aristocrat to the French Revolution, which coined its opposite, democrat. Oddly enough, the word seems to have been first applied to our harmless military order, the Cincinnati.

When the Cincinnati was organized in 1783 a storm of objection was raised. One of the pamphlets that denounced the military order, of which Washington was the head, fell into the hands of Mirabeau, who immediately made it the subject of a slashing tract in which he called the society unrepublican, un-American and much else that was not complimentary.

To cap the climax, he wrote, "Les Cincinnati sont donc des nobles, des aristocrates, de vrais patriciens!" (The Cincinnati, then, are nobles, aristocrats, veritable patricians!) The word was born. Mirabeau, perhaps the ablest Frenchman of the time, liked the new word so well that he repeated it several times.

His pamphlet was written in 1785, and since no Paris publisher was willing to take risks with an essay so strongly republican it was printed in London in 1788. The word was accepted in many languages and led to the formation of many similar words, like democrat, autocrat, theocrat, plutocrat, bureaucrat and others. In 1785, when Mirabeau wrote, there was no precedent for such words unless it were the French form of certain Greek names, like Socrate, Isocrate, Hippocrate.

Mirabeau's busy brain and facile tongue added several other useful words to the world's vocabulary. Capitalist, bonhomie, parvenu, Anglo-American, primary meeting, veto (as a noun) and universal suffrage are all words of phrases first used by him.—Youth's Companion.

The Letter of the Law.

A mother led her six children to the apple tree. It had borne but a single apple—no longer visible to the casual observer. "I told you not to pick that apple!" she said sternly.

"We didn't pick it!" the children answered in chorus. And the oldest girl added in an injured tone: "You can see yourself that it's still on the tree. I—I mean—the core is! We only climbed up an'—an' took a bite once in awhile—we didn't pick it!"—Exchange.

He Had Been Treated.

Old Lady (compassionately)—Poor fellow! I suppose your blindness is incurable. Have you ever been treated? Blind Man (sighing)—Yes, mum, but not often. 'Tain't many as likes to be seen goin' into a public house with a blind beggar.—London Tit-Bits.

A Night With the Boys.

Singleton—What's the matter, old man? You look as if you'd been making a night of it with the boys. Newpop—You've struck it! The twins kept me up till 3 o'clock this morning.—Boston Transcript.

The Other Side.

"Do you think a little learning is a dangerous thing?"

"Possibly. But it isn't half so dangerous as the same amount of ignorance."—Detroit Free Press.

NEW BEDFORD MILLS LOCKOUT

Following Strike Declared by Their Operatives

AFFECTS 13,490 OPERATIVES

Notices Posted In Thirty-Two Mills Closed For an Indefinite Time—Many Weavers Leave City to Seek Employment Outside—Seven Corporations Opened as Usual Today—I. W. W. Picket Them

New Bedford, Mass., July 16.—Twelve New Bedford corporations, running thirty-two cotton mills, employing 13,490 operatives, were indefinitely closed last night as a result of the weavers' and loomfixers' strike, which went into effect yesterday morning.

Notices posted in these mills said simply: "Owing to the strike of weavers and loomfixers, this mill will be closed tonight for an indefinite period."

The loomfixers went out in sympathy with the weavers, as did the twisters and some others. The action of the loomfixers was indorsed by the emergency committee of the United Textile Workers at a meeting yesterday and at the same time the carders and spinners were given permission to declare a similar sympathetic strike.

Fully 100 weavers are said to have left the city, seeking work in other mill centres. Observers took this as an indication that the operatives look for a long drawn out struggle.

Arrangements were made by the Industrial Workers of the World leaders for a systematic picketing of the various mills which remain open. The pickets will be on hand an hour before the mill gates open and will endeavor to persuade the workers to remain out. This is the first step toward forcing a general strike.

The seven corporations which opened as usual this morning are the Butler, Nashawena, Neild, New Bedford Cotton, Soule, Taber and Whitman. They employ a total of nearly 7000 operatives and no one can tell for how long.

A committee representing the Industrial Workers of the World called at the headquarters of the textile council last night and conferred with President John Hobin. They asked that all union differences be cast aside and that the operatives unite in one body to make the strike more effective.

Hobin told his callers that he had no authority to authorize such action and that the matter would have to be referred to the regular council meeting. Richard Parkinson acted as spokesman for the Industrial Workers.

The grading system to which the weavers object provides different prices to be paid to the weavers for different qualities of work done. That is, a cut of cloth in which imperfections of weave appear would not be paid for at as high a rate as a cut that was perfect.

In order to satisfy the operatives that the companies did not benefit by paying a lower price for second quality goods, the corporation sagreed to keep account of the difference in price paid to the weavers, and, every six months, divide this difference among all weavers who had been employed in the mills for three months.

The manufacturers claimed that they could not pay first quality prices for second quality work, saying that since the abolition of the fines system the amount of seconds had greatly increased.

The weavers contended that the grading system worked them grave injustice and materially reduced their earnings.

FORMAL IMPEACHMENT

Of Judge Robert W. Archbald Before the Senate

Washington, July 16.—The impeachment of Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court was formally laid before the senate by the committee of managers from the house, headed by Representative Henry D. Clayton, chairman of the judiciary committee.

Representative Clayton was an hour reading the lengthy articles in which Judge Archibald was accused of securing favors from those interested in litigation before the commerce court.

At the conclusion a resolution by Senator Clark of Wyoming to have the impeachment referred to a select committee of five was adopted, and Senator Gallinger, as president pro tem, appointed Senators Clark, Nelson, Dillingham, Bacon and Culberson.

A postponement seems certain. Judge Archband is said to favor this action. Its adoption would give the judge and his counsel time to prepare a defense and permit congress to end the protracted session.

CLOUDBURST HITS DENVER

600 Homeless---Loss of Life Yet Unknown

DAMAGE REACHES $1,500,000

Destruction In Colorado's Capital Strikes Homes of Poor—Free Communication is Cut Off but Many Are Thought to Have Lost Their Lives—One Mexican State Sadly Wrecked and 1000 Drowned

Denver, July 16.—At least 600 persons were homeless, several deaths were rumored, and a $1,500,000 damage was estimated as a result of a cloudburst which swept down the shallow bed of Cherry creek and through the city into the South Platte river. Hundreds of men, women and children had been gathered into the city auditorium to be fed and cared for by the city. Hundreds of homes were in ruins. When telegraph communication from points up the creek was renewed many tales of thrilling rescues and great suffering were received. The smaller dwellings along the creek collapsed like paper sacks under the first rush of water that swept down the creek.

Twenty-five children, from six months to six years old, whose parents may have been lost, are in the care of a police matron. After directing relief and rescue work all night, Mayor Arnold organized relief parties at dawn to begin the search of the course of the flood, which is a trail of wrecked dwellings and other debris heaped in the current of the South Platte river.

The chamber of commerce has opened a relief subscription.

Had it not been for a note of warning sounded over the telephone from an unknown source to the city hall just before the crest of the flood reached the city, many could not have escaped death. Many fled in their night clothes, and that many more were caught in the flood while sleeping is the general belief. In two hours hard rain in the afternoon the streets and sewers were flooded, the tramway lines were out of commmission, hundreds were marooned in the parks around the city and fifty miles of city roadway was destroyed. Then came a lull of four hours, during which the car lines were returning to schedule.

The cry of warning of the coming flood reached the city hall and within thirty minutes a wall of water many feet high descended on the city from Cherry creek, which flows through the Country club grounds, passing within five blocks of the city hall, the county hospital, the West Side court, out to the South Platte, five miles distant. It ripped out concrete walls that confined it for two miles, destroyed bridges and hundreds of small dwellings, driving the occupants from their homes or to roofs, from which they were rescued by members of the police and fire departments.

Reaching the Union station, the torrent rushed three feet deep through the yard, putting locomotive fires out, marooning several hundred passengers and closing the city to incoming or outgoing traffic. In half an hour miles of tramway cars were put out of commission, while a sewer undermined, broke and flooded Capital hill, the aristocratic section of the city. A general call to physicans met with speedy response. The cellars of down-town stores and hotels were flooded.

With about 15,000 men repairing the damage done by the flood, an army of city employes and individuals clearing away the wreckage of buildings and bridges, rescuers still searching the banks of Cherry creek for further possible victims, and the city fire department aiding in pumping out flooded basements in the down town wholesale district, Denver is rapidly assuming normal conditions.

1000 Lives Lost In Mexico

Mexico City, July 16.—A special meeting of the cabinet with President Madero was called and it is probable that federal troops will immediately be sent to the state of Guanajuato, where cloudbursts have wrecked two cities and many smaller towns. Incomplete reports declare that probably 1000 persons lost their lives, while the property damage will reach $20,000,000. The greatest danger is famine.

United Shoe May Dissolve

Washington, July 16.—The government's civil anti-trust suit against the United Shoe Machinery company may be settled by an agreed decree of dissolution having the approval of the department of justice. This was indicated at a conference between Attorney General Wickersham and lawyers for the corporation.

Kind Gentleman—What are you going to do, Johnny, when you become a man? Johnny—Nawthin'. Kind Gentleman—What? Not going to do anything? Johnny—No. Just as soon as I started something ma would tell me to stop it.—Judge.

BRIEFS

July is half gone.

What will be the rate of taxation this year?

Mrs. Rufus Warren Poole of Prospect avenue is at South Harpswell, Maine for two weeks.

Miss Catherine Shea and Miss Irene Haley of Holliston spent the week end with Mrs. John J. Maloney of Newton street.

A portion of Billings road is being rebuilt. It is the main streets that are receiving the attention of Commissioner Tupper this year.

Albert H. Brown will be missed from the periodical store of L. A. Chapin during the balance of the month as he left this week with his wife and son for a vacation in Maine.

Brook street is being rebuilt, and as usual Commissioner Tupper's department is doing a good job.

Swithin & Merrill have a tasty sign displayed on the Greenleaf building, which assumes more of a business-like appearance every day.

Mrs. Holbrook, Department president of the Women's Relief Corps, has appointed Mrs. Eliza A. Penniman of Quincy, one of her special aids for co-operation with the Sons of Veterans.

Mrs. Walter Deacon and family, of 15 Foster street, together with her sister Mrs. Levi Young of School street left yesterday for Prince Edward Island. Walter Deacon intends to join them later.

Frank J. Shay of Wollaston, a representative of Berry Bros., paints, varnishes, etc., Boston, returned Saturday from a visit to Detroit, Mich. The trip which was one for the salesmen of the company took in many of the western cities.

CIRCUS TOMORROW.

Downie & Wheeler's circus which shows in Quincy tomorrow is one of the best and biggest to exhibit here for some time. The street parade will be followed by an afternoon and an evening performance which will have all the regular features of a first class circus as well as in many extra events.

NO HOP TONIGHT.

The regular hop at the Quincy Yacht clubhouse, Houghs Neck, will be omitted this evening.

PANAMA CANAL LEGISLATION

Divers Opinions As to Methods of Assessing Tolls

NOW BEFORE CONGRESS

(Special to Quincy Ledger.)

Washington, D. C., July 15.—Shall shipping controlled more or less by the railroads be excluded from the use of the Panama Canal and shall ships engaged in the coastwise trade be permitted to use the Canal free of toll, are problems shortly to be solved by the Senate when the bill "providing for the opening, maintenance, protection and operation of the Panama Canal" is taken up for consideration by the upper branch of Congress.

The House bill relating to the regulation of the Panama Canal was amended in a number of important particulars by the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals, of which Senator Brandegee is Chairman, but the bill, which is on the calendar and is to be made the unfinished business after the Sundry Civil bill is out of the way, was submitted without a report from the Committee. While amendments were adopted by majority votes in a number of instances, a majority could not be found to stand for the bill as amended and so its making is entrusted to the Senate, which will probably debate the questions suggested at considerable length.

The bill as it passed the House gives vessels engaged in the coastwise trade free passage through the Canal and prohibits steamships which are owned or controlled by railroads from using the Canal. The bill as it came from the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals extends the provision for free passage to American ships in the foreign trade, provided the owners of such vessels agree that they may be taken and used by the Government in time of war or other public emergency, and allows railroad-owned ships engaged in foreign trade to also carry coastwise commerce through the Canal provided that at least half of their cargo, in tonnage, is destined to or shipped from Oriental or European ports.

Upon these provisions, as lively and interesting a debate as the Senate has listened to in years may be expected.

"In my opinion the Panama bill should be amended in the Senate to conform to the House Bill," said Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon today.

Coastwise vessels should be permitted to use the Canal without the payment of tolls, but this privilege should not be granted to steamships owned by railroads or by companies the stock of which is owned in whole or in part by railroads.

"If railroad companies are permitted to operate steamers through the Canal and engage in coastwise traffic in competition with independantly owned steamship companies, the result will inevitably be that by reducing rates below a renumerative basis steamships owned by railroad companies will drive the independent companies out of business entirely and leave the railroad companies to fix the transcontinental rates, at figures that will not only compensate for carriage but for losses sustained by their steamers.

"This has been the history of transportation on both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts and railroad companies have for years operated steamers at a loss, driving independent lines out of business and fixing arbitrary rates for interstate and all continental traffic.

"It is a part of the history of the Pacific Coast that the Southern Pacific company and other transcontinental roads have operated steamships on the Pacific, between Panama and points north, at heavy expense and yet have been able to recoup these losses by excessive rates by rail.

"Not only has this been the history on the Pacific Coast, but it is the history of transportation wherever a navigable waterway is paralleled by lines of rail. Whenever an independent company undertakes to operate steamers on such waterways in competition with railways these latter companies install their own vessels, reducing rates by water so as to drive out all competition, thereby leaving the railroads masters of the field and able to fix such rates as they may see fit.

The Panamal Canal was built for all the people. If the Government should now undertake to levy a tax or toll on coastwise freight through the Canal, it will be reversing the policy of a hundred years. There is no more reason for the charging of tolls on domestic commerce through the Canal than there is to charge tolls to ships through the Great Lakes, or to boats on the Ohio or Mississippi. The policy has always been to permit the free use of the waterways of the country in order that they might operate as regulators of railways and any other policy would be an unjustifiable tax on the whole people.

"The Democrats in the Baltimore convention practically endorsed the House bill as it passed that body in so far as free tolls and railroad—owned ships are concerned, and I don't see how the Democrats of the Senate can do otherwise than support the bill as it passed the House."

BAY STATE POLITICS

Much Curiosity over Intentions of Gov. E. N. Foss

CANDIDATES TO SUCCEED HIM

Pelletier and Walsh both willing to run—May defer to Foss if he wishes to try it again—Better outlook for Mr. Taft.

The political situation in Massachusetts is no clearer on the Democratic side than upon the Republican. Governor Foss in a half-hearted manner has stated that he is not a candidate for re-nomination and that he will not be in the field for the Senatorship. Now-a-days the statements of Mr. Foss are never accepted even by his political associates and friends at their face value. His statements have so often been amended, withdrawn, or ignored that they mean nothing to the discriminating politician or statesman. There has been rather strong suspicion all along that he would like to be re-nominated for governor and then to make the fight for senatorship if the legislature should look good to him after its election.

The seasoned politicians who said before the Democratic National Convention that Foss had no show of being nominated for the first place or the second now wag their heads and say, "I told you so." As a matter of fact they never believed the Democratic party would come so far east for the presidential candidate. They said there would be no politics in selecting a man from Massachusetts with its small number of electoral votes when they could place the nomination in some doubtful state which had a larger number of electoral votes.

Foss For a Third Term?

Now these believe that Mr. Foss would really like very much to round out his gubernatorial career with the usual three terms to his credit. He has enjoyed being Governor for it has given him an opportunity to get in the lime-light and advocate his pet views as a state official. Besides that he has always had a strong desire to go to the United States Senate, and if elected Governor again with a Democratic Legislature, he might be able to reach the height of his ambition.

A good many of the political wiseacres take very little stock in the candidacy of John F. Fitzgerald for the United States Senate.

They realize that there are throughout the state many Democratic politicians who have very strong antipathy for the Boston Mayor. The western part of the state has never followed Fitzgerald, but has often taken opportunity to show him that it had no regard for him, either as a man or a Democrat. The Boston Machine has tried to lead the Democratic party in the state in its own way and this has always been bitterly resented in certain sections of the Commonwealth. If the Legislature were Democratic, it is probable that Foss would be stronger with it than Fitzgerald.

Some of the politicians on the Democratic side are saying that Mr. Foss is necessary to carrying the state this fall. They also say that Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate for president, is anxious for Mr. Foss to run in order to help the National Ticket in this state in November. If that be true, Mr. Foss may run.

Two Active Democratic Candidates.

Nevertheless there are two active candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the persons of District Attorney Pelletier, and David I. Walsh of Fitchburg, who was the Democratic candidate last year for Lieutenant Governor. Mr. Pelletier has taken out nomination papers and Mr. Walsh will do so immediately, if Mr. Foss is not a candidate. There is evidently considerable feeling between Mr. Pelletier and Mr. Walsh. Mayor Fitzgerald is understood to be favorable to the nomination of Mr. Pelletier but he is not friendly to the candidacy of Mr. Walsh. Both men have a considerable following in the Democracy, and if both should decide to be candidates there will be a lively time at the primaries.

Usually the Democratic leaders in such an emergency have controlled the situation by forcing one candidate out and put their O. K. upon the other. Whether Mr. Walsh would submit to being forced from the fight in order to smooth the pathway of Mr. Pelletier is an open question, but he has shown a disposition not to be controlled by the Boston Machine, and it may be that he would refuse to be forced out of the field.

Looks Better for Mr. Taft.

So far as the presidential contest is concerned it certainly looks much better for Mr. Taft. Democratic opposition to Mr. Wilson is beginning to come to the surface. For many months the Boston American has been printing reasons which were intended to show that Mr. Wilson was not a strong candidate. Some of these reasons were the expressions of opinion regarding the races of southern Europe coming to this country, which Mr. Wilson has expressed in his writings in the last few years. In the opinion of the American these writings made him objectionable to the members of these races living in this country and having a vote, and therefore would weaken his candidacy before the people. This opinion was probably a correct one. Very likely Mr. Wilson may have written without malice, but his critcisms have offended a considerable number of these people.

Nominally, the American is supporting the candidacy of Mr. Wilson. Nevertheless its criticisms of him in the past are still remembered by those who were criticised by Mr. Wilson in his historical and other writings. If the American were really anxious to undo its work of the last few months against Mr. Wilson, it would probably be unable to do so. But it is evident that the support of Mr. Wilson by the American is more or less half-hearted. Under the guise of supporting him it seems to be giving back-handed stabs which may be fully as effectual opposition as if it were open.

There are many Republicans who believe that Mr. Taft will have the support of a large number of conservative Democrats who are not altogether pleased with the radical platform of the radical candidate of the Democratic party. It is significant that most Democrats who came away from the Baltimore convention feeling convinced that Wilson was to have a walk-over in the coming presidential contest have revised their opinions and now conclude that it is a fight rather than a picnic.

Parsons is not Opposed.

In one congressional district in the state there appears unlikely to be any contest for the Republican nomination. This is the first district now represented by Congressman George P. Lawrence. He has declined a renomination. Ex-Senator Herbert C. Parsons of Greenfield is the only man seeking to succeed Mr. Lawrence. Mr. Parsons has been one of the leading Republicans of the western part of the state for a number of years, and is well known also as editor of the Greenfield Recorder. In his candidacies for the House and Senate in previous years he has shown himself to be a very popular man and a good vote getter. The district is regarded as Republican by a good margin and the nomination on the Republican ticket ought to be a long step toward the election.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

CHAPTER XXII.

Wherein Philip Ammon Is Scorned by Edith Carr, and Hart Henderson Appears on the Scene.

EDITH CARR stood in a vine inclosed side veranda of the Lake Shore clubhouse waiting while Philip Ammon gave some important orders. In a few days she would sail for Paris to select a wonderful trousseau she had planned for her marriage in October. Tonight Philip was giving a club dance in her honor. As she stood waiting she smiled softly. She was robed in a French creation suggested and designed by Philip. He had said to her, "I know a competent judge who says the distinctive feature of June is her exquisite big night moths. I want you to be the very essence of June that night, as you will be the embodiment of love. Be a moth. The most beautiful of them is either the pale green Luna or the yellow Imperialis. Be my moon lady or my gold Empress."

Now she stood, tall, lithe, of grace inborn, her dark waving hair high piled and crossed by gold bands studded with amethysts and at one side an enameled lavender orchid rimmed with diamonds, which flashed and sparkled. The soft yellow robe of lightest weight velvet fitted her form perfectly, while from each shoulder fell a great velvet wing lined with lavender and flecked with embroidery of that color in imitation of the moth. Philip had said that her gloves, fan and slippers must be lavender because the feet of the moth were that color. These accessories had been made to order and embroidered with gold. In her heart she thought of herself as "Imperialis Regalis," as the Yellow Empress. But in all the fragmentary thought crossing her brain the one that never came was that of Philip Ammon as the emperor, Philip the king of her heart, and at least her equal in all things.

"Ah, my luck!" cried a voice behind her.

Edith Carr turned and smiled exquisitely.

"I thought you were on the ocean," she said.

"I only reached the dock," replied the man, "when I had a letter that recalled me by the first limited. Edith, you are the most superb woman in every respect that I have ever seen. One glimpse is worth the whole journey."

He half closed his eyes and smilingly stared straight at her. He was taller than she, a lean man, with close cropped light hair, steel gray eyes, a square chin and "man of the world" written all over him.

Edith Carr flushed. "I thought you realized when you went away that you were to stop that, Hart Henderson," she cried.

"I did, but this letter of which I tell you called me back to start it all over again. One of your most intimate chums wrote it. It contained the hazard that possibly I had given up too soon. It said that in a fit of petulance you had broken your engagement with Ammon twice this winter, and he had come back because he knew you did not really mean it. I have come back to haunt you until the ceremony is over. Then I go, not before. I was insane!"

The girl laughed merrily. "Not half so insane as you are now, Hart!" she cried gayly. "You know that Philip Ammon has been devoted to me all my life. Well, now I'll tell you something else, because this looks serious for you. I love him with all my heart. Not while he lives shall he know it, and I will laugh at him if you tell him, but the fact remains. I intend to marry him, but no doubt I shall tease him constantly. It's good for a man to be uncertain. If you could see Ammon's face at the quarterly return of his ring you would understand the fun of it. My little fits of temper don't count with Phil. He's been raised on them."

"Just the same I'll wait and see it an accomplished fact," said Henderson. "And, Edith, because I love you with the sort of love it is worth a woman's while to inspire I want your happiness before my own. Go careful from now on. Don't strain that patched engagement of yours any further. I've known Philip all my life. He loves you, yes! He is long suffering for you, yes! But men know he has a limit. When the limit is reached he will stand fast, and all the powers can't move him. You don't seem to think it, but you can go too far."

"Is that all?" laughed Edith Carr sarcastically.

"No, there is one thing more," said Henderson. "Here or hereafter, now and so long as I breathe, I am your slave. If you need me it is not necessary to speak; only give me the faintest sign. All your life I will be somewhere near you waiting for it."

At that instant Philip Ammon entered. He was in full evening dress and exceptionally handsome. "Everything is ready," he said. "They are waiting for us to lead the march. It is formed."

Edith Carr smiled entrancingly. "Do you think I am ready?"

Philip looked what he thought and offered his arm. Edith Carr nodded carelessly to Henderson and moved away.

The last half of the program was well under way. Never had girl been more complimented and petted in the same length of time than Edith Carr. A partners' dance was called and the floor was filled with couples waiting for the music. Ammon stood whispering delightful things to Edith facing him. From out of the night, in at the wide front entrance to the pavilion there swept in slow, wavering flight a great yellow moth and fluttered toward the center cluster of glaring electric lights.

"Why, isn't that?"— she began excitedly.

"It's a yellow Emperor! This is fate!" cried Ammon. "The last one Elnora needs for her collection. I must have it! Excuse me!"

He ran toward the light. "Hats! Handkerchiefs! Fans!" "Anything!" he panted. "Every one hold up something and stop that!"

"He wants it for Edith!" ran in a murmur around the hall. The girl's face flushed, while she bit her lip in vexation. Instantly every one began holding up something to keep the moth from flying back into the night. One fan held straight before it served, and the moth gently settled on it.

"Hold steady!" cried Ammon. "Don't move for your life!" He rushed toward the moth, made a quick sweep and held it up between his fingers. "All right!" he called. "Thanks, every one! Excuse me a minute."

He ran to the office.

"An ounce of gasoline, quick!" he ordered. "A cigar box, a cork and the glue bottle."

He poured some glue into the bottom of the box, set the cork in it firmly, dashed the gasoline over the moth repeatedly, pinned it to the cork, poured the remainder of the liquid over it, closed the box and fastened it. Then he laid a bill on the counter.

"Pack that box with cork around it in one twice its size, tie securely and express to this address at once.

"Keep the change," called Ammon as he ran back to the pavilion.

Edith Carr stood where he left her, thinking rapidly. She heard the murmur that went up when Philip started to capture the exquisite golden creature she was impersonating. She saw the flash of surprise that went over unrestrained faces when he ran from the room without even showing it to her.

He had spoken of a country girl he had met who played the violin wonderfully, and at times he had showed a disposition to exalt her as a standard of womanhood. Miss Carr had ignored what he said and talked of something else. It was that girl who was collecting moths! No doubt she was the competent judge who was responsible for the yellow costume Philip had devised. Had Edith Carr been in her room she would have torn off the dress at the thought.

CAMPAIGN TO SAVE EGRETS

In All Par of the Country Meeting With Success

APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE

Twenty years ago the gulls and terns of the Atlantic sea-board were in imminent danger of extinction by the milliners' agents. Hundreds of thousands of these birds had been slaughtered in the breeding season and some species had almost disappeared.

Mr. Abbot H. Thayer started a subscription fund to pay Wardens to protect the birds during the breeding season, and then the National Association of Audubon Societies took over the work. Under the care of this organization the birds have increased wonderfully in numbers. When the work was begun there were on the New England Coast only about 20 pairs of laughing gulls which bred on Muskeget Island Now there are more than a thousand there and they are spreading along the coast to the Gulf of Maine. The increase of the herring gulls and the terns under this protection has been phenomenal. Even the least tern or sea swallow, which was nearing extinction in the East is increasing

At the beginning a strenuous attempt was made to save the herons and especially the white egrets. Egrets formerly were scattered through the United States in large numbers in all suitable localities from the Hudson River to Oregon and from Florida to California. The efforts made to protect them came so late that notwithstanding all that could be done to save them they continued to decrease until about three years ago Wiliam Dutcher, President of the National Association of Audubon Societies leaned to the belief that nothing could save them from extermination. The plume hunters had killed three wardens, "shot out" the heronries that the wardens were employed to protect and had managed to shoot up other heronries while the wardens were temporarily absent, until probably only a few hundred birds were left in the United States and these were scattered far and wide. When Mr. Dutcher was suddenly stricken down, Mr. T. Gilbert Pearson, Secretary of the National Association gave up the attempt to protect the egrets against the Indians and desperadoes of Southern Florida and he and the directors of the association turned their energies toward other States in the attempt to save the few birds left.

Thus far the enterprise has been successful beyond expectation. Last year about three thousand egrets were known to be in existence and this year there are at least five thousand in known colonies scattered through the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf States.

Protection in the South Atlantic States was so successful last summer that from twelve to twenty egrets appeared in Eastern Massachusetts and remained here the greater part of two months. No such number has been seen here within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, and it is reported that a few are here again this year. The Association has succeeded in securing the passage of laws in many states making the sale of the plumage of these birds illegal, and if this work is sustained financially the public sale of the plumes will be stopped throughout North America.

The egrets are fast being exterminated in every part of the world where they exist, and if they can be protected here the time may come when the United States alone of all the countries in the world can boast of living examples of these beautiful species.

Will the American people support this beneficial work by contributing liberally toward it or shall we see the egrets disappear as did vast hordes of the passenger pigeons?

FRIENDS MOURN HER LOSS.

The funeral of Mary Louise Keniley the seventeen-year-old daughter of Daniel H. Keniley, who died Sunday after a lingering illness, was held this morning from the home of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Driscoll, 22 Franklin street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at the church of St. John the Baptist at ten o'clock, with Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Scannell officiating.

The Gregorian chant was furnished by the regular choir, under the direction of John Mahon, organist. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends of the deceased at the services and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Solos were rendered during the mass by Miss Angela McCarthy and Mrs. Mary Burns King. Burial was at St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy. The deceased was well known among the younger people of the city and always endeared herself to them in a manner that has now caused them to deeply mourn her loss.

BURIED IN RANDOLPH.

The funeral of James Lynch, who died suddenly Saturday afternoon, was held from his late home, corner of Quarry and Smith streets, this morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. John's Church at nine o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Fr. John J. Coan.

The musical portion of the mass was the Gregorian chant, rendered by the regular choir, under direction of organist John Mahon. Miss Angela McCarthy sang the "Pie Jesu" at the offertory, while Mrs. Mary Burns King rendered the "Tremens Factus Est" at the libera.

A large gathering of relatives and friends attended the services and there was a profusion of floral tributes. Delegations were present from Division 5 A. O. H., Quincy Stone Cutters' Union, and Irish National Foresters, of which the deceased was a member. The late Mr. Lynch was well known in Quincy and was in the employ of the water department for a number of years. The funeral arrangements were in charge of undertaker Edward L. Bean and burial was at St. Mary's cemetery, Randolph.

BOY CAMPERS DELIGHTED

With the Recreations Provided at Massapoag

Eight boys of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. in charge of director Alden H. Blanchard, returned from Sharon, Monday where they had been camping since the first of the month. They were located at Camp Massapoag, in company with 140 other boys, members of different Y. M. C. A. associations throughout the state, which is conducted under the auspices of the Lake Shore Home Association.

While there the boys report that they had the time of their lives. The daily program included sports of all kinds, with a hike about the surroundings in the evening. Boating, bathing and fishing,, with baseball games consumed the greater part of the day and every one of the campers came back fresh and rosy.

Those who returned Monday were Harold England, Roy Brown, Percy Jenkins, Allen Gragg, Fred Tobbeuboske, Harold McMillan, Wilcott Griffiths and William F. Torrey, Jr.

SEWED HIS OWN PATCHES

So Thebodeau Claimed in Court When Arrested

WIFE AFRAID OF HIM

William H. Thebodeau of Braintree was gathered in at Braintree Monday on a warrant sworn out by his wife for drunkenness. In court this morning she said that he left home sober but came back drunk. That he had frequently threatened to shoot her and had aimed a revolver at her. She then straightened up and in a dramatic voice shouted "And I am afraid of him."

Thebodeau in his own behalf said that he was not drunk. That all he had was a half pint of whiskey which he and his friend Pothier drank. He also said that he never threatened his wife and that the trouble was that she was never at home and that he had to sew the patches on his trousers himself. He further denied having a revolver.

Officer Walsh, who made the arrest produced a formidable looking revolwhich he said that he had found under the man's pillow. The gun was fully loaded.

The court then sentenced Thebodeau to pay a fine of $10. He did not have the ten so took an appeal. His companion who helped drink the half ver which he said that he had found He also appealed. As neither of the men could find surities they will probably go to Dedham until the grand jury comes in the first Monday in August.

BIG GRANITE SHIPMENTS

June Output Surpassed That of May Product

Returns from the two railroad shipping terminals for the month of June show that the total amount of rough and finished granite shipped from Quincy by rail that month to have been 15,984,082 pounds as against 14,963,433 pounds for the month of May which is usually the largest month of the year. Of the June shipments West Quincy forwarded 10,656,970 pounds and Quincy Adams 5,327,112 pounds.

SCHOOLBOY'S SHOULD NOTS

With a Few Woulds That Would Make Ideal Conditions

Edmonton, Alta., July 16.—"What are some of the most important duties of a good citizen?" was a question asked of Harold Mason, a 13 years' old pupil in the sixth grade at the Alexander Taylor public school of Edmonton. His answer, which won the coveted promotion at the examination, a few days ago, follows:

"A good citizen should never vote for a man who is a 'grafter,' because he will put all the money he can in his pocket, neglect his duties and not try to make the city prosper.

"He should vote against the liquor traffic and never touch it. He should never use profane language, and he will always willingly help the poor and needy.

"He should vote toward paving streets and try to make his city a good place to live in. He should have good schools and send his children to them.

"He would try to stop the armies from having money to spend on ships of war, and not have war, but turn it over to the cities to make them beautiful.

"Then there would be sewers, water works, telephones and electric lights all over the city.

"He should encourage the building of nice bungalows and fine hotels, have no tents, make the people clean up their yards and have lawns with beautiful flowers.

"When he found a man out of work he would try to get him a job, and then he would be what I call a real good citizen."

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

COOLING SUMMER DRINKS.

WHEN the housewife entertains a few friends on a summer afternoon or when she wishes to allay the misery of the family on hot evenings it is delightful to know of some novel and piquant drink which may be served even in temperance households.

Where fresh fruits are available of course their juices make the nicest beverages, but where they are not conveniently at hand there are many fruit sirups that may be safely substituted for them.

Here are some recipes for compounding these summer thirst quenchers:

A Medley of Fruits.

Banana Cup.—Take two sliced bananas, some grated pineapple, a few slices of oranges and a few cherries. Over these pour the juice of an orange and a lemon. Place in sherbet glasses and keep in a cold place until served.

A Novel Use of Tea.

Fruit and Tea Punch.—Take the juice of three oranges, three lemons, the pulp and juice of one ripe pineapple and add a pint of sugar. When the sugar is dissolved pour a quart of boiling water over one tablespoonful of strong tea and let it stand until cold. Strain and mix with the fruit, pulp and juice. Add a quart of apollinaris water and pour over ice in a punch bowl.

This With Berries.

Raspberry Vinegar.—Put three quarts of berries in a pint of best vinegar. Let stand several days, then mash and strain them. To each pint of juice add a pound of sugar and boil twenty minutes. When cold, bottle and cork. A spoonful in a glass of ice water makes a very refreshing drink.

Orange Nectar.—Take six oranges, remove the skin and all white pith and seeds. Divide into sections. Drop six heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar in a saucepan with the juice of two other oranges and some grated rind. Let these simmer until the sugar is dissolved, but not boiled.

Arrange the sections of the oranges in a punch bowl with the sirup and cold water, flavor with orange flower water and pour over the oranges in the bowl. At the last put in several pieces of ice.

IMPERILS MONROE DOCTRINE

Leading Suffragist Sees Such Danger In Great Britain's Note

Newport, R. I., July 16.—The United States must take a firm stand on the canal controversy with Great Britain as a means of upholding the Monroe doctrine is the declaration of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the rich suffragist leader, who gave out the following statement:

"Men, when desiring to patronize women. often say that we have intuition; call it intuition or common sense. you will find that in national questions it always leads to patriotic conclusions.

"The indifference of the public generally to the movements now making to challenge the Monroe doctrine is most appalling. Take the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, substitute for the disgraceful Clayton-Bulwar treaty, in a weakly yielding moment.

"We shall, of course, have enough self-respect left to pass the very proper law now under discussion, but the danger point is then reached. Thinking men, and if you please, thinking women, know that the time is rapidly approaching when there will be achallenge of the Monroe doctrine.

"This is what is aimed at in the communication from Great Britain. One of our great political parties denounced this treaty in its platform a few years ago. Will its members now run away from this because of the fact that Great Britain thinks that if we make laws clearly within our rights it may injure her in some quarters?"

CAMBRIDGE BOYS DROWN

Their Canoe Found Floating Bottom Up First Knowledge

Madison, N. H., July 16.—Adolph Graustein, Jr., 12, the son of the prominent milk contractor, and Myron W. Jackson, 14, the son of Charles W. Jackson, both of Cambridge, Mass., were drowned at Silver lake, Newton, near here.

The canoe in which the boys were paddling overturned in the choppy waters of the lake.

No one saw the canoe capsize and it was the sight of it floating bottom up near the shore which first alarmed the cottagers.

M'COOMBS ELECTED AS CHAIRMAN

Has Power to Appoint All Other Officers

Chicago, July 1.—William F. McCoombs of New York, Governor Woodrow Wilson's choice, was unanimously elected chairman of the Democratic national committee and was empowered to appoint a committee of not fewer than nine members to take active charge of the Democratic presidential nominee's campaign.

Mr. McCoombs also was authorized to select a national treasurer and such other officers as he may see fit, including possibly a vice chairman, and, after consulting with Governor Wilson, to name the location of the headquarters. Mr. McCoombs said that he thought the principal headquarters would be in New York.

"But I am not going to appoint anybody or select a place until I confer with Governor Wilson," he added.

Joseph E. Davies of Madison, Wis., was elected secretary of the committee, to succeed Urey Woodson of Kentucky. John I. Martin of St. Louis was re-elected sergeant-at-arms.

EVACUATION OF JUAREZ

Rebels Leaving to Enter Upon Harrassing Guerilla Warfare

Juarez, Mex., July 16.—Bullet-scarred Juarez, once the battleground where Madero won his revolution against Diaz, also birthplace of the present revolt and chief cause of international apprehension, may be had for the asking before the end of the week. All indications point to an early evacuation by the rebels.

General Pascual Orozco, Jr., the rebel chief; his father, Colonel Pascual Orozco, and his nephew, Colonel Jose Orozco, are the only rebel leaders here. All other officers and their men have been sent to Casas Grandes. General Orozco, it is announced, will go south to join these forces in three or four days.

There is no charge against General Orozco or his family in the United States but apprehension that extradition may be trumped up on technical grounds has kept the male members of the Orozco family from crossing the border.

The guerilla warfare is intended to be a "hunt and run" affair throughout northwest Mexico. The rebels now are gathering cattle and provisions around Casas Grandes. Stories of loot and confiscation in that region continue to come in, the Madero company and the Mexican Northwest railroad being the principal sufferers.

JOLLY TARS TO GREET LADIES

At Annual Review and Race of the Quincy Yacht Club

The annual ladies' day of the Quincy Yacht club will be held Thursday afternoon off the club house Houghs Neck. The plans for the day are very much the same as in other years. That is there will be a review and sail in the harbor. Returning from the sail there will be refreshments served in the club house and in the evening there will be a promenade concert and hop. The review and sail will start at 3 o'clock and the committee have secured a large steamer so that all who desire may participate in the sail. After passing in review of the flagship, and saluting Commodore Whittemore the fleet will sail over one of the regular courses, to be determined on the day of the sail.

Yacht owners who have not their complement of guests are requested to notify Fleet Captain F. W. Easterbrook or any member of the House Committee.

Commodore Whittemore has appointed the following reception committee for that day: L. L. Files, F. E. Winslow, George W. Holden, Thomas E. Furnald, George H. Newcomb, John Winslow, W. H. Nichols, L. W. Mathews, F. R. Cowling, George E. Bell, Andrew F. Burrill, Harry E. Winslow, W. Russell Parker, James Hector, John A. Emery, W. S. Hardwick, Eben W. Sheppard, William G. Webb.

They will be assisted by the following members of the house committee: Commodore Ira M. Whittemore, Secretary John O. Hall, William H. Huy, Fred E. Tupper, George L. T. Tupper, Rear Commodore Frank F. Crane, Treasurer George S. Morse, William J. Hudson, Wallace W. Arnold, Elmer F. Ricker, Edgar P. Plummer.

HURRY CALL FOR POLICE

From Squantum Resulted in Arrest of Four Fishermen

WRONG KIND OF BAIT

The police had another wild ride to Squantum Monday night after a gang of drunks. Word was received shortly after 9 o'clock that a gang of men had come ashore at Moon island and were on their way to Squantum. It was thought that the gang was a similar one to that of a few weeks ago who broke into stores and did more or less damage. Sergt. Bishop sent the patrol wagon down on the rush. In the wagon were Officers Cahill, Sweeney, Duffy and Avery. When they arrived at Squantum they found four men all of whom were placed under arrest. The men claimed that they had come to Squantum to fish. The bait however was largely in bottles and two of the men had taken more of the bait than was good for them. In court this morning the four were arraigned charged with drunkenness. Two were discharged and two fined $10 each. The men fined were Stephen Gallagher and Hugo Sowle.

DISTRICT COURT.

Charles Pothiea was sent to the state farm for drunkenness at Braintree and William H. Thebodeau was fined $10 for a similar offence at Braintree. Both appealed.

Stephen Gallagher and Hugo Sowle were fined $10 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

The continued case of Lucio DiBona for threatening to assault his wife at Quincy was called and he was sentenced to three months in the house of correction. Sentence suspended until June 30, 1913.

John Hall was fined $3 costs for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Arthur O'Keefe was fined $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

The continued case of Frank M. Rogers of the Boston Bay Steamboat Company for alleged violation of the liquor transportation was called. He was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $50. He appealed and gave bail for his appearance before the Superior court.

SODER IS HELD FOR AUTO DEATH

Pleads Not Guilty and Gives Bonds of $500

Brockton, Mass., July 16.—David O. Soder, the young student who is working his way through college, and who surrendered to the police as the person driving the automobile which killed Miss Ella A. Hennessy of Bridgewater, was arraigned in the district court on a charge of running away after he had injured a person with his machine. Soder pleaded not guilty and his case was continued until July 25 to await the result of the coroner inquest. The young man was held in $500. Bonds were provided.

The police say they have learned the name of the young woman who was with Soder Friday night. They declare she is Miss Sena Berglund of Cary street, this city.

Soder is employed by Mrs. Angie Browne, a well-to-do widow living at 1013 Bain street. Mrs. Browne was in court.

PETITION TO RECALL

School Committeeman Breen Who Pleaded Guilty of Conspiracy

Petition Filed For Recall of Convicted School Committeeman

Lawrence, Mass., July 16.—A petition asking for the recall of School Committeeman James J. Breen was filed with City Clerk Edward J. Wade. The petition was circulated by the Ministers' association and the Central Labor union.

It asked for the recall of Breen, who had been found guilty of planting dynamite during the recent textile strike. He was fined $300. The paper is said to contain more than the necessary 2500 names needed in a case of this kind.

SEABOARD GOVERNORS

To Attend the New London Waterways Convention

Philadelphia, Pa., July 15.—Congressman J. Hampton Moore, President of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, has issued the call for the Fifth Annual Convention of that body which will take place September 4th, 5th and 6th, at New London, Conn., and from the present indications it will far exceed any previous convention in point of attendance.

The New London arrangements are being worked out by a committee of prominent business men and city officials, of which Mayor Bryan F. Mahan is chairman, and it is said that the program of entertainment will equal, if not excel, the best that has been provided at any of the previous gatherings.

One of the features of the Convention will be an assemblage of the Governors of the Atlantic Seabound states on the first day. Fraternal greetings between the North and South will be a feature of these proceedings. Governor Baldwin, of Connecticut, will make the address of welcome on behalf of the "Nutmeg" State and Governor Mann, of Virginia, will respond for the South. It is expected that President Taft and Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, will also be present during the exercises.

The Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association was formed in. Philadelphia, in 1907, for the purpose of agitating an inland waterway from Maine to Florida. The agitation resulted in the adoption of a definite project, the largest section of which has been surveyed by Government Engineers and favorably recommended to Congress. This section extends from Boston across Cape Cod by canal to Buzzards Bay; to Long Island Sound; to Raritan Bay; across New Jersey by the New Jersey Sea-Level Canal to the Delaware River; to Delaware Bay; to the Delaware & Chesapeake Canal, to Chesapeake Bay, thence from Norfolk, Va., to Beaufort, N. C., over the Virginia-Carolina Waterway.

VACUUM CLEANER VS. INSECTS.

An energetic young man, who believed that vacuum carpet cleaners could be sold in the country as well as in the city, is responsible for the death of millions of grasshoppers. He mounted a cleaner on a light sled and pushed it before him over the alfalfa. The hoppers jumped from before it as it reached them and were drawn by the suction into the machine. When the holder was full he dumped the hoppers into a box and killed them.

FATHER AND SON HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Latter Got a Strangle Hold on Former Who Had Hastened to His Rescue

Both Saved By Heroic Efforts of Summer Residents

John Halpin and his son, Gerald, 18 years old, of 50 Crosby street, Houghs Neck had a narrow escape from drowning, Tuesday afternoon, and owe their existence today to the heroic efforts of two young men, James Fay and Frank Rogers who are summer residents of the Neck.

Young Halpin was in bathing near the public landing. He is an indifferent swimmer being able to swim but a few strokes, and had gone quite a little distance from the landing into deep water when his strength began to fail His father who was on the shore watching him noticed his condition. Gerald called for help. The father responded without a moments hesitation. He rushed to the assistance of the boy and perhaps all would have been well and they would probably have reached shore without much difficulty, but the son was beyond all powers of reason when the father reached him. The son grabbed the father in such a manner that he was rendered powerless. They were both dragged beneath the surface by the frantic grip of the boy.

It was at this point that Fay and Rogers appeared on the scene.

While not exactly dressed for a "Stiff Friday evening party," they were not in the usual bathing costume. They had on regular trousers and jerseys, stockings and sneakers. With one accord they kicked off the sneakers and stockings but did not wait to discard any more clothing and plunged into the water.

Their task was not an easy one by any means. With quick determined strokes they quickly reached the father and son, struggling in the water. The former trying to break sons grip in order that he might save both, the son with the unreasonableness of the drowning person, who is really oblivious to conditions or surrounding, clinging to his rescuer and impeding his efforts, the ultimate result of such a contest being death to both unless there was outside interference. Fay and Rogers on reaching the pair had to struggle hard to pry them apart and then brought them both to shore.

Both the boy and his father were exhausted but were soon revived by people attracted to the locality by the incident.

Fay and Rogers were pretty well tuckered out after their efforts. They were congratulated by every one for their heroic work in saving the lives of Mr. Halpin and his son.

ESTIMABLE LADY HONORED

For Good Deeds by Kind Friends and Well Wishers

Miss Amelia L. Bumpus of Spear street who was the trusted and efficient librarian of the Thomas Crane public library for thirty-five years, was remembered Tuesday by her many friends, the occasion being her seventy-third birthday. During Miss Bumpus' term of service in the library her untiring energy and devotion to her work and her kindness and thoughtfulness in assisting the pupils of the public schools in selecting books, which would enable them to advance in their studies, won the gratitude of the parents and friends. Miss Bumpus is an honored member of various organizations in the city, is deaconess of Bethany church and a beloved and faithful teacher in the Sunday school.

She takes a keen and active interest in all the questions of the day and enjoys the esteem and respect of a large circle of friends.

Miss Bumpus is the daughter of Captain Bumpus who served with distinction in the civil war, and a sister of one of our honored citizens Judge E. C. Bumpus of Presidents hill. She was the recipient of many pretty gifts and pleasant reminders. Kind wishes and many happy returns are extended to her.

DISTRICT COURT.

Victor Salini was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

The continued case of Michael Russo for selling leased property was heard and he was fined $50. Russo purchased a lot of furniture on the instalment plan from H. L. Kincaide & Co., part of which he later sold.

The continued case of Albert W. Keys of Braintree for larceny from William H. Mace was heard and he was found guilty and placed on probation until October 10. In the meantime he is to make restitution.

Michael Neimo a street fakir was fined $5 for pedling without a license at Quincy. He settled.

FINED $25 FOR OVERLOADING

Quincy Man Haled Into Court by S. P. C. to A.

ASSISTANT ALSO PUNISHED

Herbert J. Smith of Quincy was fined $25 and Timothy Mahoney of Boston was fined $10 in Judge Ely's court yesterday on charges of cruelty to two horses in that a caravan in which the horses were pulling was overloaded. The complainant was the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Both men paid their fines.

Two of the society's agents testified that the team was stalled at Devonshire and Franklin streets July 8 and that there were six tons in the load. They said that another wagon was sent for and 20 bags of the stuff were taken off the main load. The team was stalled again on Court street, they said. The two men said they did not know just how much they had in their load, but felt sure that they were within the law. The court thought otherwise. Smith was fined $25 because he hired the team and was bossing the job, while Mahoney was the driver.

JANITOR SMITH FELL 20 FEET

Stringer on Which He Stood Slipped From Under Him

Thomas J. Smith, janitor of the Quincy school, Atlantic, fell from 15 to 20 feet off a stringer Tuesday while working about the school. Mr. Smith had not noticed that the stringer was not nailed and while passing a hammer to a carpenter it slipped and let him fall down the stairway.

His left side is badly bruised, and the doctor cannot yet determine just how serious the injury may be. The muscles of his left arm and leg are badly strained and it will be some time before Mr. Smith will be able to resume his duties.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD.

Word has been received from Oak Park, Illinois, of the death of Mrs. Maria Shaw (Bramhall) Butters, wife of George Butters, who left Quincy about forty years ago. The body will be brought to Quincy Friday, for burial to Mt. Wollaston cemetery. It is expected to arrive in Quincy at two o'clock, when it will be taken to the cemetery, where prayers will be offered.

FICTION IN SUMMER?

Writing in the Woman's Home Companion, Jeannette L. Gilder says:

"I never could understand just why, but, for some reason or other, people are supposed to read nothing but fiction in the summer-time, and yet it is in the summer that they have the most leisure for reading; that is, people who do have leisure.

"Perhaps it is because they spend so much time in hammocks and on verandas in the summer that young and old want light literature, light in calibre and light in weight, for one could not hold a large book while reclining in a hammock or lounging in a veranda chair!

"As a rule, the most important fiction is published in the fall, and it is the lighter novels that are published in the spring and early summer. As the publishers must know their market this argues that summer is the time when people read novels."

There was a large crowd of children in City Square this morning to see the circus parade pass.

BARRE TIMES SAYS AMEN

To the Ledger's Suggestion of Quincy Granite for Boston City Hall

The Barre, Vt., Daily Times, commenting upon the Ledger's advocacy of Quincy granite in the construction of the new annex to the Boston City Hall, has the following timely suggestion:

"The Quincy, Mass., Ledger is insistent that the proposed addition to the city hall structure in Boston be built of Quincy granite, and the contemporary's position is well taken. With an excellent building material as handy to Boston as is Quincy granite, there ought to be no reason why such should not be used. Many of Boston's earlier structures were built of Quincy granite, and the stone has apparently stood the reasonable test of time. Moreover, the appearance of such stone after years of weatherings and exposure to the smoke of a large city is as good as the general run of stone building materials. Therefore, all things considered, Quincy ought to receive this contract, and possibly the contract for the addition to the United States customs house. Both, or even one of these contracts, would mean considerable to the granite industry there, since the city hall contract, for example, calls for nearly three-quarters of a million dollars in stone. As the contemporary suggests, the Quincy Board of Trade, or some other competent organization, should take up this work at once, to make certain that Quincy granite is selected."

Inasmuch as the original Boston City hall, was constructed of Quincy granite, it seems only fitting that any additions to the building should be of the same material.

ANGRY PROTEST BY HIBERNIANS

Ladies Auxiliary Object to Woman Suffrage Speech

LIVELY FIGHT FOR OFFICE

Massachusetts Hibernians are after two of the high offices of the order and auxiliary at the conventions now held in Chicago. Patrick Cannon of Clinton, Mass., is a candidate for National secretary. There are 10 candidates for this honor and his friends from Massachusetts spent their spare moments campaigning for him. At the Lasalle Hotel his backers held a meeting to discuss ways and means of putting their candidate through.

Mrs. Mary McCarthy of Westfield, Mass., vice president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, is one of three candidates for the presidency of that organization. Mrs. McCarthy's strongest opponent is Mrs. Eleanor M. Jolly of Pawtucket, R. I. The other candidate is Mrs. Mary McWhorter of Chicago. The election of officers for both organizations is scheduled for Thursday.

Woman suffrage was hooted at a meeting of the women in the Red Room of the Lasalle this afternoon. Joseph T. McLaughlin, vice president of the A. O. H., in a speech before the Auxiliary, expressed himself in favor of woman suffrage. His speech brought forth a storm of angry protests from the 500 women assembled.

Jeffrey E. Sullivan State secretary of Massachusetts, was among the boosters working for the election of Mr. Cannon as secretary.

OBJECT TO CANAL BILL

Port Directors Take Exceptions to Some Provisions

BANCROFT WRITES CRANE

The amendments to the Panama Canal bill, excluding from the canal railroad-owned vessels engaged in coastwise trade, are opposed by the Directors of the Port of Boston.

In a letter to Senator Crane Gen. Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the directors, recently urged that the railroads be restricted in their steamboat operations no further than absolutely necessary under the general laws of the conduct of interstate commerce.

"The Directors of the Port of Boston," Gen. Bancroft wrote, "are of the opinion that their efforts in the way of extension and development of coastwise trade from this port will be of the greatest benefit to the Commonwealth.

"It is a fact that the regular coastwise lines on the Atlantic Coast are largely owned or controlled by railroads, and as a practical matter we must look to the railroads for the further extension of this traffic. The New England railroads, being dependent upon the prosperity of the manufactures of New England, will have substantial motives in their interest to engage in the coastwise traffic to the Pacific Coast via the Panama Canal. This seems to us a legitimate and proper extension of their business."

In reply to Gen. Bancroft's letter, Senator Crane has written that he is opposed to any provisions excluding railroad-owned ships from the canal and will do all in his power to prevent such action from being taken.

President C. S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad yesterday wrote Senator Lodge, urging him to exert his influence with regard to the attempt to exclude railroad-owned ships from the canal and declaring that such legislation would prove a very serious error.

CIRCUS PARADE DREW CROWD

Downie and Wheeler's circus arrived in Quincy from Norwood, about five o'clock this morning. There were quite a number of people, mostly of the younger set out to extend a greeting to the show. The outfit quickly entrained and moved to the Water street grounds, where an afternoon and evening performance will be given.

The usual street parade was held this forenoon. A big crowd greeted the cavalcade as it moved through the streets.

There was a troop of lady and gentlemen riders in advance followed by open vans, elephants, camels, clowns and trained dogs, the steam calliope as usual bringing up the rear.

One open cage was separated by an iron railing on one side of which was a big lion and the other side a man. The man had a revolver in his hand. The lion clawed at the bars to get in at him. The horses all looked well.

One of the open cars of the Bay State street railway, decorated in mourning, conveyed employes of the company from Quincy and Braintree to Holbrook this afternoon to attend the funeral of Conductor Charles F. Wilde, who run for many years on the Quincy Brockton route.

GRADE CROSSING COMMISSION REPORTS BRAINTREE CHANGES

Present Passenger Station to be Abolished to Make Room for Modern Structure

Quincy Still in the Dark as to Local Situation

The Braintree grade crossing question, hearings upon which began after those in Quincy, before the same commission has been settled, but Quincy is still in the dark as to what is proposed for this city. In the summer of 1911, the commission promised Mayor Shea that they would render their finding before he went out of office in January.

Ex-Mayor Shea has been out of office for nearly seven months and as far as known Quincy is as far from being informed what it is proposed to do here as it was a year ago.

What it is proposed to do in Braintree was made public several weeks ago and Tuesday the special commission composed of ex-Governor John L. Bates, Winfield S. Slocum of Newton and Arthur H. Wellman of Malden filed their report with the clerk of courts at Dedham.

The commission provides for the work to be under the charge of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R.R. and that apportionment of the cost shall be to the N. Y.; N. H. & H. R. R. Company 65 per cent, the town of Braintree 10 per cent and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts 25 per cent.

In the abolition of these grade crossings there is suggested the construction of six new ways, three of which take the place of the crossings and the other three are constructed in making connections by new street lines.

The plan also provides for the abolition of the present passenger station and erection of a new one.

In the proposed changes various parcels of land have been taken as follows:

For railroad purposes—Lydia A. H. Butler, 23,000 square feet; Moses Tibbetts, 14,500; William B. Denton, 3900.

For highway purposes— Richard Murray, 266 square feet; Henry T. Reed, 3700; Alfred B. Davis, 100; John H. Donahue, 6700; Old Colony Railroad, 20,768; Old Colony Railroad, 39,700; Franklin Shaw, 9700; parties unknown, 832; Old Colony Railroad, 14,000; Herman H. Kelly, 11. EDITORIAL COMMENT.

"The old boy" could not resist the lure of power and politics.

Bailey departing from the senate leaves a calamity trail behind in his last official utterances.

The provision dealers of New Bedford will feel the effects of the strike before anyone else.

Have your scales examined by the inspector and be sure they are correct or you may get into trouble.

The gubernatorial ring is somewhat crowded by the styles and number of hats thrown into it.

If dealers can make profits on those mark down sales just think of the harvest they reap when selling at regular prices.

The Kansas City woman who made a fool of herself sending out letters for a husband has woke up and given up the job.

Even churches have got into the habit of combining. Not in restraint of attendance but to minimize expenses.

Even a rat will turn at bay as Boston's official rat catcher found out when a rodent sprang at his throat and fell short.

Morse says he has no apologies to offer. He can safely make that remark now that he is beyond federal control.

The heat proved too much for C. F. King. He could not diet to prepare for the operation which is again postponed.

Water is considered a surprising remedy for many human disorders. Water, either as a beverage or bath would be a novelty to a great many people.

What does Harry Thaw want freedom for when he can ride around in an automobile and take ten-mile jaunts through the country for exercise?

"Braves out to win," is the way one paper put it the other day. From the result and their position it looks as though they were out to lose everything in sight.

Yes, why not ask T. R. about those 1904 campaign contributions. The answer could be anticipated. He would have "no time to answer those and hundreds of other foolish questions."

Boston people object to a school in the Fens and Malden people kick against a tuberculosis hospital, all because they will annoy wealth and lower property values. The christian spirit among some of those people needs a little prodding for proper development.

Roosevelt demands a new party or nothing. No one ever expected anything else. Wonder who will be the head of that party?

The country will accept with much satisfaction the determination of President Taft to keep off the stump in this campaign. He would have lost nothing and gained much to his dignity if he had refused to listen to the clamor of ill advisors on this subject in the primaries.

THE TITANIC ARCH.

"To the Men who gave their lives, women and children might be saved." This simple yet impressive and eloquent tribute will adorn the memorial arch to be erected to the heroes of the great Titanic disaster by the women of the United States. The movement is nation wide in its scope and embraces all branches. Wealthy women of leisure are at the head of the movement. Already they feel assured of a fund of $500,000 for carrying out their plans which will assure enduring artistic and architecturally beautiful monument. It is planned to have this memorial erected in Washington D. C., capital of the nation. Undoubtedly the proposed site is a satisfactory one in many ways. But an honest suggestion at this time regarding the location would not seem out of place.

The ship was bound for New York. Would it not be suitable that the memorial arch be erected at this port of destination. It could be located at a point along the water front, surmounted by an heroic figure, hearing aloft a torch, symbolic of patriotism heroism and self sacrifice. New York opens its arms to more emigrants each year than any port of the western hemisphere. What more fitting than that those sons and daughters of other climes, when awakened to the first dawn of the day in a new land, in which they plan to make their homes and carve their fortunes, should be greeted by this tribute to heroism manly courage, care and regard for the women and helpless children, an indication of the lofty ideals of the land of their adoption and future fortunes?

THE CIRCUS HAS COME TO TOWN

"The circus has come to town." That is enough to stir the youngster of the present day, if he is by any means a prototype of the man of today and the boy of yesterday. To the man of the present day, the arrival of a circus conjures up visions of his boyhood days which like banquo's ghost "will not be downed." For weeks and weeks, the younster gazed in wonder upon the flaming poster. Daily he counted his pennies, treasuring them with miserly care, until the required sum was obtained. He went "junking," performed odd chores, in fact did everything possible to earn an honest penny to add to the copper store until it reached the size when it could be converted into the more hallowed silver.

The boys of those days were different from what they are today. It would be tedious to go over the cause and effect of such a change, but the indisputable fact remains. The boy lucky enough to have a grandfather or a bachelor uncle, who seized as an excuse to attend the show, the Samaritan idea of giving grandson or nephew a treat was lucky. He was sure of attending without the care and worry" of raising the "dough." With the other poor litle chap it was different. Then there were other ways of seeing the show. Carrying water for the horses, doing errands for the circus men and other little things around the tent and then there was the risky but exciting attempt to crawl under the canvas. Some were successful in this endeavor, while others, well they fared somewhat harshly. A kick, the sting of a barrel stave or piece of plank was their portion. But why dwell upon that painful incident of the circus. Better to draw a veil over it and look on the bright side. But the circus itself. The average boy and girl, remained awake half, or perhaps the entire night, and was out at daylight to welcome the show and at night if permitted would remain up until after midnight to witness the loading up and bid adieu to the company. Then things settled back into the old routine, until revived by the announcement of the coming of another circus.

Perhaps the boys of the present day have a better time than those of the yesterday, but ask any of the latter how things have changed, and while admitting this condition, few and far between are the ones who will not hearken back to those olden days revel in the fun and frolic, steep in a recital of the good times they had and would scorn to change places, if they had the chance, with the more pampered youth of the present age.

THE ARCHBALD CASE.

Why delay in the trial of the case of Judge Archbald? This question is not confined to a few people, but to the great masses of the people. There is no prejudice in the demand for a speedy hearing of this case. The man is either guilty or not guilty of the offences with which he is charged. Simple justice to him and to the country at large demand prompt action in the matter. Delays excused on the plea of hot weather, politics, lack of time or any other subterfuge should not be tolerated or accepted by the people.

If the man is guilty he should not be permitted to disgrace the bench for a single moment longer than is consistent with simple justice. If he is innocent, the quicker the people know it the better and then this broadcast smirching of public officials will cease. Delays are dangerous in a case of this kind. Archbald if he is innocent should demand a speedy trial to show to the country that he is a maligned and much wronged personage and official. Hesitation on his part at this particular time would have an unsavory odor. It would mean that he desires to hold on to the place with the emoluments derived just as long as possible before the final blow is struck. Wake up Mr. Archbald, assert your innocence and demand that which is the right of every just and honest man, a quick and speedy trial to determine the points at issue. The people do not want any more two year sessions and exhibitions such as were produced by the Lorimer case. Dilly dallying on this important matter furnishes a weapon for those who would recklessly attack our judiciary and provides them with an argument to press home their claims for a recall.

HEALTH IN THE CANAL ZONE.

The remarkable record of the Sanitary Department of the Isthmian Canal Commission has been commented on so frequently that a report showing a degree of healthfulness in this formerly pest-ridden country, better than that reached by our best-governed American cities, no longer awakens surprise.

Simply as a matter of record, however, The Journal of the American Medical Association notes that the report of the Department of Sanitation for March, 1912, just issued, shows that out of 13,108 white employees of the Canal Commission and the Panama Railroad, only three died during March from disease and two from violence, a death-rate from disease of 2.75 per thousand per year, and a total death-rate, including accidents, of 4.58.

Even including the 37,987 colored employees, of whom twenty-five died of disease and six from violence, there was a total of only thirty-six deaths from disease and violence out of 51,095 employees, all engaged in the most arduous and dangerous work in a tropical region, noted ever since its discoverey by white men as a hot-bed of disease.

The total death-rate for all employees for the month of March was only 8.45 per thousand per year. The death-rate for the entire Canal Zone with its 159,514 inhabitants was only 4.67 per thousand per year, a death-rate to which any American city would point with pride.

When one turns to the list of white men, women and children from the United States, however, the true significance of the work of the Sanitary Department appears. There were on the Canal Zone in March, 1912, 5,113 white employees from the United States, 4,447 white women and children from the United States and a total of 11,923 white Americans.

Yet among this body of nearly 12,000 people there were only four deaths from disease, two of which were deaths of infants less than fifteen days old, the two remaining deaths being one from appendicitis in a man of forty-five and one of organic disease of the heart in a man of forty-two. Typhoid, diphtheria, malaria, measles, whooping-cough, tuberculosis, small-pox and other contagious diseases which cost the United States 300,000 lives annually, are practically abolished in the Canal Zone. And the same results could be secured in every city and village in this country if our present knowledge of disease were applied as intelligently here as it is in the Canal Zone.

ANDREW HERSEY.

Andrew Hersey, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hersey, well known to the older residents of this city, being a native and residing here the greater part of his life, died at his late home in Walderboro, Me., Monday. The remains will be brought to Forest Hills cemetery for interment. His only remaining relative is a sister, Mrs. William Chubbuck of Washington street, to whom the sympathy of friends is extended.

GRAFT CHARGES AGAINST POLICE

Followed by Murder of Man Who Informed

CRIME SHAKES NEW YORK CITY

Rosenthal Slain a Few Hours Before He Was to Give Testimony to Grand Jury—Called to Sidewalk by Group In Automobile and a Fusillade of Shots Ends Life

New York, July 17.—The efforts of the police to run down the six men who shot the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, to death in front of the Hotel Metropole but a few hours before he was to give evidence against the police about gambling graft, has resulted in the arrest of three men.

The identity of but one of them as a member of the party who did the shooting has as yet been established, however, to the satisfaction of the police.

The man in question is Louis Libby, thirty-five, chauffer. The police allege he drove the car that carried the murderers to the scene of their crime. When arrested he was defiant. After a few hours in a room at headquarters, where he was given a mild third degree by District Attorney Whitman, Police Commissioner Waldo, Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Hughes, in command of the detective bureau, and other high police officials, he began to weaken.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty asserted that eye witnesses to the murder of Rosenthal identified Libby as one of the men who drove up in front of the hotel, and, calling the gambler from the dining room to the sidewalk, shot him down with a fusillade of bullets and then fled in the motor car. Rosenthal was shot four times in the head.

Although evidence as to the motive of the shooting so far gathered seems to show that Rosenthal had feared death at the hands of the police, the theory was brought forward by the police, that Rosenthal had really been the victim of the so-called "gambling fraternity" which took the opportunity afforded by Rosenthal's activity against the police to seek revenge for "squealing" on them.

At least two witnesses agreed that one or more of the men in the automobile were policemen.

Rosenthal sprang suddenly into public notice only last Friday, when he hurled a bomb into the police circles by filing affidavits charging that the police were in league with the gamblers throughout New York and that every gambling house was being assessed a fixed sum for police protection. Rosenthal had been for some time, he explained, the proprietor of a gambling establishment on West Forty-fifth street, which was closed on April 15, after a raid by Police Lieutenant Becker, head of the so-called strong arm squad. This raid, Rosenthal declared, followed a misunderstanding between himself and Becker. The latter, Rosenthal alleged, was his partner in the profits of the establishment.

Rosenthal's charges were so sensational that Police Commissioner Waldo and District Attorney Whitman, both of whom were out of town, cut short their vacations to start an inquiry. Commissioner Waldo, after making himself acquainted with the situation, wrote a formal letter to the district attorney demanding an investigation by that official rather than through his own department. He said that Rosenthal's accusation was not so much a charge of bad discipline in the department as one of out and out crime, which if worthy of serious consideration at all would be worthy of adjudication before the regularly constituted criminal tribunal. District Attorney Whitman forthwith announced that he would begin a formal investigation.

The murder of Rosenthal supplied the climax. The gambler left his home telling his wife that he had an appointment to meet Police Lieutenant Becker at the Hotel Metropole. Rosenthal reached the hotel, where he was well known, some time after midnight, and sat down alone in the lobby, smoking a cigar and whistling as he watched the usual midnight crowd in Times square outside.

Shortly before two o'clock a slate-colored automobile drew up in front. One of the six passengers got out and walked into the hotel, beckoning to Rosenthal. "Herman," he called, "come out here, someone wants to see you."

Rosenthal, without hesitation, walked out. He had reached a point not more than a dozen feet from the door when a volley of shots rang out from the slate-colored car. Four of them found their target, and Rosenthal fell dead instantly with a bullet in his brain.

Almost before the crowd on the sidewalk and in the lobby realized that a shot had been fired, the touring car was underway and disappeared in the direction of Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Rosenthal, wife of the gambler, was driven almost frantic when a messenger went to the Rosenthal home to tell her that her husband had been slain.

"This is the police again," she exclaimed. "It is just what I expected. I stayed up fearing that Herman would not get back safe."

District Attorney Whitman said that Rosenthal had told him that he feared death at the hands of the police.

"The police have killed better men than me when it became necessary to do it to suppress evidence," the gambler said, according to the district attorney. Mr. Whitman added that when he took his statement as a joke, Rosenthal said: "It is no joking matter at all," and expressed the fear that something would happen to him in the next few hours.

PRESIDENT REBUKED

Senate Denounces Action by a Vote of 35 to 23

Washington, July 17.—The senate indirectly rebuked President Taft for his course in connection with the Lorimer case.

Once blocked from a vote by the Archbald impeachment proceedings, a resolution, battle-scarred in a protracted, bitter debate, finally was adopted, 35 to 23, denouncing "any attempt on the part of a president" to exercise the power of his office to influence a vote on questions within the senate's exclusive jurisdiction.

The resolution was originally framed by Senator Bailey, who had arraigned President Taft, aserting that e had been "officious and meddlesome" in endeavoring to line up regular Republican senators in the Lorimer case.

Not a Democrat voted against the resolution. Six Republicans voted for it, Senators Bourne, Clapp, Fall, Gallinger, McCumber and Works.

KILLED BY RHINOCEROS

Herbert Latham Was In the Congo a Victim of Consumption

Paris, July 17.—A dispatch received by the family of Hubert Latham, the French aviator, states that he has been killed by a bull rhinoceros while huning near Brazaville in the Congo. Latham was one of the best known aviators in the field, and was popular at the international contests held in America and England.

Latham was a consumptive. First he tried flying, and his daring made him world-famous. For pure daredevil work he was one of the greatest of all aviators.

HAVERHILL NOW THREATENS STRIKE

Industrial Workers Make Demands on 39 Shops

Haverhill, Mass., July 17.—The Industrial Workers of the World sprung a sensation in shoe circles when the local branch of the organization publicly announced that a strike would be called in thirty-nine shoe factories unless an immediate wage increase was granted to the block cutters, who have become identified with the I. W. W.

Few manufacturers in the city were aware that the cutters had organized in the I. W. W. and the demands received occasioned great surprise.

The situation is one of the most serious that ever has confronted the local shoe men, for this is the worst season of the year financially, as the shoes have been sent out to the buyers but the money has not been received in payment.

M'CLUNG TO STAY

Secretary of the Treasury and United States Treasurer Amicable

Washington, July 17.—Rumors that Lee McClung, treasurer of the United States, was "being forced to resign from the government service," have been current in Washington for the last day or two and have excited considerable speculation, in view of the recent resignation of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury A. Piatt Andrew.

These rumors are pronounced by Secretary MacVeagh and Treasurer McClung to be absolutely baseless. It will be recalled that in his letter of withdrawal, Dr. Andrew referred to Mr. McClung as one of the officials who had been unable to transact business in co-operation with Secretary MacVeagh. Whether or not this charge was true, it is believed here that all causes of friction, if any, have been removed, and that Treasurer McClung does not contemplate resigning his position.

Herbert Smith, Commisioner of Corporations Resigns Position

Washington, July 17.—Herbert K. Mr. Smith will go to New York for a conference with Colonel Roosevelt on Friday when his political plans will be mapped out. He will probably take an active part in the campaign, discussing corprations with particular reference to the Sherman anti-trust law.

Smith has resigned as commissioner of corporations to join the forces of Theodore Roosevelt and the new progressive party.

ALLEGED CRAP SHOOTERS AND TRESPASSERS IN COURT

An Even Dozen Were Fined $15, Others $5 and Sentences Were Suspended.

Judge Avery Warned the Defendants To Be Good Hereafter.

A good part of the morning session of the district court was taken up in hearing a lot of cases of alleged crap shooting, trespass and being present where an unlawful game was in progress on the Lord's day. The alleged offences were commited on Sunday July 7. In the morning a large gang of young fellows visited the Water street ball grounds at South Quincy and not only tore down the trespass signs but they did other damage to the property and then settled down for a game of craps. The crowd was unaware however that Inspector Goodhue and Officer Milford were near by, although out of sight watching what was going on. The officers secured the names of the parties and they were summoned into court.

In the afternoon of the same day the gang again met but this time it was on the playground at South Quincy, the change being made for the reason that during the afternoon the sun beat down good and hot on the ball field. Here again Inspector Goodhue and Officer Milford had an unobstructed view of the proceedings from a near by house. As a result of the day's work a large bunch was haled into court this morning. Most of the defendants entered a plea of guilty and five or six said not guilty, and of the latter number three were discharged.

The outcome of the trial resulted in the following twelve being adjudged guilty and fined $15 each: James McNaughton, Arthur Belleveau, Fred Ciardi, James Matheson, Ernest Ciardi, Francis Powers, Christopher Daley, Harry Eidelstein, Judas Smith, Abie Silver, Alex Gesmere and Angus McIntosh. Guermo Di Ermo pleaded not guilty and was discharged. None of the men were able to pay their fines and Judge Avery suspended the execution of their sentences until October 10, 1912.

The following were fined $5 each for being present at the game. John J. Walsh, Thomas A. Higgins, Albert Johnson and Frank H. Brownrigg. John Furningham pleaded not guilty was found not guilty and discharged.

The following were fined $5 each for trespassing on the grounds of the Quincy City Base Ball league: Christopher Daley, Abraham Catler, James McNaughton, Arthur Belleveau, Fred Ciardi, John Matheson, Ambrose Igo, and Edward Igo. Ernest Ciardi pleaded not guilty and was dismissed.

The execution of the sentences on trespassing and being present at a crap game was suspended until September 12.

At the conclusion of the trial, Judge Avery warned the offenders that if they resorted to any crap shooting in the future that they would be immediately surrendered by the probation officer and forced to suffer the consequences.

NO SHORTAGE OF WATER SUPPLY

In Metropolitan System Despite the Long Drought

In spite of June being the dryest in the history of the Boston weather station the amount of water in the storage basins of the Metropolitan system on July 6 measured 13,000,000,000 gallons more than it did on the corresponding date last year.

On July 6, 1912, one month after the last storm of any consequence, there were 77,500,000,000 gallons of water in the various basins, while on July 6, 1911, they contained 64,500,000,000 gallons.

These figures of course take no account of the heavy rains of last Thursday and of Sunday morning, from which a considerable volume of water must have flowed into the basins While the rainfall of last Thursday measured 1.14 inches at the Weather Bureau's Station on the Federal Building, far greater amounts descended in the northern suburbs, materially benefitting many of the basins in the Metropolitan system. At Spy Pond, Arlington, for example, the fall measured 1.98 inches, and at Chestnut Hill 1.57 inches.

There is still need for more rain, for the soil has been baked through and through by the excessive heat of the past two weeks.

Quincy gets its supply from the Chestnut Hill reservoir.

GREAT DANGER FOR AMERICANS

Many May Be Left In Isolated Places

DESTROY MEXICAN RAILROADS

Then American Families Would Have Scant Means of Escape—Federal and Rebel Troops Alike Loot and Commit Depredations — Mormon Colonists Suffer From Federal Troops—Friction May Arise

Juarez, Mex., July 17.—More than 500 American citizens, together with their wives and families, in towns along the Mexican Northwestern railroad, are threatened with isolation far from the American border with scant means of escaping depredations of Mexican rebels. Sufficient facts became known of the situation along the Mexican Northwestern to warrant the statement that it would cause no surprise if the Americans in all the towns along the line were warned to leave Mexico at once.

General Pasquale Orozco, Jr., within the last twenty-four hours had ordered the Mexican Northwest railroad destroyed between Pearson and Madera, 207 miles southwest of here, but the order has been mysteriously rescinded. Though the destruction of the Northwestern for a hundred miles in a mountainous region, where it cannot be rebuilt for months, has been delayed, officials of the road are in constant fear that it may be done at any moment. The railroad is owned by the Pearsons interests, a British corporation, which likewise owns the Madera Lumber company. Nearly all of the employes, however, numbering more than 500, are Americans. The quandary before the officials today is to whom to apply.

It was said they did not wish to ask the British government to make representations for protection, for, while the property is British, the employes are American. For the Pearson officials, on the other hand, to order an exodus of their employes would mean to leave the properties and supplies at the mercy of the rebels. They already have looted the Madera company's storehouse of several thousand dollars' worth of goods.

That the Mexican Northwestern railroad, along which most of the rebel army now is stretched, is doomed to destruction, is generally admitted, for the rebels intend to harrass the government forces moving northwestward from Chihuahua City. It is feared that after the destruction of the railroad and the telegraph, Americans marooned in the interior would have no redress if depredations by irresponsible rebel bands should occur. It is desired, however, to take no chances, and the women and children in the American colonies will be moved at once to the United States. Though the hungry rebels, it is considered, may cause trouble in confiscating supplies and possibly in looting the many handsome residences erected by Americans, more apprehension is really felt that the rebels will demand the arms and ammunition which the Americans have for self-protection.

Mormons Prepared to Resist

Colonia Morelos, Mex., July 17.—With the expectation that thousands of Mormons in Arizona and New Mexico will come to their assistance in case of emergency the Mormons here and in the sister colony of Colonia Oaxaca, twenty-five miles east, are calmly awaiting the approaching clash between federals and rebels in this vicinity. The colonists regard their property as distinctly neutral, and so have refused to furnish horses or supplies to rebels and federals alike. Friction with the federals, however, has come because the government forces have been quartered here.

Bishop O. P. Brown, who investigated conditions in the Mormon colonies at Colonia Morelos and Colonia Oaxaca, has returned with sworn statements from prominent Mormons charging the Mexican government troops with alleged encroachments and indignities. The colonists declared they were asked to furnish teams and horses and payment was refused by Generals Sanjines and Blanco, the federal commanders. The federals finally obtained Mexican teams.

ROSES GOT CUT GLASS DISHES

Squantum Prize Winners Entertained By Mrs Reed

The young ladies who rode on the float that captured a prize in Atlantic July fourth were entertained by Mrs. William A. Reed at her home last night.

The float named "Squantum Roses" also got first prize in the Squantum fourth of July parade the prize being a set of twelve cut glass dishes and each of the twelve young ladies was presented a beautiful cut glass dish. The presentation was made by Mrs. Reed.

Mrs. John R. Nelson, Mrs. Gustav Wunderlich, Mrs. C. E. Carlson members of the committee of arrangements assisted Mrs. Reed in serving refreshments. Dancing was enjoyed on the spacious piazza.

Among those present were: Mrs. J. R. Nelson, Mrs. Joseph Duff, Mrs. C. E. Carlson, Mrs. M. Bickley, Mrs. Gustav Wunderlich, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. H. A. Smith, Thelma Holt, Ethel Morse, Katherine Grady, Blanche Adams, Eva Adams, Annie Morrill, Hazel Lovejoy, Muriel Jones, Beulah Shumway, Parker Reed and Miss Logan.

Miss Hazel Harvey, who also rode on the float was unable to be present.

SUMMER RECEIPES.

Fannie Merritt Farmer, the cookery editor of the Woman's Home Companion, writes in that periodical on "Tempting Hot-Weather Dishes." She says that good housewives should try hard during the summer days to stimulate the too often flagging appetites. She gives a number of receipes, three of which follow

"Chocolate Egg-and-Milk Shake—Put two tablespoonfuls of finely crushed ice in a tumbler, and add two and one-half tablespoonsfuls of chocolate syrup, one egg, and two-thirds cupfuls of milk. Shake thoroughly and strain. Add a few gratings of nutmeg or a few grains of cinnamon."

"Sunday-Night Favorite—Cut cold boiled potatoes in half-inch slices, and then cut slices in half-inch cubes; there should be one and one-half cupfuls. Add three hard boiled eggs, finely chopped, one-fourth tablespoonful of finely chopped onion, and one canned pimento, drained, dried on a towel, and cut in thin strips. Moisten with salad dressing and serve in nests of crisp lettuce-leaves."

"Luncheon Ice-Cream Coffee—Pour out coffee remaining in pot, chill thoroughly, dilute with cream, and sweeten to taste. Serve in tll glasses, allowing one tablespoonful of vanilla ice cream to each glass."

AVIATORS SUSPENDED.

Eight of the licensed aviators who took part in the meet at Squantum early this month have been suspended by the Aero Club of America for participating in that meet which was refused the sanction of the Aero Club. The aviators suspended are Lincoln Beachey, Glenn L. Martin, Charles K. Hamilton, Farnum Fish, Phillips W. Page, Paul Peck, Arch Freeman and T. J. Tirrell. The suspension is until December 31.

Miss Alda LeClair of Copeland street is leaving today for Montreal, Canada, where she will be the guest of relatives for three weeks.

AUTO STRUCK LIGHT POLE

Machine Wrecked. Occupants Scattered Over Road

ONE IN THE HOSPITAL

Francis S. Lord, aged 46, unmarried, of 88 Walnut street, Neponset, was in a dying condition at the East Boston Relief Hospital at 2.30 this morning, from injuries received in an automobile accident at 12.30 this morning on the boulevard, near the Winthrop Bridge.

F. E. Black of 10 Waterloo street, Dorchester, was also treated at the same hospital for cuts upon the head, face and nose.

Dr. Andrew E. Sherburne of 46 Brent street, Dorchester, who owns and was operating the automobile at the time of the accident, was slightly cut and lacerated about the head and face.

The automobile was badly wrecked.

The machine was a touring car, numbered 7151, and the occupants, who had been visiting in Winthrop last night ,had just crossed the Winthrop bridge into East Boston.

They claimed no lights were burning on the boulevard and that in the darkness they crashed into an electric-light pole, snapping it off, wrecking the car and throwing the occupants to the street. Lord struck on his head. He was suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain this morning and his relatives were notified.

After the other men were treated at the hospital they went to Station 7 and told their story of the accident.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Charles Carter of Washington court is entertaining Rev. George Carter and wife of Antrim, N. H.

Miss Helen Lincoln of Washington street is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Hall at the Daniel Webster place in Marshfield.

Mrs. Henry Smith of Washington court is entertaining her son, Bronte Smith, a well known artist of New York City.

The engagement is announced of Miss Gertrude I. Eppler of North Weymouth and Stanley Gilmore of Vancouver, B. C.

Ladies' day of the Quincy Yacht club tomorrow. All that is needed to make the event a social success is good weather and the weather indications are that this will be all right.

The wind which shifted to the east late Tuesday afternoon was very refreshing and brought relief after a hot and oppressive day. The evening was cool and comfortable and this morning the weather gave promise of being much cooler than Tuesday

A large crowd of youngsters were on hand early this morning to see the circus arrive in town. There is something about a circus that appeals to youngsters, as nothing else will.

Two Quincy Sunday schools are holding their annual picnics today. The Hall Place Methodist church are at Glen Echo grove, Stoughton, where they went early this morning in two special cars.

Two carloads of children from the Mission church of Houghs Neck are at Highland Park. They had two special cars. In addition tothese two Sunday schools there were three carloads of children from Weymouth Landing who have gone to Glen Echo grove, Stoughton.

SMART DRESSING AT TUXEDO.

Linen Get-Ups For Town Jaunts—Pretty Dinner Frocks and Evening Dresses—Fals. Fronts—Girdles and Sashes—Tough Cotton Skirts And Suits.

The greater part of the society contingent is still domiciled at the nearby places on the Hudson, Long Island or the fashionable Jersey colonies. Tuxedo has been as usual very busy with weddings, and the various gaieties of the season when the country wears its freshest and most attractive aspect.

LINEN GET-UPS.

For warm weaher nothing takes the place of linen, which looks cooler and fresher than even the lightest of pongee silks, and the linen gown built of the rougher crash weaves has a way of standing wear that the smooth faced weaves entirely lack, which is probably why the latter are being sold on bargain counters at the price of cottons. Suits of summer fabrics made up with some of the numerous fanciful coatees that are here in endless variety of detail, are worn with false fronts or sleeveless gamps, and are the coolest possible get-ups for runs to town by train or motor, and for such use conservative women prefer rather dark colors. Old blues, tans, grays and browns, but for more dressy turn outs, white and the more delicate shades are selected. A very coarse linen in a grenadine mesh with borders of drawn work is smartly made up into both dresses and suits, and the coarse macreme laces that are so popular make excellent trimmings on either silk or linen frocks. In fact this lace trims every fabric fashionable just now.

A PRETTY SUIT.

On the porch of the club the other day, a notably pretty suit was worn by a tall, graceful young woman. Of warm yellow pongee, with a design of matching embroidery wrought on the front panel of the overskirt, and the peplum coat cut with sleeve and body in one, the lines were very simple, and stylish. A wide cape collar finishing in revers that crossed a little at the belt line, and sleeves were gathered into the bracelet band that is one of the new touches. Below the bracelet the sleeve finished in an old time graduated flounce perhaps five inches at the back of the arm and not more than an inch in front. Collar, sleeve flounce and the peplum cut away in front, were all edged with bound scallops. A crushed belt of black velvet, with a big pink satin rose tucked in front, an adjustable gamp of ecru lace much lighter than the dress, and a picture hat of black Milan faced with satin and dressed with black plumes completed the costume,

A GIRLISH RIG.

A girlish rig that attracted admiring attention was of Dolly Varden flowered mull, cut with a straight full skirt, that is full according to present measurements. It probably measured two-and-a-half yards. The sides and back were cut about six inches longer than the front and formed a half pannier effect falling in a droopy puff over a shirred band of mauve taffeta silk, about 4 inches wide that ended in a curleycue at either side of the front breadth, which was laid in a wide box plait. The waist had the lines of the boxplait continued, in shirt style, and a line of pleated taffeta simulated a deep cape collar. The sleeves were scantily gathered puffs ending at the elbow with velvet bracelets, and a fall of four inch shadow lace. The same lace made the collarless gamp.

AN EVENING FROCK.

One of the prettiest evening dresses worn was of black and white lace, and flowered chiffon made up over a scant blue satin slip. There was just enough chiffon to hold the lace which was the feature of the dress and the "demier cri" in its use of black and white lace. Up the front there were alternate flounces of the black and white lace, sewed to the satin slip, and so nearly plain that the pattern showed perfectly. The back formed of a gathered panel of the chiffon having a wide band of white lace through the centre, and strips of black lace at either side, perhaps two inches from the edge of the chiffon hem. Just at the foot of the skirt where the train began, was a huge butterfly bow of blue satin centered with a buckle of rhinestones. A wide fitted girdle of the same satin bound the high waist line, and the low cut neck was outlined by wide fichus of white lace. The left one finished at the bottom with black lace, the right with a hem of the chiffon. The short puffed sleeve of chiffon hardly showed below the wings.

ROUGH COTTONS.

Rough Turkish cottons, under various names have caught on tremendously for suits, separate coats. or skirts and for trimmings. A China silk shirt waist with roll collar, turn back cuffs and two inch band down the front, of white ratine striped in dull blue is smart and up-to-date.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SERVING GOOSEBERRIES.

THE English use the gooseberry to an extent unknown in America, where fewer varieties of the fruit are available. In England one may obtain specimens of this fruit that weigh almost an ounce.

At one time gooseberries were more generally sold in our markets than at present, but the difficulty of raising fine specimens of this fruit, which requires a very moist atmosphere, discouraged fruit growers, and only a very ordinary variety of gooseberry can be purchased nowadays, although private growers often have some success with the berries.

Tarts and Pies.

Pies and tarts made with gooseberries by those who know how to use them would tempt the most jaded appetite.

Gooseberry Pie.—Line a baking dish or deep pan with puff paste. Then fill with the fruit. The gooseberries should have been first stewed in water with sugar to taste. Crush the fruit and stir into it a dessertspoonful of flour and butter. Cover with puff paste, which should be pricked or cut. Then place in the oven and bake.

Handsomely Latticed.

Gooseberry Tart.—Line a baking dish with puff paste. Bake it until it is light brown. Stew your gooseberries, using one-third sugar to two-thirds of fruit. Then cover the dish with strips of puff paste to form a lattice. Place in the oven and bake till done.

A Dessert Delicacy.

Gooseberry Charlotte.—Take a pint and a half of gooseberries, half a pound of sugar, six small sponge cakes and whipped cream. Boil the gooseberries with sugar and half a teacupful of water until reduced to a pulp. Pass through sieve. Line a mold with the sponge cakes, pour in the fruit and place a layer of sponge cake at the top. Let it stand for some hours and serve with whipped cream on the top.

Molded in Gelatine.

Gooseberry Cream.—Pick the stems carefully from two pounds of green gooseberries. Wash, drain and boil them until soft in a pint and a half of water. Press them through a sieve. To every pint of juice add a pound of sugar and the grated rind and juice of a lemon. Boil twenty minutes and when cold mix with half a pint of milk in which an ounce of gelatin has been dissolved. Pour into a mold and put into a cool place to set.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.

A moonlight excursion, from Houghs Neck to Nahant, was held Tuesday evening by the Houghs Neck Associates and was enjoyed by fully 200 men. The party started in the steamer Martha from the landing of the Boston Bay Steamboat Company about 8 o'clock and returned after midnight.

The event proved such a success, that an excursion for ladies will be held within the course of two weeks. The committee comprised of Henry W. French, president of the Associates, David Fenner, Michael C. Coughlan and Archie F. Baird.

Good Meals at Camp Comfort

The boys at Camp Comfort are using the same stove that they had last year. It was the best they could get. It was a

New Perfection WICK BLUE FLAME Oil Cook-stove

This year they got a New Perfection Oven
Also a New Perfection Toaster
Also a New Perfection Broiler

"Gee, what a difference in the meals a good stove makes," said one of the boys. So they called their shack "Camp Comfort." And they will tell their mothers and wives about the stove, too. For the New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is as convenient for the home as for the camp. It will bake, broil, roast and toast as well as a regular coal range.

The New Perfection Stove is handsomely finished in nickel, with cabinet top, drop shelves, towel racks, etc. Long chimneys, enameled turquoise-blue. Made with 1, 2 or 3 burners. All dealers. Free Cook-Book with every stove. Cook-Book also given to anyone sending 5 cents to cover mailing cost.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

being in a circle of her best friends, which to her meant her keenest rivals and hardest critics, she grew rigid with anger. Her breath hurt her paining chest. No one thought to speak to the musicians, and, seeing the floor filled, they began the waltz.

Edith Carr grew very white as she stood alone. The idolized only daughter of the Carr family hoped that she would drop dead from mortification, but nothing happened. She was too perverse to step aside laughingly and say that she was waiting for Philip. Then came Tom Levering dancing with Polly Ammon. Being in the scales with the Ammon family, Tom scented trouble from afar, so he whispered to Polly, "Edith is standing in the middle of the floor, and she's awful mad about something."

They hurried to Edith.

"Come, dear," said Polly. "We are going to wait with you until Phil gets back. Let's go for a drink. I am so thirsty!"

"My betrothed left me here," Edith said. "Here I shall remain until he returns for me, and then—he will be my betrothed no longer!"

Polly grasped Edith's arm.

"Oh, Edith!" she implored. "Don't make a scene here, and tonight. He can explain! It's only a breath since I saw him go out. I thought he had returned."

"He has been gone just long enough to show every one of his guests that he will leave me standing alone, like a neglected fool, for any passing whim of his. Explain! His explanation would sound well! Do you know for whom he caught that moth? It is being sent to a girl he flirted with all last summer."

Speech unloosed the fountain. She stripped off her gloves to free her hands. At that instant the dancers parted to admit Philip. Instinctively they stopped as they approached and with wondering faces walled in Edith and Philip, Polly and Tom.

"Mighty good of you to wait!" cried Ammon, his face beaming with delight over his success in capturing the yellow Emperor. "I thought when I heard the music you were going on."

"How did you think I was going on?" demanded Edith Carr in frigid tones.

"I thought you would step aside and wait a few seconds for me or dance with Henderson. It was most important to have that moth. It just completes a valuable collection for a person who needs the money. Come!"

He held out his arms.

"I 'step aside' for no one!" stormed Edith Carr. "I await no other girl's pleasure! You may 'complete the collection' with that!"

She drew her engagement ring from her finger and reached to place it in one of Philip's outstretched hands. Ammon saw and drew back. Instantly Edith dropped the ring. As it fell, almost instinctively Philip caught it in air.

"Edith, for the love of mercy, wait until I can explain!" he begged. "Put on your ring and let me tell you how it is."

"Never! Your conduct is infamous!"

"Come to think of it," said Ammon deliberately, "it is infamous to cut a girl who has danced all her life out of a few measures of a waltz. As for asking forgiveness for so black a sin as picking up a moth and starting it to a friend who lives by collecting them I don't see how I could. I have not been gone three minutes by the clock, Edith. Put on your ring and finish the dance like a dear girl."

He thrust the glittering ruby into her fingers and again held out his arms. She dropped the ring, and it rolled some distance from them. Henderson followed its shining course and caught it before it was lost.

"You really mean it?" demanded Ammon in a voice as cold as hers ever had been.

"You know I mean it!" cried Edith Carr.

"I accept your decision in the presence of these witnesses," said Philip Ammon.

"Where is my father?" he asked of those around them. The elder Ammon, with a distressed face, hurried to him. "Father, take my place," said Philip. "Excuse me to my guests. Ask all my friends to forgive me. I am going out for a time."

He turned and walked from the pavilion. As he went Hart Henderson rushed to Edith Carr and forced the ring into her fingers. "Edith, quick! Come, quick!" he implored. "There's just time to catch him. If you let him go that way he never will return in this world. Remember what I told you."

"Great prophet, aren't you, Hart?" she sneered. "Who wants him to return? If that ring is thrust upon me again I shall fling it into the lake. Signal the musicians to begin and take this dance with me."

"I accept your decision in the presence of these witnesses."

Henderson put the ring into his pocket and began the dance. He could feel the muscular spasms of the girl in his arms, her face was cold and hard, but her breath burned with the scorch of fever. She finished the dance and all others, taking Phil's numbers with Henderson, who had arrived too late to arrange a program. She left with the others, merely inclining her head as she passed Ammon's father taking his place, and entered the big touring car for which Henderson had telephoned.

She sank limply into a seat and moaned softly.

"Shall I drive awhile in the night air?" asked Henderson.

She nodded. Henderson instructed the chauffeur.

She raised her head in a few seconds. "Hart, I'm going to pieces," she said. "Won't you put your arm around me a little while?"

Henderson gathered her into his arms and her head fell on his shoulder. "Closer!" she cried.

Dawn was streaking the east when he spoke to her.

"Edith, it is growing light."

"Take me home," she said.

Henderson helped her up the steps and rang the bell.

"Miss Carr is ill," he said to the footman. "Rouse her maid instantly and have her prepare something hot as quickly as possible."

"Edith," he cried, "just a word. I have been thinking. It isn't too late yet. Take your ring and put it on. I will go find Phil at once and tell him you have, that you are expecting him, and he will come."

"Think what he said!" she cried. "He accepted my decision as final 'in the presence of witnesses' as if it were court. He can return it to me if I ever wear it again."

MARSHAL MEETS MANY DEMOCRATS

National Committeemen Visit Indiana Governor

Indianapolis, July 17.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall, Democratic candidate for vice president, received at the state capitol twenty members of the Democratic national committee who at the invitation of Thomas Taggert, committeeman from Indiana, had stopped in this city on their way home from the reorganization meeting at Chicago.

Governor Marshall in addressing his visitors, said he "did not know whether he was 'progressive' or not," and continued, "there are many kinds of 'progressives' nowadays. One believes in taking the tariff off Iowa products and putting it on Indiana products, and another supports the opposite policy. I am not that kind of a progressive. But if the term means to believe that the Democratic party should meet changing conditions in protecting the people against the special interests, I am progressive."

BLEASE DENIES CHARGES

Legislative Committee Will Hold Investigation at State Capitol

Columbia, S. C., July 17.—A final "showdown" of the graft charges against Governor Cole L. Blease is expected tomorrow. Senator Howard B. Carlisle, chairman of the legislative committee investigating Governor Blease's alleged trafficking in pardons to criminals, made arrangements for an open hearing at the state capitol.

Governor Blease has issued a statement in which he denies the testimony heard at Augusta, Ga., last week, as to his receiving money for granting pardons and in which he says he will later produce proofs of falsity of those charges. The statement denounces William J. Burns, the detective.

The governor said that he had not granted clemency to Gus DeForn, the man for whose pardon Detective Reed is said to have schemed in order to catch the governor in the act of receiving stolen money.

SQUANTUM INN AS CLUBHOUSE FAVORED BY ASSOCIATION

Representative of Present Owners Ready to Meet the Working Committee

Most Desirable Place For Club Home on Coast

A proposition to take over the Squantum Inn as a clubhouse aroused enthusiasm at a special meeting of the Squantum Improvement Association last night at the Inn. Charles S. Judkins, a real estate man who represents the owners of the property and who is a member of the association was the guest of President C. E. Carlson of the association and spoke at the meeting. He said he was ready to meet a working committee of the association with a view to naming a price at which the Inn and the 200,000 feet of land adjoining it would be turned over to the association. His offer met with applause and the committee now having the matter of a clubhouse in charge will see Mr. Judkins and report his offer at a later meeting.

Three hours were given over to discussion of a club house proposition. There was a strong sentiment in favor of a yacht club but so far as could be learned from the various speakers there is not an available piece of property on either the Quincy Bay or Dorchester Bay sides of Squantum adaptable for a clubhouse, which can be bought. Most of the land on both shores is owned in common by property holders of land at Squantum Park and unanimous consent of all land owners must be secured before any clubhouse could be built adjoining this property. The plan of building a clubhouse or a float on the large ledge of rocks at the foot of Bay street met with vigorous opposition. Capt. Peterson said that such a clubhouse would mean that he would leave Squantum. C. E. Singelton and Ray Huntsman both spoke in opposition to a clubhouse on the rocks. It was then found that the only approaches to the rocks are across private land which it was believed could not be secured. There is also a long standing dispute as to the ownership of this land which would undoubtedly have to be fought out in the courts, a matter which might take years to decide.

Mr. Huntsman put before the club the offer of Mr. Sawyer, owner of the Seal Rock Inn, offering that house with 14,000 to the association for a clubhouse, at a sum less than $5,000. The offer did not arouse enthusiasm.

There was a wide diversity of opinion as to what kind of a clubhouse the Squantum residents want, whether a year-round club house located on the higher land, a yacht clubhouse on the shore or a simple and inexpensive assembly hall. To bring the matter to a head so that the clubhouse committee could work more intelligently a motion was offered by Mr. Huntsman that each member present write his first, second and third choice upon a ballot. This was done and the ballots were turned over to the clubhouse committee for its consideration.

Charles E. Folsom, secretary of the Boston Board of Assessors, who has been a Squantum summer resident for 17 years spoke strongly in favor of a yacht club. Enthusiastic speeches on the fine sentiments of Squantum people in getting together and working in harmony for different projects for the welfare of Squantum were made by former President William N. Kenyon, James Eager, T. J. Callahan, C. E. Carlson, Mr. Logan and Mr. Judkins.

The clubhouse committee will now take up the matter of selecting suitable sites and getting plans for a clubhouse and at the same time consider the matter of taking over the Squantum Inn.

Six members admitted to the association at last night's meeting are: Peter Olson, Henry Larson, Edward Carlson, B. A. Jonason, Robert Bell and Harry J. Tobin.

NO QUARREL BUT O YOU BIG AUTO

Fire Chief Could Find Use For the Gift Car

According to Chief Litchfield of the Fire Department and Chief Burrell of the Police Department the party who penned the article, which appeared in one of the Boston papers, Tuesday night about the new runabout automobile that goes with the Kissle auto chemical must have been laboring under a pipe dream for neither of the two Chiefs are making any quarrel over the machine.

The runabout in question is a fifty horse power machine, although not a new one, as it has been used as a demonstrating car. The car is now at Scammell's shop waiting for its delivery.

At the time the Mayor signed the contract for the car he stated that it was his intention to have this car used by the police department, the idea being that it could be used as a source of revenue to the city by transporting unfortunates from the Quincy court to the county jail at Dedham. This looked feasible on the face of it but when it is figured out that if used for this purpose two officers would have to accompany the car, one as a driver and the other to take care of the prisoner, and at best the car would not accommodate over five persons, it does not look so rosy

Chief Litchfield of the Fire Department now has a small Ford runabout but it is much too light a car for the use to which it is put. While it works all right in summer weather it is a grave question as to whether it would be all right when the ground was covered with snow.

The Fire Chiefs of the City of Boston and other cities use a much heavier car than the Ford which seems much too light for the work. On the other hand a light running Ford would be very handy for the Chief of Police to get about in and let the court look after the transporting of its prisoners to Dedham as it always has done.

The contract signed by Mayor Stone for the Kissle car provided that the city would also be furnished with a fifty horse power touring car. When the order was first passed for the car it was generally understood that this car was to be used for a flying squadron. That is under the contract the car was to carry a 25 gallon chemical tank with a basket of chemical hose, fire extinguishers, etc. With this equipment the Chief with three men besides himself and chauffeur would make a flying squadron that would handle all still alarms and save the expense of taking out the auto chemical. What would be saved in wear and tear on the auto chemical would more than offset what the car could earn transporting prisoners to Dedham jail.

FAKIRS QUICK TO VANISH

When Chief of Police One of the Clan

The usual crowd of fakirs that follow a circus were in City Square this morning selling their wares. As none of them had a license they were violating the law. Inspector McKay and Chief Burrell were in the vicinity of City Hall looking on when they saw a man sell a toy balloon. He was promptly placed under arrest and taken to the court. His arrest acted like magic on the remainder of the fakirs and they lost no time in making themselves scarce.

AGENTS WANT MORE LIGHT

Before They Can Determine Effects of the Express Rate Ruling

New England interests confess to being "all at sea" as to the effects which will follow the action at Washington looking to a reduction in the cost of express traffic. Expressmen and agents of the 13 great companies whose rates suffer a sweeping reduction, if the proposed express rate changes are put into effect by the Interstate Commerce Commission, are anxiously awaiting the arrival from Washington of copies of Commissioner Lane's report which contains hitherto unpublished data concerning the proposed changes.

According to New England representatives of several of the large companies that do intestate traffic, no bulletins of the proposed reduction in detail have yet been received in Boston, but all of these expect copies within the next few days.

Quincy, Mass., July 16, 1912.

Editor Ledger, Quincy Mass.

The writer cannot but help feeling that there is too much favoritism shown by those in high office toward others who have a "pull" when one reads in the daily papers of a prominent man being arrested for overspeeding, his case being postponed and finally dismissed because there seemed to be some "feeling" in the case. Please show me a case, where there is not some "feeling" either on one side or the other. Again at Newburyport a colored student is run down by an auto in which was a prominent Boston man, whose name the police refuse to make known and whose case will probably be dropped because he was "so affected" by the accident.

I was arrested once for overspeeding and there was considerable feeling on my part but I had to hand over the $15. just the same and if I should run down a person would my name be withheld and would I be discharged because I was "so affected?"

Not Much.

The Newburyport case which he refers to is made clear by the following newspaper item:

Lewis Tyree, a young colored man, who is working as a porter in the Wolf Tavern in order that he may enter the Harvard Law School next fall, was struck and seriously injured at the Newburyport bridge by an auto, in which was a prominent Boston man, whose names the police refuse to make public.

Governor Frederick W. Plaisted of Maine, who with a party of friends in an automobile was getting directions from Tyree, was one of the witnesses of the accident.

Tyree's right leg and arm were broken and he received internal injuries, it is said. The man who caused the accident carried the injured youth to the home of Moses Towne, near by, secured medical attendance and promised to do everything in his power

According to the police, he was so affected by the accident that they agreed not to make public his name or those of his friends.

Governor Plaisted and his party had dined at the Wolf Tavern, and Tyree, who was graduated from Clark University, Worcester, this year, went along in the automobile to show them the road to Porstmouth. When the Newburyport bridge was reached, Tyree got out of the automobile and was standing beside it talking with its occupants.

The other car approached at a rapid rate, bound toward Boston, and according to reports, knocked the young man down and ran over him. The police refused to make any statement in regard to the accident, which took place about 10,30.

DRINK CRAZED HE BLOWS HEAD OFF

West Bridgewater Man Uses Dynamite As Means

Brockton, Mass., July 17.—After arguing with his son Andrew over the whereabouts of his rum and money, and then declaring, "I'll fix myself so I'll be out of the way by night," John Norman, 72, of West Bridgewater, a blaster by occupation, placed a stick of dynamite in his mouth at his home, touched it off and blew nearly his entire head off. He died instantly.

Part of his skull was found at the foot of the stairs leading to his room on the second floor, a portion of his brain was on the front step.

"Suicide by dynamite, brought on by excessive drinking," is the verdict of the medical examiner.

TILLMAN'S PEACE MAKER

Wants Proposition on Building the World's Greatest Battleship

Washington, July 17.—The cause of peace has a militant champion in the senate in the person of Senator Tillman of South Carolina, who introduced a resolution, without debate, ordering the committee on naval affairs to investigate and report on the proposition of building a battleship or cruiser "that would be the greatest the world has ever seen or will see," and which would be called "Terror," and which would be the peacemaker of the world.

The Tillman resolution, which already has been printed, specifies that the committee shall ascertain what is the maximum size of ship, what is the maximum thickness, armor, weight of armament, speed and draft, caused a mild sensation of amusement as its sarcastic purport became clear. Senator Smoot started to say something about it, but Senator Tillman asked for immediate consideration, and it was passed.

Samuel Schwartz Says He Advised Son to Commit Suicide

New York, July 17.—Samuel Schwartz, father of Nathan Schwartz, the young man wanted by the police in connection with the murder of the child, Julia Cnnnors, in The Bronx last week, acknowledged in a statement made to Assistant District Attorney Nott that his son had confessed to him that he had killed the child and that he had told his son to go out and commit suicide.

The father, in his statement, said he believed the boy did as he was told. Schwartz and four members of his family were summoned as witnesses before the grand jury which took up the investigation of the murder. The latest information of the police was that the younger Schwartz was out of the state.

SEVEN MORE CORPORATIONS

May Close Down Mills In New Bedford

MERCHANTS SAY "NO CREDIT"

Hoping to Avert a Shut Down of Every Mill, Conference of Agents and Strikers Arranged For—Strikers Want Grading System Abolished Forever—Refusal Probably Will Close Up Every Plant

New Bedford, Mass., July 17.—A general strike, which will close the seven mill corporations now operating, together with the twelve that shut down Tuesday, appears more than ever likely.

In the hope of averting it, the agents and officials of the mills threatened have agreed to meet a committee of the weavers this afternoon to discuss the "abolition forever" of the grading fines system, over which the fight started.

Pending the result of this conference, the Weavers' association, which met last night to consider the advisability of an extension of the strike so as to include the active mills, decided to postpone action for a day.

N. B. Kerr, who has acted as a spokesman for the seven corporations which stopped the grading system on the first demands of their employes, refusing to state whether the contract providing for its permanent abolition would be signed.

Refusal will precipitate the weavers' walkout, it is declared, and probably the sympathetic strike of all the other crafts employed, paralyzing the cotton cloth industry of New Bedford.

The grocery, meat and provision dealers have annunced that no credit will be extended after today.

It is charged by the operatives that the dealers have been subsidized by the manufacturers. The dealers themselves declare that they have been forced into it by the wholesalers, who declare that all goods will be delivered colwlect during the strike.

Social settlement workers here predict suffering as a result of this "no credit" edict. They declare few of the workers have saved anything ahead and that a refusal of credit will mean a cut down in the food supply in hundreds of families.

Unlike the strikers in Lawrence, they have made no provision for relief stations, as yet. They are so confident of an early victory that they consider such precautions unnecessary. Of course, there are many belonging to the labor organizations who will receive strike benefits. But there are thousands who are unorganized.

These unorganized workers are the hope of the I. W. W., whose leaders are devoting every energy to bringing them into the fold, so they may carry forward their plans of a general strike.

Joseph Schmidt, national organizer of the I. W. W., has issued a statement in which he declared he would call out every operative in the mills of Lowell and Lawrence if the strike here is not won within a reasonable time.

Chief of Police Mason refused to issue a permit for an I. W. W. parade. The Industrial Workers leaders declare they will march regardless of police regulations. A clash is believed to be unavoidable if the labor plans are carried out.

JUDGE REVERSES VERDICT

Socialist Olssen Is Allowed to Enter Appeal on Citizenship

Seattle, July 17.—Judge C. H. Hanford of the United States district court has allowed entry of the appeal of the case of Leonard Olssen, the Socialist whose naturalization he recently revoked on the ground that he had deceived the court as to his attachment to the constitution of the United States.

Alleged payment of excessive fees to professional receivers has been taken up by the house judiciary subcommittee investigating the charges filed against Judge Hanford. Nelson R. Anderson, who was attorney for the Seattle Credit Men's association, in the Charles Knosher & Co. bankruptcy case, testified to alleged irregularities in Judge aHnford's court in connection with the case. On the complaint of witnesses, he testified, the judge reduced the fees of Receiver Sutcliffe Baxter and his attorneys. Later the circuit court of appeals cut the allowance in half

YOUNG STAFFORD DROPPED 2,000 FEET TO DEATH AT HOUGHS NECK

Parachute Failed to Work. Body Shot Through Air and Buried in Two Feet of Water and Mud

Hundreds Witness the Tragedy, but Were Powerless to Render Aid. Victim Last of Tragedy Torn Family

Lawrence Stafford, 17 years old, of 35 Graham court, Dorchester, balloonist and parachute jumper, was instantly killed by a fall, after he had cleared from the balloon by which he had ascended at Houghs Neck, about 5.30 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon.

The youthful air navigator was at a height of from 1500 to 2000 feet. The fatal plunge was supposed to be due to a defect in the mechanism of the umbrella shaped parachute by means of which Stafford hoped to make a successful descent to the land.

The body struck in two feet of water less than 50 yards from the shore. The unfortunate youth was breathing when picked up but life was extinct, although Dr. John H. Ash of Quincy used every effort to revive and fan into flame any faint spark of life which might have existed.

In the absence of Medical Examiner Jones of Quincy, Dr. J. C. Fraser of East Weymouth viewed the body and ordered its removal to the undertaking establishment of John Hall in Quincy. A post-mortem examination showed that several ribs had been fractured, and that one of them had punctured the lung, causing death from pulmonary hemorrhage.

For two weeks young Stafford, with his uncle, Walter N. Stafford, and his nephew, Eugene L. Stafford, had been at Houghs Neck, making daily balloon ascensions from Pandora Park. When the big gas bag was cut adrift at 5.30 Wednesday, there was a large crowd present, for the young man's feats of daring had been heralded far, and near.

As the balloon left the ground with the youthful aeronaut seated beneath the mesh of ropes, he was given an enthusiastic cheer. In acknowledgment of the crowd's plaudits he jauntily waved his hand. When he bowed his appreciation of the spectator's applause he little dreamed that it would be his last ascension.

But when the balloon had risen to a height of 1000 feet and was being carried over the body of water between Houghs Neck and Peddock's Island, known as West Gut, the first intimation that something was wrong became known. Stafford's nephew, Eugene was burdened with the responsibility of signaling the aeronaut to cut loose with his parachute when they were at a height of about 1000 feet.

When, for some unknown reason, the signal was not obeyed as was the custom, a feeling of apprehension stole over his assistants on the ground, although the crowd, and the cottagers who were watching the performance, were in total ignorance of the feeling of alarm.

Suddenly, when the balloon had risen several hundred feet beyond the prescribed 1000, the body of Stafford was seen to drop from the balloon.

Like a leaden weight the human form shot downward, but the spectators were not unduly alarmed. It was expected that the young man's body would fall a considerable distance before the umbrella-shaped parachute would open.

As the human form approached nearer and nearer the water there was a sudden fear that hushed the onlookers. Then, as Stafford's body gained momentum, there was a shrill, horrifying shriek from the spectators and many of the women turned their faces, and strong-hearted men screened their eyes with their hands to shut out the terrible spectacle.

There were some in the crowd who had presence of mind, and while the aeronaut was still falling through space almost above the Metropolitan sewer pumping station on Nut Island, near Great Hill, two of the summer residents ran in that direction.

They were H. W. Tinker and James Fay and they splashed through the shallow water to the spot where young Stafford struck in scarcely two feet of water. They were within 100 yards of the spot when the body, declared afterward to have been lifeless before it struck the water by City Physician Dr. John H. Ash, sent up a shower of water and mud and buried itself in two feet of the soft bottom.

Tinker and Fay brought the body ashore at the breakwater, which extends from Houghs Neck to Nut Island, and Dr. Ash, who was sitting on the veranda of his summer home on Babcock street hurried to the scene in his automobile. Dr. Ash said that he had been watching the ascension, and when the parachute did not open he cranked his machine and made a hurried trip to Nut Island. His presence was, however, of no avail—young Stafford was beyond medical assistance when the first ones reached him.

Many were sick at heart at the spectacle they had seen, and Mrs. Eugene L. Stafford, wife of Lawrence had been watching the ascension and Stafford's nephew, swooned. She was attended by Dr. Ash.

As soon as he could be notified, Acting Medical Examiner John C. Fraser of East Weymouth viewed the body. He declared that besides the multiple, bruises and contusions, the right lung had been punctured by ribs on that side of the body when the impact came, and the puncture produced a hemorrhage and shock. The ribs on both sides of the body had been fractured. The body was later removed to Dorchester.

Young Stafford was a modest, unassuming young fellow and was recognized as an exceptional daring aeronaut.

His nephew, Eugene L. Stafford, was nearly prostrated with grief. He said tha Lawrence had made many successful ascensions and that Wednesday's was his first accident.

Since the death of his father and his mother the boy Lawrence had made his home with an aunt, Mrs. Minnie Stafford, at 35 Graham court, Dorchester.

The violent death of young Stafford, marked the end of a family whose lives had been filled with tragedy. His father and mother, both balloonists and parachute jumpers and known country-wide, had died after having earned their share of notoriety and unpleasantness.

While Lawrence Stafford, was yet a mere boy his parents had made the family history a book of sensations, and their deaths, like their son's were marked by unusual characteristics.

His father, Eugene L. Stafford, after traveling the length and breadth of the country with his wife, Camille, giving exhibitions that thrilled wherever they were witnessed, shot and killed Maynor B. Trussell, a former partner, at Mrs. Stafford's apartments, 208 West Springfield street, Boston, February 28, 1904, because of jealousy. That was eight years ago, but he was never tried for the crime, for his wife, the mother of the unfortunate victim of Wednesday's accident although she had already instituted divorce proceedings, refused to testify against him.

But the anger and jealousy which

UNFLATTERING EXPRESSION

Halts Bright Revery and Shatters Golden Dreams

"Say Fella wanta papah!" Clear and sharp like the crack of a four-in-hand snake whip, the unmusical notes slashed the air in front of a well known citizen as he wended his way along Hancock street, the other day. The one whose thoughts for the moment had wandered far-a-field stood a good six feet in his stockings, without regard to the time he wandered forth as a barefooted urchin or any other previous conditions of servitude.

His mind had strayed from the immediate vicinity in which he found himself and was keenly intent on some mental dissecting process. Probably higher finance may have flitted fitfully through his brain pan for the moment and percolating through the recesses of that darkened chamber, left figments of brain storm for the time being.

Visions of unexpected wealth leaped and coursed through his grey matter, sending the red blood tinkling and tumbling in a tumult through his veins.

Flights of lurid fancy found harmonious commingle ment with this golden age fever. He was beyond the earth earthly, soaring in silver coated clouds of delightful happy fancy on a monoplane of sweet forgetfulness when he was brought back to earth by this shrill, peremptory and by no means gentle invitation to learn how the "Barnstormers" had walloped and wiped up the green sod with "Joyful Jaggers."

Halting in his aimless perambulation, his eyes shot a swift glance along their horizon to annihilate with a glance the cause of this interruption. Nothing came within the range of his lamps. A second time the challenge, sharper and more incisive than the first rang out, "Say, fella, wanta papah!" This time there was a note of finality in the tone which could not be passed unheeded. It semed to rise from the earth beneath his very feet. The absorbed one, absorbed no longer in contemplations of his own bright future looked down.

There was a cloud of newspaper below his waistline. Beneath this a pair of bare and spindled shanks made conection with mother earth. A diminutive, and tousled head with a cap set rakishly upon rebellious locks loomed above the papers. The papers concealed the torso, the connecting link between the spindles and the tousled head, which formed the sum total of this human atom.

The man's face broke into a wrinkling of pleasant smile. Here then was the destroyer of visions, the shatterer of his revere, this little bundle of head, legs and papers. He bought the paper and passed on. But the picture will remain long in his memory and it will be many a day before he forgets the familiarity of the hail of the little boy, so quick to imitate his elders in the use of that senseless and not very flattering term "fellow," which appears to be quite the mode among a certain class at the present writing. There was a time when the use of this term was confined to slaves and underlings, and resented as an insult when addressed to equals.

BIG CROWDS GREET CIRCUS

Large Tent Taxed to Its Capacity at Both Performances

Two big crowds attended the Downie & Wheeler circus which gave two performances at the Water street street playgrounds, Wednesday afternoon and evening.

While the show was not as big as the usual three ring and couple of platform turnouts, the performance was up to the standard of any which has been seen in Quincy.

The bare back riding, trapeze performance, tumbling, acrobatic feats, slack wire work, and other features were performed in a most clever and thrilling manner.

The trained dogs, ponies, and elephants made a great hit with the little folks.

Every seat within the big tent was filled at both the performances and an immense crowd wandered around the grounds outside the tents.

The side show attracted a good many people.

The grounds were tenanted by the usual number of fakirs.

The night show over, the tents were quickly struck, the work being performed with systematic dispatch and shortly after midnight every part of the show had left the grounds on the way to the train ready to embark for the next stopping place.

After nearly three-quarters of a century England it seems will have to give Lieut. Wilkes of the United States navy the credit he deserves in Antartic explorations.

It looks as though the Bay State democrats were to have a lively contest on again this fall. They certainly can put up a strenuous contest in their own ranks, but when it comes to battling the enemy they are not so aggressively successful.

After three weeks consideration, with many intermissions, the state board of arbitration and conciliation is expected to make its findings known on the elevated strike. How much enlightenment more than already plain to every one, will this report furnish the public?

Here is the chance for homely girls or even those moderately good looking. A remedy is to be found in arduous labor the wash board or saw horse, according to a physician. It would be interesting to note of the doctor advocated the adoption of the plan in his own household.

The people would really like to understand those amicable dissolutions of the big trusts which are advocated now and then, to prevent extended litigation?. The Standard Oil is supposed to have been busted wide open, but no one has heard anything about a lowering in the price of the commodity or a reduction in the earnings of the big stock holders.

T. R. is still pounding on that old saw, the "dishonesty by which he was robbed" of the nomination at the Chicago convention. Most every one had settled down long ago to a belief that it was because he lacked votes. Why this continued and persistent reiteration and the weather so hot too. Something new in the way of a campaign handle would be refreshing.

A prominent member of the Democratic state committee is credited with saying that the governor's dilly dallying tactics has upset the plans of the committee and that he may be compelled to run his own campaign. That member should remember that there is always just as good fish in the sea, and if he declines to perform the duties of the office which he undoubtedly worked hard to gain, he should step down and out and let a more satisfied individual take his place. There is always the refuge of resigning open to dissatisfied ones.

OFFICIAL VENGANCE.

Judging from the outspoken views of district attorney Whitman, of New York, the murder of the gambler Rosenthal was a clear case of official vengance. Rosenthal had squealed that police were partners in the gambling operations of up town New York. He stated all along that he was sure "they would get him." Called from a hotel, at an early hour in the morning he was shot down by a party in an automobile. Witnesses stated that they saw a police officer in the machine. The blindness of the police as to the number and description of the machine was another strong reason for Mr. Whitman's contention.

An investigation will be conducted to ascertain how far the police are mixed up in the gambling joints and how deep they figure in the murder of Rosenthal. It is a pretty tough state of affairs, when men who accuse police of wrong doing are shot down in their tracks in a large city on a crowded thoroughfare. It makes us ask if there is not too much transparency to our boasted civilization and the power of the law to protect citizens in all walks of life.

AWAY WITH THE BLINDERS.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals once more demonstrates its strong love of domestic animals, and particularly the horse, in the recently inaugurated campaign to do away entirely with blinders. The offer of the society to furnish open blinders to horse owners is a liberal one and affords no opportunity on the ground of expense for an excuse to evade the movement. Some few people contend that blinders are necessary on some horses. However that may be the use of blinders make both eyes of the poor animal half blind. No one seems to come forward with an explanation as to how the blinder movement started. But that they are unnecessary is demonstrated by the fire horses and saddle horses who are never handicapped with those articles. They are never used on circus horses in the ring.

The horse is an intelligent animal, and even those which have been accustomed to the use of blinders will soon become familiar with the lack of them and realize that they are better off without them. Much of the fear engendered by horses is produced by sudden looming up of objects which have been obscured by the blinders or inability to ascertain the source of some noise from the same cause. By all means do away with the blinders and save the horse so much weight carrying, if nothing else in hot weather.

THE CANAL LEGISLATION.

In view of the protest of Great Britain relative to the proposed legislation by this country upon the Panama canal tolls, we may be reasonably excused if we incline to the belief that in our diplomatic relations bearing upon this subject, the United States was somewhat overshadowed by our friends across the pond. They claim that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty when properly interpreted means that there "shall be no discrimination in the operation of the canal towards the ships of any nation." Accepting this phrase literally it would appear as if our British cousins had a "toe hold," to use a wrestling expression. It is all very well for people on this side, to contend that this does not mean that the United States ships should be considered by this wording of a treaty, but the fact remains that some one blundered diplomatically and Great Britain is quick to see and take advantage of the point. Senator Root does not hesitate to say that reference to the Hague tribunal would mean defeat upon the issue, the return of millions collected in tolls besides the enormous cost to the country of the hearing before the court. Looking at it from this view point, it would seem as if the United States, had built the canal, paid the freight in money and the toll of death for the successful accomplishment of the task, must maintain it for all time and the only real advantage accruing to us is the privilege of taxing our own ships the same amount as those of foreign countries, in passing from ocean to ocean. Truly the people who pay the freight may be excused if they raise in open protest against such blundering diplomacy.

GROWTH OF NEWSPAPERS.

Those who read their daily papers and accept them as a matter of course do not realize, perhaps, how the newspapers have grown in the past thirty years or less. In looking over some old newspapers the other day, the contrast was seen to be notable. Thirty years ago or so the New York Sun, "the great condenser," was trying to get the world's news on week days into four pages, and of course a portion of the four pages was taken up by advertising matter. On a very busy day the Sun would issue eight pages. The New York World, regarded as a big fellow in journalism at that time, on a day when New York was in the throes of a big celebration had no trouble in getting the story and all the rest of the news and advertising of the time into fourteen pages, and that was regarded as quite a paper. A number of Boston and other papers issued as a rule eight pages, occasionally broadening out to twelve when there was some heavy news and much advertising—for those days—to justify it. Now even the cities of 10,000 to 15,000 people have papers that run eight pages daily, and oftentimes more. Cities of 50,000 or more have daily papers running anywhere from ten pages to sixteen a day, and oftentimes run twenty or twenty-two, twenty-four and occasionally thirty pages. The typesetting machine has made this thing possible—by the oldfashioned handsetting it required a small army of men to put up the type in one day or night for a paper of even twelve pages, and the expense of a daily issue of sixteen or eighteen pages was prohibitive unless the paper had a large metropolitan sale and a huge and high-priced advertising clinentele. The papers of 1880 and along there, while well written and lively and very interesting reading, were totally unable to handle on ordinary occasions anything like the mass of matter which any newspaper in any city of ordinary size swings with ease every day in these times.—Brockton Enterprise.

HOARDING DANGEROUS

Wear and Tear on Gold May Mean a Loss to Holder

SAVE THE CLIPPINGS

There are probably millions of dollars in gold coin circulating in the United States which are not worth their face value.

This fact has been called to the attention of Lee McClung, treasurer of the United States, but the government has no desire or intention to recall the money in order that only gold of standard value may be in circulation. Should this gold be presented to the treasury or sub-treasuries its owners would be the losers, because of the enormous wear caused by abrasion in circulation.

While the government does not require that gold coins shall be of standard weight to be redeemed at their face value, it has established what is known as a "limit of tolerance," which permits a loss in weight of one-half of 1 per cent.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of this Quincy Citizen is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.

Most times 'tis the kidney's fault.

Backache is really kidney ache;

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Quincy women know this.

Read what one has to say about it

Mrs. F. Curtis, 54 Quarry St, Quincy Mass., says: "We used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family with good results and in 1908 publicly endorsed them. At the present time I am pleased to confirm that statement. A member of my family was in bad shape from kidney complaint. He wore plasters and tried several well-known remedies but did not improve until he began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They effected a cure in two weeks and restored him to better health than he had enjoyed for years. I have also taken Doan's Kidney Pills myself and have found them excellent for strengthening the kidneys."

WHITMAN AND WALDO AFFAIR

Latter Defends New York Police Force

MRS. ROSENTHAL AS WITNESS

Police Commissioner Says Gambling Exists Because District Attorneys Are Lenient—Whitman Claims Police Made No Effort to Prevent Murder and Stop the Criminals—Will Place Private Detectives on Case

New York, July 18.—That the real reason gambling has not been stamped out has been because the district attorneys in the several counties included in New York city and the various courts have not inflicted adequate punishment on convicted gamblers, was, the declarations made by Police Commissioner Waldo.

In a letter to District Attorney Whitman he demanded that the latter prosecute his gambling investigation to the end and took direct issue with Whitman's charges that the police system was responsible for the murderers of Gambler Rosenthal.

District Attorney Whitman said: "I do not wish to be misunderstood. I do not wish to go on record as having charged the murder up to the police department. Commissioner Waldo has done good work in this matter and is still doing good work. I have no war with him, or with the police department as a whole.

"I do charge, however, that the police permitted the murder to take place and deiberately allowed the murderers to escape. Of this I have proof. There were five policemen within easy reach at the time of the murder, and not one of them drew his pistol or did any of those things that a policeman would naturally do under the circumstances.

"And after the assassins got into their car the police made little pretence of pursuit, not one obtained the right number of the car and they arrested as a criminal the man who tried to give them the right number.

"Just as this man is about to give the names of eight or ten men who could and would support his charges of organized corruption in the police department, just as the situation shapes up most dangerously for the police involved, he is killed. The public feels this killing was a part of the work of a great secret organization which can defy the laws as it pleases.

"This killing has been a frightful blow to the orderly execution of justice in this country and one from which it will take it long to recover, although I will not rest until every man concerned is punished."

Whitman today placed every member of his personal staff at work on the solution of the murder. He declared that he would also, if necessary, engage all the private detectives necessary to check up on all the police evidence furnished him. He made it plain that he had lost all confidence in the police department and that he intended probing this crime at least independent of it.

Meanwhile the police declared they had their fingers on the situation. They intimated that Louis Libby and William Shapiro, who owned the touring car that was used by the murderers, had furnished them with all of the facts of the killing and with the names of the men who did the actual shooting. Shapiro, the police said, told them that there were seven men on the job and that four took part in the actual killing.

While the police were seeking the slayers of Rosenthal, District Attorney Whitman was setting in motion the grand jury wheels to investigate the charges of the murdered man that Police Lieutenant Charles Becker of the "strong arm squad" had loaned him $1500 and declared himself in on a 20 percent cut of the gambling house's profits.

It is rumored that Rosenthal declared that he had paid tribute to this man during the last two years while he was running gambling houses in down town New York. After Rosenthal opened his place at 104 West Forty-fifth street, which was out of this particular official's jurisdiction, this officer still insisted, it is alleged, that Rosenthal continue his payments of blackmail, and when he refused set in motion the wheels which resulted in the raids and in the placing of a uniformed officer in Rosenthal's front parlor.

In his visits to the district attorney, it is alleged, Rosenthal laid particular emphasis on the activities of this official who has an international reputation. He is alleged to have furnished the district attorney with the names of gamblers who paid tribute, with the amounts paid and with the names of the collectors.

It was to furnish substantiation of these charges that Rosenthal had agreed to meet District Attorney Whitman in the latter's house six hours after he was shot to death in front of the Metropole. Mrs. Rosenthal claims to have all of the information that her husband possessed on these lines, and she announced her determination to furnish it all to the district attorney to avenge her husband's killing.

Louis Libby and William Shapiro, owners of the automobile that carired Herman Rosenthal's murderers to the Hotel Metropole and sped them through a ring of policemen, and who are themselves held for the murder, told their lawyer, Aaron J. Levy, yesterday that policemen instigated the assassination, and that they were willing to help the district attorney prove it.

They said to Levy that they will have no more dealings with the detectives, and that they will tell what they know only to the district attorney.

A mysterious young woman, whose name was withheld by the district attorney, appeared before the grand jury yesterday afternoon and swore that on the night of the murder of Rosenthal she saw a gray automobile standing before the home of Police Lieutenant Becker. The assassins of Rosenthal, according to eye-witnesses of the crime, escaped in a gray touring car.

LITIGANT APPROACHED

By Judge Hanford With Proposition to Purchase an Invention

Seattle, July 18.—Frank Burpee, a manufacturer of salmon canning machinery, testified before the house judiciary sub-committee investigating the conduct of District Judge C. H. Hanford that in 1902, while damage awards in a suit decided against Burpee for infringement of canning patents were being considered by Judge Hanford, witness was given an opportunity to buy a can topper invented by the judge.

Fred H. Peterson, an attorney of Seattle who has known Judge Hanford twenty-eight years, testified that he had seen the judge under the influence of liquor on street cars here a dozen times.

FILIPINO INDEPENDENCE

Said to Favored by Roosevelt, Is Washington Report

Washington, July 18.—That Colonel Roosevelt will shortly attack President Taft and General Clarence Edwards on the ground that when Roosevelt was president they deceived him in regard to Philippine policy is the story which has reached Washington and it seems to have good basis in fact.

Colonel Roosevelt, it is also stated, will come out for speedy Philippine independence, thus aligning himself with the house Democrats who favor the Jones bill declaring the Philippines free in 1921, and against the administration's policy.

BOY AERONAUT INSTANTLY KILLED

Parachute Fails to Open at Hough's Neck

Quincy, Mass., July 18.—Lawrence Stafford, 17 years of age, of 35 Graham court, Roxbury, a son of the late Eugene L. Stafford, one time aeronaut and the man who was exonerated of the charge of the murder of M. B. Trussell, was instantly killed off Nut island, Hough's Neck, last evening, when he dropped 2000 feet with a parachute which refused to spread, during an exhibition balloon ascension.

A crowd of more than a thousand people, of whom many were women, saw Stafford dashed to death in two feet of water. A number of them fainted, including Mrs. Eugene L. Stafford, whose husband, a cousin of the aeronaut, is proprietor of the Stafford Aeronautical company under whose auspices the exhibition was being given.

RATES TOO LOW

No Profits by New Ruling the Companies Say

Washington, July 18.—Officials of the interstate commerce commission and members of congress are giving attention to the statement of the express companies that the lower rates ordered by the commission would not be profitable. It was pointed out that the commission's report showed that while the net returns to express companies may not now be more than 6 percent, this was due in some instances to excessive payments to railways for express transportation.

The investigation disclosed that the Great Northern Express company actually paid to the Great Northern railway, of which it is a subsidiary, all the gross revenues it received for the privilege of doing business on the railway. Many other contracts are shown to call for payment of 60 percent of the express company's revenue to railroads. Officials who conducted the investigation maintain that the rate structure they propose is reasonable and scientific and will wipe out inequalities without adding to the expense of operations of the express companies. The companies are to have a hearing in October.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Arbitration Commission Hearing of Vital Interest on

ENGINEERS DEMANDS

Shippers, railroad men and labor enthusiasts in general will be interested in the conference of the Arbitration Commission, to be held Monday at the Oriental hotel, Manhattan beach, New York. The proceedings of the commission will be closely watched inasmuch as it will be decided whether the engineers of the fifty-two railroads of the eastern section of the country will receive an increase in wages aggregating over seven million of dollars a year.

The increases have already been asked for by the Brotherhood of Locomotive engineers. The passenger rates would mean $4.40 per hundred miles or less for engines with cylinders of 20 inches or less in diameter. Overtime in through passenger service the brotherhood wants computed at on a basis of 20 miles per hour and all overtime to be paid at the rate of 70 cents per hour.

For freight rates the engineers ask for $5.25 cents per hour for engines with cylinders of 20 inches or less in diameter. They ask $5.50 for engines with cylinders over 20 inches in diameter and less than 24 inches. Engines with cylinders over 24 inches in diameter they think should bring $5.75 per day. They have petitioned for $7.00 per day for the mallet type of engines. They ask that 100 miles or less or ten hours or less constitute a day's work and that all in advance be paid pro rata.

They ask further that said engineers be paid at overtime rate for all time over fifteen hours and held at other than their home terminal. That twenty-five cents per 100 miles or less be added to through freights from local freight service, according to class of engines.

The rate for engines in switching service they want fixed at $4.50 per day. Ten hours or less to constitute a day's work and all over to be paid pro rata.

Engineers in the belt line service they request be paid $5.00 per day, ten hours or less to constitute a day. In all classes of road service they ask that the engineer's time begin thirty minutes before leaving roundhouse and end at the time the engine is placed on designated track or relieved by a hostler at terminal.

They want engineers paid by hour for overtime every time there is a delay within the terminal. All of the above demands will be decided by the members of the arbitration board, to whom they have been submitted for final action.

CHINAMAN WANTS OFFICE

Republican, But Reserves Right to Vote for Best Man

BORN IN UNITED STATES

Charles H. Shue is the son of Chinese parents born in the United States. He is a candidate for the State Legislature from the famous South Cove district of Boston which includes Boston's Chinatown.

The ward is strongly Democratic and Shue announces himself as a Republican who is divided between Taft and Wilson, for to Mr. Shue they are both good men. There has never been a Republican elected to the Legislature from this ward in its history.

This is the first time in all these United States that a Chinaman or the son of a Chinaman has ever aspired to political office.

Shue was born in San Francisco 39 years ago. He has an American wife and two sons who are pupils in the Quincy Grammar school. The candidate was educated in the public school of Seattle. He is the manager of the Chinese department of the Cosmopolitan Trust Company.

He is a Republican in politics but reserves the right to vote for the best man.

FAITHFUL CITY EMPLOYEE DEAD

John Cronin Passed Away at Lakeville Sanitarium

A large number of Quincy people, especially in the west section of the city, are today mourning the loss of John Cronin, of 30 Barry street, West Quincy, whose death occurred Wednesday evening after a lingering illness, at the Lakeville Sanitarium, where he had gone in an effort to regain his health. The deceased was widely known and highly respected in local circles and was for a long time one of the faithful employees of the city.

He had previously worked as a stone cutter for a number of years but under the administration of ex-Mayor Shea was appointed a stockman in the street department. His health began to fail late in the fall and though he was forced to quit work, his recovery was hoped for. A few months ago he went to the sanitarium at Lakeville, where it was thought he would regain his health. Last week his condition became worse and he departed this mortal life Wednesday evening, before it was possible to bring him to his home and family.

Mr. Cronin had endeared himself to a wide circle of friends. He is survived by a wife, two sons, Frank and John and four daughters Misses Catherine, Nellie F., Anna and Nora C. The two oldest girls, Catherine and Nellie are well known operators at the local telephone exchange and have the sympathy of numerous friends in their bereavement. The funeral will be held Saturday morning. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church.

GRAND OFFICER VISITATION

Knights and Ladies of Honor Had Good Time

At the meeting of Maple lodge, No. 313, Knights and Ladies of Honor, held Wednesday evening in Protection hall, two applications for membership were received. The guests of the evening included Deputy Grand Lady Mary McGlue, G. S., and Chaplain L. A. Harding. A general good time followed the meeting.

An entertainment was furnished by a number of the members and selections on a graphaphone added to the merriment. The program closed with a bean bag contest. The committee in charge was Mrs. Emma Marnock, Miss Maude Tibbetts and Mrs. Fannie Grignon.

R. R. CROSSING DANGEROUS

Conference For Better Protection at South Quincy

TOO MUCH FOR ONE MAN

Mayor Stone and the special committe of the City Council with a committee from the Central Labor Union are to hold a conference with the officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad Friday relative to additional protection at the Water street crossing at South Quincy. Some months ago the Central Labor Union sent a communication to the City Council setting forth the constant danger to life at this crossing and urging that steps be taken to have an additional gateman placed on duty at the crossing. It was pointed out that the one man now on duty was not sufficient. That there had been many accidents at this crossing and that almost daily there were narrow escapes.

The City Council later passed an order for a special committee with the Mayor and a special committee of the Central Labor Union to confer with the officials of the railroad relative to eliminating the danger. The City Engineer has prepared a plan showing the conditions at the crossing and how difficult it is for one man to see both ways for approaching trains. This data will be placed before the officials Friday.

LONELIEST SPOT ON EARTH.

Tristan d'Acunha Is a Tiny Oasis In a Wilderness of Water.

When Napoleon was sent to St. Helena it was thought that the loneliest place on earth had been assigned to him as a prison. But St. Helena is 1,400 miles nearer a continent than is Tristan d'Acunha. Many hundred of of miles of ocean lie between this island and its nearest neighbor. Tristan, in short, is a tiny oasis in a boundless wilderness of waters, go from it in which direction you will.

It is a rocky and cliff girt little isle, with a solitary mountain 1,000 feet high rearing itself from the midst. Yet on this lonely speck of rock and earth there lives a community seemingly happy in their isolation from all the rest of the world. They are farmers, cattle raisers and shepherds. In the valleys of the island are fertile fields, where potatoes mainly are grown. The food of the people consists for the most part of beef, mutton, fowls, potatoes and fish.

Tristan used formerly to produce many fruits and vegetables which can no longer be grown there. The reason of this is that the island for a long time was overrun by rats which escaped from a ship that anchored there and which the people have been unable, it is said, ever entirely to exterminate.—Harper's Weekly.

A FORTRESS OF THORNS.

Curious Nest of the Little Brown Wren of Central America.

The little brown wren of Central America builds a nest that should belong to a bird five or six times as large as it is, and, to prevent other birds from disturbing its home while it is away it builds as a protection a fence of thorns leading to it.

When Madam Wren looks for a home site, says a writer in the Ave Maria, she selects a tree where two branches lie parallel about two feet apart. Across these two branches she and her mate lay a little platform about five feet in length. Near the trunk of the tree is built a dome shaped nest about a foot in height. The sides of this nest are all interwoven with thorns.

Next a covered passageway is built from the nest to the end of the platform in as crooked a manner as possible. Thorns stick out in all directions just as in the nest itself, and every few inches on the inside of the tunnel little fences of thorns are placed in such a way that any creature not familiar with the passageway will get badly pricked. Finally across the outer end of the tunnel is a movable gateway of thorns.

Holland's Ways.

Sea fishing is one of Holland's principal industries, and large fleets of sturdy looking fishing boats are seen at the seaside villages and hamlets, so no doubt this and the almost amphibious life the Dutchman leads among his canals and ditches account for the popularity of the fishing rod and line. The country villages with their white and green painted houses and pretty gardens are made more attractive by the survival in Holland of the picturesque old time costumes of the people. Quaint linen headdresses and numerous ample skirts mark the women. Equally ample trousers—several pairs—clothe the men. The children are miniature copies of their parents in dress as in everything else, even to the pipe or cigar in the case of boys. Everybody wears wooden shoes. —American Traveler's Gazette.

HAVERHILL CUTTERS STRIKE

When Ordered by Industrial Workers of the World

Haverhill, Mass., July 18.—A strike of 360 block cutters occurred in the factories of thirty-nine leather remnant dealers in this city. The dealers had refused to grant the demands of the men for recognition of the Industrial Workers of the World, with which they were affiliated ;a nine-hour day and a fifty-hour week the year round, double pay for overtime work and higher prices for piece work.

Some of the larger firms intimated that they were willing to grant all the demands except recognition of the union. The strike of block cutters leaves 250 other employes without work.

FELL TO DEATH

had caused, Stafford to take his fellow aeronaut's life, and the disappointment and misery caused by his marital troubles, preyed upon his mind until he took his own life by swallowing poison.

Mrs. Stafford, who had shared in the unpleasant notoriety brought about by her husband's jealousy and the consequent murder, was destined to cause still further sensation, for she died, in 1907, with a degree of mystery surrounding her death. Blood poisoning was attributed as the cause of her death, but nevertheless the husband, from whom she had been living apart, was questioned by the police as to his knowledge of her death.

Even young Stafford was destined, as a child, to bid for his share of the family notoriety, and when scarcely in his teens was implicated in an accidental shooting, in which a boy was injured, in the back yard of a Worcester street house.

So that when Lawrence Stafford plunged to his death before the horrified spectators Wednesday afternoon the last chapter in the book of tragedy was written and the mangled and lifeless form of the young man spelled the word "Finis" to the family history.

Lawrence Stafford was considered an expert ballonist, and promised to excel his father as a parachute jumper even at his tender age. Before he was 14 years he had traveled about the country with his parents and had learned much of the rudiments of ballooning and the theoretical working of parachutes from their daring exploits.

It was little wonder, therefore, that when he was left an orphan at 15, he should look to the vocation of his parents as a means of earning a livelihood, and he had been successful in his chosen profession.

A peculiar coincident in the flight of the young aeronaut was the fact that he did not wear the regular costume which he usually wore making ascensions. What prompted young Stafford to change his attire could not be learned but the conversation with his uncle a few minutes previous to flying made it seem as though the youngster had a premonition of death.

When asked why he was not wearing his balloon suit, young Stafford replied: "Oh what's the difference, this may be my last flight anyway."

"Why are you washing your hands, Larry?" was another interrogation.

"Oh, to save the undertaker the job," was the quick retort.

These expressions were made in a jocular manner and the young flyer, after a collection had been taken up among the bystanders, prepared for his flight with his customary lack of appreciation of the fact that he was taking his life in his hand. His flight the week previous, when he landed on Peddock's Island was so successful, that all thought Wednesday's ascent would be fully as good.

It was the custom of the boy's uncle, to fire a shot from a revolver, which was the signal for young Stafford to release the parachute from the balloon and begin his descent.

The balloonist failed to respond at the first shot and it is said that fully a dozen shots were fired before he was seen to clear from the balloon and hurtle through space.

Warren Baker of Sea street and Harry Smith of Centre road, companions of Stafford, and who were watching the flight closely remarked to the uncle that something must be wrong and it was only a few seconds after that young Stafford was hurled headlong to death.

It was said that the life belt, which is used to hold the aeronaut to the parachute in case he lost control, was unfastened from Stafford when he was picked up. The wrist grip, however, was fastened securely to his left wrist and had the parachute worked properly, this would have been sufficient to save the life of the young flyer.

The body of Lawrence Stafford was removed from Hall's Undertaking rooms about one o'clock this morning and taken to his home in Dorchester, where funeral arrangements have been made.

PANAMA TOLLS WORRIES SENATE

Senator Lippitt Classes Proposed Canal Rebates

AS AN INTERNATIONAL GAMBLE

Lodge Believes If Question Is Submitted to The Hague, United States Would Lose—He Will Not Admit Foreign Power Has Right to Dictate What We Give Our Shipping—Railroads Backing the Protest

Washington, July 18.—The Panama canal bill having automatically come before the senate, Senator Lodge arose to speak on this measure—the most important now under consideration by the upper body. Senator Lodge said that he had been a member of the foreign relations committee when the treaties—the first and second Hay-Pauncefote treaties—were drawn up. "At the time I reported that treaty I certainly supposed that it left the United States the right to charge what tolls it pleased on our own vessels."

"In my opinion," said Senator Lodge, "there is no distinction between vessels used in coastwise traffic and those engaged in foreign traffic. There is no mention of such a distinction in the treaty. If this question should go to The Hague, we may regard the matter as settled now—we should lose.

"The English note, as I understand, undertakes to suggest that we cannot, if we choose, pay the tolls on our own vessels. If we pay the tolls of our own vessels it amounts to giving them free passage through the canal. I for one never admit that any foreign power has the right to say what we shall give to our shipping or to our railroads, or to anyone else. That is a domestic question. We violate no treaty injunction by doing it. The proposition is that all ships shall pay the same tolls. No one can go back of that and ask where the money comes from."

President Taft was told by Representative Knowland of California that Canadian railroads acting in sympathy with American railroads, were behind Great Britain's protest against free tolls through the Panama canal for United States ships. "Not the slightest objection was made by Great Britain," said Mr. Knowland, "until a committee of Canadian railroad men took the question up with the British government. There is little doubt that American transcontinental railroads prompted the move."

The powerful influence of the Canadian Pacific railway is discerned by government officials here not only in the British protest against exemption of American ships from Panama tolls and the closing of the canal to railroad owned vessels, but also in the trade agreement by which Canada hopes to undermine American trade in the British West Indies.

Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania has introduced a bill and a joint resolution intended to have important bearing upon the future conduct of the Panama canal. The resolution authorizes the secretary of state to open negotiations with Great Britain and other interested powers looking to the neutralization of the Panama canal and to a division of expense of construction and maintenance among the powers which will be benefited by it.

Senator Lippitt's remark that to create a fund to return to vessel owners tolls collected and that might thereafter be declared illegal by a court of arbitration would form one of the greatest international gambles in which the world has ever indulged, has attracted attention because it was the first time Mr. Lippitt has spoken in the senate, except in a formal written speech on his specialty, the cotton schedule.

ROOSEVELT ABANDONS TRIP

Will Remain at Home Until Date of Progressive Convention

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 18.—Colonel Roosevelt announced that he has decided to abandon his trip into the middle west. This sudden change in plans was made after a conference with Senator Dixon, his campaign manager George W. Perkins and O. K. Davis, one of Senator Dixon's aides.

"We came down to talk over the trip," said Mr. Davis, "and agreed that it must be given up. So many questions are coming up at our headquarters in New York which require Colonel Roosevelt's personal attention that he found it virtually impossible to get away at this time."

Mr. Roosevelt will remain here until August and then leave to attend the Chicago convention.

I. W. W. OPPOSED BY FEDERATION

Latter Working With Mills to Control Situation

MAKING THREE SIDED FIGHT

American Federation Council Jealous of I. W. W. Efforts—Small Disturbances Led by Those Wearing Industrial Workers' Buttons—Heavy Sentences Imposed Upon Peace Disturbers In Municipal Court

New Bedford, Mass., July 18.—Now the textile strike and lockout has settled down with the two labor organiaztions, the A. F. of L. and the I. W. W. definitely opposed to one another in a fight to secure control of the local industrial situation.

Ever since the beginning of the strike, the New Bedford representatives of the A. F. of L., the Textile Council, have been jealos of the efforts of the I. W. W. local to take part in the fight.

Efforts of the younger organization to persuade the council to join with it in a general strike have failed. Last night the Textile Council ranged itself with the manufacturers under a temporary truce to fight the common enemy, the I. W. W., in any attempt which it might make to secure the closing of the seven mills now in operation.

A committee of the Weavers' association met representatives of six of the seven mills now running, to discuss the total abolition of the grading and fine system. As the result of this conference, at which the manufacturers consented to make a verbal agreement with the weavers that the system never would be resumed, the Textile Council last night decided to refuse a general strike and to resent any interference with the operation of these mills.

John Hobin, president of the council, declared that he will use every means in his power to prevent the I. W. W. members from bothering members of the crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The I. W. W.l leaders have abandoned any idea of co-operating in the strike with the council. The local received a letter yesterday afternoon in which the various unions associated in the council formally refused to join any such movement.

"But we shall go ahead with our own preparations for a general strike, regardless," declared Richard Parkinson, secretary of the I. W. W. local, last night.

Judge Milliken in the municipal court imposed heavy sentences on four persons arrested during the disturbances at the opening time before the gates of the Butler and the Whitman mills. They all gave bail.

Most of the participants in the various outbreaks were members of the Industrial Workers of the World or wore Ettor buttons.

NATIONAL PROGRESSIVES

Will Have Delegates From Every State at Chicago

New York, July 18.—All the states will be represented with delegates at the national convention of the National Progressive party at Chicago on Aug. 5. Although the period of time between the call of the convention and the date of meeting was short for purposes of organizing a new national party, United States Senator Dixon, campaign manager for the Progressive party, was able to announce that he had received assurances from every state that full delegations would be present at the roll call in Chicago.

A new political party has been born in Connecticut. More than 100 "progressive" citizens, representing various sections of the state, gathered informally at the home of Ernest W. Smith, brother of Herbert K. Smith, at Hartford, and voted unanimously to hold a state convention at the Hyperion theatre, New Haven, July 30, and there nominate presidential electors and a full state ticket. President Flavel S. Luther of Trinity college presided.

COTTON FUTURES KILLED

If House Bill on Gambling Is Sustained In the Senate

Washington, July 18.—Heavy penalties for gambling in cotton futures are provided in the Beall bill, passed by the house by a vote of 95 to 25. The bill has yet to run the gantlet of the senate.

Efforts to amend the bill to include provisions prohibiting gambling in grain failed. The supporters of the bill asserted that the efficiency of the measure would be impaired by adding complicated administrative features. They pointed out that a measure now awaiting action in the house is directed against gambling in grain.

The bill would prohibit all dealing in cotton not actually in existence. Heavy fines would be imposed for the use of the mails or telegraph for the dissemination of cotton speculative information.

An Emperor's Strange Fancy.

Strange fancies have taken hold of some men regarding the manner in which their bodies were to be disposed of after death and the ceremonies to be observed at their funerals. The great Emperor Charles V. had the curious idea of celebrating his own funeral. Shortly before his death he caused a tomb to be made in the chapel of the monastery of Estremadura, to which he had retired after his abdication, and on its completion he was carried to it as though dead. Placed in a coffin and accompanied by a procession, he was borne along, while chants were sung, prayers said and tears shed. After the solemn farce was over he was left alone in the chapel, where he remained a short time before rising out of the coffin.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

"You think that now, but in a few days you will find that you feel very differently. Living a life of heartache is no joke and no job for a woman. Put on your ring and send me to tell him to come. I know Phil, and I know you went too far. Put on that ring and send him word you are sorry before it is too late."

"I will not! He shall come to me."

"Then God help you!" said Henderson, "for you are plunging into misery whose depth you do not dream."

She swayed where she stood. Her maid opened the door and caught her. Henderson went down the hall and out to his car.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Wherein Edith Carr Experiences Regrets and Philip Returns to the Limberlost.

PHILIP AMMON walked from among his friends a humiliated and a wounded man. Dawn was near when he reached home, but the first floor was lighted. He staggered up the steps and was instantly admitted. The library door stood open, while his father sat with a book pretending to read. At Philip's entrance the father scarcely glanced up.

"Come on!" he called. "I have just told Banks to bring me a cup of coffee before I turn in. Have one with me!"

"Father," said Philip, "may I talk with you a little while?"

"Of course," answered Mr. Ammon. "I am not at all tired. I think I must have been waiting in the hope that you would come. I want no one's version of this but yours. Tell me the straight of the thing, Phil."

Philip told all he knew, while his father sat in deep thought. "The friend for whom you wanted the moth is a girl?" he asked.

"The girl of whom I wrote you last summer and told you about in the fall. I helped her all the time I was away."

"Did Edith know of her?"

"I tried many times to tell her, to interest her, but she was so indifferent that it was insulting. She would not hear me."

"Who is this girl, just what is she doing and what is she like?"

Philip gave a man's version of the previous summer.

"You are very sure as to her refinement and education?" he asked.

"In almost two months' daily association could a man be mistaken? She can far and away beat Polly, Edith or any girl of our set on any common, high school or supplementary branch. She has the biggest, tenderest, most human heart I ever knew in a girl."

The book leaves slid rapidly through his fingers as the father drawled, "What sort of looking girl is she?"

"Tall as Edith, a little heavier, pink, even complexion, wide open blue gray eyes with heavy black brows and lashes so long they touch her cheeks. She has a rope of waving, shining hair that makes a real crown on her head, and it appears almost red in the light. She is as handsome as any fair woman I ever saw, but she doesn't know it."

"And you were in daily association two months with a girl like that! How about it, Phil?"

"If you mean did I trifle with her, no!" cried Philip hotly. "I told her the second time I met her all about Edith. I never met any girl so downright noble in bearing and actions. I never hated anything as I hated leaving her, for we were dear friends, like two wholly congenial men."

"Yet you left such a girl and came back whole hearted to Edith Carr!"

"Surely! You know how it has been with me about Edith all my life."

"Yet the girl you picture is far her superior to an unprejudiced person, when thinking what a man would require in a wife to be happy."

"I never have thought what I would 'require' to be happy. I only thought whether I could make Edith happy. I have been an idiot. What I've borne you'll never know. Tonight is only one of many outbursts like that, in varying and lesser degrees."

"Phil, I love you, when you say you have thought only of Edith. I happen to know that it is true. In some ways tonight would be a blessed release if you could take it; but you cannot. Go to bed now and get some rest. Tomorrow go back to her and fix it up."

"You heard what I said when I left her. I said it because something in my heart died a minute before that, and I realized that it was my love for Edith Carr. Sir, it is truth that I have thought only of her up to the present. Now I will admit I am thinking about myself. Father, did you see her? Life is too short, and it can be too sweet to throw away in a battle with an unrestrained woman. I am no fighter—where a girl is concerned, anyway. Could you spare me a few days? I wonder if I could not hide at Uncle Ed's in Wisconsin for awhile!"

"Phil, are you sure of what you just have said?"

"Death cannot return to life, father. My love for Edith Carr is dead. I hope never to see her again. Let us not speak of it further."

"Then, Phil," the father leaned closer and looked at the son tenderly, "Phil, why don't you go to the Limberlost?"

"Father!"

"Why not? No one can comfort a hurt heart like a tender woman; and, Phil, have you ever stopped to think that you may have a duty in the Limberlost if you are free? She might care to see you. You can soon tell."

A long time Philip Ammon sat in deep thought. At last he raised his head.

"Well, why not?" he said. "Years could make me no surer than I am now, and life is short. Please ask Banks to get me some coffee and toast, and I will bathe and dress so I can take the early train."

"Go to your bath. I will attend to your packing and everything. And Phil, if I were you I would leave no addresses."

"Not an address!" said Ammon. "Not even for Polly."

When the train pulled out the elder Ammon went home to find Hart Henderson waiting.

"Where is Phil?" he demanded.

"He did not feel like facing his friends at present, and I am just back from driving him to the station. He said he might go to Siam or Patagonia. He would leave no address."

Henderson almost staggered. "He's not gone, and left no address? You don't mean it! He'll never forgive her!"

"Never is a long time, Hart," said Mr. Ammon. "And it seems even longer to those of us who are well acquainted with Phil. Last night was not the last straw. It was the whole straw stack. It crushed Phil so far as she is concerned."

Twice Henderon opened his lips to speak of Edith Carr's despair. Twice he looked into the stern, inflexible face of Mr. Ammon and could not betray her. He held out the ring.

"I have no instructions as to that," said the elder Ammon, drawing back. "Possibly Miss Carr would have it as a keepsake."

"I am sure not," said Henderson curtly.

"Then suppose you return it to Peacock. I will 'phone him. He will give you the price of it, and you might add it to the children's fresh air fund."

"As you choose," said Henderson. "Good morning!"

Then he went to his home, but he could not think of sleep. He ordered breakfast, but he could not eat. He paced the library for a time, but it was too small. Going out on the streets he walked until exhausted, then he called a hansom and was driven to his club. As he sauntered into the room an attendant hurried to him.

"You are wanted most urgently at the 'phone, Mr. Henderson," he said. "You have had three calls from Main 5770."

Henderson shivered as he picked down the receiver and gave the call.

"Is that you, Hart?" came Edith's voice.

"Yes."

LABOR OF DRESSING WELL IN SUMMER

Some Color Schemes Which Make Smart Gowns for Hot Weather

STYLISH BELTS AND SASHES

Women who keep well-groomed, do so with greater labor in summer than in winter. Sunlight and dust and perspiration do more damage in one summer day than would be apparent from a week's wear in cold weather. This in part accounts for the popularity of the one-piece frock, as well as woman's lasting devotion to the shirt waist. In spite of the annual announcement of the passing of the shirt waist, sensible women cling to it for its real utility. A plentiful supply of white waists, some mannish tailored ones for ordinary occasions, a few dainty, lace trimmed ones for dressy wear, together with several neat, high-waisted skirts of white linen and pique, will carry the average woman through the summer and keep her always in that immaculate condition which is the first essential to the true lady. About all she will need in addition to these would be a pretty costume or two of crepe, cotton marquisette or some similar material, lace-trimmed, for the more or less infrequent hot weather, social affairs. Observance of this rule of dress tends to economy, also as well as smartness.

Just as chic, are the one-piece costumes of linen, madras, crash or any of the inexpensive cotton materials that look like linen, though they are scarcely as cheap, perhaps, from a laundry point of view. Still, the wardrobe is not considered complete nowadays, without one or more of these washable one-piece gowns.

This model attracts by its graceful lines, and by the stylish simplicity of its lace garniture. Dull rose linen was chosen for it. The lace is allover imitation Irish crochet. A narrow black patent leather belt is worn with it, slipped through straps to keep it at the top of the high waistline. Without collar, it is cool and comfortable, but so pretty and becoming is the V-shaped opening at the neck that one gets no impression of negligee.

Women like the one-piece dresses because they are so speedily donned. The top of the raised waist is stitched to the blouse, and there is no adjustment of gathers nor pinning of skirt to place, no fear of a parting of the ways at the waistline, in these comfortable dresses and then the closing of the waist and skirt is in one continuous line, fastened in a few seconds, with butons, hooks or snappers, and there yau are—as completely dressed as if you had spent twenty minutes in adjusting the various portions of your costume.

But it is in the trimmings and little accessories that one's taste is displayed either good or bad. A tiny touch of color here, a well contrasted piping, a cleverly placed row of buttons, and your frock becomes as serenely self-possessed as a Paris creation. One recently seen was of natural color crash with a wide collar of agaric or Turkish toweling in the same shade. Pipings of brown linen outlined the edges of inset sections in the front of skirt and waist, and a brown leather belt was worn at the high waist line. A pleated net guimpe showing in the deep V of the neck had a row of tiny brown buttons down the front.

Another color study was of mauve linen with narrow piping and tiny buttons of the deep purplish red known as fuchsia. The collar on this gown was of heavy lace. Thin guimpes of net or lace are worn in these open-necked gowns by many who object to the informality of the collarless blouse. This affords an opportunity for the use of tiny buttons and other trimming features in accord with a chosen color scheme. It has another advantage in permitting a lower cut of the open front of the blouse, thereby making it cooler and more comfortable. Guimpes and chemisettes of shadow lace are stylish and more desirable than the net ones since the pattern of the lace makes their presence more apparent.

Lace of all kinds continues fashionable, and few summer gowns are seen without some manifestation of it in the trimmings. Not only are revers, collars and such minor accessories made of it, but the products of the modern lace-making looms are so durable that vests, inset sections in skirts and other parts subject to strain in wearing, can now be made of lace with reasonable expectation of survival, at least as long as the gown with which it is incorporated. A disposition is evident to make the whole dress of lace, in fact, and some quite elaborate patterns are wrought into princess gowns to be worn over delicately tinted silk slips. In imitation Irish crochet patterns, or in point de Venise, these lace dresses are stunning and well worth their cost. Lace coats, too, are often seen this summer and are considered very dressy.

The use of lace as an inset in blouse and skirt is well exemplified in this costume of pale-grey cotton crepe. Cuffs of the same lace add to the ornamental effect. This gown, too, with its collarless square neck, is an ideal summer frock. Character is given by the black satin buttons and buttonholes and the black satin, fringed sash carelessly looped at the waist.

Fringe, by the way, is not used now except on the ends of sashes, but the fringed sash is very fashionable. It is used on all dresses with which the stiff leather belt is out of place in compliance with the demand of fashion that the waist be girdled. With some gowns the sash is short and looped at the left side front, as shown in the illustration, and with others it is longer and tied either in a flat, Japanese bow at the waist, or in butterfly loops which are pinned high up to the middle of the back. Color is often combined with the black in the sash, and very pretty schemes can be worked out in this way, either with a fold or twist of silk, or a few artificial flowers. But in any arrangement the sash is an important adjunct to the gown.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE TOOTHSOME APPLE PIE.

THE best pies are those that are most digestible. Rich crusts in which flour and butter or other fats are combined in equal proportions are not generally served in these days of hygienic eating. The shortening should be absolutely fresh and sweet. Unless the pie crust is light and flaky the pie will not be palatable.

Much also depends on the pie filling. Some persons find a pie objectionable because the filling is sweetened too much. Others cannot eat tart pie. Too little sugar, however, is a fault less serious than the use of too much. Sugar may be sprinkled over the tart pie when it is served.

One of the most popular pies is apple. The fruit is not only agreeable, but it is wholesome.

Here are various ways of preparing this favorite pastry:

Old Fashioned Pie.

Deep Dish Apple Pie.—Fill a deep dish with tart apples sliced and sprinkled liberally with sugar, nutmeg and bits of butter. Butter the upper edges of the dish and lay over the apples a sheet of paste. Cut three slits in the center. Pour into one of these openings half a cupful of hot water and bake about an hour in a hot oven. Serve hot.

A Teutonic Recipe.

German Apple Pie.—Make an apple pie omitting the upper crust. When almost done beat one egg light and add to it a scant half cupful of rich cream. Pour this mixture over the pie and replace in oven until the custard is set.

Covered With Meringue.

Apple Meringue Pie.—Pare, slice thin and stew juicy apples with about a teacupful of cold water. When done mash, sweeten to taste and flavor with lemon juice. Cover the pie pans with puff paste and fill with apples, leaving one-quarter of an inch at the top.

Bake in a steady, moderate oven until brown, then fill with meringue made from the whites of two eggs and one tablespoonful of sugar. Return to the oven and brown.

A Tart Pie.

Lemon Apple Pie.—Peel, core and chop two raw apples fine, add one cupful of sugar and one well beaten egg. Grate in the rind and juice of one-half lemon, add the pulp cut fine, one-half cupful of sweet milk and grated nutmeg to taste. Bake with two crusts.

Anna Thompson.

EMPLOYERS IN GREAT BRITAIN

Not Favorable to Workmen's Insurance Law

PLAN TO REDUCE WAGES

Inasmuch as Massachusetts has just entered upon the operation of the Workman's compensation act, it may be interesting to know what the English people are doing along similar although not exactly parallel lines.

The British employers are apparently bound to beat the workman's insurance as operated in that country.

The British law provides for the payment of part of the premiums by the state, part by the employers and part by the employes. The employers cannot escape taxation for the state's share, but it is understood they are talking of a general reduction in wages to the amount of their own contributions. Then the workmen's attention will be called to the fact that they are paying for their own insurance.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George's open declaration of what the employers have long suspected, that workmen's insurance is only a step in a vastly larger program of social change has alarmed some of them greatly and they are desperately anxious to upset his plans before he makes any further progress. Leaders of the movement think they will have their best opportunity during the first six months of the new law's operation, since the period will be one of payment for the insurance, while nothing will be paid back to them in return.

POST OFFICE RECEIPTS GAIN

Quincy Station Among Leaders of Boston District

TWO STATIONS SEPARATE

The receipts of the Quincy station of the Boston Post Office departments from June 30, 1911, to June 30, 1912, were $50,697.57 against $49,410 the year previous, an increase of $1,287.57. Only 17 of the 67 postal stations of Boston show receipts which are larger than those of the Quincy postal station, which is made up of Wards One, Two, Three and Four receipts at Wollaston station which is not connected with the Quincy station were $9,083.11 for the past year and of Atlantic, which likewise is not connected with the Quincy station, were $6,920.80 during the same period. The receipts of these last two mentioned would bring the total receipts of the city of Quincy up to $66,701.48.

Among those with smaller receipts were Brookline, Dorchester Centre, Everett, Jamaica Plain, Newton, Medford, West Somerville, Watertown, Melrose and Medford.

Postal receipts totaling $7,064,256.10 were taken in throughout the Boston postal district.

This is an increase of $420,470.63 over the fiscal year 1911. Of the total sum $3,509,501.79 represents the receipts for the general post office and $3,554,754.31 the amount taken in at the 68 stations and branches in the postal district.

By way of comparison with the local post office and local branches, the following table may be of interest:

Office	1911	Receipts 1912
Atlantic	$5,913.76	$6,929.80
Braintree	5,541.23	6,076.54

MAYOR STILL UNDECIDED

But It Is Probable Litchfield Gets New Car

WITH THE KISSLE MACHINE

While Mayor Stone has not definitely decided about that automobile which is to be handed over to the city with the Kissle automobile chemical, it is probable that it will be turned over to Chief Litchfield of the Fire Department. When asked this morning about the matter the Mayor said that would probably be the disposition of the car. He said that the order passed by the City Council called for an automobile chemical engine for the fire department and that the contract called for a touring car in addition to the chemical. As the apparatus was for the fire department the touring car should rightfully go to that department. The Mayor however said that he would decide the matter definitely in a few days.

PINCHOT SHOWS HIS PATRIOTISM

Says His Property Not Taxed High Enough

Says Gifford Pinchot and Calls Attention of District Assessors

Washington, July 18.—Gifford Pinchot has added about $600 to his taxes in the District of Columbia by calling attention to the fact that his Washington home is under assessed by $43,973, or 49 percent. When a house investigating committee discovered that many small real estate owners in the district were being taxed on assessed valuation far greater than the two-thirds of real value, as provided by law, while many large owners were taxed on much less than two-thirds, Mr. Pinchot employed experts to appraise his property and notified the committee of the result.

Representative Henry George, Jr., congratulated the conservation champion upon having the "unique distinction of being the first weathy man in the city of Washington, if not in the United States, to come forward and volunteer the information that his own property is grossly under assessed."

"White Savers" to Be Flogged

London, July 18.—The house of commons committee to which it was referred, approved the bill looking toward suppression of the white slave traffc and providing for the flogging of convicted slavers. It will go directly back to the house, where it is sure of prompt passage.

IDENTITY LONG UNKNOWN

Daly and Savage Said to Be First at Squantum Tragedy

For some time it has been claimed that the names of the men in the power boat who were first to reach the bodies of Miss Harriet Quimby and W. A. P. Willard, victims of the Squantum tragedy had been shrouded in mystery.

The men it is claimed left the scene without giving their names to any one.

It is now claimed that their names are Harold B. Daly and Myron Savage, but no light is thrown by the discoverer as to where they belong.

The claim is made that Harold B. Daly and Myron Savage were in their motor boat watching the flyers return from their trip to Boston Light and were about 50 feet from where the victims landed in the water. The men immediately started up their engine and rushed to the spot. Finding the water too shallow for their motor boat, they pulled up their tender and rowed to the spot.

They found Willard first, got him into the boat and then lifted in Miss Quimby. Just then a militiaman waded out to them and assisted them with Miss Quimby. Others followed and the bodies were carried to the shore. After the excitement had passed the young men got into their tender and rowed out to their motor boat.

In the bottom of the tender was found a memorandum book belonging to Mr. Willard containing the names, addresses and telephones of all living aviators; also a copy of the adjutant general's order detailing the militia to the meet, and a trip ticket from Boston to Atlantic.

SCHOOL CHAMPS SEE BOSTON

Wollaston Boys Enjoyed Double-header of Would Be Champs

The champion Wollaston grammar school base ball team, had their hearts desire Wednesday afternoon. They went to Boston and witnessed a ball game between the Boston and the Chicagoes. The Boston head the American league at the present time and it looks very much as if they would bring the pennant to the Hub, and possibly the World's championship as well. The boys enjoyed the game and had plenty of pop corn, peanuts and orangeade during the four hours they sat in the grand stand and watched the double header between Boston and Chicago.

The party was in charge of Principal David H. Goodspeed and included Mrs. Goodspeed, Miss Agnes Fisher and Miss Grace Warshaw of the school corps of teachers the class president, Maynard Hatch and the following members of the team: Captain Gilbert Hamlin, Manager James Isbister, Fred Cox, Howard Johnson, Sidney Bedwell, Michael Phelan, Harold Baker, Arthur Favreau and Chas. Salisbury.

The other member of the team William Welsford was absent from the city on his vacation and so could not go and his place was taken by Maynard Hatch.

DECLINE OF SMALL COURTESIES.

Small courtesies of life seem to be entirely lost in the rush for big things. This leaving off of the little things that go to make living worth the while is a well-known and recognized fact to women who crave those graceful attentions so easy in the giving when the thought is right.

Many men no longer consider it necessary to rise when a lady enters the room. If they proffer a chair, it is a seldom done with the old-time alacrity, and a few trips on a city car will be sufficient to convince the veriest sceptic of the truth of courtesy's decadence.

Be it said in favor of man, that he is by no means the greatest offender. Women who entertain will tell you of scores of invitations to which they have never seen received the courtesy of an acknowledgement. "R. S. V. P." at the end of a card or note means nothing to women too thoughtless or to ill-bred to take five minutes for a reply.

HOME WEDDING PRETTY EVENT

Quincy Man Espouses a Fair Daughter of Brighton

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Brighton, Wednesday evening, when Miss Corinne Pansy Sutherland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Sutherland and one of the most popular young ladies of Brighton's younger set, became the bride of Dr. Herman L. Keene, Tufts '09, of Quincy.

The ceremony, which was a quiet home affair took place at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride, 62 Murdock street, and was attended by the immediate families only, the officiating clergyman being Rev. William A. Knight of the Brighton Congregational church.

The bride was attended by Miss Etta Aljuline Keene, a sister of the groom, while John S. Sutherland, Jr., a brother of the bride officiated as best man. The flower girl was Miss Barbour Helen Coy, a niece of the bride.

Miss Nellie Wright presided at the piano and the bridal party entered to the melody of the wedding march from the opera of Lohengrin.

The bride wore a white crepe meteor gown with court train, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a pink messaline gown with pink chiffon overdress and crystal trimmings and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas.

An informal reception followed the ceremony, the bridal party being assisted in receiving by Mrs. John S. Sutherland and Mrs. Russell M. Keene, mothers of the bride and groom. Mrs. Sutherland wore a black and white silk dress and Mrs. Keene a lavender crepe meteor gown.

After the reception Dr. and Mrs. Keene left, mid a shower of rice and good wishes for a brief wedding trip, returning from which they will make their home on Francis court, Quincy where they will be at home after October 1.

LADIES' DAY.

John T. Cavanagh's new purchase the yacht Meemer is at Hanley's yard for an overhauling before joining in the season's racing.

The Quincy Yacht club will observe Ladies' day, this afternoon and evening. The fleet will pass in review of the flagship at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon and sail over the prescribed course.

Luncheon will be served in the hall on return of the fleet. There will be a promenade concert from 3 to 7 P. M., followed by dancing. A special car will leave for Quincy at 10.45 P. M. The reception committee comprises L. L. Files, F. E. Winslow, G. W. Holden, T. E. Furnald, G. H. Newcomb, John Winslow, W. H. Nichols, L. W. Mathews, F. R. Cowling, G. E. Bell, A. F. Burrill, H. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

The annual Sunday school picnic of the Hall Place M. E. church was held at Highland Park Wednesday. A special car left the West Quincy depot at 9.10 going by the way of Braintree.

Sports and games of all kinds were indulged in during the day and a happy time was enjoyed by all.

The special car left the Park at 6 P. M. on the return trip and the fact that everybody had a pleasant time was evidenced by the fun and merry singing of the home-coming picnikers.

MILTON MAN WED OHIO GIRL

Ceremony Performed in Boston Church Wednesday Night

At the Tremont street M. E. church, Boston, at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening Miss Bernice M. Brooks of Columbus, O., was married to Russell S. S. Pond of Milton. The bride came to Boston a few years ago to study music and was graduated last month from the New England Conservatory.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Henry L. Wriston, and the bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Ella Brooks. She was attired in white marquisette over satin with pearl trimmings. She wore a tulle veil and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of lilies of the valley, white roses and swet peas.

Miss Edith Davidson of Belfast, Me., was maid of honor, and Miss Nellie Phillips of South Hanover annd Miss Gertrude Kelley of Fitchburg were bridesmaids. They wore white crepe de chine and carried white roses. Harold W. Pond of Milton, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The music was by three friends of the bride, Miss Mary A. Duggan of Whitinsville, who presided at the organ; Miss Louise Rinehart of Columbus, O., violinist, and Miss Inez Beal of Lowell, soloist. The ushers were Dr. Seth F. Arnold of Boston, Edmund Pond of Milton, Guilford Hurder of Beverly and Gordon M. Parmalee of Boston.

After the ceremony the couple held a reception in the vestry of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Pond were assisted in receiving by the parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Pond, of Milton, and the mother of the bride.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

Two special cars carried 150 children of the Union Chapel, Houghs Neck, on a picnic Wednesday at Glen Echo Grove, Stoughton. The start was made from Houghs Neck shortly after nine o'clock and return was made in the evening about six. The party was in charge of the pastor Rev. W. J. Sayre, and the Superintendent of the Sunday school, Miss Ella Acorn. Games of all sorts were played and many interesting sights were taken in. A luncheon was enjoyed and all pronounced the treat and picnic the best ever.

BRIEFS

It is expected that the tax rate will be announced early next month.

The City Council Committee on Streets will meet Friday evening.

Officers Hincheon, Forde, Whalen and Murray of the police department are having their annual two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. M. Alonzo Minchin, nee Miss Alice Gould, formerly of Quincy and now of Braintree, was taken to the Homoeopathic hospital, Boston, last night and passed through a serious surgical operation.

Tempestuous Jupiter.

Careful study of the planet Jupiter has afforded some rather interesting figures concerning its rate, or rather rates, of rotation. These do not affect the round numbers in which the equatorial velocity of Jupiter's rotation is usually stated—viz, about 28,000 miles per hour. But they furnish additional proof that the motions visible on the great planet's surface are not uniform from year to year. For about twelve years the equatorial region appears to have experienced an acceleration of velocity. Relatively to the surface some thirty degrees north or south Jupiter's equator rushes ahead with hurricane speed, between 200 and 300 miles an hour.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

FIRST NEW COMPENSATION CASE SATISFACTORILY ADJUSTED

Lawrence Man Died From Injuries Received While at Work in Wheel Plant

Settlement Made Only Few Hours After Filing Claim

The first claim for compensation for death, under the new Workingmen's Compensation act, was filed Thursday and in a few hours the matter was settled, the amount being agreed upon and papers signed providing for a payment covering 300 weeks and totaling $2199.

The agreement was filed with the Industrial Accident Board and provides for payment to the dependents of Joseph Braetenas, otherwise known as Joseph Breton, who died of injuries received at the plant of the Archibald Wheel Company in Lawrence on July 6.

A feature of this settlement, worthy of special mention, is the remarkable speed with which the agreement was reached under the act. Under the old conditions, if a suit was instituted, such a case might linger in the courts for a number of years, subject to the usual delays of waiting for trial and appeals thereafter, with possible retrials

Braetenas was injured while engaged at his usual employment of wheel-making on the morning of the accident and died the following day, after an operation at the Lawrence General Hospital. The settlement provides for the payment of $7.33 for a period of 300 weeks under the act, practically six years, or a total payment of $2199.

On the morning of the accident, while throwing off a belt from a wheel, the stick which he used caught and struck him in the stomach. The accident was not at first regarded as very serious, but as a matter of precaution he was taken to the hospital. Later complications developed, necessitating an operation. This proved to be unsuccessful and death resulted.

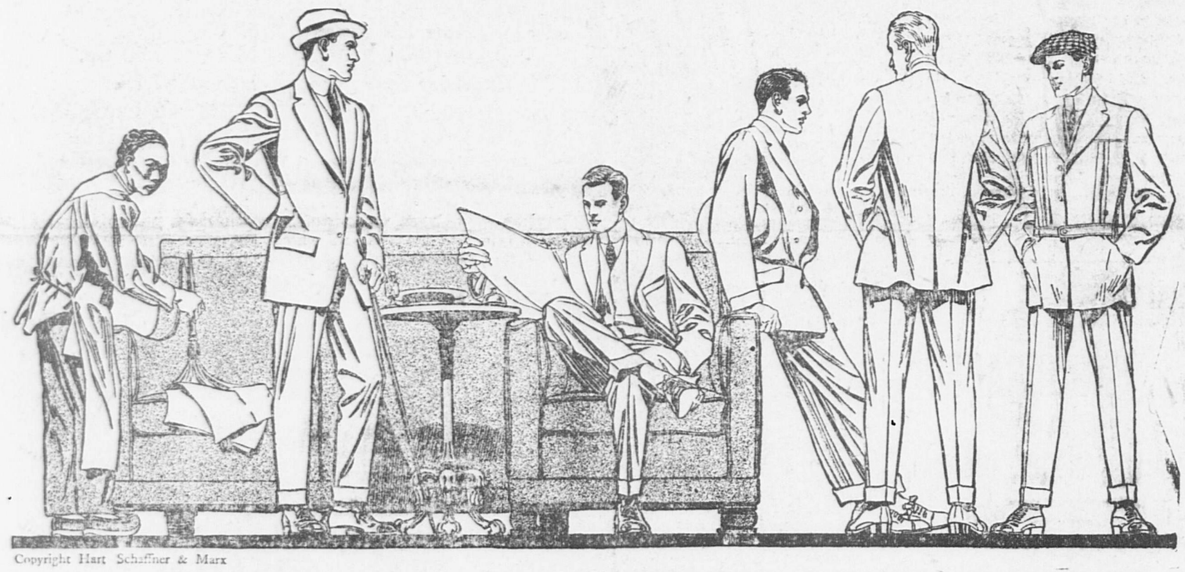

Braetenas often worked overtime, earning in some instances $19.95 per week, although his "regular weekly pay" was fixed at $13.50. For the first time under the act the definition as given in the law as to the "average weekly wages" of the injured employe "came into use. This section defines the "average weekly wages" as meaning "the earnings of the injured employe during the period of 12 calendar months immediately preceding the date of injury, divided by 52; but if such injured employe lost more than two weeks' time during such period, then the earnings for the remainder of such 12 months shall be divided by the number of weeks remaining after the time so lost has been deducted."

It was found, after a careful examination of his time sheet that Braetenas lost, during the year immediately preceding the accident 228 5-6 hours, or 3.81 weeks. Deducting this from the number of weeks in a year, it was noted that Braetenas worked 48.18 weeks and his average weekly earnings under the act were $14.66.

This "average weekly wage" is considerably more than his regular weekly pay, which was fixed at the factory at $13.50, Braetenas' extra time increasing the average wage to the sum fixed by the investigator and approved by the board.

This case is interesting since it puts into working effect one of the most important provisions of the new act and gives a concrete example of the manner in which the insurance company reporting the case worked it out. It also indicates that there is a disposition on the part of the insurer to give the employe everything which the law provides and illustrates the benefits of the act, as applied to workmen against whom, under the old law, the three defenses of negligence of fellow servant, of the employe himself and of the assumption of risk, were available.

JAMES MUNDY DIED OUT WEST

Former Quincy Man Leading Merchant of San Francisco

POOR HEALTH FIVE YEARS

A dispatch from San Francisco, Cal., announces the death late Wednesday afternoon of James H. Mundy formerly of Quincy and one of the leading commission merchants on the Pacific coast. Mr. Mundy had been in failing health for the past five years, but not to the extent to cause any alarm to his relatives or physician.

Mr. Mundy was the son of Hugh Mundy of Quincy and was 68 years of age.

He lived in Quincy until 1873, when he went West, eventually entering business in San Francisco. He was graduated from the Quincy High school in 1860 and then went to work in a Boston leather house.

His early manhood was passed in Quincy, where he was held in high regard. When the present church of St. John's parish was planned he took a prominent part in raising funds for its construction.

After the Boston fire Mr. Mundy made a tour of the West and then took up the produce commission business with the firm of which he later became a member.

Mr. Mundy had several relatives in the East, the late Rev. Fr. John Mundy being his brother, and the late Mrs. Margaret M. Gavin of Quincy, his sister. Two sisters survive him, Miss Sarah A. Mundy of Quincy and Mrs. James Clark of New York.

COQUETTISH DARTS FROM BRIGHT EYES SUBDUED JOLLY YACHTSMEN

Fair Sex in Spotless Duck Were Lord High Admirals of the Quincy Club Fleet

Storm No Damper or Detractor From Ladies' Day Pleasure

While the threatening weather and storm interfered somewhat with the usual large attendance at the annual ladies' day event of the Quincy Yacht club it in no way dampened the enthusiasm of the 600 or more who did attend. The weather had been somewhat threatening all day. The sky was overcast and the air hot and sultry. It was thought however that the dampness would burn off during the afternoon. In City Square there was scarcely a breath of air and what there was came from the southwestern quarter of the compass which did not give much promise for sailing craft. Off shore however there was a slight easterly breeze which looked alluring to the jolly tars.

The most of the Quincy party went to the club house on cars about two o'clock, the ladies in their immaculate costumes of white showing that they had no fear of a storm.

At 3 o'clock when the preparatory gun was fired from the flagship Dartwell, which was moored some distance from the club house, the two floats in front of the club house presented an animated scene. Launches darted here and there transporting the fair guests from the club floats to where the yachts were riding on their mud hooks while along side of the main float was the steamer Houghs Neck which had been chartered by the club for the afternoon, so that all who desired could enjoy a sail.

At this time a penant bearing the figure 1 was displayed from the flagship denoting that course 1 was to be sailed. At 3.15 three guns from the flagship gave warning for the yachts to pass in review. There was scarcely a breath of air at this time and as the yachts pointed toward Jack-knife ledge buoy it looked as though there would be a drifting match. Shortly after however the wind freshened into a wholesale ladies' day breeze and as the sails filled, skippers smiled for if the wind only held it meant a delightful whole-sail trip on an even keel.

CITY SOLONS VACATIONS.

The members of the City Council are enjoying their well earned rest from the arduous duties upon which they entered with so much zeal the first of the year. The city business runs along just the same without interruption. There is no perceptible halt in the municipal machinery. The various officials are at their respective desks each day, except of course such as may be enjoying the relief afforded by temporary absence on vacation jaunts. The stone castle of the City Fathers endeavors occupies its accustomed place close to the cemetery and on the way to the depot. No changes are any where in evidence.

All of which might indicate that the City Solons had to date performed their tasks faithfully and well. May they thoroughly enjoy the rest which they personally accorded themselves, and with clearer vision, keener intellect and more lusty vigor reenter upon the solution of Municipal problems which may claim their attention when they resume their tasks at the old stand in September.

REPEATED HIS CRIME.

That there is danger of offenders of a certain class of crimes, repeating the offence at an afforded opportunity is proven by the conduct of a paroled man in New York a short time ago, if the deductions of the police, based upon the father's statement are well founded. The offender was on parole for a crime against a young girl committed two years ago. Last week an innocent girl of 12 years was the victim of this fiend's rapacious rage. The thought of his former crime and the leniency in which he had been treated did not enter into his calculations. It must have been a mania with him. His effort to assault the girl led to loud outcries on her part. Enraged at her resistance and the fear that he would be discovered this fiend stabbed the girl to death and threw the body into a vacant lot. More than 30 wounds were found upon the tender body of the child.

The result of this case of misplaced mercy carries its own weight and impressions and conveys its own story and argument against such a course. Such offenders can hardly be termed sane. If they are convicted of one such offence innocent people should not be subjected to a possible pursuit of their fiendish will. They should be kept in restraint at all times, and not granted the chance to repeat their offence. To the other New York case of brain storm, theconduct of this monomania should serve as an example for future consideration.

ROUNDABOUT WAY.

Few people, if any, have been led to a serious consideration of the complexity of the local mail problem as produced by Quincy forming only a sub-station of the Boston post office. Besides the Quincy post office station on Washington street, there are also stations at Squantum and Atlantic. A letter mailed from either of those places and directed to some one in Quincy Centre, must travel along to Boston, and then back again to the Washington street branch in Quincy before it is ready for delivery. It is rather a roundabout way of doing business.

No doubt the mail schedule was perfected some time ago and undoubtedly with a view to continued operation along the same lines for months or even years.

At the same time it must be understood that the post office officials as a whole, are a very reasonable body of men and in the main, ready and willing to inaugurate any suggested changes that would make towards public convenience. No method altering the present system with a view to improvement along the lines suggested is offered. That would be presumin gtoo much. But that considerable delay and inconvenience is experienced by the system now in operation between points named is fully appreciated. No doubt the post office officials nowthat the subject is called to their attention, may formulate some relief from the present situation.

ANOTHER LETTER ON THE SCHOOLS

Chairman Miller Says a Few Words to Mr. Whiting

CONDEMNS WILFUL WASTE

Quincy, Mass., July 18, 1912.
Editor Daily Ledger:—

In your issue of the 12th inst. I noticed a communication from James S. Whiting, on the question of retaining the old Wollaston school house for an emergency, or overflow school. Now, Mr. Editor, I have no idea who Mr. Whiting represents in his long epistle. I am sure it is not the people of the Wollaston Plains, when he suggests sending all the children north of North Central avenue to the Montclair school. We gave those people a hearing on that question a month ago, at which a hundred and twenty-five people came to express their opposition to such a project, and they were unanimous against it. I wonder where Mr. Whiting was that he did not appear and give the people the benefit of his great experience. He was conspicuous by his absence. Perhaps that was too small, and too unappreciative an audience, but would rather speak to the larger audience of the Daily Ledger.

Mr. Editor, I should not take any notice of Mr. Whiting's letter, if he had not misquoted figures from the School Report, to try and befog the people, for the table on page 65 of that report is headed "The average number belonging." Any one knows that in providing school accommodation we cannot take averages, but maximums, and if Mr. Whiting will turn to page 64 he will find the enrollment as 434 instead of 385 as he has quoted. These figures were up to June 21, 1911, since which time we have had three terms of school, three different periods for new scholars to enter. At that time the Massachusetts Field school had an enrollment of 416, yet the building is only an eight room school, so we had 52 scholars to a room at that time.

The difference with Mr. Whiting and the School Committee is that the latter must deal with the present and future, while Mr. Whiting likes to play in the past.

I noticed a letter in the Ledger some years ago from this author, trying to prove how much better Wollaston would be as a separate town. He appeared to make out a case in his own way, yet that was not of the present, nor of the possible, but merely a pipe dream.

I would further add that while the School Report does say on page 13 "The increase in building and in population is so rapid about the last named school, (Massachusetts Field however, that a new building in the district nearby will undoubtedly be necessary within three years," but that doesn't say we will get it in six years. A new Adams school has been necessary for ten years, yet the appropriation has only passed the Council a little over a week ago.

The facts of the case were correctly put by the School Comittee in their letter to the Council, as they see it. If it doesn't agree with Mr. Whiting, the committee can't change conditions as they exist to please him.

As I am quite a busy man, and have enough to attend to the duties that I am called on to perform, I have no desire to enter into any controversy with Mr. Whiting. I think the people of Wollaston know the School Committee, or its chairman has the good of that school district at heart as much as any other district, as they have had ample evidence the past three years.

I can see nothing but extravagance and waste to tear down, or sell the building for a pittance, as soon as a new one is built. What taxpayer would tear down his old house as soon as he moved into a more pretentious home? Scarcely one could be found, unless he found it impossible to utilize it further. Then why such extravagance with the city property? We are in no immediate need of more park spots for our whole city is almost a park, but on account of our large area, and very rapid growth of the present time, it will tax our financial resources to the limit for years to come, to provide school house accommodation, and that is what every family is entitled to, and it is their just right.

Mr. Editor, I thank you for your valuable space, but it was more than I intended to use.

Yours very respectfully,
John L. Miller.

CHINA STUDY AT NORTHFIELD

Interesting Talks by Missionaries on the Subject

China is the chief study at the Women's Foreign Missionary Societies' conference now in session at Northfield with 500 delegates. To make this study more vivid a dozen missionaries and three Chinese ladies all elaborately dressed in the native costumes form an interesting spectacle as they gather almost daily on the lawns and live over the inner scenes of Chinese life. The first day Mrs. Gilbert Lovell of Hunan, paid a missionary visit to a Chinese family. She was received with all the courtesy of the East. When she started the lesson she was interrupted by the arrival of the neighbors who examined her hat, clothes and shoes, and asked, "How old are you?", a proper question in China. Mrs. Lovell replied, "Over twenty." A small girl then interrupted and received a sound flogging from her grandmother much to the delight of the audience.

Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery of Rochester, N. Y., is conducting a class on "China's new day," and Dr. Li Si Cu of Ngucheng has told her amazing story of success in treating 6898 patients in a year in the hospital under her care. Dr. Li was brought to this country on account of her unusual ability, was graduated with honor from the Woman's Medical College in Philadelphia, and has overseen the building of her hospital in China. She has given an interesting illustration of dispensary work at the conference. Today a vivid contrast was given between the old and new educational systems of China, the audience getting a clear impression of Chinese life. The coming Conference will take up Home Missions with the discussion of immigration and foreign problems in America. The General Conference starting August 2 will be the climax of the season. Thousands are expected, yet with the added facilities in Gould Hall, the new dormitory dedicated about a month ago, there will be ample room for more than in former years.

PRODUCTION ENCOURAGED

By the Ellis Milk Bill Because it Bars Discrimination

The Ellis bill will have a distinct tendency to encourage the production of milk in Massachusetts, because it will remove one of the unjust discriminations now operating against the Massachusetts producers in favor of the out-of-state producers. It will put all the producers on an equal footing as far as inspection is concerned.

At present many of the Massachusetts producers are being inspected by local officials, but the out-of-state milk does not receive the same degree of inspection.

The chief purpose of the Ellis' Bill is to provide for this out-of-state inspection, which will cover two-thirds of the milk sold in Massachusetts. Of course, it will also cover places in the State which are not now looked after by local officials.

The operation proved a very powerful argument for the Ellis bill, and accounts in large measure for the change of sentiment among producers towards that much misrepresented measure. Our farmers are now coming to realize how beneficial its passage will be to the milk industry of Massachusetts.

WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION.

"What a Girl Expects of a Man," is the subject of a lively article in the August Woman's Home Companion. Another interesting article in the same number is an account of how a girl can earn her way through college—at least partially. The author of the article is a girl who did the very thing she writes about.

Fiction is contributed by Kathleen Norris, Mary Heaton Vorse, Fanny Heaslip Lea, Marion Hamilton Carter, Margaret Busbee Shipp and Beulah Marie Dix.

The regular departments of the Companion contain a mass of valuable suggestions to housekeepers about the household, cooking, fashions and home decoration. Of course, a special point is made of suggestions useful in the summer, specifically with regard to vacation time—the best ways to prepare for vacations and the best ways to enjoy them.

GOLF.

In the qualifying round of the Essex County club golf championship contest at Manchester, Thursday, M. W. Dewart of the Wollaston club finished eleventh in the third sixteen and drew to play against E. M. Taft today with a handicap of 15 against Taft's handicap of six.

5,000 MILE AUTO TRIP

To Be Made by Mr. and Mrs. Thornton on Honeymoon

The wedding of Miss Mabel Louise Lajoie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lajoie of 28 Winter street, Brockton, and Roy Aborn Thornton, a clubman and auto dealer of Quincy and Chelsea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Thornton of Chelsea, took place Monday afternoon at 2.30 at their new home in Beachmont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles P. Marshall of Quincy. They were attended by Miss Daisy Vinal of Brockton an intimate friend of the bride, and William P. Polk, an intimate friend of the groom, who came from his home in Indianapolis to be present at the wedding.

The ceremony took place in the parlor of the new home, which was decorated with cut flowers and ferns. The bridal couple marched into the parlor to the strains of "The Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, and were married under an arch made of white ribbons, white roses and ferns. The single ring service was used. The bridal party was preceded by two flower girls, who were dressed in white frocks and carried baskets of white roses which were strewn in the path of the couple. The flower girls were Miss Blanche Edison of Beachmont and Miss Ruth Small of Quincy.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin trimmed with Irish point lace and pink rose buds. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid was attired in white satin trimmed with lace and ribbons. She carried a shower bouquet of daybreak pinks. The flower girls were attired in white satin gowns trimmed with pink.

After the ceremony the bridal couple held a reception, at which guests were present from Brockton, Boston, Quincy, Chelsea, Beachmont and surrounding towns. Mr. and Mrs. Thornton was assisted in receiving by their attendants and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lajoie and Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Thornton. Mrs. Lajoie was attired in a costly gown of heliotrope satin, trimmed with lace to match, and steel gray ornaments. Mrs. F. E. Thornton was attired in a gown of plum color satin with lace and beading to match.

The dining room in which the refreshments were served, was decorated with white daisies. The other rooms of the house were decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. During the evening musical numbers were rendered. Later in the evening lunch was served by a Boston caterer.

The bride's gift to her maid was a gold chain with pendant. She also gave the flower girls sets of gold beauty pins. The groom's gift to the best man was a gold stickpin. Wedding gifts included cut glass, silver ware and other useful articles.

After the reception, which was held from 3 to 4 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Thornton left for a 5000-mile auto trip. They will visit points of interest in New York, Washington and Niagara Falls. The bride was attired in a gray traveling suit with hat to match. They will be gone about a month and on their return will be at home to their friends at their new home in Beachmont.

Mr. Thornton is proprietor of a garage at Chelsea. He is a graduate of the Quincy High school, and a member of the Quincy Yacht club.

THE HON. BILL CONSIDERING

Receptive Mood With Regard to Congressional Subject

For the past few days, friends of Hon. William T. Shea have been urging him to enter the field as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress from the new fourteenth district.

When interviewed on the subject Mr. Shea is reported to have said that he had the matter under consideration. Mr. Shea was four times elected Mayor of Quincy.

Two other democrats have announced their intention of seeking the nomination, Richard Olney, 2d, of Dedham, and ex-Representative Edward Gilmore of Brockton. Congressman Robert O. Harris will be a candidate for the Republican nomination.

AMUSEMENTS.

B. F. KEITHS THEATRE.

Next week will mark the fourth and positively last week of "The Meistersingers Camping Out" at B. F. Keith's Theatre. This mammoth summer attraction has created a genuine furore, and during the past month the wonderful singing of the combined Harvard, Schubert and Weber Male quartet, and the beautiful stage setting built by Mr. Keith for their vaudeville debut, have been the talk of all New England. For the last week of their remarkably successful engagement, a splendid program of popular and semi-operatic airs has been selected, including several fine solos. This will be positively the last opportunity that will be given to the people of New England to hear the world's greatest organization of male voices, and no one who has not already heard this wonderful collection of master singers should not lose any time in visiting the "Amusement Centre of Boston" and enjoy this great summer feature. "The Meistersingers" will be surrounded by a remarkable bill of all-star features. Kate Elinore and Sam Williams will make their first appearance in their newest and latest fun travesty, "The Hunter and the Hunter-ess," which gives Miss Elinore an opportunity to introduce another one of her inimitable character creations. Armstrong and Ford is another clever team of newcomers, two comedians who bring something really original. Claude M. Roode, the wonderful aerial artist and tight wire expert, will return after a long absence, and other big features will be Alfredo, the Italian violinist; the Cycling Brunettes, most wonderful of wheelmen; and Williams and Segal, two dandy dancers.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Local theatregoers who witnessed Miss Nance O'Neil in Sudermann's masterful play "Magda" when she played it here eighty years ago, will welcome the announcement that she has selected it as her vehicle at the Majestic Theatre for next week. When Miss O'Neil came to Boston to head the Lindsay Morison Stock Company it was generally understood that she would include "Magda" in the list of plays that she is to present during her summer engagement, for it is not only a favorite with Miss O'Neil herself, but its superb dramatic construction, its powerful situations, and its thrilling climaxes make it a classic in the sense that one never seems to tire of seeing it.

In the role of Magda or Magdalane, Miss O'Neil has ample opportunity for a fine display of the peculiar talent for emotional work which has long characterized her. Like the biblical Magdalane, Magda has sinned, but unlike her scriptural namesake she does not become repentant after sinning. Her principal foil is Col. Schwartze a powerful character, whose wits are continually matched against those of Magda, the result being a series of dramatic flashes that never let the interest lag.

Those who imagined that the "two-a-day" routine that Miss O'Neil follows at the Majestic would impair her work have been agreeably surprised—for if anything she appears to better advantage than she has ever appeared here before. Magda, however, will prove a severe test for her because of the tremendous drain on her vitality, which the portrayal of the role entails. All of the Morison players will support Miss O'Neil. Howell Hansel will essay the role of Col. Schwartze, while other members of the cast will be Rose Morison, Frances Woodbury, Wyrley Birch, Edward Nannery and James Barrett.

OPEN MUFFLERS CAUSE TROUBLE

Great Annoyance to Sick People in Any Locality

PRACTICE MUST STOP

Many complaints have been received by Chief Frank E. Burrell, of the police department because automobiles in climbing Rice hill on Adams street cut out their mufflers thus making a nuisance. It is particularly annoying at the present time owing to the illness of Mrs. Dewson. Chief Burrell did not desire to prosecute violaters of the law and stationed officers on the bill to warn automobilists. This however did not seem to do any good. Then the Chief placed Officer Avery on duty with instructions to summons violaters of the law into court. As a result two automobile drivers fell into his hands and were in court this morning. They were charged with violation of the automobile laws by cutting out their mufflers. The court found them guilty and placed their cases of file on payment of $5 on account of costs. Chief Burrell says that he will continue to bring violaters into court until the habit is stopped.

YACHT CLUB LADIES' DAY

as she was decorated from stern to stern with the flags of the international code in addition to the Commodore's flag and the pennants that had been taken by the Dartwell in some of her races. As each yacht passed the flagship, colors were dipped and were answered by a gun from the flagship. Rounding Jack-knife ledge buoy the yachts headed for Pig rocks, thence over toward Strawberry Hill and then home.

During all ofthis time the wind had been freshening and at the same time the sky had been becoming blacker along the horizon, yet the storm kept off. Up to this point of the program there had been no rain with the exception of a few drops just after the start.

The wind had now freshened considerable and as the sails filled it was seen that a delightful run home was assured if the wind only held true. Hardly had Pig Rocks been reached however before there were several sharp flashes of lightning and the roll of distant thunder. The sky became overcast and rain began to fall. To make matters worse the wind begun to die down and yachts not supplied with auxiliary power were in a way for a wetting. Skippers covered their fair guests, as far as possible with oil skins and sails yet there were but few of the dainty white skirts that did not have the starch taken out of them. By the time the last yacht had landed its guests the rain was coming down by the bucketsfull. The guests were then at the club house enjoying the refreshments, however and the storm did not seem to interfere with their appetites for the waiters of Caterer Whittemore were kept on the jump for a time.

Lunch over the guests made themselves comfortable while the hall was being made ready for the dancing which commenced shortly after 7 o'clock and continued until 10.30. It had been planned to illuminate the club house in the evening but the storm prevented. At one time it looked as though the storm was over but the lull was only a temporary one for it soon began to rain again and did not let up until late in the night.

There were quite a few who from preference did not take part in the afternoon sail but watched the scene from the club piazzas. These guests however were well looked after by the committee while Monk's orchestra entertained them with a promenade concert. Music for the promenade concert and dancing in the evening was also furnished by Monk's orchestra.

While the threatening weather interfered somewhat with the usual attendance, it in no way interfered with the enthusiasm and the ladies' day event of 1912 will be remembered as one of the most successful the club has ever held.

PLENTY FUN AND NOISE

By Youngsters on Their Annual Meet in Highland Park

Wednesday was an ideal day for a picnic and so thought the members and friends of the Hall Place M. E. Sunday School, who left the West Quincy depot on a special car at 9.10 A. M., their destination being Highland Park. It was a jolly good crowd and they had a jolly good time and made a jolly good noise both going and coming, singing, shouting and cheering and blowing horns.

Shortly after the car started Mr. Delcevare King of Quincy, who accompanied the picnickers gave everyone on the car an American flag, and a horn and passed around peanuts in abundance. Mr. King was loudly cheered for his kindness. The park was reached about 11.00 o'clock. The party proceeded to the summer house where they stowed away wraps and lunches, and Mr. King's kindness was again in evidence as he pinned a butterfly on each one in order to distinguish these people from other picnickers in the park.

The happy crowd left the park shortly after six, arriving home about 8.30. Despite the fact that the day had been a strenuous one the picnickers sang various songs on the homeward trip. Everyone present had enjoyed the day and voted it a fine picnic.

The Sunday school members are very grateful to Mr. King for his kindness in attending the picnic and for his generosity and helpfulness in making it such a pleasant trip.

The sports were held in the field and Mr. King entertained all with different games. The winners in the events were as follows:

15 yard dash for girls and boys—Mona Norris first, Charlie Stewart second.

50 yard dash for boys—George Holmberg first, Harold McCormick second.

50 yard dash for girls—Jessie Burke first, Mona Norris second.

100 yard dash for boys—Harold Williams first, Lawrence Martin second.

Ball throw for girls—Jessie Burke first, Mona Norris second.

Ball throw for boys—Julius Fuller first, Harold Williams second.

Blue ribbons were awarded for first prizes and red for second prizes.

CONFLIGTING TESTIMONY

In Liquor Case Causes Continuance to Investigate

WHO COMMITTED PERJURY

The case of James Simamowiez of Weymouth for violation of the liquor law occupied a good part of the morning at the district court today. A large number of witnesses were heard the the testimony for the defendent being directly opposite from that of the government. For instance two witnesses for the government swore that they had visited the house of the defendant and purchased liquor. This was contradicted by the defendant and his witnesses who swore that the two men in question did not visit the house.

It was very evident to the court that some one of the parties had committed perjury and ordered the case continued a week. In the meantime Chief Thomas Fitzgerald was instructed to make an investigation of the case to determine if possible who it was that had made a false statement. Should a case of perjury develop it is more than probable that some one will be called upon to answer to that charge.

SENATORS SAY MAY REGULATE

Tolls of Canal As We Best See Fit to Do

ENGLISH AND JAPANESE VIEWS

Estimated Foreign Ships Would Pay $10,000,000 Annual Toll—If English View Is Conceded America Could Not Use Canal For Own Protection—Spain Has Voted to Pay Her Ships' Tolls

Washington, July 19.—When the senate took up the Panama canal bill yesterday Senator Brandegee put in an estimate that foreign ships would pay approximately $10,000,000 a year in tolls under the provisions against which Great Britain has protested. Senator Stone estimated that if The Hague should decide against the United States five years after the free toll law had been enacted about $45,000,000 would have to be repaid to foreign vessel owners.

The support for the provision giving free passage to American ships, against which Great Britain has protested, was more emphatic than at any time since the senate began consideration of the bill. Mr. O'Gorman, Mr. Cummins and others declared that if the United States had to construe the treaty literally in giving the ships of all national equal treatment, it would by other terms of the treaty be prevented from defending the canal in case of war.

"If a Japanese fleet appeared at the western end of the canal," said Senator Reed of Missouri, "bent on passing through to attack the city of New York, the United States would have no right, under such a construction of the treaty, to take any step against it." Senator Burton of Ohio, who made the first speech Monday in support of the British theory that the United States can give no special privileges to its own vessels, declared war would suspend the operations of the treaty. Senator McCumber, however, in a speech against the free provision, conceded that it was his belief the canal would have to remain neutral even in time of war, and that the United States would be forbidden by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty from taking any measures to blockade or use the canal for its own protection.

Senator O'Gorman declared that railroad influence was behind the British protest. He said: "There is nothing to prevent England from remitting to its merchant ships every dollar of tolls paid the Panama canal. There is nothing to prevent similar action by other countries. The only power that is trammelled, restricted and curtailed in the performance of its duties to its own citizenship is the one that has spent $400,000,000 in the construction of this great enterprise."

He said Spain has already legislated "to reimburse Spanish ships for the tolls spent in going through our canal."

Senator Lodge raised the question whether the United States would have a right to interfere if another country should undertake to pay the tolls of its ships when passing through the canal. No foreign country, he said, could interfere with any arangement the United States might make for the payment of tolls.

"If any government should undertake to do so, I, for one, would protest," he said.

Warning From London

London, July 19.—The Morning Post, in a long editorial on the Panama canal, closes with this warning:

"If congress persists in its attempt to disregard the solemn obligations of the recent treaty, Great Britain is bound to stand firm in defense of her rights and interests. If no solution of the controversy can be reached by friendly negotiations, the question must be referred to arbitration."

Expression From Japan

Tokio, July 19.—In an editorial headed "American Contempt for England," the Nichi-Nichi Shimbun of Tokio expresses surprise at America's deliberate attempt to offend England's dignity by disregarding the clear provisions of the Panama canal treaty. It regrets that England did not protest earlier, and asserts that it has of late been yielding too much to America. By consenting to the American proposal that the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance be revised, the newspaper says, Anglo-Japanese friendship has been affected. It suggests that while America is pursuing a pretended policy of altruism in the Far East, and enforcing the Monroe doctrine as to South America, it is trying to alienate England, as well as Russia, from Japan. The Tokio Asahi Shimbun hopes that England's canal protest will prove effective, as not only Europe, but the Far East will profit from it.

BLEASE INQUIRY GOES ON

Witnesses Say They Are Afraid of the South Carolina Governor

Columbia, S. C., July 19.—The committee of the South Carolina legislature, which is investigating charges of political corruption and which recently, at Augusta, Ga., heard sensational testimony as to the governor's pardon record, met here. Samuel J. Nichols was announced as the principal witness. Nichols is the Spartanburg attorney who, according to Detective E. S. Reed, was Governor Blease's agent in the purchase of a pardon for a prisoner. C. P. Sims, the attorney who was represented as being associated with Nichols in his efforts to secure the pardon, also will testify today.

Announcement has been made that neither Reed nor Thomas B. Felder, the Atlanta lawyer, will appear before the committee in this state. They say they are afraid of the governor. They consent to appear before the investigators in any city in a nearby state.

WILSON NAMES HIS COMMITTEE

Senators and Representatives Are Most Numerous

Sea Girt, N. J., July 19.—The Democratic campaign committee, which will have supreme charge of the presidential campaign, was named by Governor Wilson. It consists of fourteen members, with William F. McCombs, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, as chairman. The other thirteen are:

Robert S. Hudspeth of New Jersey, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, Willard Saulsbury of Delaware, Robert L. Ewing of Louisiana, A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, Will R. Ring of Oregon, all of whom are members of the national committee, and Senators Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, James A. O'Gorman of New York and James A. Reed of Missouri, Representatives Daniel J. McGillicuddy of Maine, Albert S. Burlson of Texas and William G. McAdoo of New York city.

The appointment of a vice chairman was postponed.

No action was taken on the appointment of a treasurer or finance committee.

SCHWARTZ SUICIDES

Murderer of Little Girl Follows Advice Father Gave

New York, July 19.—A few rods from a police station and where detectives and officers swarm, was found the body of Nathan Schwartz, whose father informed the police that his son was the slayer of 12-year-old Julia Connors. Schwartz had committed suicide by inhaling gas.

A letter was found addressed to Schwartz's mother in which he confessed his guilt and telling her not to cry her eyes out..

The body of Julia Connors, stabbed scores of times with a pen knife, was found in a vacant lot in the Bronx. The young man, who had served a term in prison for an attack on a child, killed the girl in a vacant lot, so he told his father before he fled.

The father told Schwartz that he had better go out and commit suicide.

By Rail Boston to Paris

Boston, July 19.—A railroad from Boston to Paris is the prophesy of The Watchman, the Baptist weekly of Boston. In its editorial this week it says "Some scientists hope that the earthquakes which have been shaking up Alaska are going to fill Behring strait, and that work on the railroad from Boston to Paris will begin this fall."

Cause For Gratitude.

Willie Green—You city kids ought to be thankful that your parents use gas stoves, especially during the hot summer. City Boy—Why? Willie Green—Well, you never heard tell of a boy splitting wood for a gas stove, did you? —Philadelphia Record.

A Reversed Program.

"The stage should depict society as it really exists," said the serious person.

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "but it doesn't. On the contrary, society tries to imitate the songs, dances and dialect of the stage."—Washington Star.

A Changed Man.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Free helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

"Did you find him?"

"No; he has been home and gone again."

"Gone!"

The cry tore Henderson's heart.

"Shall I come and tell you, Edith?"

"No. Tell me now."

"When I got to the house Banks said Mr. Ammon and Phil were out in the motor, so I waited. Mr. Ammon came back soon. Edith, are you alone?"

"Yes. Go on."

"Call your maid. I can't tell you until some one is with you."

"Tell me instantly!"

"Edith, he said he had been to the station. He said Phil had started to Siam or Patagonia, he didn't know which, and left no address. He said"—

Distinctly Henderson heard her fall. He set the buzzer ringing and in a few seconds heard voices, so he knew she had been found. Then he crept into a private den and shook with a hard, nervous chill.

The next day Edith Carr started on her trip to Europe. Henderson felt certain she hoped to meet Philip there. He was sure she would be disappointed, though he had no idea where Ammon could have gone. But after much thought he decided he would see Edith soonest by remaining at home, so he spent the summer in Chicago.

"Elnora," said Mrs. Comstock, "there's some one coming down the road."

"Coming here, do you think?"

"Yes; coming here, I suspect."

Elnora glanced quickly at her mother and then turned to the road as Philip Ammon reached the gate.

"Careful, mother," the girl instantly warned. "If you change your treatment of him a hair's breadth he will suspect. Come with me to meet him."

She dropped her work and sprang up.

"Well, of all the delightful surprises!" she cried.

She was a trifle thinner than during the previous summer. On her face there was a more mature, patient look. He caught both hands where she offered but one.

"Elnora," he cried, "if you were engaged to me and we were at a ball among hundreds where I offended you very much and didn't even know I had done anything and if I asked you before all of them to allow me to explain, to forgive me, to wait, would your face grow distorted and unfamiliar with anger? Would you drop my ring on the floor and insult me repeatedly? Oh, Elnora, would you?"

Elnora's big eyes seemed to leap, while her face grew very white. She wrenched away her hands.

"Hush, Phil, hush!" she protested. "That fever has you again! You are dreadfully ill. You don't know what you are saying."

"I am sleepless and exhausted; I'm heartsick, but I am well as I ever was. Answer me, Elnora, would you?"

"Answer nothing!" cried Mrs. Comstock. "Hang your coat there on your nail, Phil, and come split some kindling. Elnora, clear away that stuff and set the table. Can't you see the boy is starved and tired? He's come home to rest and get a decent meal. Come on, Phil."

Mrs. Comstock marched away, and Ammon hung his coat in its old place and followed. Out of sight and hearing she turned on him.

"Do you call yourself a man or a hound?" she flared.

"Mrs. Comstock, I came here to ask Elnora to marry me."

"Mrs. Comstock, I came here to ask Elnora to marry me."

"The more fool you, then!" cried Mrs. Comstock. "This time yesterday you were engaged to another woman, no doubt. Now, for some little flareup you come racing here to use Elnora as a tool to spite the other girl. A week of sane living and you will be sorry and ready to go back to Chicago or, if you really are man enough to be sure of yourself, she will come to claim you. When you patch up your affairs and go sailing away together, where does my girl come in?"

"I am a lawyer, Mrs. Comstock," said Ammon. "It appeals to me as beneath your ordinary sense of justice to decide a case without hearing the evidence. It is due me that you hear me first."

"Hear your side?" flashed Mrs. Comstock. "I'd a heap sight rather hear the girl!"

"I wish to my soul that you had heard and seen her last night, Mrs. Comstock," said Ammon. "Then my way would be clear."

He gave his version of the previous night.

"Do you believe me?" he finished.

"Yes," said Mrs. Comstock.

"May I stay?"

"Oh, it looks all right for you, but what about her?"

"Nothing so far as I am concerned. Her plans were all made to start to Europe today. I suspect she is on the way by this time. Elnora is very sensible, Mrs. Comstock. Hadn't you better let her decide this?"

"The final decision rests with her, of course," admitted Mrs. Comstock. "But look you one thing! She's all I have. So far as I know you've always been a man and you may stay. But if you bring tears and heartache to her don't have the assurance to think I'll bear it tamely. I'll get right up and fight like a catamount if things go wrong for Elnora!"

"I have no doubt but you will," replied Ammon, "and I don't blame you in the least if you do. I have the utmost devotion to offer Elnora, a good home, fair social position, and my family will love her dearly. Think it over, I know it is sudden, but my father advised it."

They prepared and ate supper. Afterward they sat in the arbor and talked, or Elnora played until time for Ammon to go.

"Will you walk to the gate with me?" he asked Elnora as he arose.

"Not tonight," she answered lightly. "Come early in the morning if you like, and we will go over to Sleepy Snake creek and hunt moths and gather dandelions for dinner."

Ammon leaned toward her. "May I tell you tomorrow why I came?" he asked.

"I think not," replied Elnora. "The fact is I don't care why you came. It is enough for me that we are your very good friends and that in trouble you have found us a refuge. I fancy we had better live a week or two before you say anything. There is a possibility what you have to say may change in that length of time."

"It will not change one iota!" cried Ammon.

MAYOR GAYNOR ORDERS ARREST

Deeply Agitated Over Rosenthal Police Accusations

NET DRAWING AROUND FORCE

Spotlight Evidence Forces New York Police Officials to Act—Results Sustain District Attorney Whitman's Accusations—Jack Rose, Intimate and Associate With Lieutenant Becker, Makes Valuable Witness

New York, July 19.—A complete statement of his movements on the night of the murder of Gambler Herman Rosenthal and an admission that he had hired the car which was used by the murderers was made by Jack Rose, noted East Side gambler, to the police.

Rose had been missing since the murder, but turned up at the behest, it is understood, of Police Lieutenant Becker, who has been deeply involved in all of the developments in the case.

It was stated at the district attorney's office that the real reason that Rose turned up was because Mayor Gaynor issued orders to Lieutenant Becker, through Commissioner Waldo, that he wanted Rose, who was missing from his usual haunts, at police headquarters and that no excuse would be accepted. Becker, it was stated, went out and found Rose. Through his absence locating the gambler a rumor was circulated that he (Becker) had committed suicide.

"The trail leads where I thought it did," remarked District Attorney Whitman. This was after he had heard the statement of "Bald Jack" Rose, the friend of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and the man who hired the gray automobile in which the slayer of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, drove to the spot where their victim met his fate early last Tuesday morning.

Aaron J. Levy, attorney for Shapiro, who drove the murder car, told the district attorney that while the shooting was going on, Shapiro was working with his motor. His client, Levy said, was afraid to run away and, knowing that there were plenty of police in the neighborhood, was "stalling" so that the men could be caught.

One of the men in the car, Levy said Shapiro told him, ordered him to get a move on and get away, hitting him in the forehead at the same time.

"This murderer told my client," said Levy, "to get away in a hurry. 'The cops are all fixed and know what was being pulled off,' he told him, 'and everything has been arranged for a clean getaway, so get busy with that motor of yours.'"

There was nothing then for Shapiro to do but to get out of the neighborhood. Someone will have to explain that remark as Shapiro intends repeating it when the inquest is resumed on Mnday.

Mr. Whitman did not question Shapiro. But he will collect the details of Shapiro's information and estimate their value. And in line with Shapiro's hints comes information from an official of the police department to the district attorney, "that it looks after all as if policemen had been mixed up in the Rosenthal case."

This factor in the situation has produced two new features. Mayor Gaynor, not satisfied with the explanation that Rosenthal was slain in a gamblers' feud, has begun an investigation to determine what policemen might have had an interest in Rosenthal's murder.

William J. Burns will confer with the district attorney and will have men at work on this feature of the case immediately.

Policeman William J. File, who was in the Metropole when the murder was committed, was suspended after Commissioner Waldo held an investigation to which all of the policemen who were in the vicinity at the time were called.

Archbald For an Example

Washington, July 19.—Postponement of the trial by the senate of Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court is being opposed by many senators on the ground that an immediate trial would be the best answer that could be made to the argument that a recall of judges is necessary because of the difficulty if not impossibility of getting a judge impeached.

Cuban General Killed?

Santiago, July 19.—General Pedro Ivonet, the negro rebel leader for whom the government troops have searched diligently since the battle three weeks ago at Vega Ballco, was surrounded and killed at Nueva Escocia, near Caney, by troops under Lieutenant Ortiz.

Threw Wife Out Window

Boston, July 19.—John Grady is locked up charged with throwing his wife, Mary, from the second story window at their home. Mrs. Grady was taken to the City hospital, where it was found that her right leg was broken.

DRAFTING THAT NEW PLATFORM

Roosevelt at Work Preparing For Convention

NOMINEE WOULD TEST RECALL

Colonel Says New Platform Shall Be a "Contract With the People"—Great Problem, He Believes, Is How to Obtain Fairer Distribution of Prosperity—Dixon Denies He Will Forsake Roosevelt

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 19.—The platform of the National Progressive party is to be a "contract with the people," Colonel Roosevelt said. Just as a business signs a contract for the fulfilment of certain obligations, he explained, the new party would sign a contract to undertake certain well defined measures provided the opportunity is accorded it. Colonel Roosevelt has given his approval to the name of National Progressive for the party by using it repeatedly, and it is assumed that this is to be the title which will be adopted at the christening in Chicago next month, although final determination will be left to the convention.

As the prospective nominee of the party, who has already accepted the nomination tentatively, Colonel Roosevelt is drafting a platform embodying his ideas which he will offer to the convention. He indicated that he would use his influence to avoid the twin perils of ultra radicalism and vaguely concealed conservatism, and that he hoped the platform would be both practical and genuinely progressive. In his opinion neither the Republican nor Democratic platforms offers definite promise of solution of what he considers the great problem before the nation—the adoption of measures to obtain a fairer distribution of property.

The National Progressive party, he said, would go before the people pledged to definite reformation methods of such a nature that it would have a practical program which obviously could be carried out. The ex-president's personal platform probably will be presented to the Chicago convention on Aug. 5, the day it assembles. He said he hoped to arrange a meeting of the delegates for that night to make a speech which will be his "confession of faith." This speech will embody his statement of position on which he has been working for more than a week. In it Colonel Roosevelt will seek first to interpret the spirit in which the work of the new party should be undertaken, and will then proceed to a detailed recital of the steps which he believes should be adopted.

Dixon Denies Rumors

On denied the report that he was trying to retire from the progressive movement.

"Nothing is further from the truth," he said, "the new party is not an academic discussion, but a fact, and we are even now surprisingly well organized."

Senator Dixon said that in the new party could be found Democrats as well as Republicans and that there was no reason why a Democrat should not be named on the ticket with Colonel Roosevelt. The senator said that a dozen names for vice president had been talked of, including Governor Johnson of California, John M Parker of New Orleans, former Senator Beveridge of Indiana and several others.

Would Abide by Recall Primary

Washington, July 19.—Representative Norris of Nebraska, progressive Republican, and a Roosevelt supporter, in a letter sent to John L. Kennedy, chairman of the Nebraska state Republican committee, asks for another senatorial primary in which his Republicanism is to be tried and a new set of instructions be voted to candidates for Roosevelt and Taft electors. He proposes that the electors for both sides stand by the result. Mr. Norris made the proposal in reply to criticism in his state and published demands that he support President Taft or get off the Republican ticket.

"I am a believer in the recall," said Mr. Norris in his letter. "I am willing that it should be applied to me, and if, since my nomination, my course in refusing to recognize Mr. Taft as the Republican nominee is unsatisfactorry to the Republicans who nominated me, I am not only willing, but I believe it is my duty to withdraw. Under no circumstances can I be induced to support a man for office whose nomination I conscientiously believe to have been obtained by the corrupt and unlawful methods which I believe were perpetrated in the so-called renomination of President Taft, and if my nomination, or even my election, must depend upon such support, then I much prefer to remain in private life."

Representative Norris defeated Norris Brown in the primary for senator. formation.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

GREEN CORN.

Do not cook corn in salted water. It wrinkes and hardens it. Do not overcook this vegetable, for it makes it very indigestible. Ten minutes is ordinarily long enough for it to stay in boiling water.

In cutting corn from the cob slant the knife so that the kernel will be cut in two. It will then be much easier to digest.

Left over corn may be served as fritters, scalloped corn, croquettes and in soup.

Here are some recipes for green corn that are worth trying:

Corn on the Cob.

Boiled Corn.—Take off the husk and put the cobs into a saucepan of boiling unsalted water and cover. If the corn is young and tender it will take ten minutes to boil, but if it is beginning to harden a little longer may be necessary. When tender drain, sprinkle with salt and serve with melted butter.

The boiled corn may be sliced from the cob with a sharp knife and reheated with a little butter, milk, pepper and salt.

Scalloped Corn.—Take some ears of cold boiled corn and cut the kernels from the cob. To five cupfuls of corn take one and a half cupfuls of breadcrumbs, one egg and one-half cupful sweet milk, with salt and pepper to taste, and a pinch of red pepper. Mix the corn, egg and milk. Put in a baking dish a half inch of corn and sprinkle a thin layer of crumbs over it. Continue until materials are used up. Pour over all half a cupful of cream and put in a moderate oven till it browns.

Uses For Cold Corn.

Corn Fritters.—Cut the kernels from half a dozen ears of cold boiled corn. Take two eggs well beaten and thickened with crackers until you are able to form it into little cakes. Add salt and pepper. Fry in hot butter.

Green Corn Gems.—Take one part grated green corn and two parts water. Thicken with graham flour a little thicker than for soft biscuit.

Spanish Corn.—Take six large ears fresh green corn and press out the pulp with the back of a knife. Put one tablespoonful of olive oil in a frying pan, heat and in it cook together till soft one large chopped sweet green pepper and a small chopped onion. Add the corn, cover and cook about ten minutes, stirring occasionally. Then add two or three ripe tomatoes, also chopped; half a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of red pepper and a teaspoonful of sugar. Cook a few minutes longer and serve hot.

Swordsmanship Against a Tiger.

Sir James Outram, known as the Bayard of India, was a "mighty hunter" and an accomplished swordsman. He once performed the hazardous feat of killing a tiger with his sword and from the back of his horse. General Nicholson performed a similar feat. He rode round and round the tiger at a gallop, gradually narrowing the circle until at last he was near enough to deliver his blow. He had only the one blow and if he had failed would have been slain. The explanation of the feat is that the tiger does not spring upon the horseman during the circling process because he is watching his opportunity. As the circle draws closer and closer upon him he becomes bewildered by the strange maneuver, so unlike that of any hunter he has ever encountered.

India Rubber Tree Fruit.

The fruit of the India rubber tree is somewhat similar to that of the Ricinus communis, the castor oil plant, though somewhat larger. The seeds have a not disagreeable taste and yield a purplish oil. It is a fairly good substitute for linseed oil, though it dries less rapidly. Mixed with copal blue and turpentine, it makes a good varnish. The oil may also be used in the manufacture of soaps and lithographic inks. The seeds are somewhat like tiny chestnuts, although darker in color. The Indian girls are fond of wearing bracelets and necklets made of them.

A Funny Misprint.

One of the most ludicrous announcements that ever appeared perhaps was made by a London newspaper in the earlier half of the last century to the effect that Sir Robert Peel "and a party of fiends were shooting peasants in Ireland." The words misprinted, of course, were "friends" and "pheasants."

KEITH VISITS HIS OLD HOME

After Absence of a Year Spent in Texas

Ex-Councilman Aubrey R. Keith, and brother of the late City Clerk, Harrison A. Keith, returned to Quincy this morning for a brief visit after a year's absence, during which time he has made his headquarters in Texas. Mr. Keith left Quincy shortly after the death of his brother, in June 1911, and went to Texas where he later established himself in the real estate business. He has been remarkably successful and has built up a large business. He intends to return to Texas after a visit to his family.

MAYOR OPPOSES THE TRANSFER

Of Apple Island to Further Port Development

Mayor Fitzgerald received some days ago a letter from Chairman Hugh Bancroft of the Port Directors asking him to transfer to the Commonwealth the ownership of Apple Island and the adjacent flats, presumably in the interest of harbor development.

The Mayor sent an answer to the request Thursday, expressing a desire to aid in the port development, but declaring that rather than to give away islands in the harbor, the city ought to buy back those which it once owned. He thinks they will be needed for various humanitarian purposes as the city grows, and believes the most that should be asked of the city is the granting of an easement, in the public interest, and that it should be granted only when some practical results of the plans of the Port Directors can be shown.

McNAMARA REBELLIOUS

Got a Taste of Solitary at San Quentin Prison

REFUSED TO OBEY RULES

After a week in solitary confinement, J. B. McNamara, one of the convicted dynamiters of the Los Angeles Times Building, stubbornly refused to conform to the discipline of San Quentin prison, and Warden Hoyle said he would be kept in the dungeon indefinitely.

McNamara was placed in solitary confinement a week ago when he refused to obey an order given by a guard in the jute mill.

"McNamara's punishment was the result of repeated acts of insubordination," said Warden Hoyle. "He has been a persistent violator of prison rules and there was nothing for us to do but take extreme measures."

Warden Hoyle denied a rumor that McNamara had been involved in a plot to burn the jute mill.

ALBERT W. FINLAY ASKS DIVORCE

From the Wife Whom He Married 23 Years Ago

SUIT ENTERED AT DEDHAM

Albert W. Finlay of Germantown has filed a suit for divorce from his wife Mrs. Dora May Finlay. The papers were filed with clerk Louis A. Cook of Dedham, Wednesday. The couple have been married 23 years. It is alleged that the divorce proceedings were taken as a result of Mrs. Finlay leaving home.

Mrs. Finlay, it is reported, left home, with her 21 year old daughter Dorothea, about May 18.

The girl returned to her father about a week ago and is now living with him and her brother and sister.

In the winter the family reside on Greenleaf street. Besides Dorothea, there are three other children, Robert a former well known Dorchester High athlete, George, who made a record of 35 baskets from the floor in one game while playing with the Quincy High basketball team this past season, James B. and Patrice.

CONSIDERING THE MERGER

Of Church and Society of the Atlantic Congregational

EXTRACTS FROM BY-LAWS

At the special business meetings of Memorial Congreegational church and society Wednesday evening, Mr. Henry Von Emden called the parish meeting to order at eight o'clock.

Mr. Von Emden in his usual affable way of conducting business prepared the members for serious thought by his wit and humor, then led the meeting to the consideration of merging the parish into the church and doing all business under one head.

Rev. T. W. Davison reported for the joint committee of church and parish, and read the proposed by-laws.

The part for professing christians was the same as found in most evangelical churches.

The changes propose a larger set of officers, and a monthly accountability of each one.

The following is a brief summary of the by-laws which were commended by all present, and will be adopted at a meeting to be held later.

Article 1. Membership. Sec. 1. Classes of Members. The membership of this organization shall consist of two classes, one to be designated as Church Members and the other as Parish Members. Church Members shall include only professing Christians. Parish Members shall include such other persons as contribute regularly toward the financial support of the church.

Section 2. Charter Members. All persons who are now members of the ecclesiastical organization called the Memorial Congregational church of Atlantic, as certified by its clerk, shall be Church Members without further action; and all other persons who are now members of the corporation called the Memorial Congregational Society, as certified by its Clerk, shall be Parish Members without further action.

Any regular contributor toward the current expenses of the Church may, on recommendation of the Executive Committee, become a Parish Member by vote of the Church at any duly-called meeting and by subscribing to the Constitution and By-Laws.

Rights of Members. Church Members who are twenty-one years of age or more shall be eligible to all the offices, and shall have the right to vote on all matters.

Parish Members who are twenty-one years of age or more shall be eligible to the offices of Treasurer, Collector, Auditor, Executive Committee, Music Committee and Hospitality Committee; and shall have the right to vote on the election of all officers and on all secular matters.

Officers. The officers shall be a moderator, a treasurer, a collector and an auditor; and a minister, two deacons, a superintendent of the Sunday school and a clerk, who shall be Church Members.

There shall also be an executive committee of six besides the moderator, who shall be a member ex-officio. There shall be a music committee of five and hospitality committee of eight and a church committee consisting of the minister, deacons, superintendent of the Sunday school, clerk and one other who shall be elected annually.

Article V. Advisory Council. The Executive Committee, trustees, together with the Church committee, Music committee, Hospitality committee, Collectors, Treasurer, Superintendent of the Sunday school, President of Ladies' society, and President of Y. P. S. C. E., and children of all auxiliary organizations, shall form an Advisory Council and meet once a month to hear reports from all departments of church work, and consider the welfare of the whole church.

This Advisory Council shall have charge of the raising and expending of all funds both for current expenses and benevolences, and shall consider the suggestion or request of any regular contributor to the church.

BOYS AND GIRLS COMPETING

For Championship Athletic Honors in All Wards

GREAT TURNOUT EACH DAY

That the girls and boys of the Ward Four playground are determined to win the championship of the city was indicated Thursday, when more than 100 took part in the running broad jump and the short dash.

A. Desmond was the high point winner of the boys sports capturing first place in the older boys' jump and also first in the 50 yard dash. Margaret Scanlon was second in the 25 yard dash and first in the running broad jump for girls under 10 years scoring 8 points. Gertrude Shevlin also scored 8 points by winning the running broad jump and 2d place in the 50 yard dash for the older girls.

The following is the summary of events.

Boys under 10 years.

Running broad jump—First, J. Malarky, 10 feet 3 inches; second, G. Adams; third, E. Ready; fourth, T. Haggarty.

25 yard dash—First, T. Haggarty; second, J. Malarky; third, G. Adams; fourth, E. Ready.

Boys 10-11-12 years.

Broad jump—First, E. Bryant, 11 feet, 11 inches; second, T. Maloney; third, G. McDonald; fourth, G. Paradise.

50 yard dash—First, J. Collins; second, P. O'Connell; third, O. Corelli; fourth, F. Farrell.

Boys 13-14-15 years.

Broad jump—First, A. Desmond, 13 feet, 2 inches; second, J. Corelli; third, G. Paradise; fourth, G. McDonald.

In the Boys' Quoit tournament Geo. McKenna was first, having won 12 matches without losing a game.

Boys' Croquet Tournament—Boys under 10—First Tommy Haggarty.

Older Boys—First, Charles Sheppard.

The Girls' Croquet tournament was won by May Haggarty.

Boys' Base Ball league games at Ward One—Naps 8; White Sox 7; Tigers 4; Senators 2.

The feature of the second game was the pitching of Barry of the Tigers, who struck out 15 men in the seven innings played.

BASE BALL.

If the members of the West Quincy team of the City League exhibit the same skill and vim their game on the Water street grounds Saturday afternoon, as they have in the past four games, South Quincy, now the leaders, will have their hold on first place punctured. Manager Barry feels that a victory from the "War Cries" will place his combination in the running and his team has been practising hard for the game.

Woods and Pittipitt will be the battery upon whom the West Quincy rooters will rely, while Manager Ford will send Fahey, the Medford High twirler to the mound and Ericson behind the plate.

The game is scheduled to begin promptly at 3.30 and the officials of the league expect to see a record breaking crowd in attendance.

AT MERRYMOUNT PARK.

The Station Outing club crosses bats with the strong Braintree A. A. at Merrymount Park Saturday afternoon. As both teams are of a fast calibre, those fans who attend should be treated to the real article of ball tossing.

ATLANTICERS DISCOMMODED

Interesting Gossip of That Hustling Section

Atlantic people who came out from Boston on the trains after five o'clock Thursday, had some trouble in getting through the subway. The hard shower left a pool of water not less than four or five inches deep at the foot of the stairs. One stranger asked if it was Atlantics swimming tank.

Mr. Bernhard Reske of Billings street launched his new motor boat the first of the week. Mr. Reske has been building this boat for the last two years and it is supposed to be one of the best boats in its class in the bay both in workmanship and material. The boat is about twenty-seven feet in length and has a cabin with sleeping apartments to accommodate four or six persons.

Branscheid and Marten opened their new store for business for the first time Thursday. In the near future they will have a grand opening and inspection of the building.

The prayer meeting in the Atlantic Memorial church Thursday evening was led by the Christian Endeavor society and proved to be a very interesting meeting.

Rev. T. W. Davison of Atlantic has been invited to go to Springfield in August to lay the corner stone of the new Olivet Eastern avenue church.

Mr. Davison where leaving Springfield recommended the consolidation of his former church and the Olivet of which his friend Rev. Seeyle Bryant was then pastor.

Shortly after Mr. Bryant left the city, Olivet church was burned to the ground.

At this time the recommendation of Mr. Davison was brought up and accepted by both churches. It was then decided that the Olivet people join the Eastern avenue people in the latter's building while plans were being made for the new church. The site for the new building was chosen halfway between the two churches.

The committee of arrangements chosen from both churches voted unanimously to extend an invitation to Mr. Davison to lay the corner-stone as the church is now without a pastor. Mr. Davison has accepted the invitation.

Andrew Hersey Laid at Rest in Forest Hills Cemetery

In the death of Andrew Hersey, the G. A. R. loses another of its members, to join the vast army beyond. Mr. Hersey enlisted in Co. G, 44th Regiment, serving nine months. At the expiration of his enlistment, he joined the 3d Rhode Island Cavalry, serving until the end of the war. He was a member of one of the Boston Posts, and was well-known for his patriotic tendencies. After his health failed, he made his home in Waldboro, Maine. His sister Mrs. William Chubbuck of Washington street met the remains at Forest Hills cemetery, Thursday, where the body was laid at rest. Mr. Hersey was one of four Quincy boys to enlist in Co. G, 44th, Regiment, Jacob Hersey, Frank H. Newcomb and Warren W. Adams. Mr. Adams survives his comrades.

LEAGUERS HOLD SOCIAL

Ice Cream and Music With Lecture Fill Out Programme

Despite the rainy weather there was a large attendance at the ice cream social held Thursday evening in the Swedish Methodist church under the auspices of the Epworth league members. The principal number on the program was an able address on "Stubbornness" delivered by Dr. Albert Hallen of Wolfsboro, N. H.

A fine musical program was furnished by members of the league. The opening number consisted of a couple of selections by the Epworth chorus. A piano trio, composed of Miss Mary Whiting, Miss Emma Whiting and Miss Walborg Peterson received great applause for their work and were forced to respond to repeated encores.

A duet by Mrs. Salma Johnson and Miss Olga Olson was also received in a most appreciative manner. The singing of the "Cuckoo" assisted by a piano, guitar and violin accompaniment made a decided hit. Those in the chorus were Miss Edith Olson, Miss Olga Olson, Miss Mabel Peterson, Miss Olga Peterson, Mrs. Emma Johnson, and Mrs. Salma Johnson.

The church itself was prettily decorated for the occasion and an array of plants, ferns, garden flowers and trees made the affair take the place of an indoor garden party. Ice cream and other refreshments were served at the close of the program. The committee in charge was composed of Miss Greta Anderson, Mrs. E. Reedstrom, and David Wolander, assisted by members of the league.

Mr. Casey had been connected with the department since 1894, and had been executive clerk since 1902. His salary was $2,000.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

On last Tuesday evening, the seventy-fifth birthday of Mrs. Emily M. Kelly, a well known resident of Quincy, was observed at the home of her daughter Mrs. J. E. Greene of Cherry avenue. Many friends and relatives were present and presented Mrs. Kelley with numerous beautiful flowers and presents.

Among those present were Mrs. J. E. Greene, Mrs. B. F. Hodgkinson, and M. D. Kelley, her three children, together with the grand children and great grand children, making four generations in attendance. Her many friends left late in the evening, wishing her many happy returns of the day.

BUSINESS LIKE DOWNPOUR

Made New Record for Rainfall and Cleared the Air

NATURE LOOKS BRIGHTER

The heavy down-pour of rain Thursday afternoon and night proved a record deluge for Boston and vicinity, as more rain fell than in any one day, since the Boston weather bureau was established 40 years ago.

It was a steady, cooling shower or flood, whichever one chooses to call it.

The air had been damp and sticky all day and very uncomfortable. The sun failed to burn off the haze and moisture as the day advanced.

About four o'clock, the dark rain clouds gathered more numerous and darker than ever along the horizon, then lifted quickly until they covered the entire sky and then the flood gates of heaven opened in good earnest and the gentle patter of the rain on the roofs indicated that there was something doing and the old rain maker was working over time in his reservoir to turn out a good crop.

For about three hours this steady downpour continued. Then it held up a little while. The sky did not clear however, and about eight o'clock another rain storm set in which continued until about midnight.

It was a most business-like rain from start to finish. During the first downpour distant rumblings of thunder were heard and a few faint flashes of lightning were seen in the sky, but this part of the storm kept at a safe distance, and the terrors of the storms of just a week ago.

People arrayed in light garments suffered for their remerity. White shoes and white dresses of women presented a bedraggled appearance after a few minutes exposure to the force of the elements.

The storm over the atmosphere cleared wonderfully. There was a comfortable drop in the temperature, the humidity became normal and this morning when the sun made its appearance the air was cool and refreshing and invigorating.

The lawns and gardens showed the good effects of this steady downpour by their freshened appearance today.

CHARGES AGAINST PASTOR AYERS BELIEVED TO BE GROUNDLESS

Dr. Anderson's Dramatic Challenge in Church Meeting to the Clergyman's Enemies Stirred Many

Investigator Goes First Hand at the Probing of Covert and Partial Cloud Which Hung Over Minister

Claiming the Rev. William B. Ayers to be the victim of a foul conspiracy and bringing with him the result of his recent investigations in New York as a proof of the pastor's innocence, Rev. Asher Anderson, D. D., threw down the gauntlet at the special meeting of the Park and Downs congregational church, Friday evening and challenged anyone who doubted his word to face the parties he had seen, with the original charges.

A breathless stillness ensued during Dr. Anderson's recital of the result of his investigations at Cape Vincent, Watertown and Brownville of charges brought against Mr. Ayres.

Dr. Anderson's conclusion was greeted by a burst of spontaneous applause which was immediately hushed by the speaker.

"This is one of the saddest things I have ever experienced" said Dr. Anderson, "It is a time for prayer, a time to hold ourselves in restraint, a time to forgive, to look on the charitable side. It is truly a wicked business."

The statement of Dr. Anderson brought to light the fact that the only foundation for charges preferred against Mr. Ayers by his enemies lay in the alleged trouble at Brownville.

Here, if there was any trouble, it was attributed to the endeavor of Mr. Ayers to straighten out the churches' finances.

Following Dr. Anderson a statement was made by Chairman William J. Colby for the standing committee in which it was recommended that a joint hearing be held on Saturday evening, August third, between the so-called "minority," the two supervising clergymen and the standing committee.

At this hearing it is proposed to discuss the report of the committee of ministers and arrive at a solution of the problems within the church. The recommendation was passed unanimously.

The meeting Friday evening opened with a hymn followed by a brief devotional service lead by the pastor Rev. Mr. Ayers.

Dr. Anderson was introduced and read correspondence to show the reason for his presence. He came in response to a request from Charles A. Richardson, clerk of the church, that he bring the result of his recent investigation before that body.

By way of preface Dr. Anderson urged that gossip should not hold sway and that all present join in a movement to stop any attempt at discussion or enlargement of the case at hand.

We should appreciate the fact that the enemies of Mr. Ayers believe that a great deal more can be made out of the case if they can only get people totalk about it.

Regarding his investigation Dr. Anderson said:

To the Standing Committee and Members of Park and Downs Congregational Church, Wollaston, Mass.

I am pleased to submit to you, at your request, the following statement of facts in connection with the charges made by his enemies against your Pastor, Rev. William B. Ayers.

It is proper that I say that at the beginning, and even before, of the investigation conducted by the Committee of the Suffolk South Ministerial Association, the desire was expressed several times that some responsible party visit Watertown, Cape Vincent and Brownville, N. Y., to inquire carefully and with impartial mind, into the charges which had been laid against Mr. Ayers. At one time, I told Doctor Cady that I would probably go to the people of those places and inform myself at first hand of either the truth or the falsity of the charges. He answered immediately, and with great earnestness, "I wish you would go. It would be the best thing to do."

Had the Committee on Investigation, before they accepted those charges, delegated two or more persons to fulfill such a service, the investigation, so far as Mr. Ayers' record before his ordination was concerned, would never have been held.

It was unfortunate that the matter was entered into so hastily. It was more unfortunate that some of the brethren believed the charges to be true. Of this I had abundant assurance from what was said to me in my office. But, so it happens, and it happens so more frequently than ought to be the case. We will accept a statement made by an enemy, or a man pretending to be a friend, yet dominated by an ulterior motive, however libelous the nature of that statement might be. We will even repeat it to another, beginning with the words, "Have you heard, etc." Or, "Is it not too bad." Because of which a scandal will gain advance beyond the power of truth to reach and overthrow it.

I presume that certain happenings about the time when this trouble began, made some of our ministers keenly sensitive, and for the atmosphere then prevailing, rendered them suspicious of an innocent man. The thing that astounds me is that some were willing to accept the accusations without waiting to learn whether they could be disproved or not.

A few days before the investigation began, I made the remark to a member of the Committee, that I did not believe the things that were said against Mr. Ayers. He answered me saying, "You will think differently about it when you know the whole story." I did not know then what was being withheld. When all the statements had been presented, it was my conviction that Mr. Ayers was the victim of a foul conspiracy. This is my opinion still, though I am not able to say to any one man, "You are conspiring against Mr. Ayers."

As the investigation went on, during the days through which the Committee labored so earnestly and with so much care, I became abundantly convinced that the charges were atrociously false. I could not see how it was possible for any body of fair-minded men to do anything other than to reach the conclusion they did; namely, "that the charges were not established."

As the investigation drew to its close, Doctor Cady and I were speaking to each other about the possible outcome. I cannot break confidence in the matter, though I was absolutely sure that even Doctor Cady was of the opinion that the case would not go against Mr. Ayers.

You will therefore see how imperative it was that I go to New York to learn for myself, so far as it was possible, whether Mr. Ayers was the foul villian which he was represented to be in the charges; and the more imperative, because the enemies of Mr. Ayers persisted in using the columns of the daily press for no other purpose than as one member said, "You wait. We will take off his coat, and throw him down," or words to that effect.

Indeed, things had reached that stage that for a spirit and precedure so malign and viscious it seemed the duty of some one in the interest of justice and truth to understand from personal inquiry whether the Committee were right in declaring Mr. Ayers not guilty of the charges as stated.

Leaving Boston, late at night I reached Watertown, N. Y., on Monday, July 8th, at about 1 o'clock P. M.

The first person on whom I called was Mr. W. J. Shephard. I was received most cordially into the circle of his beautiful home, and was his guest until noon of the following day. Mr. Shephard is held in high esteem in his city. He is connected with several civic organizations. He conducts a large insurance business. The financial interests of a large patronage is absolutely committed to his confidence and care.

It will be recalled that an immense deal was made of Mr. Ayers' marriage to Pauline, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shephard. The most infamous thing done by the agent of Mr. Ayers' enemies, was to impeach the character of one of the most lovely and popular young ladies in Watertown. It was a most shameful outrage. And what shall we say of a minister, who not respecting the wrung hearts of sorrowing parents, lent his aid to deepen and darken this whole business by an inquisition to which he subjected the mother of this child, and when rebuffed by flat denials and stern refusals, persisted in his shameless interrogatories. I cannot conceive any infamy so dark and loathsome as that to which that agency, who as the father of that loved child declared to me, made him appear as making statements which when he learned what he had been led to believe as true, through false statements, he immediately repudiated as absolutely untrue and wicked. Although it is six years ago when the daughter passed away, the sorrow is made the heavier for the thought and memory of these contemptible insinuations. She is not alive to defend herself. There is no law which can reach a man for defaming the character of a dead person. For obvious reasons, the family are not disposed even though they would defend that name and character, to go through the harrowing details of an incurable illness and poignant grief under the circumstances of which Mr. Ayers constantly stood as husband, son and brother in sincere affection and holy endeavor and with noble purpose to the very end.

I should be pleased to place before you the statement of Mr. Shephard, which he is perfectly willing to duplicate if demanded and make even stronger in every possible term of retraction.

We appeal if anything can be more foul and despicable than the work of any man, who at the instigation of a dirty, low scandal-monger, would frame such lies to suit the evil purpose of an employer.

I called upon Rev. S. W. Brown, in Watertown, N. Y. He is a Presiding Elder of a District Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. I asked him why he characterized Mr. Ayers as "no good." His answer was, which I remember and am stating correctly, "You see, he was a licensee in this Conference for a time and he was also, for a year or so, a preacher in a Presbyterian church at Brownville; and then, as I learned, he became a Congregationalist. I made up my mind that a man who kept changing so much would never amount to anything." Mr. Brown said he had no personal acquaintance with Mr. Ayers, and he never intended that anything which he said should be construed for the purpose of degrading him anywhere. He said he had been pestered with letters, and supposed that he was writing in confidence. I told him that his correspondence had done great harm to Mr. Ayers, and that Mr. Ayers' enemies were publishing some of his

FORMER HOTEL CONVERTED

Into a Business Block With Modern Stores and Offices

Of all the buildings in Quincy that have undergone alterations during the past few months, undoubtedly none have been more extensively improved upon than the block which was formerly known as the Greenleaf Hotel. From a plain, yet large and adequate hostelry, the largest by the way in the city, it has been changed to such a degree that it has become the mecca for many business and professional enterprises and presents a busy and up to date appearance.

Much of the credit for the improvements is due to the efficient work of Cavanaugh Brothers and the Martin Company of Boston, who have the contracts in hand. The first change was to convert the sleeping rooms on the first flight into offices. The old floors were all torn out and new hardwood floors have taken their places. These have been varnished to such an extent as to appeal to the eye in a most attractive manner.

That portion of the building on the first floor which was formerly used as a dining room has undergone great improvements and has been fitted up to date style. In addition large prism glass windows have been installed, which throw light almost equal to that furnished by nature itself. The first floor was lowered considerably so as to make the stores adjoining still more spacious, and thus be on the same grade as the sidewalks. The original dining room compartment is now being utilized for desks.

All the old doors were taken out and new ones, with large ground glass panels have been substituted. An elegant marble stairway has been placed in the front part of the building, to be used as entrance to the different offices up stairs, thereby taking the place of the old stairs which were in the rear of the building. The hardwood finishing have all been highly polished. Bay windows appear in the front of the building and when the work of straightening the building itself is completed, it is expected that the Greenleaf block will be about as good as any in the city.

The occupants are proud of the changes that have been made. Besides the improvements on the building, it is said by many that the change is bound to be conducive to business development as well, in this part of the city.

ATLANTIC GETS DIRECT MAIL

All Ward Six Pouches Do Not Go to Boston

Postmaster Charles L. Hammond takes exceptions to the statement in the Ledger relative to the Squantum and Atlantic mail service between Quincy, Atlantic and Wollaston.

There is a direct mail service between Quincy and Atlantic. The Squantum mail is sent to Atlantic and pouched there for transmission to Quincy by train. The mail service from Atlantic to Quincy is at 12.41, 2.27 and 4.40 P. M.

The mail service from Quincy to Atlantic is at 7.08 A. M. and 2.19 P. M. Wollaston gets the same service.

There is a mail bag sent to Wollaston at 7.30 P. M. which arrives after the closing of the office so that it is not delivered until the next morning.

BEAN SUPPER.

A bean and salad supper will be held in Associates' hall, Houghs Neck, this evening by the Houghs Neck Ladies' Catholic club. An entertainment will also be furnished in connection with the event. The committee in charge, which promises a fine program, is composed of Mrs. Jason L. Harvey, Miss Helen Gagan, Miss Bessie Hagan and Mrs. R. Y. Woodbury.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE ON DANGEROUS RAILROAD CROSSING

Vice President Byrnes Admitted Water Street Thoroughfare Was Source of Danger

City and Labor Committee Presented Plan for Improvement

While Mayor Stone and the committees of the City Council and Central Labor Union who held a conference with the officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad Friday were not informed just what the railroad would do toward eliminating the danger that exists at the Water street grade crossing of the railroad it is thought that some action will be taken in the immediate future.

The committee was fortunate in its conference from the fact that it was held with the first Vice President, Timothy Byrnes, the conference being held in his office. General Superintendent Hobbs of the Plymouth division was also present. At the start the railroad officials admitted that the crossing was a source of danger and said that the road had taken the initiative in petitioning the courts for its abolition and was now waiting for the report of the commission that they might commence work.

The committee had a plan prepared which embodied what they desired for immediate protection. This included fences along some of the unprotected part of the line in the vicinity of the Quincy Adams station. At the present time on the westerly side there is no fence and foot passengers were constantly taking a short cut across the tracks between the station and the Crane grain elevator.

They also desired the extreme westerly crossing gate, of the three, at the crossing moved nearer the main tracks. At the present time this gate is located on the westerly side of the siding that enters the freight yard. The most important thing desired however was for an additional gateman. It was pointed out that one man was not sufficient at this crossing during the day time with the many trains that were constantly passing. While, when the tracks were clear, a good view could be had in both directions, that when one of the tracks was in use the other track was practically obscured. Incidents were cited where street cars and teams had been caught between the two gates and had narrow excapes from bad accidents.

The conference lasted some time and at its conclusion Vice President Byrnes said that he would take the matter under advisement and give it his immediate attention.

WOLLASTON REPRESENTED.

In the Essex County club golf championship contest now in progress at Manchester, M. E. Dewart of Wollaston, with a handicap of 15 beat E. M. Taft of Worcester with a handicap of 6, on the first round of the third sixteen, five and three.

On the second round Mr. Dewart defeated F. Ainsworth whose handicap is eight, two up. This leaves Mr. Dewart still in the championship running. Today he will meet J. A. Wheeler who has a handicap of 10.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.

Mr. A. D. Lucca, formerly, with the firm of A. D. Lucca & Mussette Co., of this City has dissolved partnership with said firm and will not be responsible for any debts contracted by Mussette & Co., after this date.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

But then why blame the innocent paper. The owner, promoter and commercialism are responsible.

The condition of Hancock cemetery right in the heart of the city is not very creditable for those who may be responsible.

The crew of the Convict ship Success claim she is haunted. If she has kept afloat so long after such a notorious career she ought to be purged of all evil influences.

The Cunard steamship Laconia sighted icebergs in the vicinity of the Titanic disaster. That may be called Cunard luck.

Well we should hope not. The idea of raising the price of milk. Is it not enough that the price of coal promises to soar upward shortly.

Parachute flying is filled with just as many dangers as the other kind. And there is always the chance taken and reckless carelessness which cannot be remedied.

Again there is a movement to exterminate the poor cat. What have Tommy and Tabby been doing now outside of their 11 o'clock tryst on the back yard fence?

An orator the other day announced that "there is nothing to compare with the cheapness of the present day newspaper." Unfortunately the double meaning can be applied to a great many so called great sheets.

Mass meeting managers must have peculiar ideas of the duties, responsibilities and obligations of the president of the United States when they imagine they can summon him to attend a session with less than 24 hours' notice.

Under the law, the election of Lorimer is declared void. And so the Governor cannot fill the place. Oh shucks, if failure to elect does not leave a vacancy what does? Less law and more common sense in dealing with our problems and we would get along better.

Well how are we going to get over that Canal problem? It looks as though Uncle Sammy had been elected to provide a free passage to the world from ocean to ocean at a trifling expense of $325,000,000. Who can now point to it as "My doing" or "My policy." Speak up gentlemen do not be modest. This is something the dear people would like to hear about. No chance for faking on this. The blunder was made whoever claims the honor of doing it. There is no dodging behind the popular refrain, "Everybody's doing it," in this matter.

Detective Burns warns the public against grafters in private detective agencies and says he has hard work to keep his place clear of them. What's the matter?

THE ARMY RESERVE.

Attorney General Wickersham's decision that the militia is not an army reserve is giving undue trouble to army officers. No doubt from a legal standpoint the opinion is justified. However there is no occasion to get white headed worrying upon the subject. Army reserve or no army reserve within the meaning of the law the states militia have never been found wanting when the government required their services in the field. The response was prompt and decisive. We have only to turn to the pages of the Civil and Spanish war to satisfy our minds on that point.

BRITISH ATHLETES.

Writers all over the country are as fluttered as a collection of hens with growing families over the criticism of the English press on the inability of their athletes to make a better showing at the Olympic games. Why this worry over here? The United States is not very much concerned over the failure of Great Britain or any other nation to lead in this great international gathering. Our aim is to lead. Let the others follow. When we are in any danger on the home stretch is time enough to manifest impatience. At present our sole duty should be to congratulate our present champions, give them a warm welcome on their return and stimulate their successors to "go thou and do likewise."

HAD TO GET IN LINE.

Of course it had to come. King Alphonso stopped a runaway horse the other day. A Newport society man followed suit. Both were acts of personal bravery and the chief actors are credited with saving life. A Carnegie medal is due to both. In the case of Alphonso it would be better to hold his reward in abeyance, because if he is put out of the king business the interest of a portion of the hero fund would come in handy.

In order to be accurate in the details of those two important incidents it should be chronicled that Alphonso grasped the bridle while the Newporter threw his arms around the animal's neck. There is no need to be unkind in digging up an old time phrase or paraphrasing to illuminate this circumstance.

At any rate it must be admitted that the Newport crowd is quick to catch on, and the knightly courtesy which prompted "After you my dear Alphonso," loses nothing by the coincidence.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.

The observant citizen has nothing to feel proud of in the present condition of Hancock cemetery. This last resting place of the dead, containing the remains of many of the oldest dwellers of Quincy, has at the present day a neglected appearance. Old paper bags, scraps of paper, fruit boxes, and other rubbish, together with the winged remnants of some bird find resting place in this sacred spot. The grass over and along the sides of the graves has a rangey and unkempt appearance. Many of the older tombs show marks of the ravages of time and the elements. Taken as a whole the picture as presented by this hallowed ground, containing as it does, among other worthy citizens, the bones of the father of that splendid figure of Revolutionary times, John Hancock, is not creditable to the city.

Located as it is in the heart of the city, beneath the shadow of City Hall, with the sepulchre of the presidents across the street, this burial place has become a historic spot of Quincy. Day after day strangers are seen wandering among the tomb stones deciphering their markings.

Why is this last resting place of many of the leading citizens of Quincy, allowed to be neglected and forgotten? If there are no private available funds from which it can be kept in good condition, then no one would begrudge the small sum which the city might appropriate to make this burial ground presentable. It is a sacred duty which we owe the dead, and particularly the dead that lie here, to keep their eternal home looking at least half decent.

SEEK SAFETY BY CONFESSION

Auto Owners Believed to Have Told Whitman All

PAID $2,000 FOR THE MURDER

Five Distinct Investigations of the Rosenthal Murder Now Being Carried On—Private Citizens Pay For Services of the Burns Agency—Car Owners Say Shooting Was Performed Deliberately

New York, July 20.—That District Attorney Whitman had accepted the offer of Libby and Shapiro to tell him all they knew of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, with the understanding that they would be granted immunity, was indicated when the pair were secretly taken from the Tombs and smuggled into the district attorney's office through a rear entrance.

Three stenographers were present at the conference beside the district attorney, Attorney Levy and the Burns detectives.

From Shapiro, who is trying to save himself, they secured the most astonishing information yet obtained.

Shapiro says now that the assassination was a leisurely executed affair; that the killers did not leap desperately at their work at all and that they lounged in front of the Metropole before and after they pistolled Rosenthal with no apparent fear of arrest.

"The men that shot Rosenthal walked away from them with their revolvers in their hands. They put the guns in their pockets without any rush and they stood in the middle of the street half a minute before they started back towards me. They strolled back, walking slowly and they got in the car as easy and quiet as you could imagine."

At the questioning of Libby and Shapiro by the district attorney, and Burns men, no members of the police department were present.

District Attorney Whitman has arranged for a trip out of the state. He positively refused to say where he is going, but it is believed that the trip is in connection with a mysterious conference he had at his home with an individual said to be one of the best known gamblers in the United States. This man, it was reported, told Whitman where he could get into touch with others of the fraternity now outside of the court's jurisdiction who could give him real information regarding the relations between the gamblers and the police.

A circumstantial report that one of the biggest gamblers in New York city, under a promise of complete immunity for himself and his immediate circle of pals, had made a full confession to District Attorney Whitman of the exact status of the gambling situation, to whom tribute was paid and by whom, and just what protection was afforded for the money, created consternation at police headquarters.

Private citizens have promised funds for a private investigation by private detectives to clear up the mystery in which the police are involved.

With the advent of private detectives five distinct investigations will be under way in connection with the Rosenthal murder. The police and district attorney are conducting inquiries along separate lines, the grand jury is working on still still another line, the mayor is having a quiet investigation in his own way and the private detectives make the fifth.

The private detectives are understood to be all men entirely unknown in New York, and their object is to find out not only who committed the Rosenthal murder, but the cause of it.

Inquiries usually were well informed regarding "underworld" affairs. It was said that the price paid for the killing of Rosenthal had been learned by the police. The figure named was $2000. The identity of at least two of the five men who were in the murder party is known in these quarters, it was added, and they are said to have been seen on East Side streets several times since Monday night.

LAKES-TO-GULF ROUTE

Urged by Colonel Roosevelt as a Needed National Task

Chicago, July 20.—National control of the construction through any state of a lakes-to-the-gulf deep waterway, and of the use of the Panama canal machinery in guarding the Mississippi river against floods are favored by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in a letter made public by La Verne W. Noyes, an Illinois supporter. The letter points out that not only would such a work protect thousands of acres of rich lands from devastation, by flood and prove commercially important in storing of power that could be turned into electricity, but it would do a great social service in wiping out sectional lines and give the north and south opportunity to join in the great work.

"Only by a new party, in which all join on equal terms, can the needed social and industrial tasks demanded by our people be successfully undertaken," says the letter, "and one of the greatest of these tasks is the development of the Mississippi."

Mr. Noyes had asked Colonel Roosevelt whether Illinois should expend $20,000,000 for building its part of the deep waterway. Colonel Roosevelt's reply says there is no need of it, in an individual attempt to secure a deep waterway from the lakes to the Gulf; and that such work is a task for the nation, since the nation alone can properly do it. It is an interstate matter.

"The tremendous devasting floods of the last few months, says the letter, "with the attendant loss of life, of homes and of property, have made it clear that no more time should be lost in undertaking the control of the flood waters of the Mississippi and its tributaries and the connection of the great lakes and the tributaries of the Mississippi with the Gulf, by means of a great commerce-carrying channel."

POSTOFFICE SAFE BLOWN

Acton Robbers Escape In Automobile With $2 Booty

Acton, Mass., July 20.—The band of "automobile yegg men," similar to the one which left a trail of wrecked safes in postoffices and express offices through New England some eighteen months ago, appeared in South Acton, blew open the safe in the local postoffice, stole its contents and vanished.

The yeggs got only about $2 in small change and one registered letter and escaped in an automobile.

The safe was cracked in several places and the door blown through a window, the office wrecked and holes blown through the ceiling and floor.

COURT ORDERS A LAND SALE

Hanford Charged With Complicity In Steal

Seattle, July 20.—New accusations against United States Judge Cornelius H. Hanford were brought out before the congressional investigation committee during the examination of H. L. Klock, a Seattle merchant. Klock recounted a conversation he had with "a man named Sutton" in which the latter said he 'got next" to a sale of state land that "was going to be pulled off by Judge Hanford and his friends."

Klock said Sutton told him the land was worth $1500 an acre and had been appraised at $10 an acre, advertised in an out-of-the-way paper and sold at an obscure place where those involved in the scheme could control the bidding. Klock was the man who took the anti-Hanford side in the debate before the Seattle Credit Men's meeting which decided not to furnish the congressional committee with evidence as to bankruptcy proceedings in Hanford's court.

New Battleship Excells Anything of Her Size For Swiftness

Rockland, Me., July 20.—All speed records for big gun battleships were broken by the new United States battleship Wyoming, sister ship of the superdreadnought Arkansas, during her standardization trials.

Her speed of 22.045 knots is declared by naval experts who were aboard to be the fastest time ever made by any battleship in the world carrying 12-inch guns. The Arkansas, during her trials a month ago, placed the record at 21.493 knots.

SAWYER FOR GOVERNOR

Carey Withdrew and Socialists Select Ministerial Candidate

Boston, July 20.—Rev. Roland D. Sawyer, Congregational minister at Ware, agreed yesterday to become the Socialist candidate for governor, James F. Carey having withdrawn as the party's candidate.

Mr. Sawyer was born in Kensington, N. H., Jan. 8, 1874. He attended the high school at Exeter and took his theological course at Boston university.

Their Workers Hustling Around With Nomination Papers

A number of nomination papers are already in circulation about the city. These include papers for Congressman Robert .O. Harris for congressman from the fourteenth district, Roger Wolcott of Milton as senator from the First Norfolk district, Senator George L. Barnes of Weymouth as member of the State Central Committee, Representative Walter E. Piper and William J. Leslie for renomination for Representatives to the General Court from the Fifth and Sixth districts.

VACATION CLASSES.

The vacation classes under the direction of the Education committee of the Quincy Women's club opened at the clubhouse Friday, July 12.

About one hundred and fifty girls between the ages of ten and fifteen are enrolled. Miss Georgiana Waldron has charge of the sewing, ably assisted by Mrs. John Christiansen. Miss Laura West is the instructor in physical training assisted by Miss West and Miss Taylor as pianist.

The girls are given instruction in sewing, embroidery and gymnastics. On Tuesday all assembled in the large drawing-room to listen to a very interesting talk on "How to know and love the birds," by Mrs. Pfaffmann. This was illustrated by large, colored charts and proved very entertaining and instructive.

Friday morning Miss Purchase told the girls of the many ways in which the poor children of Boston are cared for and entertained in the hot weather.

The classes will continue on Tuesday and Friday mornings until August 16. Any one interested is assured a cordial welcome.

CHARGES AGAINST PASTOR

correspondence to the detriment of Mr. Ayers' character. This appeared to impress Mr. Brown very deeply, and he assured me that he was sincerely sorry. Without waiting for any suggestion of mine, he left the room for his study, and returned giving to me a letter of retraction, which he said I was at liberty to publish.

I called upon Mrs. Danforth, whose husband, deceased, was Elder for that District when Mr. Ayers was appointed preacher to the Methodist Episcopal church at Cape Vincent. Mrs. Danforth knew of what was being published against Mr. Ayers in the Boston newspapers. I avoided very carefully asking Mrs. Danforth any leading questions. She was perfectly free in saying that her husband always held Mr. Ayers in highest esteem and never entertained any, but the most cordial feelings toward him. She said that it was a great grief to her that some things had been given to the press against Mr. Ayers; still nothing of such a kind would ever disturb her, and many others whom she knew in their loyalty to Mr. Ayers, and their personal interest in him.

I saw several representatives from the Presbyterian church at Brownville. These gentlemen were well acquainted with Mr. Ayers, and they expressed themselves in heartiest manner possible respecting the ministerial character and service of Mr. Ayers in that place. Mr. Allen told me that Mr. Ayers may have made some mistakes as young ministers are likely to do. The people, however, appreciated his youth, and joined him enthusiastically in the splendid work he did at Brownville. Mr. Allen told me that Mr. Ayers would be welcomed back, if at any time he would be pleased to come. Mr. Allen said, that if there had been any trouble during his pastorate, it was nothing more than the trouble in the church during a previous pastorate, or was in the church afterward in the pastorate succeeding that of Mr. Ayers. It surprised Mr. Allen that so great a matter had been made out of something to which the church, as such, paid no attention. If Mr. Allen's statements are questioned, I am perfectly willing that anyone should go to him for an assurance of the truth of what he told me and which Mr. Essington, of the same place, would abundantly confirm.

I called upon Mr. Frazier. It may be proper to say that Mr. Allen differs from Mr. Frazier in temperament. While Mr. Allen felt very cordial toward Mr. Ayers, it was apparent in his conversation that he would give no judgment except that of a well balanced cautious spirit. Mr. Frazier, on the other hand, expressed himself with enthusiasm. He was exceeding cordial, yet his heartiness in the matter would not take away in the least an ounce of weight in any statement he might make. He said, without my asking him any questions other than that which pertained to Mr. Ayers' work in Brownville, that while he was not a perfect man, nevertheless, the work that Mr. Ayers' did was splendid, and the people felt very cordial toward him; that the whole spirit of Brownville was friendly to Mr. Ayers, and would be friendly whatever his enemy or enemies might say. I told Mr. Frazier that a statement had been made that Mr. Ayers was a trouble maker in Brownville. Mr. Frazier told me that if there was any trouble in the church while Mr. Ayers was pastor, it could be attributed to a desire or attempt on the part of Mr. Ayers to straighten out the churches' finances, particularly so because the treasurer had not paid his salary for several months. It ought to be borne in mind that these gentlemen are not scandal-mongers. They are men, intelligent, high minded, clean. One could see at once, that they were without guile, and would not be dominated by any ulterior motive. They were men who could differ with their fellows without charging them with anything of a low, mean, sordid, scandalous nature.

It must be appreciated that of hardly any minister will it be said "Everybody likes him. Mr. Talmadge once said that we could be sure that if everybody liked a minister the devil would be in league with him. The fact is there is not a church in which may not be found one or more who will oppose a minister and say unkind things about him. I learned that Mr. Ayers had an enemy in Brownville. Mr. Ayers had no confidence in this man. This lack of confidence was a sequel to a business transaction. Such a man will say evil things of a minister, and were I looking for evil things, imagined or other, it would be very easy to find such a man for such a business. If we are to go by what such men will say, there are very few of us but will go under judgment. I know some ministers, not a thousand miles away, of whom enemies may say the meanest things, to which might be some basis of fact, though when inquired into would be seen to be colored and perverted and used to the most infamous ends imaginable. Must a minister be condemned because he insists upon truth and justice and honesty in public and private affairs? If there was any cause for trouble in Brownville, it could have been found in that very thing.

It was now left for me to go to Cape Vincent. From all that I had heard I expected to meet my "Waterloo." That is, in that man for whom I was looking. The most serious charge against Mr. Ayers involving, as it did that character of an estimable and highly respected woman of the village, was utterly exploded as will appear.

Upon arrival, I walked up and down the several streets, simply for the purpose of meeting men, young and old, without distinction, without discrimination, and with these I talked at length. I asked questions which were unhesitatingly answered. I did not withhold a thing. A number of people came to the house where I was guest. These, also, were very frank in giving to me thoroughly impartial views. The result of my many conferences was simply this:—

Mr. Ayers is held in excellent repute in Cape Vincent. Everyone spoke kindly about him. Many wished he would return. The Presbyterian Pastor, Rev. Mr. Duncan, voiced the opinion of a large following. A Mr. Holland, former treasurer of the church, spoke for himself and a number as having absolute confidence in Mr. Ayers. Elder Vincent of the Presbyterian church at Brownville, a most excellent man, calm in spirit, and of a judicial mind, declared that the whole thing was an infamous outrage. I could quote anywhere from forty to fifty people all of them declared themselves in the same way. Probing somewhat closely into the matter, I felt persuaded that the scandal could be traced to about one source. If I am correct in my impression, the agent of this scandalous gossip is held in contempt of the good people of the village. No one with whom I conversed had one single kind word to say of him. When I asked what affect the news of Mr. Ayers' trouble had upon the people, only one answer was received, that Mr. Ayers had the confidence of the community, and that the people were paying no attention to it whatever, knowing it to be absolutely false. I could have gone to one or two in the community, as I could go to any church, after finding out the proper parties, and would have been furnished with more or less criticism of Mr. Ayers. Of the twelve hundred or more people in the village of Cape Vincent, I do not believe a dozen can be found who will utter an unkind word against him.

I drove out to the home of Mr. Klock at Three Mile Bay, six miles from Cape Vincent. I carried with me a letter of introduction from a lawyer Mr. Ryder of Watertown. This enabled me to approach Mr. Klock. When I told him the reason for my visit he became filled with anger. He told me how he had been deceived, by men who had been to see him before. I left Mr. Ayers in the highway and went to the rear door of the house where Mr. Klock was standing talking to his wife. I asked him if he was Mr. Klock, and he replied, "That is the name I go by when I'm at home." While he was reading the letter of introduction. I saw at once that it would be necessary to assure him of my good will. When I referred to the Ayers matter, he stepped aside as though he would leave me. I followed him, saying, "Don't do that, Mr. Klock. I have come to help you out of any possible trouble." He then told me how some men had been to him and framed up a story, and it was this story to which he was asked to sign his name, and which he did sign, not reading the story himself. He told me that the men who came to him said that Mr. Ayers had called him all manner of mean, low and dirty names. When I was able to fill him with assurance, he sat down upon the ground and gave to me a description of the visit of the man, and finally said, "It wasn't Mr. Ayers whom I saw in the wagon. The man that I saw in the wagon was a man whom I saw in Cape Vincent last week, and I know that that man wasn't Mr. Ayers, for Mr. Ayers wasn't in Cape Vincent. It wasn't Mr. Ayers, and I know it. When I told them the story, they made the description fit Mr. Ayers and led me to believe it was Ayers and then made the statement to read that I said it was Ayers." I asked him if he were willing to say that in the hearing of my friend, who had come with me from Watertown. To this he assented willingly. I then called out to Mr. Ayers, who drove into the yard. Mr. Klock came with me to the wagon. I did not introduce Mr. Ayers to him. They conversed with each other for several minutes. They were not five feet distant from each other. Each looked into the eye of the other, and Mr. Klock did not in any way whatever show that he recognized the gentleman in the wagon as Mr. Ayers.

TWO ITALIAN VESSELS SUNK

Turkey Once More Declares the Dardanelles Closed to Traffic

Constantinople, July 20.—Eight Italian torpedo boats attacked the entrance of the Dardanelles in an attempt to run the course. The Turkish forts replied vigorously, sinking two of the Italian war vessels, and damaging the other six. The cannonade lasted forty-five minutes.

The run through the Dardanelles is one of about forty miles, between coasts from one and one-fifth to four miles apart. Had the Italian flotilla effected it, it would have had the obsolete Turkish warships in the sea of Marmora at its mercy, and a bombardment of Constantinople, at the eastern end of the Marmora sea, would certainly have followed.

As a result of the attack the Turkish government notified the powers that the Dardanelles again has been closed to the shipping of the world.

The cabinet ministers were hurriedly called to the palace yesterday, where, at a council of war, it was decided to close the Dardanelles.

Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish ambassador at London, who, on July 17, was appointed grand vizier, has undertaken to form a new cabinet.

BRIEFS

Albert Farnum of West Quincy has been appointed gate tender at the East Milton crossing.

Rev. Carlton P. Mills, formerly rector at St. Chrysostom's church is to preach Sunday evening at the East Milton Episcopal church.

Thomas H. Forrest who was operated on at Quincy hospital seven weeks ago for appendicitis is convalescing pat his home on Warren avenue. His case was a serious one, and gave his family much concern, consequently his complete recovery is slow.

A KID'S PARADISE.

When the youngsters met St. Peter at the gate he queried, "Where's de ice cream sodies and de pop corn?" And on the good Key Keeper's reply that he knew not the whither of such the youngster scornfully remarked, "I toght dis was Heaven."

Your reporter was a youngster himself once. And so when the City Editor, hearing of the Kid's predicament at the gate, sent your reporter out to see if he could find a child's paradise on earth, your reporter went forth with glee. He thought of the circus and somewhere he had heard that Revere Beach was a $4,000,000 circus, regular greatest show on earth kind, and it stayed put the year around. And so your reporter hied him to Revere Beach and straightway discovered the seventh Heaven of pop corn and such. And this is what he found out.

Revere Beach consumes 1,000,000 packages of pop corn each season. Some of it is sold with butter and salt in the good old fashioned way. It takes from 50,000 to 60,000 pounds of butter to make it taste good for one season. This butter is contracted for at one Vermont creamery. To make enough of the more modern molasses crispette to supply the beach for a season requires 12,000 gallons of New Orleans molasses. Fifty tons or two freight car loads of corn is the year's supply.

The amount of sodie water sold at the beach in a season would make a good sized lake in itself. There are a score of sodie parlors along the boulevard where the big shows are. The largest of these, the Columbia Spa, alone serves 360,000 glasses of sodie in a season, about half of which is of the ice cream variety.

And so your reporter is of the opinion that if the good saint wishes to make the celestial realms attractive to the kids he should get up to date and take a lesson from Revere Beach.

CHARGE AGAINST PASTOR

I had accomplished my mission. We left the house, after Mr. Klock assured me he would sign any statement which Mr. Ryder would make out for him. I then called up Mr. Ryder by telephone, and he went to Three Mile Bay and sent to me by special delivery a statement which Mr. Klock prepared and signed.

No argument is necessary to show most conclusively how certain men used Mr. Klock to further their despicable ends. I know of no words by which to denounce the atrocious method employed in order to libel the character of an absolutely innocent man, to say nothing of the pure noble woman with whom they associated his name. I cannot conceive anything more contemptible. Satan may be busy in his wickedness, but Satan would blush, and Hell itself would be ashamed of doing anything of this kind. It is certainly appalling that a certain some, though few they are, were willing to believe it, and sought to make others believe what is the foulest libel that could ever be uttered against a human being.

Returning to Cape Vincent, I called upon Mr. J. W. Kornaire, the attorney who received the statement and put Mr. Klock under oath. Mr. Kornaire told me that when he saw the significance of the whole thing, he put it aside and determined to have nothing more to do with it. I am quoting his exact words.

I called upon Doctor Dawson, a reputable and successful physician in Cape Vincent. He told me that the party came to him and began to talk about Mr. Ayers. "I didn't say anything, one way or the other. They simply rambled on, and I let them." I did not say anything. They must have put it down as coming from me." Doctor Dawson denied absolutely that he spoke of Mr. Ayers in that way, for he had no reason whatever, for thinking anything other than Mr. Ayers was an upright man.

It must not be overlooked that Mr. Shephard, Mr. Klock and Doctor Dawson, each and all declared "They made the charges against Mr. Ayers, and they made it appear as tho these parties had made those charges themselves

From these statements which I have made, it must be apparent to every right-minded person, that this whole business has been carried out under the direction of parties who planned to destroy the character of Mr. Ayers.

It was something of a nature so appalling to me, that I could not rest. Because of it, Mr. Ayers was avoided by those who should have been glad to defend him until the whole truth had been discovered. I declared at the outset that I was unwilling to believe such things against him, and it saddened me deeply to note how some of his fellow ministers were willing to accept the libel in the faith that it could not be broken. Nevertheless, the more I saw, the more was I persuaded that the whole business was a conspiracy against a man who sought only to do what he thought was right in Church administration and the affairs of life.

Why is it that ministers have been more willing to believe lies than they have been ready to search after truth? Why is it that ministers in clique and club association will criticize their fellow ministers, ridicule them, sneer at them, and put them to scorn? Why is it that ministers who preach love, and forgiveness, are not only willing to listen to a scandalous report about a brother minister, but disposed to spread the same wherever they go?

I feel that an awful injustice has been done. I feel that an irreparable injury has been committed against an innocent soul. In the midst of this terrible trial, Mr. Ayers has not spoken an unjust word. I wonder that he hasn't risen up in indignation and denounced everyone who has aided in making him the character in the estimation of the public his enemies would have us believe he is. No one could have listened to the story of his life as he gave it to the Committee at the close of the investigation, without having the conviction forced upon him that whatever mistakes he might have made in pastoral oversight, he was absolutely innocent of those terrible things of which his foul-mouthed slanders said he was guilty. And what amazes me is that men, professing to be Christians, gathered as they were at one time about a table last spring, could listen to what was said by one of the number, when he compared Mr. Ayers to a criminal then resting in the shadow of the electric chair, in language too infamously filthy to pollute a self-respecting lip, without protesting vehemently that no man should be judged after such a manner without the fullest possible opportunity for defence and vindication. I fear too many have been guilty in helping on the dastardly work of defouling a character, that can look calmly into the presence of his divine Judge, and become himself a judge of them who deserve judgment themselves.

We cannot be too grateful that the matter of investigation was committed to a body of men in whose judgment we could have confidence. It was not an easy matter, through all these days to listen to the testimony as it was presented by the people who were brought before the Committee. Theirs was not an easy task; nor was it at all easy for Doctor Cady to conduct the questioning from the other side. He was bound to do all that they required of him, whatever their cause. It was very natural that he should not be correctly judged in his situation, and, as I said at the time of the investigation, had Doctor Cady, and other members of the Committee known Mr. Ayers as they learned to know him from the pathetic story which he gave of his life, this whole business would have assumed a different shape altogether. Had I accepted Doctor Cady's position in the investigation, I would have done as he did. He did only what they demanded he should do, and with no man did I sympathize so deeply and sincerely as with him.

In all earnestness do I trust that the Park and Downs Church will not cease in its loyalty to its Pastor, who, conscious of his innocence and pure in his motive can challenge his enemies and stand among his people free and untainted, his only desire and ambition being to promote righteousness and love.

In conclusion, I have only this to say: If any man doubts my word, I challenge him to go with me immediately, taking with him the original charges as stated to all the parties whom I have seen, where they live in Cape Vincent, Brownville, Watertown, and face them with everything that I have said: and in particular, since the names of one Woodard and one Robinson, have been used in libelous statements, I challenge any man to meet these parties with me and face them in the presence of seven reputable men, to disprove any statement, or anything whatsoever I have said, and further I challenge any man whoever he is, to make that true, which is false, and to convince any reputable community that the character of Mr. Ayers is to any degree the infamous thing they have dared to make it to be.

This stand of Dr. Anderson makes it imperative that the "minority" leaders either back up their claims in the manner suggested or admit that such are groundless.

The move has brought the issue to a head and the merits of the major points will no doubt be settled at an early date.

William J. Colby made the following statement for the standing committee:

Any church body has a grave responsibility to the community in which it places itself. There are many people, not church members, who honor and reverence the powers for great good for which the Church of Christ stands; and the members, naturally, look to the church for spiritual uplift and for the opportunity of working within the church for the betterment in countless ways of the individual and the community life. when these rights and privileges of the community are interfered with the church faces a serious problem, and one which the church must solve without undue delay.

This church, for years, has not been privileged to enjoy a church harmony. There has been such discord as to greatly interfere with every branch of its efforts.

This last year the church community has been rife with all sorts of innuendos, insinuations, and open charges against the Pastor and against some of his adherents.

It was hoped that after the findings of committee of Ministers appointed by the Suffolk South Conference, who very thoroughly investigated the charges brought against Mr. Ayers, that further charges and insinuations against him and further action harmful to the church's influence would cease.

This has not been so. As far as the Standing Committee can judge, the report of the Committee of Ministers has not been taken in earnest by those instrumental in preferring the charges. The same charges made against Mr. Ayers previous to the appointment of the Committee of Ministers, and later made before them and judged by them and reported upon by them in their findings, the verdict of which was to uphold Mr. Ayers as being in good standing in the Christian Ministery, are being used now to the harming of Mr. Ayers and through him the church, and through the church, the community.

For the purpose of trying to adjust the differences between the actual report of the Committee of Ministers and the interpretation given it by those who proffered the charges against Mr. Ayers, it is proposed by the Standing Committee that a joint hearing be held between the so-called "minority" element in the church, the two ministers appointed by the Suffolk South

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

The Giraffe Sway and Canal Hump Walk Are Eulcidated in Classic Bostonese—How the Hub's Thousands of Stray Cats Are Disposed of—Patriotic People Preserves Parks from Peril—Should a Single Man Be Governor?

The "giraffe sway," the "camel-hump walk" and the "wide-awake sit" are products of the hobble skirts likely to become accepted terms of Bostonese language, although they have not as yet found their way into the dictionary. The first mentioned, according to a local authority, is only acquired by the willowy of form. It requires some study and assimilation, the neck and head being held as with a view to scraping the lower strata off the clouds and swayed with a gentle motion like that of a kalsomine brush." The camel-hump walk results from the inability of the hobbled damsel to make her feet keep up with her head and shoulders, due to the checking of each foot in mid-course by the hobble. The shoulders sway forward, the body turns from side to side, the spine forms a more or less graceful curve and, for once, the head is held high. The combined effect is well named. But the "wideawake sit" sounds mysterious. The aforementioned authority elucidates it thus: "When the hobbled one sits, her feet look like yours feel when the woman on the opposite side of the car sits and stares at them. Also, you recall memories of the Mullingar Heifer, that was beef to the heels, and of magazine silk stocking ads, and your ankles lore is enriched, or improverished, accordingly."

Boston, or at least an energetic and public spirited group of Boston's women, is up in arms over the proposed establishment of the new High School of Commerce in the Back Bay Fens. It has become a question as to whether the city should be the first to open up the supposedly perpetual public parks to the invasion of commercialism. It will be remembered that when Bunker Hill Monument was threatened it was a few determined women that turned the tide; likewise was it when the Old South Meeting-house was actually doomed. Perhaps even now the force of the little group which is fighting the public fight at its own expense may be sufficient to keep the Fens in their intended purpose, just as the Boston Common Society has repeatedly justified its existence when danger has threatened its boundaries. Not a small factor in the fight of these people who wish the parks kept intact for the city's beauty and better health, and for their children's children in the greater city of the future, is the support and counsel given them by such experts as Sylvester Baxter, secretary of the Metropolitan Improvement League, the man who more than any other contributed the initial ideas that made the Boston park system a reality, and who has even taken a keen interest in whatever pertained to the beautification and perpetuation of the parks.

Cats, stray cats, not fewer than one hundred and twenty-seven thousand of them, according to Boston's Animal Rescue League, have been captured by the society in the past seven years. In 1911 alone it received 23,961 of these wandering felines. Most of the alley Toms and Marias, being either half dead or in such condition as to threaten death or disease to any kindhearted persons who might try to save them, were humanely and painlessly put out of the world. The League claims that 150,000 of the homeless wanderers still are making night hideous in Boston's alleyways and, living on germ-filled garbage barrels, are a walking army of health destroyers. The plan under active progress is to corral the police in the business of protecting the public health, by appointing them purveyors of cats to the League headquarters. The simple expedient of letting the garbage barrels or specially provided barrels with heads slightly tilted serve as traps for the prowlers is proposed. When old Tom jumps down inside the barrel the cover tilts back and he is there in the morning when the officer goes his round. The famous green bag carried by the professional man or student will serve very nicely for conveyance. The League neglects to say whether special express wagons will be provided each officer to accommodate his daily load. Thus far this year the League has taken in over 14,000 waifs, found swarming into the cellars of business houses, dark corners and filthy alleys. The menace to public health embodied in this feline population demands action, and though one may be extremely fond of cats, one must admit it is no more than kindness to remove the starving creatures from their misery in a kindly way. Since one stray female cat may bring from twenty to forty kittens into the world in a year, it is easy to see that it will be some time before the feline race will be depopulated.

Boston's district attorney, Mr. Pelletier, does not agree with Governor Foss that it is absolutely essential that a man should be married to be governor. Indeed, a cynic might say that he is less a governor when married than when single. This district attorney maintains that His Excellency was not elected because he was married, but because the people felt that the principles for which he stood were the right ones. Mr. Pelletier does not say whether he would take a chance if he thought marriage would put him in the governor's chair—perhaps he thinks that to choose from among the 80,000 unmarried young women in Massachusetts would be more difficult than to keep going as just a mere district attorney.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Elnora is delighted with her outfit. Her mother says she must pay for it. Wesley and Margaret Sinton discuss the girl's affairs.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

"Then it will have the grace of that much age to give it some small touch of flavor," said the girl. "Come early in the morning."

She lifted the violin and began to play a dainty fairy dance.

"Well, bless my soul!" softly ejaculated the astounded Mrs. Comstock. "To think I was worrying for fear you couldn't take care of yourself!"

Elnora laughed as she played.

The month which followed was a repetition of the previous June, with moth hunts, specimen gathering and perfect nights filled with music, save that Philip was now Elnora's avowed suitor. Edith Carr, sick at heart, sailed for Europe. At the end of a month Philip asked Elnora to be his wife, but she pleaded for more time, saying she must be absolutely sure of herself and of him before she could say yes. But she consented to wear a beautiful emerald ring which he had had sent from Chicago.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Wherein Chicago Comes to the Limberlost.

HONK, honk, honk! Hart Henderson set the alarm of the big automobile going as it shot from behind the trees lining the Brushwood road. The picture of a vine covered cabin, a great drooping tree, a green clad girl and a man bending over her very closely flashed into view. Edith Carr caught her breath with a snap. Polly Ammon gave Tom Levering a quick touch and wickedly winked at him.

Several days before Edith had returned from Europe suddenly. She and Henderson had called at the Ammon residence, saying that they were going to motor down to the Limberlost to see Philip a few hours and urged that Polly and Tom accompany them. Mrs. Ammon thought it better to have Polly along to support Philip than to allow him to confront Edith unexpectedly and alone. Polly was full of spirit. She did not like Edith and did not relish the thought of her as a sister. Two days before her father had extracted a promise of secrecy, given her Philip's address and told her to send him the finest emerald ring she could select. Polly knew how that ring would be used. What she did not know was that the girl who accompanied her went back to the store afterward, made an excuse to the clerk that she had been sent to be absolutely sure that the address was right and so secured it for Edith Carr.

Two days later Edith had induced Hart Henderson to take her to Onabasha. By the aid of maps they located the Comstock land and passed it merely to see the place. Henderson hated that trip and implored Edith not to take it, but she made no effort to conceal from him what she suffered, and it was more than he could endure.

The sunlight etched with distinctness the scene at the west end of the chain. Instinctively, to save Edith, Henderson set the whistle blowing. He had thought to go on to the city, but Polly Ammon stood, crying, "Phil, Phil!" Tom Levering was on his feet shouting and waving, while Edith in her most imperial manner ordered him to turn into the lane leading through the woods beside the cabin.

"Fix it some way that I get a minute alone with her," she commanded as he stopped the car.

"That is my sister Polly, her fiance Tom Levering, a friend of mine named Henderson and"— began Ammon.

"Edith Carr," volunteered Elnora.

"And Edith Carr," repeated Philip Ammon. "Elnora, be brave for my sake. Their coming can make no difference in any way. I won't let them stay but a few minutes. Come with me!"

"Do I looked scared?" inquired Elnora serenely. "This is why you have not had your answer. I have been waiting just six weeks for that motor. You may bring them to me at the arbor."

She could see that Miss Carr was splendidly beautiful, while she moved with the hauteur and grace supposed to be the prerogatives of royalty. And she had instantly taken possession of Philip Ammon. But Ammon also had a brain which was working with rapidity. He knew Elnora was watching so he swung around to the others.

"Give her up, Tom!" he cried. "I didn't know I wanted to see the little nuisance so badly, but I do. How are father and mother? Polly, be good to Elnora," he whispered.

"Um-huh," assented Polly. And aloud, "I never saw such a beauty. Thomas Asquith Levering, you come straight here and take my hand!"

Edith's move to compel Ammon to approach Elnora beside her had been easy to see; also its failure. Henderson stepped into Ammon's place as he turned to his sister. Instead of taking Polly's hand Levering ran to open the gate. Edith passed through first, but Polly darted in front of her on the run, with Phil holding her arm, and swept up to Elnora. Polly looked for the ring and saw it. That settled matters with her.

"You lovely, lovely, darling girl!" she cried, throwing her arms around Elnora and kissing her. With her lips near Elnora's ear, Polly whispered, "Sister—dear, dear sister!"

Elnora drew back, staring at Polly in confused amazement. She was a beautiful girl, dressed in some wonderful way. Her eyes were sparkling and dancing, and as she turned to make way for the others she kept one of Elnora's hands in hers. Edith bowed low, muttered something and touched Elnora's fingers. In that instant only pity was in Elnora's breast for the flashing dark beauty.

"Come into the shade," she urged. "You must have found it warm on these country roads. Won't you lay aside your dust coats and have a cool drink? Philip, would you ask mother to come and bring that pitcher in the springhouse?"

They entered the arbor, exclaiming at the dim, green coolness. Mrs. Comstock came deliberately, talking to Ammon as she approached. Elnora gave her one searching look, but could discover only an extreme brightness of eye to denote any unusual feeling. Polly instantly went to her and held up her face to be kissed. Mrs. Comstock's eyes twinkled, and she made the greeting hearty.

Soon the pitcher was empty, and Elnora picked it up and went to refill it. While she was gone Henderson asked Philip about some trouble he was having with his car. They went to the woods and began a minute examination to find a defect which did not exist. Polly and Levering were having an animated conversation with Mrs. Comstock. Henderson saw Edith arise, follow the garden path next the woods and stand waiting under the willow which Elnora would pass on her return. It was for that meeting he had made the trip. He got down on the ground, tore up the car, worked, asked for help and kept Philip busy screwing bolts and applying the oil can. All the time Henderson kept an eye on Edith and Elnora under the willow. But he took pains to lay the work he asked Philip to do where that scene would be out of his sight. When Elnora came around the corner with the pitcher she found herself facing Edith Carr.

"I want a minute with you," said Miss Carr.

"Very well," replied Elnora, walking on.

"Set the pitcher on the bench there," commanded Edith Carr as if speaking to a servant.

"I prefer not to offer my guests a warm drink," said Elnora. "I'll come back if you really wish to speak with me."

"I came solely for that," said Edith Carr.

Weavers' Union Ready to Talk Compromise—When State Board of Arbitration Failed Ministers' Union Partially Successful—Doubt If Manufacturers Will Accept Offer—Workers Assessed For Strikers

New Bedford, Mass., July 20.—The weavers' union, which is responsible for the New Bedford textile strike, is ready to consider a compromise of its differences over the grading fine system with the twelve manufacturers who closed their mills Monday when the walkout was declared.

Where the State Board of Arbitration failed in bringing the two sides together, the local ministerial association has succeeded partially. At a meeting of this organization, attended by a committee from the union, President Samuel Connors of the labor body declared he was willing to enter into a truce with the manufacturers' association. Last Saturday when requested to meet the manufacturers he refused to consider it.

"We are willing to meet the manufacturers on this issue. We are perfectly willing to confer with them at any time and discuss the best methods for a settlement," was his statement.

It is not known whether the manufacturers affected will accept this offer. None of them were present at the meeting and it is believed generally here that they will disregard it. The fact that the notice posted last Monday stated that the mills would be "closed indefinitely" is believed to indicate that the agents and owners are satisfied to keep the plants shut until fall.

A prominent official of the association has intimated that such would be the attitude of the manufacturers.

The local ministers' union after the meeting with representatives of the strikers, set about a further attempt to bring the manufacturers into conference. An open suggestion was made by Rev. Nathan Bailey, a former weaver of cotton cloth, that the manufacturers grant the mill workers the right of appeal in the individual operation of the grading system, to which objection has been taken.

The Industrial Workers of the World forwarded to the manufacturers the demands of the strikers under their direction. They requested a conference for discussion of the grievances.

At a meeting of the loomfixers' union it was voted that the members who are working in the seven mills which are still in operation shall be assessed to aid in the support of their striking and locked out fellows.

Bar Association Seeks to Disbar a Member of Governor's Council

Boston, July 20.—The Boston Bar association, in a petition filed in the Suffolk superior court, asks the disbarment of Edward D. Collins, member of the governor's council, and candidate for the clerkship of the Suffolk superior court last fall.

The petition says that Collins was admitted to the bar February 26, 1904, and that "he has not observed the requirements of said oath of office and has not continued to be and is not of good moral character, and has been guilty of deceit, malpractice and other gross misconduct."

It was made known that the Bar association has conducted an investigation of charges against Councilor Collins, the principal clause being that he accepted a retainer in a divorce case and failed to enter suit or to refund the money.

Collins qualified on Jan. 24 to succeed former Councilor Quinn, who was appointed sheriff of Suffolk county.

Fashion Decrees Golden Stockings Are to Be Worn

Vienna, July 20.—According to a fashionable paper here women's stockings made from real gold thread and silk are to be the fashion in Vienna this autumn. They will cost $25 a pair.

Another novelty will be black or white silk stockings, which above the ankles will be worn in various designs, such as a peacock with its tail outstretched in gorgeous colors.

To make the embellishments visible shorter skirts are to be insisted upon by the dressmakers.

A Reprobate Son

Clinton, Mass., July 20.—On the charge of having beaten his father with a pitchfork, Harold Stuart of Sterling, who was reported to have said he would shoot any one who came to arrest him, was arraigned and fined $20 and placed under $500 bonds to preserve the peace.

Conference to assist this church in its difficulties, and the Standing Committee. At this hearing it is proposed that an official statement regarding the report of the Committee of Ministers be made and that opportunity be given for such discussion of the report, as in the judgment of the two ministers from the Suffolk South Conference, may seem necessary.

It would be one of the purposes of this joint hearing to arrive at such a solution of the problems within the church as would be for the best interests of the church as a whole and for the community.

It is further recommended by the committee that this hearing be held Saturday evening, Aug. 3 at 8 o'clock, in the vestry of this church—or at such time as the standing committee can arrange.

It is also recommended by the committee that this report be sent to the church members not present at this Friday night meeting.

The meeting was one of perfect unanimity and if there were any dissenters among the hundred odd persons at the meeting they did not make their presence known. After adjournment a large number went up and clasped the hand of the pastor.

The next special meeting is called for next Friday evening.

GRAND JURY TO TAKE UP 'L' STRIKE

Perjury of Witnesses Among Charges Made

Boston, July 20.—The Suffolk county grand jury is to investigate the Elevated railway strike.

District Attorney Pelletier is to call a special session of that body Tuesday, July 23, to probe criminal charges made against the Elevated company officials by the striking carmen.

This he announced in an official statement last evening.

For four hours yesterday the district attorney listened to the statements of a number of strikers, mostly men who were discharged prior to the calling of the strike, six weeks ago.

The strikers charge the men were dismissed from the service because they had joined a union. This they have maintained is illegal under the statutes of Massachusetts. It is believed that the evidence given the district attorney yesterday was partly along these lines.

It is considered probable that the alleged statements that witnesses who testified under oath before the state board of arbitration committed perjury will also be probed.

The next move in the strike will be the outcome of the meeting of the Central Labor union to be held tomorrow afternoon. At this meeting a vote will be taken on the question of a general strike of all union labor in Greater Boston as a means to end the present difficulty between the Elevated and its employes.

LOOKS GOOD FOR ANOTHER SHIP TO BE BUILT AT FORE RIVER YARD

Congressman Curley Wires the Mayor That Situation is Favorable to Local Interest

Executive Had Communicated with Congressman on Subject

Some days ago Mayor Stone got into communication with Congressman Curley relative to the passage of the Naval appropriation bill, the Mayor's interest being that the Fore River Ship Building Co. might get the contract for one of the battleships proposed. Yesterday the Mayor received the following telegram from Congressman Curley:

Washington, D. C., July 19th, 1912.

Hon. E. R. Stone,

The meeting of the conferences of House and Senate upon Naval Appropriation Bills, came to a close this evening it being found hopeless to agree upon the Battleship program A caucus of House Democrats will now be called to consider rescinding previous action as to Battleship. The situation is now distinctly favorable to your interest.

James M. Curley.

To this the Mayor replied:

Quincy, Mass., July 20, 1912.

Congressman James M. Curley, Washington, D. C.

Your telegram received. Thank you very much for the same. The citizens of Quincy will be pleased to know that situation is favorable.

Eugene R. Stone.

Miss Clara Day of Elmwood avenue was the guest the first of the week of Mrs. Harry Thayer who is summering at the Vernakin Inn, Nantasket.

The lawn party which the members of the Woman's Relief Corps contemplated holding on Wednesday of this week was postponed until a later date.

Mrs. Charles H. Sprague, who is summering at Bayside, was the guest the first of the week of her father Elisha Thayer of Crescent avenue.

Miss Ruth Call of Atlantic spent last week with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. William M. Call of Williams avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. H. Bailey and Joseph G. Bailey of Union street are at the Marston house, Wiscasset, Me., for a few weeks.

Capt. James T. Stevens last Wednesday took a party of G. A. R. friends in his car to Ridge Hill grove, Norwell, thus enabling them to attend the Plymouth County Association Convention. Those in the party were Town Clerk Henry A. Monk, James M. Foster, Morris Gurney, George F. Hussey, Henry B. Whitman and Captain Stevens.

The friends of Miss Marguerite Murphy will hold an open air festival on the grounds of Edward Messervey, corner of Washington and Franklin streets, Thursday evening, July 25. Those conducting the affair promise that there will be a most enjoyable evening.

Jabez S. Dyer, a former South Braintree citizen, and well known to the people of Braintree, is now manager of the Cape Cod Steamship Company plying between Boston and Provincetown. Mr. Dyer was for many years buyer for Winch Bros., Company, Boston, and his many friends in and around Boston will be pleased to know of this position of unusual prominence which he has obtained.

JOHN CRONIN BURIED.

The funeral of John Cronin, was held this morning from his late residence, 30 Barry street, West Quincy. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock by Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe, an intimate friend of the deceased, and pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic.

Seated within the sanctuary was Rev. Fr. William J. Casey of Malden.

Many relatives and friends attended the services together with a delegation from Court John Adams No. 144, Foresters of America, of which Mr. Cronin was one of the oldest members, City officials and co-workers of the deceased in the employ of the city.

The musical portion of the mass was the Gregorian chant, rendered by the regular choir, under direction of Miss Frances Cronin, organist. Mrs. James L. Fennessey sang the "Domine" at the offertory and the "Pie Jesu" after the libera.

The pall bearers were Cornelius Driscoll, John Fitzgerald, John J. Fitzgerald, William Fitzgerald, James Dunn and William Saville. The floral tributes were numerous.

CHAIN PINNED HIM TO DECK

Seaman on Maine Vessel Held Thus Two Hours

INJURED INTERNALLY

Lewis Sampson, aged about 20 years a seaman on the schooner Itasca lying off North Weymouth with a load of lumber from Maine was seriously injured Friday afternoon when a heavy anchor chain fell on him. The crew of the schooner were all away, the mate on shore and the captain asleep in his cabin, and unable to render any assistance. Suddenly Sampson noticed that the vessel was drifting and he attempted to shift the anchor. In doing so he slipped on the deck and the heavy chain fell upon him pinning him to the deck. In this condition he lay for nearly two hours before help arrived. He was then taken ashore where summer residents became interested in the case and called Dr. Middleton who found the young man so seriously internally injured that he ordered his removal to the Marine hospital at Chelsea, where he was taken in one of Penniman's automobiles.

The young man's mother is said to be dead while his father is in the Philippines and he really has no home.

Mrs. Levina R. Holbrook of Holbrook avenue is making arrangements to spend two weeks in August in Brooklyn, where she will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Martha Wilson and her niece, Mrs. Charles Short.

WOLLASTON YACHT CLUB LIVED UP TO WELL EARNED REPUTATION

Annual Ladies' Day Brilliant Success in All Its Details Enjoyed by Hundreds

Sailing, Lunching and Dancing Kept Every One on the Move

With bunting and banners flying merrily in the breeze and gates wide open the Wollaston Yacht club beckoned a welcome to the hundreds of guests who were entertained at the annual ladies' day on Saturday.

The members were bravely attired in natty yachting costume and left nothing undone that would add to the comfort and enjoyment of their guests.

Early in the afternoon the gentlemen and their fair friends began to assemble and by the time the boats mere manned both of the broad piazzas were packed with a jolly crowd of large proportions.

The preparatory gun boomed its welcome signal across the water at 3.45 and five minutes later the signal for starting was given for the fleet parade.

Weather conditions were ideal with a comfortable temperature, a fair sky over head and a spanking off shore breeze that sent a dash of spray over the unwary one.

The boats made a pretty sight as they passed in review of the flagship, Sphinx, with Commodore E. A. Bean and his crew aboard, laying their course to the red spar buoy off Nut Island and returning to the club house.

Owing to the Interclub races at Winthrop some of the sailing yachts were absent but a large fleet of motor boats accommodated all those who desired to take the trip.

The exterior of the club house was handsomely decorated, bunting and yachting pennants being used in profusion. Conspicuous were the club ensign and a large shield emblazoned with the Wollaston initial.

The yachting arrangements were perfect, being in charge of the regatta committee consisting of Herbert C. Seymour, chairman Irving L. Blossom, and Harry Linnell.

During the afternoon Provost's orchestra rendered a selected program which added to the pleasure of the day and was especially appreciated by those who did not avail themselves of the sail.

At six o'clock the doors of the hall were thrown open and a hearty supper was served. The large crowd made it necessary for several relays and in all over 560 people were accommodated.

Although some were forced to await their turn at the table much was said in praise of the entertainment committee who labored unceasingly in their efforts to feed the large crowd.

The wants of the diners were deftly attended to by a corps of young ladies attractively attired in white and headed by Miss Irene Potterton.

They were Misses Ramona Metcalf, Annabel Marr, Gertrude Pletsch, Ethel Hatfield, Dorothy Kingsbury, Bertha Hanes and Clara Coombs.

Composing the entertainment committee were A. N. Potterton chairman, Charles Dill, George Sherman, John J. Joyce, Thomas H. Irving and Fred P. Hill.

The closing feature of the day came with the social dancing of the evening in which a large number of those present joined.

All of the progam's events proved most enjoyable and the club lived up to its well sustained reputation for open handed hospitality.

The yachts and their passengers included the following:

Flagship Sphinx—Commodore E. A. Bean; Ernest S. Woodsum, Miss Susan P. Rice, Mrs. Harry L. Linnell, Mrs. F. H. Raymond, Mrs. A. N. Potterton, Mr. and Mrs. Ford, Joseph Smith, Mrs. Elmer and children.

QUIET GAME BROKEN UP

By the Unexpected Arrival of the Police Officers

WHO WERE AFTER LIQUOR

The house at 29 Winter street was visited shortly after noon Sunday by Inspector Goodhue and Officer Johnson armed with a warrant to search for liquor but instead they found a gambling game in full swing as a result of which ten men were arrested. Inspector Goodhue went to the front door and Officer Johnson to the rear door. The gang heard Inspector Goodhue at the door and made a rush for the rear entrance where they ran into the arms of Officer Johnson and were driven back. Then there was a scramble to get out of the windows but this also was prevented. The police auto which was near at hand took the following to the police station, where they were bailed later by friends.

Michael Abraham, Saad Joseph, Ferris Abdhale and Louis Abraham all of 29 Winter street, who were charged with taking part in a game on the Lord's day and Joseph Abrhams, Michael Charlie, Jose Ferris, Sam Hasson, Simon Hassan of 29 Winter street and Joseph Moses of Sumner street for being present at a game. They were all arraigned in court this morning.

BOARD OF TRADE INSPECTION TRIP

All Arrangements for Visit to Many Business Plants

DINNER ENDS PROGRAM

President Hearn of the Board of Trade has laid out the route for the trip of inspection of some of the industries of the city which the Board of Trade is to take next Wednesday. The route is a long one and the stops allowed at the different plants much too brief to allow more than a passing glance. At many of the places scheduled to visit an hour or more could be well spent but only ten or fifteen minutes have been allowed, and even then it is doubtful if the schedule can be carried out as to time.

Leaving the rooms of the Board of Trade at 12.30 the first stop is at the Boston Gear Works plant at Norfolk Downs. Twenty-five minutes is allowed here. The time for arrival at other plants is as follows: Couch Telephone Co., 1.40; Robbins Iron Co., 2 o'clock; Wollaston Foundry, 2.30; Pneumatic Scale Co., 2.45; from here the party goes to what is known as the North Common to visit the granite quarries. Reaching the Hitchcock quarry at 2.55 the party will pass down Quarry street, 35 minutes being allowed for inspection of the various quarries.

The plant of the Quincy Column Turning Co. on Water street will be reached at 3.50 and the sheds of John L. Miller at 4 o'clock. From here the party goes to the Fore River Shipyard where they are due at 4.10. Thirty-five minutes is allowed for an inspection of this plant.

From here the party go to the power house of the Street railway at Quincy Point thence along the shore front visiting the Baker Yacht Basin, plant of the Quincy Electric Light & Power Co., where they will arrive at a little after 5 o'clock. From here they go to Norteman's at Houghs Neck for dinner where they are due to arrive at 5.45.

CARVING SET TO NEWLY WEDS

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Home Invaded by Kind Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Francis of 69 Goddard street were treated to a genuine surprise Friday evening, when about thirty of the young people of the Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church surprised them at their home. The party met at Common street about 7.30 and proceeded to South Quincy where they were met by others and from there went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis, who had been kept in ignorance of the plans of the young people and were being entertained at the time by Mr. Francis' sister.

After the greetings had been exchanged Miss Helen Martin fourth vice president of the Epworth League in a few well chosen words presented Mr. and Mrs. Francis with a beautiful carving set on behalf of the League. Mr. and Mrs. Francis both responded thanking the League and the young people for their kind remembrance. The evening was spent in playing games. Ice cream and cake were served by Miss Helen Martin and the evening passed pleasantly.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis were married June 26th at Somerville. They were both popular West Quincy people and have a host of friends. Mr. Francis has been president of the Epworth League for five consecutive years and Mrs. Francis is now third vice president having held other offices in the League as well. They have always been deeply interested in the work of the League and the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis are very grateful to their many friends for their many kindnesses to them.

YACHT CLUB NEEDS FELT

By Owners of Craft at Squantum With Fleet of 25

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS

The second assembly at the Squantum Inn was held Saturday night, with forty couples present. Ahearn's orchestra of Boston, furnished music. Those in charge of the affair were: Robert Adams, Edward Carlson, James Allen and Joseph Allen. The next assembly will be August 3d.

Four handsome motor boats have been added to the flotilla of Squantum yachts of which there is now a fleet of about 25. The demands of a yacht club are greatly felt and some means of securing a landing float are being talked earnestly among the yachtsmen. J. H. Jepson has just received a handsome 25-foot cabin boat from Pawtucket, R. I., and it is anchored off his bungalow on Bayside road. Peter Curley has moved his 28-foot open boat from South Boston to an anchorage off the Curley cottage on Bayside road. T. J. Harper has a fine 28-foot cabin boat which he has just added to the Squantum fleet of power boats. Harry Bickford has moved his fine cruising motor boat from Beachmont to Squantum and is getting it ready for some cruising this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sumner of Agawam street are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Sumner and their two children, Charles and Gertrude of Jersey City at their summer cottage for two weeks.

Miss Muriel Frank is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Arthur Brigham at the Brigham bungalow on Bayside road.

The rains of the past week have done a wonderful work for gardens of this section and some of the finest crops of garden vegetables ever raised by Squantum people are about to be harvested.

President C. E. Carlson of the Squantum Improvement association has sent every member two application cards for new members in an effort to increase the membership of the association from its present number of 90 to 150 or more.

Complaints have been made that the 10.25 car from Neponset has not been waiting for the 10.35 train from Boston nights. The matter has been taken up by the street car committee of the Squantum Improvement association in an effort to have Superintendent Gammons hold this car as it means a great improvement in the night service to Squantum.

WORKMAN FELL FROM STAGING

At Fore River Yard, And Was Quite Shaken Up

SENT TO HOSPITAL

James Piere, one of the workmen at the Fore River Shipyard received a bad fall this morning. Fortunately no bones were broken although he received a general shaking up. He was at work on a staging on the Argentina battleship Rividavia when he lost his balance and fell to the deck. He was taken to the Red Cross hospital in the yard where it was found that he had escaped having any bones fractured. As he has no home, being a boarder at 18 Maine street, it was deemed best to send him to the City Hospital where he was taken in the police ambulance.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Smith of Washington street left Saturday for a two weeks' vacation at Loirento, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Glidden of Cleverly court leave this week for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will make their home and where Mr. Glidden is to engage in the insurance business.

MOTHER AND CHILD BURNED FATHER TEMPORARILY INSANE

Other Occupants of Milton House Narrowly Escaped Death in the Blaze

Roos Made Frantic Efforts to Reach Wife and Child

One of the most serious fires in the history of Milton occurred early Sunday morning when the house of Jelle Roos at 187 Reedsdale road was burned and Mrs. Roos and her three weeks old infant daughter May Bella were suffocated. Albert Balcomb aged 60 years and his sister Miss Elizabeth who lived on the street floor of the house were driven into the street in their night clothes.

Mr. Roos, husband of the dead woman was rescued but became almost insane on learning that his wife had lost her life and had to be taken in charge by the police.

Edward McCormick aged 45 years, night man at the car barn, was the hero of the fire. Mr. McCormick smelled smoke and looking about to see where it came from discovered the fire. Rushing up stairs he used all the force he could command to break in the oak door. Rushing in he aroused Mr. Balcomb and his sister and hurried them into the street. Learning that there was a family up stairs he yelled at the top of his voice and finally aroused Mr. Roos who came to the window. Finding what the trouble was he became greatly excited and rushed to his wife's room but was driven back by the heat. Mr. McCormick securing a ladder at the car barn raised it to the window and succeeded in getting Mr. Ross out. He however attempted to go back after his wife and it was not until the police arrived that he was restrained. He was nearly insane from grief and was taken in charge by the police.

It was some time before the firemen and police were able to enter the room of Mrs. Ross and then they found her with her infant in her arms on the the floor. It was evident that she had tried to escape but was unable to. It also appeared that the fire had evidently started in the closet in the room occupied by Mrs. Roos. Roos.

The house was quite badly damaged by the fire the Chief Choate estimating the loss at $1,000 on the building and $1,500 on contents.

EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The "Portland Pilgrims" are all present and accounted for.

No wonder the Tell City, Ind., man who ate 24 Sundaes in 18 minutes is fat.

Even King George and his queen have a wholesome fear of the militant suffragettes.

Postmaster Hitchcock was as thorough a campaign manager as he has proved in the cabinet position.

That was a pretty stiff statement of even an attorney, that "the elevated railroad controls the Boston Municipal courts.

Well of all meanness. Queensborough of New York would tax funerals for the wear and tear on the roads.

Dr. Wiley as a writer on the care of children can claim more experience than the old maid magazine writers on the same subject.

Would Mr. Griffin's two tailed cat come under the extermination warfare of the Animal Rescue league, or be preserved as a scientific specimen?

The Wollaston Yacht club was more fortunate than its neighbor in weather conditions for ladies' day, but they both framed up well on the sociability programme.

Now that it seems probable that Congressman McCall will run for Governor will William J. Bryan get after him for that "headlight on behind" poetry.

The "Is" are "Worrying" the "Workers" again.

A Boston widow jumping at the steamers whistle lost her teeth overboard and was forced to postpone her trip. Shame on her and from Boston too to manifest such lack of self-control.

China has again turned to the United States for brains to assist in solving her financial problems. For nearly 40 years Mr. Foster, an American, was the able adviser of the Celestial empire.

What would some of the members of Congress do for speech material if they did not have the overburdened rich class to assail every once in a while. But for all this bombast and Congressional record page filling things seem to go on just the same old way.

The inmate of an insane asylum, daffy only on one subject, showing a visitor over the grounds, pointed to the largest building as the hotel of which he was sole proprietor, with the remark, "but only a fool would live there." His clouded intellect had that one bright spot left in it.

And speaking of animals all the white people are planning means of extermination of one specie. Other people are as diligently trying to trace and resurrect some specimen of an extinct specie.

"Suggestion to newspapers: Why not compare New York to some western mining camp?" No comparison at all. New York would lose. In the mining camp belligerents at an equal chance when it came to weapons. The only advantages lay in the "drawing" ability of the successful one.

MANAGERS TESTIFY.

What a difference between the testimony of Frank Hitchcock the Taft campaign manager and George B. Cortelyou, the Roosevelt manager upon the stand before the congressional campaign investigation committee.

Cortelyou was bothered by a lapse of memory which was most remarkable in its thoroughness. He could not remember subscribers names or the amounts they posted to help along the cause.

Hitchcock on the contrary not only told the names of subscribers, the amounts of their subscriptions and the man whose mite of $20,000 was refused, but rather startled the serenity of the committee by declaring he could show them books detailing every item of expenditure of the fund. There is no occasion for drawing painful comparisons. The evidence of the two men speaks for itself.

This does not alter the fact however that campaigns are getting to be too costly. How is a remedy to be effected? That is a difficult question to answer.

Certainly no reduction can be looked for while the present primary law is in existence because it cannot help adding to the expense of candidates and yet we are told of the law on the statute books which limits the amount of money candidates can expend. This law as prepared is the result of a tremendous waste of time by the legislators because they knew very well from the start that such a law could never be enforced and even if an attempt was made to accomplish enforcement plenty means of evasion would be discovered. What is needed more than anything else is simple caucus and election laws, drawn along plain common sense lines, and not by lawyers who have en eye on the possibilities of evasion as well as enactment of such measures.

OPPOSE THE I. W. W.

Organizers of the Industrial Workers of the World have been conspicuous in Lynn for some time. It is claimed that they have endeavored to conceal their real object which is reported to be organization of branches in that city for the purpose of precipatiting an industrial strike there. Lynn has been the scene of many strikes. Only a short time ago there was a strike in one of the shoe factories. It was given out at the time that many of the Lynn manufacturers planned to remove their plants to other locations. If this was done it would prove a death blow to the commercial prosperity of the city, a check to its growth and possibly might mean a retrograde movement.

Rev. Fr. Lyons, a Catholic priest warned his parishioners of the object of the I. W. W. organizers and advised his people to keep away from the meetings and have nothing to do with any movement which this organization inaugurated. The Catholic clergy in all parts of the country have been outspoken in their condemnation of socialism and the principles of that organization. But this is the first time in the east at least, that a Catholic priest has denounced the Industrial Workers of the World.

GOING FAR AFIELD.

Condemnation of the system which permits such bare faced murders as that committed in New York this week should be universal. There does not appear to be any excuse for them. Failure to round up the guilty parties, bring them to justice and stamp out root and branch any germ which may be conducive to another growth of such economic disease would be a blasting blot upon the history of New York.

But while here in the east there is a cry for reform, and especially from Boston, is there not reason for reforms of many kinds in the way things are conducted in the Hub. It is not necessary to specify.

Incidents crop up every day, which show that reforms are needed. That graft and crime of certain kinds are permitted to exist seems to be well established.

O course street murder has not been entered in the catalogue as yet. But how long before it would loom up as a grim spectre in case some should decide to squeal about the "system?" There are chances for reform in many New England cities. And evidence of the existing looseness in some directions is noticeable on the streets any day or night.

ACKNOWLEDGE IT

Quincy Has to Bow to the Inevitable Scores of Endorsements Prove it.

After reading the public statement of this fellow-sufferer given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:

J. Fortin, Montello St., Brockton, Mass., says: "I was troubled for over two years by attacks of backache. If I arose from a sitting position or stood any length of time, I was caused great pain. There was a feeling of weariness present and if I did a hard day's work, I was bothered by Lameness and soreness across my back. I finally saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, for such complaints and I got a box and began their use according to directions. They went directly to the seat of my complaint, relieving me of severe backaches and restoring me to good health. It has given me pleasure to recommend this remedy on several occasions." (Statement given June 13, 1905.)

A SECOND STATEMENT.

On July 26, 1911, Mr. Fortin was interviewed and he said: "I willingly verily my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. You may continue to use my reference, as the relief this remedy brought me has been permanent."

ROXBURY YOUTHS INDULGE IN HIGH JINKS AT HOUGHS NECK

Emboldened by Success Extend Operations, Which Resulted in Their Undoing

Nine Rounded Up by Police After Long and Exciting Chase

Nine Roxbury youths were rounded up by the police late Saturday night at Houghs Neck charged with disturbing the peace. It was only after an hour's chase however by the police auto that they were apprehended. According to the police the boys kept everybody at the beach awake Saturday night with their singing, shouting and profanity. They first made their appearance in a lunch wagon on Sea street, shortly after midnight. Here the proprietor claims that they stole their food and were put out. They then strolled up Sea street singing loudly, banging blinds, tipping over signs and making themselves generally a nuisance. Officers Canavan and Black gave chase but the boys fled toward Quincy. The police station was notified and the auto with a load of officers sent down.

The boys thinking that the chase had been given up, became even more of a nuisance and began to trample down flower gardens and tipping over everything on which they could lay their hands.

The gang was finally surrounded by Officers Black, Ganavan, Holloran, Cahill and Broberg. They were about to tip over a yacht, that had been hoisted on a pair of horses in a back yard when they spotted the officers.

Then they tried to get away but were unable to do so and after a lively chase the gang was rounded up and loaded into the patrol wagon and taken to the police station. Here they gave their names and address as follows: John Hayes, 23 Faxon street, Justin McCarthy, 2 Parker street, William McIntosh, 61 Terrace street, James Doyle 144 Ruggles street, John Gleason 458 Tremont street, Christopher Gill 19 Conant street, John Powers 3 Burney street, all of Roxbury and John J. Finn of Sea street, Houghs Neck. The young men all appeared in court this morning.

GOLF.

In the Essex county golf championship tournament Saturday, M. W. Dewart of the Wollaston Golf club, with a handicap of 15, won the semi final of the third sixteen from J. A. Wheeler, Jr., of Lexington with a handicap of 10 by two up.

In the finals of the same group, Mr. Dewart defeated O. W. Neslon, of Brae Burn, with a handicap of 17, one up.

YACHTSMEN DANCED.

The weekly dancing party of the Squantum Yacht club was well patronized on Saturday evening. The popularity of this event among the young people is testified by the many who attend from all sections of the city.

FLOATING HOSPITAL.

The Boston Floating hospital after its cruise in Boston bay, Saturday afternoon, sailed up around Quincy bay and came to anchor off Houghs Neck for a short time to give those on board a chance to view the beauties of Quincy and the surroundings.

Next Saturday will be William B. Rice day, provided by Mrs. William B. Rice of Quincy, in memory of her husband.

PORTLAND PILGRIMS

Two Stories of the Trip. One Certainly Fiction

THE OTHER ONE IS FACT

The annual personally conducted trip to Portland by a number of the members of the Granite City club was held Saturday. The party took the Saturday night boat for Portland arriving in the city in the early morning. After breakfast at the Congress Square hotel the party separated for a time some going to Peaks Island and others taking a trolley ride about the city under the personal guidance of Edward Graham, formerly of Quincy and a son of John R Graham one of Quincy's pioneer street railway men who is now president of practically all of the street railway lines in the state of Maine Mr. Graham holds a responsible position on the Portland division of his father's lines. Although it rained hard during the sight seeing trips they were none the less enjoyable. At 2 o'clock cars were taken for Scarborough, about half way to Old Orchard where an elegant shore dinner was served. Returning from dinner the party made the Congress Square their headquarters until time to take the night boat for home. It was exceedingly rough on the water during the night and the boat pitched and rolled considerable but as the Granite City boys are good sailors no one of the party experienced any touch of sea sickness. The boat was a little late in arriving in Boston but the party were able to reach Quincy in time for the days business.

The foregoing "fish story" of the trip was timidly handed into the office at an early hour this morning by one of the pilgrims, who looked as though therem ight be some need of revising the "yarn." If he was not sea sick, he was very "near it."

A passenger on the boat of undoubted integrity has announced that he is ready to either affirm or take oath, that while the Pilgrims were heroes, they would never under any form of disguise be taken for sailors.

The scene along the ships rail both coming and going is described as infinitely painful.

The way of the steamer was impeded from deck to deck by the hungry fish which followed not only in the wake, but fore and aft and all around. In fact they were doing a regular eight handed reel around the craft.

Two man eating sharps escorted the steamers to and from Boston Light to Casco Bay.

With this brief explanation the readers are privileged to digest as much of the highly colored effusion presented by the poet laureate of the Pilgrims, whose views and visions were discolored by constant gazing upon the "waters," as they deem advisable. However it is just as well to draw a veil over the whole incident and look for more G. Washington truthfulness on the next trip.

LOOSE BY COMPARISON

With Canada in Speech According to Miss Mabel E. Adams

Miss Mabel E. Adams, who made an extended auto trip through the lower Canadian Provinces last summer, has an interesting article in a New York magazine under the title "Canadian Speech to the New England Ear," in which she draws comparisons between the speech heard across the border and that heard on this side, to the advantage of the former. She says that the English heard in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, class for class, arranged better than that heard in New England in enunciation, choice of words and grammatical accuracy.

"Never once in the provinces," says the writer "were our ears insulted by the blackguardly "See?" and "Sure" with which they were assailed with increasing frequency as we worked our way westward on our return."

As reasons for the alleged superiority of speech in the provinces, Miss Adams assigns the homogenity of the population and the disposition on the part of the Canadian people to conform to established standards in political, social and religious life. Such conformity, she asserts, "cannot but be reflected in a people's speech."

The article then proceeds as follows: "After homogenity and willingness to conform to standards, I place the blessed absence of the outrageous newspapers of our cities, with their abominable pictured stories, trying to be funny, and only succeeding in being disgusting, stories which put into printed form and help to preserve the crudest and worst faults of our venacular and aid to perpetuate our most senseless slang. I sincerely believe that the "funny" pictures of our daily papers depress the average of our daily speech more than our public schools can possibly raise it."

Miss Adams says that this Provincial superiority of speech does not persist after transplanting; that the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick children in our public elementary schools lose all trace of it in one term and that their parents at the end of a year cannot be distinguished from their Yankee neighbors.

Miss Adams is well known to Ledger readers, being a Quincy girl and a graduate of our High school. She is also a graduate of Radcliffe college and a teacher in the Horace Mann school of Boston. At present she is in Europe on a tour.

For several years Miss Adams represented Ward Three on the School Committee and on her removal from Quincy was succeeded by the present Chairman of the Board Mr. J. L. Miller who is also a trenchant writer.

NEWLY WEDS SURPRISED

Factory Mates Visit Harry M. Drake and Wife

MOST DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

The foreman of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Co. of Brockton made a call Saturday evening on one of their fellow foremen, Harry M. Drake, in honor of his recent marriage to Miss Marie Frances Gardner of Brooklyn, N. Y., at his summer home 220 Ocean avenue, North Weymouth.

The guests assembled at the Quincy station at 7.25 o'clock and were met and entertained by Thomas Doyle chairman of the reception committee.

Mr. Doyle had ten touring cars in readiness and the guests were taken around the city for a brief inspection before starting for North Weymouth.

Although the visit was a total surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Drake the reception committee had made all necessary arrangements for a pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake received the guests on their spacious veranda which was brilliantly lighted for the occasion with red, white, and blue lights and Chinese lanterns with Old Glory in the back ground, by the decorating committee, David Wolfe, William Hesselton and William Keeman, during Mr. Drakes absence uptown.

John J. Daly chairman of the Holbrook School committee was "Toastmaster" and to say that there were no dull moments was putting it mild.

Alice C. Allen of Brockton was the accompanist for the evening.

Vocal selections were rendered by Jen T. Daly, H. T. Drake, John Reilly, F. C. Kingman, Fred Wakeling, Mrs. H. M. Drake, Mrs. J. T. Daly, and Mrs. F. E. Drake, buck and wing dancing by Frank Supple of Roxbury, readings by John Clapp, John Maccurach, Frank Noel, John Danehy, Charles Tirrell and Howard Doane.

At about 10.30 o'clock the guests repaired to the dining room which had been put in readiness by the following refreshment committee: Edward Chandler, M. Williams, Mr. Tinkham, H. L. Whitcomb, B. Bartlett, Edward Clish, Charles W. Fuller and George Cower with the assistance of Caterer Williams of Brockton. During the intermission between the courses Peter Monaghan stepped forward and with wisely chosen and gracefully delivered words presented Mr. Drake with a beautiful silver service and tray suitably inscribed in behalf of his fellow foremen. Although stunned for a moment Mr. Drake responded briefly.

Mr. Monaghan then reminded Mrs. Drake that the assembled guests had also remembered her and he presented her with a mammoth bouquet of bridal roses and a basket of delicate sweets. Mrs. Drake assured the guests of her appreciation of the generous gifts and good wishes that were extended to both herself and her husband.

Remarks were made by ex-Mayor F. O. Bradford of Brockton, A. P. Starratt, F. J. McSherry, J. E. Doane, F. C. Sherburne, W. J. MacLean, F. E. Drake and Greene Eaton.

Mr. Drake is foreman of the W. L. Douglas No. 2 Making room and he is very popular with the different foremen in the various departments of the factory.

Before leaving the guests joined in the chorus "Now they are married, How happy they are," before starting for Brockton by way of Holbrook.

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Topics and Announcements For Coming Week

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH

"Take heed to thyself" 1 Tim. 4-16; was the text used by Rev. T. C. Martin at the morning service of the Hall Place M. E. church. Mr. Martin spoke of the various problems arising in the progress of the world which must be solved to the lasting benefits of the world and the people therein and that one way in which this could be brought about was by each one taking heed to his own way and life.

"Individualism, each one controlling himself denying himself, fitly preparing himself for the best there is in him and then helping some one else these will help solve the problems presented by modern conditions. Christ did not always work with the masses, he did not pass by the individual it was rather through the individual that he reached the multitude. So the masses today present too discouraging a problem except by working through the individual, and even as Christ spent many years in preparation before going into the ministry of saving the world so must we each one—prepare themselves for their part of lifting the masses."

Sunday school followed the morning service. In the absence of the superintendent, Alexander Steward who is enjoying a three weeks' vacation, Mr. J. M. Francis, past superintendent, is acting as superintendent.

During the balance of the month of July and through August the Thursday night Prayer meetings will be omitted.

FIRST U. P. CHURCH.

The morning topic at the First United Presbyterian church was: 'The secret of Paul's triumph over all opposing forces." Miss Sadie McDonald sang a solo:—"No Burdens Yonder," which was well rendered. The evening topic was:—"The request of the Greeks of Christs day;"—"Sir, we would see Jesus."

Mr. J. B. Stephenson of Newcastle, England, sang a bass solo—"The Mighty Deep," and did splendidly.

The annual Sabbath school picnic is to be held on Saturday afternoon, July 27th, at Highland Park. Cars will leave Dobles corner at 1.30 A. M. and returning will leave the Park at 6.30 P. M. An enjoyable outing is anticipated.

MRS. SHUNK DEAD.

Mrs. Mertie A. wife, of Gilbert C. Shunk and a well known resident of Wollaston passed away at her home 310 Safford street this morning after an illness of several weeks duration. Mrs. Shunk was well known in Wollaston through her husband who has conducted the local news depot for a number of years. She was a most estimable lady and her family has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their loss. She leaves a husband, her son having died several years ago. Funeral services will be held from her late home Wednesday at 2 o'clock.

ARM BROKEN.

Mrs. E. E. Hoxie who fell down stairs the night of July 7th was more seriously hurt than was at first supposed. The X-ray showed the right arm to be broken at the wrist and elbow. She was taken to the New England Deaconess Hospital but is now at home and getting along as well as could be expected.

BRIEFS

Miss Marietta Larkin of Woburn is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Fayey of Washington street.

Mrs. Emma Lark of Brewers corner returned home from the Quincy Hospital on Thursday much improved in health.

—Ex-Gov. John D. Long is reported ill at his home at Hingham.

BRIEFS

Mrs. George Thayer of Crescent street is visiting relatives at Bangor, Me.

Miss Annie Z. White of Copeland street and Miss Catherine Hussey of the Parkway are spending the vacation season in Portland, Me.

Notices have been posted printed in English and Italian quoting the law relative to the carrying of firearms, stilettos, daggers, dirk-knifes, slingshots, metallic knuckles, etc.

The sewing circle of Quincy Chapter Order of Eastern Star will meet with Mrs. E. R. Higgins, 208 Highland avenue, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bradford of Upland road welcomed a little daughter to their home, born July 17.

Miss Mabel Thompson, daughter of Reco Albert Thompson of Presidents hill, leaves Tuesday for Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, to spend his vacation.

The Bay State Street Railway Company has petitioned the State Board of Railroad Commissioners for authority to issue coupon notes to the amount of $2,000,000 for the purpose of paying or funding its floating indebtedness. The board will give a hearing on the petition on July 24.

Quincy avenue from the toll bridge to Quincy is being re-surfaced by the state at a cost of $3,000 it being a portion of the State Highway. The Bay State street railway is putting in a heavy T rail from the bridge to the top of Watson's hill. It would be a good idea to extend the highway to Quincy square.

The sixth annual outing of the Norfolk County G. A. R. and W. R. C. Associations will be held at Bass Point, July 23, and will include the steamer trip from Boston on the 9.30 and 11 o'clock boats, dinner at the Bass Point House and admission to the Theatorium theatre. Large delegations from the local post and corps are to attend.

Admission of Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty

ARREST 3 MORE WITNESSES

Man In Whose Poker Rooms Rosenthal Murder Plot Was Hatched, Now In Custody—Important Newsboy Witness Held as Well as the Collector of Gunmen—Other Arrests Promised Immediately

New York, July 22.—Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty was asked point blank if he was investigating the interest or connection of Police Lieutenant Charles A. Becker with the events leading up to the murder of Herman Rosenthal. It was at the close of a long interview with newspaper men, in which the whole story of the killing had been gone over once more.

The head of the detective bureau pushed back his chair and looked up with a very serious expression. He thought for a moment, then replied:

"I am investigating everything that has to do with the murder. I am only after the facts, and I'm going to get them. I don't care where they lead me to, I'm going to get them.

"There are certainly some curious coincidences, and somebody will have to do some explaining. Here we have the man Rose hiring a car in which rode the men who killed Rosenthal, who had assailed Becker, and earlier in the night we have the same man Rose very active in behalf of the man Becker in another direction, the getting of the Gilbert affidavit attacking Rosenthal.

"Now, those are the facts, and a farmer chewing a straw in the shadow of his own apple tree can draw his own conclusions."

Louis ("Bridgie") Webber, in whose poker rooms at Forty-Second street and Fifth avenue the final polish was put on the plot to murder Herman Rosenthal, and Sam Paul, gambler and part of the Sam Paul association of Seventh avenue, who helped Bald Jack Rose, Lieutenant Becker's confidant, to collect the gunmen, were arrested last night for murder, and Jack Sullivan, the former newsboy, who went from Lieutenant Becker's automobile to the murder headquarters in "Bridgie" Webber's room, was arrested as a matertial witness.

Sam Paul, short and squat and black-browed, was taken and put through an inquisition that made his hair stand on end.

Dougherty hammered away at the gambler and padrone of gang fighters until Paul sullenly let fly statements that materially advanced the investigation.

As for Jack Sullivan, go-between for Rose and Becker, short work was made of him. He turned and twisted but Dougherty drew from him an admission that the second deputy was after—that when Lieutenant Charles Becker left him at Broadway and Forty-Second street, about 1:30 a. m., or twenty-seven minutes before Rosenthal was shot down, he went to "Bridgie's" poker parlors looking for Sam Paul. He didn't find Paul there. That gangster had been around earlier, also traveling by fast automobile, but he did find some of the men who killed Rosenthal.

For the first time in six days, George S. Dougherty treated himself to a regular smile. Pressed hard as to what developments had caused the arrest of Webber and Paul and Sullivan, the deputy commissioner said simply:

"I will not talk about the details. Material promises have been made. We are not yet willing to say that any of the men under arrests fired a shot, but they know a lot and they have told a lot. There will be arrests tomorrow—important arrests."

Shaw Factory to Reopen

Freeport, Me., July 22.—The business men of Freeport hired the Yarmouth band and had an informal celebration over the news that the C. W. Porter company of Lynn, Mass., would open the Shaw shoe factory today. This is the factory formerly conducted by A. W. Shaw, who was charged with wrecking the plant financially.

Five Dead From Steam

New York, July 22.—With five members of her crew encased in coffins, the Italian steamer Principe Di Piemonte, from Genoa, has arrived. The dead men had been killed by the bursting of a steam pipe. One other man in the engine room was scalded badly.

Fatal Dive

Haverhill, Mass., July 22.—Perley Franks of Methuen was drowned in the Merrimac river, near the Groveland bridge following a dive which he took from the front of his motor boat.

Mother and Baby Fatally Burned

Boston, July 22.—Mrs. Bella Roos and baby were burned to death in their home in Milton. The husband and two others were rescued nearly suffocated.

PLAYGROUND ACTIVITIES

Young People Entering Into the Spirit of Events

WARD FOUR GAINED

Ward Four was the only one of three playgrounds to show a gain in attendance over the first week's record. There were 540 boys and 434 girls, making a total of 974 for the week, a gain of over 300. This was despite the fact that the weather, a circus and a picnic were in opposition.

Ward One had a total of 1,260; 672 being boys and 588 girls.

Ward Three showed the largest loss having a total of 1,165; 675 boys and 490 girls.

Mrs. Hazel Boller, who is in charge of Ward One will be pleased to have volunteers to assist her, especially on Wednesday and Friday mornings and afternoons.

About 75 boys from Wards three and four took a swim in the Y. M. C. A. pool on Thursday afternoon. Of this number nine were taught to swim. This will be a weekly feature of the playground work open to all the boys who take part in the athletic events on these playgrounds.

The older girls of Ward Three, under the guidance of Mrs. Boller and Miss Caldwell enjoyed a trip to the "Dorothy Q" house on Saturday afternoon.

The boys and girls of Wards Three and Four will be more than pleased to see the new swings erected this week. Ward Four is also to get a 20 foot slide which has long been expected.

Ward One—Naps, 1,000; White Sox, 666; Tigers, 500; Senators, 333; Red Sox, 333; Athletics, 000.

Ward Three—Giants, 1,000; Pirates, 1,000; Cubs, 000; Braves, 000.

Ward Four—Harvard, 1,000; Princeton, 500; Dartmouth, 500; Yale, 000.

The events for this week in the all-around championship will be the 75 yard dash and the running high jump.

LABOR CONVENTION

Announcement has been made by Martin T. Joyce, secretary-treasurer of the state branch A. F. of L., that the 27th annual convention of the state labor congress would be held in Fitchburg the week of September 16.

The state convention of the United Association of Plumbers, Gas and Steamfitters and Helpers unions will be held in Salem next Sunday.

PERHAPS?

If the appearance of Richard Olney, 2d, as an aspirant for the Democratic nomination is ratified by the voters in the direct primary, the new 14th district will be added to the doubtful column, although nominally possessing a substantial Republican majority.

STRIKE SETTLED AT HAVERHILL

Operatives Returned to Work This Morning

Haverhill, Mass., July 22.—Local labor difficulties were probably settled this morning, for representatives of the leather remnant dealers met in conference with a committee of the block cutters and announced that they were willing to submit to the demands of the union, including recognition of the I. W. W.

A carload of strikebreakers, who were induced to come here from Nashua with promises of increased wages and steady work, were prevailed upon by the pickets to return to their own city and now court proceedings have been commenced against several manufacturers, charging that they solicited labor without giving notice of the progress of a strike, and court action is to be commenced against them in Peabody and in this city.

The dealers assert that all firms are ready to enter upon an agreement with the union, provided that the cutters report for work Monday. The strike at the Gale Shoe Manufacturing company will also be settled today, the firm having posted notice to the effect that the demands of the striking cutters would be complied with.

Fairy Tales Author Dead

Banchoy, Scotland, July 22.—Andrew Lang, critic, poet and anthropologist, died here yesterday.

HOW ABOUT YOUR PET?

A great many people are honestly and sincerely fond of animal pets. A great many more think they are, but are not. What they mistake for affection is merely selfishness—a desire to possess pets and to use or abuse them at their pleasure. The season is here when the Humane Society and humanely inclined people have a great annual problem to contend with—the tendency of people to abandon their pets—cats and dogs, mainly, when leaving the city on their vacations. Leaving a dog, a cat or a bird to die from starvation, or to be put out of its misery by an official executioner, is a cruelty that cannot be excused. Families which cannot take an animal pet with them when they start on the annual vacation might be able with a little inquiry to give it to somebody. At least they could arrange to have someone care for it until they return.—Milford Gazette.

Norfolk, ss. LAND COURT
vs.
CLIFFORD A. LUCE
and
MABEL R. LUCE.
PETITION TO DISCHARGE MORTGAGE.

Respectfully represents Adelaide M. Tupper of Cambridge, County of Middlesex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, that she is the owner in fee simple absolute of a certain piece or parcel of land in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, aforesaid Commonwealth, called Wollaston, being lot ten (10) in block three (3) as shown on said plan of said section drawn by D. Granger & Son and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, at the end of Book 402, and bounded and described as follows:—Northeasterly on Central Avenue, seventy-five feet; Southeasterly on lot number nine in said block one hundred and twenty-five feet; Southwesterly on lot eight in said block seventy-five feet; and Northwesterly on lot eleven in said block one hundred and twenty-five feet. Containing 9413 square feet. Being premises conveyed to your petitioner by deed of Lafayette G. Blair dated October 21, 1886, and recorded in Norfolk Deeds, Book 584, page 82.

That your petitioner upon the 21st day of October, 1886 conveyed by mortgage deed, for the alleged consideration of one dollar et al, the said estate to Clifford A. Luce, guardian of Emily W. Luce and Mabel R. Luce of Rochester, New York; that your petitioner at the same time gave a note of even date signed by her for the sum of two hundred dollars payable in five years; that the record title is encumbered by said mortgage; that your petitioner has during all this time and still holds full absolute, open undisputed and uninterrupted possession of the said premises under claim of right in fee simple absolute. Said possession being for more than twenty years after the expiration of the time limited in the mortgage for full performance of the condition thereof. Said mortgage is recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 584, Page 83.

That the said defendants never have nor do they now exercise any right in said premises.

That your petitioner has done no acts in recognition of the mortgage note or mortgage deed since it became due.

That the Statute of Limitations bars action as against both the mortgage note and mortgage deed.

WHEREFORE your petitioner prays that the said mortgage be discharged and for such further relief as the Honorable Court may deem proper.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Elnora is delighted with her outfit. Her mother says she must pay for it. Wesley and Margaret Sinton discuss the girl's affairs.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Free helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Leverins.

"It would be a pity to travel so far in this dust and heat for nothing. I'll only be gone a second."

Elnora set the pitcher before her mother. "Please serve this," she said. "Miss Carr wishes to speak with me."

The girl slowly and gravely walked back to the willow.

"Will you be seated?" she asked politely.

Edith Carr glanced at the bench, while a shudder shook her.

"No. I prefer to stand," she said. "Did Mr. Ammon give you the ring you are wearing, and do you consider yourself engaged to him?"

"By what right do you ask such personal questions as those?" inquired Elnora.

"By the right of a betrothed wife. I have been promised to Philip Ammon ever since I wore short skirts. All our lives we have expected to marry. An agreement of years cannot be broken in one insane moment. Always he has loved me devotedly. Give me ten minutes with him and he will be mine for all time."

"I seriously doubt that," said Elnora. "But I am perfectly willing that you should make the test. I will call him."

"Stop!" commanded Edith Carr. "I told you that it was you I came to see."

"I remember," said Elnora.

"Mr. Ammon is my betrothed," continued Edith Carr. "I expect to take him back to Chicago with me."

"Then it is untrue that you twice rejected his ring, repeatedly insulted him and publicly renounced him?"

"That was through you!" cried Edith Carr. "I realize the spell of this place for a summer season. I can see just how you have worked to ensnare him!"

"Men would call that lying," said Elnora calmly. "The second time I met Philip Ammon he told me of his engagement to you, and I respected it. When he left me I did not hope or expect to see him again." Elnora's voice fell soft and low. "And, behold, you sent him—and free!"

"You exult in that!" cried Edith Carr. "Let me tell you he is not free! If he married you before a month you would read heart hunger for me in his eyes. He could not love me as he has done and give me up for a little scene like that!"

"You killed his love everlastingly when you disgraced him in public," said Elnora. "Killed it so completely he does not even feel resentment toward you."

Edith Carr stood truly regal and filled with scorn. "You are mistaken! Nothing on earth could kill that!" she cried, and Elnora saw that the girl really believed what she said.

"You are very sure of yourself!" said Elnora.

"I have reason to be sure," answered Edith Carr. "We have lived and loved too long. I have had years with him to match against your days. He is mine! His work, his ambitions, his friends, his place in society are with me. You may have a summer charm for a sick man in the country. If he tried placing you in society you would put him to shame in a week."

"I hardly think I should follow your example so far," said Elnora dryly. "I have a feeling for Philip that would prevent my hurting him purposely either in public or private. As for managing a social career for him he never mentioned that he desired such a thing. What he asked of me was that I should be his wife. I understood that to mean that he desired me to keep him a clean house, serve him digestible food, mother his children and give him loving sympathy and tenderness."

"Such vulgarity!" panted Edith Carr. "How can a man like Ammon endure it? You know perfectly that if your puny hold on him were broken, if he were back in his home among his friends and where he was meeting me, in one little week he would be mine again as he always has been."

"That will do!" said Elnora. "I shall not act until I know there will be nothing to regret. I have decided on my course. You may return to your friends."

"What do you mean?" demanded Edith Carr.

"That is my affair," replied Elnora. "Only this: When your opportunity comes, seize it! Any time you are in Philip Ammon's presence, exert the charms of which you boast and take him. Take him to Onabasha and to Chicago with you. Use every art you possess. If the old charm can be revived I will be the first to wish both of you well. Now, I must return to my guests. Kindly excuse me."

Elnora turned and went back to the arbor. Edith Carr followed the fence and passed through the gate into the west woods where she asked Henderson if the car was ready. As she stood near him she whispered, "Take Phil back to Onabasha with us."

"I say, Ammon, can't you go to the city with us and help me find a shop where I can get this pinion fixed?" asked Henderson. "We want to lunch and start back by 5. That will get us home by midnight."

Philip went into the arbor.

"Elnora," he said. "Henderson is in

"I want a minute with you," said Miss Carr.

trouble with his automobile. He wants me to go to Onabasha with him to show him where the doctor lives and help him get fixed so he can start back this evening. It will take about two hours. May I go?"

"Of course you must go," she said, laughing lightly. "You can't leave your sister. Why don't you go back to Chicago with them? There is plenty of room, and you could have a fine visit."

"I'll be back in just two hours," said Ammon. "While I am gone you be thinking over what we were talking of when the folks came."

Elnora offered her hand to all of them, and when she came to Ammon she gave him one long steady look in the eyes, then shook hands with him also.

When Philip returned to the Limberlost Elnora was gone. There was a note for him, saying that even her mother did not know where she had sought refuge. On or before the 1st of September, she wrote, she would let him know where she was and her decision. Philip, deeply disappointed, returned to Chicago. There Edith Carr, in a meeting at which Philip's father was present, begged his forgiveness, told him she had always loved him and asked for his love again. But he told her any love he had ever had for her was dead. He was going back to the Limberlost, he said.

Elnora, feeling the need of rest, went to the summer home of the Angel and Freckles, on Mackinac island, and received a warm welcome from Mr. and Mrs. O'More and their four young children.

CONGRESSMEN VISIT WILSON

Sea Girt Scene of a Most Unique Gathering

PLEDGE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

Champ Clark Leads the Pilgrimage to Governor's Summer Cottage—Visitation Firt of Its Kind In History and 116 Participated—Speaker's Friends Invite Wilson to Visit Missouri and Speak

Sea Girt, N. J., July 22.—Champ Clark, speaker of the house, led his followers along the dusty roads of Sea Girt to Governor Wilson's summer home.

They came, 116 strong, from the house of representatives in a special train from Washington to shake hands with the nominee and bid him godspeed for the presidency.

It was the first time in the history of the United States that Democrats or Republicans in congress had quit their work to dash across the country and hail their party standard-bearer.

Governor Wilson met them half way down the walk. The tail of the long double column had to stop and mark time while he greeted the head. While the speaker smiled grimly and the governor beamed his pleasure, the marchers behind craned their necks to see what was going on in front and pressed forward so firmly that the governor escorted Mr. Clark to the wide poarch, where he completed the welcome by grasping every pilgrim by the hand.

Mr. Clark told the governor that they had come to see him and wish him well, and that they had brought along their autographs in a little book to remind him some day that the Democratic majority of the house had closed up office and traveled down to Sea Girt to get acquainted with the next president. Woud he please take it?

The governor was quite confused for a moment as he looked over the crowd of expectant faces on his lawn and started to speak, only to be cut short by a hearty cheer.

At length the governor told them that he would treasure the book as greatly as he welcomed their coming; that he hoped this visit was the beginning of a long acquaintance.

One way for a president to get along with the house of representatives, the governor said, was not to keep in close and intimate touch with its members, but to be concerned in its deliberations only. That would not be his way. He greeted them as his partners and comrades in a solemn duty which they all owed to the American people.

The guests were all served with punch—without a stimulating ingredient in it—and with cake, on the lawn. After they had all greeted the governor and many had gone to the train, Representatives Rubey of Missouri and Francis of Ohio came up to say good-by.

"Every Missouri representative in Washington came up to say how do," Mr. Rubey told him. "There isn't any feeling now in Missouri against you. We wanted Champ Clark to win, but we don't hold it against you because he did not, and we want you to come out to our state and make a speech when you can."

"The day was one of the most delightful I have ever experienced," the governor said. "It was very gratifying to have so large a representation of Democratic members of congress make the visit to Sea Girt. I am told that the occasion is unique in American history, and for that reason it was the more appreciated."

COMPROMISE REJECTED

Mill Men Refuse to Enter Ministers' Strike Conference

New Bedford, Mass., July 22.—The first week of the textile strike ended with every prospect of a protracted struggle between the operatives and the manufacturers.

All efforts to bring about a settlement of the strike by the New Bedford Ministerial association failed. The organization succeeded in winning a promise from the Weavers' union to confer with the manufacturers, only to find that the mill men were not willing to participate in such a conference.

With matters standing thus between the operatives and the manufacturers it was learned that the stationary firemen of the city may strike. Their union is affiliated with the textile council. Definite action will be taken by the firemen at a meeting today.

Today, also the Industrial Workers of the World began to be considered more of a factor in the strike. The membership of that organization has increased to 7500 and its officials say that now, no matter what action may be taken by the A. F. of L., they will not consider the strike ended until the manufacturers have acceded to all of their demands.

FINNISH CHURCH PASTOR ACTIVE

Rev. John Lillbach Working for the Good of His People

Rev. John Lillbach, pastor of the Finnish Congregational church is no laggard when it comes to working for the good of his people which in a great measure also means the good of the community.

The coming week promises to be one of great activity for him.

Sunday the children of the church held an interesting service at 9.30 o'clock. Teachers read and told interesting stories and Rev. Mr. Lillbach will deliver a seven minute talk to the young people.

The parents and other grown up friends of the children are beginning to realize the importance of those meetings. The meetings of this nature will be held at the close of the class work during the hot season so as to keep the interest of the teachers and scholars as well. In September the real Sunday school work will be resumed. At the morning service Sunday, the pastor spoke on discipline.

The Christian Endeavor society of the church met at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when testimonies were given with Mr. William Huovinan in charge.

The general evening service took place at 7.30 P. M. Pastor Lillbach took his text from John 5:35. "He was the lamp that burneth and shineth; and ye was willing to rejoice for a season in his light." Main subject: "For a season only."

The new church orchestra rendered music for the first time, Mr. N. Wasteriner acting as a director. The choir and the male chorus also sang.

A Union meeting of Congregational churches was held in Norwood under the direction of Rev. A. H. Pingree. Mr. Pingree invited Rev. John Lillbach to make two addresses there Sunday, one in English and the other in the Finnish language.

Rev. Mr. Lillbach consented to do so, and with the choir of his church left Quincy Sunday afternoon at 3.10 o'clock and proceeded to Norwood, to deliver the addresses and return in time to deliver the evening service sermon from his own pulpit in Quincy at 7.45 o'clock. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week Rev. Mr. Lillbach will lecture to his countrymen on the constitution and republican form of government, instructing them in the duties of United States citizenship and what should be done to attain that desire.

—The annual display of rambler roses at Thomas W. Lawson's estate at Dreamwold Egypt village, in Scituate, has been a fine one this year. The crimson ramblers were planted ten years ago and there are 14,000 of them covering almost nine miles of fences.

DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Avery started in the week with a busy session.

George B. Field was fined $20 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

William H. Smith, Victor Saline and Daniel Rogers were fined $15 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

Farris Adbhalh, Louis Math, Nicholas Abraham, Saad Joseph, Michael Charlie, Joseph Abraham, Joseph Moses, Simeon Hassan, Sam Hassan and Joseph Ferris were fined $5 each for being present at a game of cards on the Lord's day at Quincy.

The nine youths arrested at Houghs Neck early Sunday morning for alleged disturbing the peace were not arraigned this morning as all are juvenils. Their cases will come up Tuesday.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES.

Mrs. Holbrook, department president, will entertain the members of the Department Council Tuesday at her home in South Weymouth. After luncheon a business meeting of the council will be held.

The Norfolk County Grand Army and Relief Corps Association will have its annual outing at Bass Point, Nahant, Thursday. Mrs. Holbrook, department secretary are among the invited guests.

There will be two exemplications of the new ritualistic work this fall; one by Auxiliary 3 of Quincy and one by Auxiliary 20 of Holyoke of the Sons of Veterans.

VETERAN BURIED.

The funeral of Edwin G. Gustin a veteran Grand Army man was held Sunday at his home 203 Pond street Braintree. The services were conducted by Commander William L. Gage of Gen Sylvanous Thayer Post, G. A. R. of Braintree. The Commander was assisted by Chaplain E. O. Pierson, and Patriotic Instructor H. B. Whitman. The burial was at Blue Hill cemetery.

MEEMER LED THE FLEET

Q BOATS IN CLOSE FINISH

Owing to local racing events there were but few yachts from Quincy that participated in the annual open race of the Winthrop Yacht club off Winthrop Saturday afternoon. There was a smashing young breeze from the southwest, so that through disasters, many of the yachts were unable to finish.

A feature of the race was the appearance of the Meemer of John T. Cavanagh of the Quincy club. She is the longest boat in class A and has been recently purchased by Mr. Cavanagh. In Saturday's race she proved to have all the speed that has been accredited to her and she sent the chills running down the back of the skippers of other boats in this class. Her skipper mistook some of the buoys and sailed a much longer course than necessary yet with this handicap he was able to finish first in the race although he lost on time allowance to the Nutmeg.

In class D the Iris of Rear Commodore Crane was disqualified because she crossed the line too soon. She was hailed as she crossed but the hails from the judges boat were not heard and she sailed over the course. It was a very close race in this class however seconds only separating the winners.

The Iris however was the first to cross the line at the finish leading the class by two minutes, but as hshe had been disqualified her lead did not count.

Ex-Commodore Robbins in the Clara won the race beating the Dartwell of Commodore Whittemore by 39 seconds actual time.

In class S the Maritza of C. H. Porter won the race both on actual and corected time. The summary of these two classes:

WEST QUINCY ALL THE WAY

Put the Game With So. Quincy on Ice in Third

ROOTERS DELIGHTED

With Mulhern pitching in rare form, West Quincy defeated South Quincy on the Water street grounds Saturday by a score of 6 to 2. A large number of rooters from the west section of the city witnessed the contest and there was great jubilation when the team for which they were shouting won out.

Commolli occupied the mound for the losers and was touched up for thirteen hits four of which went for extra bases. The winners put the game on ice in the second inning, when a combination of hits, aided by a couple of errors, netted three runs.

O'Connell carried off the batting honors, getting three hits out of four times at bat, one of which was a two bagger. Mulhern kept the heavy hitters of the opposing team at his mercy, with the result that only five hits were made off his delivery, while thirteen retired on strikes.

Duggan and Mannex also played well for the winners, while Kennedy and McCarthy excelled for the losers. With this game, West Quincy, Quincy A. A. and Makaria are now tied for second place.

QUINCY LABOR PICNIC MERGED INTO SYMPATHY FOR ETTOR AND MATE

Over 700 Attended and Heard Speeches by Miss Flynn and Mr. Martin

Latter Had Proper Guage of Politicians Deep Rooted Interest

The first annual picnic of Labor League No. 8, of Quincy was held at New Downer Landing Saturday afternoon and evening, attended by fully 700 people and proved successful.

A base ball game between the Orients of Quincy and the Havilands of Roxbury was scheduled as the feature of the afternoon, but the latter failed to put in an appearance. A picked team, composed mostly of the old Bigelow players, was formed and played with the Orients, who won in a seven inning game by a score of 7 to 3.

Dancing was in order at the pavilion and refreshments were for sale on the grounds.

Shortly after six o'clock, the gathering was addressed in the dance hall by Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who spoke under the auspices of the Ettor and Giovanitti defense league and Robert B. Martin of Hyde Park, socialist candidate for lieutenant governor.

Miss Flynn received a great ovation. She talked for about a half hour. She said that the entire laboring class must become united in order to battle with the obstinate conditions of the present day.

The incarceration of Ettor and Giovanitti was an injustice. She spoke of the Laurence situation and told of the part the two imprisoned men took in a strike which will mean $15,000,000 of dollars to over 300,000 textile workers.

"We are fighting for principle declared Miss Flynn, and we intend to get it through an organized effort."

Mr. Martin confined himself mostly to political question and dealt at length with the street car men's strike in Boston, stating that it would have been settled long ago if those politicians who had posed as friends of the working class before election were consistent in adhering to their promises.

The meeting was presided over by Caleb F. Howard local president of the I. W. W. A set of resolutions was drawn up protesting against the imprisonment of Ettor and Giovanitti and demanding ,their immediate liberation.

The committee in charge included Philip Kapsis (chairman), David Boden, Abraham Weinhouse, Joseph Schwatz, Joseph Matkofski and Nathan Sternberg.

The resolutions adopted were as follows:

WHEREAS Jos. J. Ettor and Arturo Giovanitti charged with being accessories before the fact of Murder in the First Degree are to be tried for their lives in the near future.

WHEREAS, the arrest of these two members of the working class is but an attempt to intimidate the workers of the Textile Industries of Massachusetts from organizing and

WHEREAS, in pursuance of this conspiracy to intimidate Wm. D. Haywood, Wm. E. Trautmann, Wm. Yates, Ettore Gianini, Wm. Halladay, Edmondo Rossoni James P. Thompson, Guidio Mazarelli, have been arrested or are threatened with arrest upon trumped up charges fostered by the same interests, and

WHEREAS, the only offense committed by these men has been the assistance rendered the underpaid and overworked Textile slaves of the New England Textile Mills in their struggle for better conditions; Therefore be it

RESOLVED, that we, the wage workers of Quincy in Mass Meeting assembled, hereby declare that we recognize that the above cases are but an attempt to make strikes on the part of workers for better conditions, a criminal offense, and be it further

RESOLVED, we demand the immediate liberation of these, our fellow workers before mentioned and be it further

RESOLVED, that we call upon all wage workers in all Industries of the State of Massachusetts and of the United States, to join with us in enforcing the demand for the liberation of these members of the working class, and be it further

RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be given to the press, sent to the Governor of the State and to the District Attorney of Essex County.

BANCROFT SUMMONED BEFORE GRAND JURY IN STRIKE CASE

Interesting Turn of Affairs in the Boston Elevated Road Situation

Gov. Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald on Arbitration Board's Report

General William A. Bancroft, president of the Boston Elevated Railroad; James M. Prendergast, a director and stockholder, and James L. Richards, a director of the Elevated and president of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, have been summoned to appear today before the special Grand Jury called to investigate the questions of perjury and intimidation in the Elevated strike.

The Grand Jury investigation, following so closely, upon the report of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, which sustained the charges of the men against the company, was considered a step favorable to the strikers.

Expressions of opinion of Governor Foss and Mayor Fitzgerald on the report and findings of the State Board of Arbitration in their probings of the strike situation, may be found on another page.

President Bancroft when shown the report, said: "I have nothing to say."

MUFFLE YOUR POWER BOAT

State Officers Activa Campaign Against Offenders

NO MORE LENIENCY

That the prosecution of violators of the motor boat muffling law will be carried on from this date with even greater energy is evidenced by the fact that the Motor Boat Muffling association which has been assisting the State and local police of the Commonwealth in their efforts thus far this season, has chartered a large sixty-six foot gasoline launch, the Kasagi, and has placed it at the disposal of the State Police. Officers Grady and Daley of the State Police have been assigned to her, and will spend the next few weeks in cruising along the entire Massachusetts coast in a determined effort to apprehend every offender whose boat is not properly muffled.

The activities of the State and local police, assisted by the Motor Boat Muffling Association have thus far secured three convictions in Nantucket, two in Hyannis, six in Salem, two in Nahant and five in East Boston, with other cases pending in various courts, and these convictions have already resulted in considerable activity on the part of motor boat owners in properly equipping their boats, and reports from various sections of the coast indicate that the nuisance has already considerably abated.

Heretofore the Motor Boat Muffling association has been content to have the offenders given time in which to properly equip their boats, but in the future it is expected to ask that more severe penalties be meted out to those found guilty.

FLOOD VISITS STANDISH AVE.

Tax Payer Has Word to Say About Swimming Pool

To the Editor of the Ledger:

The condition of Standish avenue every time it rains is deplorable, the sidewalk near Hancock street is always under water for at least 50 feet, as well as three-fourths of the width of the street. On Sunday not even a narrow strip was left for pedestrians but both sidewalks and roadway was submerged. It has been going from bad to worse ever since Mayor Thompson's time and as the swimming point has been reached it is time Commissioner Tupper got busy at once.

Self-Assertive Artists Tried Hand on the New Home

OF DR. AND MRS. KEENE

There has been an unusual amount of travel on Spear street during the past few days due to the desire to see the gay decorations which ornamented the new house on Francis court, which now shelters Dr. Herman F. Keene and his bride. The Doctor rather stole a march on his friends in City Square and it was not until after 9 o'clock on the evening of his marriage that they were aware that the event had taken place. Then they lost no time in preparing for his home coming and a party was immediately formed to properly decorate the home.

Fortunately a circus was in town last week and their gaudy posters furnished good material for the decoration. These were plastered all over the house. In addition to these a number of home made signs were hung announcing to the world that it was the abode of a pair of "newly-weds." Several of these signs were of a sentimental nature and created much fun among the hundreds that went down to see them.

It was thought that of course the doctor and his bride would be greatly surprised on their return from their honeymoon to see the decorations, and their home coming was anxiously awaited. Here again the doctor stole a march for before leaving for his trip they stole into Quincy quietly one evening and saw what had been done. Then they went away leaving the house still decorated.

The newly wedded pair were due to return from their trip on the Sunday night boat from Portland. There was quite a party of Quincy gentlemen on the boat that night and it was planned that the wedding party should be their guests at dinner on board the boat. Again the doctor showed his cleverness saw the Quincy part first however, and not knowing what might happen he and his bride lost no time in seeking the seclusion of their state room where they remained out of sight.

Dr. and Mrs. Keene are now installed in their new home as cosy as two kittens. They will be at home to friends after October 1.

PARAGON PARK TROLLEY RIDE

By Jolly Members and Friends of the Y. F. K. Girls

A very enjoyable and successful trolley ride to Paragon Park, Nantasket, was held by the Y. F. K. Girls, a well known organization of prominent young ladies of West Quincy, Friday evening. Two special cars left West Quincy shortly after seven o'clock and 150 took the trip.

The cars were decorated with bunting and shakers and after three hours enjoyment of the delights and amusements at Paragon Park the party returned home, where arrival was made shortly after one o'clock Saturday morning. Those in the party included residents of Quincy, Dorchester, Ashmont, Mattapan, Weymouth, South Braintree, Randolph and Avon. The committee in charge was composed of Misses Leona Schatzl, Annie Ogle Lillian Donovan, Marion Pineo and Louise Curry.

THAT SCHOOL PROBLEM AGAIN

Mr. Whiting Has a Few More Questions on the Subject

SIDELIGHTS ON SCREEN

Editor Daily Ledger:

I contend that Wollaston has been discriminated against by the Chairman of the School Committee and a majority of his colleagues in their attitude towards the disposal of the old Wollaston School building in contrast to what they have actually done in a similar case in 1909 with the Quincy School, Atlantic, and also with the old Coddington and High.

The Chairman of the School Committee in a letter to the Ledger on the 18th inst. makes the following definite statement as to his attitude towards the disposal of "abandoned" school houses:

"I can see nothing but extravagance and waste to tear down, or sell the building for a pittance, as soon as a new one is built. What taxpayer would tear down his old house as soon as he moved into a more pretentious home? Scarcely one could be found, unless he found it impossible to utilize it further. Then why such extravagence with the city property? We are in no immediate need of more park spots for our whole city is almost a park, but on account of our large area, and very rapid growth of the present time, it will tax our financial resources to the limit for years to come, to provide school house accommodation, and that is what every family is entitled to, and it is their just right.

This statement from our respected Chairman outlines with explicitness his manner of disposing of abandoned school houses and I suppose that I am to infer that that is the usual method persued by the committee. As I sometimes delve in town history I will go back less than three years and cite as an illustration of the committees actual methodsof the disposal of old buildings what befel one of several old school buildings,—the Quincy school. This happened in 1909. Mr. Miller was then a member of the committee and I believ saw also its chairman.

In 1873 the town of Quincy erected two school houses, one of these was located at Wollaston and the other at Atlantic, known as the Quincy school. Both of these buildings were in use until recently when they were considered unsuitable for further occupancy. The Quincy school had a capacity of 288 pupils, which was later increased to about 340. This building was situated in the midst of what bids fair in a few years to be one of the most populous sections of the city. Within a radius of 2500 feet of the old school, houses were springing up by the score. Five years ago it was predicted by real estate men that in the next few years all of the hundreds of vacant lots of land lying within that section would be covered with one, two and three family houses. Today we know how near to fulfillment that prediction has come.

In 1909 (the year that the School Committee sold the old Quincy school building) the average number of pupils belonging to that district had increased 51 per cent in eight years, whereas the Wollaston district for the same period showed an increase of but 14 per cent and the Massachusetts Fields district an increase of 25 per cent.

In 1907 the city erected a new brick building to take the place of the old wooden Quincy school. Soon after the new building was occupied the school committee, notwithstanding the expectant great increase of population in that district which had attained according to its own books, a percentage of increase greater with one exception (the Cranch) than any other district in the city and within two years exceeded the Cranch, sold the old building to Mr. John E. Poland for the sum of $436. The building was moved from the school lot and was in good enough condition to be afterwards turned into very rentable propositions as apartments. The lot upon which the building stood was turned

GRANITE MEN FOR GOOD TIME

At the Annual Outing at Bass Point, August Third

The annual outing of the Granite Manufacturers association will be held this year, as for several years, at Bass Point. The date for the outing is Saturday, August 3. The manufacturers are planning for a grand time and judging from experiences of other years they will have it. Most of the party will go down by the morning boat, for a series of athletic sports have been arranged for their amusement. The main sport will as usual be a game of base ball between the married and single men and anyone seeking for the fine points of the game should see this one. Some of the plays would make the Red Sox blush with envy.

Shortly after noon the usual program calls for their assembling on the lawn in front of the hotel that their pictures may be taken. Dinner in one of the hotels will be served a little later.

A series of outdoor sports such as fat and lean men's racing, three-legged race, etc., will follow. Then there are the hundreds of side shows, including the swimming girls that will serve to while away the time until the hour of departure for home.

QUIET WEDDING CARRIED OUT

Successfully by Two Young Quincy Paople Without Fuss

News has just leaked out of the marriage of James M. Sullivan of Quincy Point, and Miss Margaret M. Hastings of West Quincy. Neither one cared for the festivities of a wedding, so they went to the rectory of St. Mary's church and were married quietly by the Rev. Henry T. Grady. They confided only in their parents, but some one let the cat out of the bag and when asked about the matter, both smilingly admitted that it was true. They have been married for more than two weeks now and are living in the Point section. The groom is a foreman in the machine shop at the Fore River Shipbuilding Company and is well known in the younger social circles of the city. The bride is also well known throughout the city and she and her husband have been receiving numerous messages of congratulation since their wedding was made known.

BIG ADDITIONS IN EQUIPMENT

Costing $6,000,000 Ordered for Boston & Albany

Nearly $6,000,000 worth of new equipment has been bought by the Boston & Albany, including 21 new engines, costing $370,000, of which four will be Mallet compound engines and five Pacific type express engines.

In the passenger service there will be 20 vestibule coaches, eight steel mail cars, and three dining cars, costing in all $410,000.

For the freight equipment there will be 4000 box cars, 800 coal cars, 400 flat cars, 100 convertible cars for work service, and a new 100-ton wrecking crane. The gross amount for freight equipment is nearly $5,000,000.

The delivery of the locomotives is to be made in September and October, and the balance of the equipment is to be delivered prior to January 1, 1913.

CROWDED, UNSANITARY CONDITIONS FOUND IN FORE RIVER DISTRICT

Army of Boarders Crowded In Narrow Rooms Filled to the Limit With Beds

Inmates Seemed to Fear the Air, Clean-Up to Be Made

The Board of Health paid a visit to some of the Syrian boarding houses in the Fore River district Monday night to inform themselves on the existing conditions. What they found firmly convinced them that these houses need a thorough weeding out. Three houses were visited in each of which a large number of men were found huddled together in a few rooms

In the party were Chairman, W. H. Teasdale and James Thomas of the Board and Sanitary Inspector Edward Lennon They were also accompanied by Chief of Police Burrell and Officers Holleran and Dinneen

The first place visited was the boarding house at 20 Winter street. This house has three rooms and an attic and another small room that resembled a pantry yet there were two cots in it, each of which was occupied. There was but one woman in the house and she occupied one of the small attic rooms. The men were all asleep when the party entered and although they entered every room the men were not awakened. In this house there were 29 men boarders. Every bed had two men and the rooms contained from two to three beds so that in most of the rooms there were six men.

Every window in the house was tightly closed and the air was not only foul but stifling and almost took the breath away when the party entered.

From here they went to No. 29 Winter street. This house is practically a duplicate of that at No. 20. Here they found 24 men. There were also two in a bed and there were from two to three beds in a room.

The next place visited was the basement of the house at 582 South street. In this tenement there were three rooms and fifteen men were found asleep in the three Conditions here were about the same. That is all windows were tightly closed and there was hardly a breath of air.

The party also visited a place on Cyril street about which complaints had been received but they found things here to be all right.

No attempt was made Monday night to clean out the places mentioned but there will be general cleaning up of the places by the Board of Health within a few days.

This is not the first time that the Board of Health has visited some of the Fore River boarding houses and in every case they have made the boarding house proprietors clean out their places. It requires constant watching on the part of the Board of Health to keep these places sanitary.

CONVICT SHIP ON EXHIBITION

Success Limped Into Port After Hard Passage

The old British Convict Ship "Success" docked at the Charles River Bridge, Boston after a strenuous 96 days' voyage across the Atlantic under her own sail. Seamen who saw the ancient craft on her arrival declare that the wonder was not that she should have taken over three months to do the journey, but that she successfully accomplished it at all. The story of her voyage as told by Captain and crew vies almost in strangeness with the actual history of the "Success" when she was one of the "Ocean Hells" in which England sent her worst malefactors to her penal settlements in Australia.

ABOUT SHOES

Comfort is the first thing to look for in a shoe, and you look for it on the inside. It never pays to experiment with shoes. If you do not treat your feet right, you will suffer for it in body and mind.

A list of the ailments due to improper care of the feet would read like a medical dictionary. If your feet are properly shod, you will never think of them. If they are improperly shod, you will never forget them.

How do your feet feel?

The feet are the foundation. Though their position in life is low, it is not lowly. Nine people out of ten will first look at your face and then at your feet; the tenth looks at your feet first. The subconscious reason for this is because shoes are the quickest and surest indication character and taste.

How do your feet look?

Considering comfort: To be comfortable a shoe must be neither too tight nor too loose, and must be made over a last that has the shape of the foot. Good leather is the next thing to consider—carefully selected and well-tanned leather. Good leather and careful workmanship make a shoe wear well.

Last comes style.

We are not going to argue this question with people who consider style first, because they will be so busy thinking of their poor feet they will not be able to keep their minds on the argument. But we will admit that style is the only thing that need be considered by a person who visits the Jones' Shoe Store. Not whether the style of each shoe is correct—it is—but whether a certain shoe is her style—and only the individual can tell that. The twin points of comfort and quality we decided years ago. Today we guarantee our shoes to fit and wear.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

It is said that the report of the arbitration board will favor the striking car men.

The time of the summer mark down sale has arrived and the wise buyers are reaping the harvest.

The Democratic congressmen find it an easy road from Washington to Seagirt, N. J.

It looks as though Quincy was to witness some lively politics between now and election day.

Is there anything more dismal than a seashore camp house on a rainy Sunday?

Lorimer fired out of the senate and State republican committee received his third fire from an automobile. Troubles never come singly Bill.

Tillman's Terror. What an absurdity. By the time it is laid on the stocks some other nation will be planning a bigger one.

District Attorney Whitman of New York has quite a contract on hand if he breaks up that gambling system in New York.

The Framingham man who lost three fingers from one hand will never be able to cross the fingers on that hand unless he gets a new set with a patent device on it.

The rain of Sunday seemed good, but it would have been more appreciated if it had been strung along over a longer period of time.

Shades of the Hancocks and Adamses has the time come when Massachusetts has to have her governor selected from Oyster Bay?

Senator Lodge has raised the extremely fine point that the canal question is not arbitrable as it is purely a domestic problem.

The I. W. W., being unable to rule decided to break the New Bedford strike by returning to work. This hardly manifests a purely unselfish spirit to aid the workingman.

The records show that only an inch of rain fell on Sunday but to the average pedestrian, without raincoat or umbrella, it had the proportions of a flood.

Those frequent disturbances at Houghs Neck are getting to lose some of their originality. Severe punishment meted out to some of the offenders would tame the desire of others with similar ambitions.

A speaker with a wealth of reasoning power and logical deductions who says something is given about a three line notice in the daily papers while T. R., who says nothing, is given columns of space in which to say it.

That Boston Red Sox bunch is sure playing some fast ball.

While we may not all incline to Socialist views and doctrines, one cannot but acknowledge that Socialist labor candidate Arthur E. Reimer for governor talks more horse sense in half an hour than a score of other office seekers dicker out a month.

GENERAL STRIKE DELAYED.

Whatever the outcome of the fixed determination of the Boston labor unions to call a general sympathetic strike for the elevated car men, the managers are displaying judgment in delaying that unfortunate period just as long as possible. Such a course would prove a severe blow to the commercial interests of Boston. It would mean a great loss to employer and employed.

The question of which would be the heavier loser is uncertain. Then the community at large would not only share, but feel the burden of the hardship. It could not fail to create some rancor, ill-feeling and lack of cordiality between many classes whose interests would better be preserved by a continuation of the present commercial conditions. By that we have no reference to the elevated strike, one way or the other. That is a separate proposition from a general strike.

For the benefit of all concerned it is to be hoped that the general strike may be averted. It would be difficult to determine the hardship, inconvenience and general loss to the entire city of Boston and to the adjacent cities and towns in such a labor situation. Every effort should be made by all concerned to avoid such a calamity as it would entail.

NOISY AUTOISTS.

Clamor for peace and quietude come from all sections of the country. The offender is the automobile driver who needlessly opens up his muffler or has a horn on his machine worse than a siren whistle. The howl for relief from these disturbers comes from all over the country. The agitation is not alone confined to Quincy. The objection is general. There should be some uniformity of whistles or horns attached to machines, with less relationship to the devil's fiddle. The opening up of machines at every little incline seems to be a sort of mania with some drivers. They either forget or have no regard for the rights of others. In the early morning hours, it is not pleasant to be awakened by a noise which makes one think that the day of judgment has come and they are either just making a sight seeing tour through Hades or else have arrived for an eternal stay Then again those uncalled for noises are a great annoyance to say nothing of being a menace to the comfort, convenience or even recovery of sick people. There is really no need of those outlandish noises. Auto parties who are out until two or three o'clock in the morning, have no excuse for raising such a commotion by increasing their power at every little rise that they are going to disturb people who need their rest at those hours. The Quincy police have taken steps to check this nuisance and they should be aided by every citizen in their work.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES.

"Figures may lie and liars may Figure," but there is no getting back of the returns on the campaign expenses of the two great parties in the past few years . Writers pass out all manner of suggestions for a remedy of the conditions which exist. Many of them innocently assert that there is no need of much money, that either Taft or Roosevelt could have been elected in their campaigns by the expenditure of a few cents, meaning the odd chance of both their campaign funds. That is all nonsense. It costs money to maintain officials, secretaries, workers, print and distribute literature and the hundred and one things otherwise needed in management of a campaign. But we all agree that the enormous sums recently expended for elections are out of reason and some method of curtailment should be inaugurated.

After all is said and done on this subject how much is the voter at large responsible for this unhealthy condition?

There is one factor in a great many places who reaps a harvest, and is from all view points worthless. That is the so called political worker, the man with the pull, with so many votes tucked away in his vest pocket. In nine times out of ten his blartings only injure the candidate he is howling for. He receives his rake off in man cases, with full knowledge of his worthlessness, but merely to keep him from assailing the candidate. If he was allowed to spout and the money turned to other channels the candidate would be more benefited than harmed by attacks from such quarters.

THE BLACK SQUAD

Grimy Vulcans That Feed the Fires on Ocean Liners.

HEROES OF THE STOKEHOLD.

These Models of Human Grit Practically Brave Death Every Time They Face the Blistering Searing Blasts of Heat From the Glowing Furnaces.

An inferno, all smoke and heat and fire and nakedness, is the stokehold of an ocean liner. As you enter it, picking your way over the burning ashes, the hot blast from the furnace mouths smites you in the face; it scorches your eyes and sears your lungs with every gasping breath you draw. Your impulse is to turn and fly. Life seems impossible in such an atmosphere.

And yet the inferno hums with life and strenuous, almost savage, industry. Opposite the huge boilers, quivering with suppressed power, like so many chained giants, are the figures of men as if carved in ebony, glistening with the sweat that streams from every pore. They are working furiously, with muscles swelling and knotting as if they would burst through their sheath of skin—humans in quick succeeding poses of fierce labor which would delight the eye of the sculptor and baffle his skill.

Gathering up a shovelful of coals, each man propels them with a quick forward thrust of the body into the white hot heart of the furnace and with a dextrous turn of the wrist spreads them evenly over the fire. Then, quick as the eye can follow, another shovelful succeeds and another, as if life itself hung on the breathless swiftness of the sequence.

Such is the stokehold in which the vulcans of our mammoth liners and battleships feed the greedy furnaces, which keep the propellers revolving to the tune of twenty knots and more an hour—the men of the "black gang" who, clad in trousers almost as black as their grimy bodies, and with a filthy "sweat rag" loosely knotted round their necks, toil thus for four hours at a stretch, until the last "ounce" is taken out of them, and they crawl back to their quarters for a well earned eight hours of rest.

If a fireman faints, overcome by the heat and exhaustion, he is quickly laid aside in some corner, with a little tepid water dashed on his face, and there he is left until he "comes round," while his fellows ply shovel and "slice" (the latter to clear the fire periodically from refuse) with a fiercer energy than before, adding the fallen man's labor to their own. The moment he recovers consciousness he struggles to his feet, seizes the shovel and is at it again. "Go off watch?" Not he! He's as good a man as any, and the fireman never knows when he's beaten.

To call such men heroes is no abuse of an often misunderstood word. They are not only the last word in human grit and pluck—for your fireman will die rather than give in—they are heroes who face death every time they enter the stokehold, as lightheartedly as other men would sit down to their dinners. At any moment a fusible plug may fly, a boiler tube collapse, a gauge glass may splinter, and the captain may have occasion to "regret" that some good man or other has fallen a victim to his duty.

His ship may be sinking, the inrushing water swirling knee deep over the plates on which he is standing, but no thought of the boats and an escape to life is for him. He must stick to his post until the last fire is drawn and if he has time to race up the escape ladder to the boat deck well and good. If not—the odds are all against him—he goes down, a "mute, inglorious" hero, to his death. It is all part of the day's work for which he draws his meager pay, with a cheerful acceptance of the fact that his life will be short and certainly not merry, for you find few stokers who have passed their forty-fifth birthday.

It is not only that the fireman's muscles and stamina must bear this inhuman strain. He must watch the gauge glasses with the keen eyes of a lynx to see that the line of bubbling beads never rises above or falls below the level that denotes safety. He must know his boilers as a jockey knows his mount; which of them requires coaxing and which requires forcing to stimulate its sluggishness, for boilers, it is said, have as many whims and caprices as a woman.

On the whole, the stoker is no unamiable man. He may growl at his food, though he often fares "like a fighting cock" aboard; he may have a vocabulary which would make the average bargee green with envy, but he will laugh you to scorn if you suggest that his work is too hard and that he is not "game" to the backbone.—London Answers.

No Hearsay Evidence.

A rural magistrate, listening to the testimony of the witness, interrupted him, saying:

"You said that you made a personal examination of the premises. What did you find?"

"Oh, nothing of consequence," replied the witness. "'A beggarly account of empty boxes,' as Shakespeare says."

"Never mind what Shakespeare said about it," said the magistrate. "He will be summoned to testify for himself if he knows anything about the case."—London Tit-Bits.

It is impossible to found a lasting power upon injustice and treachery.—Demosthenes.

THAT SCHOOL PROBLEM

into a gravel pit and the city is today hauling gravel from that abandoned lot.

A year after, in 1910, the school committee had put through this transaction it said in its annual report, page 9, "the rapid growth of Squantum and the increasing number of families settling in Atlantic as a result of new industries starting at Neponset will soon demand increased capacity at the Quincy School." Why was not the old building retained for this rapidly increasing population which the committee plainly forsaw?

At the time of the sale of this Quincy building I do not recollect seeing an indignant protest in the Ledger of that time from Mr. Miller, who was then a member of the Committee, saying that he "sees nothing but extravagance and waste to tear down or sell the building for a pittance as soon as a new one is built. What tax-payer would tear down his old house as soon as he moved into a more pretentious home? Scarcely one could be found, unless he found it impossible to utilize it further. Then why such extravagance with city property?" etc., etc.

If Mr. Miller and the School Committee did not deem it wrong in 1909 to sell the eight room Quincy School building for $436 and turn the lot into a gravel pit, in face of the fact that in that year the district showed a school increase of 51 per cent in eight years, why do they deem it wrong but three years later to allow the removal of the old condemned Wollaston school building and its site converted by public spirited citizens into a beautiful park?

In considering Mr. Miller's views in regard to the old Wollaston school as expressed above, what defense has he and the School Committee to offer for the destruction of the old Quincy school (showing a 51 percent increase) and the conversion of its site into a gravel pit?

What excuse have they to offer for the sale of the two Coddington buildings in 1909 for a few hundred dollars, or the old High School Building in 1910 for $340? Was this "waste to tear down or sell the building for a pittance?" All of these sales were consummated under Mr. Miller's chairmanship of the Committee.

If the School Committee wished to retain the old Wolaston school building, why did not its chairman appear at the public hearing on the proposed park, which was held at the Council Chamber on the evening of May 12th, and then and there state that the Committee was not yet ready to relinquish control of the property as it was still needed for school purposes and ask to have action deferred until later in the year?

Why has Mr. Miller and his colleague suddenly resolved to make Wollaston an exception to their long established rule for the disposal of abandoned schools unfit for further use? Are we to infer that old school buildings are good enough for Wollaston and Wollaston Park puplis, but are not fit for those of the other districts?

In making comparison the table containing the "average number belonging" is used because it is the only source of information available in any of the committee's annual reports by which the attendance in any form is tabulated for a long period of years.

MODEST MOODY MOVED COW AND THEN OWNER OBJECTED

Lightly Handled Mr. Hawledg's Poultry, Selling Them to Neighbors by Wholesale

Frienzied Fowl Operator Given Chance to Ponder at Reformatory

Officer Haley of the Milton police went to Revere beach Monday night and arrested Arthur F. Moody for the alleged larceny of fowl from Clarence Hawledg of Milton. He was arraigned in court at Quincy this morning and sent to the Massachusetts Reformatory.

Mr. Hawledg told the court that the young man was highly recommended to him as honest and free from bad habits, and that his parents lived in Augusta, Me.

The young man however turned out to be anything but honest, for one of the first things he did was to begin to kill off Mr. Hawledg's fowl which he sold to the neighbors saying that Mr. Hawledg had decided to give up keeping fowl. In all he gathered in $17. This method seemed a rather slow way to accumulate wealth so Moody took the family cow which he endeavored to sell to neighbors for $50. This was his undoing, for the neighbor becoming suspicious looked into the matter and learned the truth of the affair. Then it was that Moody grabbed a watch and skipped.

GROCERS PIN THIS IN HAT

And Remember Date of Annual Pilgrimage

The Twentieth annual outing of the Old Colony Grocers, and Provision Dealers' Association will take place Wednesday, August 7, and Crescent Park, R. I., the scene of many former delightful gatherings has been selected as the mecca of the dealers when they forget for one day the trials and tribulations of business, the price of beef and other commodities, and the perennial fault finding of the star customer. A special train will convey the party to Fall River, scheduled to leave the several points as follows:

Leave Braintree at 8.16, South Braintree at 8.20, South Weymouth at 8.27, North Abington at 8.33, Abington at 8.38, Whitman at 8.45, due at Fall River Wharf, at 9.55 A. M.

On the return trip the train will leave Fall River Wharf at 7.00, East Bridgewater at 8.00, Whitman at 8.10, Abington at 8.15, North Abington at 8.20, South Weymouth at 8.25, South Braintree at 8.32, arriving at Braintree at 8.36 P. M.

A special train will leave North Abington for Hanover on the arrival of the special train from Fall River.

Upon arrival at Fall River wharf the large and seagoing steamer Warwick will be found in waiting licensed to carry 2,000 people.

After an invigorating sail of nearly two hours the party is due to arrive at Crescent Park. Upon arrival dinner for all who wish will be served in the commodious dining hall overlooking Providence River. This dining hall has seating capacity of 1,000 people. After dinner you will have time to visit the various attractions at the Park.

For the delightful sail down Naraganset Bay and around Newport Harbor going down the so-called West way and returning by the famous East passage to Fall River Line wharf at about 7 P. M. A full orchestra will be in attendance to furnish music. The committee in charge of the affair is A. W. Ames, of Rockland, chairman, Charles L. Keon, of North Abington, Oakes A. Bridgham, of South Braintree, treasurer, Nahum Reed, of Whitman, Henry W. Mansfield, of Braintree, secretary.

NEW DISTRICT VERY DOUBTFUL

Either Party May Win in Congressional Contest in RENOVATED FOURTEENTH

Maps of the State, divided into the new Congressional districts as adopted by the Legislature of 1912, have been issued.

The new Quincy-Brockton district, known as the Fourteenth, has a population of 209,300, which is 1,101 below the average of 210,401. It includes parts of four counties—Norfolk, Plymouth, Bristol and Suffolk.

The cities are Quincy and Brockton, and the towns of Milton, Hyde Park, Dedham, Westwood, Norwood, Canton, Randolph, Braintree, Weymouth, Holbrook, Avon, Stoughton, Sharon, Foxboro, Abington, Rockland, Whitman, East Bridgewater, West Bridgewater and Easton. "Bill" White of Mansfield is just outside, but his town makes quite a dent into the southern boundary.

Quincy was formerly in the 10th district, but the new 10th is the Boston-East Boston district, while Dorchester and South Boston are in the new 12th district. The new 16th, or Cape district, extends along the coast from Hull to Provincetown, and from Provincetown to Chatham, Falmouth and New Bedford on the South shore, also the islands of Dukes and Nantucket and it is below the average population.

The vote of the new Quincy-Brockton district for Governor at the last State election was:

	Frothingham	Foss
Quincy	2502	2209
Brockton	3619	3999
Braintree	655	475
Milton	896	433
Hyde Park	1220	1331
Dedham	736	730
Westwood	98	43
Norwood	564	557
Canton	351	424
Randolph	251	418
Weymouth	1089	1018
Holbrook	232	155
Avon	135	175
Stoughton	473	579
Sharon	270	143
Foxboro	334	210
Abington	308	510
Rockland	530	783
Whitman	613	634
East Bridgewater	251	222
West Bridgewater	146	106
Easton	394	406
Totals	15,667	15,560

The above figures show that the new Congressional district is pretty evenly divided, with only 107 plurality for the Republican candidate for Governor last fall in a total of 32,000 votes.

On the Congressional vote of 1910, the Republican candidates received 15,986 votes, and the Democratic candidates 14,546 votes, a Republican plurality in the district of 1,440.

The cities and towns of the new district were so scattered over the other districts in 1906 and 1908 that it is difficult to figure out just how they stood, but under those conditions it is a good guess that they produced a Republican plurality of 5,000 or thereabouts.

ARE CITIES UNDER THE NEW LAW?

Brockton Asks the Question of Industrial Commission ON FIREMAN'S DEATH

Believing that the death of Callman Michael F. Neafsey while responding to an alarm of fire at Brockton on the morning of July 4 entitles relatives to benefit under the new workingmen's compensation law which went into effect on July 1, friends of the dead fireman are making an investigation for the purpose or ascertaining the rights of the beneficiaries. A communication has been sent to James B. Carroll, chairman of the industrial accident board, at the State House, informing him of the fatality and asking for a ruling by the board in the case.

The decision will be an important one in the opinion of those interested for it will determine whether or not municipal employes come under the provisions of the new act, a matter that is as yet undecided and on which there is some divergence of opinion among legal authorities.

That municipal employes are included in this act is the belief of some of those familiar with the bill.

A question bearing upon this very point was asked Ex-representative Parks of Fall River the father of this bill and one of the Industrial commission, when he spoke upon the subject before the Central Labor Union of Quincy, a short time ago. Mr. Parks at that time said, he could not answer the question.

The matter had not been considered by the board. In fact there was no specific mention of cities or towns insuring their help in the bill. It was a question which the commission would give serious consideration.

The problem has been presented sooner than the board anticipated, in this Brockton case.

CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERS

Started by Improvement Association Booming

A vigorous campaign for new members for the Squantum Improvement Association has been waged during the past week by President C. E. Carlson and the Executive committee and it is expected at the regular meeting tonight at Squantum Inn that the membership will go well over the one hundred mark. Matters of interest to every Squantumite will be discussed at tonight's meeting. An interesting report is expected from the committee having in charge the matter of securing a change of route in the street car line from Neponset to Squantum which would eleminate the ludicrous practice now in force of having passengers ride backwards between Neponset bridge and Atlantic station. President C. E. Carlson will also report the result of his efforts to have the 10.25 P. M. car from Neponset to connect with the 10.35 train from Boston.

Mrs. Johansson, Gladstone street was surprised at her home Monday when thirty ladies of the sewing society of the Swedish Lutheran church gathered in celebration of her sixtieth birthday. They arrived at 2.30 each one bringing a basket lunch which they later enjoyed. The affair was a most enjoyable one and many happy remeniscences were recalled. Mrs. Johansson was the recipient of a purse of sixty dollars and many other gifts. The house was prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns and flags. Mr. Johansson is pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church.

Mrs. Marie Braun and Mrs. Eliza Schulz of Roxbury are guests at the Wunderlich bungalow, Bellevue road.

Mrs. J. R. Pratt and her sister Mrs. Ackley of New York have arrived at their summer home on Squantum street.

Mrs. Charles Ramsdell of Somerville is the guest of Mrs. Hiram Morse, Bellevue road.

Mrs. Burchall and Miss Selma Burchall of Chicago have left for their home after enjoying a two weeks visit at the bungalow of Mr. James Hagan.

Miss Esther Beckford of Washington street left today for Kenbirma where she will be the guest of her friend Miss Esther Dasha for a few days.

MUST PRODUCE 1,000 NAMES

To Nomination Papers to Get Roosevelt on Ballot IN MASSACHUSETTS

Col. Roosevelt must collect, through his local managers, the signatures of 1,000 Bay State voters before his name can appear on the ballots in this state as a candidate for the presidency.

This was announced today by Secretary of State Langtry. The latter said that as the new Roosevelt third or "Red Bandanna" party was not officially a party under Massachusetts law, the colonel will have to run as an independent candidate for the presidency in this state. Wilson and Taft obtained positions on the Massachusetts ballot practically automatically by virtue of their nominations by the national conventions of their respective parties although formal notification oftheir selection will be served on the secretary of state by the state committees in this state.

Some of the more enthusiastic Taft men were talking today of selecting some well known Progressive Republican who does believe in the T. R. doctrines ,and asking him to take out independent papers for President, but any such attempt will not have the sanction of either the leaders or the rank and file of the regular Republicans.

William N. Osgood of Lowell called at the Roosevelt headquarters yesterday and announced that he would be a candidate on the Roosevelt ticket to succeed Congressman Butler Ames in the 5th district. In 1908 Osgood was the candidate of William R. Hearst's Independence League for Governor and that year polled a little more than 23,000 votes. Later he returned to the regular Republican ranks and became a member of the Lowell Republican committee. Now he has joined the "Red Bandannas."

The Association of Progressive Republicans is still in the field for a gubernatorial candidate and unless one offers his services soon there is a strong possibility that the association may disband as funds are reported to be conspicuous by their absence.

The Democrats were scheduled yesterday to decide upon the remainder of their rebate ticket, but outside of agreeing that those Democrats who ran last year, with the exception of Governor and Lieutenant-Governor should be accorded a renomination nothing definite was accomplished.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

Abigail Adams Cairn.

Penns Hill, erected June 17, 1896 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of the old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

Burial Place of Presidents.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) at Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. The funeral of John Quincy Adams was held in this church. Beneath the entrance is the Adams tomb reached by stairways from the vestibule. Near the tomb is the box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams, also the old town hearse. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple street. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

Hancock Cemetery.

Hancock cemetery across the street from First church contains many old stones. Among the old graves are those of Henry Adams founder of the Adams family who died Oct. 5, 1646, Rev. William Thompson, 1st pastor over the Braintree church who died Dec. 10, 1666; Rev. Henry Flint who died Oct. 11, 1668; Rev. John Hancock father of the Patriot who died May 7 1744, and many other notable people.

John Hancock Birthplace.

Adams street, junction of Dimmick and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

President Adams Mansion.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

Presidents Lane.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

NEW ENGLAND

Navy Yard Appropriations Dropped From the Bill

Washington, July 23.—No agreement over the battleship program for this year was reached when the house and senate conferees on the naval appropriation bill held another meeting. All other points of difference on the bill have been reconciled.

The senate refuses to recede from its demand for two battleships, while the house demands that none shall be provided. Another meeting of the conferees is to be held today. The senate conferees believe they can force the house into an agreement for one ship.

Senator Tillman, who had insisted on a $300,000 improvement at Charlestown navy yard, was forced to give way. The senate yielded to the house on the disputed appropriations for Charlestown, Portsmouth and Philadelphia and all will be dropped from the bill.

TAFT HOLDS DENEEN

Illinois Governor So Informs Committee of Progressive Republicans

Springfield, Ills. July 23.—The commitee of five progressive Republicans who were appointed by Medill McCormick to wait on Governor Deneen and ascertain whether he would support Taft or Roosevelt for president were informed by the governor that he considered Taft the regular nominee of the Republican party for president and that as such he felt obliged to support his candidacy.

Secretary of State Doyle, Auditor of Public Accounts McCollough and Attorney General Stead were waited on by the committee and gave the same answer as did Governor Deneen. Andrew Russell, candidate for state treasurer, told Chairman McCormick he would send him an answer by mail. Lieutenant Governor Oglesby has made no answer as yet.

ONE DEAD IN FIRE

Many Leap From Windows For Safety at Ayer

Ayer, Mass., July 23.—Lewis G. Saboll was burned to death in a fire in the Harlow & Parsons block that threatened the business district of Ayer.

Another man was seriously hurt and forty men and women lodgers escaped by jumping from windows. One of the lodgers, a blind man, was carried unconscious from a second story window.

FIGHT IN HAVERHILL AGAINST I. W. W.

Manufacturers Refuse to Buy Product of Their Labor

Haverhill, Mass., July 23.—The settlement of the I. W. W. strike flashed in the pan, as the largest shoe manufacturers of the city have declared war on the Industrial Workers of the World. It will be a battle to the finish, and the first shot was fired yesterday when the manufacturers lined up with the leather remnant dealers and declared that if the latter recognized the union, the biggest factories in the city would boycott the goods made by the union workers.

Other unions are exempt from the defi, but if the Industrial Workers cut a single tongue or fashion a single counter the factories will buy their supplies in Lynn or Brockton. The cutters declare the strike will continue until the I. W. W. is recognized.

The firms who employ the great majority of the strikers do not dare to sign the I. W. W. agreement. If they do so, according to the manufacturers' ultimatum, it means bankruptcy, for they cannot sell their goods anywhere but in Haverhill, as Brockton and Lynn manufacturers are very well satisfied with the home output.

The I. W. W. workmen realize that the tables have been turned and several small meetings have been held, but with the manufacturers battling them on one side and organized labor preparing to fight on the other the strike will be a curious situation from now on.

WORKS AGAINST TAFT

California Senator Says He Could Consistently Vote For Wilson

Washington, July 23.—The controversy between Senator John D. Works and progressive leaders of California advanced another stage when the senator was called upon by telegraph by Lieutenant Governor A. J. Wallace to inform the progressive voters whether he intended to vote for Roosevelt, Taft or Wilson.

"Will not vote for Taft," Senator Works telegraphed back. "Would have voted for and aided in election of Roosevelt if he had stood on his just rights to the nomination at Chicago and run as Republican. Will not follow him into a new party. Believe a new party abandons the ground that would make his claim invulnerable."

CLOSED UNTIL LABOR DAY

Is Now the Prospect For New Bedford Mills

THREAT RUMOR TO DYNAMITE

Man and Wife Arrested For Interfering With and Attacking Police—I. W. W. Threatens Federation With Going Back to Work—Belief Is General That Mills Would Not Receive Them

New Bedford, Mass., July 23.—Threats to dynamite the Butler mills caused that property to be placed under heavy guard, and in the turbulent scenes that followed the appearance of sixty police officers two arrests were made. Those taken into custody were Joseph Adamowiez and his wife, Annie. The woman was charged with interference with the police, and Aamowiez was taken on a double charge, interference and carrying a dangerous weapon.

The first strike benefits were paid to members of the Weavers' union this week. The strike payments varied from $3 weekly to those who were assessed 10 cents a week to $5.50 to the members paying dues of 25 cents each week.

After the unsuccessful attempt on the part of clergymen of the city to arrange a basis of settlement of the strike and lockout, the labor organizations continued plans for carrying on the struggle. Up to date its cost to the operatives in wages has been $100,000 and the merchants of the city have suffered a corresponding loss of business. Many of the operatives thrown into idleness by the closing of the mills following the strike, have gone to other textile centres for employment, regarding the present situation here as likely to continue for many weeks.

Francis J. Duffy, Jr., of the Textile Council states that the threat of the I. W. W. officials to call the strike off today unless the A. F. of L. joined forces with them, would have no effect on the course adopted or to be adopted by the Textile Council or the A. F. of L. He said that if the I. W. W. declared the strike at an end and ordered the operatives affiliated with that organization back to work, they would probably find that the manufacturers would refuse to employ them or to have anything to do with them, and that the I. W. W., in fact, was powerless to end the strike.

As yet New Bedford manufacturers have not found that the curtailment of production has raised prices much. The mills which are closed down are known in some cases to have some goods on hand, and they are not showing great anxiety to sell. They apparently believe that prices are going to strengthen later with the continued curtailment.

There are reasons to believe that the manufacturers may be willing to leave the mills closed for several weeks. Many of them believe that if they did not accept the challenge of the unions on the fines issue they would have been obliged to accept it on some other issue not many weeks distant.

The manufacturers accordingly feel, it is believed, that they should keep their plants shut down till it becomes certain that the operatives want to go back to work and will be willing to stay at work when they get there. If evidences of this effect appear within that time, the mills may open within that time, but the chances are that they will not open before Labor day.

EXTEND WEST POINT

Recommendation to Give Opportunity to Other Than Army Students

Washington, July 23.—It is stated that one of the recommendations that will be made by the war department will be one looking to the education at West Point of young men who do not desire a military life or to obligate themselves to go into the army.

These students at the military academy are to be regarded as special reserve students. Their course may be the full four years' course or a shorter and more specialized one. The government would not require tuition, but some provision would be arranged by which such students would meet the cost of their subsistence while at the academy. It is believed that there is a large class of young men in the country who would be willing to purchase the full course at West Point with the understanding that they need not go into the army permanently, but would obligate themselves to join the militia and aid in developing it as a reserve of the regular army.

Japanese Emperor Better

Tokio, July 23.—The extreme tension caused by the illness of Mutsuhito, the Emperor of Japan, has relaxed, but the attending physicians say that while there is reason to be encouraged, the public must wait a full week before assurances can be given respecting the outcome.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WHAT TO DO WITH EXTRA MILK.

IN the summer, when it is hard to keep it sweet, many uses may be found for extra milk. When sour it may be utilized in the mixing of hot breads; also it may form the basis of a number of delicious and cooling dishes such as cottage cheese. When there is an excess supply of milk and danger of its souring before being used in the regular way it may be converted into junkets or other desserts.

Made With Sour Milk.

Cottage Cheese.—If you have about a quart of thick sour milk heat it in a vessel set on the back of the range or by standing the pan containing it in another filled with hot water. As soon as the curd appears separate it from the whey or watery part and strain the latter through a cloth. Squeeze the curd in cheesecloth to dry it and then put into a bowl and add two teaspoonfuls of butter, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and cream enough to moisten. Take a spoon and mix to a paste. Serve heaped on a dish. Too much scalding will make the cheese hard and brittle. Season with finely powdered sage if liked.

Cottage cheese is also sometimes called smearcase.

A Rennet Custard.

Rennet, a substance taken from the lining of a calf's stomach, coagulates the casein in milk. Sometimes this rennet is sold as a solution or in the form of junket tablets.

Casein Custard.—Heat a quart of milk until lukewarm and then add to it a quarter of a cupful of sugar and stir till it is dissolved. Then mix in a teaspoonful of vanilla and a junket tablet which has been dissolved in a tablespoonful of water. Pour into a dish and let the milk stand in a warm room till it begins to get thick. Then remove to a cool place. Let it stand until firm. Take an eighth of a teaspoonful of powdered cinnamon or nutmeg, sprinkle over the custard and serve with milk or sugar.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Elnora is delighted with her outfit. Her mother says she must pay for it. Wesley and Margaret Sinton discuss the girl's affairs.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

CHAPTER XXV.

Wherein Edith Carr Wages a Battle and Hart Henderson Stands Guard.

MANY people looked, a few followed, as Edith Carr slowly came down the main street of Mackinac, pausing here and there to note the glow of color in one small booth after another, overflowing with curios. Despite the effort she made to move lightly she was very tired and dragged her heavy feet with an effort.

She turned at the little street leading down to the dock and went out to meet the big lake steamer ploughing up the straits from Chicago. Past the landing place, on to the very end of the pier she went, then sat down, leaned against a dock support and closed her tired eyes. When the steamer came very near she languidly watched the people lining the railing. Instantly she marked one lean, anxious face turned toward hers and with a throb of pity she lifted a hand and waved to Hart Henderson. He was the first man off the boat.

"Did you have a successful trip?" she asked.

"I accomplished my purpose. Edith, I saw some one today in the Lake Shore private hospital."

"An accident?"

"No. Nervous and physical breakdown."

"Phil said he was going back to the Limberlost."

"He went. He was there three weeks, but the strain broke him. He has an old letter in his hands that he has handled until it is ragged. He held it up to me and said, 'You can see for yourself that she says she will be well and happy, but we can't know until we see her again, and that may never be. She may have gone too near that place her father went down, some of that Limberlost gang may have found her in the forest. She may lie dead in some city morgue this instant waiting for me to find her body.'"

"Hart, for pity's sake stop!"

"I can't," cried Henderson desperately. "I am forced to tell you. They are fighting brain fever. He did go back to the swamp and he prowled it night and day. The days down there are hot now, and the nights wet with dew and cold. He paid no attention and forgot his food. A fever started, and his uncle brought him home. They've never had a word from her or found a trace of her. Mrs. Comstock thought she had gone to O'More's at Grand Rapids, so when Phil got sick she telegraphed there. They had been gone all summer, so her mother is as anxious as Phil."

"The O'Mores are here," said Edith. "I haven't seen any of them, because I haven't gone out much in the few days since we came, but this is their summer home."

"Edith, they say at the hospital that it will take careful nursing to save Phil. He says he will stay there just two days longer. The doctors say he will kill himself when he goes. He is a sick man, Edith. His hands are burning and shaky and his breath was hot against my face."

"Why are you telling me?" It was a cry of acute anguish.

"He thinks you know where she is."

"I do not! I haven't an idea!"

"He said it was something you said to her that made her go."

"That may be, but it doesn't prove that I know where she went."

Henderson looked across the water and suffered keenly. At last he turned to Edith and laid a firm, strong hand over hers.

"Edith," he said, "do you realize how serious this is?"

"I suppose I do."

"Do you want as fine a fellow as Phil driven any further? If he leaves that hospital now and goes out to the exposure and anxiety of a search for her there will be a tragedy that no after regrets can avert. Edith, what did you say to Miss Comstock that made her run away from Phil?"

"I told her Phil was mine! That if he were away from her an hour and back in my presence he would be to me as he always had been."

"Edith, do you believe that now?"

The beautiful head barely moved in negation. Henderson gathered both her hands in one of his and stretched an arm across her shoulders to the post to support her. She dragged her hands from him and twisted them together.

"No! I do not believe it now! I know it is not true! I killed his love for me. It is dead and gone forever. Nothing will revive it—nothing in all this world."

She dropped back against his arm exhausted. Henderson held her and learned what suffering truly means. He fanned her with his hat, rubbed her cold hands and murmured broken, incoherent things. By and by great slow tears slipped from under her closed lids, but when she opened them her eyes were dull and hard.

Henderson thrust his handkerchief into her fingers and whispered, "Edith, the boat has been creeping up. It's very near. Maybe some of our crowd are on it. Hadn't we better get away from here before it lands?"

"If I can walk," she said. "Oh, I am so dead tired, Hart!"

"Yes, dear," said Henderson soothingly. "Just try to get past the landing before the boat anchors. If I only dared carry you!"

They struggled through the waiting masses, but directly opposite the landing there was a backward movement in the happy, laughing crowd, the gang plank came down with a slam and people began hurrying from the boat. Crowded against the fish house on the dock Henderson could only advance a few steps at a time. He was straining every nerve to protect and assist Edith.

Henderson shot a swift glance toward the boat. Terrence O'More just had stepped from the gangplank, escorting a little daughter, so like him, it was comical. There followed a picture not easy to describe. The Angel in the full flower of her beauty, richly dressed, a laugh on her cameo face, the setting sun glinting on her gold hair, escorted by her eldest son, who held her hand tightly and carefully watched her steps. Next came Elnora, dressed with equal richness, a trifle taller and slenderer, almost the same type of coloring, but with different eyes and hair, facial lines and expression.

As the crowd pressed around the party an opening was left beside the fish sheds. Edith ran down the dock. Henderson sprang after her, catching her arm and assisting her to the street. "Help me!" she cried, clinging to him. He put his arm around her, almost carrying her out of sight into a little cove walled by high rocks at the back, where there was a clean floor of white sand, and logs washed from the lake for seats. He found one of these with a back rest, and hurrying down to the water he soaked his handkerchief and carried it to her. She passed it across her lips, over her eyes.

"Hart, what makes you?" she said wearily. "My mother doesn't care. She says this is good for me. Do you think this is good for me, Hart?"

"Edith, you know I would give my life if I could save you this," he said, and could not speak further.

He held her carefully, softly fanning her. She was suffering almost more than either of them could bear.

"I wish your boat was here," she said at last. "I want to sail fast with the wind in my face."

"There is no wind. I can get my motor around in a few minutes."

"Then get it."

"Lie on the sand. I can phone from the first booth. It won't take but a little while."

Edith lay on the white sand and Henderson covered her face with her hat. Then he ran to the nearest booth and talked imperatively. Presently he was back, bringing a hot drink that was stimulating. Shortly the motor ran close to the beach and stopped. Henderson's servant brought a rowboat ashore and took them to the launch.

Hour after hour the boat ran up and down the shore. The moon arose and the night air grew very chilly. Henderson put on an overcoat and piled more covers on Edith.

STATE BOARD OF ARBITRATION

Is a Victory For Strikers of Boston Elevated

SCATHING WORDS OF FOSS

Because Men Joined Union Board Believes Some Were Discharged—Scores Insolence, Neglect and Dishonesty of Strike Breakers, as an Abuse of Public—Governor Bitterly Assails Guilty Officers

Boston, July 3.—Governor Foss received the report of the state board of conciliation and arbitration of their hearing on the Boston Elevated strike and issued the following statement:

"The report of the state board of conciliation and arbitration on the controversy between the Boston Elevated Railway company and the striking car men has been placed in my hands tonight and issued to the press. The report is signed by all three members of the board. It indicates clearly that employes of the Elevated were discharged because of their membership in a certain labor organization, or for their activity in forming that organization. Such action by the Elevated is absolutely against the spirit of the law of this commonwealth, which prohibits employers from denying their employes the right to join labor organizations. This prohibition is made in the same fair spirit in which the law also declares that 'no person shall, by intimidation or force, prevent, or seek to prevent, a person from entering into or continuing in the employment of any person or corporation.' By violating this law the officials of the Boston Elevated Railway company have done serious wrong to their employes, and created a situation which resulted in much hardship to the general public as well. Public sentiment will demand a change of policy on the part of that corporation, and every right thinking stockholder should join in enforcing this demand. Guilty officials should be punished, and the management of the corporation placed in the hands of those who will respect not only the letter but the spirit of our laws. This quasi-public corporation, as well as others, has been fighting my attempts the past two years to secure legislation giving the state a public utilities commission, with ample power to protect the stockholder, the employe and the public."

The important paragraphs of the board finding are:

"The board finds that the men were justified in the belief that many had been discharged because of their membership in the union, or their activity in its formation, and that the company was responsible therefor.

"It appears by the evidence that many of the compny's cars are being operated by men whose conduct does not merit the approval of the traveling public; that there has been neglect, discourtesy and insolence on the part of some of the employes; that conductors have been seen to collect fares without recording them by the device furnished for that purpose. This latter abuse of the public and the company has a decided tendency to weaken the high standard of honesty which is so essential to our social and industrial structure."

What the board recommends "The existing controversy seriously affects the public interest and the board recommends to the parties that in conference they endeavor by agreement to accomplish an amicable settlement which shall be alike just to the company and its employes and the public which it is its duty to serve."

The report of the state board of arbitration and Governor Foss' comment thereon will have no effect on the quetion of a general strike, according to the statements of labor leaders last night.

It is the belief in labor circles that unless a settlement of the Elevated strike is effected by next Sunday the delegates will not delay a general strike vote.

REWARD FOR HERO

Young Penion Receives Gold Watch and Is Made an Heir

Lawrence, Mass., July 23.—Alfred Pomlow, a 24-year-old chauffeur employed at the Common street garage here, has received a hero's reward for bravery from Mrs. Edith L. Houdlette, wife of a Boston business man, whose life he saved on Sunday, June 16, at White's pond, Pelham, N. H.

Young Pomlow is the proud owner of a solid gold watch and fob suitably engraved, and when Mrs. Houdlette dies, there is a clause in her will which bequeaths the sum of $5000 to the plucky young life-saver.

Would Succeed Lawrence

Pittsfield, Mass., July 23.—Former President of the Senate Allen T. Treadway of Stockbridge has announced he is a candidate for the Republican nomination in the Frst congressional district to succeed Congressman Lawrence.

NORTH PROVIDENCE

Has Its Own Little Case of Graft Accusations

Providence, July 23.—Chief of Police Willis of North Providence was named in startling testimony here in the trial for alleged assault of Thomas F. Moran, former partner of "Mike" Slattery, Rhode Island's notorious gambling king.

On the stand Rafael Pistachio forferly employed as a general worker for Slattery at the North Providence Casino, swore that for eighteen weeks he had carried an envelope for Moran to Chief of Police Willis. Pistachio said he had been told by Moran the envelope contained "graft money."

Chief Willis was put on the stand. He denied he had ever received money from Moran and said there was no gambling in North Providence.

GLASSCOCK FOR TEDDY

But West Virginia Governor Will Support State Nominees

Charlestown, W. Va., July 23.—That he will support Theodore Roosevelt and not President Taft for the presidency, is the substance of a statement issued by Governor William E. Glasscock, Rep., at last settling the question whether he had deserted Colonel Roosevelt.

The governor makes it clear, however, he is for the Republican state ticket and proposes to do all he can to elect the regular Republican ticket with the exception of President Taft.

HANFORD RESIGNS UNDER CHARGES

Trouble Arose Over Reversing Citizenship Papers

Seattle, July 23.—Judge Cornelius H. Hanford of the United States district court has sent his resignation to President Taft, giving ill health as a reason. He has recently been under investigation on charges of drunkenness, oppression and corruption.

Judge Hanford has been under fire since last May, when by revoking the citizenship papers of Leonard Olssen, a Socialist, he drew the hostility of impartial judges. He refused an appeal at first, but just recently granted one.

Proceedings looking toward an impeachment were begun by the house of representatives and the testimony has included habitual intoxication and even graver charges. The name of former Secretary of the Interior Ballinger became involved in the testimony.

Washington, July 23.—Chairman Clayton instructed the sub-committee, now in Seattle taking testimony in the Hanford case, to discontinue its work. He received the following message from Representative Graham, chairman of the sub-committee:

"Judge Hanford has just forwarded his resignation to the attorney general. We are not quite done taking testimony, but nearly so. The sub-committee unanimously favors discontinuing the taking of further testimony."

Charles Piner Killed

Rochester, N. H., July 23.—Charles W. Piner was instantly killed, G. M. Olive, E. A. Warwick, chauffeur, and Miss May Hastings, all of Boston, were slightly hurt when the automobile in which they were riding ran over an embankment in order to avoid a fast approaching train at what is known as the White Mountain crossing of the Boston and Maine railroad, just above Rochester. The car turned turtle when it dropped a distance of eight feet.

Roosevelt Electors In Kansas

Topeka, July 23.—The names of the Roosevelt candidates, as well as Taft, for electors in the state of Kansas must remain on the primary ballot, according to a decision handed down by the supreme court of the state.

A WELCOME

By ARTHUR WILLIAMS

During the first half of the nineteenth century the weapon in vogue in what was then "the west"—Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio—was the bowie knife. It took its name from Colonel Bowie, its inventor or at least the man who made it famous by his frequent use of it. It was twelve or fourteen inches long and was worn usually stuck in a belt at the waist, but men have been known to carry it hanging between the shoulder blades. This was probably because when its quick use was called for a man could throw his hand up to the back of his neck and pull it out in a hurry.

It was back in the thirties or the forties that a young man alighted from the stagecoach that drew up to a tavern in the town of Vincennes, Ind., now a sizable place, but then a backwoods village. He wore his hair long, and there was a German cut about his clothes.

"I wonder who that feller is?" remarked Bill Thompson, who was sitting in the open window of the bar of the tavern. "He don't look like anything I ever see in these parts afore."

"Dutchman," said Si Griggs.

"Not a bit of a Dutchman! The Dutch that come out yere don't wear no sich clothes as them. If he's come out to stay I reckon he'll need a settin' down. He's rayther too fine a bird for this yere wilderness."

The two men followed the stranger to the bar, and as soon as he had been provided with a room Thompson stepped up to him and said:

"Stranger, welcome to Vincennes. Do you mean to stay with us?"

"For awhile."

"Well, come in and have a drink. We always expect strangers to drink with us when they come yere. It's a reg'lar institootion with us."

"I don't drink anything but beer or wine."

"Beer or wine! D'ye expect to get them soft drinks out yere? Brandy is the drink in these parts. Step up and try it."

The stranger said he had never drank liquors and didn't care to begin. Whereupon the two men undertook to force him into the customs of the country. He was very obstinate and persisted in refusing.

"Waal, stranger," said Thompson, "the custom out yere is drink or fight. Which'll you do?"

"What kind of fighting do you mean—boxing?"

"Boxing! D'ye suppose we skin our delicate knuckles on one another? Not much! We use Colonel Bowie's implement."

"What's that?"

"Didn't yer never see one?" And he pulled the article out from the back of his neck. The stranger took it and examined it, running his thumb along the sharp edge of the blade and feeling the point with the tip of his forefinger. "When you fight with this," he asked, "do you wear anything about your stomach or your chest?"

"Haw, haw!" laughed both men.

Now, they were bluffing. They had no idea of fighting the young man. They wished to initiate him into western customs.

"You say I must fight or drink?" asked the youngster.

"That's our way out yere."

"With that thing?"

"Yes."

"Well," continued the stranger, "if you'll cover up your body, leaving only your legs, arms and face exposed, I think I'll fight."

"What y' givin' me?" said Thompson. "What y' goin' to do about your own body?"

"Nothing."

"If you's agoin' to fight," said Si Griggs, "come on and stop yer foolin'."

Griggs and Thompson exchanged glances, and Thompson put on more bluff than ever, leading the way to a suitable spot for the contest. Griggs gave the stranger his knife, and the other two took position. They were somewhat surprised at his readiness to fight, and Thompson, though he kept up a swagger, began to look a trifle uneasy. He was afraid he'd be obliged to hurt the youngster. He stood on the defensive, but this was because he had to. The knife in his opponent's hand was like a humming bird's wings—fluttering dangerously near Thompson's face. Presently he felt blood trickling from his nose, and, putting up his hand, found the tip end was gone.

"By gum!" he exclaimed. "This joke has gone far enough. Who be you, younker, anyway, and where did you learn to handle a bowie knife?"

"I'm Frederick Dubois, the son of Jules Dubois, one of the original French settlers of Vancouver. I've just finished at a German university, and it is there I learned to handle the small sword, which is but a trifle longer than this bowie knife. I have come out here either to sell the family property or settle here. I don't know which; but, judging by you gentlemen, you must all be fine fellows, and I think I'll remain with you."

"What—you Fred Dubois? Shake!" And, holding one hand to his nose, he offered the other to his conquerer.

Dubois invited his new made friends to the chateau and brought out from the cellar a bottle of wine of a very old vintage. They sniffed it, tasted it and pronounced it mighty thin stuff. Then Dubois brought out some fine old brandy. This suited them better, but they said they missed the sting to which they had been accustomed.

FISH STORIES FROM EXPERT

Granite Club Looking Forward to Great Winter Diversion

William E. Hingston of Wollaston, the famous handwriting expert, is on his annual fishing trip to Nantucket and on his return the usual fishing stories will be in order at the Granite club. Last year William was at the same resort and on his return exhibited a snap shot picture showing him in the act of hauling in a shark. The picture looked all right and William declared that it was a true portrait, although he had extremely hard work to make some of the members of the Granite City club believe that it was not a manufactured picture, and when his word seemed to be doubted he offered to leave it to Roosevelt. William is one of the original Roosevelt men in this city and had the honor of being elected an alternate to the Chicago convention, but later decided that he did not care to go and be a kind of valet to a Taft delegate. After the defeat at Chicago he lost no time in affiliating himself with the red bandanna band wagon. Here is what the looker-on in the Record says about his trip, although Mr Looker-on neglected to state what kind of bait it was that was taken.

Wm. E. Hingston, government handwriting expert, is on a fishing expedition at Nantucket, where he is the guest of a New York financier. Hingston is an expert hand at deep-sea fishing. Just a year ago, while on a fishing trip off Nantucket, he pulled up a shark. He has informed the Looker-on that if he doesn't catch one of the many whales he has been reading about, off Nantucket, he will be disappointed. He took along enough deep sea fishing paraphernalia to land a regiment of whales.

TRIPLE PLAY SINGLE HANDED.

Foreman, shortstop of the Kankakee club of the Illinois-Missouri league, executed an unassisted triple play in a recent game between Champaign and Kankakee. The play was executed in the first inning. Sullivan and Flemming of Champaign hit safely , and were on the first and second bases when Lane drove a liner between second and short. The diamond was unusually heavy, and in a slipping and sliding manner Foreman made a lunge for the ball, getting it with on hand about one foot off the ground. Both Sullivan and Flemming, thinking it a safe hit, dashed forward, with Foreman, ball in hand, stepping on second, thereby putting Sullivan out, and continuing, touched out the astonished Flemming at a point between first and second.

QUINCY MEN IN PROMOTIONS

Keegan to Brookline. Sweeney to East Milton

Two Quincy men figure in the Boston post office district in the changes ordered by Postmaster Edward E. Mansfield made necessary by the death of Isley M. Fogarty, for over 25 years superintendent of the Brookline office. The funeral of Mr. Fogarty was held Monday and immediately after Postmaster Mansfield announced the appointment of Joseph F. Eichorn, inspector of carriers routes, locally known as "roundsman."

The position made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Eichorn has been filled by the promotion of John F. Keegan, superintendent of the East Milton branch, and a former well-known Quincy boy, up to the time of his appointment to the position of superintendent at East Milton.

James F. Sweeney, chief clerk of the East Milton office has also been promoted to the position of superintendent made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Keegan. Mr. Sweeney is also a Quincy boy who recently successfully passed the examination and was admitted to the bar. He still makes his home in Quincy where he is well known being very prominent in Quincy lodge of Elks.

CURFEW LAW ENFORCEMENT

Complaints From Many Places That It Is a Dead Letter

Enforcement of curfew laws is never easy, and Everett is likely to find a problem on its hands now, but there is no gainsaying the assertion that young boys and young girls on the streets late in the evening are reaching out for moral destruction. Anyone with his or her eyes open can get all the evidence necessary any evening.

The same probably applies to every city or town in which the Curfew law is in force. Many girls and boys seen on the streets of Quincy after nine o'clock at night, would hardly seem to muster past the required age. Still they are on the streets, and pretty late too. If the law cannot be enforced it would make the city documents less cumbersome by removing it. Law which cannot be enforced is worse than no law at all, because it creates a disregard for other regulations as well.

FIELD DAY OF EAGLES

Members of Order Planning a Big Day at New Bedford

A field day for the New England aeries of Eagles is to be held in New Bedford Thursday. The parade is expected to have 10,000 men in line and many floats. The chief marshal will be ex-Senator William J. Bullock.

The parade is expected to be a diversion to the 15,000 idle textile operatives. Headquarters have already been provided for the visiting aeries and the streets are being decorated. The committee on sports has arranged a large number of events with prizes.

One of the features of the parade will be a large float to be drawn by 10 white horses, which in its design will be symbolic of the order. Special prizes are to be awarded to the winners; $50 to the aerie having the greatest number of men in line, the same amount to the aerie making the best appearance, and $25 to the aerie coming from the greatest distance.

A delegation from Quincy Aerie will undoubtedly attend the field day.

The members of the degree team of John Adams Aerie, F. O. E. will participate in the competition for degree teams of the order, to be held in connection with the field day. The local team has been practising very diligently during the past few weeks in preparation of the event.

A rehearsal was held in Electa hall Monday evening and another will take place Wednesday evening. The Quincy team will make a strenuous effort to wrest the honors from the Hyde Park team, champions of the state.

Many members of John Adams Aerie are planning to take in the field day.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE

The Way Froham Figures Theatre Musicians Strike

That the strike of the union musicians at a number of the New York theatres has proved a blessing in disguise, is the opinion of Charles Frohman. He returned from Europe late last week and it was not until Saturday night that he had an opportunity to attend a performance without orchestral accompaniment.

"Now, that I have heard a play performed without an orchestra," Mr. Frohman said later, "I am obliged to ask myself if I have not for years been doing a great injustice to authors by permitting the lines of their plays to be made inaudible by players and fiddlers.

"Last night I witnessed a musical comedy, and I assure you I heard every word of the lyrics and of the book and I heard good singing voices. It seemed to me my hearing was doubly acute until I realized that the customary obstruction of noise and moving arms between the performance and me had been removed. My belief is that European theatres, those of London in particular, will follow New York and dispense with orchestras."

SOLDIERS FOR COLUMBUS DAY

War Department Orders Them to Parade tn Boston

The war department at Washington promised to order soldiers stationed in the vicinity of Boston to participate in the Columbus day parade in that city, October 12 next. Senator Lodge, who had made the request, was told that this would be done.

The department twice refused on the ground that the army could not properly participate in such a parade; but it was pointed out that the army participated in the parade last year and that the army also participated in the parade of the Knights of Columbus in Washington last June, when the statue of Columbus in front of the Union station was dedicated.

DEACEY'S LEGS BOTH BROKEN

Pile of Lumber Fell on Him at Fore River Shipyard

REMOVED TO HOSPITAL

Daniel Deacey, aged 65 years, a carpenter employed at the Fore River ship yard received a compound fracture of both legs this morning while at work on the battleship Rivadavia. The accident was caused by a pile of lumber falling upon him. He was taken to the Red Cross hospital where the result of his injuries were ascertained, after which he was removed to the City Hospital in the police ambulance. Deacey resides at 21 Lawrence street, Quincy Point.

DISTRICT COURT.

Peter Lehto and William Anderson were each fined $10 and Albert J. Ellis $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

The continued case of Telesa Walter for a statuatory offence at Quincy was called and she was fined $30. Sentence suspended until November 1. In the mean time the girl was given in charge of her sister who resides in Connecticut.

Arthur F. Moody was sentenced to the Massachusetts Reformatory for larceny at Milton.

James H. Morris was brought into court for alleged drunkenness at Cohasset and the court ordered him committed to the Quincy lockup until Wednesday morning that he might sober off.

Justin McCarthy, John Finn, Christopher Gill, John Hayes, William McIntosh, Leonard Sprague, James Doyle John S. Powers, and John Gleason, the nine Roxbury youths that were arrested at Houghs Neck early Sunday morning were arraigned in court for disturbing the peace and were fined $10 each.

Joseph Williams and Gordon McDonald were sentenced to the state farm for being vagrants at Quincy.

Charles Drysdale was arraigned on four complaints, Antonio Russo, five complaints, and Walter Meehan, three complaints for larceny from several stores in Quincy. These are all young boys. They were placed on probation for one year.

LUMBER AND TIMBER.

What We Call Boards or Planks the English Call Deals.

Among the differences existing in the names of various employments and callings in this country and in England may be mentioned those pertaining to the forest industries. What Americans call a lumber dealer in England is called a timber merchant.

Timber in New England is applied to trees large enough to cut logs for the mill, to the logs entire and to the large single sticks into which they are hewn or sawed.

When the logs are cut into boards, planks, joists, and so on, they form lumber. In the west timber is generally standing trees, and it includes all trees, large and small, without reference to their fitness for the mill.

The cutting and hauling of this timber is lumbering there, but in a large part of New England it is logging What is in some quarters known as joist is called elsewhere scantling, and what Americans call boards or planks the English call deals.

In this country a person who splits out shingles is called a shingle weaver In England shingles are not made in this way, but lath are regularly riven and a maker of them is called a lath render.—New York Sun.

THROWING THE DICE.

The Ancient Germans Were Furious Gamblers at This Game.

The invention of dice has been of old ascribed to Palamedes, the son of Nauplius, king of Eubœa, about 1244 B. C., and also to a Greek soldier named Alea, which is the Latin for a die, but Herodotus assigns both dice and chess to the Lydians.

The ancient Germans would gamble away at dice all that they were worth and then their liberty, submitting to slavery if they lost, and the Saxons, Danes and Normans were all addicted to the game. Fox Talbot is of opinion that the Latins invented, if not the game, at least the name for the single point, which they called unus. The Germanic races, adopting this practice from the Greeks, translated the Greek corruption of unus into ass, which has now become ace. The root of this word lies in the Latin, as the monetary unit.

John of Salisbury in the twelfth century mentions ten different uses of the dice. Stow mentions two entertainments given by the city of London at which dice were in evidence.—London Telegraph.

U. S. GOVERNMENT IS ARRAIGNED

Because of Mexican Abuse of Our Citizens

Washington, July 23.—In a strong arraignment of the United States government for its failure to secure redress for injuries to American citizens and property resulting from the Mexican insurrections and revolution, Senator Albert B. Fall of New Mexico declared in the senate that this country would not regain its prestige in Mexico for fifty years.

He says there had been no word of protest from the American government, although its citizens had been killed, women outraged, and over $500,000,000 worth of property destroyed by Mexicans.

Senator Fall declared that the American state department had refused persistently to make representations concerning the injuries inflicted, but had referred all claimants to the Mexican authorities themselves, "to the men who inflicted the injuries."

This course he contrasted with the courses of China and Germany. Germany, he said, had collected $100,000,000 on account of the murder of four German citizens in Mexico, while China had compelled the payment of 3,000,000 pesos by Mexico on account of the killing of Chinese.

DRY'S PARTIAL VICTORY

Senate Committee Favorable to State Control of Liquor Shipments

Washington, July 23.—Anti-saloon interests won a victory before the senate judiciary committee when Senator Cummins was authorized to report favorably a bill giving to dry states power to intercept shipments of liquor from "wet" territory.

The new measurs will prohibit shipments of liquor where any person interested in them intends to violate a law of the state into which the shipment is made.

The new bill would revise the existing Wilson law to meet a recent decision of the supreme court and make liquor in interstate commerce subject to the laws of a single state upon arrival within its boundaries and before delivery to a consignee.

Some members of the committee think the bill unconstitutional and threaten to fight it on the floor.

Assassination Plot Discovered

Rome, July 23.—Reports were current that a plot to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel had been discovered by the police.

MURDER PLOT WAS REHEARSED

Lieutenant Becker Transferred To a Desk Job

MATERIAL WITNESSES HELD

None Who Fired Shots Have Been Apprehended—Mrs. Rosenthal Has Valuable Evidence—Whitman Was Notified Almost as Soon as Rosenthal Fell—Believed That Fifteen or More Were Concerned

New York, July 23.—William Shapiro, Louis Libby, chauffeurs, owners of the "murder car," Louis "Bridgie" Webber, "Jack" Rose and Sam Paul, all charged with homicide, in being implicated in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, were arraigned before Coroner Feinberg for examination and held under bonds, together with Jack Sullivan, who is a material witness.

Oddly enough, Commissioner Dougherty says that not one of the men who killed the gambler is under arrest.

Lieutenant Charles A. Becker, head of the "strong arm squad," who Rosenthal directly charged with sharing in the profits from gambling, has been transferred to an uptown precinct, where he will do desk duty. The proceedings of the grand jury had to be postponed on account of the illness of Mrs. Rosenthal, widow of the dead gambler.

Mrs. Rosenthal will probably testify today. It is stated that she has all of the information her husband had and also that she has all of his memoranda showing in detail his operations with the police. She will also give the grand jury the names of men she says can corroborate her husband's story of how and to whom tribute was paid.

It was reported that she will directly accuse a high police official of accepting money to permit gambling houses to run.

District Attorney Whitman refused to permit Becker to testify, unless he will sign a waiver of immunity.

Whitman takes the ground that if Becker is innocent, as he says he is, he will seek to appear before the grand jury waiving immunity.

It has been learned that Rosenthal had scarcely fallen to the sidewalk under a fusillade of bullets when someone called District Attorney Whitman on the telephone and said:

"You had better get down to the Metropole ahead of the police or a pistol will be found on Rosenthal's body."

The prosecutor hurried to the scene and satisfied himself that there was no weapon on the body of the gambler. He then went to the police station and found out that no mention had been made of a weapon in the entry on the police blotter. Later the story developed from several sources that the murder plot included a statement to be given out by the police that Rosenthal had been killed in a gamblers' duel, that two other gamblers had been wounded and the police were looking for the injured men. District Attorney Whitman's prompt arrival on the scene is said to have thwarted that part of the plan.

That a picked band of gunmen was selected to shoot down Rosenthal has been learned by officials of the prosecutor's office, and that they had a rehearsal of the killing is understood. Investigation shows that there was not a slipup in the plans to kill Rosenthal and that the principals behind the plot were most careful to establish alibis. Further, fifteen or more men must have had some connection with the plan to slay the gambler, as there were evidences that when the "murder car" drew up near the scene of the the shooting all taxicabs in the vicinity had been hired and sent away to prevent a successful chase being made of the murderers.

The investigation into the murder of Herman Rosenthal has given New York such a scouring and cleansing of crooks and gamblers as the city has not known for years. Insiders declare that for once the city is really closed tight, the new order of things extending even to the poker rooms with "club" charters, which have never feared the police.

Russia Wants Turkey Divided

Vienna, July 23.—Notes are being exchanged by the chancellors of Europe in an attempt to bring about united action to terminate the war between Italy and Turkey. It is the purpose of several powers to force the Turkish government to accept the terms offered by Italy. It is said that Russia has even suggested the partition of the Ottoman empire.

50,000 EMPLOYEES

Covered by the New Workmen's Compensation Act

About 50,000 employes in this state are already covered by the provisions of the workingmen's compensation act. President Wallace B. Donham of the Insurance Association presented a brief statement of the growth of the association's business since its institution. He announced that while the law authorized it to borrow from the state treasury up to the amount of $100,000, subscriptions had come in so rapidly that the association had been enabled to start business without incurring any debt to the state.

The Massachusetts Employes Insurance Association is the general mutual company created by the workingmen's compensation act of last year. The law provided that the Governor should appoint a preliminary board of directors who were to serve until their successors should be chosen by ballot by the subscribers to the law. The members of the appointive board were unanimously continued in office at the election Monday.

PROGRESSIVES MEET SATURDAY

To Elect Delegates to the Chicago Convention

On their return from Oyster Bay, James P. Magenis, Colonel Thomas F. Doherty and Secretary Kenneth H. Damren took exceptions to the stories of the conference sent out, and say the conference was thoroughly optimistic and the party left Oyster Bay more than ever convinced of the bright propects of success not only in New England but through the Nation.

The Massachusetts Progressives have issued for a mass meeting convention at Fanueil hall Saturday at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

All parties are requested to be represented. At this meeting delegates will be selected to attend the Chicago convention of August 5th.

Vol. 27 No. 172 QUINCY, MASS., WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 24, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

SCOTLAND YARD FURNISHES LONG UNHEALTHY RECORD OF JOHNSON

The Man Now Serving Sentence for Attempting Pickpocket Work in City Square

Dating Back Ten Years London Exploits Were Numerous

The police department has received word from Scotland yard London giving them the record of the young man who gave the name of Charles Johnson who was arrested by Lieut. McKay three weeks ago for attempting to pick pockets in City Square. At that time it was believed by the police that the young man had a record but they were unable to get his record in season for the case when it was heard.

The record received from Scotland yard shows the fellow to be a hardened criminal. Dating back from 1902 there was a list of twenty-five or thirty sentences for larceny, attempted larceny, etc., showing that London had become an unhealthy place for him to live.

The case in Quincy was where Johnson tried to work the electric cars in City Square but was unsuccessful in getting money as far as known. There was a Roxbury man however, who lost his purse with fourteen dollars in Quincy that Sunday and although that amount of money was found on Johnson there was no direct evidence to connect him with the theft.

Johnson was found guilty of attempted larceny in Quincy and is now recuperating at Dedham jail. He will probably give Quincy a wide berth when he comes out, for now that his record is known if he should again fall into the hands of the police he would get a heavy sentence.

TWO-TAILED KITTY DEAD

Mr. Griffin Tried His Utmost to Save the Marvel

The kitten with the two tails, one of which was white and the other black, which only a week ago was the subject of much talk in Quincy is no more. The kitten was the property of Michael F. Griffin of 20 Summer street, who feels rather blue at the loss of his ten weeks' novelty.

The end came Wednesday forenoon. The kitten refused to eat the day previous and Mr. Griffin expected that something was about to happen. Everything was done in an effort to restore its health but it gradually became worse and the kitten which was considered nothing short of remarkable, also fat and apparently healthy, had passed into the realms of everlasting sleep.

EAGLES READY FOR BIG MEET

Quincy Aerie Looking for Degree Team Trophy

A large number of members of John Adams Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, signified their intention of taking in the big field day of New Bedford Aerie at New Bedford Thursday, at the meeting held Tuesday evening in Electa hall.

The degree team of the local aerie, which is to compete for the championship of the state on this occasion, gave an exhibition at the meeting, under direction of Captain Hugh McLeod.

The work of the team was so greatly appreciated Tuesday evening, as to merit repeated applause. The members of John Adams Aerie expect their degree team to be a foremost contender for the title at stake.

Thirty-five members of John Adams Aerie, F. O. E., will accompany their degree team to New Bedford this evening. The trip will be made in Keating's auto truck and the start will be made from Quincy Square shortly before five o'clock.

The competition for degree teams will take place this evening in Knights of Columbus hall, New Bedford, and the party will take in the field day events at New Bedford Aerie Thursday.

BOARD OF TRADE FORTUNATE

In Having Ideal Weather for Its Tour of Inspection

ANOTHER TRIP NECESSARY

The Board of Trade is fortunate in having so fine a day for its trip about the city this afternoon to inspect a few of the many local industries, and the indications are that the interest will be such that it will be necessary for another trip to inspect some of the other plants. The party left the rooms of the Board of Trade in the Adams building at 12.30 and their first stop was at the plant of the Boston Gear works, near the Norfolk Downs station, from here they visit the Robbins Iron works, Wollaston foundry, and Pneumatic scales plants. Then they go to the North Commons and inspect some of the various quarries thence to South Quincy stopping at some of the cutting sheds and from there to the Fore River Ship Building Co., plant. From there they go to the street railway power house thence to Baker's Yacht basin, the plant of the Quincy Electric Light & Power Co., and to Houghs Neck where dinner will be served at Nortemans.

GREETING TO REDMOND

Irish League of Boston Planning Big Reception

A meeting of the Boston branches of the United Irish League will be held at the American House Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to make arrangements for the reception to the Hon. William H. K. Redmond, M. P., of East Clare, who will visit Boston and speak in Tremont Temple in support of the Irish home rule cause on Tuesday evening, October 1

Mr. Redmond will sail from Ireland on September 12 on the steamship Baltic to attend the national convention of the United Irish League of America in Philadelphia from September 23 to the 26th, inclusive. He will speak in New York on September 29 and then come on to Boston for the meeting of October 1.

The greatest enthusiasm prevails among the friends of the home rule cause in Boston and vicinity at Mr. Redmond's approaching visit, and practical steps will be taken at Thursday evening's meeting to insure that he will receive a magnificent reception when he comes to Boston.

Tuesday night Col. Roosevelt said he expected to go to Point of Pines, next month, to address a mass meeting of the National Progressive party of New England.

The date tentatively selected is August 17, although another day will be chosen if Col. Roosevelt's engagements make it necessary.

The colonel said he would leave for the Chicago convention on Saturday of next week.

FERGUSON TELLS OF TRIP

Patrick J. Ferguson, the well known real estate dealer, county secretary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and a prominent member of Division 5 of Quincy, has returned from the Hibernian convention recently held at Chicago. Mr. Ferguson was one of the three county delegates to the convention, the other two being county president James Slattery of Weymouth and county chaplain Rev. Fr. James Chittick of Hyde Park.

Everything was conducted in a most satisfactory manner at the convention and Mr. Ferguson declares that he was treated to the time of his life, for he never went through so many interesting experiences. The party before arriving at Chicago, made its first stop at Montreal, Canada. Here the delegates attended mass in a body and Mr. Ferguson reports that features of the services were the playing on the organ of "The Star Spangled Banner" and the playing and singing of Irish hymns. "It made one feel," continued the local delegate, "that he was renewing acquaintances on the Emerald Isle."

From there the party advanced to Toronto, thence to Detroit and finally to Chicago. Various points of interest were also visited during the stay at Chicago and a feature of the convention was the monster banquet, which closed the exercises.

Mr. Ferguson was loud in his praises of many things that had been adopted by the convention. He said that it was decided that no man who was a member of the socialist party could become a member of the Hibernians. Another step which he considered most progressive was the changing of the benefit period from thirteen weeks to a year. Heretofore a member of the A. O. H. who was sick has been allowed seven dollars per week for thirteen weeks. Under the action of the convention, he may now receive the same amount for a year, provided his sickness continues during that period.

Another action which Mr. Ferguson commended highly was that no Division will be allowed to hold meetings in a place where intoxicating liquors are sold or dispensed.

MORE WORK FOR POLICE

But They Have Little Cause for Complaint With Few Offenders

The closing of the back river bridge between North Weymouth and Hingham has forced all automobiles bound to and from Nantasket to pass through East Weymouth and this makes an additional amount of work for the Weymouth police. Two officers are located in Jackson Square at all times of the day and night, yet they have had but little reason to complain of the way in which the automobile parties observe the law. They all seem to realize that with its numerous street cars and constant stream of automobiles it is a dangerous place and use the greatest caution in making the passage.

OUR CANAL IN NAME ONLY

If Contention of Great Britain Is Tenable

PECULIAR SITUATION

Washington, D. C. July 24, (Special) "The right of the United States to levy tolls or to exempt American ships from the payment of tolls while going through the Panama Canal is inherent in our government; any other view is wholly unwarranted by the facts in the case," said Senator Clarence D. Clark, of Wyoming, chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, in the course of a discussion of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty relating to the operation and use of the Panama Canal. His view is most generally accepted by Senators but there is in the Senate a considerable number of its members who take the position that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which took the place of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of the early fifties, makes it obligatory on the part of the United States to charge tolls on American ships engaged in the coastwise and foreign trade the same as on ships of other nations.

"If this view should prevail," said Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York in an interview on the Panama Canal bill, "the American people will be greatly surprised that so little regard for American rights was manifested at the time of the adoption of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, because, if the view alluded to be the correct one, it must follow that while the United States has expended $400,000,000 of American money in the construction of the Canal its citizens must be denied the rights that are enjoyed by the subjects of Great Britain and of every other foreign power. I cannot imagine that condition nor will I believe that the late John Hay, who executed the treaty on the part of the United States, ever thought for a moment that we were stopped from exempting American ships from the payment of tolls because of certain clauses of the treaty which are now interpreted to mean that very thing.

"It does not seem possible that the right possessed by every other nation on earth with respect to the Panama Canal, our Canal, is denied to our own citizens by a composition, or convention, called a treaty, which is not remarkable for its precision of expression or its respect for the Monroe Doctrine."

Senator O'Gorman then voiced what seems to be a growing sentiment, that behind the protest of Great Britain lurks the influence of the railroads of Canada and the United States which have been enabled to secure the cooperation of the British foreign office, thereby embarrassing the government of the United States in the attempt now being made for wholesome legislation to keep rail-road controlled ships off the Canal, so that competition may live and thrive.

"The railroad companies have been incorporated for railroad purposes," continued Senator O'Gorman, "and they have destroyed competition wherever they have been permitted to secure control of competing water transaction facilities.

"If drastic legislation is needed to make competition wholesome on the Canal then I stand ready to vote for that legislation, because I have a lively appreciation of the possibility of the injury which may be done the American people if the railroads are not kept out of the Canal.

"We should exempt from the payment of tolls all American shipping going through the Canal and we should see to it that railroad-owned steamships should not use the Canal. Such action on the part of the American Congress in my judgment would not violate the language and cannot violate the spirit of the treaty that has been invoked against us."

CALLANT LITTLE VANKEN TOOK CHANCES WITH THE BIGGEST

Tiniest Vessel of the Boston Fleet Reached Portland in Safety

"Early Dawn" Adrift, Is Searched for by Revenue Cutter

The Vanken, the tiniest boat of the Boston Yacht club fleet now engaged in the cruise to the eastward, passed through the storm which crippled most of the boats, in safety, without any serious mishap.

The Vanken owned by Winslow Brothers of Quincy, is only an 18-foot knockabout.

In this ontest with the elements she showed her metal and sea worthy qualities. She took the seas like an ocean liner and her duck outfit withstood every puff of the fierce wind which prevailed.

The only mishap she met with was the loss of thetender. Shem ade Portland, Monday night at 9 o'clock. She could have gone right into the inner harbor but preferred to anchor under the shelter of Wood island.

On the cruise from Portsmouth, N. H., to Portland, Me., the fleet stretched out over a fine expanse of sea, a terrific storm.

The wind blew a hurricane and kicked up a mountainous sea. The yachts were scattered and carried away spars, sails and rigging, but one by one they limped into Portland where repairs were made and the cruise resumed today. The Vanken will continue the cruise.

The big sloop Early Dawn was dismasted early in the storm.

She was picked up by the auxiliary boat Vanessa, but the latter with her double burden was unable to make headway. The tow line parted, an end became entangled in the propeller and the Vanessa had to make for port.

The revenue cutter Woodbury has been out searching for her and will probably pick her up today.

The wireless stations all along the coast are tense to pick up any message from the missing yacht and her crew. She may have been picked up some of the big coastwise vessels.

R. E. Wilson, one of the owners and crew of the gallant little yacht, wrote a post card to Commodore Ira M. Whittemore of the Quincy Yacht Club. He told the Commodore that the little boat weathered the storm in good style, standing well up to the seas which she rode like a duck and her spar, canvas and rigging stood every test without a break.

The tender was the only loss he had to report. All were well, the boat was in good condition and they were ready to start out with the other boats and continue the cruise just as soon as the lame ducks had completed their repairs necessary for a continuance of sea service.

IMPROMPTU ENTERTAINING

By Members of the Norwegian Society at Regular Meeting

At the meeting of the Norwegian society, held Tuesday evening, in the Johnson building, an impromptu entertainment was furnished by a few members. Nels Lordengod made a hit with his many impersonations of various characters while T. Johnson was given rounds of applause for his violin selections. Tony Isaacson sang a number of solos which were favorably received while the concluding number on the program was a cello selection by Charles Ericson.

Refreshments were served at the close of the entertainment and the gathering dispersed after a most enjoyable meeting.

YACHTSMEN GIVE A DANCE

The weekly hop of the Quincy Yacht club was held at the clubhouse Houghs Neck, Tuesday evening. A large number were present and many dancers were present for Dorchester, South Boston, Braintree and Weymouth.

Dancing was in order from 8 until 11 o'clock The hall was prettily decorated with flags and bunting entwined with colors of red, white and blue.

Music was by Weston's orchestra. Frappe was served during the evening. The committee in charge were George L. P. Tupper, Elmer F. Ricker and Andrew F. Burrill.

FOR GOD AND HIS WORD.

Rev. John Lillbach, pastor of the Finnish Congregational church, is a true example of what the christian minister should be to his people. He not only preaches to them the word of God from the pulpit, but preaches the word of man, the obedience to laws, respect of government, love of home, family, children and church which all tend to a greater, deeper and more fervid reverence and respect for God and his commandments. Going about in his quiet unostentatious way, Rev. Mr. Lillbach does a great deal of good, aiding his people in their reach for higher ideals. Just now he is devoting much time in the evening to lectures for the men on republican government, the Constitution of the United States and citizenship. Those men plan to become citizens of the United States and he is paving the way for them making it easy for them to understand our institutions, government, and schools and system so that when they take upon themselves the garb of citizenship they may be well qualified for that high privilege.

Rev. Mr. Lillbach does not favor parties, entertainments, and the like in the church for which a fixed sum is charged so that a worldly profit may be figured from the affair being held in the House of God He plans to have socials and entertainments in his church but they will be open to all, and the mercenary side will be eliminated by the free will offering, but no one need feel debarred because of lack of the fixed price Rev. Mr. Lillbach has set a good example for his people.

THE MAINE SUFFERERS.

The congressional committee on claims make short shift of the bill providing for the "Relief of Maine sufferers." The report in a word, is that the committee has "carefully considered the same and have to report the same adversely."

That would not have sounded so well fourteen years ago and would not at that time have secured such an obscure place in the columns of the daily press.

The bill offered by Senator Rayner of Maryland provided to award not more than $4000 in all cases of personal injury or death sustained by reason of the destruction of the battleship Maine, the awards being made not only to those who had sustained injury if alive, but also to their next of kin or legal representatives, if death had ensued. Such too were to be regarded as "Maine sufferers."

The report was accepted without debate so far as any story in the papers covering the same appears.

Let us see, there were about 266 men lost in the Maine, besides many survivors who were injured.

And this brief memorandum is the consideration those men received. Compare it with other matters of congress. Take the Lorimer case for example, two years, with hours of useless debate. Take the Ballinger case, and others where only individuals, were concerned, but individuals with political backing. And so we are prone to pause and wonder at things which daily occur in our national legislature.

ARBITRATION BOARD REPORT

The report of the arbitration board of the elevated strike was just what was expected. No one with any intelligence and ability to guage the spirit of the times would have looked for anything different. As to the merits of the report there is little to say. It stands out plainly, squarely and speaks for itself. It requires no interpretation. It is of small moment as to who was the author. It is assumed that the board reached its conclusions after a fair and impartial hearing upon the subject and that its report would possess the same characteristic. The outburst of Mr. Barry who practically told one of the elevated witnesses that he was a liar and his further statement that he had private knowledge to support his charge do not enter into the matter at the present time.

Under the ruling of the board the striking car men have gained a victory. It is up to them to see that it is not an empty one. It is likewise pertinent that they should be calm and judicious in the moment of victory. They should use the greatest discretion and judgment and should be wary of the men who have hung back, for the past few weeks, dilly dallying with them, dodging the issue, but now that the state board has fixed by its report the responsibility, jumps into the ring with their enthusiastic "Me Too."

Those are the people whom the men should be careful of. The men should not let every grasping politician who has fed at the public crib of office and patronage for years to seize this opportunity to further intrench themselves in office as the alleged friend of the working man. The victors have a grave responsibility facing them.

The preacher who sent the Taft campaign fund $50, with the message, "I find things given in secret reach heaven, therefore I prefer my name remain obscure." certainly could not have had any idea of heavenly use being made of the money.

BANANAS AS FOOD.

Over 40,000,000 bunches of bananas are reported to have been brought to the United States last year, yet it is popularly stated in many quarters that the banana is difficult of digestion and may give rise to alimentary distress.

A closer consideration of the composition of the banana may serve to elucidate the situation. The fruit is brought to our Northern markets green, and is ripened by artificial heat. This process can be hastened or delayed within certain limits, according to the momentary demands of the retail trade. The color of the peel gives evidence of the degree of ripeness.

The green banana contains, in the part exclusive of the skin, about 1.5 per cent of protein, and 20 to 25 per cent of carbohydrate, almost entirely starch. In the ripe banana with yellow-brown peel, the edible part contains somewhat less (16 to 19 per cent) of carbohydrate; but that which remains is now almost entirely in the form of soluble sugars. Broadly speaking, then, the ripe banana is about one-fifth sugar; the green one-fifth starch. Most of the remainder of the edible pulp is water. Intermediate degrees of ripeness present starch and sugar in reciprocal proportions varying between the limits set above.

Inasmuch as bananas are commonly eaten uncooked, it is obvious that more or less raw starch will be ingested if the fruit is not ripe, i e, if the skin has not begun to shrivel and darken. Raw starch may be singularly irritating to the alimentary tract of man, and is at best poorly utilized, whether it be ingested in the form of uncooked potatoes, chestnuts, bananas or other native starchy foods.

No one would advise the use of uncooked potatoes; yet many people eschew a thoroughly ripe banana in the belief that this wholesome fruit is "rotten" when the skin becomes darkened, whereas they eagerly eat the yellow-green, starch-bearing fruit at a state of incomplete ripeness.

Green bananas, like "green" apples, are unwholesome so long as the starch has not been adequately converted into sugars in the ripening processes. But the delicious and innocuous ripe banana should not be made to suffer in its dietetic reputation because of the ignorance of the consumer. Here is a chance for popular education.

Two other factors deserve notice in the defense of the moligned banana. One concerns the reprehensible habit of gulping down this fruit without adequate mastication.

The second misfortune is one that involves the handing of the banana. Although this fruit is sealed by Nature in practically germ-free and germ-proof packages, most fruit dealers are wont to tear off bananas from the stems to which they are attached. One end of the fruit pulp is thus exposed to the air and decay soon sets in.

SEND IN YOUR BILLS.

The Fourth of July Association made every coffrt to have the bills presented as soon as the celebration was closed so that every thing could be closed up, the bills settled and the financial statement made for the benefit of the public.

All persons having bills against the association have not been prompt in attending to their duty. A few bills have straggled along in the past few days. There may be others of which the committee has no account.

It is to be hoped that any one having a bill which has not been settled will present it to the secretary Arthur H. Stetson at once so that everything may be cleared and the association know just where it stands.

Strange as it may seem, subscriptions have been handed in since the Fourth of July. Several came in a few days after the Fourth and only this week, Secretary Stetson received another donation of one dollar.

I. W. W. BALKS ON LEADERS

Almost Unanimous Vote to Continue Strike

A. F. L. SHOWS NO CONCERN

Rank and File Overrules the Leaders as to Continuing Textile Strike—"We Have Been Tricked by the American Federation"—Fall River Weavers' Union Contributes $750 Weekly—Will Solicit Other Places

New Bedford, Mass., July 24.—The Industrial Workers of the World will continue to participate in the textile strike. In a stormy meeting at headquarters, the rank and file of the organization overruled the wishes of some of their leaders, who had recommended withdrawal, and voted to stay in the fight.

By this action the I. W. W. completely reverses its ultimatum delivered Sunday to the Textile Council, threatening to call off the strike if co-operation was refused by the Federation of Labor unions.

The vote was taken. It was almost unanimous for a continuance of the strike. Following the headquarters meeting, Perry, Bienkowski, Joseph Schmidt and Elizabeth G. Flynn addressed an open-air meeting of I. W. W. members on their lot. All four leaders promised that the strikers will have the backing of the entire national organization.

"We have been tricked by the American Federation of Labor unions, but we shall win without their aid. It is going to be a fight to win from now on," Perry shouted.

Bienkowski, the Polish leader, was even more determined. "I can restrain my people no longer," he said. "We are going to have what we want, no matter by what means we get it."

The leaders pleaded with every member of the I. W. W. to picket the mills. They were warned not to use violence, but they were told that the police have no right to prevent them from peaceful picketing.

"Frankly I do not see what good it would have done them to withdraw," said President John Hobin of the Textile Council. "I expected that they would stay out. These plants will not be open just to let the small number of I. W. W. workers in. This decision has little effect on our strike, one way or another." The old line labor organization paid absolutely no attention to the I. W. W.

President George E. Briggs of the board of trade expressed doubt whether the organization would take an active part in attempts to secure a settlement. He gave as his reasons the prejudice which the operatives might have against the body because so many of the manufacturers are represented in its membership.

He said, however, that a mass meeting of business men of the city might be held under the auspices of the board to consider the best possible means for ending the strike.

Contributions from various other textile cities in the country have begun to arrive for the support of the A. F. of L. bodies during the strike. The financial committee of the Textile Council received a notice from the Weavers' union in Fall River that $3000 in weekly installments of $750 will be sent.

Committees have been appointed to solicit funds in other places, and these will begin their work the last of this week.

ANOTHER GIRL DISAPPEARS

Without Cause Dorcas Snodgrass Drops From View

New York, July 24.—A fruitless search of the morgues and hospitals in three cities for Miss Dorcas I. Snodgrass, a beautiful girl whose disappearance without apparent cause Wednesday morning resembles the Dorothy Arnold case, ended today, leaving the detectives engaged as far from solving the mystery as when they were called in.

Like Miss Arnold, she was engaged to be married shortly. On the morning of her disappearance two friends saw and spoke to her, receiving a nod as the girl hurried by. This was in the Grand Central station.

Since she came from Martinsburg, W. Va., five years ago she has made her home at Mount Vernon with her sister, Mrs. John L. Crider.

On her 25th birthday, last October, she entered the training school for nurses in Mount Vernon hospital.

Dangerous New York

New York, July 24.—Two little children were shot and probably fatally injured and several other persons are believed to have been wounded when a gang of rowdies became involved in a running gun fight in the East Side.

SQUANTUMITES HAVE ENOUGH TAFFY, WILL FIGHT FOR RIGHTS

Grievances Aired at Animated Session of Improvement Association

Police and Other Things Wanted From the City Officials

Enthusiastic endorsement of President C. E. Carlsons proposition of having a public landing on the Dorchester Bay side of Squantum was given by the members of the Squantum Improvement association at its meeting at the Squantum Inn last night. President Carlson told of a conference he had with Harbor Master Crane of Quincy in which the latter said that $1,000 might be available for such a purpose. Several speakers voiced the sentiment that such a pier would be a fine thing for Squantum and that it might mean the opening of a boat line during the summer months between Squantum and Boston. The only objection to this was a fear expressed that a rough element might be brought to Squantum but it was the opinion of the majority of speakers that there were no attractions such as motion pictures and public dance halls in Squantum which would attract such an element and that there was little danger of a boat line being a detriment to the place.

President Carlson was instructed by a vote of the association to push the matter of securing a public landing place on the Dorchester Bay side. It was agreed that a boat line would mean much better express service from Boston and might mean better car service as with a competing line the Bay State Street railway might be more ready to make concessions and improve its service.

Many important matters were taken up at the meeting which was well attended. Eight new members were elected making the total membership now over 100. The new members are: T. F. Lovejoy, J. H. Lee, O. R. Ballou, W. O. Stack, John Rouzaut, George W. Wales, George H. Jones and Dr Chas. Rand.

C. H. Singleton, chairman of the Fourth of July Committee, said that $90 was collected for the celebration and that $19.43 remained unexpended. It was voted to make this the nucleus of a permanent Fourth of July fund.

Chairman W. N. Kenyon of the street railway committee read a letter which he had written, General Superintendent Conway of the Bay State street railway regarding a switch on Hancock street which would do away with the prevailing custom of having passengers ride backwards from Neponset bridge to Atlantic station. Superintendent Conway in reply said he would meet the railway committee at an early date to take the matter up. It was the sentiment of the meeting that if this ludicrous performance in street railway management could not be settled promptly that the matter be taken to the railroad commissioners.

Chairman Logan of the police committee reported that he and Mr. Eager had visited Chief Burrill of the Quincy police the night before and that they found him a most courteous and obliging official. He reported that Chief Burrill in his annual recommendation had asked for a permanent policemen for Squantum but that the finance commission, City Council and Mayor had cut the appropriation so that such an officer could not be secured this year. Chief Burrill promised to send an officer to Squantum every day however, between the hours of 2 and 11 P. M. so long as Mayor Stone would stand sponsor for such a plan. The chief promised to take the matter up with the Mayor at once.

In a spirited speech James Hagan said that Squantum people had stood about enough taffy from Quincy officials and he said that it was now time for Squantum to fight for its rights. He said: "I believe the time has come for us to demand something beside taffy from the Quincy City Government, I believe that if we must, we should take a political stand and that every man who lives in Squantum in April I should become a voter. We come down here and pay taxes and build our homes and if we had decent co-operation from Quincy we would make Squantum one of the beauty spots of the city. Instead of that they tell us that Squantum is not on the map. I believe that under the old township laws where we could take our taxes and spend them for our own good, we would get much more than we are now getting from the City of Quincy. We have no police or fire protection. In such a high wind as we have had the past few days there is grave danger of a conflagration once a fire started here. Let us all become citizens of Quincy and then we can go down there with 75 or 100 votes which might swing an election. Then the city officials would sit up and take notice and not give us the taffy they have been handing out for the past two years."

Mr. Hagan was vigorously applauded.

Ex-President Kenyon at some detail defended in some measure the Quincy city government and told what improvements Squantum had received during the past two years.

President Carlson read a communication from Supt. Gammons of the Bay State street railway stating that the 10.25 P. M. car from Neponset would in the future wait for the 10.35 train out of South station every night.

The matter of a public dump and of caring for garbage was taken up and discussed, Messrs. Anderson, Watts and Jepson were made a committee to look up the garbage question.

It was voted that the health committee have a further conference with the Boston Board of Health regarding the abatement of the odor that comes from the glue works at Spectacle Island

It was voted that the matter of building a clubhouse was one which should be taken up by private subscription and by a separate organization outside of the Improvement association

The clubhouse committe was discharged. In the vote at a previous meeting as to the choice of clubhouses there were 20 votes for a yacht club, 14 for a year-round club and two for an assembly hall.

Ex-president Kenyon read a communication from the State Board of Health stating that money for mosquito extermination could not be spent in Squantum this year.

READY MARKET FOR NEW DEVICE

The Pickpocket Proof Hat the Latest Thing for Women

A pickpocket-proof hat, the latest creation in headwear, made its appearance in Chicago. It was immediately passed on by the chief of police as being the best known means of flustrating a pickpocket.

The new hat is made on the same lines as the ordinary street hat, with the exception of a small slit in the side, in which the purse can be deposited. In removing the purse no more difficulty is experienced than in taking out the hatpins. The new storage place will no doubt assist many women from embarrassing positions when they have recourse to their purse strings.

MELROSE TAX RATE THE SAME

No Change Despite an Increase in Valuation

The tax rate of Melrose will remain the same as last year, $20.40, it was announced by the assessors today, despite the finding of $625,000 worth of additional taxable property. The latter is offset by an increase in state tax and municipal budget amounting to $10,800.

The total amount to be raised by taxation this year will be $364,000. The valuation of buildings is placed at $9,452,650, an increase of $298,000, and of land at $5,757,150, the same as in the previous year. Personal property is set at $2,211,000, making a total assessed valuation of $17,420,800. Population shows an increase of 134 at 16,250.

FLIP OF COIN DECIDED FATE

New York Man Ended Life When Nickel Came Up Heads

"Heads I die; tails I live," said Franz Sirle, of New York, aged 24, and out of work, while in a shooting gallery on 8th avenue today. Sirle took a nickel from his pocket and flipped it in the air.

"It's heads," he said as the coin descended. "Well, I've got nothing much to live for."

Then before any of those around him could make a move to stop him he drew a revolver from his pocket, turned it against himself and fired one shot, which lodged just under the heart. Sirle died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

STATEMENT BY THE AUDITOR

Furnishes Excellent Food for Figurative Thought

ALSO TREASURER'S FIGURES

The monthly statement of the City Auditor and Treasurer for June furnishes interesting reading for one who likes to dabble in figures. To the ordinary man however it is like reading a directory. That is it is interesting but changes the subject too often. The totals shown under the various heads in the Auditor's report are as follows: Budget, $485,903.68; loans $137,200; tax levy $359,242.11; receipts, $23,953.78; 1910 add transfers, $88,198.05; less transfers, $2,414.05; total, $1,092,803.57; expended, $580,443.79; balance $511,639.78.

The report of the treasurer shows the receipts from all sources to have been $1,006,036.04; expended $983,298.79; leaving a cash balance on hand of $82,737.25.

Cash on hand June 1, $81,543.91; receipts in June $114,183.70; June expenditures, $112,990.36; cash on hand July 1, $82,737.25.

AUTO CHEMICAL WRECKED

Failed to Climb Hill, Crashed Into Telegraph Pole

FIRE INSIGNIFICANT

The central fire station auto chemical was mixed up in a wreck, crashing into a telegraph pole, knocking down wires and the rear of the machine was considerably damaged while running to a fire at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon.

The machine was responding to a call from box 413 for a fire on Carlmark street, West Quincy. It had almost reached the top of the Nelson street hill when the power gave out and the machine commenced to back.

The emergency brake also proved ineffectual to check the downward course of the apparatus. Driver Edward Dillon was alone on the machine at the time. After the machine backed down hill about 15 feet, it crashed into the telegraph pole. Dillon escaped injury.

It required considerable time for Driver Dillon to fix the machine in running order so that it could proceed to the house by its own power.

The fire was in a pile of wood in front of a house on Carlmark street and was put out by the owners and neighbors, without much loss, before the fire apparatus arrived on the scene.

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE POINT

Can Telephone Co. Discontinue Service for Arrears

The U. S. Supreme Court has been asked to decide if a telephone company may discontinue the service of a subscriber whose payments are in arrears.

Mrs. Amelia P. Danaker of Little Rock, Ark., got a judgment of $6,300 against the Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Company because her telephone had been disconnected 43 days. The company appealed to the highest court.

BAY STATE POLITICS

McCall Now Sure to Seek Senatorial Toga

OTHER GOSSIP OF CONTESTS

According to the latest reports, Congressman Samuel W. McCall of Winchester, notified Hon. Joseph Walker over the telephone that he is to be a candidate for the senatorial toga discarded by Senator W. Murray Crane. The contest on other places of the state ticket is just as lively as ever.

District Attorney Pelletier is an avowed candidate for the democratic nomination for governnor. He will open headquarters in the Pemberton building.

Col. Everett C. Benton, who is after the Republican nomination for Governor, declared yesterday he was in the fight to a finish.

"I want my friends to realize that I am in this contest to win and that I will not withdraw," he said. "At the present time the fight is between Joseph Walker and myself for the nomination, but the day after the caucuses it will be between the Republican nominee and the Democratic nominee.

"I am after Gov. Foss. I will get him if I am the nominee. If Joe Walker is the nominee I'll help him all I can to get him."

ABOUT SHOES

Comfort is the first thing to look for in a shoe, and you look for it on the inside. It never pays to experiment with shoes. If you do not treat your feet right, you will suffer for it in body and mind.

A list of the ailments due to improper care of the feet would read like a medical dictionary. If your feet are properly shod, you will never think of them. If they are improperly shod, you will never forget them.

How do your feet feel?

The feet are the foundation. Though their position in life is low, it is not lowly. Nine people out of ten will first look at your face and then at your feet; the tenth looks at your feet first. The subconscious reason for this is because shoes are the quickest and surest indication character and taste.

How do your feet look?

Considering comfort: To be comfortable a shoe must be neither too tight nor too loose, and must be made over a last that has the shape of the foot. Good leather is the next thing to consider—carefully selected and well-tanned leather. Good leather and careful workmanship make a shoe wear well.

Last comes style.

We are not going to argue this question with people who consider style first, because they will be so busy thinking of their poor feet they will not be able to keep their minds on the argument. But we will admit that style is the only thing that need be considered by a person who visits the Jones' Shoe Store. Not whether the style of each shoe is correct—it is—but whether a certain shoe is her style—and only the individual can tell that. The twin points of comfort and quality we decided years ago. Today we guarantee our shoes to fit and wear.

BRIEFS

The Hancock street electric lights were having a game of hide and seek with themselves Tuesday night.

The new Kincaide Theatre building is fast going up and one can now get an idea of the size of the building.

Mrs. G. Atkinson and daughter Mary of 80 Main street sailed on the steamer Laconia for a three months' vacation in England.

Miss Fanny Taylor of Arnold street has been the guest of Mrs. G. F. Stocker at her summer home Silver Lake, N. H.

The Wollaston Yacht club hold an outing Sunday. It is planned to visit Weymouth back river where a clam bake dinner will be served.

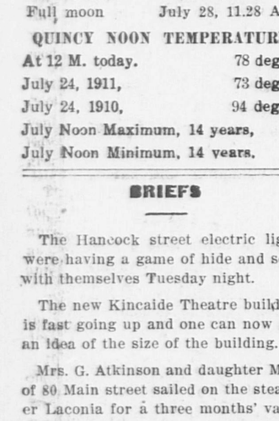

The poles on which fire alarm boxes are attached are having a band of bright red painted on them so that one may quickly tell where there is a fire alarm box in case it is needed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis Williams of Barry stret returned Saturday from Rangeley Lakes, Rangeley, Maine, where they have been spending the past two weeks.

Many of the members of the City Council have been favored with souvenir postal cards from Councilman Edward J. Sandberg who attended the great Olympic games in Sweden.

The Assessors are hard at work on the field books and hope to be able to announce the tax rate fully as early as last year. Last year the rate was announced August 7.

Frank J. Shay of Wollaston, one of the representatives of Berry Bros., dealers in paints and varnishes is having his annual vacation. Frank is on the road the greater part of the year and thinks that the best place to spend his vacation is at home getting acquainted with his family.

MR. PELLETIER DEFIES BOSSES

Says He Is In Fight For Nomination Till the End

THE SENATORIAL SITUATION

Weeks and Draper Seem to Be In the Fight—Many New Aspirants For Congress—Retirement of McCall a Surprise—Fitzgerald Fixing Up Ancient Feuds

The political situation in the state is somewhat changed from last week so far as the senatorship is concerned. Ex-Governor Curtis Guild has announced that he will not be a candidate. Congressman Augustus P. Gardner has made a similar statement. Congressman John W. Weeks of Newton is now a candidate for renomination and as there is no one in the field against him he will be renominated. His friends say that he will be a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Crane no matter what happens. Congressman Samuel W. McCall is also mentioned as a candidate for the senatorship, and Ex-Governor Draper also.

So far as the governorship is concerned former Speaker Walker and former Councilor Everett C. Benton of Belmont are in the field for the Republican nomination. On the Democratic side the situation remains the same as it has been for some days. Governor Foss seeks renomination and is backed by the Fitzgerald-Lomasney combination in Boston and he also has a large support in other sections of the commonwealth. District Attorney Pelletier of Boston is also still in the field. Mr. Pelletier declares that he intends to remain a candidate until the nomination is decided by the votes of the people. He flings defiance to the men he calls "bosses" of the Democratic party, and if he remains in the field it is evident that there are lively times ahead for the Democracy.

The Fight For Congress

In the Fourth congressional district Colonel Samuel E. Winslow of Worcester has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination. Councilor Winfield S. Schuster of Douglas has also been mentioned as a candidate. The district is considered to be as strongly Republican as it was under the old district lines. Either Colonel Winslow or Mr. Schuster would carry it without question. Both are very popular among the Republicans of the district, and both have had considerable experience in campaigns in their time. Colonel Winslow several years ago was chairman of the Republican state committee and managed a state campaign with excellent results. He has been for many years a power in the city of Worcester and also in the county.

In the Fifth district now represented by Congressman Butler Ames, Ex-Senator James W. Grimes of Reading is a candidate. Mr. Ames does not care to make another campaign and has announced his retirement from congress. This district was considerably strengthened by the legislature at the recent session, which took from it the strongly Democratic city of Lawrence and put into it the city of Woburn which is slightly Democratic. In addition, a number of Republican towns were taken from other districts and added to the Fifth. It would look very much as if anyone willing to make a strong fight should carry the district by a large margin. On the Democratic side Humphrey O'Sullivan, who has been the "angel" of the Democratic state committee for a number of years, is in the field for the nomination.

In the Sixth district Congressman Augustus P. Gardner of Hamilton is seeking renomination. The district is very strongly Republican and the nomination under ordinary circumstances would be equivalent to an election. Thus far only one candidate has appeared looking for the Republican nomination. This is Senator Nason of Haverhill, a Roosevelt man who refused to bolt or to help organize a third party. The indications are that Congressman Gardner will be renominated. The Democrats expect to put Senator Schofield of Ipswich in the field. Senator Schofield is an unusual vote getter but it would seem impossible for him to overturn the large Republican majority in the Sixth district even under the most favorable conditions.

Congressman McCall Will Retire

In the Eighth congressional district there has been considerable surprise at the announcement of Congressman Samuel W. McCall that he will not be a candidate for a renomination. He intimates that he is to seek higher honors in other directions. The result of his public statement has been to bring into the field candidates to succeed him, among these Ex-State Senator Frederic W. Dallinger and Henry C. Long of Cambridge. There was already in the field Senator Charles H. Brown of Medford, a Roosevelt man who just failed of election as a delegate for Mr. Roosevelt to the Chicago convention.

On the Democratic side Mayor Barry of Cambridge and Ex-Senator F. S. Dietrick are understood to seek the nomination. The district is supposed to be Republican by a fair majority and the Republicans believe that they will be able to carry it without any trouble. They recognize that Mayor Barry is quite popular, however, and that if he should go into the fight his opponent would need to make a vigorous campaign. Of course Mr. McCall in his ten years in congress has made many friends in the district and probably received many Democratic votes in past elections which a new man might not be able to gather in.

In the Ninth district Congressman Ernest W. Roberts of Chelsea is a candidate for renomination. Councilor Walter S. Glidden of Somerville is also in the field. The district is a strong Republican one starting with the city of Somerville, which is overwhelmingly Republican, Malden and Everett, also Republican by a good majority, Winthrop which is Republican four or five to one, and Revere, which is Democratic. In this district a nomination is equivalent to an election.

In the new Fifteenth district now represented by Congressman William S. Greene of Fall River, Senator Chace of Dighton is considering becoming a candidate. Congressman Greene will be a candidate for renomination. It is an attractive district in which to become a candidate as it is quite safely Republican.

Patching Up Democratic Feuds

In the city of Boston there are evidences that a very strong effort is being made to patch up the old Democratic feud which has existed for a number of years between John F. Fitzgerald and Ex-Congressman John A. Keliher, City Clerk James Donovan and Ex-Congressman John A. Sullivan, chairman of the finance committee.

The candidacy of Mayor Fitzgerald for the United States senate is understood to be behind this effort to get the clans together. Mr. Fitzgerald realizes that in a contest of this sort he will need all the support he can get.

The Sullivan-Keliher faction has considerable strength in Boston and can make considerable trouble for the mayor if they wish to do so. However, Mr. Keliher is said to desire a place as chief of the bureau of municipal research connected with the finance commission, formerly held by the late George A. O. Ernst. It is necessary in appointments to this commission that the mayor should approve them. It has been stated that the mayor is willing and will be even glad to patch up the old feud with this approval. As the position pays $5000 a year and as Chairman Sullivan is an intimate friend of Mr. Keliher he is very desirous that the appointment should go through.

The Camorrist Verdict.

It is ground for optimism that justice does come uppermost in so many important cases. It may triumph only after years, but there seems an invisible force that compels it sooner or later. We see so many of the evidences of this impulse for justice at work that we cannot doubt its presence. We may well believe that in ways unseen of us it continues until every debt is paid "to the uttermost farthing."

One example comes from Italy. There the leaders of the Camorra, after one of the longest and most turbulent trials in history, were recently sentenced to long terms of imprisonment. The trial lasted seventeen months, and the verdict was not reached until six years after the specific murders were committed for which the prisoners were being tried.

Every reader of the newspapers will recall the stormy scenes of that famous case. Originally forty-one of the Camorrist leaders were arrested. Three died in confinement. Fifteen more were released because they had already served a time equal to that of their probable sentences. The remainder were imprisoned for from five to thirty years, with several years of police surveillance in addition.

The universal opinion in Italy is that this ends the Camorra. The difficulty of convicting the men made the triumph of justice all the more noteworthy. The prisoners had to be confined in an iron cage during the trial, where they stormed like wild beasts, often halting the procedure. Yet in the end law and order won.

If the price of eggs should become a political issue it would not be the first time that eggs have broken into a campaign, though in previous contests the arguments they presented were rather rotten.

It appears that the Baltimore landlords put the blame for the overcrowded hotels on the fat men. Nobody loves a fat man—especially at a national convention.

The Atlantic coast has things all its own way this summer. There are Sea Girt, Beverly and Oyster Bay.

Talk about flying in the face of fate! An English aviator recently flew to his own wedding.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE HUCKLEBERRY.

HUCKLEBERRIES may be dried and preserved for winter use, but they are preferred in the form of jam, although they make also an excellent jelly.

Huckleberry Pie.—Make a nice short puff paste and line a baking dish with this. Then fill the center with fruit, adding a tablespoonful each of flour and water, a lump of butter and sugar to sweeten. A dash of lemon juice makes the pie nicer. Cover with a crust slashed with a knife or with a lattice formed of strips of the puff paste.

A Delectable Jam.

Huckleberry Jam.—Weigh the berries and set aside as many pounds of heated sugar as there are pounds of berries. Let the fruit simmer in water and when about one-third of the original bulk add the melted sugar and when it has boiled place in jars and seal. Jam may be made by combining currants with the huckleberries. Lemon or cranberry or any other tart juice may be used to accentuate the flavor of the huckleberries.

Huckleberry Jelly.—Berries that are a little tart are the best for jelly, so unripe fruit should be selected for this purpose. Add sugar, pound for pound, to the fruit and proceed as in making any other jelly.

Served With Cream.

Huckleberry Slump.—Take two cupfuls of flour, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, half a cupful of sugar, an egg, a tablespoonful of butter and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Sift the baking powder with the flour and add a pinch of salt. Mix the ingredients with the exception of the berries which should be stirred in the last thing. Butter an earthen mold. Cover and steam for a couple of hours. Serve hot with milk or a sweet sauce.

Huckleberries and Crackers.—Pick over the berries and place them on ice until required. Provide individual dishes for each person and break a couple of crackers into each, add a layer of berries, powdered sugar and some whipped cream, or the berries may be served with plain cream.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

SYNOPSIS

Although a good scholar, Elnora Comstock, entering high school, is abashed by her country dress. She needs $20 for books and tuition fees. Her mother is unsympathetic, and Elnora tells her troubles to Wesley Sinton, an old neighbor.

Elnora, getting her books cheaply, finds a market with the Bird Woman for butterflies, Indian relics, etc.

Mrs. Comstock's devotion to her husband's memory will not permit her to sell trees or have oil wells dug on her land. The Sintons bring Elnora new clothing.

Elnora is delighted with her outfit. Her mother says she must pay for it. Wesley and Margaret Sinton discuss the girl's affairs.

Pete Corson, a Limberlost frequenter, warns Elnora not to visit the Limberlost at night or go far into the swamp at any time.

Billy, a bright but untrained little chap, with a shiftless father and hungry brother and sister, gets Elnora's luncheon. Wesley, troubled by Corson's warning, investigates.

Sinton finds some one has been spying on Elnora. The girl feeds Billy again. She is "taken up" by the high school girls.

Billy's father dies, and the lad is taken home by Sinton, who makes provision for his brother and sister.

Margaret finds Billy mischievous, but her heart softens, and he is adopted. Pete helps Elnora to collect specimens. She buys a Mark Twain book for her mother.

Her high school course completed, Elnora needs money for graduation expenses. She needs two yellow Emperor moths to complete a collection. Graduation exercises begin.

Mrs. Comstock will not help Elnora to get a graduation gown. The girl is dressed by the Bird Woman, but Mrs. Comstock later gives hand embroidered garments to her.

Mrs. Comstock ignorantly destroys the moth needed by Elnora. She learns her husband was unfaithful and regrets her unkindness to Elnora. She will try to capture a moth for Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock and Elnora, hunting specimens, are joined by a young man who offers his help.

The young man is Philip Ammon of Chicago, seeking health. He is engaged to Edith Carr, a society girl, and has a sister, Polly, engaged to Tom Levering.

"You must take me home," she said at last. "The folks will be uneasy."

He was compelled to take her to the cottage with the battle still raging. He went back early the next morning, but already she had wandered out over the island. Instinctively Henderson felt that the shore would attract her. There was something in the tumult of rough little Huron's waves that called to him. It was there he found her, crouching so close the water foam was dampening her skirts.

"May I stay?" he asked.

"I have been hoping you would come," she answered. "It's bad enough when you are here, but it is a little easier than bearing it alone."

"Of course you know there is something I have got to do, Hart! Will you go with me?"

"Of course."

"I might as well give up and get it over," she faltered.

That was the first time in her life that Edith Carr ever had proposed to give up anything she wanted.

"Help me, Hart!"

Henderson started around the beach, assisting her all he could. Finally he stopped.

"Edith, there is no sense in this! You are too tired to go. You know you can trust me. You wait in any of these lovely places and send me. You will be safe, and I'll run. One word is all that is necessary."

"But I've got to say that word myself, Hart!"

"Then write it and let me carry it. The message is not going to prove who went to the office and sent it."

"That is quite true," she said dropping wearily, but she made no movement to take the pen and paper he offered.

"Hart, you write it," she said at last.

Henderson turned away his face. He gripped the pen, while his breath sucked between his dry teeth.

"Certainly!" he said when he could speak. "Mackinac, Aug. 27. Philip Ammon, Lake Shore hospital, Chicago." He paused with suspended pen and glanced at Edith. Her white lips were working, but no sound came. "Miss Comstock is at Terrence O'More's, on Mackinac island," prompted Henderson.

Edith nodded.

"Signed, Henderson," continued the big man.

Edith shook her head.

"Say, 'She is well and happy,' and sign, Edith Carr!" she panted.

"Not on your life!" flashed Henderson.

"For the love of mercy, Hart, don't make this any harder! It is the least I can do, and it takes every ounce of strength in me to do it."

"Will you wait for me here?" he asked.

She nodded, and, pulling his hat lower over his eyes, Henderson ran around the shore. In less than an hour he was back. That evening they were sailing down the straits before a stiff breeze and Henderson was busy with the tiller when she said to him, "Hart, I want you to do something more for me. I want you to go away."

"Very well," he said quietly, but his face whitened visibly.

"You say that as if you had been expecting it."

"I have. I knew from the beginning that when this was over you would dislike me for having seen you suffer. Does it make any difference to you where I go?"

"I want you where you will be loved and good care taken of you."

"Thank you," said Henderson, smiling grimly. "Have you any idea where such a spot might be found?"

"It should be with your sister at Los Angeles. She always has seemed very fond of you."

"That is quite true," said Henderson, his eyes brightening a little. "I will go to her. When shall I start?"

"At once."

Henderson began to tack for the landing, but his hands shook until he scarcely could manage the boat. Edith Carr sat watching him indifferently, but her heart was throbbing painfully. "Why is there so much suffering in the world?" she kept whispering to herself. Inside her door Henderson took her by the shoulders almost roughly.

"Say, 'She is well and happy,' and sign, Edith Carr!"

"For how long is this, Edith, and how are you going to say goodby to me?"

She raised tired, pain filled eyes to his.

"I don't know for how long it is," she said. "If peace ever comes and I want you I won't wait for you to find it out yourself—I'll cable—Marconigraph—anything."

Henderson studied her intently.

"In that case we will shake hands," he cried. "Goodby, Edith. Don't forget that every hour I am thinking of you and hoping all good things will come to you soon."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Wherein Philip Finds Elnora.

"OH, I need my own violin," cried Elnora. "This one may be a thousand times more expensive and much older than mine, but it wasn't inspired and taught to sing by a man who knew how."

The guests in the O'More music room laughed appreciatively.

"Why don't you write your mother to come for a visit and bring yours?" suggested O'More.

"I did that three days ago," acknowledged Elnora. "I am half expecting her on the noon boat. That is one reason why this violin gets worse every minute. There is nothing at all the matter with me."

Elnora laid away the violin. "Come along, children," she said. "Let's race to the playhouse."

With the brood at her heels Elnora ran, and for an hour lively sounds stole from the remaining spot of forest on the island, which lay beside the O'More cottage. Then young Terry went to the playroom to bring Alice her doll. He came racing back, dragging it by one leg and crying, "There's company! Some one has come that mamma and papa are just tearing down the house over. He's sick. I saw through the window."

Before Elnora missed her, Alice, who had gone to investigate, came flying across the shadows and through the sunshine waving a paper. She thrust it into Elnora's hand.

"There is a man person—a stranger person!" she shouted. "But he knows you! He sent you that! You are to be the doctor! He said so! Oh, do hurry! I like him heaps!"

Elnora read Edith Carr's telegram to Philip Ammon and understood that had been ill; that she had been located by Edith, who had notified him. In so doing she had acknowledged defeat. At last Philip was free. Elnora went to him with a radiant face.

GUNMAN SURRENDERS

Offer of Immunity to Actual Slayers Made by Mr. Whitman

New York, July 24.—The gunmen wanted for the killing of gambler Herman Rosenthal, are beginning to fall into the nets. Harry Vallon, one of the five notorious gangsters who were in the "murder car" the night Rosenthal was shot, voluntarily surrendered himself to the police and within ten days Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty expects to round up the whole gang of gun carriers. With the men who actually did the shooting in the toils, the main work of District Attorney Whitman and Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty will commence, that of trying to learn the identity of the real conspirators who so greatly desired that Rosenthal be done away with before he could make further revelations of the relations between the police and the gamblers.

"Here is my position," said the district attorney. "I will protect every man in this case if I can get the evidence I want against policemen, evidence I know exists. I will let Shapiro and Libby and "Bridgie" Webber and Sam Paul and Jack Rose himself turn state's witnesses if I can get the police conspirators. But I have got to be shown first. I won't buy a pig in a poke. There are bigger men than Becker in this case, and I want them. What has the police department, except Dougherty done? Nothing. They aren't doing anything now. Dougherty is honest and on the level, but can he swing this thing alone? The murder smells of police connivance."

Commissioner Dougherty remarked significantly to District Attorney Whitman that "I guess we agree as to who is back of this killing." The surrender of Villon may be followed by the voluntary appearance of the other gangsters known to have been in the "murder car" the night of the killing. Beside Vallon there were Harry Horwitz, best known under his gang name of "Gib the Blood;" Dago Frank, a desperate East Side gangster; "Lefty" Louie and "Whitey" Lewis.

STRIKE CONFERENCE FOR AGREEMENT

"L" Agrees to Take Back Its Striking Employes

Boston, July 24.—At a conference in the governor's office yesterday afternoon, between Governor Foss, Mayor Fitzgerald, General Bancroft, Messrs. Prendergast and Richards and Counselor Snow, the Elevated officials agreed to take back not only those employes who are out on strike, but all of those discharged immediately before the strike, excepting those who have been guilty of misdemeanors.

In a statement issued following the conference, the mayor said:

"The whole talk was of settlement. I asked General Bancroft if he was willing to take back the strikers and those who had been discharged prior to the strike and he replied that he was, unless the men were guilty of misdemeanors that would prevent their re-employment.

"General Bancroft also expressed willingness to treat with representatives of its employes. This takes away the objection that was raised of outside interference."

SUSPECTS HANFORD'S ACT

Berger Believes Judge Was Forced to Resign by Millionaires

Washington, July 24.—That the resignation of Judge Hanford of Seattle was forced by a group of half a dozen millionaires and influential citizens of Seattle is the charge made by Victor Berger and the Socialist congressman says that he will ask the attorney general to call a federal grand jury to investigate the matter. Should the attorney general fail to act, Berger will offer a resolution to the same effect. Representative Berger states that he has been in receipt of letters from people in Seattle who believe that there are suspicious, if not criminal, circumstances surrounding the sudden resignation of Judge Hanford. It is pointed out, for example, that Judge Hanford resigned so quickly that he did not have time to write, but went to the telegraph office in person and that if he had waited for what Berger called "an honorable trial" by the senate, he would have reached the age at which he could retire with pay for life.

"Everybody connected with Hanford in any way, including the stenographer," said Berger, "seems to have got wealthy. I think there are some men who ought to go behind the bars."

Representative Berger believes that the attorney general will take steps to secure the citizenship of Olssen, deprived of that privilege by Judge Hanford.

NERVY NAT OF WEYMOUTH

Carried Off His Bottle Under The Chief's Nose

An Amusing Incident

Chief of Police Thomas Fitzgerald of Weymouth stood in City Square this morning talking to a group of reporters and the Chiefs of the Police Departments of Quincy, Braintree and Milton when his eagle eye caught sight of an old rounder from his own town. The fellow evidently saw the Chief for he fooled about the electric cars seemingly undecided which one to take.

Then he got up a little courage and started across the street with his hands stuck in his pocket in such a manner that the tail of his coat was a little higher than he evidently intended it to be, for as he passed the Chief and nodded a cheery good morning, the neck of a long bottle was seen protruding from his hip pocket.

The fellow then walked over toward the fountain in City Square where he leaned up against a telephone pole with his back to the police chiefs, just as though he did not know or fear them. Then it was that Chief Fitzgerald walked quietly up behind him and abstracted the bottle from the hip pocket. It proved to be a quart bottle two-thirds full of red liquor. Before the chief had a chance to make off with the bottle however the fellow came to and angrily demanded his flask and there was nothing for the Chief to do but give it to him. Then he boarded a car for Boston, and got out of sight.

SNEAK THIEF HAD HIS NERVE

Slipped Out of Rockland Store When Clerk Left Room

The Rockland police are looking for the nerviest sneak thief that has visited that town in recent years. The man entered the lunch room of Selectman Thompson and asked for cigars. The clerk handed the mout and the young man walked to the rear of the lunch room. The clerk turned to wait on another customer and in doing so passed into the next room. While he was gone the first young man seized a knife and sliced off several pounds of ham, then reached into the cigar case and filled his pockets and left in a hurry.

SUMMER SCHOOL SUCCESSFUL

Institution at Rockland Said to Save Two Years' Tuition

The summer school, which is being tried in Rockland for the first time, is proving a success. The school was established by vote of the town on account of the epidemic of measles last winter and on account of which many of the pupils of the school were unable to receive promotion.

Superintendent of Schools W. L. Coggins was much in favor of the new summer school and says that it will give many of the pupils a chance to go on with their classes at the opening of the regular sessions in September. He also says that a few weeks of the summer school will save many of the pupils a year's schooling and will therefore be a saving on the town.

TWO CHILDREN BITTEN BY DOG

Animal Paid for His Recklessness With His Life

Complaint was made to the police Tuesday that a dog which had been acting queerly had bitten two children at Houghs Neck. The dog, a spaniel, was owned by Jacob Nolund of Stoughton street. It was reported at the City Clerk's office that Joseph Kiley the 4 year old son of James Kiley of Houghs Neck was the boy bitten but the name of the little girl could not be learned. Late in the afternoon dog officer Gordon was sent down after the animal and killed him. No serious effects are anticipated from the bites as it is not thought that the dog had the rabbies.

PECULIAR DISTURBANCES

Mar the Quiet Home of Hanover Clergyman

HAPPEN DAY AND NIGHT

Rev. Fr. Charles Donohue, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart on Broadway, South Hanover, is uncertain whether he is the victim of some practical joker with a weird sense of sport or whether he is a witness of spiritual manifestations. At all events he has become unnerved by his experience and has left his cozy home and is temporarily housed at one of the neighbors.

It is certain that here have been manifestations at his home that none can account for, and unlike the usual capers of this sort, they happen in broad daylight, as well as in the early morning, when witches usually work.

The manifestations began last Saturday late in the afternoon, and were comparatively mild. Members of the committee that has charge of the picnic to be held Saturday by the parish were seated in the upper part of the house, when knockings were heard. Nothing was thought of it at the time, but several spoke of the unusual occurrence. A close examination failed to reveal any source from from which such knocks could have sprung.

On Saturday night, when Fr. Donohue, his housekeeper, Miss Margaret O'Connell, and her friend, Miss Frances E. Hoban, head operator at the Rockland Telephone Exchange, were in the parlor everything was quiet, but suddenly the noises were heard. A table in the kitchen was overturned, the legs broken, and the sound heard in the room where they were seated.

ARCHERY CLUB IN COMPETITION

Wollaston Organization Members Show Keen Interest

The Wollaston Archery club finished its first week of competition on Saturday, at the Campbell court, Beale and Norfolk streets. The record hits and scores for the week are held by Mrs. Walter Weld and Mr. E. W. Campbell, in a tie.

Sixteen members qualified during the week with several more applications for membership to be acted upon immediately. The revival of archery in America, at present a most popular sport in England and America, is the most enthusiastic, since the founding o fthe Toxophilite Society in 1781 in England, then the grand national tournament at York in 1844, after which occasion it became national in interest among the various countries of Europe.

The Wollaston club before the close of its first season will have its own tournament in Roving, Flight, Clout, Turtleback, and Target shooting at various distances according to English rules graded for qualified contestants.

MUSICALE AT FINNISH CHURCH

The art of free giving will be developed and exercised Thursday night in the Finnish Congregational church. The pastor Rev. John Lillbach is seriously opposed to holding entertainments and parties in the church which are based solely on a commercial basis, or worldly profit. He believes in free giving, sacrificing in the work of the Lord, and conducting those church socials along those lines.

Miss Effie Emelia Eskola, a noted pianist from Fitchburg arrived in Quincy Tuesday afternoon, and will spend a week with Rev. and Mrs. Lillback. She is a cousin of Mr. Lillbach. The young lady who is only sixteen years old is a pianist of considerable ability and will contribute of her skill and genius at the church entertainment, Thursday evening.

RIBBON UPSET A STATE.

The Undecorated Minister Resigned and the Government Fell.

Many interesting side lights on a court and the unexpected trials and troubles incident to it from which republics are free are given in William Miller Collier's book of reminiscences of his days as minister to the Spanish court. "At the Court of His Catholic Majesty." That a government should fall as the result of a ribbon bestowed for a purely ceremonial purpose seems rather absurd, but, says Mr. Collier:

"It is a historical fact that not many years ago a certain minister of the marine in one of the European countries resigned because the ruler of a foreign country, on the occasion of his visit to its capital, gave him a certain rank in a certain order and gave a higher rank to his colleague, the minister of war. The minister of marine contended that it was an insult to his country's navy and the fact that he received the rank which the rule required in such cases and that the minister of war had received a higher rank only because the lower rank had been given him previously made no difference to the aggrieved minister.

"In his opinion his own government in not demanding that the foreign government give him also the higher rank in this foreign order had permitted its navy to be insulted, and so he resigned, and the government fell. Thus does the fate of nations hang not on threads, but on ribbons."

FISH FEATHERS.

An Epicure's Dish and the Way to Trap the Makings.

The young man did not know what he wanted to eat. His appetite was poor. His palate must be tempted and tickled. He scanned the menu card again and again. Finally, with a sigh of resignation, he said to the waiter:

"Bring me some fish feathers."

"Fish feathers?" exclaimed the astonished waiter.

"Yes; fish feathers! And I want 'em tonight, not next week!"

The waiter retired for a conference with the chef, the captain and the floor manager.

"No such dish here," was his report. "There ain't any such thing. There never was such a dish in New York."

The young man arose and sighed again.

"That's what I've been told by every waiter in New York," he remarked sadly. "But if you will drop a line to the commissioner of fisheries in Washington he will correct your mistake, enlighten your ignorance, project a shaft of thought into that granite which grows above your shoulders."

He sighed a third time, stretched himself slowly and added:

"The commissioner will tell you that fish feathers are a delicacy. They are taken from flying fish. You catch flying fish with salt water on their tails."

Then he went gloomily into the night.—Popular Magazine.

One of the Family.

Tibble had been placed by her aunt in a situation as maid of all work in a family of three. At the end of a week the aunt "stepped along in" to see how Tibble was getting on.

"Do you like your work?" asked the aunt.

"'Tis fair," said the laconic Tibble.

"And are they making you feel at home?"

"Whiles they are, and whiles they aren't."

"Now, what do you be meaning by that?" asked the aunt impatiently.

"Aweel," said Tibble, "they have na asked me to gang t' kirk wi' them yet, but last night they went on wi' a grand quarr'l they were having, all the three o' them, wi' me takking the dishes off o' the table, jist as if I'd been one o' the family."—Youth's Companion.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

In its news of 1887, twenty-five years ago the Brockton Enterprise says:

"Messrs. Lunt and Merrill of Quincy inspected Brockton's street railway system. Quincy is to have a horse railroad."

The horse railroad was established but it soon became an electric street railway, is one of the first in New England. How the times have changed even in 25 years!

IMPROVEMENT.

Quite a transformation has taken place this week in the large stable on the Dr. Everett estate on Miller Stile road. All the Canitos have been removed, and the two-story structure remaining will be moved to a site on Cherry avenue and remodelled into a single dwelling house.

ANNUAL GATHERING.

The annual reunion of the Washington M. French Hose Association will be held at Norteman's pavilion, Houghs Neck, Saturday, August 24. Fred H. French is president of the association and one of the most active and enthusiastic members is Dr. Galen V. Bowditch.

CARD OF THANKS.

I sincerely thank the members of the K. of C., A. O. U. W., officials and employees of the Bay State St. Ry., relatives, friends and neighbors for floral tributes and untold kindness extended during my recent sad bereavement.

EMPIRE CHAIRMEN OF PROGRESSIVES

Meet and Hear Address of Colonel Roosevelt

New York, July 24.—In a characteristically vigorous speech Colonel Theodore Roosevelt assured seventy-five leaders of the organization, representing every county of the state and most of them either state committeemen of county chairmen, that there would be no letup in the fight to overthrow both the dominant parties.

Mr. Roosevelt said in part: "It will fight on live issues and not dead ones. It will embody a protest against the corruption in both of the old party machines. It will be a party into which ex-Democrats and ex-Republicans, without regard to their political past, are to come in on an exact equality and to have each the same share in the party management.

"My own judgment is that Messrs. Barnes, Penrose, Guggenheim and company made a poor swap when they took two stolen delegates from California in place of the electoral vote of California. They were not contented with that. They swapped the electoral vote of Massachuetts for the vote of two delegates. I think it was about as expensive a swap as was ever made by political managers."

First Step For Electrification

Boston, July 24.—The New Haven management has decided to electrify and four-track the Boston and Providence railroad. The work may be started this fall and could be completed before the close of 1913. The cost will be between $6,500,000 and $7,000,000 and it will be the first piece of electrification of a steam road out of Boston.

Girls Killed In Fire

London, July 24.—Seven girls were killed, five were fatally injured and several others severely injured in a fire in a four-story building in Moor lane, in the heart of the city, occupied by celluloid Christmas card manufacturers, who employed many females.

McCall Not After Governorship

Boston, July 24.—Congressman McCall has notified Joseph Walker that he would not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, but that he would enter the race for the United States senatorship.

Boston's New School Head

Boston, July 24.—Prof. Dyer, superintendent of schools of Cincinnati, has accepted a like position in Boston, at a salary of $10,000.

THIRTEEN MISTAKES

London Judge Figures Out Bakers' Dozen That Are Injurious

The following thirteen mistakes of life have been formulated by Judge Rentoul of the Court of the City of London:

To attempt to set up our own standard of right and wrong and expect everybody to conform to it.

To try to measure the enjoyment of others by our own.

To expect uniformity of opinion in this world.

To look for judgment and experience in youth.

To expect to mould all dispositions alike.

Not to yield in unimportant trifles.

To look for perfection in our own action.

To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied.

Not to help everybody, whenever, however and wherever we can.

To consider anything impossible which we cannot ourselves perform.

To believe only what our finite minds can grasp.

Not to make allowance for the weaknesses of others.

To estimate people by some outside quality, for it is that within which makes the man.

SMITH DOZING OVERTIME

Newburyport Man Gives Physicians a Knotty Problem

HAS LONG SLEEPING SPELLS

Henry Smith, toy locomotive engineer, and credited by local physicians as being the original sleeper, was brought to the Newburyport hospital Tuesday from Salisbury Beach, still sound asleep.

He has slept about 132 hours in the last week and is still slumbering peacefully, utterly oblivious of the attempts of the hospital attendants to arouse him.

He went to sleep in the theatre building at Salisbury beach on Wednesday and dozed dreamily until 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

He awoke then, yawned and remarked "Nice little nap."

To the astonished physicians and beach workers he explained that long snoozes were the usual thing with him, stating that one time while in Sherbrooke, Canada, he slept without winking for a space of 15 days.

On Saturday Mr. Smith again dozed off and is still asleep.

Dr. Jacob S. Spaulding of Salisbury declares Smith to be suffering from some disease of the brain.

ROBBERS VISIT BROOKS HOUSE

And Help Themselves During Absence of the Family

Fleming Brooks of 26 Howard street, Braintree, returned to his home Monday, after being away with his family since July 4, to find that during his absence the house had been broken into and most of its contents scattered about. Upon first examination only several pieces of silverware were found to be missing, but it is believed a further search will disclose a more extensive theft. The police department has started an investigation of the burglary.

LONG JOURNEY TO WED.

Miss Agnes E. Stevens, daughter of Mrs. Laura J. Stevens of Brockton, has started on a 2500-mile journey, at the end of which she will become the bride of the Rev. Arthur C. Hunt. She will go to Toronto and thence to Winnipeg, where the marriage will take place. From Winnipeg the minister and his bride will go to Tyron, Saskatchewan, where both will engage in misionary worwk.

BOY SCOUTS IN BLUE HILLS

Pine Tree Boys Join Greater Boston Boys in Outing

Eighteen Portland members of the Boy Scouts of America, in charge of their scout-master, John M. Arters, and an assistant scout-master, are in camp in the Blue Hills. There they are to have two weeks of work, pleasure and instruction with scouts from Greater Boston and vicinity.

The Portland boys walked from Boston to the Blue Hills with their packs of equipment, bedding, etc., on their shoulders. They tramped by way of Blue Hill avenue, through Dorchester Franklin Park and Mattapan.

BRIEFS

George E. Adams of Greenleaf street goes to Thornton, New Hampshire, this week for a few days.

Miss Bertha Smith of Chubbuck street is enjoying a vacation in Harpswell, Maine.

The Quincy police base ball team cross bats with the Somerville team at Somerville today.

Officers Thorne, Larkin, Curtin, and Doran of the police department are on their annual two weeks' vacation trip.

Chief Burrell will attend the annual outing dinner of the Massachusetts Chief of Police club at Paragon Park Thursday.

Miss Esther Waugh of Worcester is making an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. John McDonald of Bigelow street.

Miss Jennie W. Boutilier of Rock Island road, has returned from Melrose, where she spent two weeks with her aunt, Mrs. Madeline Corse.

Warrants for the killing of all unlicensed dogs have been given to the police and owners who have neglected to get their pets licensed are liable to be brought into court.

Many were surprised to learn that the new Fourteenth Congressional district was so close politically, as shown by the Daily Ledger figures on Tuesday, presenting the vote for Governor.

The many friends of Mrs. N. E. Brown of 42 Revere road will be pleased to know that she has been left the sum of $2000 by a relative in Washington, D. C.

Misses Emma and Dorothy Doble of the Parkway and Misses Emily and Lucy Moyle of Quincy Adams are guests at Crescent Inn, White Horse beach, Manomet.

John P. J. Ryan, Arthur H. Dunham, Thomas F. Carey and Charles A. Gragg, all letter carriers connected with the Quincy Post office, are enjoying their annual vacation.

Joseph A. Sedgwick, the treasurer of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., is entertaining his parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sedgwick, who recently arrived from Haywood, Iowa.

Albert Whitman of Thompson street, who was seriously injured in the street railway accident June 1st is still unable to be out and his many friends miss his cheerful greetings and regret very much the suffering he has to endure.

Hon. Charles Francis Adams, 2d, of Brookline, formerly of Quincy, one of the most prominent members of the Glades Club, North Scituate Beach, is settled with his family for the summer at that most exclusive and wonderfully situated club property on the Atlantic coast.

Of the coming events for the month of August, the lawn party to be held by the Quincy Women's club together with the Town River Yacht club on Thursday afternoon and evening of August 8, promises to be the leading social event for the season in that section. The different committees are now earnestly at work and we are assured their efforts will be crowned with success. There will be dancing from 9 till 12 P. M.

The "Midway" and tents of mystery are to be in prominence as well as the African dodger and other attractions.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glidden and little son, are guests of his mother Mrs. Mary Glidden of Cleverly court. Mr. Glidden travels extensively in the western states in the interest of the Douglas Shoe Co., of Brockton, and with his family resides in Kansas City, Kansas, most of the time. Mr. and Mrs. Glidden will go to Kennebunk, Maine, the last of the week to visit Mrs. Glidden's parents.

WOLCOTT OUT FOR SENATE BARNES FOR COMMITTEE JOB

Former Announces His Candidacy in Open Letter to Voters of the District

The Friendly Rotation in Office to Be Maintained

Roger Wolcott of Milton, who has served in the House of Representatives for four years, has announced his candidacy for the State Senate. Mr. Wolcott aims to occupy the seat in the Senate held for the last three years by George L. Barnes, of Weymouth. Mr. Barnes retires this year. In formally announcing his candidacy Mr. Wolcott says to the Voters of the First Norfolk Senatorial District:—

I am a candidate for the republican nomination for Senator in our district to succeed the Hon. George L. Barnes of Weymouth, who is not a candidate for re-election. According to the friendly rotation agreement between the city and the towns in the district, it seems to be generally agreed that the nomination should come to Milton this year, and I therefore hope to receive in the senatorial district the same generous and hearty support that has been given me for four successive years in my representative district of Canton and Milton If nominated and elected I am ready to give all my time and attention to the duties of the office and I shall strive to maintain the high standard of efficient and independent service that has been set by previous senators from our district

MORE PROPHECY ON CANDIDATES

Norman White to be Roosevelt Governor Candidate

Norman H. White is the latest guess as to the man Roosevelt has selected as the Progressive party candidate for governor of the state.

Evidently this is pure buncombe on the part of some people who wanted something to say and found this guess an output for their enthusiasm.

Mr. White is a progressive all right. He is also a Republican. Last year he sought the Republican nomination for governor, but fell far short of the mark.

He was an active and energetic worker for Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in the latter's last contest. Mr. White not been heard of much politically lately. At present he is at his summer home in Maine. That he is fighter, energetic, and consistent i conceded by all who know him.

SACRED HEART LAWN PARTY

Atlantic Church Planning for the Annual Event

FINE PROGRAM ARRANGED

Everything is in readiness for the annual lawn party of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic, which takes place Saturday afternoon and evening on the grounds adjoining the church. No stone has been left unturned to make the affair meet with the greatest possible success and with ideal weather conditions prevailing the parishioners anticipate an event which will greatly outclass any of those that have been held in previous years.

There will be plenty of attractions during the afternoon and evening for both young and old. A fine program of athletics has been arranged by Edward Keohane for boys and girls The boys' events, open to all members of the Sunday school under fourteen years will include 100 yard dash, 50 yard dash, three legged race, potato race and sack race The events for girls under twelve years of age will be 100 yards dash, 50 yard dash, three legged race, potato race and egg race.

A hurdy gurdy will furnish music for dancing on the board, which is to be erected for the occasion, during the afternoon, while Morrisette's orchestra will be on hand in the evening. Every imaginable feature has been procured to add to the enjoyment of the event and there will not be one dull or idle moment from two o'clock in the afternoon until the gathering disperses shortly after eleven in the evening.

Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe, pastor and his assistant Rev. Fr. J. F. McNiff have been ably assisted in preparation of the event, by the following committees, in charge of the various districts, tables and features:

The general committee is made up of members of the Holy Name Society.

One Youngster Pinned Between Two Cars Escaped Unhurt

TROUBLE STIRRER ESCAPED

Harry Fallon, 10 years, of 27 Island avenue, Houghs Neck, luckily escaped serious injuries shortly before seven o'clock, Wednesday evening, when he was pinned between two automobiles. The accident occurred near the junction of Sea street and Island avenue, where Brown's Bungalow dance hall is located.

One youngster, whose name could not be learned, got into the electric automobile, owned by Delcevare King, who happened to be at Norteman's Pavilion, dining with the members of the Board of Trade inspection party, and began to fool with the mechanism. Suddenly the machine started and did not stop until it struck another automobile about ten feet away in front of which young Fallon was standing. Fallon was held between the two cars until one of them was pushed away.

Fallon was more scared than injured, for when taken to his home and attended by a physician it was found he had not sustained any broken bones or internal injuries, although many bystanders thought he was seriously hurt.

The youngster who started the auto, took to his heels and escaped capture.

15TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Relatives and Friends Corgratulate Mr. and Mrs. Lundberg

About 25 relatives and friends attended the 15th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Lundberg, which was observed Wednesday evening at their home on Albertina street. The evening was pleasantly spent and an enjoyable time was had by all.

The couple were the recipients of many useful gifts, among which was a handsome cut glass dish. The house and lawn were prettily decorated for the occasion with flags and Japanese lanterns.

Appropriate remarks were made by Ex-representative Harry S. Nichols, ex-councilman Otto Gelotte, Otto Peterson and William Ericson. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Peter Johnson and Mrs. John Lundberg of Dedham gave a number of piano selections.

Refreshments were served and the gathering dispersed shortly before midnight. Guests were present from Boston, Braintree, Weymouth and Dedham.

QUINCY INDUSTRIES INSPECTED BY REPRESENTATIVE CITIZENS

Various Plants of the City Visited by Members of the Board of Trade and Delighted Guests

City Honeycombed by Cosmopolitan Thrift Which Is a Matter of Complete Surprise to the Uninitiated

The tour of the city by the Board of Trade Wednesday afternoon, during which a number of the thriving industries of the city were visited and inspected was a pronounced success. It was participated in by upwards of sixty of the members of the Board and aside from being an enjoyable afternoon afforded the members an opportunity to see some of the many things which are being done in Quincy daily. While the general scope of the industries was well known to the majority of those on the trip they had but little idea of the magnitude of the work or of its details.

Aside from the interest that all have in manufacturing industries the trip brought out the fact that while once the granite industry was practically the only one the city possessed, there are today a large number of manufacturing plants, which while not employing as many men perhaps as the granite industry and the Fore River Ship Building Co., are an important factor in the growth and development of the city.

Then again it was an eye opener to many to see what was being done. Everywhere a stop was made the Board was received with the utmost cordiality and they were shown everything of interest that could be seen in the short time alloted for each stop. The trip consumed practically five hours and during that time 26 miles was covered according to the speedometer on the car of Herman F. McIntyre upon which the writer was a passenger.

It was planned to leave the rooms of the Board of Trade at 12.30 but it was nearly twenty minutes later before the dozen cars which carried the party, got away. The leading car was that of President Charles C. Hearn gaily decorated with the National emblems as well as carrying a placard upon which was printed "Quincy Board of Trade." A similar card was also carried by most of the other cars.

The first stop was made at the plant of the Boston Gear Works near the Norfolk Downs depot at 1.15. Frank Burgess the proprietor was one of the party on the trip and he piloted the party through the plant so that they saw the greatest amount in the shortest possible time. The plant employs about 115 men and is certainly a busy place. The main room is filled with expensive and delicate machinery used in the making of gears of all kinds, and so great is the demand for the product of the plant that it is necessary to run it at its fullest capacity from one years end to the other.

From here the party crossed the railroad track to the plant of the S H. Couch Co., manufacturers of interior telephone systems such as are in use in most of the large manufacturing plants and office buildings throughout the country . Formerly in a plant which had thirty departments it was necessary to have a cable of thirty or more wires running about the building to connect the stations. With this system however it is all done with three wires. It is a clean pleasant business for the sixty men and girls employed.

The next stop was at the plant of the A. B. Robbins Iron Co., adjoining. Here the fancy, yet substantial iron work which ornaments many public buildings is assembled. The plant although a comparatively small one employs about forty men. Councilman Gilliatt the manager of the company was not present, but the party were shown about by another member.

From there they passed through the plant of the Wollaston Foundry Co., which it is perhaps not generally known is one of the largest plants of its kind in the state. This is one of Quincy's oldest manufacturing industries and employs 100 men.

The party then crossed the street to the plant of the Pneumatic Scale Co., where 100 men are employed. This is a plant at which several hours might well be spent in watching the working of the delicate machines that seem more than human. Here they saw machines for the making of carton boxes such as cereals are put in. Also a machine that lined these cartons with oil paper. A machine where a carton was started empty at one end and came out of the other filled with its product all ready for shipment. What is more it had been weighed to a hair of what it was designed to hold.

Coming from this plant the automobiles were taken for West Quincy and in the forty-five minutes that had been used up the party had visited five industries employing practically 500 men and girls

The route to West Quincy was over Farrington, Beale and Adams streets to the Furnace Brook parkway, thence to Willard street where a stop was made near the corner of Furnace avenue for a visit to the quarry of J. S. Swingle known the country over as the "Extra Dark Man." The climb up the rough and dusty road that led to the quarry gave an idea of what some men have to do daily. Eventually the top of Mr. Swingle's hill was reached and the party standing on the bridge which spans his domain looked down the quarry hole and saw men at work 205 feet below, who looked more like tiny specks than men. Then they took a look at the power house and witnessed the massive machinery haul a fifteen ton boulder from the bottom of the quarry to the top as easily as though it had weighed but a pound.

Then they took a look into one of the quarries of the Granite Railway Co., and as they again started down the hill a short stop was made at the quarry of P. Mannix, the deepest quarry in the city. Here they looked down a depth of 250 feet and saw men at work who looked little larger than Jersey mosquitoes.

Willard street again being reached a raid was made on a lunch room near by where many bottles of tonic were soon being used to wash down the dust that had accumulated.

Then the party started for South Quincy, going via Copeland, and Centre streets, Brooks avenue and Liberty street to Penn street, the first stop being made at the mill of the Empire Polishing Co., which is probably one of the largest granite polishing mills in the country. All of the polishing wheels in the plant were in full operation and they saw the process by which granite is given the handsome polish so much admired. Here they also saw a massive air compressor with a capacity of 1380 feet per minute, and which furnishes the power for many of the pneumatic tools of plants in the immediate vicinity

A brief stop was then made at the plant of Kavanagh Bros., who manufacture Westerly granite to a large extent. Mr. E. H. Kavanagh met them at the entrance and passed cigars for which he received many thanks. Brief stops were then made at the cutting plants of the H. C. SmaHey Co., J. R. Richards Granite Co., and John L. Miller. These afforded an opportunity of witnessing the process by which rough boulders are fashioned into handsome and lasting memorials.

Leaving South Quincy the party went to the Central Fire Station where Chief Litchfield, and the firemen stationed there gave an exhibition of a quick hitch.

The next objective point was the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. plant which was reached via Quincy avenue, Scammell and South streets, Des-Moines road and Howard street. S. T. MacQuarrie secretary to President Bowles met the party at the door and accompanied them through the plant. Of course with the limited time at their disposal hardly more than a passing glance could be had of this wonderful industry, which is now employing four or five thousand men. Passing down the yard they entered the forge shop where they saw the massive ingots of steel from which the shafting for battleships is forged. Then they entered the power house and thence through into the machine shop where they saw the famous Curtis turbines being assembled as well

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

If it was not for the interviewer Chauncey Depew would be lost to the public and perhaps fame.

Some of the stage and society gossip in the big daily papers, is a gentle reminder of that wonderful comedian Sol Smith Russell, in Felix McCusick.

And now a Denver woman says her husband has conspired with spooks to disinherit her and her son. It may be all laid to the recent flood.

Well out with it, what is the programme aranged for Congressman McCall? While the people are interested to a certain point, they would like to know just what is expected of them.

While the Boston Record claims that Andrew's ability is superior to his discretion it would be pertinent to inquire wherein he has demonstrated either in the light of recent events?

Dakota Dan stands all right with those school day mates, all right, but Fresno with his short memory has the inside track on the money acquaintance.

Esquinal Ameandaz who said he had a formula for removing the yellow from the sun should not voice those sentiments too loud or he will have the whole yellow press against him.

China is shaping up well as a republic and a continuance along the same lines may rob some Fourth of July orator of some of his customary thunder.

Here is a bit of evidence which failed to reach the state board of arbitration. A lady lost her pocketbook containing $50 and it was turned in by one of the new conductors. Should it be used for or against the candidate?

Cardinal Gibbons, 78 years old, hale and hearty, stole away to shun the demonstrations which would be made in his honor, but his hold on the heart of every person in Baltimore is unchangeable.

John Mitchell has been sentenced by the court with the proviso that he would be let off if he didn't do it again. But John would not make the promise and so he is travelling around the country while the court—well it hasn't even the chance of a recall.

And in everything that is done, where publicity, the right kind, that puts him in the limelight, Mayor Fitzgerald, bobs up, Johnny on the spot, with a racuous "Me too" that can be heard from one end of the state to the other, and even beyond.

This Turkish-Italian war must be a sort of a family affair we hear so little about it.

The man who claims to have seen Capt. Smith of Titanic fame, has been adjudged all right by a physician, but then only one side has been heard. Wait until the other alienists have been heard in the case.

Candidate Wilson has retired to the tall timbers to prepare his speech of acceptance. It is said he is to dwell upon the Lawrence strike. He should exercise care in this matter, considering that those right on the scene showed a remarkable ability to disagree upon the essential facts.

IS IT BORDERING ON SOCIALISM?

Lloyd George, the most remarkable chancellor of the exchequer that England has ever had is responsible, it is said for the national workingman's insurance law. It is said that the law only went into effect recently, but as a matter of fact, it has been operative for 16 years, having first made its appearance in 1896 in the form of workingman's insurance. The operation of this law has not been wholly satisfactory. It leaves the settlement of such cases in the courts, where it formerly rested. Then again, until recently at any rate, the employers collected or docked the wages of the workmen the amounts necessary to pay the insurance rates.

The new law, with its more up to date provisions provide for working people from 16 to 70 years whose wages are less than $800 per year. Now the English workingman who is receiving $800 a year is considered in affluent circumstances

The cost of the insurance under the old law was to be shared.

Sick benefits are to be maintained as well as homes for consumptives. Then there is the pension measure which carries an appropriation of $53,000,000 annually. Truly in an optimistic review of those provisions, the life of the English workman must be delightful. He has no worry for the morrow. But if those measures are as good and beneficial in their workings as they look on paper, why this great unrest in English labor circles? Strikes have been of frequent occurrence in many branches entailing great loss to both employer and employed.

SWINDLED AND SWINDLER.

The story of the millions of which reckless investors, eager to reap large profits and get rich quick, are swindled each year in this country is indeed startling. Only $120,000,000 found its way to the coffers of the swindlers the past year, against $150,000,000 the preceding year, tending to show that many such investors are getting cautious, or else they lacked the $30,000,000 shortage.

It is needless to point out that the large investors are not caught in the net so dexterously cast by the small swindling promoters.

The heavy investors hit their powers and skill against equally able financiers. That some of them get squeezed in undeniable, but rise or fall, their position is accepted as the logical outcome of a never ending battle. But with the others class, the small investors, it is different. The great amount mentioned probably represents the small savings of thousands of people. Lured by the brilliancy of the scheme presented, deceived by the oily-tongued agent or convincing circular, those people see what they believe is a chance to gain an independent competency by one bold plunge with their small hoard.

The result is obvious. The money disappears and there is no redress. A few years ago, thousands of mechanics, teachers, clergymen and others of a class, unfamiliar with high finance were caught and severely burned. They were innocent victims of open and gross rascality.

It is pointed out that there are many safe investments in which those swindled could place their money. Safe investments do no t appear to them. The fever to get something for nothing burns out their reason, judgment and common sense.

In view of the repeated exposure of those swindles it is really distressing to witness the same people being caught by the same devices year after year.

It is truly pitiful to watch the man of small income, waste away his time with eyes riveted upon the black board of the bucket-shop and ears turned to catch each change in stocks as they are announced. It seems to be a mania with them. They are besotted with the idea that with a few tens or a few hundreds of dollars, with which they buy on margin there will come a day when they will reap a harvest. If they make a little picking now and then they do not know enough to hold on to it and step down and out. no, that only stimulates them to greater determination. The "market is coming their way," they "knew it," "it was sure to turn out" as they predicted. And poor fools they dwaddle away time, undermine what little intellect they possess and throw their pittance into the bottomless pit. To listen to one of this class jabber about "bears" and "bulls" the "rise" and "fall" of this or that stock, their prophetic views and unquenchable optimism in their own powers of divination would be amusing were it not so distressing.

DEAD AND GONE.

Just as we were congratulating ourselves that Quincy, already rich in historic features, was about to add another to the collection, Mr. Griffin's cat gone went and died. The cat had two tails. They were two full fledged and husky tails capable of whisking around on both sides at the one time to drive away the pestiferous flies. But poor kitty gave up the ghost. Lacking an autopsy to determine the fact we are unable to say whether the nine lives were flicked out at one fell stroke or that one was dropped now and then until the last one was reached and then tabby departed. From a scientific standpoint it would have been important if this question had been settled.

It is only on occasions of this time that memory hearkens back to the days of P. T. Barnum. Only last week while kitty was in the full bloom of life and vigor and the exercise of its two appendages a circus was in the city. Yet no notice was taken to secure this wonderful specimen. If Barnum had been alive that cat would have been secured and if human skill or science could have done it, that cat would have been alive today. Thus coincident with the passage of the great show man we must bow to the inevitable and feel that his non-appearance on the scene robbed Quincy of another treasure. Maybe it could not be classed as historic, but then it would have been recalled to future ages that Quincy produced the "only two tailed cat in this great world, the wonder of the ages."

THE NAUGHTY BOYS.

The town of Flushing has had a disheartening experience in an attempt to do away with flies. Last season the Housewives' League offered prizes of base balls and bats for the greatest numbers of dead flies, and these were temptingly displayed in a show window. The swat-the-fly campaign proceeded with satisfaction on all sides. Flies in great quantities were exchanged for bats and balls, and the Housewives' League members felt themselves public benefactors

Early this season the good work was taken up again Mindful of the habit of flies in secreting themselves during the winter, the league offered prizes early in the hope of gathering in all the leftovers of last year and so reducing the new crop Soon dead flies in surprising numbers were being presented at headquarters, and moreover, housewives were being troubled unusually early with flies about their premises. Instead of growing freer from flies, Flushing seemed to have become their favorite haunting ground. They seemed to be in league with the boys coveting bats and balls.

A physician of the town got interested. He got suspicious. He started out on the still hunt to look into the fly situation He had been a boy himself, and he understood boy nature and the appeal of the bat and ball. And then Flushing's disheartening experience came to light Boys were engaging "systematically in the occupation of fly-culturists, setting boxes of spoiled meat in places where they would receive the strong rays of the sun, and rigging up fly-traps in the vicinity with the aid of netting and molasses." So they got good catches of dead flies, and incidentally Flushing got an enlarged fly crop through those that escaped. Ingenious, very, on the part of the boys, but the bounty system is likely to die a natural death in Flushing

A western paper tells how county boards and state legislatures have discovered that offering bounties on wolves' heads has led to dishonest trickery to get money from the public treasury. Instead of civic interest to rid the county of noxious animals, wolf-farming, as it is called, has actually become a thriving industry. When the price for the heads of full grown wolves has been greater than for cubs' heads, wolf cubs have been reared to maturity before being offered for reward.

The boys of Flushing have worked on the same plan. The bounty prize was too tempting. But fortunately there is an anti-fly crusade plan available, incapable of dishonesty and sure in results. It consists in preventing the breeding of flies by preserving scrupulous cleanliness within and without all premises in the city.—New Bedford Standard.

LADIES' DAY.

The friends and members of the Squantum Yacht club are looking forward to August 3 when the annual ladies' day of the club will be observed. The program will consist of a sail, concert and refreshments in the afternoon, with dancing in the evening. An efficient committee consisting of Commodore Eleazer F. Drew, Perley C. Rogers, Louis J. Jobin, Harvey N. Locke and William I. Hartley have the matter in charge and are promising the best time ever.

GRAND ARMY MEN NOT JUMPING INTO ADAMS ACADEMY BUILDING

Until Their Responsibility and Position Is More Clearly Defined

Possibility of Moving Any Minute Causes Uncertainty

In an endeavor to have the 65 members of Paul J. Revere convinced that it is to their advantage to establish their quarters in the Adams Academy Building, Mayor Eugene R. Stone and City Solicitor John W. McAnarney will be present at the meeting of the post, to be held this evening in G. A. R. hall, to offer enlightenment on the subject. When the question of securing suitable quarters for the local Grand Army Post came up, Mayor Stone lost no time in coming to the fore and giving the Adams Academy, formerly known as one of the leading preparatory schools in the country, to the Paul Revere Post, to be used and maintained by them until otherwise ordered.

It was at first thought that the Grand Army men would take the Academy building as soon as it was possible to get into it. But such evidently was not the case, for a number of them, it is said the greater part of them, are inclined to think that it is not right for them to make their headquarters in a building which was intended by the founder to be used only for educational purposes. Then too, many of them fear, since their guardianship of the building would be subject to a change, that they are liable to be asked to vacate at any time. Such being the case, they would lose money in maintaining a building that was not to be their permanent property.

The Adams Academy would require a number of improvements before becoming suitable for Grand Army headquarters and these improvements would entail considerable expense. It will be decided this evening at the meeting whether the post will accept the building, according to the proposition advanced by Mayor Stone.

as a recipocating engine that was being assembled.

Leaving the machine shop they passed along the dock to the battleship Rivadavia, one of the largest fighting vessels in the world. They were piloted about several of the decks and saw many things of interest. Then they entered the submarine department where they saw two of the cigar shaped vessels under construction.

Coming back to the office they had an opportunity to see the thousands of men making their nightly exit, for it was now 4.30 and the day's work was over. Hardly had the yard been cleared however before the yard fire alarm sounded and an exhibition fire drill was witnessed by the party.

The next stop was at the million dollar power plant of the Bay State Street Railway Co. Here the current is generated which furnishes the motive power for not only the street cars of the City of Quincy but all of the south shore and as far south as New Bedford and Fall River.

This power station is one of the most modern in the country. Curtis turbine engines are used to generate the power to run the generators. The coal is brought from the wharf to the plant by an endless chain of buckets and dumped into the bin on the top of the plant holding a thousand tons, from which it is weighed and fed automatically to the boilers.

From here the trip took the party along the shore front of Town river, through the lumber yard of Benjamin Johnson, thence into Washington Canal and Brackett streets to the plant of the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co. The trip to this plant afforded a view of part of Quincy's unsurpassed water front and when the power station was reached the beautiful shore front was called to the attention of the party by President Hearn, who stated that the matter of a location of a public dock was one that would soon be brought up for discussion before the board.

The party were met at the power station by Supt. Fred Austin, who after seeing that all had been supplied with cigars, piloted them through this plant, which by the way, is one of the most modern power plants in existance. Here they saw how care was taken that there should be no wasted energy, as well as the dynamoes which generate the current which light the city at night as well as furnishing many of the stores and private residences of the city with illumination. Supt. Austin. also showed the party how it was possible in the short space of six seconds to throw the city from a cene of utter darkness into a city with well lighted streets

It was now 5.30 and as the party was due at Norteman's pavilion, at Houghs Neck at 6 o'clock for supper this point was now headed for. On their arrival most of the party visited the Quincy Yacht club house where they had an opportunity to wash off a little of the dust that had been accumulated during the trip.

Dinner was announced at a little after 6 o'clock and here again many of the party for the first time learned that right here in Quincy it was possible to obtain a shore dinner whose excellence cannot be excelled anywhere along the south or north shore. Mr. Norteman certainly put up a fine dinner and the way in which it was partaken of showed that it was enjoyed.

During the dinner President Hearn took occasion to thank the members of the Board for the way in which they had entered into the spirit of the day. He also said that he wanted particularly to thank the members who had so kindly loaned their automobiles, which had so largely contributed to the success of the afternoon. He said that there were to be no speeches but that the affair was to be entirely informal. He however would call upon Mayor Stone for a word.

Mayor Stone said but a word. He was glad to see the interest that had been taken in the outing and hoped all had derived much benefit from the trip.

Dock and Water Front Commissioner F. F. Crane extended the hospitalities of the yacht club house to those who cared to use it and spoke a word about the Atlantic Deeper Waterways convention that was to be held at New London, September 4, 5, 6.

The dinner over the trip came to an end, the party coming home or remaining at the beach to watch the sights at their desires dictated.

Those in the party were as follows, several of whom joined the party at the Fore River yard and at Norteman's.

Mrs. Tacecig of Quincy Point Left Home Monday Forenoon

FOUND IN BOSTON

The police were informed Wednesday that Mrs. Anna Tacecig, a Polish woman about 60 years of age, had left the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. Tuesolo, of 107 North street, Quincy Point, about 11 o'clock Monday morning and had been missing since. The woman had come from Chicago about two weeks ago.

She is unable to talk English and when she left home wore a light summer suit. The police received word this morning that a Polish woman bearing a great resemblance to Mrs. Tacecig was at the Chardon street home in Boston.

The missing woman's daughter was notified and went to the home this noon, with a view to locating her mother.

Mrs. Tacecig was identified by her daughter at the Chardon street home at about one o'clock this afternoon and taken to Quincy.

Postal cards have been received from William Patterson the Wollaston florist from the top of Mt. Kearsarge, N. H., which report him as enjoying the mountain scenery.

Agaric in Plain or Flowered Designs A Popular Summer Fabric

HAT AND PARASOL EN COSTUME

Summer vacation clothes may be as simple or as elaborate as one's convictions and one's pocketbook prescribe, but in whichever direction your tastes lead you, be sure you can be as chic in one as in the other in the present styles. The woman who goes to very smart hotels, or spends some time in those homes where society resorts will probably be outfitted by fashionable modistes with the minimum of trouble to herself, but the great mass of women do not have clothes thrust upon them in this easy manner. The majority achieve clothes with much consideration of ways and means, with much contriving of the number and styles of gowns, incidentally finding a pleasure of which the women who do not have to plan know nothing.

Surely from the beautiful fabrics and clever designs now to be had, a woman of ingenuity can get together for her summer vacation a wardrobe which will supply her needs as completely as many a more costly outfit. First of all there is chiffon taffeta, in color and quality, especially adapted to the general utility gown. Two or even three taffeta dresses will not be too many for the summer visits if one expects to take part in many social entertainments.

This cut illustrates one of the smartest of taffeta frocks. It is made of the popular two-toned taffeta, dark brown and corn flower blue, combining in a flickering shimmer of two lovely tints. The simply made skirt and waist are given a dressy appearance by the Venise lace Joan of Arc over-waist. A finely tucked white chiffon vest fills in the opening of the surplice front and a lace belt outlines the top of the high waist. The hat to be worn with this costume is white Leghorn underfaced with dark blue velvet. A twist of the two-toned taffeta about the crown and a shaded brown and blue feather bring it in unison with the prevailing color scheme.

Another pretty taffeta dress recently seen was a lavender and white stripe. A scant flounce around the bottom was scalloped and bound with violet silk. Pipings of the violet silk trimmed the low bodice and elbow sleeves. A wide Spanish lace scarf carelessly draped about the shoulders, the long ends hanging down in front, was a graceful fancy which gave character to the costume. With the aid of the many beautiful lace accessories now for sale in all the shops the simplest taffeta dress attains the dignity of a costume. A wise woman whose income restricts the number of her dresses, will ensure a pleasing variety in those she has by supplying herself with several different lace trifles of this sort for occasional wear.

Besides the taffeta dress the woman who is getting ready for summer visits must have plenty of white skirts and shirt waists. These are inexpensive if she makes them herself, their charm depending upon their simplicity. She must have enough to insure absolute freshness at all times. Many materials are used now for the so-called shirtwaist skirt, linen, duck, pique and many pretty mercerized cotton goods which closely simulate linen being seen in the shops. The real linen skirt is perhaps not so popular as it was a year or two ago. It does not keep fresh as well as other fabrics, and the prevailing fancy for corded effects has brought pique and similar textiles to the fore. Very stylish this summer are the cotton cords and wide wale piques. The latter make very attractive skirts. The best taste demands that they be cut with as few seams as possible and with little complication of lines. The sole trimming should be buttons, rather large, and either wide pearl of clear crystal. Pretty skirts are made of white agaric or Turkish toweling which comes in light weight and is cool and summery. This material has the advantage over pique and especially over linen, that it does not muss easily and does not have to be laundered so often, two very important considerations for the woman who is engaged in the struggle of keeping her clothes at the top notch of perfection away from home. Since its introduction agaric has grown steadily in popular favor because of its adaptability to many needs. It may be used with equally pleasing results for the lace-trimmed, one-piece gown as for separate tailored skirt. With edge and insertion of Cluny or Nottingham lace it makes chic and serviceable dresses. Parasols and hats, too, are made of this unique fabric. Lace trimmed agaric costume with hat and parasol to match makes a gown suitable for garden party or afternoon tea, survives the hottest afternoon in irreproachable condition, and has, moreover, the merit of being entirely up-to-date. Although it has the informality of an unpretentious linen frock, its forwardness in the world of fashions sets its wearer apart as a woman who dresses with taste and distinction. The agaric parasol is quite new, and, needless to say, most attractive. The fabric is stretched quite taut over the ribs as in any plain parasol, and the trimming is an edge of heavy lace matching the agaric in tint. Agaric may be had in flowered patterns as well as in plain tints. Smart dresses are those with deep collar and cuffs of a flowered design on a ground to match the plain shade of the dress. The same material comes in silk as well as cotton. The silk agaric or Terry cloth is acceptable for cuffs and collars on serge suits. Both silk and cotton varieties come in different qualities. For summer dresses a very light weight can be had which is easier to trim than the heavy. Embroidery in a bold pattern can be worked on it with satisfactory results as a trimming.

Such a dress is illustrated in this cut, the embroidery in heavy cotton standing out in bold relief against the rough surface of the agaric. A lace frill of a pale ecru tint to match the material of the gown is a pretty finish for the front of the waist. A brown leather belt is worn with the dress. A dark-brown tagal or hemp hat with a fancy white feather relieved with touches of brown lends dignity to the gown.

This hat question is a serious problem to the woman of small means. We all know that a hat designed especially for a costume adds that final touch of elegance which enhances and brings out the full beauty of the dress. The person who cannot do this should have a good, well made and becoming black hat. This will look well with every gown and gives her always the charm of the well-dressed woman.

DILLON'S PRESENCE OF MIND PROBABLY SAVED FEW LIVES

Heedless of Personal Danger He Turned Auto Truck Into Telegraph Pole

Shunted Machine to Avoid Collision With Fire Engine

It was in order to avoid a clash with two horse hitch from the West Quincy fire house, while responding to an alarm from Box 413 about 1.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, that Driver James Dillon steered the automobile chemical into a telephone pole. Dillon was near the top of the hill and was about to go from second to first speed when the engine of the machine failed to work.

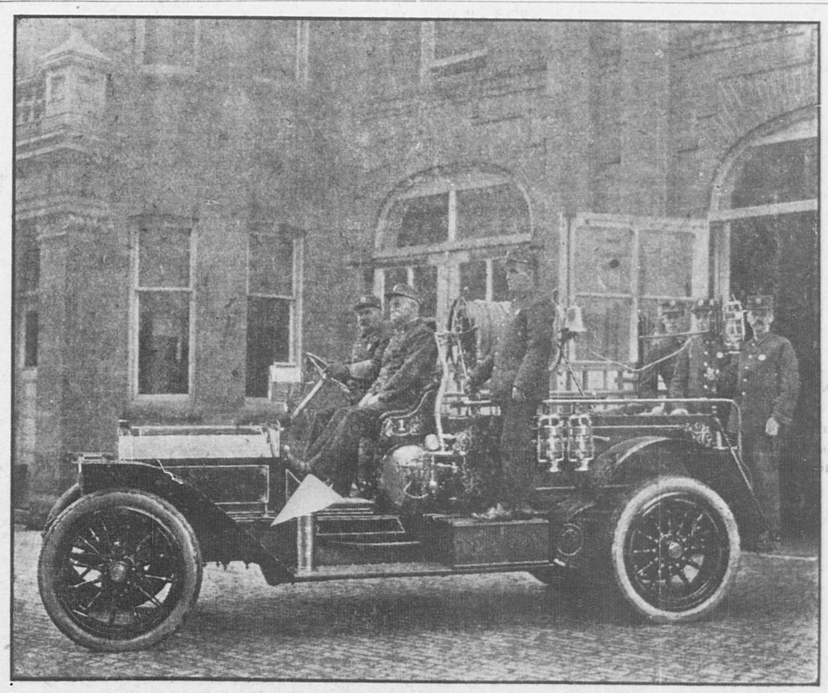

The chemical began to back down the hill and Dillon tried to bring it to a standstill by applying the emergency brakes, but they too were not working. Still staying at his post Dillon held onto the wheel and the machine started to back rapidly.

He looked behind him and saw the West Quincy apparatus, with five men, coming up the hill. He knew that to back straight meant disaster so he ran the machine into a telephone pole, at the risk of his own life. The pole broke at the base and the wires were pulled down to the street. The machine had backed down the hill about one hundred and fifty feet before crashing into the pole.

The rear of the machine was badly damaged and it was not until near midnight that it was placed in proper working order.

SAME LIST DELEGATES

Sent to Chicago by New Jersey Will Return

Asbury Park, N. J., July 25.—New Jersey led the eastern states in the new party movement when a mass convention of progressives launched a separate political organization and decided to nominate a full state ticket for the November election.

The convention voted to put on the ticket a set of presidential electors supporting Theodore Roosevelt and send to the National Progressive convention in Chicago the same set of delegates that represented the state at the Republican national convention, pledging them again to vote for Colonel Roosevelt as the candidate of the new party.

It suggested no name for the new party and agreed to leave that detail and others to the national convention. The possibility of alliance with any of the old established parties was denied in the most vigorous terms.

Victim of a New York Gang

New York, July 25.—Patrolman Francis Reilly, one of New York's hero medal policemen, is dying in an East Side hospital from wounds received in an encounter with gangsters. Reilly arrested a member of the so-called "Pansy Gang" on a robbery charge. The other members of the gang met forthwith and vowed revenge. A few hours later they fell upon the patrolman at a dark street corner and left him with a fractured skull and internal injuries.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"Are you sure, at last, runaways?" asked Philip Ammon.

"Perfectly sure!" cried Elnora.

"Will you marry me now?"

"This instant! That is, any time after the noon boat comes in."

"Why such unnecessary delay?" demanded Ammon.

"It is almost September," explained Elnora. "I sent for mother three days ago. We must wait until she comes, and we either have to send for Uncle Wesley and Aunt Margaret or go to them. I couldn't possibly be married properly without those dear people."

"We will send," decided Ammon. "The trip will be a treat for them. O'More, would you get off a message at once?"

Every one met the noon boat. They went in the motor because Ammon was too weak to walk so far. As soon as people could be distinguished at all Elnora and Philip sighted an erect figure, with a head like a snowdrift. When the gangplank fell the first person across it was a lean, red haired boy of eleven, carrying a violin in one hand and an enormous bouquet of yellow marigolds and purple asters in the other. He was beaming with broad smiles until he saw Ammon. Then his expression changed.

"Aw, say!" he exclaimed reproachfully. "I bet you Aunt Margaret is right. He is going to be your beau!"

Elnora stooped to kiss Billy as she caught her mother.

Mrs. Comstock shook out her skirts, straightened her hat and came forward to meet Philip, who took her into his arms and kissed her repeatedly. He passed her along to Freckles and the Angel, to whom her greetings were mingled with scolding and laughter over her wind blown hair. Then the O'More children came crowding to meet Elnora's mother.

"Before you think of something more give me your left hand, please," said Philip to Elnora.

Elnora gave it galdly and the ring slipped on her finger. Then they went together into the forest to tell each other all about it and talk it over.

"Have you seen Edith?" asked Ammon.

"No," answered Elnora, "but she must be here, or she may have seen me when we went to Petoskey a few days ago. Her people have a cottage over on the bluff, but the Angel never told me until today. I didn't want to make that trip, but the folks were so anxious to entertain me and it was only a few days until I intended to let you know myself where I was."

"And I was going to wait just that long, and if I didn't hear then I was getting ready to turn over the country. I can scarcely realize yet that Edith sent me that telegram."

"No wonder! It's a difficult thing to believe. I can't express how I feel for her."

"Let us never again speak of it," said Ammon. "It is done. We will forget it."

"I scarcely think I shall," said Elnora. "It is the sort of thing I like to remember. How suffering must have changed her! I would give a great deal to bring her peace."

"Henderson came to see me at the hospital a few days ago. He's gone a pretty wild pace, but if he had been held from youth by the love of a good woman he might have lived differently. There are things about him one cannot help admiring."

"I think he loves her," said Elnora softly.

* * * * * * *

Edith Carr went to her room after her goodby to Henderson, lay on her bed and tried to think why she was suffering as she was.

"It is all my selfishness, my unrestrained temper, my pride in my looks, my ambition to be first," she said. "That is what has caused this trouble. No one really cares for me but Hart. I've sent him away, so there is no one—no one."

Edith pressed her fingers across her burning eyes and lay still.

"He is gone," she whispered at last. "He would go at once. He would not see me again. Oh, these dreadful days to come, alone! I can't bear it. Hart, Hart!" she cried aloud. "I want you! No one cares but you. No one understands but you. Oh, I want you!"

She sprang from her bed and felt her way to her desk.

"Get me some one at the Henderson cottage," she said to central and waited shivering.

After a time the sleepy voice of Mrs. Henderson answered.

"Has Hart gone?" panted Edith Carr.

"No! He came in late and began to talk about starting to California. He hasn't slept in weeks to amount to anything. I put him to bed. There is time enough to start to California when he wakens. Edith, what are you planning to do next with that boy of mine?"

"Will you tell him I want to see him before he goes?"

"Yes, but I won't wake him."

"I don't want you to. Just tell him in the morning."

"Very well."

Hart has not gone. Edith fell asleep. She arose at noon the next day, took a cold bath, ate her breakfast, dressed carefully, and leaving word that she had gone to the forest she walked slowly across the leaves. She was thinking hard and fast.

Henderson came swiftly down the path. A long sleep, food and Edith's message had done him good. He had dressed in new light flannels that were becoming. Edith met him.

"Let us walk in the forest," she said.

They passed the old Catholic graveyard and went back into the deepest wood of the island. There Edith seated herself on a mossy old log and Henderson studied her. He could detect a change. She was still pale and her eyes tired, but the dull, strained look was gone. He wanted to hope, but he did not dare.

"What have you thought of that you wanted yet, Edith?" he asked lightly as he stretched himself at her feet.

"You!"

Henderson lay tense and very still.

"Well, I am here."

"Thank heaven for that! I didn't want you to go away."

"Not at all?"

"Not at all; not ever; not unless you take me with you, Hart. I can't honestly say that I love you with the love you deserve. My heart is too sore. It's too soon to know. But I love you some way. You are necessary to me. You are my comfort, my shield. If you want me, as you know me to be, Hart, you can consider me yours."

Henderson kissed her hand passionately. "Don't, Edith," he begged. "Don't say those things. I can't bear it. I understand. Everything will come right in time. Love like mine must bring a reward. You will love me some day. I can wait. I am the most patient fellow."

"But I must say it," cried Edith. "I—I think, Hart, that I have been on the wrong road to find happiness. I planned to finish life as I started it with Phil, and you see how glad he was to change. He wanted the other sort of girl far more than he ever wanted me. And you, Hart, honest, now—I'll know if you don't tell me the truth—would you rather have a wife as I planned to live life with Phil or would you rather have her as Elnora Comstock intends to live with him?"

"Edith," cried the man, "Edith!"

"Of course, you can't say it in plain English," said the girl. "You are far too chivalrous for that. You needn't say anything. I am answered. If you could have your choice you wouldn't have a society wife, either. In your heart you'd like the smaller home of comfort, the furtherance of your ambitions, the palatable meals regularly served and little children around you. I am sick of all we have grown up to, Hart. When your hour of trouble comes there is no comfort for you. I am tired to death. You find out what you want to do and be, that is a man's work in the world, and I will plan our home with no thought save your comfort. I'll be the other kind of a girl as fast as I can learn. I can't correct all my faults in one day, but I'll change as rapidly as I can."

Henderson was not talking then, so they sat through a long silence. At last Henderson heard Edith draw a quick breath, and lifting his head he looked where she pointed. Up a fern stalk climbed a curious looking object. They watched breathlessly. By lavender feet clung a big, pursy, lavender splotched, yellow body. Yellow and lavender wings began to expand and take on color. Every instant great beauty became more apparent. It was one of those double brooded freaks, which do occur on rare occasions, or merely an Eacles Imperialis moth that in the cool damp northern forest had failed to emerge in June. Edith Carr drew back with a long, shivering breath. Henderson caught her hands and gripped them firmly. Steadily she looked the thought of her heart into his eyes.

"By all the powers, you shall not!" swore the man. "You have done enough. I will smash that thing!"

"Oh, no, you won't!" cried the girl, clinging to his hands. "I am not big enough yet, Hart, but before I leave this forest I shall have grown to breadth and strength to carry that to her. She needs two of each kind. Phil only got her one. You may watch me deliver it!"

"Phil may be there by now."

"I hope he is. I should like him to see me do one decent thing by which to remember me."

"I tell you that is not necessary!"

"'Not necessary!'" cried the girl, her great eyes shining. "Not necessary? Then what on earth is the thing doing here? I just have boasted that I would change; that I would be like her; that I would grow bigger and broader. As the words are spoken, God gives me the opportunity to prove whether I am sincere. Help me, as you always have done!"

Henderson clinched his teeth and held her hand. The moth had emerged too recently to be troublesome. It climbed on her fingers quietly and obligingly clung there without moving. So hand in hand they went down the dark forest path. A strange excitement took possession of Edith. She began to feel proud of the creature.

"Do you know," she said to Henderson, "this is growing easier every step. Its clinging is not disagreeable, as I thought it would be. I feel as if I were saving it, protecting it. I am proud that we are taking it to be put into a collection or a book. It seems like doing a thing worth while."

"Edith, if you don't stop," said Henderson, "I will take you in my arms and kiss the face half off you, here on the avenue. You are adorable!"

"There's the place, and, thank goodness, there is a crowd," she said.

"Hello, every one!" she cried as she came on the wide veranda. "Only see what we found up in the forest. We thought you might like to have it for some of your collections."

She held out the moth as she walked straight to Elnora, who arose to meet her, crying, "How perfectly splendid! I don't even know how to begin to thank you."

Elnora took the moth. Edith shook hands with all of them and asked Philip if he were improving. She said a few polite words to the O'Mores, declined to remain on account of an engagement and went away gracefully.

"Well, bully for her!" said Mrs. Comstock. "She's a little thoroughbred after all!"

"That was a mighty big thing for her to be doing," said Freckles in a hushed voice.

"If you knew her as well as I do," said Philip Ammon, "you would have a better conception of what that cost."

"I have to take care of this," faltered Elnora, hurrying for the door to hide the tears which were rolling down her cheeks.

"I must help," said Ammon, disappearing also. "Elnora," he called, catching up with her, "take me where I can cry too. Wasn't she great?"

"Superb!" exclaimed Elnora. "I have no words. I feel so humbled!"

"So do I," said Ammon. "I think a great deed like that always makes one feel so. Now are you happy?"

"Unspeakably happy!" answered Elnora.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SOME SUMMER SOUPS.

WHEN the days are sultry and appetites are capricious light soups make acceptable variations in the bill of fare. Fresh vegetables are then abundant and may be used in the making of these wholesome and nourishing foods. With the fresh vegetables, too, it is possible to vary the kind of soup.

For those who may wish to try them here are several recipes for seasonable soups:

A Cream Soup.

Cream of Beet Soup.—The basis of this soup is a rich milk to which a little butter, pepper and salt are added. Slice chopped beets until they are tender and add them hot to the cream. Strain before serving.

Lettuce Soup.—Take two heads of lettuce, wash and dry thoroughly, then tear them into pieces of a suitable size. Add to them a green onion washed and cut into one inch lengths, a large turnip cut into tiny squares and a gill of green peas. Place half an ounce of butter in an enameled stewpan. As soon as it boils add the vegetables and fry for five or six minutes. Drain off all the grease, add three pints of well flavored stock and simmer slowly until the onions, etc., are thoroughly cooked. Add the well beaten yolks of two eggs, pepper and salt to taste and a tiny pinch of sugar. Make very hot again without boiling, then send to table.

A Rich Bisque.

Tomato and Clam Bisque.—Take a quart of clams and pour over them a cupful and a half of cold water. Then drain. To the water add clams finely chopped. Heat slowly to the boiling point, cook for twenty minutes and strain. Cook together one-third of a cupful of butter and one-half an onion for five minutes. Remove the onion and add to the butter one-third of a cupful of flour and very gradually the clam water. Next put in two cupfuls of cream and as soon as the boiling point is reached one cupful of stewed and strained tomatoes to which a tiny bit of soda has been added. Season with salt and cayenne and serve.

With Carrots and Onions.

Carrot Soup.—Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan with an ounce of bacon, two onions sliced, two or three sticks of celery and six good sized carrots sliced and simmer gently for ten minutes. Then add a quart of weak stock and draw the pan to the side of the stove, where the vegetables can cook slowly until they are quite tender.

Strain them from the stock and pass them through a sieve. Add the vegetables to the stock and let the soup boil. Season it with salt, pepper, nutmeg and a small pinch of sugar and then add a tablespoonful of flour which has been mixed until smooth with two tablespoonfuls of milk. Stir the soup for five minutes after adding the flour, letting it boil gently, then serve.

LIBRARY TENDENCIES.

Access to Shelves Becoming Much More General; Massachusetts Free Libraries Making Excellent Progress

In libraries today the tendency is to allow the public free access to the books, according to the report of the Free Public Library Commission of Massachusetts. Where this is done readers enjoy the library more; they take out a greater number and variety of books; they learn much by wandering among the shelves and examining the books; they find the books that suit their taste, and they save work for the librarian by waiting on themselves. They often put back the books out of order, but some learn the method of arrangement, and in time put the books where they belong, and in the case of those who cannot learn the labor of putting the books in order is probably not greater than the labor of getting all the books for readers where access is not allowed. In large communities there may be a question as to the practicability of general access to the books, but in villages, where there is less danger of theft or mutilation, and where the librarian knows all the patrons, the benefits far outweigh the disadvantages. Of the libraries that adopt the plan, even in cities, few return to closed shelves.

It may be of interest to know how the libraries of the state stand as to open access. In the report blank sent out by the commission was the question: "Are the readers allowed to go freely to the shelves?" To this 253 libraries answer "yes"; 65 answer "no," and 60 describe some form of partial access to the shelves. Some of those answering "no" really allow partial access. In some cases readers are admitted on permission of the librarian, or part of the books are open to the public, or adults only have access, or the juvenile books only are open, or the privilege is granted only to certain people in the community, or only during certain hours. It is a rather common practice, where shelves are not open, to leave the new books where the public may examine them. It may be necessary, under certain conditions, to allow readers to examine freely only the new books but the obvious tendency of this is to concentrate attention upon these books, increase the demand for them and lessen the use of equally worthy books that are not under the eye of the public. An interesting device to bring before the public in time all the books is the plan originally adopted at Pittsfield. The books are placed in rotation on prominent shelves near the delivery desk. After a time these are put back in their own places and other books are put on these shelves. Thus eventually, the whole library passes under the eye of the public. This plan has also met with success in other libraries, and might well be tried where the collection is not too large.

There is an increasing and gratifying tendency to allow each reader to take more than one book at a time. Many librarians and trustees have realized that a book idle on the shelves is an investment that is temporarily yielding no interest, is unused capital and that only the volumes in actual use are serving a good end. Those that are idle might as well be non-existent during their period of idleness. The real value of a library to a community is measured by the amount of use that is made of it, not by the brave showing of volumes on the shelves. The rule of two books to a reader, only one being fiction, is a fairly general one, and moderate enough to work no injustice to other readers. Many add to this privilege the use of one or more magazines. In general, the smaller the population in proportion to the number of books, the more generous can be the library to each patron without depriving other readers. In fact, however, many libraries in small communities are least liberal in their privileges, often because it has been the custom to follow a rule established when the library was much smaller. In a majority of libraries one may take several books upon a subject of special study. Some libraries go further than this, and allow several books even for casual reading. Below is noted such libraries as have recently come to the commission's attention, with the number of volumes allowed to each reader:

Attleboro—Fiction, 2; non-fiction, 2.

Blackstone—Fiction, 1; non-fiction, unlimited.

Charlemont—Fiction, 1; non-fiction, 2 or 3.

ROOSEVELT AND WILSON ONLY

Republican Representative So Announces On Floor

MONDELL DRAWS NORRIS' FIRE

Taft Republicans and Machine Democrats Worked In Unison, Is Charge of Norris of Nebraska—His Speech One In Answer to Member of Republican Credential Committee Charging Roosevelt Piracy

Washington, July 25.—Republican political wounds were laid bare and much bitterness was displayed in the house when Representative Mondell of Wyoming, member of the credentials committee of the recent Chicago convention which seated Taft-contesting delegates, and Representative Norris of Nebraska, an ardent Roosevelt Republican clashed in two set speeches.

"The claim that Colonel Roosevelt was denied the nomination at Chicago through the larceny of delegates," Mr. Mondell said, "was not only expected to contribute directly to the third party movement, but was expected to contribute even more potently by furnishing indirectly the excuse for the most impudent and revolutionary plan of political larceny ever conceived. It is proposed to steal the livery and secure the benefits of the Republican state conventions while at the same time repudiating the party and candidates. It is difficult to conceive a more shameless proposal of pure piracy than this."

Mr. Norris followed Mr. Mondell with the statemen that "A man whose name was known throughout the country," had acknowledged that the Taft managers had stolen the delegates from the state of Washington. This man, he said, was now engaged in supporting the president's candidacy, because, Mr. Norris added, he entertained "political aspirations."

"The actions of the committee in Chicago," said Mr. Norris, addressing the Democratic side of the house, "were in favor of Democratic success. They did more to bring about the possibility of Democratic victory than the Democratic party ever did or ever was competent to do.

"The Taft Republicans and the machine Democrats are together. 'Two souls with but a single thought; two hearts that beat as one.' When your convention met in Baltimore your temporary chairman in his 'keynote speech' devoted all of his time to an attack on Roosevelt and paid no attention to Taft. There is another evidence of the fusion and unison."

Mr. Norris drew Democratic applause when he said it is conceded "confidentially, at least, by all Republicans," that President Taft could not be re-elected. He added that the president "running on a trumped-up nomination" could only result in votes for the Democratic candidate.

"Everybody knows the fight is between Roosevelt and Wilson," he declared.

BRANDEIS FOR SENATOR

Possible Progressive Democrats and Republicans Would Fuse

Boston, July 25.—There is an effort on foot to induce Louis D. Brandeis to become the Democratic candidate for United States senator. One reason which is brought into the case, showing why he might hope for election, is that he would probably have the votes of the Roosevelt party as against Mayor Fitzgerald.

It comes from one of their members that this movement is on foot, and that they would be glad to join in supporting Brandeis. He has come out for Wilson for president, but it is said that that would not injure him at all for the Roosevelt party as a senatorial candidate, because he is one of the most progressive of men and the Roosevelt men, being progressive, could easily support him. This movement is not yet in the open.

ROBBING AMERICANS

Mexican Rebels Take Provisions and $60,000 Cash

Dolores, Chihuahua, July 25.—Americans in the mining camp here are uneasy over rebel operations in this territory. Entering the town two days ago, the rebels under General Campa drove sixty Maderistas away, killing several.

The insurrectos, believing that the Maderista garrison was in the pay of the Dolores Mining company, an American concern, wrecked the company's plant. The safe was blown open and $60,000 in cash taken. Heavy drafts were made on the company's stores for provisions.

Senate Favors Alaska

Washington, July 25.—The Alaskan civil government bill, establishing a legislature of one house in the territory with authority to enact local laws, passed the senate with practically no opposition. The house has passed the bill, but a conference will be necessary to adjust differences.

PICKS UP FOUR TROLLEYS

Combining New Hampshire and Massachusetts Lines

Boston, July 25.—As a holding company, with authority from the legislature of this year, the Massachusetts Northeastern Street Railway company is now picking up the shorter lines on both sides of the boundary between Massachusetts and New Hampshire. It has just entered into agreements for the purchase of four of these electric lines, the Haverhill and Plaistow Street Railway company, the Haverhill and Amesbury, the Lawrence and Methuen and the Hudson, Pelham and Salem Street Railway company. All of these lines were owned by the New Hampshire Electric Railways company, a successor to the New Hampshire Traction company.

By the formal acquisition of these four companies the Masachusetts Northeastern will have to increase its capital stock by about $290,000, which covers the present capitalization of the companies to be taken. The merger requires the sanction first of the Massachusetts railroad commission, for which a petition has been filed, and then of the New Hampshire public service commission. Other lines are to be taken in later.

PUBLIC PRAYER

Made to Strike Dead Dock Strikers' Main Opponent

London, July 25.—Ben Tille, the labor leader, prayed publicly at a mass meeting on Tower Hill for the death of Lord Davenport, whom the dock strikers consider the bitterest of their enemies amng the employers. The strikers in Tillet's audience repeated after him in a thunderous chorus:

"Oh, God, strike Lord Davenport dead."

James O'Grady, who withdrew from the house of commons because the speaker would not permit a debate on the strike, referred to Lord Davenport at the same meeting as the earth's worst criminal.

The suffering of the strikers' families has become so dreadful that the public is fairly paralyzed with horror. The streets in the dockyard districts are filled with hollow-eyed women and children, reduced almost to skeletons and so weak that they are hardly able to stand.

Many have died almost wholly of starvation. The number of the victims is so great that the authorities and private charitable organizations are unable to cope with the situation.

WITNESSES FEAR REVENGE AWAITS

Rosenthal Hearing Before the Coroner Adjourned

New York, July 25.—Fear of revenge at the hands of East Side gangsters ever present in the minds of unwilling witnesses in the Rosenthal murder investigation temporarily blocked the efforts of District Attorney Whitman to draw closer the lines about the men who assassinated the gambler eight days ago.

Apparently awed by the presence of gangsters in the coroner's court, John Reisler, a barber known to the sporting fraternity as "John the Barber," retracted at the coroner's examination a statement which he is alleged to have made a few moments earlier to Mr. Whitman that he had seen "Bridgie" Webber, now under arrest, running from the murder scene.

After Reisler had denied his earlier statement he was arrested on a charge or perjury.

District Attorney Whitman is depending largely on what private detectives will bring out. It was said that twenty-three Burns men have already been detailed for the work and that Mr. Burns himself, when he returns to New York in a day or two, will devote his entire time to the investigation.

THIRTEEN MINERS DIE

Cloud Burst Fills Mine and Men Drown Like Rats

Uniontown, Pa., July 25.—Caught like rats in a trap when water rushed into the manway of Superba No. 2 mine at Evans Station, three miles north of Uniontown, following a cloudburst, thirteen men were drowned and thirty-seven escaped after a most harrowing experience.

The men were drowned about 4000 feet from the mouth of the mine, their only avenue of escape. The majority of the victims were married and had large families.

Miles of territory were flooded by the cloudburst. The lowlands were quickly inundated and hundreds of persons were compelled to flee for their lives. Residences and business places were almost completely submerged in some districts, while the Manor Valley and Turcle Creek railroads, together with the trolley service, were put out of commission.

Strike Settlement Hoped For

Boston, July 25.—It is hoped the L strike will be settled by Saturday.

GREAT BRITAIN LAID FEELER

May Present No Protest On Free Tolls

CANAL PART OF UNITED STATES

Transfer of Canal Zone to United States Made Hay-Pauncefote Treaty a Voidable One—High English Authority Quoted—Belief Growing That Great Britain Simply Put Out a "Feeler"

Washington, July 25.—Hannis Taylor, United States minister to Spain from 1893 to 1897 and a recognized authority on international and constitutional law, in a letter to a local paper gives a new and important view of the exclusive right of the United States to control the Panama canal. He holds that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty contemplated the construction of a canal in territory foreign to the United States, and that the subsequent transfer of the canal zone to the sovereignty of this country constituted a fundamental change of the conditions on which the treaty was based. Instead of building a canal in foreign territory the United States has built it in its own domain. He declares that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty has become voidable and that it should be referred to the diplomatic authorities of the two governments for the negotiation of such modifications as may be proper, or for abrogation, if that course be deemed desirable.

This, he states, would provide an honorable way to avoid the final submission of the canal question to The Hague, with the embarrassment to this country that might follow the decision of that tribunal.

"There is no room for hair-splitting on that point," says Mr. Taylor. "Within the canal zone the United States is sovereign for all the purposes of international law. Under that law it is well settled that a treaty becomes 'voidable,' not void, whenever a change has taken place in the fundamental conditions existing at the time it was made."

Mr. Taylor quotes Hall, the highest English authority on international law, as sustaining this general principle and cites as an example the action of Russia in 1870 in giving notice to the other signatory powers that it was impossible for her to be longer bound by the objectionable articles of the treaty of Paris of 1856, or by the convention of the straits as far as their provisions relating to the Black sea were concerned. Mr. Taylor continues:

"The radical changes wrought in conditions existing at the time of the making of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty by the transformation of the canal zone from foreign territory into domestic territory of the United States beyond all question renders the treaty 'voidable' at the instance of the United States. Apart from our peculiar position and rights under the Monroe doctrine, how can we permit the European powers so far to interfere with our domestic affairs as to dictate the regulations to be made or the tolls to be charged in a domestic waterway, built within our own territory? Certainly no patriotic American statesman or publicist should ever consent to the submission of such purely American and domestic interests to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal, which will always be dominated by European jurists naturally hostile to us on questions of that character."

A. Mitchell Innes, charge d'affaires of the British embassy, again called at the state department, but without the expected statement of Great Britain's reasons for protesting against Panama canal legislation. Mr. Innes had a talk with Chanler Anderson, counselor of the state department, but it was said that nothing conclusive resulted. The opinion is growing here that the formal statement of protest is to be modified in the light of what has been said on both sides of the question in the United States senate. It has been suggested that the brief protest of two weeks ago was merely a feeler, that the British government wished to sound public opinion on granting free tolls to American ships. It is even predicted that Great Britain will withdraw her objections.

AMENDS PARCELS POST

Senator Bourne Would Meet International Charges

Washington, July 25.—Senator Bourne has announced an important change in his parcels post bill, now before the senate. The committee has decided to eliminate the proposed consolidation of the third and fourth classes, and to make the highest rate equal to the international parcels post rate.

For a fifty-mile zone, it is proposed to charge 5 cents for the first pound and 1 cent for each additional pound. Over 1800 miles the rate would be 12 cents for the first pound and 12 cents for each additional pound.

PERU OUTRAGES LAID TO U. S.

British Citizens Say We Should Have Interfered

BLAME THE MUNROE DOCTRINE

Memorial to Be Presented Government of Great Britain Asserting United States by Neglect Allowed Slaughter of Peruvian Indians—Monroe Doctrine a "Dog-In-the-Manger" Policy Condition

London, July 25.—The British government is to be urged by a petition signed by Most Rev. John Baptist Crozier, archbishop of Armagh and primate of all Ireland (Church of Ireland); Rev. James Joakes, prebendary of Harleston in St. Paul's cathedral; Sir John Jardine, M. P., and Lady Jardine; Noel Buxton, M. P. for Norfolk; Rev. J. H. Harris of the Anti-Slavery society and Archdeacon Potter, to challenge the Monroe Doctrine in so far as it hinders British interference with the rubber atrocities in Peru.

This petition holds the United States responsible for the slaughter of 42,000 Indians in Peru on the ground that the United States through the Monroe Doctrine, is responsible for the conduct of the entire western hemisphere below the Canadian line. It demands that the United States stop these atrocities either by her own action or in concert with Great Britain.

Following is the text of the petition which is being circulated among distinguished persons in England for further signatures:

"We, the undersigned, in view of the horrible atrocities perpetrated in the Amazon district, by which in five years it is admitted the Indian population has been reduced from 50,000 to 8000, and considering this to be a dark stain upon the civilization of this country and on Great Britain in some degree, as the company under whose action these atrocities have occurred has its headquarters in London, and rubber gained by this bloody system finds its chief market in London, we desire to point out that it is the duty of Great Britain, acting with the United States, to take immediate steps to put an end to this slave system.

"The Monroe Doctrine states that the United States would view 'any interposition of European powers for the purpose of controlling the destiny of independent governments on the American continent as 'the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States.'

"We therefore consider that the British government should draw the attention of the United States government to the fact that the Monroe doctrine involves the latter in grave responsibilities as regards such deeds as have come to light and request her co-operation with Great Britain in putting an immediate end to these atrocities and punishing the culprits."

"THEFT" REWARDED

Charges Attorney Who Made It Possible Is Now Given Office

Seattle, July 25.—Edgar C. Snyder, chairman of the Republican campaign committee, appointed by the Roosevelt state convention at Aberdeen, sent a telegram to Senator Poindexter, urging him to oppose the confirmation of Beverly W. Coiner as United States attorney for western Washington. Coiner, as chairman of the Republican state central committee, presided over the committee meeting at Aberdeen, which refused credentials to the Roosevelt delegates from Kings county, thus bringing about the two conventions and a contest at Chicago. The message sent by Mr. Snyder to Mr. Poindexter follows:

"President Taft's nomination of Beverly Coiner as United States district attorney here adds insult to the injury done to the people of this state when Coiner engineered the stealing of our delegates. The appointment is explainable only as a reward for that theft and the progressive Republicans of Washington urge you to resist its confirmation."

McCarthy Comes Out For Teddy

Boston, July 25.—Jeremiah J. McCarthy, former surveyor of the port, and who was a supporter of President Taft for renomination, has come out in favor of Roosevelt, saying he considers the colonel the regular Republican nominee by the overwhelming majority given him by the voters in the caucuses and primaries throughout the country.

Claims Against Mexico

Washington, July 25.—The senate passed a joint resolution directing the secretary of war to investigate the claims of Americans growing out of the Mexican revolution.

TO PROTECT LEWIS

Attorney General Interested In His Negro Assistant

Washington, July 25.—Attorney General Wickersham, it was learned, will go personally to Milwaukee on Aug. 27 to urge before the American Bar association the retention in the Bar association of Assistant Attorney General W. H. Lewis of Boston.

There are reports current in Washington that southern members of the association are greatly stirred up and will go to the convention in large numbers determined, if possible, to oust the negro assistant attorney general.

It is also said that to Mr. Wickersham's support have come some prominent New York lawyers.

CHANGED THEIR MINDS AGAIN

I. W. W. In New Bedford Vote to Resume Work

New Bedford, Mass., July 25.—It is probable that the members of the state board of conciliation and arbitration will gather here in a few days, as both the Manufacturers' association and the Weavers' union are now disposed to meet in conference.

The Industrial Workers of the World have changed their minds again in regard to the textile strike. This morning Grover Perry, local organizer, gave out a statement declaring the strike off so far as the organization which he represented is concerned. This move is the result of a secret ballot which was taken last evening. Previously the I. W. W. decided to continue the strike, although it issued an ultimatum Sunday threatening to call it off if the co-operation was refused by the American Federation of Labor unions. It has not been announced what action the organization will take today.

RAIN SAVES POTATOES

But Maine Sweet Corn Crop Is Below Normal

Bangor, Me., July 25.—Agricultural experts estimate that the rain that fell on Sunday and Monday of this week was worth $2,000,000 to Maine; that the state would have lost at least that much had the rain held off two weeks longer.

The rain came too late to save one of Maine's most valuable crops—sugar corn, for which the state is famous far and wide. This means a heavy loss, not only to the farmers, but to the canning companies and the thousands who are depending to some extent upon the industry for employment. Many of the canneries will not be operated at all this year, and the others will be but poorly supplied.

Panic In Guayaquil

Guayaquil, Ecuador, July 25.—The heaviest shock of earthquake felt for many years occurred here. It caused a great panic among the inhabitants of the city. No material damage has yet been reported.

POLICE REORGANIZATION STARTED BY MAYOR STONE

New Offices Created by Recently Adopted Ordinances of the City Council

Some Worthy Promotions Noted by the Change in Operation

The first steps toward the reorganization of the police department under the ordinance as amended by the City Council some few weeks were taken by Mayor Stone this morning. The police ordinance as it now stands provides for a Chief, Captain, Lieutenant, Inspector and two Sergeants. The difference from the old ordinance being that the offices of Captain, and Lieutenant are created.

It is proposed by Mayor Stone to make Inspector Daniel R. McKay a

CAPTAIN DANIEL R. McKAY.

Captain, Sergt. Mark E. Hanson a Lieutenant, acting Inspector Goodhue an Inspector and Officer Larkin a Sergeant. Under a recent ruling by the Civil Service Commission Inspector McKay and Sergt. Hanson may be promoted without an examination. Officers Goodhue and Larkin however must take a non-competative examination.

This morning Mayor Stone notified the City Clerk that he had promoted Inspector Daniel R. McKay to Captain and Sergt. Mark E. Hanson Inspector said appointments to take effect immediately.

Under the ruling of the Civil Service Commission the officers promoted must take their advancement step by step, therefore it was necessary to first appoint Sergt. Hanson an Inspector. He will quality for that position today and tomorrow morning he will be advanced to the grade of Lieutenant.

Acting Inspector Goodhue has been notified to appear before the Civil Service Commission for examination for promotion to the office of Sergeant and then to Inspector and Officer Larkin to take the examination for promotion to the rank of Sergeant.

ALFRED W. GOODHUE.
Made Inspector.

It will take some few days however before all of the details are completed and these men are installed into office.

When this is done the Mayor will have to fill some vacancies in the regular force by promotion from the reserve list and the vacancies in the reserve list by promotions from the list of special police. These promotions will all be made under the Civil Service rules.

PEOPLE VERY MUCH WORRIED

By Conduct of Suspiciously Acting Person at Wollaston

POLICE INVESTIGATED MATTER

A telephone call brought the police auto to Flint street, Wollaston, about 10.30 Wednesday evening, where it was said that a suspicious looking character was walking about. Early in the week, the police were notified that considerable tools had been taken from a tool house, in the rear of a new building being constructed by Daniel J. Holmes.

The auto made a quick run with Officers Nelson and Halloran. A man who gave his name as Stephen Delorey, of Quincy was located.

He was questioned by the police as to the larceny of tools from the toolhouse, but denied having taken any. Asked if he had a key to the toolhouse, Delorey said he did, but that he had lost it.

The police looked for the key but failed to find it. Delorey said that he was going to work for Mr. Holmes this morning and gave this as the reason why he was hanging around.

He was taken to the police station and was arraigned this morning in the district court before Judge Avery on a charge of drunkenness. He was placed on probation until October 10, 1912, and fined three dollars, the cost of court. It was brought out in court that Delorey had formerly worked for Mr. Holmes.

ROOD'S LIFE ENDANGERED WHEN GASOLENE CAN CAUGHT FIRE

Face and Hands Severely Burned and House Started From the Blazing Vessel

Auto Truck Made Spectacular Run Through City Square

Hammond B. Rodd, of 116 Taylor street had a narrow escape from being seriously burned by gasoline Thursday night, and as it was he was quite badly injured about the face and hands which required the attention of two physicians.

Mr. Rodd was in the act of filling his automobile gasoline tank when the can of gasoline which he had in his hands took fire and blazed up. The flames went into his face but with presence of mind he threw the can from him. The can landed up against his house which took fire and in an instant there was quite a blaze. An alarm was sounded from Box 52 at 9.20 but the fire had been extinguished by the time the department arrived at the scene. Mr Rodd was attended by Drs. Adams and Johnson.

The auto chemical made a spectacular run to the fire and went down through City Square at a very rapid rate of speed. The general impression seems to be that the speed at which the car is run is unwaranted and that unless a more moderate speed is maintained a bad accident is bound to occur.

DREDGING BIDS REJECTED

Boston Port Directors Thus Defer Channel Improvement at Wollaston

The directors of the Port of Boston, Thursday voted to reject all bids offered for the proposed dredging of the channel at Wollaston. No explanation is offered in explanation of this action on the part of the directors.

The legislature appropriated $6,000 for this work, this year, under chapter 130.

The first annual outing of the season of the Granite City club will be held on the evening of Wednesday August 7, at the Hotel Napoli Nantasket beach. The arrangements are in the hands of the entertainment committee who promises an enjoyable evening to those who participate. The plans as now outlined call for the club to leave its rooms in the Savings Bank building in the early evening, probably by 6.30 when an automobile trip will be taken through Weymouth, Cohasset and thence to the hotel where dinner will be served. After dinner the club will probably visit Paragon Park and the Bread and Cheese Inn at Cohasset on their return home. Members intending to participate should leave their names with the entertainment committee.

FRIENDS WANT McDEVITT

To Run Against Roger Wolcott for the Senate This Fall

The friends of Ex-Councilman John J. McDevitt of Ward Four desire him to be a candidate for senator on the democratic ticket from the First Norfolk district against Roger Wolcott of Milton.

He was beaten for representative last year by Representative William J. Leslie by 63 votes.

JOHN J. MCDEVITT.

Mr. McDevitt's attitude is not known as he is at present on a business trip to New York and Albany.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

The second annual field day of the Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum will be held Saturday afternoon on the grounds adjoining the Lyceum building corner Manet avenue and Winthrop streets. Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and Hon. David I. Walsh are scheduled to deliver addresses.

In the afternoon there will be a series of athletic events, while the hall will be thrown open for dancing in the evening. Japanese lanterns and electric lights will add to the brilliancy to the event at night. The programme will start at two o'clock and conclude shortly before midnight.

HOODLUMS STILL BUSY

Hancock Street Resident Objects to Nightly Bedlam

Editor of the Ledger:

For the past few weeks residents of Hancock street and Revere road have been annoyed by a gang of hoodlums, who make the stone wall on the old Hodges estate their headquarters. The gang consists of boys ranging in ages from 12 to 15 years, and hardly a night goes by that they are not making trouble

Passersby are greeted with remarks not altogether complimentary and many are followed by stones and other missiles. The performances in the theatre are interrupted by jeers and cat-calls through the rear exits.

What is to be done about it?

The police headquarters have been notified twice, to my knowledge, and nothing has come of it. Surely, the tax rate is high enough for the tax payers to expect protection from such insults as these.

It seems queer, indeed, that the patrolman on this beat has not noticed the disturbances, and it is even more odd that after being notified twice at headquarters of what is going on, as yet nothing has been done to end the outrageous conduct of the gang.

It is high time now to end the annoyance by landing the disturbers in court.

RELATIVES DISSATISFIED OVER PROVISIONS MRS. BERRY'S WILL

Contest Likely Over An Estate Said to Amount to $30,000

Adopted Daughter Not Content With $100 Portion

It is reported that when the will of the late Mrs. Joseph Berry was presented for probate at Dedham, Wednesday, notice was given of the intention of some of the heirs at law to contest the will. Just what the estate amounts to is not known but it is estimated to be in the vicinity of $30,000.

Under the will of the late Mr. Berry, Mrs. Berry was to receive an income of $5,000 a year during her life. She was a woman who lived very quietly and it is said that her estate therefor accumulated very fast so that the heirs believe that she must have had quite a large amount of personal property.

It is claimed that there were two wills, one of which was destroyed. The last will, the one presented for probate is of recent date. This will leaves the bulk of her property to the children of Mrs. James Newcomb. Aside from these however there are a number of relatives on the Spear side of the family who are but slightly remembered. They claim undue influence as does also an adopted daughter Addie Harris, who is left but $100.

It is said by some of those who claim to be in a position to know that Mrs. Berry, fearing a contest over her estate had been disposing of it in a quiet manner for some time, prior to her death.

The nomination papers of Roger Walcott for senator from the First Norfolk district and of George L. Barnes for member of the state central committee were filed with City Clerk Crane this morning for the Board of Registrars to pass upon them.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Artistic temperament does not always make a successful artist.

A Boston man has invaded the woman's field by sporting a stocking purse.

Has Tom Lawson taken to the woods, lost his voice or been troubled with the writer's cramp?

Salem happy in its reduction of 50 cents in the rate feels that it is better to receive half a loaf than no bread at all.

Despite the assurance to the contrary a short time ago, the farmers are trying to boost the price of milk. They hold the key to the situation.

After congress spends $5000 on the beam trawl investigation how much more will be learned than is already a matter of common knowledge?

It seems rather a strange proceeding to request a presumptive defendant to testify in his case before the grand-jury.

It will be interesting to know what disposition is to be made of the conductors and motormen who stood by the Elevated and refused to strike.

The I. W. W. of New Bedford declined the proposition of their leaders to return to work in the effort to break the strike. This leaves the A. F. & L. still masters of the situation.

Gov. Deneen is animated by no sentimental desire to follow any one into the political wilderness. No third party for him while the G. O. P. is still on top and the gubernatorial election in view.

The disappearance of Dorcas I. Snodgrass of New York brings to mind the unaccountable disappearance of Dorothy Arnold a few years ago. The latter has never been heard from.

The yachtsmen have nothing to complain of in the way of wind the past few days. Sticking a pin in the mast or whistling up the wind were superfluous.

The Boston City hall force who expected Panama hats on Street commissioner Rourke's visit to the canal, are having their old ones cleaned to carry them through the summer.

The Darrow trial has been punctuated with more delays than anything else. Those and the war between counsel and witnesses have been the main features of this very orderly conducted case

The New York police, are rounding up the gamblers but while all this excitement is going on, there is the danger that the main object of the present upheaval may be lost sight of. With something else exciting turning up will the authorities fail to remember the prominence the police have attained in this incident?

Asquith can well claim the title of being the best shaken man in the United kingdom and it was not done by dynamite either.

Lawrence Beesley claims he owes his preservation from the Titanic disaster to being a Christian scientist. He remained calm and sought a life boat. There is evidence that others were calm but went to their death in that state while looking after the interests of women and children.

SEEKING OFFICIALS.

Is it pasoible that nowhere in Massachusetts or even New England, Boston cannot obtain officials with knowledge, capacity and training to fill certain positions which demand executive ability and tact? Whether the question is answered in the negative or affirmative, the fact remains undisputed that for some years, the city has been going far afield in search of men to fill certain positions. The street superintendent was secured after service in Panama. No doubt he gave excellent service in the tropical zone, where conditions were different and the rule almost military in its character, but it is questionable if he has succeeded in improving the streets of the Hub to any appreciable degree. The same hollows in the pavements, the mud and puddles after rain are noticeable bobbing up like every day friends.

For the health board Dr. Wiley was sought and now Boston is trying to secure the services of Superintendent of the St. Louis schools.

Now how many citizens of Boston would approve of a movement to going outside the 26 wards of the city for a chief executive, city council, finance commission and other officials? If the appointive offices cannot be found at home, it is reasonable to assume that improvement might be made by going outside for the elective chieftains.

WEALTH A BURDEN.

From all accounts young Vincent Astor is a serious minded, level headed young man who would much prefer to be left extremely and severely alone than have all this newspaper touse over his every movement. But that is one of the burdens of great wealth and young Astor is beginning to gather his harvest early in life.

Every move of the poor young man is watched, scrutinized and commented upon. If he is seen talking with a young lady he is about to immediately "pop the question" to her. It is not only annoying to the young man but it must be extremely embarrassing to many well balanced American girls who are not to blame if they are the daughters of rich fathers.

It is questionable if the great public cares a straw whether Astor goes a courting at Newport, or somewhere else. But as a matter of simple justice the poor young man should be permitted to exercise the right of every American citizen and do his wooing beyond the gaze and criticism of every man or woman who wants to "write him up."

In England they have a much nicer way of doing those things. The English journals do not chase every rainbow of the kind which finds its way so prominently into American print, but draw their "so much per" for every society item which the society person desires to make public and there are enough of those to satisfy every one.

THE PARCELS POST.

For several years there has been an unanswered call of the people of this nation for a parcels post delivery. It has only been prevented by the juggling of congress, batting the proposition back from one house to the other with an amendment here and there, zone conditions attached and other unnecessary and uncalled for appendages which shears the law of its original serviceable attributes.

Now, in all seriousness why is this permitted to continue? Hon. George L. von Meyer when Postmaster General strongly advocated such a department. Mr. Hitchcock has been no less active in his advocacy and yet congress continues to play with this important matter with childlike simplicity.

Are the big public service delivery companies responsible for the delay? Are they powerful enough to thus dicker with the demands of the people as a whole and dwaddle along legislation along those lines? If so it is time a halt was called.

Parcel post service is not a new toy by any means. It has been tried in several countries and found to be of great benefit to the great masses of the people. It is time that this battle door and shuttle cock business was ended

This is a congressional and presidential year. The voters all over the country should demand from the candidates for congress a pledge of their support of this measure in its broadest and most useful sense. Then the blame for further delay could be traced and the remedy applied.

MUST GET MAIL AT THEIR HOMES

General Delivery to be No Longer Open to Girls

NEW POSTAL REGULATION

The practice of restricting the privileges of the general delivery to young girls and others at the Boston Postoffice is about to be affirmed in a general order which Postmaster-General Hitchcock will issue to all postmasters throughout the country. "A general order on the subject," said Postmaster Mansfield, would be welcome. At present, if we have any suspicion, we can question a young woman as to her reasons for receiving her mail at the general delivery window, but our inquiries are not always taken in a proper spirit. If we had the authority of a definite regulation of the department it would help us in explaining to the indignant ones.

"The general delivery division has for years been a problem with postmasters. We know that it is abused, and yet it is of the greatest benefit to many thousands who use it legitimately. The problem is how to discriminate.

"Stenographers, book-keepers and young women clerks who live in lodging and boarding houses have their letters directed to the general delivery because they do not wish them exposed to the gaze of their fellow-lodgers or boarders. It is perfectly legitimate and it is a protection to those girls.

"The only remedy for the abuse of the general delivery appears to be the discrimination against young girls who manifestly have no good reason for not having their letters directed to their homes."

No doubt the practice of this kind is very limited in Quincy. The new regulation can do a great deal of good and no particular harm.

BIG CONTRACT FOR QUINCY MAN

H. W. Phillips Installing New Water Intake at Geneva

WORK WELL UNDER WAY

The Geneva, N. Y., Daily Times of Tuesday, contains the following article in which a Quincy man takes a prominent part:

"H. W. Phillips of Quincy, Mass., who has the city contract for the installation of the new intake to the municipal water supply system, is now here and has the work well under way. As practically all of the work in this contract is under water it is one of the most difficult contracts in connection with the entire improvements to the water system To do the work Mr. Phillips has purchased an old steam canal boat and equipped it with a heavy mast and boom, with which to operate the orange peel dredge. A channel will have to be cut from the shore in front of the pump house out into Glass Factory Bay for a distance of some 750 feet or to the dredge at the beginning of deep water It has been found that the material in the bottom of the bay is blue hard pan, the same as the Lake Shore Construction and Supply Company has encountered in making the excavation for the clear water basin In order to loosen this material for the dredge Mr. Phillips expects to use dynamite. Those accustomed to using dynamite under water declare that it is easier to use it with a blanket of water than on land.

One of the important parts of the contract besides the laying of the 30-inch intake pipe is the construction of the crib which will protect the end of the pipe. This structure of no small proportions and the difficulty attending its construction is enhanced by the fact that it has to be placed in 35 feet of water. The base of the crib will be octagonal in shape and nearly 20 feet in any direction. The well of the crib will be nine feet square and eight feet deep while the square will be surrounded by a mass of concrete and stone, sloping in all directions and thus protecting the mouth of the intake. For the frame work of the crib massive twelve by twelve inch hemlock timbers are being used and these are being dressed on the lake front before being transported to the pumping station. On the top of the crib there will be a grillage, made of white oak timber. At the end of the intake there will be a plug and the opening in the intake will be in the upper side so the water will be drawn down through the grillage and crib into the pipe. This will make the actual intake into the city's water mains some eight feet above the floor of the lake, and thus make it impossible to draw the slit from the bottom of the lake into the system.

MUCH NEEDED REGULATION

President's Picture Handed Around Indiscriminately

Senator Lodge has taken up a crusade of prohibit photographers from making "fake" pictures of clients in position of close proximity to the President of the United States.

The attention of Senator Lodge was called to this practice by a stranger in a Southern State, who sent him a post-card picture of an unknown man shaking hands with President Taft. The writer of the letter in which the postcard was inclosed wrote that the man whose picture was on the card with that of the President is a notorious Italian padrone who has made a great deal of money out of the peonage system

Senator Lodge has taken the matter up with Attorney General Wickersham and has asked the Attorney General to assist hi m in preparing a bill which will prevent a continuance of the practice.

TWO COPPERS ON CRIPPLED LIST

Both Injured in the Base Ball Game at Somerville

FALLON LAID UP TWO WEEKS

Officer George Fallon, who sustained an injury to his right knee while playing with the Quincy police base ball team against the Somerville Police, Wednesday afternoon at Somerville, was removed to the Quincy hospital Thursday afternoon. He underwent an operation and it was said this morning that he is resting comfortably.

It will be two weeks, however, before he will be able to leave the hospital. Fallon's knee has been bothering him for some time, but he wrenched it quite badly in the game Tuesday.

He was at the bat at the time, and was in the act of swinging at a shoulder ball, when he suddenly collapsed. He was taken to the office of Dr. Ernest D. Pillsbury, of Somerville, and later removed to his home in the Quincy police auto.

Officer Frank Canavan, the pitcher, is at his home in West Quincy, nursing his right ankle, which was also sprained in the same game. He managed to play the full nine innings and in all probability will be able to occupy the mound next week.

Officer David Curtin was slightly injured in the same game, but is able to be about. He is enjoying his annual vacation.

LYNN SOAKED FOR GASOLENE

Purchasing Agent Discovers Difference in Prices

Albert S. Carlton, purchasing agent of Lynn, learned yesterday that the automobile garages in that city were quoting a price on gasoline considerably below that made to the city.

The city had been paying 15 cents a gallon. Recently Mr. Carlton received notice that the price would be increased one cent. Then he learned that the garages about the city were selling it for 10 cents. A similar rate to the city would save $800 a year.

VETERANS IN REUNION

Regimental Association Gathered at Bass Point

QUINCY REPRESENTED

Reunion

Commander Francis P. Loud, Dr. C. M. Marstin, William M. Bird, James W. Pierce, Warren Dunbar, Wyman Nightingale and Joseph M. Lapham, all members of Paul J. Revere Post, G. A. R. of Quincy, attended the annual outing of the Norfolk County G. A. R. Association, held Thursday at Bass Point Nahant . The members of the 4th Regiment Veteran Association held its 26th annual reunion and business meeting in conjunction with the meeting.

At the business meeting, Albert Keating, a well known G. A. R. man of Quincy was elected one of the vice president of the regimental association.

The following members of Paul Revere Corps, No. 103. W. R. C., also enjoyed the outing, Mrs. Francis P. Loud, Mrs. Electa E. Field, Mrs. E. A. Penniman, Mrs. Celinda Richardson, Mrs. Agnes Fletcher, Mrs Belle Morton and Mrs. Alice Litchfield, Mrs. Lucretia T. Bent, Mrs. Lydia Beaulieu and Mrs. Anna W. Grant.

During the morning the time was passed in visiting places of interest and dinner was served at noon. In the afternoon the theatres were visited and war pictures were presented. There were about 600 in the party.

APPAREL OF DRIVERS

Query Has a Word to Say on Coatless Drivers and Chauffeurs

Editors of the Ledger:

Will you please give publicity to the following query? Why is it that the carriage drivers and chauffeurs at the Quincy Depot drive their patrons to their destination in shirt sleeves and suspenders? I find that at other stations along this and other railroads the drivers have neat coats for cool weather and if very warm negligee shirts or light-weight coats which look neat and are cool.

A station none too clean; the outside littered with peanut shells, papers and dirt, combined with a row of shirt-sleeved, suspendered carriage drivers does not give a good impression to visitors to our city. Our own residents do not like it but look in vain for a coated driver.

I would not have the drivers uncomfortable in their work but could they not be just as comfortable properly and suitably clothed?

Query.

LAWRENCE TAX RATE

No Change in the Figures From a Year Ago, Although Gain in the Valuation

The Lawrence rate for this year will be $17.60 per $1000, the same as last year.

The valuation figures show an increase of $4,612,121 over last year, There is a loss in polls of 985.

The valuation is divided as follows: Real estate, $55,682,900, an increase of $1,731,800; personal, $19,766,214, an increase of $2,880,321. The polls this year are 21,654, as compared with 22,639 in 1911.

The municipal appropriations amount to $1,151,606.81, the county tax is $88,641.48, State tax, $104,500, and highway tax, $13.50.

PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRATS

Unknown As Political Party In Massachusetts

STRAIGHT NAMES NEEDED

In an opinion sent to the secretary of the commonwealth yesterday, Atty.-Gen. Swift rules that there is no Democratic Progressive party in Massachusetts, and that the secretary need furnish no ballots for the use of such party at the primaries in September.

The attorney-general bases his ruling upon the fact that there is no Democratic Progressive organization in this state, and that those formerly supporting that party have failed to keep it in existence.

The ruling means that the papers now being circulated in behalf of Gov. Foss purporting to nominate him as a "Democratic Progressive" candidate for Governor will not be accepted by the secretary's office, even though they may be filled with 1,000 signatures, as is required for regular party nominations, and Gov. Foss will be unable to go into the primaries as the candidate for the nomination of any party other than the straight Democratic party.

In the last two campaigns he has run as a Democratic Progressive, as well as a Democrat.

JIM'S NEW JOB TO HELP FAMILY

Advance Guard to Squantum to Test the Odors

College graduates who face a cruel, cold world and find that good jobs do not grow on every bush may perhaps get a tip from a new vocation which I discovered the other day. "Where's Jimmy," I inquired of the mother of a young friend of mine who lives in Quincy. "He went smelling down to Squantum this afternoon," she replied proudly, for her 12-year-old son was the apple of her eye. "How's that? Smelting, you mean, don't you?" I queried, "No, smelling. You know we were thinking of taking a cottage at Squantum for the summer and he went down there to see if one could smell Bradley's fertilizing plant." Whirling Hub Column, Boston Herald.

MRS. PACEVIG QUITE SICK

After Three Days Aimless Absence from Home

As announced in Thursday's issue of the Ledger, Mrs. Anna Pacevig, who had been missing from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alma Peresol, of 107 North street, Quincy Point, since 11 o'clock Monday morning, was identified by her daughter at the Chardon street home, about one o'clock Thursday.

After leaving home, Mrs. Pacevig lost her way and walked to Boston where she was found, tired and exhausted by a police officer, who took her to the home. She could not talk English and thus was unable to make known her identity.

Mrs. Peresol was taken to Quincy Thursday afternoon by her daughter and is quite ill as a result of her experience.

CAUTION SIGNS WORKING GOOD

The signs which have been erected on Adams street by order of Mayor Stone relative to the muffler law violations on the part of automobile drivers are having good effect as the majority of drivers are taking warning by the signs and not cutting out these noise makers. There are some however who seem to think they are Lord's of all they survey and do not pay any attention to the signs. Four of these were summoned into court this morning by Officer Avery and arraigned for violation of the automobile muffler law and were fined $5 each.

PARKS WILL EXPLAIN ACT

Ex-representative Joseph A. Parks of Fall River will speak on the "Compensation Act" at the open meeting of the Metal Trades' Union, to be held this evening in Electa hall. Mr. Parks is father of bill and worked tirelessly for its passage. He recently gave a talk on the bill to members of the Central Labor Union and enlightened a large number on many phases of the act.

Mr. Parks is a good talker and is well qualified to handle the subject. He is a member of the board which acts upon all cases that come under the compensation act.

BODY FOUND BESIDE TRACK

Curtis Nichols, a travelling salesman for a Hopedale concern whose dead body was found in the West Springfield railroad yard Thursday was well known in Quincy. When a young man Curtis was a student at the Adams Academy for several years, making his home at Quincy Point. He was quite an athlete and was well liked by all with whom he came in contact.

Just how the accident happened is not known. He was a passenger on the express train which left Springfield for Albany, N. Y., shortly after midnight. Word was received from Albany that his berth on the car was empty when the train reached that city. The screen in the window of the berth was broken. He was about 32 years of age.

Medical Examiner S. J. Russell, who viewed the body after it was found at 3 o'clock by brakeman W. Thompson, gave his opinion that Nichols was asleep when he committed the deed.

Nichols boarded the train out of Boston at 11.15 o'clock and went to sleep in his berth without any strange actions to arouse the suspicions of the car officials. When the train reached Albany it was noted that the man was missing, although his clothing was found in the proper places in his berth.

The news of the death of Mr. Nichols came as a great shock to the firm and to his sister, Mrs. Walter F. Roper, daughter-in-law of Charles F. Roper, head of the firm.

Charles F. Roper at once left for Springfield to take charge of matters for the family and the firm. It is not known here what led to his death, but no one believes that there was any business cause for suicide, as Springfield dispatches here stated. There is absolutely no other reason for his ending his life and somnambulism is suggested here.

Mr. Nichols leaves a wife and two children, now in Maine on a vacation. He was 32 years old.

GREEN APPLE THROWN AT FOSS

Governor Showered With Glass From Broken Car Window

OFFENDER ESCAPED

Governor Foss and D. A. Holland, a Chicago bond salesman, were riding homeward Thursday night in a Jamaica Plain car passing through Roxbury, when a green apple came crashing through a window of the car and showered his eyeglasses and other passengers with glass

The Governor and Mr. Holland were sitting in the rear of the car, the Governor on the last cross seat, with Mr. Holland in the side seat adjoining.

They were reading the paper at the time of the crash and both started from their seats. It was to this rising from his seat that prevented the splintered glass doing the Governor any injury.

The thrower of the apple was seen by the motorman, standing in the field near the Vincent Memorial Hospital. The motorman stopped the car and jumping off, started for the man. He fled down the embankment and disappeared in Leverett Park.

Governor Foss would not talk about the incident.

PRIVATE SUBSCRIPTION MAY OBVIATE VETERANS DILEMMA

Paul Revere Post and Committee of Organizations to Confer on Matter

Mayor Stone and City Solicitor McAnarney attended the meeting of Paul Revere Post G. A. R., Thursday evening for the purpose of explaining to the members of the post just what the agreement was in relation to the post being appointed custodians of the Adams Academy building.

As near as can be learned the hitch seems to be the inability on the part of the Post to meet the necessary expense of heating and janitor service. While the Post has a reserve fund for the care of sick and disabled it can not, and should not be used to pay rent for the headquarters.

The membership of the Post, through death, is rapidly growing smaller and it is not able to meet the expense that would be incurred should it take charge of the building.

The matter was thoroughly discussed Thursday evening and later a committee was appointed to confer with a like committee from kindred organizations relative to raising a fund by private subscription that shall insure the Post for at least five years, any expense to which it may be put for rentals, light, heat and janitors service. Another conference will be held with the Mayor and City Solicitor on this matter at an early date.

DISTRICT COURT.

Francis Eaton, Earle C. Quimby, Richard T. Green and Harry B. Waldron were fined $5 each for violation of the automobile muffler law at Quincy.

Frank W. Richards and Emilio Saracco were fined $20 each, Melville T. Nichols $15, and Frank W. Weston $5 for exceeding the speed limit at Milton.

Edward Donlon was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy. Sentence suspended until November 15.

The continued case of James Simononviz of Weymouth for violation of the liquor law was heard and he was fined $50 and sentenced to three months in the house of correction. Appealed and was held in $500.

Spencer Vanauken was fined $10 for assault at Weymouth.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

City of Presidents Has Much of Interest

Old historic Quincy settled in 1625 has much of interest to visitors. When Braintree was incorporated in 1640, the territory now known as Quincy, was a part. In 1792 Quincy became an independent town, and in 1888 was incorporated as a city.

Quincy was named in honor of Col. John Quincy, descendant in the third generation from Edmund, 2d, who settled in Quincy, in 1634; grand-father of Abigail (Smith) Adams, the wife and mother of a President of the United States.

The city includes Wollaston, Atlantic, Quincy Point, South Quincy, West Quincy, Montclair, Norfolk Downs, Wollaston Park, Squantum, Houghs Neck, Adams Shore, Germantown and Quincy Neck, comprising in all over 16 square miles, of which 2,530 acres are in public parks.

Birthplaces of Presidents.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Admission charged.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

Abigail Adams Cairn.

Penns Hill, erected June 17, 1896 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of the old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

Burial Place of Presidents.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) at Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. The funeral of John Quincy Adams was held in this church. Beneath the entrance is the Adams tomb, reached by stairways from the vestibule. Near the tomb is the box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams, also the old town hearse.

Hancock Cemetery.

Hancock cemetery across the street from First church contains many old stones. Among the old graves are those of Henry Adams founder of the Adams family who died Oct. 5, 1646; Rev. William Thompson, 1st pastor over the Braintree church who died Dec. 10, 1666; Rev. Henry Flint who died Oct. 11, 1668; Rev. John Hancock father of the Patriot who died May 7, 1744, and many other notable people.

John Hancock Birthplace.

Adams street, junction of Dimmick and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

President Adams Mansion.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants Not open to public.

Presidents Lane.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

Dorothy Q. House.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy, Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M., until 4 P. M Other days admission charged.

Myles Standish Cairn.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the Indian Tisquantum.

Myles Standish Spring.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Squaw Rock.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

Honey Bread.

In Europe, where the food value of honey seems to be much better understood than in the United States, enormous quantities are used. Of late years we seem to be waking to the realization of the value of honey as a wholesome and delicious article of food and also as to its preservative qualities. Cakes and sweetbreads made with sugar soon become dry and crumbly and to get the good of them must be eaten when fresh, but where they are made up with honey they seem to retain their moist freshness indefinitely. In France honey bread a year or eighteen months old is preferred to that just made. They say, "It has ripened." It is the preservative, or rather the unchanging quality of honey, that makes it so popular with the best confectioners.—Christian Herald.

DEATH, HAVOC AND DESOLATION

Sunday's Heavy Rains Gave No Room For Floods of Cloudburst—Wrecked Telephone and Telegraph Wires Prevented General Warnings—Death Toll Reaches 60 With Probably Greater Increase to Follow

Pittsburg, July 26.—Death and desolation is spread broadcast over the southwest counties, through the Youghiogheny valley.

Floods in these regions are of an annual occurrence, for which preparation is made; and comparatively little damage is done; freshets caused by heavy summer rains occur several times a season, but the heavy water falls are carried away with but little harm. Then came the cloudburst and the towns were plunged into desolation. Hundreds of families were driven from their homes, residences and buildings were damaged or completely demolished, streets were torn up by the mile; while others were piled high with tons of debris. Poles were uprooted and wires dropped to the streets, effectually blocking communication from many points and causing darkness at many others.

In the Turtle Creek valley the damage is enormous. Crops were blotted from the earth. Railroad traffic through a great territory is demoralized. With four connections into Uniontown, the Pennsylvania was unable to get passengers into the city. Several railroad bridges of that system and the Baltimore and Ohio were torn from foundations thought impregnable and hurled into the maddened waters.

Thousands are suffering. Towns are cut off from railroad, mail, telephone and telegraph connections and are in darkness and without fuel. From West Virginia no reports can be secured by the weather bureau for almost every wire in that state is down.

It was in the coke region that the fury of the storm seemed to have been spent. Uniontown, Dunbar, Lemont, Mount Braddock, Cornellsville, all were inundated and suffered great damage. The greatest loss of life was due by the flooding of the Superba mine at Evans, nine miles from Uniotown. There the toll reached seventeen.

Estimates by mining experts were that it would probably be two months before the dead bodies of those miners in Superba mine No. 2 can be recovered. It is thought that the rushing waters swept the men possibly 1000 feet back into the bore of the underground workings.

The paces, and the number reported to have drowned at each, are as follows:

Uniontown, Pa., 17 drowned.
Smock, Pa., located in Redstone valley, 14 drowned.
Grindstone, Pa., 12 miners missing.
Lynn, Pa., 2 miners reported drowned.
Wheeling, W. Va., 3 drowned.
Lemont, Pa., mine, 4 miners drowned.
Ellenwood, Pa., H. L. King, his wife and child drowned.
New Martinsville, W. Va., 6 drowned.
Monongahela, W. Va., 1 drowned.
Fairmount, W. Va., 2 drowned.

The ful death list will not be known for days to come. A large number of mines were flooded in a short space of time and the operatives were compelled to flee for their lives. It will take months to clear some of the mines of water. From many sections, known to have been inundated, reports have not been received.

THREE MEN KILLED

When Express Train Crashes Into Freight Engine

Stonington, Conn., July 26.—In a railroad wreck here three men were killed and four others more or less seriously injured. An Adams Express train bound east over the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad crashed into a freight engine at the railroad yards at Stonington Junction, reducing both locomotives practically to scrap iron and considerably damaging rolling stock.

Two cars of the express were also wrecked, but the remainder of the train, which was made up of steel cars withstood the shock. A part of the wreckage struck the signal tower tearing out one corner of it and forcing Fred E. Wilbur of Stonington, the tower man, to jump for safety. The wreckage took fire, but the flames were extinguished by the Stonington fire department.

Chicago Has 2,381,700

Chicago, July 26.—According to the city school census that has just been completed, the population of Chicago is 2,381,700. This is an increase of 200,000 over the figures shown in the government census of 1910.

WILL CRITICIZE WILSON

Representative Rodenburg Studies His Writings For That Purpose

Washington, July 26.—A Republican campaign attack in congress will be aimed directly at Governor Woodrow Wilson. It was learned that Representative William A. Rodenburg of Illinois, is preparing a speech to criticise Wilson's entire record. Rodenburg is a strong "regular" Republican.

Wilson's writings and speeches will be the principal target. The Illinoisian has a complete Wilson library, having obtained every book and public utterance of the Democratic presidential candidate. Rodenberg was especially chosen, it is reported, by Chairman Hilles and the "big five" of the Republican national committee for the task of attacking Wilson's documentary record.

CHAS. MORSE WILL RE-ENTER TRADE

Is the Report Coming From Canadian Resources

Bath, Me., July 26.—Although released Feb. 7 from the Atlanta penitentiary on medical testimony that he was soon to die, it has become known that Charles W. Morse recently entered into a traffic agreement with President E. J. Chamberlain of the Grand Trunk railroad.

According to the arrangement as understood, Morse will operate a large fleet of cargo vessels in and out of New London, Conn. These steamers, it is planned, will carry tropical produce from the West Indies to New London for distribution over the Grand Trunk lines in Canada. It is also proposed to establish steamship connections with the southern ports of the United tSates. Further, in connection with the Grand Trunk, Morse proposes to establish a line of steamships on the Great Lakes.

When seen at his home on Washington street, Mr. Morse refused to deny or affirm the rumor.

GUNMEN SHOOT AGAIN

Attack Man They Say "Squealed" on Their Thefts

New York, July 26.—How little the "gunmen" of the lower East Side have been disturbel in the practice of their particular pastime by the turmoil raised by the Rosenthal murder was shown when a band of seven or eight roughs attacked and fired several shots at the proprietor of a garage in East Ninth street, threw a whole block of tenement house dwellers into a panic and escaped by flight over the roofs of a row of buildings and down the fire escapes.

Louis Steinhart was standing in front of his garage when the band of men, none of whom was known to him, he told the police, approached. Three of them stepped forward and their spokesman said:

"You squealed on us and told the police how we got those cases of goods. Now we're going to get you."

Steinhart declared the men must have mistaken him for someone else.

Sugar Trust Secret Revealed

San Francisco, July 26.—William H. Hannam, secretary of the Western Sugar Refining company, testified in the hearing of the government suit to dissolve the American Sugar Refining company, that the Western company, while under the control of the American, paid $200,000 a year for the privilege of keeping the California-Hawaiian refinery closed.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FRUIT PUDDINGS.

FRUIT puddings make a delicious finish for a summer meal. There are so many varieties of fruit at present on the market that a comparatively unlimited choice is afforded.

A fruit pudding may be made in a bowl, the inside of which is buttered and then lined with puff paste rolled to the thickness of about half an inch.

With Small Fruit.

If small fruit is used, such as berries, a pint of them will be sufficient. After they have been washed and picked lay half at the bottom of the basin and add an ounce and a half of sugar. Then drop in the other half pint of berries and add another ounce and a half of sugar.

Turn the puff paste which lines the sides of the basin over the fruit and secure it well on top. Draw a cloth around the pudding and tie it underneath the bowl. Boil the pudding for an hour in water, then turn out on a dish. Serve with cream and sugar or hard sauce.

Instead of boiling this dessert it may be baked in the oven. Some persons fill the pudding dish with alternate layers of berries, sugar and strips of paste. Ripe cherries, currants, raspberries, blackberries, gooseberries, plums, huckleberries, elderberries or mulberries may be used in this way. Apples or peaches, if cut into very thin sections, are also available.

Fruit Batter Pudding.—Take two cupfuls of sifted flour and four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Rub in one-half cupful of butter. Mix with one-quarter cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk and two well beaten eggs. Butter six individual molds. Put one tablespoonful of butter in each cup, then half a peach or other fresh fruit, and drop another spoonful of batter on the top. Steam one-half hour and serve with orange sauce.

Baked Puddings.

Baked Apple Pudding.—Peel and core half a dozen large apples, add a little lemon peel, four cloves and sugar to taste. Stir till tender, then add two ounces of butter and set aside to cool. Grease a pie dish, sprinkle breadcrumbs over it, pour in the apple and a thick layer of breadcrumbs on the top. Scatter bits of butter and bake slowly for an hour. Serve hot, turned out of the dish.

Peach Pudding.—Take a quarter of a pound of fresh sweet butter, a half pound of sugar and beat to a cream. Add to these two well beaten eggs, a half pint of rich milk and a pint of flour which has been sifted with a pinch of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Into the batter stir fresh peaches which have been skinned, stoned and thinly sliced. Butter a mold and pour the batter and peaches into this. Bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE IN

BOSTON AND VICINITY

MAY YOHE IN CABARET.

It has been some years since May Yohe, of Hope blue diamond fame, has been seen in these parts. Some fifteen or twenty years ago she was a feature in Henderson's famous productions such as "Blue Beard," "Aladdin Jr.," "Sinbad," etc., and in the meantime she has had a busy time with matrimonial experiences including Lord Francis Hope of the English Nobility and the son of a former mayor of New York City, globe trotting, and playing the very active role of a footlight favorite. Altogether, she has kept very much in the limelight. It has remained for Manager Dodge of Paragon to give the people of Boston and New England an opportunity of seeing this artiste of individuality. He captured her for his Cabaret Show in the Palm Garden this week, and she will be seen this week only. In order that both the early and late visitors at the Cabaret may have the chance to witness her performance May Yohe appears twice each evening, at 9.15 and at 10.20. Thus those who are obliged to take the last boat back to Boston may see her first appearance, and automobile parties who do not drop in until 10 o'clock or after in the evening when the Cabaret merriment is at its height are equally favored in seeing one of the most talked of women of the world.

Fireworks continue to be a special feature every Wednesday and Saturday night at Paragon, and the 58 sea lions in the Lagoon are constantly entertaining. The free circus acts include Demon and Speedy.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

In response to numerous requests for a presentation of that powerful play "Leah The Forsaken," Mr. Lindsay Morison has decided upon it as the vehicle for Miss Nance O'Neil and his stock company at the Majestic Theatre next week. The play is an adaptation of the old and familiar German play "Deborah" and is one in which Miss O'Neil has scored a success which has placed her in the same class as Bernhardt, Janauscheck, Rea and other world-famed actresses who have essayed the title role.

"Leah the Forsaken" would be a great play if there was little else to it besides the great curse scene. It is here that Leah driven to desperation by the persecutions she has endured, bursts forth in a magnificent denunciation of her lover when she finds that he is married. When Miss 'Neil played this scene at Tremont Theatre eight years ago her audiences paid her a greater tribute than was ever before accorded a dramatic star. At every performance hand-clapping gave way to wild cheering that usually lasted about ten minutes. Newspapers at the time pronounced her work in the scene the very perfection of art.

It is safe to say that Miss 'Neil will duplicate her former success next week, for Mr. Morison intends to provide her with a production that will compare very favorably with her original equipment.

B. F. KEITH'S.

Theodore Friebus, the most popular heavy man who ever appeared in stock in Boston, who is known to thousands of theatre-goers all over New England through his long association with the Boston Theatre and Castle Square stock companies. Mr. Friebus has just closed a highly successful season at the Academy of Music in New York City, and has not appeared in Boston for three years, since he presented "The Fight In the Lighthouse" at B. F. Keith's. For his second vaudeville appearance Mr. Friebus has chosen a vehicle of an entirely different type, a bright farce comedy, bearing the title of "Peter Peckter's Predecessor." This sketch is the work of Rev. John Snyder, known to playgoers all over America as the author of "As Ye Sow." Aside from the return of Mr. Friebus, the week will also be notable for the first appearance in Boston of Kate Elinore and Sam Williams in their new travesty, "The Hunter and The Hunteress." This is one of the funniest characters Miss Elinore ever created, and introduces her in a new light to vaudeville patrons. Other splendid features of a great summer show will be the Four Regals, in their spectacular novelty, "The Armorers;" Halligan and Sykes, two newcomers with an original specialty; Adonis and his Dog, a beautiful posing and contortionist novelty; Armstrong and Lawrence, another new pair of entertainers, Lavine-Cimaron Trio in a grotesque comedy act; Grace Edmond, a remarkably pretty girl, who sings a number of catchy songs; and Shreck and Percival, knockabout comedians.

BECKER READY TO TESTIFY

"John the Barber" Makes a Fresh Affidavit

WHITMAN FORGING THE CHAINS

"Bridgie" Webber's Alibi Broken by "John the Barber's" Story—Announced That Shapiro Will Turn State's Witness—Police Have Not Brought In a Man by Their Own Efforts

New York, July 26.—District Attorney Whitman made what he believes to be material progress in the murder case so far as "Bridgie" Webber's connection with the Rosenthal murder is concerned, when John J. Reisler, otherwise known as "John the Barber," made affidavit that he saw "Bridgie" Webber running from the direction of the Metropole, where Rosenthal's body lay, not ten minutes after the killing. Reisler told the district attorney such a story, and then when he took the stand before Coroner Feinberg he looked into the baleful eyes of some of Webber's pals and forgot all about it.

He was held on a perjury charge, and so far reinstated himself by his affidavit that he was paroled in the custody of his attorney.

It was announced that William Shapiro, chauffeur of the "murder car," would turn state's evidence and tell all he knows about the case. He will make his statement in the presence of Mr. Whitman, an assistant district attorney and Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty. His statement is expected to do much toward fixing the responsibility for Rosenthal's murder.

Lieutenant Becker, who was invited by the grand jury to appear and give testimony, made his appearance in the criminal court building and announced that he was ready to give what testimony he could to the grand jury. He went to the district attorney's office and there waited with Lieutenants Costigan and Reilly, who also had responded to invitations, to be escorted by District Attorney Whitman into the grand jury room.

Efforts to discover the identity of the man who plotted the death of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, have been balked for the time by the failure of the police to round up the gang that murdered Rosenthal in front of the Hotel Metropole. Nine days have now elapsed since the gambler was slain, and with the exception of Harry Vallon, who surrendered himself, not one of the passengers in the gray automobile has been brought to headquarters by the police, though several of the supposed assassins have been seen in the city during the past week.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, now admittedly under the direction of the district attorney, says that the hiring of the Burns men will make no difference in his work. Mr. Dougherty intends, he says, to keep on until he finds the men who killed Rosenthal, and the men who wanted him killed, whether they were inside or outside of the police department. Dougherty insists that he is not being driven or restrained by anybody, and that he will make it unpleasant for any official who tries either sort of tactics.

District Attorney Whitman took a long step ahead in the investigation by the grand jury to determine whether a partinership has existed between policemen and gamblers, as Rosenthal charged in the affidavit against Becker, when Police Lieutenant Daniel E. Costigan, "the honest cop," as they call him in the department, told the grand jury that gambling could not endure in the Tenderloin or anywhere else without police protection.

Late last night Frank Murato, described in a police circular recently issued as "Dago Frank," "wanted for murder," in connection with the killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was brought to police headquarters by department detectives.

He is one of the men declared by the police to have been in the "murder car" on the night of the shooting.

EMPEROR GROWING WEAKER

Bulletins Say He Is Slowly Sinking and Conditions Are Serious

Tokio, July 26.—The official bulletin issued this morning on the condition of the emperor, announced that no change had occurred.

The similarity of the bulletins posted throughout the past twenty-four hours is regarded as omnious. The nature of the emperor's malady precludes his taking much nourishment, and as a result he has grown weaker day by day.

Beveridge Progressive Chairman

Chicago, July 26.—Former Senator A. J. Beveridge of Indiana has been chosen temporary chairman of the national convention of the progressives in Chicago, Aug. 5. This announcement was made by Senator Joseph M. Dixon.

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION

Charged Against Head of University of Vermont

mont, Gives Bail

Burlington, Vt., July 26.—President Guy P. Benton of the University of Vermont was arrested here by Sheriff J. H. Allen on a body writ for a suit brought for $20,000 by Dr. Hugh O. Moore of Oxford, O., formerly a member of the faculty of Miami university, where President Benton was formerly stationed. Malicious prosecution is given as the grounds for the action.

Dr. Moore is the proprietor of a drug store in Oxford. He alleges that on Nov. 29, 1910, President Benton complained to Mayor A. F. Sloane of Oxford claiming that Moore was selling liquor illegally to students of the university. This led to the latter's arrest and he was tried but acquitted. Benton again had him arrested and this time he was fined $50 but appealed the case and was acquitted in the court of appeals.

Dr. Benton says the main facts are correct but added that he acted in good faith and that as Moore undoubtedly sold liquor to the students the suit was plainly a spite case as is shown, according to Dr. Benton, by the fact that Moore waited all this time until he was ensconsed in another college and among strangers before bringing the suit. Bail was promptly given.

TEDDY TO BE TRAILED

By His Old Time Friend of the Nebraska Prairies

Sea Girt, N. J., July 26.—The leading question as to what is to become of William J. Bryan in the Democratic national campaign was seemingly answered here when close political advisers of Governor Wilson let it be known that Bryan's assignment for the campaign will be to worry and harass the Bull Moose candidate and to follow him with a goading bevy of question marks into every debatable state.

In order to prepare Mr. Bryan for his excursions along the Bull Moose trail, Governor Wilson will hold a conference with him at Seat Girt shortly after the speech of acceptance is delivered on Aug. 7. Mr. Bryan has been invited to come here prepared to remain for two or three days. So far no political visitor has been asked to stay over night at the little White House, and Bryan's visit in this respect will be unique.

TAFT'S VETOED WOOL PASSED AGAIN

Democrats and Republicans Unite On a Revision

Washington, July 26.—Ten progresive Republicans overthrew the regular Republicans in the senate late last night and joined with the Democrats in passing the La Follette woolen tariff revision bill as a substitute for the Democratic measure framed by the house of representatives. The La Follette bill was adopted by a vote of 39 to 27, less than two hours after the Republican leaders had achieved what they believed was a victory when a cmpromise submitted by Senator Penrose was passed in the committee of the whole.

The amended bill goes back to the house of representatives and the resulting tariff situation is exactly that which followed the adoption of a woolen tariff in the special session of 1911 which the president vetoed. The La Follette bill is the same as passed then by the senate, with a raw wool duty of 30 percent and an average duty of 55 percent on manufactured goods.

The house bill is the same as then passed by the house, with the raw wool duty of 20 percent.

A conference committee will again take up the two bills and attempt to frame a substitute to send to the president.

BEVERIDGE FOR NEW PARTY

Blessing If It Simply Ousts Indiana Political Bosses

Indianapolis, July 26.—Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge formally renounces allegiance to the Republican party in a letter received by William H. Dye, a leader of the progressive party in Indiana.

Mr. Beveridge, who is spending the summer at Seal Harbor, Me., says the letter is intended as an answer to queries of many Indiana friends who sought to know his position concerning the progressive party. He says in his letter that if the new party does no more for Indiana than to oust the old line political bosses it will have performed a great blessing to the state.

Progressive State Convention

Boston, July 26.—The Massachusetts state National Progressive convention will be called to order at 2:30 in Faneuil hall tomorrow. There are to be no actual delegates to the convention; the election of delegates has been dispensed with. Instead, every follower of Colonel Roosevelt in the entire state has been extended an invitation to be present.

An Unintelligible Epistle

By EMMA THORNE

Miss Jacqueline Armstrong, a sophomore in X. college, after having had a cheese, pickles and candy party in her room and having parted with her visitors, threw on a dressing gown and settled herself to writing a letter to her mother:

Dear Mamma—I have just come in from a meeting of our University Society of Foreign Missions and sit down to write you my usual weekly letter. I am sorry I can't write oftener, but you know that my studies take up all my time. I like college this year better than last because the studies are more interesting. Besides, I am getting used to university life. Of course we girls are not given the privileges the students in men's colleges have, but we don't miss them. We are permitted to receive calls of a formal kind from young men, but it isn't as it is at home, where the boys come in and we may romp as much as we please. However, you know I prefer girls' society to boys' anyway, and nobody need watch me.

We have study hours in the evening; consequently we are always in our rooms at that time, and just now we are preparing for our examinations at the end of the term. The graduating class this year is unusually intellectual, and the faculty is looking forward to brilliant exercises on commencement day. I hope that I may meet your wishes by taking an honor when I graduate. I am doing my best to stand well in my class, but you must remember that I have to compete with a great many very clever girls.

If you come to see me be sure you let me know a day or two before your arrival. When we have our friends and families visit us our attention is distracted, and we need to study hard a day or two ahead to keep up an average. You needn't send me the clothes you speak of. I don't need any handsome dresses here in this atmosphere of study. They would be out of place. Your affectionate

DAUGHTER.

Having finished the above epistle, Miss Armstrong wrote another to Mr. Ellison Keane, a student in a neighboring men's college, in which she avoided names and wrote in a disguised hand:

My Dear—I was sorry not to meet you as appointed. I received a visit from an aunt, whom I was obliged to escort about and through the college buildings. This coming of relatives at unexpected times is dangerous, and in a letter just written my mother I have told her not to fail to give me notice. I'll be at the trysting place next Saturday at the same time and hour, and if you're passing you can take me up. A rest of a couple of hours will do me good. The truth is I'm so bored with the miserable studies and trying to make the profs believe that I know something about them that I need a Saturday spree. So don't fail on the next appointment. But be very guarded, and if any one to be dreaded is in sight don't stop, but return and take me in when the coast is clear. Ta-ta! SPOONIE.

Miss Armstrong addressed her two letters and put them in their envelopes, intending to look them over the next day before mailing the one to her mother in the college box. The other she proposed to take to a private letter box in the corner of a stone wall hidden by bushes. The bell for chapel was ringing the next morning when she was rereading them. Hearing a footstep coming, she had only time to cram them into their respective envelopes when the lady in charge of the dormitory entered. Later Miss Armstrong posted her letters in their proper places.

The next Saturday the gentleman failed to put in an appearance at the trysting place, and the girl student was worried. On looking into the private letter box on her way home she found a letter inclosing one which she had sent him which was to her mother.

"Goodness gracious me!" she exclaimed. "If I did that I must have sent the letter to him to mamma. Whatever shall I do?"

The same evening a letter came by post from her mother. It read:

My Dear Daughter—I have just received a letter from somebody I don't know and which I can't read, addressed to me in your handwriting. I don't know what it means. I think some of your fellow students and you must have been writing letters in the same room and got them mixed. If this is the case I will return it. Another supposition worries me. It may be that you are ill and out of your head. Telegraph me as soon as you receive this if I am mistaken. Your loving and anxious MOTHER.

P. S.—I inclose $10 for fruits and such things in case you are ill.

This letter relieved Miss Armstrong's disquietude considerably. She telegraphed her mother not to worry and to return the letter at once. When she received it she wrote her fond parent that some day she would give her a satisfactory explanation of the matter. At present she was boning hard for exams and had no time. She hoped the old lady would forget all about the epistle, but she didn't. There were a few words in the note like "trysting place" and a "Saturday spree" that looked suspicious. But the fact that the letter was signed "Spoonie" instead of Jacqueline seemed to indicate that her daughter was not its writer. Mrs. Armstrong did not remember Jacqueline having mentioned any of her friends named Spoonie, but of course in college there were a great many girls, and Jack could not be expected to mention them all.

Jacqueline, having finished her studies, or, rather, her escapades, was graduated with the others, the hard students mostly becoming teachers, the escapaders becoming wives and mothers. Jacqueline married Mr. Ellison Keane and made a model mistress of the household.

"By the bye," said her mother one day after her daughter's marriage, "whatever became of your friend Spoonie-What's-Her-Name, your college friend?"

"Spoonie?"

"Yes; the one whose note you sent me instead of your own."

"Oh, she was graduated at the foot of her class and is now darning her husband's socks and patching her children's clothes, like the rest of us."

LUCKY TWIST TO DOCTOR'S ROLL

Resulted in Lessening the Sum Total $5.00

The following is vouched for by the "Seen and Heard" man of the Boston Record:

"Dr. Norbert V. Mullen of Weymouth the other day treated at his office as a patient a woman member of a group of gypsies who passed through the town on their way to Plymouth.

In gratitude for his services the gypsy offered to give his money roll a "lucky twist" which would insure success to the owner in always retaining a good supply.

When Dr. Mullin counted over the roll a little later he discovered that the charm would have to work to the tune of a $5 note before he was even square with the 'lucky twist.'"

YALE'S OLDEST GRADUATE DEAD

Jonathan White, the oldest member of the state bar and the oldest graduate of Yale college, died at his home, 14 Maple avenue, Brockton, Thursday, afternoon, aged 92. Death came unexpectedly, although Mr. White had been slightly indisposed for the past three days.

Jonathan White was born in Holbrook in 1820 of colonial stock. He was graduated from Phillips Andover Academy in 1840, where he was class valedictorian, and from Yale in 1844. While at college he won several scholarship prizes and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was also a member of the Delta Phi fraternity. After his graduation he studied law at Harvard and thereafter was for 35 years engaged in legal practice, both in Brockton and in Boston, in the offices of Richard H. Dana and Charles T. Russell.

SOUTH QUINCY AND MAKARIA

South Quincy and Makaria will clash in battle royal Saturday afternoon on the Water street grounds. The game will be called promptly at 3.30 o'clock and a good attraction is promised those who attend.

Of late the South Quincy boys, leaders in the league, have not been displaying their usual form, and as a result Makaria, West Quincy and Quincy A. A. have become tied for second place. Manager Ford, however, feels that his team is still the best in the league and feels confident of victory. With Brittingham in the points, "Charlie" Ganzel's combination can see nothing to it but Makaria.

Another game that should draw a large crowd of rooters Saturday is that between the Orients and the Ramblers. Out of 15 games, the Orients have lost but one, and since they defeated the Ramblers earlier in the season, they claim they can duplicate the performance.

The Colonials of West Quincy will play the Dorchester A. A. at Weymouth Saturday, as a feature of the annual picnic of the Sacred Heart parish. Williams who has a clean record of eight straight games to his credit wil be on the mound for the West end boys, who feel they can take the measure of the strong Dorchester team.

Makaria vs. South Quincy at Water street grounds, game called at 3.30 P. M.

Ramblers vs Orients at Ward Three playgrounds, game called at 3 P. M.

Colonials vs. Dorchester A. A. at Weymouth.

COPPERS READY FOR BATTLE

On Base Ball Diamond Now the Strike Is Ended

Now that Elevated strike is ended the Massachusetts Police league will resume its schedule of base ball games and the police officers will once again take up their base ball implements and battle for the beautiful silk pennant emblematic of the police championship of the state. The league is now led by Manager Alywards famous Cambridge team with Lynn and Newton a close second and third.

Below is the standing to July 25, 1912:

MOONLIGHT SAIL.

A moonlight sail will be held by the Squantum Yacht club this evening. The sail will be enjoyed in Quincy Bay.

BRIEFS

Mark L. Read, Jr., and family left Thursday for Meredith, N. H., for a few weeks.

George Reinhalter and Thomas O'Brien of West Quincy have gone to Holbrook for the weeks' end.

Quincy boats will participate in the annual Y. R. A. open race under the auspices of the Gloucester Yacht club Saturday.

Leonard C. Hewson of Newcomb place returned Thursday from a five weeks' business trip through the Southern states.

Mrs. Henry L. Porter of South street is confined to her home, having had the misfortune to fall breaking her right limb.

C. J. Garvin, a native of South Weymouth, and formerly carriage agent at Hotel Nantasket, Nantasket beach, is now a court judge in Denver Col.

Rev. C. C. Tilley of Damarscotta, Maine, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Calvary Baptist church and will begin his labors about the middle of September.

Commissioner Tupper has commenced work getting Hancock street ready at Norfolk Downs to complete the paving of the west side of the street which was commenced a year ago but was not completed.

CHURCH PEOPLE PLAN BIG TIME

The annual midsummer lawn party of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic, will be held Saturday afternoon and evening on the grounds surrounding the church. The various committees in charge report that great progress has been made in preparation of the event and good weather is all that is needed to make the affair the most successful in the history of the parish.

A fine program of athletics has been arranged by Edward Keohane, for boys and girls of the Sunday school. These will furnish the attraction in the afternoon.

Attractive features have been secured and a dancing board has also been erected. The booths will all be prettily decorated and the grounds will present a scene of gaiety.

The pastor, Rev. John P. Cuffe and his assistant Rev. J. F McNiff will be on hand during the greater part of the afternoon and evening. Mayor Eugene R. Stone and Ex-Mayor William T. Shea are numbered among the guests expected to be present.

PRESIDENT SURPRISED

A pleasant surprise was given C. E. Carlson, president of the Squantum Improvement Association, at his handsome new bungalow on Huckins avenue, Wednesday evening. It was his birthday anniversary and Mrs. Carlson and a number of neighbors joined in a delightful evening in his honor. Mr. Carlson blushingly confessed to "twenty-seven" years but just how many more he refused to say. Refreshments were served and a most enjoyable evening passed by those present. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. William A. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Wunderlich, Miss Catherine Grady, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Upling, Master Joseph Upling, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Harvey and Mr. and Mrs. George Morrill. A special guest of the evening was Mr. J. H. Miller of Havana, who is a guest at the Carlson's home.

QUINCY WON TROPHY

There was no end to the enthusiasm manifested by the 65 members of John Adams Aerie, F. O. E. who returned to Quincy late Thursday evening from New Bedford, where they had been in attendance at the field day of New Bedford Aerie. In addition to having a good time, they carried home with them the trophy awarded to their degree team, for their fine work.

The competition for degree teams was held in Knights of Columbus hall, New Bedford, Wednesday evening. There were twelve competitors and it was only after several trials, that the judges gave the prize to the Quincy team.

A number of the party returned home in Keating's auto truck, while the rest of the members, together with many friends who took in the event, returned by train.

It has been already planned to tender a reception to the members of the degree team and it is probable that the matter will be definitely decided at the next meeting.

REBUILDING WASHINGTON ST.

Work was commenced by the Massachusetts Highway Commission this morning in rebuilding Washington street between Chubbuck street and the Quincy Point bridge. The piece of street, which is a state highway has long been in a bad condition and extremely dangerous to automobiles which attempt any speed. This morning an out of town automobile in passing over the street at a moderate rate went into a hole near the bridge and the wind shield glass was smashed. The driver reported the condition to Officer Phillips when he reached City Square. As soon as this street is completed the commission intends to rebuild the state road on Quincy avenue.

BOARDING HOUSE KEEPERS KICKED AT BURNING MATTRESSES

Number of Beds in Room Decreased Syrians Seeking Lodging Places

Inspector Lennon of the Board of Health paid a visit Thursday afternoon to the Syrian boarding houses in the Fore River district, that were visited by the Board of Health earlier in the week, and ordered all of the mattresses used on the beds destroyed, and he saw to it that this was done and that the various sleeping rooms were thoroughly cleaned. There was some kick on the part of the boarding mistresses who were made to burn the bed clothing and mattresses but the Board of Health is a law unto itself and they had to comply.

The Inspector then told the proprietors of these houses just how many beds they could have in each room. In a very large room two beds were allowed but in most of the rooms the Board held them down to one bed. The result is that there are a lot of Syrians about Quincy Point who are looking for new boarding places. The Inspector will pay an occasional visit to these premises to see that his orders are being complied with.

RESERVE MEN TO REGULAR FORCE

Mayor Stone announced this morning that he intended to fill the vacancies in the regular police force caused by the promotions of Sergt. Hanson and Bishop, and Officers Goodhue and Larkin as soon as Messrs. Goodhue and Larkin had taken their non-compedative examination for promotion. The officers selected from the Reserve list for promotion to the regular force are Henry T. Corbett who was made a reserve officer April 22, 1909, John J. Avery made a reserve officer May 16, 1909 and Jeremiah D. Dhooge made a reserve officer March 12, 1910. These are the three longest service reserve officers. The vacancies in the reserve force will be made from the special police force from the names that are certified to the Mayor when he makes requisition for them.

PRICES TO LIVE IN CLEVELAND

Sanford B. Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brewster Price of 127 Lincoln avenue, was married to Miss Elsie V. Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah O. Paul of Charlestown, by Rev. J. A. Matheson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, at the manse, Thursday evening. They were unattended.

The newly married couple have gone to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will reside permanently. The groom is an elevator conductor and is 19 years of age, while his wife is one year his senior.

SQUANTUM MOVEMENTS

Miss Phyllis Bostwick, a talented young actress and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perley Bostwick of Brunswick street, left yesterday for New York city where she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stern. Miss Bostwick toured the east and south last season as leading lady of the "Seven Day" company. Her success on the dramatic stage has been most flattering and her many Squantum friends wish her every success in this season's work. She will remain in New York until her season's work begins.

Mrs. J. O. Shaw and son of New York are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lovejoy at their new summer home here.

Mrs. Louise Holt has returned from Fitchburg after a three weeks' visit.

Mrs. Herbert A. Smith of Wedgewood street is in Leominster today attending the funeral of the infant son of her brother, Harry S. Shumway.

He Spoke to Her.

A Virginia farmer was driving a refractory cow down the road one morning. The cow and the driver came to a crossroad. The man wanted the cow to go straight ahead, but the cow picked out the crossroad. A negro was coming along the crossroad.

"Hald her off! Hald her off!" yelled the driver.

The negro jumped about the road and waved his arms. The cow proceeded calmly on her way.

"Hald her off! Hald her off, nigger!" yelled the driver.

"I's a-tryin' ter!" replied the negro.

"Speak to her! Speak to her and she'll stop!"

"Good mawnin', cow—good mawnin'!" said the negro politely.—Saturday Evening Post.

QUINCY EARLY IN OPERATION WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

Family of Joseph Cryan Will Receive Substantial Benefit Under It

Question Yet as to Municipal Responsibility In Cases

Electa hall was comfortably taxed Friday evening at the open meeting of the Metal Trades' Council of Quincy. The speaker for the occasion was ex-Representative Joseph A. Parks of Fall River, a member of the Industrial Accident Board, who gave a most interesting talk on the "Workingmen's Compensation Act."

William Kelly, president of the Quincy branch of the Central Labor Union presided and paid a great tribute to Mr. Parks, in his introductory remarks, for the great work he had done in the interests of the laboring class.

Mr. Parks explained the bill in detail and brought out the same instructive points as he did in a recent talk before members of the Central Labor Union in Hibernian hall. He spoke of the success the bill had already met with and told of the number of accidents that had been already acted upon by the board.

Mr. Parks cited the accident of the late Joseph Cryan and added that his family will benefit as a result of the act.

The speaker took up a number of phases of the bill, which affect the interests of metal workers. He said that the bill was not drawn up for accidents only, but for injuries sustained while working. He said that if a man contracts illness, or dies as a result of illness contracted while in the performance of his duties, he is entitled to the benefits contained in the act.

When he had finished his address, Mr. Parks submitted to a number of questions. One that commanded considerable attention was the insurance carried by every worker at the Fore River Shipbuilding Company and its relation to the compensation act.

Mr. Parks said that the matter had been called to the attention of the board and is being given careful consideration. When asked concerning the relation of city, town and state employes to the bill, Mr. Parks said that no employe of the United States came under the bill.

He also said that a technical point of law does not bring the employes of a municipality under the bill, but added that the board expects to have them all included by December.

The speaker was tendered a rising vote of thanks at the close of his remarks.

The committee in charge of the meeting comprised J. T. Casey, chairman, Joseph McCarthy, Michael Walsh and William Summers.

PASTORAL ENGAGEMENTS

For August at Pilgrim Church, North Weymouth

To accommodate the increasingly large number of summer residents, and to provide for all who desire to attend church at least once on Sunday, a morning service will be sustained during the entire month of August at the Pilgrim church, North Weymouth. The following ministers will supply the pulpit: Aug. 4, Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkield; Aug. 11, Rev. Alfred Noon, Ph. D.; Aug. 18, Rev. E. C. E. Dorion, D. D.; Aug. 25, Rev. George Skene, D. D.

A service of song, from the Alexander song-book, under the direction of Rudolf Stolar, of 37 Grandview street, North Weymouth, commencing at 10.30 A. M., will precede the preaching, and all who love to sing are urged to assist.

DELIGHTFUL HARBOR SAIL

Wollaston Club and Guests Cruised and Danced

A large number of boats from the club fleet, participated in the moonlight sale of the Wollaston Yacht club on Friday evening. Although the wind was light, there was headway enough for the sailing yachts and an enjoyable sail was experienced.

Following the sale a dance was held in the hall of the clubhouse, which was enjoyed by a large number of couples to the music of Provost's orchestra.

Among the yachts and captains taking out parties were the following:

AUTOMOBILES CLASHED

Both Going at Slow Speed No One Was Injured

DAMAGE VERY SLIGHT

Two automobiles, one owned and driven by Herbert A. Rhodes of Braintree and the other owned and operated by Bertram Drake of Quincy, collided in the vicinity of Water and Phipps street shortly before seven o'clock last evening. Both machines were considerably damaged though none of the occupants sustained injuries.

Mr. Rhodes, in company with four women, was proceeding along Water street towards Phipps street at a moderate rate of speed. Mr. Drake was proceeding alone along Phipps street at a very slow rate of speed. Evidently Mr. Rhodes did not see Mr. Drake, for before he succeeded in bringing his car to a standstill, the automobiles had crashed together.

The side of Mr. Drake's machine was hit quite hard and the step was smashed. The front of the other machine was damaged, though not badly.

There was no confusion over the accident for after a peaceful conference, both men drove away to their respective machines away to their destinations on their own power.

BAN ON SUNDAY GARDEN WORK

Section of Melrose Up in Arms Over Police Order

LEGAL REDRESS SOUGHT

The question as to what constitutes unnecessary labor on the Sabbath has caused a controversy between the residents of Brunswick Park in the Highlands section of Melrose and Chief of Police George E. Kerr, which threatens to involve the entire city.

The chief has forbidden the citizens to weed their gardens on Sunday, and flaunting the majesty of the law in their faces, has announced that further violations will receive severe penalties.

Last Sunday Chief Kerr rode through the district, warning the citizens whom he found working in their gardens that they must cease. He declared that if a person is caught digging weeds next Sunday he will be arrested and hailed into court.

The residents of this section, highly indignant at what they consider to be an unwarranted action of a man whose position, given him by the people, allows him considerable leeway, are preparing to seek legal redress and have begun writing to the newspapers.

ROOSEVELT PROGRESSIVES

Hold First State Gathering this Afternoon in Boston

NO STATE OFFICERS

The first convention of the Roosevelt third party in Massachusetts is to be held in Faneuil Hall this afternoon at 2.30. Secretary Kenneth Damreu states there will be no attempt made to choose State officers.

The significant part of the convention will be the absence of the men who were prominent in the Roosevelt deliberations in Chicago. They are Matthew Hale, Charles S. Bird and Arthur D. Hill.

The chairman of the Roosevelt delegation, Frederick Fosdick, will preside Speeches are to be made by Professor Lewis Johnson of Harvard and ex-Congressman Lewis D. Apsley of Hudson.

Mr. Bird has written a letter stating that his absence is not due to lack of enthusiasm, but is enforced, Messrs. Hale and Hill are out of the State and have been for several weeks.

There will be 18 electors designated to be run at the November elections on nomination papers. There will also be elected 36 delegates to the convention of the national Progressive party in Chicago August 5.

There will be a platform read, but it will be only a tentative platform, as there is to be a much more comprehensive instrument adopted at Chicago.

CARLSON SENT CAR INTO TREE TO SAVE LITTLE GIRL'S LIFE

Two Cars Bewildered Child Who Did Not Know Which Way to Turn

Front of Automobile Damaged by the Collision

Mildred the 5 year old daughter of William Dewhurst of Maple street had a narrow escape from a serious injury on Washington street, near the corner of Foster street at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon and but for the quickness of Andrew Carlson in running his car into a tree, rather than run down the little girl there would have been a bad accident. There were two automobiles on the street at the time, one going down Washington street and the other driven by Mr. Carlson, coming up Washington street. Both met near the corner of Washington and Foster streets just as the little girl was about to cross the street. If the girl had remained still, when she saw the cars, all would have been well but she became frightened and began to run first one way and then another so that Mr. Carlson did not know just how to avoid striking her.

It was too late to bring the car to a stop, but he did the next best thing, he ran it over the curbing, on the west side of the street, and then head on into a tree. The front of the car was somewhat smashed but the child was uninjured and scampered off toward her home.

RELIEF CORPS ANNIVERSARY.

Mrs. Emma Marnock and Mrs. Cora Carman of Paul Revere, W. R. C., attended the 29th anniversary of the Woman's Relief Corps celebrated Friday at the headquarters, Boylston Building, Boston. The affair was entirely informal and was attended by many G. A. R. men. Mrs. Mary E. Holbrook, of Weymouth, president of the Massachusetts department, headed the reception committee.

Summer residents near the Cape Cod canal zone object to being disturbed by the perpetual activity. It is a question which is of more importance public expediency or private comfort.

THE LOBSTER.

A contemporary seriously propounds the query, "what shall be done with the lobster?" Answering in the same vein, it may be said that the green shelled bird can be served in many ways. He can be broiled, boiled, muddled and presented as a tempting morsel in many forms. As to the price, there seems to be some little difference on that subject. The querist sets it at 60 cents. Now as a matter of fact at most of the feudal castles, managed by latter day knights of the road, who Dick Turpin you in such an up to date manner that you think you are being favored instead of robbed, the price per lobster is far ahead of that modest figure. In some of these halls and around the round table, a dollar bill would fail to produce the desired dainty. To return to the primal thought however, the real issue is the preservation of the lobster.

Under the present system of taking the shelled fish is rapidly disappearing. The regulations are supposed to be stringent enough, but they are not enforced. A man arrested for having 1,000 or more lobsters in his possession is let off by the payment of a nominal sum, whereas if he had to pay or serve out the time under the law, at $5 for each lobster illegally in his possession offenders of this class would grow beautifully less.

The makerel some years ago were taken in such numbers that they could not be marketed and were carried outside Boston light and dumped overboard. The laws of different states are different on the lobster question. A uniform federal law would it seems be a reasonable regulation and prove beneficial in preserving the lobster.

CHANCE FOR HOME IMPROVEMENT.

Germany giving a left-handed bat to its friend and neighbor, Great Britain with whom according to report it has maintained an armed neutrality for years, asks the United States to intervene and check the atrocities conducted within the rubber belt in South America. We should thank our German friends for this kindly hint. And likewise for its open acceptance of the Monroe doctrine. It is a precedent which may come in handy some day. But while it may be termed exaggeration by some people, we have a few home troubles that concern us more at the present time than the South American rubber fields.

We have an election on hand with a three cornered contest that is making people sit up and take notice. We have labor disturbances all over the country which should be adjusted without resorting to strikes and lockouts. We have a tariff which requires revision, not upwards or downwards according to the whim of individuals or cliques but in such a manner that relief will be offered. So our German friends can see that we have our hands pretty full at the present time, and cannot blame us if we give some attention to the details of those internal affairs before going outside to look up trouble.

ELECTIONS COME HIGH.

We are confronted by the indisputable fact that elections come abnormally high. It is pointed out that this means that poor men or men of moderate means cannot enter into contests for political office. A rather peculiar and startling situation, yet one undeniably true. The man who would seek political office now is confronted with two expense accounts, the primaries and the election itself. It is true that we have laws supposed to govern such matters, but they permit the spending of an amount equal to the annual salary of a congressman. If the congressional candidate goes the limit and is successful he must split his salary in two to make it last the two years. But what is the poor fellow who is beaten to show for his money? Not a thing. He loses on all sides.

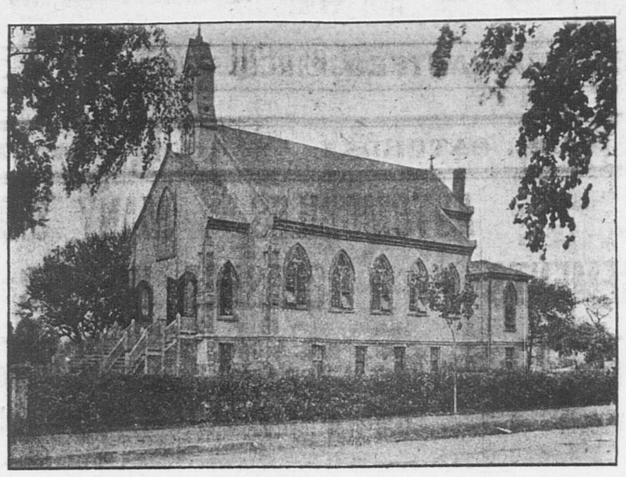

When this country and government were founded such lavish campaigning expenditure was not entered into and there was no thought of its future possibility, else those who framed the law would have made some provision to meet it. They seem to have covered most everything else. Now campaigns cost as much as the entire fortunes of our early patriots. And people innocently ask for the cause and a method of relief. The answer is up to the people themselves. They can and should answer it. They are responsible.

CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

Hope is held out in large chunks to sufferers from rheumatism. The air is full of an incontestable cure for this stubborn malady, if the experiences of Mrs. Polly Harper of Harpersburg, Va., counts for aught. A chronic sufferer for years from acute and chronic rheumatism, she had given up hope of ever escaping its influence. When a message came from the unknown in the form of a lightning bolt, straightened out her knotted limbs and muscles and the rheumatism had vanished.

During a storm the afflicted woman was standing near a place where the lightning struck. Her body received the full benefit of the electrical current and the effect was instantaneous. If the natural product is so efficacious no doubt the manufactured juice may be turned to good account in providing relief from this dreaded ailment. Here is another opportunity offered Wizard Edison.

SACRED HEART CATHOLIC CHURCH OF ATLANTIC

Weather conditions are ideal for the annual mid-summer lawn party of the Church of the Sacred Heart of Atlantic, and it is expected that the affair will be attended by the largest crowd in the history of the parish. Nothing has assisted more in the rapid events and both Fr. John P. Cuffe, the pastor, and his assistant Rev. J. F. McNiff feel that this affair will greatly eclipse any that has been held in previous years.

The grounds have been laid out in growth of the parish than the annual an attractive manner and everything points to success. The dancing platform is a large one and this feature is expected to be one of the leading attractions. Many former parishioners are expected to attend.

MRS. CROSBY AGED 90 YEARS

Succombed to Old Age at Grandson's Home

Mrs. Eliza A. Crosby, mother of Edward Harold Crosby, the dramatic editor of the Boston Post, died at the home of her grandson, S. M. Crosby, in Weymouth Friday. Mrs. Crosby was almost 90 years old and the cause of her death was old age.

She was born in Clarendon, Vt., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Nichols. With her father and mother she moved to Drewsville while she was a young girl and spent much of her life there.

In 1845 Miss Nichols became the wife of Edward Crosby of Boston. Mrs. Crosby was prominently identified with the work of the Woman's Union Missionary Society.

Besides E. H. Crosby, Mrs. Crosby is survived by another son, Samuel M. Crosby.

BID EXCEEDED APPROPRIATION

Another Try for Dredging Near Wollaston Yacht Club

The directors of the port of Boston voted to reject all bids offered for the proposed dredging of a channel at Wollaston as provided by chapter 130 of the acts of 1912 for which $6000 was appropriated.

Of the two bids submitted, one from John H. Letteney, 101 Tremont street, Boston, for the sum of $6195, was in excess of appropriation of $6000, and the other from the Bay State Dredging Co., 247 Atlantic avenue, at 54 cents per cubic yard, measured in scows, did not conform to the specifications of the advertisement. It was therefore, voted to reject both bids, and to readvertise.

DOVE OF PEACE HELD SWAY

At the Meeting of the Park and Downs Church

No business was transacted at the meeting of the Park and Downs Congregational church Friday evening and the dove of peace fluttered over the congregation filling all with a desire that he might continue to shed his light upon them indefinitely.

This was the regular weekly meeting of the church. No special mention was made about the trouble which has hovered over the church for some months.

This will be taken up at the special meeting set to consider the subject, Friday evening, August 2, when it is hoped and expected by all that an amicable adjustment will be reached.

Previous to the meeting Friday night, the regular prayer service was conducted by the pastor Rev. William P. Ayers, who gave an address on the "Passing of the Nazarine."

FLYING FISH THE VICTIMS

Probably of the Famous Bird Club's Annual Outing

The famous Bird club is planning for its annual outing. As usual the party will sail down the bay and land at some island and while some of the members hook in the fish for the chowder, the others will get the fires going and prepare the dinner. They will carry a supply of eatables with them in case the fish should refuse to bite, so that there will be no danger of their going hungry. As nothing appears in the call of the outing about birds it is presumed that the members plan on making a haul of flying fish, to live up to the club name.

TROLLEY TRIP TO PROVIDENCE

A gaily decorated electric car passed through City Square shortly after 7 o'clock this morning loaded with employes of the Boston Gear Works bound for Providence, R. I. Across the sides of the car was a large sign reading "Boston Gear Works." About four hours will be consumed in the trip which will be made without change of cars. At Providence a shore dinner will be served and the day spent in sight seeing. The party will return late in the evening.

HAPPINESS FOR DEMOCRATS

If the Expected Guests Invade Houghs Neck

All arrangements have been completed for the second annual field day of the Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum, to be held this afternoon and evening on the grounds surrounding the clubhouse on Manet avenue. The president of the Lyceum, Thomas F. Phillips says he has received assurances from the private secretary of His Excellency, that Governor Foss will be present for a few minutes. Hon. David I. Walsh, District, Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier and Mayor John F. Fitzgerald are also expected to address the gathering. Such being the case, the event will serve as the opening of the democratic campaign of the present season.

MORE RAPID POLICE MOVES

By Expert Stone on Re-organization Checker Board

EVERYBODY CLIMBING

Another move was made by Mayor Stone this morning in the police reorganization plan. The moves this morning was the appointment of Sergeant Mark E. Hanson who was appointed as an Inspector Thursday to be a Lieutenant of Police. Lieut. Hanson qualified for his new position this noon.

Yesterday Officers Goodhue and Larkin took the non-competitive examination at the state house before the Civil Service Commission for promotion. Both passed with a high per cent.

This morning Mayor Stone designated Officer Goodhue as a Sargeant of Police. He will hold this position until Monday morning when he will be again promoted to the rank of Inspector. At the same time Mayor will promote Officer Larkin to the position of Sergeant of Police.

Monday the Mayor will also make the promotions from the Reserve to the regular force and make requisition to fill the vacancies in the reserve police. By Tuesday morning the reorganization of the department should be completed.

FINNISH CHURCH NOTES.

A business meeting for the parishioners of the Finnish Congregational church will be held this evening.

The Christian Endeavor Society will meet Sunday evening and be addressed by A. Fitch Bromley, secretary of the Quincy Y. M. C. A.

TO AID WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Seventy-five million Red Cross Seals are now being printed for the holiday sale of these anti-tuberculosis stickers in 1912. The National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis, which in co-operation with the American Red Cross will conduct the sale, makes this announcement and states further that the outlook this year is bright for a larger sale than ever before

The seal this year is said to be the best of its kind that the Red Cross has ever issued. The design is in three colors, red, green, and gray. A Santa Claus head in the three colors is shown in the center surrounded by holly wreaths. In each corner is a small red cross. The seal bears the greeting "Merry Christmas, Happy New Year, American Red Cross, 1912."

The campaign for selling the Red Cross Seals will be carried on in practically every state and territory in the United States, and even in Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, Hawaii and Philippine Islands. No less than 100,000 volunteer agents, including department, drug and other kinds of stores, motion picture theatres, individuals, and others, will be engaged in the work. Before the sale is completed, it is expected that at least 100,000,000 seals will have been printed and distributed, besides several million posters, display cards and other forms of advertising literature.

Last year over 32,000,000 seals were sold; in 1910, over 31,000,000; in 1909, about 23,000,000; and in 1908, the first year of the sale only 13,500,000 In all, the sale in the four years has realized nearly $1,000,000 for the anti-tuberculosis campaign, since all of the money from this movement goes for the prevention of consumption.

FOSS THANKS MAYOR STONE

For Endorsing Park Policeman E. P. Whitney

Mayor Stone received a personal letter from Governor Foss this morning thanking him for his endorsement of Ellerton P. Whitney for reappointment as a member of the Park Commission. Mr. Whitney's term of office expires in a few days and his many friends in Quincy and Milton, where he resides are doing all they can for his reappointment.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

City of Presidents Has Much of Interest

Old historic Quincy settled in 1625 has much of interest to visitors. When Braintree was incorporated in 1640, the territory now known as Quincy, was a part. In 1792 Quincy became an independent town, and in 1888 was incorporated as a city.

Quincy was named in honor of Col. John Quincy, descendant in the third generation from Edmund, 2d, who settled in Quincy, in 1634; grand-father of Abigail (Smith) Adams, the wife and mother of a President of the United States.

The city includes Wollaston, Atlantic, Quincy Point, South Quincy, West Quincy, Montclair, Norfolk Downs, Wollaston Park, Squantum, Houghs Neck, Adams Shore, Germantown and Quincy Neck, comprising in all over 16 square miles, of which 2,530 acres are in public parks.

Birthplaces of Presidents.

Birthplace of John Adams, the first Vice President and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Admission charged.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

Abigail Adams Cairn.

Penns Hill, erected June 17, 1896 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son, John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of the old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

Burial Place of Presidents.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) at Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. The funeral of John Quincy Adams was held in this church. Beneath the entrance is the Adams tomb reached by stairways from the vestibule. Near the tomb is the box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams, also the old town hearse.

Hancock Cemetery.

Hancock cemetery across the street from First church contains many old stones. Among the old graves are those of Henry Adams founder of the Adams family who died Oct. 5, 1646; Rev. William Thompson, 1st pastor over the Braintree church who died Dec. 10, 1666; Rev. Henry Flint who died Oct. 11, 1668; Rev. John Hancock father of the Patriot who died May 7 1744, and many other notable people.

John Hancock Birthplace.

Adams street, junction of Dimmick and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

President Adams Mansion.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants Not open to public.

Presidents Lane.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

Dorothy Q. House.

Hancock street, corner Butler road Quincy, Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M., until 4 P. M Other days admission charged.

Myles Standish Cairn.

BOSTON STRIKE NEAR AN END

If Agreement Terms Are Ratified by Striking Employes

UNION WINS GREAT VICTORY

Peace Terms Agreed Upon In Boston Carmen's Great Struggle—Strikers to Vote Upon Acceptance of Terms Tonight In Faneuil Hall—Elevated Board Will Recommend That Terms Be Accepted

Boston, July 27.—While the final settlement of the Elevated car strike will not be officially completed until next Monday, the peace terms have been agreed upon by both the representatives of the strikers and the company.

The peace pact was accepted as mutually satisfactory to both the strikers and Elevated representatives at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

At a mass meeting at Faneuil hall tonight, the strikers will vote upon the acceptance or rejection of the terms.

Monday the executive committee of the board of directors of the Elevated corporation will recommend to the full board that the terms be accepted.

With the action, if favorable, the Elevated car strike will become a matter of history.

The terms which both sides agreed upon, provisionally, yesterday are a sweeping victory for the carmen. They virtually embody the original demands for which the men went on strike and those which the carmen have consistently placed before the public and the company.

The principal terms of the strike settlement are:

The return of the men to work without discrimination.

The men shall receive their former ratings and positions.

They are to be allowed to maintain their membership in their union organization and continue it without molestation or intimidation.

Questions relating to individual cases, the reinstatement of men found guilty in the lower courts of misdemeanors, and working conditions and questions which cannot be settled amicably and to mutual satisfaction are to be left to the state board of conciliation and arbitration for arbitration. There are 136 of these cases.

The union leaders are jubilant over the progress made. They believe that a speedy termination of the strike will follow.

In the recognition of the union the Elevated officials grant the greatest demand. Hereafter they will have to treat with a committee of the men on the matters affecting the working conditions, wage scale and discharge of their members.

ONLY OFFICERS REMAIN

Juarez Full of Generals, Colonels and Only 300 Privates

Juarez, Mex., July 27.—Three rebel generals and a generous sprinkling of colonels here find themselves with an immediate command of only three hundred men. Pascual Orozco, commander-in-chief of the Mexican revolutionists, is confronted with a curious problem. If he does not hasten his long-delayed evacuation of the border city he may be unable to evacuate with other than himself and staff officers. His army is rapidly dwindling. Orozco has an army, but it is scattered over northern Chihuahua and eastern Sonora.

A condition responsible for the situation here is that more men have been sent out of Juarez than originally planned, and, besides, there is a steady desertion of soldiers who lay aside a rifle to accept a section hand's shovel on an American railway. Since the coming of the rebel army to the border, deserters have continued to flock into the United States to be recruited rapidly by employment agencies.

The federal army, which three times has defeated the rebel forces, is approaching slowly from the south and the rebel bands are hurrying on to the newly planned campaign in Sonora.

Child Killed by Hail

Sheridan, Wyo., July 27.—It is reported here that the 5-year-old daughter of M. Walsh, a ranch owner, was caught in a hail storm and so badly bruised by hail stones that she died.

Melbourne, July 27.—Ex-Governor Richards of Wyoming, who was a member of a land seekers party, died suddenly from heart failure.

FLOODS ARE RECEDING

Miners' Wives Threaten Bosses With Their Wrath

Pittsburg, July 27.—Western Pennsylvania is recovering slowly from the effects of Wednesday's flood. The coke regions were especially hard hit. It will be more than a month before an effective effort can be made to reach the bodies of the fifteen men drowned in Superba mine No. 2 at Evans station, near Uniontown. The washouts on railroads in that section are being rapidly repaired and all traffic will likely be resumed early next week. A relief committee that has been organized at Uniontown, Pa., is caring for the families made destitue by the flood.

Communication has been established with a number of points in West Virginia. All report a severe storm, but can tell nothing of conditions in other parts of the state.

At Uniontown foreign women, wives of victims drowned Wednesday, have threatened vengeance upon the mine bosses for their failure to notify their husbands of the approaching danger. The women contend that they notified the bosses of the approaching flood, but that it was some time before their warning was communicated to the men working below the surface.

A similar flood had occurred eight months ago, when a number of men narrowly escaped with their lives. The women, recalling this, rushed to the mine boss, and asked him to notify the men beneath the ground.

In the Monongahela valley all streams are rising. Many persons have been driven from their homes, and much damage has resulted. The Monongoghela river has reached the flood stage f 39.45 feet, and probably will go higher. In all sections of western Pennsylvania similar conditions prevail.

NOAMI MITCHELL

Buried From Farm Home Near Scene of Her Murder

Carmel, Me., July 27.—The funeral services of Naomi Mitchell were held at her home, this afternoon.

Search for Sherman Gray, suspected of the murder,, continues. Sheriff White received bloodhounds from the state prison this morning and is making a thorough hunt through the surrounding timber.

Gray is described as a man of large physique, weighing about 190 pounds and about thirty-two years of age.

It is said he attacked a well-known Carmel woman several years ago, while she was berrying. The matter was settled without coming to court, but he was later arrested and put in jail for mutilating cattle. He was confined in the state insane asylum for a time.

SPEECH MAY BE CALLED SOCIALISTIC

Roosevelt Savs of His Coming Chicago Address

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 27.—The "Confession of Faith" of Colonel Roosevelt is now down in black and white, the finishing touches having been made. When he has completed the recital of his doctrines in Chicago on the night of Aug. 5, he probably will be called socialistic or anarchistic, and may be both, he volunteered. But he insisted that the measures he advocated must come.

Two of the more striking measures favored by Colonel Roosevelt are the fixing by law of minimum wage scales for women workers, and a guarantee by law to workmen employed in what he calls the "continuous industries" of eight-hour shifts and one day's rest in every seven.

Colonel Roosevelt said at the outset that he had not wished at the present time to take up new things, but that he had come to the conclusion that he must develop some of his doctrines in this Chicago speech and had gone further than ever before in advocating what might be regarded by his opponents as radical measures.

Business should be encouraged in every legitimate way, he said, but at the same time business prosperity should be made the "handmaiden of the people," and the tendency should be toward a diversification of the ownership of property.

The lines along which business has developed recently, as best illustrated by the formation of huge corporations, should be recognized, he said, and the effort should be to correct attendant evils rather than attempt to abolish large corporations or restrict their size.

To Go to West Point

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

NEW CARROTS.

WITH new carrots in the market, even those who do not ordinarily care much for this vegetable may find it palatable in the many attractive forms in which it may be served.

Cut in fancy shapes carrots are useful as a garnish for meats or other vegetables.

As a Dessert.

Carrot Pudding. — Take three-quarters of a pound of boiled and mashed carrots and mix with them a half pound of breadcrumbs, a quarter of a pound each of raisins and currants, three beaten eggs, a cupful of sugar, a half cupful of milk, a quarter of a grated nutmeg and a half teaspoonful of salt. When well combined pour into a buttered pudding dish. Bake for an hour and serve with cream and sifted sugar. This can be sliced and served cold.

Carrot Croquettes.—Boil fresh, tender carrots until they are soft enough to mash quite smooth. Then add a beaten egg, a large spoonful of melted butter and pepper and salt to taste. Set the paste aside to cool. Form into croquettes. Roll in une crumbs, then in beaten egg and then in crumbs again. Let them stand in a cold place half an hour and fry in deep fat to a good brown.

Appetizing Recipes.

Stewed Carrots.—Take a quart of carrots, a tablespoonful each of butter, flour, onion juice and finely cut parsley, also a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Wash, scrape and cut the carrots into pieces one inch long, cover with boiling water and boil until tender. Pour off the water, then add the onion juice, salt, pepper, butter and flour, rubbed together, and boil three minutes; then add parsley.

Creamed Carrots.—Take one quart of cut carrots, one tablespoonful of chopped onions, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of white pepper. Put the carrots on in boiling water enough to cover and boil until tender. Drain and save the water in which they are cooked. Put the butter and onion in a saucepan over the fire and cook one minute, add the flour and mix well. Then add one cupful of the carrot water. Mix the carrots and sauce together, add the salt, pepper and parsley. Cook three minutes.

"HONEST COP" STIRS JURY

Now They Desire to Hear From Commissioner Waldo

WHO SUE NEW YORK PAPERS

Claims New York Dailies Have Libelled Him by Falsely Reporting Testimony His Lieutenant Gave to Grand Jury—Witness Positively Identifies Webber and Sullivan as Being on Murder Scene

New York, July 27.—Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo will be called by District Attorney Whitman to appear before the grand jury Monday.

The district attorney said that members of the grand jury had requested that they be allowed to hear Waldo's testimony after listening to the evidence of Lieutenant Costigan.

According to statements in certain New York dailies, the grand jurors sat stunned as they heard Costigan, who is known as the "honest cop," declare flatly that no gambling house could be open for more than a day or two without graft—and heavy graft—being paid to the police.

And they heard what was of greater significance to the case in hand—that he had secretly planned to raid Herman Rosenthal's house on April 27 on actual evidence he had gathered, but that his plans had leaked out, and on the day before Becker, in charge of another squad, had beaten him to the job, although he had absolutely no evidence against the place. Costigan admitted he had heard Becker did it to protect himself.

Costigan declared that the sole authority in gambling regulation in New York rested entirely with Commissioner Waldo; that the commissioner alone knew what resorts were to be raided. He said that the responsibility of keeping the town closed was all with the commissioner and then added that in all his experience as a policeman New York had never been so wide open as now.

Commissioner Waldo asserted that Costigan denied telling the grand jury anything like what was in the published accounts.

"The statements attributed to Lieutenant Costigan are false, each and every one of them," Commissioner Waldo said as he came out of his private office and the lieutenant nodded his head in assent.

The commissioners, who had read in Herald, Tribune and Press statements purporting to have been made by Lieutenant Daniel E. Costigan before the grand jury, and which were in effect a charge that he was responsible for the continuance of gambling, instructed George G. Battle, his counsel, to bring suit against each of these papers for $250,000 for libel. And Lieutenant Costigan made an affidavit specifically denying that he had given such testimony as was printed.

Relative to Lieutenant Constigan's affidavit denying newspaper stories as to what the lieutenant had told the grand jury Thursday, the district attorney said:

"Lieutenant Costigan's denial is correct, but I think, however, the denial is largely of phraseology."

Commissioner Waldo received from Mayor Gaynor a letter giving him positive orders not to suspend Lieutenant Charles Becker, friend of Jack Rose, whose name has been dragged into the murder-graft-gambling inquiry.

Louie (Bridgie) Webber was with the murderers of Herman Rosenthal just before they got into Shapiro's gray car and sped out of Forty-Third street. That was the statement made before Coroner Feinburg by Louis Krese, a new witness, who singled out Webber in the courtroom and then pointed to Jack Sullivan, formerly "king of the newsboys," as another man who was in front of the Metropole at the time of the shooting.

Sullivan, as well as Webber, is now charged with murder.

DEMOCRATS DISAGREE

Upon Question of Building One or More Battleships

London, July 27.—Because their religion is opposed to race suicide and their children are consequently much more numerous than in Protestant families, Roman Catholics are gradually making a Catholic country of the United States, Dr. F. L. Hoffman of Newark, N. J., told the international eugenics congress.

The doctor also quoted statistics showing a far higher birth rate for foreign born than for native parents in America.

Two Women and Man Drowned

Exposition Park, Pa., July 27.—Three lives were lost and one man had a narrow escape from drowning on Conneaut lake when a rowboat containing two women and two men capsized. The water was rough and as the waves began to lap over the gunwales the women became panic-stricken and rocked the boat.

HARRY K. THAW STILL INSANE

"Might Commit Another Murder If at Liberty"

White Plains, N. Y., July 27.—Harry K. Thaw, in the eyes of the law, is still insane and must remain in the asylum where he was placed on Feb. 1, 1908, after he had killed Stanford White. Justice Martin J. Keogh of the supreme court denied Thaw's application for freedom.

This is the third attempt made by Harry K. Thaw to gain his liberty from Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane on a writ of habeas corpus. The sole question tried before Justice Keogh, without a jury, was whether Thaw is now sane. Justice Keogh said:

"Having listened to all the testimony, I am of the opinion that Harry K. Thaw is still insane and that his discharge would be dangerous to the public peace and safety."

Thaw was plainly disappointed, but it is stated that the Pittsburgher really lost heart after the testimony of Dr. J. W. Russel, superintendent of the Matteawan insane asylum. Dr. Russel testified that, in his opinion, Thaw might commit another murder if set at liberty.

RIVALRY IN SARDINES

Importation of Norwegian Girls May Improve Product

St. John, July 27.—The announcement that the Canadian Sardine company will bring over 100 girls from Norway to pack sardines in the new factory at Chamcook, N. B., and that they will use pure olive oil, has aroused a great deal of interest in the sardine towns of Eastport and Lubec, Me.

A letter from Eastport states that this will propably be an incentive to the Maine packers to use a better grade of oil and put up a better quality of goods.

Hobbles and Silk Hose Curtained

Des Moines, July 27.—A 20-inch curtain will be hung around the Forest Avenue Baptist choir loft because the young women singers wear hobble skirts and silk hose.

Boy Saves a Man

New York, July 27.—James Doyle, 14, rescued a 180-pound man from drowning. It took two doctors 45 minutes to revive John Fassell, the rescued man.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Hubbites Expect to be Shot Up Next Month if the Archers Don't Get 'Em First—Speaking of Arrows, Dan Cupid Is Off His Job in Boston Just Now—More People and Fewer Marriages in the New England Capital—Habit of Carrying Wads in the Sock Persists, Even in these Hygienic Days.

Bostonians stand in a fair way to get badly shot up during the month of August if they don't watch out. Marksmen from all over the country are planning to invade the city from August 19th to 24th, for the purpose of participating in the eighth annual shoot of the New England Military Rifle Association. A thousand dollar trophy, the finest ever shot for in New England, is offered in the form of a three-foot tall bronze statue of an Indian, "The First American Marksman" executed by Cyrus E. Dallin. The trophy must be competed for at 10 annual shoots of the New England Association at the end of which it will be awarded to the team having the largest score. Prior to this fusillade, there comes the annual tournament of the National Archery Association of the United States, to be held in the Stadium August 13 to 17. This will be more picturesque in character than the rifle shoot, and will doubtless attract many New England people to the scene of competition.

What is the matter with mating? Here we find that there have been two hundred less marriage in Boston this year than the preceding year. Have the prevailing styles scared the boys away, or is it because the invading host of southern and western girls to study in the Hub has captured all the eligibles? A group of these charming young ladies left their respective schools of music, expression or other branch of learning this spring, with nifty little diamonds on the third finger of the proper hand, and a bunch of scowling Boston girls in the background. Anyway, Baby Dan is 200 shy of his regular average, and the City Registrar feels anxious about the stability of his job.

Man may laugh at Woman's habit of carrying her money in her stocking, but just the same he occasionally thinks it not such a bad idea, after all. A passenger in the smoking seat of an open car recently was approached for his fare. He fished for some minutes among matches, pipes, keys, corkscrews and handkerchiefs without avail, and finally reached down, turned up his trouser leg and produced a roll of bills from his sock. Peeling off a greenback, he calmly replaced the wad, turned down his trouser leg and continued his smoke while the conductor recovered his equilibrium sufficiently to give him his change.

Commendable cooperation between the motion picture theatres and the Boston Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis has brought about an affective plan of presenting to the public useful information regarding the prevention and spread of the disease. A trained lecturer devotes his whole time to presenting at each performance in a motion picture house a seven minutes lecture illustrated with 31 colored slides. In addition to this, health circulars are distributed at the doors of the theatres. The audiences as a whole have shown appreciation and approval of the scheme, and evince considerable interest in the lectures. Incidentally managers of the theatres have reported a distinct lessening of the habit of spitting on the floor. Requests from motion picture houses in other cities for the lectures are frequently received.

Vigorous applause and commendation greeted a conductor on a street car in the heart of the city the other day. Amidst crowded traffic two or three small boys persisted in jumping on the running board and stealing rides. The conductor shooed them off several times, but one youngster took a fiendish delight in outwitting him, to the imminent danger of his own neck and the nervous distraction of the passengers The conductor finally lost patience, rang the bell for a stop, and as the boy jumped from the car set up a chase after him. About a block down the street the boy was captured, and thereupon was administered a fatherly and enthusiastic chastisement cheered on by the approbation of the waiting passengers, who were standing up in gleeful enjoyment of the spectacle. The boy may continue to steal rides, but it is safe to assume he carried a painful reminder of his adventures for at least a few days.

PRIZE CUP STIMULATES

Town River Yacht Club in the Racing Game

A lively interest has been awakened among the members of the Town River Yacht club which will result in the near future in some good races among the yachts of the club. The cause of the awakened interest is due to the fact that Mrs. Caroline B. Mellen has presented the club with a handsome perpetual cup to be raced for every year by yachts of this club.

Commodore Thompson B. Crane said this morning that the club would immediately arrange for a series of races for the cup which would be held in the near future. Up to the present time the club has held but one race that was July 4, this season.

ENGLISHMEN AT NORTHFIELD

Prominent Clergymen Included in the List of Preachers

Through a series of five Conferences, Northfield works up to a climax in its General Conference which comes dring the first two weeks of August. Speakers are then drawn even from England and accommodations for the large numbers are specially prepared. Rows of tents dot the Conference grounds, Stone Hall the recitation building, the Skinner Gymnasium, and Music Hall are all transformed into huge dormitories. But with the opening of Gould Hall this season, the largest and most finely equipped at Northfield, it is expected that here will be ample room to house even those who have been turned away in former years because of late application. This year is to be no exception in the quality and number of English speakers. The list includes five, some of them already well known in this country. Rev. Charles Brown of London comes with an enviable reputation.

Rev. James M. Black of Edinburgh is well known as the younger brother of Hugh Black and pastor of one of the largest churches in Scotland.

Rev. John R. Hutton of Glasgow will be present at Northfield again.

Rev. E. B. H. Macpherson of London and Rev. D. L. Ritchie of Nottingham complete the list.

Two Conferences are now in session at Northfield with 600 delegates and twenty meetings daily. The largest Summer school for Sunday School workers ever held meets in Stone Hall and the Home Missionary Conference gathers in the Auditorium. Dr. James A. Francis of Boston is leading a large Bible course and is to speak at the service next Sunday. He will also continue his course till the opening of the General Conference.

LONESOME TWO IN NAME ONLY

Conducted a Jolly Trolley Party to Nantasket

The Lonesome Two, David Dackers and David Brownrigg, well known young men of the South Quincy district, conducted a very successful trolley ride to Nantasket Friday evening. The trip was enjoyed by a party of 75 and proved a great treat to all.

The party left West Quincy at 7.30 P. M. and advanced to Quincy Square, where the ranks were filled. On arrival at Nantasket, the various places of amusement were visited and a supper was partaken of before the party started homewards. The party arrived home at an early hour this morning.

Rev. J. B. Bradley, president of St. Mary's College Emmetsburg, Maryland, officiated at the church of the Sacred Heart, Sunday. Dr. Bradley will spend part of his vacation with the Misses Bradley of Commercial street.

SIX PEOPLE REPORTED DROWNED IN BRAINTREE BAY LAST NIGHT

Chief Loring Hunted Many Hours for Some Clew to Catastrophe

One Supposed Victim Located at Hotel This Morning

Chief of Police Amos Loring of Braintree, worked all Friday night in the effort to obtain facts, regarding the reported disappearance of three young men and three young women who were supposed to have been lost from a boat or drifting around helpless in Braintree bay. The chief could not learn anything about any one being drowned or lost in the bay, but about six o'clock this morning, located T. J. Holmes of Revere, one of the young men supposed to have been lost, at the Hampton house, Braintree.

Chief Loring however did not get a chance to meet or talk with Holmes, as he had gone to his work before he could get at the hotel. The chief will have a talk with him later in the day.

If the story was started as a joke on Chief Loring or the relatives of the young man it was rather a poor joke. There was nothing amusing or funny in any of the details.

It was late Friday night when Chief Loring received a telephone message from Revere asking him if he had any particulars of the drowning of the six young people. He was told a telephone message had been received in Revere that the young people had been drowned and that the boat had been recovered. He was told that the boat was half full of water and a coat and a vest were found in it. In a pocket of the coat was found, said his informant, a traveling card of the Order of Moose made out in the name of "T. J. Holmes of 8 Avelon street, Revere."

Upon further investigation Chief Loring learned that the parents of Holmes, who is 21 years old, had called upon the police of Revere and made inquiries concerning the report that the young man had been drowned. They said that a sister of the young man was called upon the telephone at her home in Revere during the evening and a young man told her that her brother, two other young men and three girls were reported drowned in Braintree Bay, and that the boat had been recovered with the young man's coat and vest.

The sister fainted when she received the message and did not obtain the name of the person who had telephoned to her.

Chief Loring ascertained that young Holmes left Boston on the 1.45 P. M. train Friday to come to Braintree to work at Shepard's coal wharf. It was learned that he arrived there Friday.

After working about the town all night and covering many miles in his automobile, Chief Loring was unable to find anyone who had seen the young people in the boat or anyone who had found the boat and the clothing as described in the message sent to Revere.

Early this morning, however, he found that young Holmes' baggage had arrived during afternoon at the Brunswick Hotel in East Braintree, but that Holmes was not there.

The police have no information as to the identity of the other five young people who it is said were in the boat with Holmes.

SQUANTUM CLUB ENJOYED SAIL

Weather Conditions Beautiful for Complete Pleasure

A moonlight sale was held by the Squantum Yacht club on Friday evening, in which a large number of the club's yachtsmen and their friends took part. The course was laid from the clubhouse to Nut island to Houghs Neck and return and the boats aided by a light southwesterly breeze made a pretty sight. Gathering clouds in the early evening threatened to bring up a fog or a rainstorm, but neither materialized and the moon was obscured for only a portion of the sail.

The boats and their captains included the following:

Dixie, Capt. A. M. Stearns.
Comet, Capt. H. N. Smith.
Eleanor S, Capt. Harry Hinckley.
Lesbia, Capt. Harry Brown.
Yankee, Capt. John McClure.
Dot, Capt. William J. Croucher.

CORCORAN OPPOSED DYER

But Latter Was Elected Head of Boston Schools

By a vote of 3 to 1 Franklin B. Dyer, formerly superintendent of the Cincinnati public schools, was elected to fill the position of superintendent of schools in Boston at the school committee meeting Friday afternoon, and a salary of $10,000 annually was fixed for him. His appointment came immediately after the committee had received a telegram stating that his resignation had been accepted and that he was free to make the new contract.

The minority voter was Michael H. Corcoran, Jr., who vigorously opposed the appointment on the ground that there were other men among the local assistant superintendents who were just as capable as Dr. Dyer. The fifth member of the committee, Dr. Thomas F. Leen, is in Europe.

Mr. Corcoran declared that the other members of the committee were making a great mistake, which would later be resented by the public, and protested against any final action while Dr. Leen was absent.

DISTRICT COURT.

Clyde T. Cox and Charles A. Snow were fined $10 each for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

George W. Rackham who was arrested at Houghs Neck Friday for alleged drunkenness and bailed, was defaulted when his case was called.

James D. O'Reiley was fined $3 on account of costs for drunkenness at Quincy. Sentence suspended until Nov. 15.

Francis J. Kerinan was fined $15 for drunkenness at Quincy.

MRS. JOSEPH NEWCOMB.

It was with the most profound sorrow that the neighbors and friends of Mrs. Joseph Newcomb of Pond street, South Braintree, learned of her death last Monday afternoon. Mrs. Newcomb has been a semi-invalid for several years but has generally been able to be up and out of doors until the 15th of June when she was taken seriously ill. This illness was unexpected as she had only recently returned from a pleasant visit at West Gloucester.

Mrs. Emma Gleason Newcomb was a native of Rhode Island. On March 2, 1873, she was united in marriage to Joseph W. Newcomb at Quincy and they lived at Wollaston until about six years ago, when, shortly after the marriage of their only child, Mabel, to Ernest E. Lothrop, they all moved to their present home on Pond street, South Braintree. Although a member of various organizations during her life because of ill-health she only retained her membership in the N. E. O. P. and the W. R. C. both of Quincy. Besides her husband, daughter and grandson she leaves a host of friends to mourn her loss.

Funeral services were held at her late home on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Tyler Gale of the South Congregational church officiating, after which W. R. C. No. 103 of Quincy held services. Interment was in Blue Hill cemetery. The floral offerings were many and beautiful, but in only a small way could they show the love and esteem in which she was held by relatives and friends. Among them were:

Pillow, white lilies, family.
Pillow, lilies, neighbors.
Emblem pillow, W. R. C. 103.
Emblem pillow, N. E. O. P. 261.
Mound of pansies, Mrs. M. E. Smith.
Bouquet, Mrs. Beal.

Sprays of flowers from Mrs. David Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Lawry, Mrs. Donnelly and family, Miss Minnie B. Woodhead, Mrs. Cross, Miss Newcomb, Mr. Winslow, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Lothrop, Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Lothrop, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ricker, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Nash.

Miss Dorothy Summers of Liberty street entertained Miss Edith Hart of Dorchester, on Tuesday.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

LARGEST GUARANTEED CIRCULATION IN THE CITY

Vol. 27 No. 176 QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY EVENING, JULY 29, 1912 PRICE TWO CENTS

YOUNG WOMAN ASSAULTED AND ROBBED BY YOUNG TOUGHS

Officer Broberg Rounded Up the Gang at the Point of the Pistol

Victim Unable to Appear in Court This Morning

Officer Broberg did a good job early this morning when he single handed captured four young men wanted for alleged serious offence and marched them at the point of his revolver over a mile to the police station.

The case for which the young men were arrested was one of the boldest and most dastardly crimes that has been committed in Quincy in a long time, that of assault to commit rape and robbery. The young men taken into custody are Joseph Fitzgerald, Charles Starr, Arthur B. Mulligan, Arthur Bavin and Louis Ross.

According to the story told by the police Mary Berg, a domestic employed by a family at Post Island missed the last car for Houghs Neck Sunday night and started to walk down. She had not gone far before she was overtaken by Arthur Bavin who informed her that he also had lost the last car and was walking down. It is alleged by the police that Fitzgerald, Starr and Mulligan trailed on behind and that when Bavin and the girl reached the street leading to Post Island they joined the party. It is claimed that they threw the girl to the ground and while part of the crowd held her the others assaulted her. She creamed loudly for help and struggled to get away and in doing so her clothing was badly torn.

While this was in progress it is claimed that Ross showed up. The girl claims that she appealed to him for help but he did not respond. It is said that Ross claims that the reason he did not help was because he was afraid. He claims that he had been escorting a young lady home and was on his way back when he came upon the party.

After assaulting the girl the party took her gold watch and hand bag containing some money and other articles. Her cries were heard by residents in the vicinity but before they could respond the young men had gone. The police station was telephoned and Sergt. Bishop sent the patrol wagon with a squad of officers to the scene.

When they arrived they were told that some of the young men had crossed over to the rise made by the Metropolitan sewer and were going toward Quincy. The wagon then went back and dropped Officer Broberg near the entrance to the Quincy Home.

Officer Broberg walked along Canal street and as he did so he saw four young men coming across Field street toward Quincy. He secreted himself until they came up to him when he jumped out and drawing his revolver threatened to shoot if they did not surrender.

He then lined them up and told them to walk to the police station. He walked behind with drawn revolver and told them that the first man who attempted to get away would be shot, and knowing Officer Broberg to be a man of his word they walked over a mile to the station.

On the way up they urged the officer to be careful of that gun as they were afraid that it might go off. He told them that it would go off mighty quick if they attempted to get away.

The young men arrested were Fitzgerald, Starr, Mulligan and Ross. The wagon was called back and the young men loaded in and taken to Post Island where the girl positively identified them as the ones that had assaulted her.

The police then learned who the other man was and a little later Bavin was arrested. He was also taken to Post Island and identified by the girl, as the man who had started to accompany her home from Quincy. The watch and bag which the girl claims was taken have not been recovered as yet. It is believed however that the parties threw them away and that they will be recovered later.

The men were arraigned in court this morning. Fitzgerald, Starr, Mulligan and Bavin for assault with intent to commit rape and were held in $500 each until Wednesday.

Fitzgerald, Mulligan, Ross and Davin were arraigned for assault to commit robbery and were also held in $500 each until Wednesday.

FIRE ALARMS.

The fire department were given two runs Saturday afternoon and evening. The first alarm was from Box 49 at 1.28 and was needless. An Italian woman on Doble street built a fire in her kitchen stove and it smoked so badly that neighbors thought the house was on fire and rang in the alarm:

The second alarm was from Box 23 at 7.12 in the evening and was for a fire on the awning over the millinery store of J. Szathmary on Hancock street. The loss was small.

Police Department Active in the Promotion Line

MORE TO FOLLOW

Still another move was made by Mayor Stone this morning in the reorganization of the police department so that now everything is straightened out with the exception of filling the vacancies in the Reserve police force which will probably be made tomorrow as Mayor Stone was obliged to leave early this morning and did not have time to make the appointments.

The appointments made this morning was the promotion of Alfred W. Goodhue, who was made a Sergeant Saturday, to the rank of Inspector and the promotion of John T. Larkin to the rank of Sergeant. The three vacancies in the regular, or permanent police force made by these promotions was filled by the promotion of Henry F. Corbett, John J. Avery and Jeremiah D. Dhooge from the Reserve force to be permanent officers.

Tuesday Mayor Stone will make requisition on the Civil Service Commission for names of those eligible, to fill the vacancies in the Reserve force.

PROVIDENCE TROLLEY TRIP

Enjoyed by About Sixty of the Gear Works People

About 60 members of the Young Men's Outing club, composed of employes of the Boston Gear Works, and invited guests enjoyed a day's outing at Rocky Point and Providence, R. I., Sunday.

The start was made at 7 A. M. and the trip to Providence was made by special trolley car. At Providence they took a boat chartered for the occasion to Rocky Point.

After partaking of a Rhode Island clam bake the remainder of the afternoon was very enjoyably spent. The party arrived home at a late hour. The officers of the club are: President, James Simpson; Vice President, A. H. Niederberger; Secretary, Forrest S. Clark; Treasurer, Chester M. Flagg.

The committee in charge of the days' outing were: W. G. Rennie, Hugh Hunter and Fred H. Raymond.

WALSH SPEAKER AT GATHERING

Of Catholic Lyceum at Houghs Neck

OTHER FEATURES

Hon. David I. Walsh, of Fitchburg, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor was given a great ovation at the second annual field day of the Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum, held Saturday on the grounds adjoining the club house. The event was attended by a large number of summer residents and was most successful.

The grounds were handsomely decorated and the booths presented a most attractive appearance. The affair began at two o'clock in the afternoon and concluded at eleven in the evening.

In the afternoon, sports were held for the children, the results of which were as follows:

BOYS' EVENTS.

100 yard dash—Won by John Marsell.

75 yard dash—Won by Dexter Charrick.

50 yard dash—Won by Fred McMannimon.

Three-legged race—Won by Homer Corse and Irving Vigdor.

GIRLS' EVENTS.

100 yard dash—Won by Jeannette Ford.

75 yard dash—Won by Helen Ford.

50 yard dash—Won by Sadie McCabe.

Potato Race—Won by Marion Upham.

Mr. Walsh was scheduled to speak at three o'clock but was prevented by other engagements from arriving until 9.30 in the evening. He talked for about a half hour on "Citizenship" and was warmly applauded when he concluded his remarks. He was introduced by the president of the Lyceum, Thomas F. Phillips.

Dancing was enjoyed in the hall of the building with music by Burke's orchestra. The grounds were illuminated by a display of electric lights. A feature of the event was a tug of war match between two teams composed of members of the Lyceum. The team captained by William DeCoste, with Peter Healey, Patrick Clearey and Anthony Medros defeated the team captained by Alfred Clancey, with Caesar Mandoros Domenic Focci and Paul Capifferri.

The committee in charge were Thomas, F. Phillips, Stephen Kiley, Patrick Cleary, Alfred Clancey, Benjamin Comeau, Charles Shea and James E. Wall, who were ably assisted by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

WATERWAYS CONVENTION

Will Attract High Officials of Many Cities

ON COMMERCIAL LINES

Philadelphia, Pa., July 29—There is a concerted movement on the part of a large number of delegates to the Fifth annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association which meets in New London, Conn., September 4th, for a three days' session, to have the convention adopt certain important measures tending toward having Congress recognize the Atlantic Intracoastal Canal as a National problem. It is pointed out by those interested in the movement that the two great political parties have included the Mississippi project in their platforms, while the Atlantic Intracoastal project has been "thrown in" along with the miscellaneous projects. This, they declare, is unjust in the face of the fact that the East supports the densest population in the land and is congested with commerce, while traffic on the Mississippi and other Western streams is practically non-existent.

Nearly every city and town along the line of the Intracoastal Canal will be represented at the Convention, not only by the delegates appointed by the Mayors, but in several instances by the Mayors themselves. Among those who have promised to attend are Mayors Stone of Quincy, Howell of Wilmington, Del., Burns of Troy, N. Y., Donnelly of Trenton, N. J., Blankenburg of Philadelphia, Fitzgerald of Boston, Gaynor of New York and Preston of Baltimore if official duties will perimt.

Among the men of prominence who have recently signified their intention to be present and address the Convention is Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, U. S. N., (retired.)

ENTERTAINED MANY GUESTS

In Honor of Their Guests From the Far West

OTHER SQUANTUM NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Harper, Bayside road, entertained about forty friends Saturday evening in honor of their house guest Mrs. J. Girardin of Chicago.

The spacious living-room was converted into a ball-room where dancing and music were enjoyed. The soloists of the evening were Miss Charlotte Baldwin, Dorchester, Joseph Sanderson, J. Gillespie, Dorchester and Mrs. Louise Holt. Light refreshments were served. The house was prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns and parasols.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Great Field Day For the Athletic Youngsters

REV. JOHN P. CUFFE,
Pastor.

As was anticipated, the annual lawn party of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Atlantic, held Saturday on the grounds adjoining the church, was the most successful in the history of the parish. The affair was attended by hundreds of parishioners and both the pastor, Rev. John P. Cuffe and his assistant, Rev. James F. McNiff, were kept busy during the greater part of the day attending to all the details of the event.

The children of the parish turned out in large numbers in the afternoon and a fine program of athletic events was run off. Under direction of Edward Keohane. The results were as follows:

50 Yards for Boys Under 12—Won by John Kennedy; Hugh McGinnis, second.

Potato Race—Won by John Kennedy; Eddie Gallagher, second.

100-Yard Dash—Won by Reggie Gay; Ralph Lyons, second.

EDWARD KEOHANE,

EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

That John D. person is certainly wide awake to the main chance. He gave his pastor an automobile and the next day the price of gasolene advanced one cent a gallon.

Senator Heyburn advances the thought that Thomas Jefferson was no statesman. It is pretty tough to assail a man who is dead almost 100 years, without the smallest chance of his answering back.

Poindexter's description of Lawrence conditions show that he needs a little brushing up on the subject. If this is a sample of the knowledge senators and congressmen glean of conditions to create improvements it is no wonder that there are so many mistakes made.

District Attorney Pelletier had his fling and now has a chance to repent at leisure.

By the way, whose time do those men who hold one office and go out campaigning for another, use in the process?

Hurrah! The rainfall saved $2,000,000 in the potato crop. No excuse now for the Maine farmer to raise the price.

Prudence can never be so well exercised to produce good results as in charitable work.

The place for every nice girl to have her letters come is right at her home door. While it may not be necessary to have parents scrutinize the correspondents it would be better if they knew who their daughter corresponded with.

Congressman Roberts' solution of the railroad wage increase by setting up freight rates on luxuries starts out with the handicap that it would be difficult for any unbiased board to determine between luxuries and necessities in this age.

We should be thankful that those six battleships were only theoretically destroyed.

You cannot escape the fact that in all this political talk going on at the present time, very little notice is taken of the great mass of the voters. The action of the leaders, dictators, managers and other officials is taken as the last word, with nothing for the ordinary voter to do but step up to the polls and exercise his "sovereign right," of doing just as the bosses planned.

Query heard every time the fire alarm sounds, "What would happen if that auto chemical struck something or some one?"

The number of "Woodrow Wilson" babies is increasing each day. Champ Clark must feel peeved when he realizes how near he came to becoming famous.

Recent Canadian elections indicate a sentiment in favor of reciprocity. The previous vote was not on the main question but on the supposed proposition of annexation advanced by some over heated politician.

A Missouri farmer has found that hens fed with beer will lay two eggs daily. What will happen if the hen decides to go on a protracted bat?

Candidate Wilson mail bill will be no small item this summer.

MR. PELLETIER'S OUTBURST.

The outburst of District Attorney Pelletier against the lower courts upon sentences imposed by the presiding justices, was to say the least hardly judicious, or such as one would expect from a legally trained mind. If made in the heat of a political debate there might be some excuse for it. The merits of the cases were not considered. The evidence in each of them had not been submitted to the District Attorney for his consideration in his quasi-judicial handling of such cases, so that he could not be considered to be familiar with all that pertained to the cases.

There may have been some severity in the sentences, there may have been a great many things which entered into the cases which were not brought in the necessarily brief newspaper outline of them. But it must be remembered that the lives of innocent women and children, travelling upon electric cars were endangered.

Until Mr. Pelletier had heard and dissected the evidence sifted each case, as he should in his official capacity, he showed some haste in rushing into print with a wholesale condemnation of the treatment of cases of which he had very little knowledge.

HEARST IS RIGHT.

While there are a good many things that William R. Hearst says and does that may not meet with unanimous public endorsement, for once he has hit the nail on the head, where he can claim general approval by his sweeping condemnation of the extreme inactivity of the democratic members of congress.

Those men were elected upon a pledge to the country to improve conditions. They had a majority in the lower house which gave them considerable prestige.

They cannot lay back on the claim that the senate and president being republican barred their good endeavor.

Their effort to pass constructive and progressive legislation was never demonstrated.

There was the usual filibustering on one measure or another. But legislative filibustering is a poor substitute for active tangible measures breathing reform.

It would be difficult for the democratic congress to point to anything they have done which would warrant consideration of their return to congress in view of their inactivity the past two years.

CORRECTED HIS TAX BILL.

While most wealthy men are engaged in dodging one way and another the tax collector and using their utmost skill to either conceal holdings or have their value set at a lower figure, Clifford Pinchot affords the illuminating spectacle of a man wanting his tax bill increased. Mr. Pinchot engaged experts to appraise the value of his house, and then notified the Washington authorities they were not taxing him enough. All of which goes to show that Mr. Pinchot did not care to be enjoying privileges at the expense of his fellow citizens and tax payers.

If there were more of this class throughout the country, and assessors had the courage to tax property at real value and make the fellow with concealed personal property dig up, there would be less hardship to the small property holder. The adjustment of taxes would be more reasonable and the rates would show a corresponding decrease all along the line.

MR. WILSON BE CAREFUL.

Now some people are worrying their apple cart over Woodrow Wilson's utterances favoring this or that thing or game. He has been warned that it is dangerous for him to say which of the outdoor sports is the best. That is very true. Mr. Wilson should be very careful in this matter. A vote or two here and there might mean all the difference in the world to his family entering the White house. But aside from his athletic preference Mr. Wilson has many other departments in which he can exercise care and judgment without doing himself any harm. If reports are true, he has not always been judicial or wise in his statements or assertions. In plain, every day parlance it is pointed out that the presidential nominee has "slopped over" a few times. Whether he regrets the utterances and views then expressed has not been set out very strongly as yet. No doubt the voters would like to have him give this matter more consideration than present day athletics. It is not presuming to feel that they are far more important than tennis, running, boating, or any other of the activities. But there, what is the use of worrying. If Wilson is elected, he will just be the plain, every day president we have always had. Mrs. Wilson and her charming daughters will look after the White house and attend the social duties. By the way, if those Wilson girls followed the English custom and got out and "hustle" for "pa," there is no telling what might happen.

GANDER PARTY SUCCESSFUL

Big Crowd Attended Annual Outing of Wollaston Club

EVERYBODY HAPPY

The annual club run and gander party of the Wollaston Yacht club was held on Sunday, a large number of the sterner sex making the trip. A crowd of 100 filled the twenty boats that participated.

The start was made shortly after 9.30 o'clock and headed by Commodore E. A. Bean in his flagship the "Sphinx" the fleet set out on the hour's sail that would bring them to Weymouth Back River the scene of the day's festivities.

A goodly number of ladies witnessed the start from the upper piazza of the club house and waived a farewell to the departing adventurers. The boats were gay with flags and made a brave sight as they set out.

Arriving at Weymouth Back River a landing was made on the shore where a mammoth clam bake was in progress under the direction of Wolf and Keene of North Weymouth.

At noon the clams accompanied by other good things were served and the brave tars from Wollaston spent some time in devouring them.

The afternoon was replete with various diversions, a jolly good time being enjoyed. The return trip was made in the late afternoon.

In charge of the affair was the regatta committee of the club consisting of H. C. Seymour, chairman, Irving L. Blossom and Harry L. Linnell. The boats taking part in the run included the following:

Flagship, Sphinx—Commodore E. A. Bean.
Corneta—Ex-Commodore Louis E. Crosscup.

COURAGE GOOD POOR CONTROL

Talbot Lost Control of Machine He Operated

Nathan Talbot entered tht garage of Abbott & Miller on Canal street Sunday morning and attempted to back one of their big trucks into the street. He lost control of the machine however and ran it into a telephone pole smashing the pole and damaging the truck. Talbot was arrested for drunkenness.

—As significant as anything in Mr. Walker's statement is this: "Whether I am nominated or not, I assure my fellow republicans that I shall be found on the firing line in November." In this respect he does not take his cue from a distinguished recent convert to the progressive cause. If licked he will stay licked. He will not cry fraud and bolt, but turn to and help the victor to win the election. We have more than his word for it that he will do this; we have the record of what he actually did last fall when he took the stump in Mr. Frothingham's behalf. His fine exhibition of party loyalty at that time will stand him in good stead in the contest he is about to undertake.—Springfield Union.

STATE SESSION OF NEW PARTY

Picks Roosevelt and Johnson As Winning Team.

SEND 3 WOMEN DELEGATES

Will Choose Full State Ticket After Chicago Convention—Will Nominate or Vote For No Man Who Will Not Support National Progressive Electors—For Equal Suffrage and Direct Primaries For All Offices

Boston, July 29.—Faneuil hall, the old Cradle of Liberty, rocked with enthusiasm and was a-flutter with bandannas Saturday afternoon when the National Progressive followers of Massachusetts held their first state convention there. The historic hall was crowded with 1000 representatives from all parts of the state. Many women were in the balcony. Many old Independent Leaguers were there. Clergymen of Protestant and Catholic churches were present. Some Socialists were in the audience. They had an orchestra instead of the regulation band. Women voted just as though they were part of the convention. Three women were chosen delegates. The choice of the women delegates was consistent with the progressive platform, which contained a flat declaration for women suffrage.

Russell A. Wood, temporary chairman, who called the convention to order, sprang a surprise and raised the audience to its feet by announcing that the Roosevelt party would put a full state ticket in the field this fall. The applause that followed this statement was long and loud.

"We will have a candidate for governor, one for lieutenant governor and for all the state offices," asserted Mr. Wood, "and they will all be regular Roosevelt third party men with no connection with the Republican machine.

"We have decided also that no candidate of any party shall be indorsed for congress, senate or house until after the primaries, and not then until he unqualifiedly takes his stand for Roosevelt and progressive principles."

This decision seemed to hit everybody just right. They clapped and cheered. Bandannas were waved.

A declaration of principles was read and adopted, taking the place of a party platform. These principles will be built into a state platform after the Chicago convention.

The declaration of principles invited "men and women of every race and color, of every religious belief and of every former political allegiance to join with us equally in forming the ranks and organization of a new state and national party,"

It favored the initiative and referendum, the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people, extension of direct primaries to all elective offices, equal suffrage, a more equitable system of taxation, demanded the enforcement of the principles enunciated in the Declaration of Independence, deplored lynch law, favored a state industrial board to recommend labor legislation, which is also to report on the merits of any industrial controversy and favored the extension of tne policy of regulating public utilities "and other business."

The convention also indorsed Colonel Roosevelt for president and Governor Hiram Johnson of Californa for vice president, instructing the delegates to vote for this ticket "until the cows come home," and adopted a resolution declaring that "In the state primaries now provided for by law the progressive party of Massachusetts shall not support any candidate or candidates."

Following are the electors—to be carried on independent nomination papers:

1—C. C. Cook, Pittsfield.
2—Octave LaRiviere, Springfield.

POISONED COLLEGE ICE

Basis of Child's Suit For Damages Caused Him

Middleboro, Mass., July 29.—Kenneth L. Childs, who says he was poisoned by eating a walnut college ice at J. F. Morse's drug store, the walnuts of which had been treated with arsenic for killing rats and which were served accidentally, has instituted a suit for $10,000 against Mr. Morse for damages. Miss Vesta Jackson of Cambridge, who was with Childs and who was also served walnuts, says she will not sue as she has settled with Mr. Morse.

Although out of the hospital where he had been treated, Mr. Childs is suffering from partial paralysis.

MANHUNT CONTINUES

Idiot Gray Eludes the Many Hundreds In Search

Bangor, Me., July 29.—Up to a late hour the search for Sherman Gray, charged with the brutal murder of 14-year-old Naomi Mitchell at North Carmel last Wednesday evening, had proved fruitless.

A sheriff's posse of 300 hunted all Sunday, aided by 100 automobiles, while scores are continuing the search.

EXPLORERS LOOKED LIKE WILD MEN

Captain Mikkelsen III, Was Dragged 100 Miles

Christiania, July 29.—Captain Ejnar Mikkelsen, the Danish Arctic explorer, and the engineer, Iversen, who were rescued July 17 on the coast of Greenland by a Norwegian fishing vessel, after having spent more than two years in that region, looked like wild animals when the rescuers found them.

They had spent the previous winter at Bass Rock isluand, not Shamrock island, as previously stated, and it was there that the Norwegians came upon them in a camp they had built.

The first sign that there were human beings in that neighborhood was a wooden bar with the date 1912 cut in it, set up as a signal which the Norwegian fishermen happened upon. An investigation disclosed the cabin.

The fishermen knocked on the door and Mikkelsen and Iversen rushed out, nearly naked, with guns in their hands, under the impression that the knocking was caused by beasts of prey.

Mikkelsen had been very ill on the long journey to Bass Rock island and Iversen had dragged him 100 miles on a sledge. Fortunately the two men had enough ammunition to enable them at all times to procure food.

End Strike on London Docks

Another Parachutist Is Killed

Canton, O., July 29.—When he was 1000 feet in the air, a rope joining the trapeze bar to his parachute broke, and Thomas Tatfield of Springfield, Ills., fell to his death here.

Bruce at Bannockburn.

Robert Bruce was the descendant of a Norman. He was half an Englishman and half a Scotchman, and by his mother's side he was a claimant to the Scottish crown. After many daring adventures and rude perils, borne up throughout by strong persevering conscience and an ardent love of liberty, Bruce was able to get together a patriotic army to meet the English at Bannockburn in 1314. Before the battle began the Scottish army knelt down in prayer. Edward II. was looking on. He turned to his favorite knight and said: "Argentine, the rebels yield. They beg for mercy." "They do, my liege," the reply was, "but not from you."

The battle ended not only in a victory, but in a rout.—Samuel Smiles' "Duty."

BORING INSECTS DAMAGE TIMBER

Agricultural Bureau Calls Attention to Their Methods

The importance of having the best information that can be secured on the subject of insects in their relation to the chestnut led the Secretary of Agriculture to project an extensive investigation through the Branch of Forest Insects of the Bureau of Entomology.

General investigations since 1893 have shown that more than 450 species of insects inhabit the chestnut. While all of these are not destructive, some are especially so. One, the so-called two-lined chestnut borer, is directly responsible for the death of more timber, perhaps, than all the others combined. Thih is a small, elongate beetle which flies in May and June and deposits eggs on the bark of living and dying chestnuts, oak, beech, and ironwood in the Southern, Middle, and Eastern States. The elongate, slender larvae mine in the inner bark and outer wood in such a manner as to girdle the trees. When they atained their full growth they transform to the adult stage in the outer wood, or bark, to emerge the folowing spring and repeat the process. IInvestigations have shown that it can be controlled by disposing of the infested trees in such a manner as to destroy the bark on the main trunks during the fall and winter months.

The extensive dying of the chestnut in the Southern States during the last century, where the chestnut blight disease was not known to occur, together with extensive investigations in this region, indicate that there are a number of agencies of destruction which must be investigated before the problem of protecting the chestnut can be solved.

In some sections of the South where more than fifty years ago the chestnuts trees were abundant, very few are present today. Observations by Dr. A. D. Hopkins, in charge of Forest Insect Investigations, during the past twenty years in the Appalachians show a widespread death of both chestnut and chinquapin during the period.

In order that investigations may be extended in al sections where the chestnut grows, owners of timber should report to the ureauB of Entomology as to the healthy or unhealthy condition of their timber. Informatio is especially desired from localities representing the most northern, western, southern, and southeastern parts of its distribution, namely in the North from Maine, New Hampshire, and new York; in the West from Michigan, Ohio, INdiana, Kentucky, and Tennessee; in the South, from Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia, an d in the Southeast, from South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia.

BOYS LEAD WITH NARROW MARGIN

Ward One Shows Playground Attendance Record

STANDING OF TEAMS

Ward One hung up a new record for playground attendance last week with a grand total of 1477 boys and girls. The girls cut down the big lead that the boys have been showing until last week there was a difference of but one in the week's attendance, 739 boys and 738 girls.

The figures of Wards three and four are not available today, but will be published later.

The base ball league continues to be the big attraction for boys at the Ward one playground. The teams with one exception are very evenly matched and although the Naps headed by Captain Galvin, are leading the procession, at the conclusion of the first round, the other teams promise to make a few changes in the percentage column during the coming week.

AN APPEAL

The Coddington School Playground wants a number of volunteer assistants—young women who love children and like to play with them.

There are three paid workers but a number of volunteer workers can be a real help. Come any morning or afternoon, except Saturday afternoon, or telephone the Y. M. C. A., for further information.

Wednesday afternoons and Friday mornings volunteers are wanted.

INJURED IN COLLISION.

A Sunday paper reports that Mrs. Catherine Collins aged 30 years of 161 Willard street was injured Saturday evening when two street cars came together on Columbia road, Dorchester. She was quite badly shaken up and was taken into a nearby house where she was attended by a physician and later removed to her home in Quincy.

VISITED FITCHBURG.

The male chorus of the Quincy Finnish Congregational church, visited Fitchburg, Saturday and sang in the Congregational church of that place during the day. They returned last night. M. Leppanon is the leader of the chorus.

Rev. and Mrs. Leander Hockinson Admirable Hosts

PLEASANT EVENING

In place of the regular Sunday evening service at the Swedish Lutheran church the parishioners were invited to meet at the home of their pastor, Rev. Leander Hockinson, at 50 Revere road, an invitation which between 200 and 300 accepted. After their arrival they learned that the day was also the 47th birthday of their pastor, and he was showered with congratulations and good wishes.

The evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner. The pastor gave his congregation an instructive talk and there was vocal music, Mrs. Fritz Swanson contributing several solos and several hymns were sung by the congregation under the leadership of Miss Emma Witting, the church organist.

Refreshments were served during the evening and an hour or more was passed in a pleasant manner in social intercourse. During the evening the ladies present presented their pastor with a handsome bouquet of flowers.

Rev. Mr. Hockinson, Mrs. Hockinson and children proved charming hosts and the evening was pronounced most enjoyable by all.

DISCUSSION INSTRUCTIVE

School Building Correspondence Commended

Editor Daily Ledger—

It seems to me that one feature has been brought out quite clearly by the interesting school house discussion which has been going on through the columns of your valued paper and that is, that the school authorities and their friends do not hesitate, if occasion arises, to repudiate the statistics which appear in their own reports. As the growth of our public schools for a period of ten years or so can be guaged only by one set of tables in the annual school reports and that under the caption of "average number attending." I do not understand what interested parties gain by attempting to split hairs over one item. If the school committee did not want that particular table of comparisons used in discussing the growth of Quincy's school system pray then for what purpose did they insert it. I believe however that the discussion over certain features of this greatest department of our public service by two of our distinguished citizens will accomplish a lot of good and the gentlemen who so courteously conducted the discussion from opposite points of view have given our citizens a side light on city affairs which in the end is bound to be for the best interests of the whole city.

As an adopted citizen of this country this has been quite instructive to me and to many of my compatriots. It is the way in which we used to discuss local affairs in the old country and which I wish there was more of here.

were illuminated and dancing was enjoyed.

The booths were arranged in a most attractive manner, while the national colors, played a conspicuous part in the decorative scheme. In the evening, dancing was the main attraction, while a display of electric lights added lustre to the occasion. From two o'clock in the afternoon until shortly after eleven in the evening, not one dull or idle moment was experienced and when the gathering dispersed all acclaimed that the reunion greatly outclassed any of those held in previous years.

The U. S. S. Massachusetts commander H. O. Stickney in command docked at the Charlestown Navy Yard at 2.30 Saturday afternoon for an indefinite stay. She has on board all the third year midshipmen from the U. S. Navel academy, Annapolis, Md. Midshipmen Forest B. Royal and Morton L. Ring were in this city Saturday and Sunday. Midshipman Ring went to his home with his guest Midshipman Louis de Rody of New York State. Midshipman Royal spent a very busy day calling on his many friends. He was acompanied by Midshipman Grove of Woodbury, N. J. as his guest.

FINNISH CHURCH.

Sunday in the Finnish church was observed as usual. At the children's worship at 9.30 o'clock, the children took part in the program with poems and songs. Rev. J. E. Lillback, the pastor, spoke on the subject, "The Most Beautiful Girl in Europe According to a Boston Newspaper." The Rev. Mr. Lillback stated that the most beautiful little girl in the world is every little girl who attends Sunday school in earnestness and behaves good and is truthful to her mother. All the girls at the meeting were glad to hear it.

At the 11 o'clock morning service the pastor took for his subject, "The Real Brotherhood—The Divine Will." The Christian Endeavor Society meeting was led by the pastor. Mr. A. Fitch Bromley, secretary of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. was the speaker at the meeting and from his address it was evident that he has a fond regard for the Finnish people. This is the fourth time he has assembled with them since coming to this city. His addresses to the Finns have been noted for their inspiring and upliftng nature. His words were very thoughtfully received by the audience.

At 7.30 o'clock the musical programme was followed by an address by the pastor and the subject "Lay Not Up For Yourselves Treasures Upon the Earth," according to Matthew 6-19-21, or the right view of life. Solos were rendered by Misses Singrid and Emilia Salgran.

SHOT BY HIS YOUNG CHUMS

Louis Dion Dares Them to Shoot Him

GIVES THEM WRITTEN PERMIT

Most Peculiar Tragedy Includes Three Boys of About 12 Years—Two Boys Had Rifle When Dion Says "You Couldn't Kill Me With That"—Chums Held Without Bail

Lawrence, Mass., July 29.—With his own death warrant, written and signed by himself, tightly clutched in his hand, 11-year-old Louis Dion of this city died on the way to the hospital Sunday, after he had been shot by two boy playmates. The two youngsters are held without bail.

The tragedy is one of the most peculiar in the annals of Massachusetts, and the startling tale told by the two boys held for their companion's death is borne out to the letter by the note written by young Dion a moment before his death. He gave them permission to kill him and they took him at his word.

Henry Talbot, 12 years old, and Henry Le Blanc, 11 years old, were playing with young Talbot's new 22 calibre rifle. They were in the second story window of the house at 100 Broadway, where Le Blanc lives.

As they were pointing the gun from the window young Dion walked into the courtyard beneath the window and looked up. Talbot pointed his new possession at his playmate, and Dion called out: "You couldn't kill me with that."

"We could kill you easy," chorused the two from the window.

"Oh," taunted Dion, "my brother had one of those and I know you can't kill anybody with it."

The two boys again boasted of the power of the gun.

"Go on and shoot me," taunted Dion. "I'll let you."

Young Talbot was by this time indignant at the disparagement of his weapon, and he cried out: "If you write a note and sign it giving us permission to kill you, I'll show you."

Without another word, Dion drew a pencil and a scrap of paper from his pocket and wrote his death warrant. Then he waved the note above his head.

Talbot fired from the window, striking Dion on the back. Dion walked forward a few paces, then fell. The two boys were frightened, and ran down to the courtyard to assist their playment, which passersby having heard the shot came running to the scene of the tragedy. By the time help reached him young Dion was dying. He died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital.

Tightly clutched in his hand was the note—"I give him permission to shoot me. L. Dion."

The two boys tearfully told the whole story to Sergeant Timothy O'Brien at police headquarters, and when the note was produced there was no question as to the truth of the story.

Louis Dion was the son of Richard Dion, a teamster.

WILL LOWER SUGAR

Tariff Will Be Reduced and Trusts Will Drop Prices

Washington, July 29.—The Republican regulars and progressives got together on a tariff bill for the first time in this congress, and passed the sugar schedule tariff bill, as prepared by Senator Bristow.

Every Republican and Senators Foster and Thornton, the two Democrats from Louisiana, the Cane-Sugar State, supported the measure. All other Democratic votes were cast for the Williams substitute. The line-up was 37 to 25, but on the final passage of the bill, after all amendments had been defeated, the vote was 52 to 3.

Under the terms of the bill adopted, and which Senator Burton stated in the course of the debate that the president would approve, the duty on pure sugar is reduced from $1.90 a hundred pounds as in the present law, to $1.60 and 0 percent concession to Cuban sugar. The differential, which has given the trust 7½ cents on every 100 pounds of sugar as a bonus, is eliminated, as also is the Dutch standard, under which the trust has been enabled to compel every pound of light colored sugar imported to pay the same duty as refined.

Careful computations, based upon the importations of 1911, show that a loss in revenue of approximately $5,500,000 per year will result through these reduced rates, but Senator Bristow asserts that the American consumer will save more than $25,000,000 annually.

Under the proposed law all sugars will pay duty on their absolute purity, and the light browns of high purity so common years ago, will probably again be found in the market.

PROTESTANTS AND CATHOLICS

May Marry Without Entering Anti-Nuptial Contract

NON-INTERFERENCE OF FAITH

Pope Pius Has Revoked the Order "No Temere," Which Goes Into Effect at Once—Under Present Ruling Couple Will Be Requested to Rear Children In the Faith, but An affirmative Answer Will Not Be Required

St. Louis, July 29.—The last issue of the Western Watchman, leading Catholic journal of the west, contains an article and copious comments by Rev. D. S. Phelan, on the abolition of "Ne Temere" by the pope.

The article says that Protestants wishing to marry Catholics need no longer sign an agreement to rear the children resulting from the marriage in the Roman Catholic faith. Neither will they be obliged to pledge themselves to refrain from interfering with the Catholic consort's performance of religious duties.

The change has been brought about by the repeal by Pope Pius of that portion of the decree "Ne Temere," according to the Acta, the offical organ of the Vatican. The repeal becomes effective at once.

"Ne Temere" was a decree issued by Pope Pius himself at Easter, 1908. It obliged every Protestant wishing to marry a member of the Catholic faith to sign an ante-nuptial promise that he or she would refrain from interfering with the Catholic in the exercise of his or her religious duties.

Further, the non-Catholic was required to pledge himself or herself to have all the children resulting from the marriages baptised Catholics and to have them educated in Catholic schools.

The decree required that these promises be made and signed before the priests who was to perform the marriage ceremony. In cases where non-Catholic persons refused to so obligate themselves no priest was allowed to marry them, under punishment of being suspended himself. If the couple went to a Protestant minister and were married the Catholic party to the marriage was excommunicated.

According to the instructions contained in the repeal of the "Ne Temere" a non-Catholic party will be asked to sign the ante-nuptial promises as was previously the custom. Should he or she refuse to so obligate himself or herself the priest may perform the marriage notwithstanding the refusal.

The new decree will remedy a condition of things that has proved perplexing in this country, many priests believe. Many marriages have taken place before Protestants ministers where the non-Catholic persons were perfectly willing to be married by a priest, but where their conscience forbade them to sign the ante-nuptial promises required by the "Ne Temere." promises required by the "Ne Temere."

"In this way families have been estranged and no end of enmity and discord has been engendered," Father Phelan observed.

In Eufopean countries the ante-nuptial promises required by the old decree, furnished a bone of contention which caused more trouble in church circles than almost any other question of a religious nature. The reason assigned for the repeal of the "Ne Temere" by priests St. Louis is that of the numerous difficulties encountered in enforcing it and the number of excommunications from the Catholic faith to which it led.

Almost Nightly Gunplay

New York, July 29.—In a street battle between rival gangs of gunfighters, one man was shot twice and five others stabbed at Christopher and West streets. All of the gangsters escaped except the man who was shot. He gave his name as William Reilly, 24 years old, and was taken to St. Vincent's hospital in a serious condition.

LOYALISTS AND STRIKERS

Union Ratifies Agreement While Stay-Ins Hire Lawyer

Boston, July 29.—Boston Street Carmen's union, whose members have been on strike since June 7, Saturday night by unanimos vote ratified the settlement agreement made at the state house and empowered its executive board and the international officers to carry out, with full power, all future proceedings and plans.

If the terms of the agreement are accepted by the board of directors of the Elevated Railway today, as is expected, plans have been made for a meeting with the representatives of the state board of conciliation and arbitration tomorrow to arrange for the hearing by that body on Wednesday regarding the manner in which and the ratings with which the men return to work.

Former Attorney General Parker has been retained by the "loyal" employes of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company to appear before the state board of conciliation and arbitration and oppose the reinstatement of their old ratings by that board of striking carmen who left the company. This, it is understood, does not apply to the union carmen who were discharged by the company before the strike was declared.

Attorney Parker was also retained to oppose before the board the reinstatement in any way of carmen convicted in the lower courts of violence and misdemeanors.

GAYNOR BLOCKS ALDERMEN

They Threaten Mandamus Proceedings to Force Special Meeting

New York, July 29.—Unless Mayor Gaynor calls a special meeting of the aldermen to vote upon the question of an investigation of the police department and the Rosenthal murder, a writ of mandamus compelling him to do so will be served upon him. Such is the announcement made by Alderman Henry Curran, chairman of the finance committee of the board, who, with sixteen other aldermen, petitioned the mayor to call the meeting Aug. 1.

Police Lieutenant Charles E. eBcker was served with papers in asuit for $15,000 damages brought by Mary Carter, the mother of Waverly Carter, a negro who was shot death in a rathskeller at 2199 Fifth avenue during a raid by Becker's "strong arm" squad on March 14 last.

Shortly before the papers were served on Lieutenant Becker another copy in an action begun by Mrs. Carter for a similar amount of damages was served on Charles B. Plitt, the newspaper "tipster," close personal friend and press agent of Becker.

Despite what District Attorney Whitman declares to be efforts on the part of the police department to delay the investigation of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, it was announced that another arrest would be made today. This arrest, it is understood, will be of one of the four men who did the killing.

END OF STRIKE NOW DELAYED

New Bedford Mill Owners Refuse to Yield

New Bedford, Mass., July 29.—All possibilities of an immediate settlement of the strike brought about by the weavers in the twelve cloth mills of this city were apparently banished by the manufacturers, who gave out a statement setting forth their attitude at the end of the second week of the strike.

The statement reads: "The New Bedford Manufacturers' association reiterates its offer of July 5 made to the weavers to confer with them if they could suggest any better method of classifying cloth than the grading system.

"Any charge made of unjust fining is a reflection against the honesty and manhood of the overseers of weaving. There is no justice in paying to the careless or indifferent weavers who do not stop their looms as much as the good weavers who are careful and quick to rectify any imperfection in the cloth. The majority of the weavers produce first-quality cloth. They are never paid second-quality prices and have no real objection to the grading system. Let those who object to the grading system seek employment elsewhere."

The opening of the third week finds many of the poorer operatives almost penniless, their last wages having been drawn a week ago, and with no settlement actually in sight for at least another week, urgent appeals for funds were sent out by the unions.

This morning a soup kitchen and bread line was established at the I. W. W. headquarters for its members, who are already beginning to feel the effects of the enforced vacation.

Two German Aviators Killed

Munich, Bavaria, July 29.—A German aviator named Fischer, who was carrying as a passenger in his aeroplane a mechanic named Kugler, fell from a considerable height causing the instant death of both.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

LIMA BEANS.

WHEN boiling lima beans they will keep their fresh green color longer if boiled quickly and uncovered.

Beans are the seeds of a leguminous plant and contain nourishment in a very concentrated form. They are more easily digested in the form of purees.

As a Thick Soup.

Puree of Lima Beans.—Take about a pound of the fresh lima beans and put on the fire in two quarts of boiling water. Add a tablespoonful of finely cut onion and boil until you can mash the vegetables. Then strain into a double boiler and season with salt and pepper. Stir in a tablespoonful of butter into which has been rubbed a tablespoonful of flour. Boil the soup until it thickens. Flavor with parsley and serve with croutons.

Browned Lima Beans.—Beans which are somewhat old may be cooked this way or cold ones may be thus warmed over. After the lima beans have been cooked until soft mash them and add a little salt and pepper and butter. Put into buttered molds and set in the oven until the top is nicely browned.

With Rich Sauce.

Lima Beans In White Sauce.—Shell the beans and let them stand in cold water for an hour, then boil for half an hour in salted water. Drain and dress with butter, pepper and salt and put back into the saucepan with a good white sauce flavored with chopped parsley. Simmer for a few minutes and serve.

Lima Beans and Corn.—Boil a pint of lima beans till tender, then add a pint of sweet corn. Let these cook together for half an hour, then season with salt and pepper and dress with butter and milk.

Easy to Digest.

Stewed Lima Beans.—Put a quart of the shelled lima beans in boiling water. Boil quickly, then let them simmer until done. When tender pour off a part of the water. Season with a teaspoonful of salt and two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter. Or drain the water from the beans and put the butter in a saucepan with one tablespoonful of flour. Stir over the fire until smooth and frothy, then add the beans and let stay on the fire for five minutes. Add half a pint of water, meat stock or milk. Simmer ten minutes. A teaspoonful of seasoning herbs may be added a few minutes before serving.

SOME PEACH DAINTIES.

PEACHES must be altogether ripe to be wholesome uncooked. They are one of the most delicious of foods served alone or in combination with other viands.

Peaches and Cream.—When peaches are to be served raw always select freestones. To take off the skin first drop the peaches into boiling water. Let them stay there only a couple of minutes, then drop into ice cold water. The skins may then be slipped off. Halve the peaches and take out the stones. Put on ice in the refrigerator until ready to serve; then fill the centers with powdered sugar. Melt marshmallows; pour over the sugar, and stick the two halves together, securing them with fine toothpicks. Coat with powdered sugar and serve with whipped cream flavored with peach juice. This is a delicious way to use them.

Novel Pastries.

Peach Pot Pie.—Fill a pudding dish one-third full of peaches, pared, stoned and quartered. Pour a cup of boiling water over them and set upon the stove to cook. When they begin to boil lay over them a crust made as for biscuit. Cover closely and bake twenty minutes. Serve with sugar and cream or with hard sauce.

Peach Shortcake.—For this make a rich baking powder crust. Roll out about a fourth of an inch thick, cut with a cooky cutter into rounds, butter half of these and place the unbuttered ones on top. Bake and split them open. Butter, fill and cover each one with fresh peaches cut in slices and sprinkled with powdered sugar. Serve hot, surrounded by whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with almond extract.

Baked Peaches.—Pare and place whole peaches in a baking dish and sugar well. Add some bits of butter and about a cupful of hot water. Sprinkle with chopped almonds and bake. Serve cold with whipped cream.

A Delicious Dessert.

Peach Sponge.—Take a quart of ripe, juicy peaches, mash the fruit and stand the juice on ice. About half an hour before serving whip the whites of four eggs stiff and into them beat the peach pulp, first sweetening this with powdered sugar. Put a half pint of sweetened cream with the peach juice. Line the inside of a glass dish with sponge cake or lady fingers and decorate the top with halves of peaches. Pour in the peach juice and cream. On this heap the peach meringue and arrange slices of peach on top of this. Set on the ice until needed.

NO REASON FOR IT

You are Shown the Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of serious kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that these ills can be cured. The following is convincing proof.

Calvin Porter, 150 Beaulah street, Whitman, Mass., says: "I am sorry that Doan's Kidney Pills did not come to my attention sooner for if they had, I would have been spared a great deal of suffering and expense. I suffered from a weak back for years and there was a constant, dull pain in my loins. I had to pass the kidney secretions too frequently, especially at night. As soon as I began to take Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt better and by the time I finished the contents of four boxes, I was entirely free from my troubles." (Statement given Oct. 6, 1908.)

A CONFIRMED ENDORSEMENT

Mr. Porter was interviewed by our representative on June 27, 1911 and he said: "I am always pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and you are welcome to continue the use of my former statement. I know that this remedy can be relied upon."

HAWKER WAS ECCENTRIC.

An English Poet and Clergyman Who Married His Godmother.

Robert Steven Hawker, poet and vicar of Norwenstow, England, was an eccentric person. In his younger days he used to daub the village physician's horse with stripes of paint until the animal looked like a zebra and then summon the physician hastily to an urgent case miles away in the country. Two elderly women whom he disliked he is said to have driven out of the town by sending all the undertakers in Plymouth to measure them for their coffins.

His marriage, too, was out of the ordinary. It happened while he was at Oxford. His father told him that he could not afford to keep him there any longer. Hawker at once set out to the home of his godmother, Miss Charlotte l'Ans, twenty-one years his senior and the possessor of an annuity of $1,000. He is said to have "run from Stratton to Bude, arriving hot and blown," and proposed to her. She accepted him. He returned to Oxford a married man and won a fellowship. The marriage was a happy one.

When his wife died Hawker wore at her funeral a pink hat without a brim, but this was in no disrespect to her memory. It so happened that it was his usual headgear at that time.

CARE OF THE CAT.

How Pussy Should Be Corrected and How She Should Be Fed.

It isn't a very nice task to punish pussy if you're fond of her, but there are times when she must be chastised. This is how to do it, according to Mr. Louis Wain, the great authority on the fascinating feline.

In the first place, don't actually strike the cat. A blow merely numbs it. And when the spine, which is its most sensitive part, is struck—particularly if the cat is old—it is likely to spring at the striker.

When pussy does anything wrong, frighten the wrongdoer by striking a stick on the ground. A cat is most sensitive to sounds and will connect this new noise with what it has done. It feels more intensely than most animals; hence its supposed savagery in cases. Cats are highly electrical, and it is very good to have one perch on one's shoulder or knees.

The best food for puss is raw meat, chopped up, and only one meal a day should be given. Most of the mistakes which are made in training cats arise from an absence of knowledge of the cat's character and constitution. —London Answers.

Paul Revere, Dentist.

Was Paul Revere a dentist? The following advertisement published in the Boston Gazette and Country Journal of Revere's time is believed to prove that he was: "Whereas, many persons are so unfortunate as to lose their Fore-teeth by Accident and otherways, to their great Detriment, not only in Looks, but speaking both in Public and Private:—This is to inform all such that they may have them replaced with artificial ones, that looks as well as the Natural & answers the end of Speaking to all Intents, by Paul Revere, Goldsmith, near the head of Dr. Clarke's Wharf, Boston. W. CAMERON FORBES.

Governor General of Philippines, Now Home on Leave.

Forbes Is Much Better

Woods Hole, Mass., July 29.—W. Cameron Forbes, governor general of the Philippines, is ill on Nashawena island, but not so seriously as recently reported. The governor general suffered a recurrence of kidney trouble which had ailed him in the Philippines and at one tme was considered seriously ill. Since that time, however, he has improved considerably.

GREAT BRITAIN PROVES UNSTABLE

Toll Game is Being Played Fast and Loose

Washington, July 29.—There was a new and surprising development in Great Britain's attitude toward the proposal of congress and the president to give American ships using the Panama canal free tolls. An order was received by Alfred M. Innes, British charge d'affaires here, to inform the state department that the British foreign office would not now make further protest against the proposed legislation.

Great Britain's action in dropping, at least for the time being, her protest created considerable surprise among officials of the administration.

Many officials of the administration are of the opinion that Great Britain's action in not further protesting presages the lodging of a formal protest with The Hague court. This opinion is based upon the belief that Great Britain believes that any protest lodged now will not be heeded and that that country will be compelled to ask The Hague court to arbitrate the matter anyway.

Such action, some of the administration officials hold, is not sound. It is their belief that if congress enacts legislation giving American vessels free tolls through the Panama canal the United States will refuse to arbitrate the matter.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

To Otto Emil Freeman of Brockton in the County of Plymouth and Commonwealth of Massachusetts and any and all persons whom it may concern: You are hereby notified that by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Otto Emil Freeman to Robert F. Owens of said Brockton dated November 17, 1908 and recorded with Norfolk County Deeds, Book 1097, page 110 and for a breach of the conditions contained in said mortgage deed and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, the undersigned mortgagee will sell by public auction on Thursday, August 8, 1912, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on the premises all and singular the real estate described in, and conveyed by said mortgage deed, to wit: A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated in Quincy in the County of Norfolk in said Commonwealth, comprising Lot No. 9, as shown on a plan entitled "Plan of a portion of Section 3 of the Manet Land Associates' lands at Houghs Neck, Quincy, Mass., July 1890" which plan is recorded in the Book of Plans in the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds.

Said parcel of land is bounded and described as follows, viz;—Northerly by land of parties unknown there measuring Forty Five (45) feet; easterly by lots (10) and (11) on said plan there measuring One Hundred (100) feet; southerly by Bell Street there measuring Forty Five (45) feet and westerly by lot (8) on said plan there measuring One Hundred (100) feet and containing Forty Five Hundred (4500) square feet of land.

Subject to a first mortgage of Nine Hundred Dollars held by the undersigned mortgagee and to all taxes and assessments.

And being the same premises conveyed to the said Otto Emil Freeman by Ellen C. Brady by deed dated June 8, 1904 and recorded in the Norfolk Registry of Deeds, Book 975, Page 74 Terms at sale.

A FAMILY MATTER

By EVAN B. M'KNIGHT

There's no use in a man's being annoyed with the feminine peculiarities of his wife. The best way for him to do is to get used to them. I suppose the reverse of this is true—that a woman may as well get used to the peculiarities of her husband; but, being a man, I don't know anything about that part of it.

The first thing I noticed about my wife after marriage that I didn't like was that she opened my letters and read them with as much complacency as if they were her own. There was nothing in them to injure me in her estimation, but that didn't make their opening by her any more agreeable to me. When a man has reached middle age without having any one dare to read what belongs to him alone, having from childhood considered such an act highly discreditable, not to say dishonorable, to have his wife do such a thing grates on him terribly.

I hoped that when Lena noticed that I never opened any letter of hers she would refrain from opening mine. When she came down to breakfast later than I and the postman had delivered the morning mail I would hand her her letters intact. Sometimes she would say "This is from Aunt Clarissa" or Cousin Sarah or her sister or a brother. "Why didn't you open it?" whereupon I would say sententiously, "I have never been accustomed to open another person's letters."

But Lena didn't take the hint or any other hint I gave her, just keeping on breaking the seals of my correspondents' epistles till at last I concluded to give her a more marked hint than any I had thus far devised. I wrote a note to myself from a mythical Horace Dunn, telling me in confidence of his engagement to Julia Halley, an intimate friend of my wife. As I expected, Lena opened the letter; but, finding in it a confidence—one which very much interested her—she sealed it up again, saying nothing to me about the matter.

Maybe there wasn't a hot time when Lena congratulated her friend on her engagement. Lena asked me who the scoundrel was who had claimed to be engaged to her friend without admitting that she had opened the letter the man had written me and then deceived me by sealing it again. For some time I saw by her demeanor that her friend was not satisfied to have the matter hushed up and insisted on finding out who the man was who claimed to be engaged to her. Finally, when my wife could withstand the pressure no longer, she made a confession and demanded the required information.

My time had come. I told her that the lady to whom the writer claimed to be engaged was not her friend at all, but another person of the same name. Then I proceeded to give her a lecture on the practice of interfering with any one else's correspondence, even her husband's. "By doing so," I said, "you have caused a great deal of unnecessary trouble. Had you left me the sole reader of my letter the error would not have been made."

This had only an irritating effect on my wife, who vowed she would not again touch one of my letters even with a poker and for a time handed me my mail unopened in high dudgeon. But she soon fell into her old habit.

Instead of accepting the situation, as I should have done, I concluded to lay another trap. I wrote myself another letter which I asked a friend to post in a distant city from another mythical friend of mine, confessing that he had embezzled some money and asking me what under heaven he should do to escape state prison. He added that if any one except myself should see his confession the ruin he dreaded would be sure to come.

Lena opened this letter and, finding that she had stumbled upon another secret, made up her mind to reseal the letter and this time keep silent on a matter that was of no personal interest to her. But just as she was about to do so there was a smell of smoke from the laundry, and, leaving the note and its envelope side by side on her desk with letters of her own, she ran downstairs to learn if the house was on fire. She found an incipient blaze, which with some trouble was put out. Then she went back to her desk and did as she had intended with my letter.

When I came in and found the letter, apparently untouched, I tore it open and took out a letter to my wife from one of her friends containing a confidence I had no right to possess. I handed the note to Lena, demanding to know how a private letter to her had come in an envelope addressed to me.

I shall never forget the frightened look that came over her face. Intending to slip my letter back into its envelope, having been rattled on account of the blaze in the laundry, she had taken up the wrong letter.

I took her in my arms and said to her: "My dear, I find you have again deceived me. But so long as you don't deceive me in any more serious way than this I forgive you. Hereafter open my letters when you like. It is a womanly weakness and in a measure excusable."

From that time I have not cared whether Lena opens my letters or not. But she doesn't. Experience has taught her that it isn't best for her to do so.

MEEMER LED THE FLEET IN THE 100-M. YACHT RACE

Quincy Craft Made Wonderful Performance in Light Wind

Pretty Good Record For a Fourteen-Year-Older

The 30 foot sloop Meemer of John T. Cavanagh won the maiden interclub ocean race of the South Boston yacht club which finished Sunday. From the start at 4.15 Saturday until the finish shortly before non Sunday not one of the ten boats had to reef, yet many of the boats would have had to tuck in reefs had it blown much harder at times.

The performance of the Meemer has seldom been equalled by small boats. Her actual time over the course was 15 hours 26 minutes and her corrected time, based on Herreshoff time allowance, was 11 hours 33 minutes, which is some going for 100 odd miles. She carries off the handsome silver trophy presented by Commodore John F. Burke of the South Boston Y. C., given for the yacht covering the course in the best corrected time. It was on July 28, 1898, that the Meemer made her debut, winning the South Boston race on that date.

CONCORD WON FROM W. QUINCY

Failure to Hit Ball Responsible for the Whitewash

Inability to hit the ball caused West Quincy to suffer a 4 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Concord town team at Concord Saturday afternoon. O'Connell was the only local player who was able to fathom the delivery of Hopkins, Concord's star twirler. The score:

WALKOVER FOR WAWEENOCK

A race was held off Wollaston beach Sunday under the auspices of the Squantum Yacht club. One class participated in the event. The course was one of seven miles and there was nothing to it but the Waweenock, one of the scratch boats. She had a lead of ten minutes at the finish and a margin of three minutes on corrected time. The Barracouta and Yankee withdrew soon after the start. The summary:

ORIENTS STILL WINNING GAMES

Nothing Seems to Check Their Steady, Victorious Streak

The winning streak of the Orients was still in evidence on the Ward Three playgrounds Saturday afternoon, where they defeated the Ramblers in a loosely played game by a score of 10 to 3. This game made the sixteenth win for the Orients. Out of the eighteen games played this season, they have been defeated but once and one other game ended in a tie.

This is the best record of any team in Quncy and the Orients are now ready to meet all comers for the championship.

The features of Saturday's game were the pitching of Bradley, the fielding of Markham and the batting of Cremins. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Orients	3	1	0	0	1	1	0	4		—10
Ramblers	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	1	— 3

JAMAICA PLAIN PROVED EASY

For Lively Bunch of Atlantic Ball Tossers

Atlantic defeated the strong Jamaica Plain team at Atlantic on Saturday in a one sided game. Jamaica Plain did not get a hit off Hoyt until two were out in the ninth inning. The batting of Gerstel with three hits, combined with the snappy play of the entire Atlantic team made the game interesting to watch.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Atlantic	2	0	0	0	3	1	4	0	x	—10
Jamaica Plain	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	— 2

GOLF TOURNAMENT.

A tournament between the members of the Quincy and those of the Wollaston Tennis club was held at the courts of the latter off Beale street, Wollaston on Saturday afternoon.

The play was witnessed by a large gallery of both sexes and some of the matches were close and interesting. As theaffair was simply a friendly and informal meeting between the two clubs no official score was taken of the results.

CHINA SHOWER A SURPRISE

Miss Harding Remembered by Her Friends in the Choir

A very pretty china shower was tendered Miss Annie Harding of Botolph street, Saturday evening, by the choir and music committee of Memorial church. Miss Harding recently announced her engagement to Coyle S. Allan of Dorchester.

The choir had its rehearsal as usual, and at the close of the rehearsal Rev. T. W. Davison asked the choir members to look at their vestments and plan to care for them during the summer.

The choir went to the vestry, and the surprise on Miss Harding was complete when she saw the Ladies' parlor beautifully decorated and full of the guests who were friends of the choir members.

Mrs. Harry B. Wells of the music committee acted as spokesman of the music committee and presented Miss Harding with a beautiful hand painted punch bowl in behalf of the choir and music committee in appreciation of her faithful service in the choir and church.

The punch bowl which was decorated by Rev. T. W. Davison, and purchased from the china table of the fair in next November.

Short speeches were made by Messrs. John Ward, Spencer Apollonio and Deacon Edwin French, and an original poem written by Mr. Apollonio was read by Miss Maud E. Read.

The ladies' parlor was festooned with pink and white roses hung from the chandelier to the corners of the room. Streamers of pink and white paper hung from the chandelier to the corners of the table which stood in the centre of the room. Amidst these streamers of crepe paper hung a large white wedding bell—directly over the centre of the table. The table was covered with a white cover around the sides of which, braided crepe paper was festooned. The punch bowl stood in the centre of the table surrounded on all sides by true lover's knots of pink and white braid.

During the evening ice cream, cake, candy, and punch were served. The punch bowl was filled and the punch was served by Miss Harding.

Those present were: Miss Annie Harding, Mrs. Albert Hall, Miss Maud Read, Miss Jean Arthur, Mrs. W. S. Hill, Miss Cora Harding, Mrs. Sanford York, Miss Ada Harding, Mrs. Robert Harding, Miss Florence Hill, Miss Jordine Davison, Miss Marguerite Allen, Miss Hazel Davison, Mr. Arthur Hall, Mr. Alvin Mitchell, Mr. Norton Stetson, Mr. Coyle Allan, Mr. James Houston, Mr. William Northrop, Mr. Kenneth Blake, Mr. H. J. Heap, Mr. Edwin French, Mr. and Mrs Harvey Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Malloch, Mr. and Mrs. John Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Apollonio, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wells, Rev. and Mrs T. W. Davison.

The committee in charge of the evening were Mrs. Harvey Holt and Miss Hazel Davison.

Poetry.

It is a shallow criticism that would define poetry as confined to literary productions in rhyme and meter. The written poem is only poetry talking, and the statue, the picture and the musical composition are poetry acting. Milton and Goethe at their desks were not more truly poets than Phidias with his chisel, Raphael at his easel or deaf Beethoven bending over his piano, inventing and producing strains which he himself could never hope to hear.—Ruskin.

SCOTCH COLLIE VIVISECTED.

And Now the University of Chicago Refuses to Pay For It.

A charge of larceny to be made against Joseph Loch, keeper and "catcher" of dogs and other animals used in the physiology department of the University of Chicago, will be fought by the university as a test case.

Professor A. J. Carlson, who has charge of the vivisection work, said that he did not believe Loch was guilty of a criminal act in confiscating stray dogs for the purposes of experiment, and the university would allow the charge to be entered.

Loch was brought before Judge Maxwell, in the Hyde Park police court, on the charge of receiving stolen property. The complaint was made by Mrs. Gary McCarthy of 5612 Ellis avenue, who found her Scotch collie in a cage at the university. She declares that while in Loch's custody the animal, which she valued at $14, was operated upon and as a result will have to be killed.

Judge Maxwell said he thought the most equitable adjustment would be obtained by Loch's paying for the dog. He adjourned the case for one week and declared that if the case were not settled by that time he would issue a warrant for larceny against the man. Professor Carlson asked for an immediate settlement, but the judge declined. The professor then declared the university would not pay for the dog but would fight the charge.

MAKARIA LOST TO SO. QUINCY

Bundle of Errors in Sixth Inning Did the Trick

PITCHERS BATTLE

South Quincy came back strong Saturday afternoon on the Water street grounds and defeated the Makarias by a score of 6 to 1. For five innings the game was played in most gruelling style, but in the sixth inning the leaders in the league race showed up to advantage by bringing five runs across the plate.

Yet the hitting honors in this session were carried off by the losers, who had three singles to their credit, against two hits of the scratchy variety registered by the South Quincy combination. The game was a pitchers" battle for five innings, when the wildness of Brittingham, aided by costly errors on the part of his team mates, proved the undoing of the Makarias.

Brennan was in the points for the winners and pitched splendid ball. He struck out ten of the opposing batsmen and gave but a single free pass.

"Pete" Chapman relieved Brittingham in the seventh session and managed to keep control of the situation by holding the winners down to one run, without allowing a single hit. There was a large attendance at the game and many star plays were evidenced.

W. Galvin, Dickie and Commolli played well for the winners, while Artis, Jenkins and H. Chapman were conspicuous for the losers. By this victory, South Quincy secured a former hold on first place in the league, while the Makarias, who were tied for second honors with Quincy A. A. and West Quincy now occupy the cellar position. STEAMERS CRASH IN DENSE FOG THROWING PASSENGERS FROM BUNKS

Thrilling Experience of Those on Board the City of Rockland as She Rams Collier

Passengers Transferred to Latter. Every One Saved. Not a Person Injured. Quincy People on Board.

The Steamer City of Rockland of the Eastern Steamship line, was struck by a collier while 18 miles east of Portsmouth, N. H., about 12 o'clock Monday night, and for a time it appeared to those on board that their doom was sealed. Every one expected the boat to sink, when she settled as the water rushed into the opening which was made in bow of the steamer by the collision.

The passengers were transferred to the craft which struck the passenger steamer, in the life boats, and were later conveyed to the steamship City of Belfast and landed in Boston, about 8.30 o'clock this morning.

The steamer Rockland was bound from Bath to Boston when the accident occurred.

A dense fog enveloped the ocean.

The passengers on the steamer were thrown from their bunks by the shock. Many of them were unable to secure any clothing except their night robes.

The air was warm and none suffered from the cold. Good order and discipline prevailed so that the officers and crew got the passengers clear of the damaged steamer in good order. The steam pumps of the steamer were kept busy. When the first excitement had passed, everything moved along with great regularity.

The steamer stood up so well under the strain that the baggage was taken off and transferred to the collier.

There were four Quincy people on the steamer, Henry M. Faxon, Herbert T. Whitman, L. G. Murray and Miss Gladys Glover of Wollaston.

When the Steamer City of Belfast left the scene of the accident about 3.30 o'clock this morning, the Rockland was still afloat.

The collier which struck the Rockland was the William Chisholm, bound from New York to Portland.

Mr. Faxon related his experience to a Daily Ledger representative. He was returning to Quincy from Squirrel Island with a friend, boarding the City of Rockland at Bath Monday night. There was a dense fog well off shore.

At just 12 o'clock midnight he was awakened by a terrific shock. He looked out of the state room window just in time to see what appeared to be an ocean going tug drifting past. The Rockland began to settle rapidly by the head, and the deck stewards ordered all passengers on the upper deck.

Life preservers were put on, and preparations made to lower the life boats. Mr. Faxon says he saw an attempt made to lower one boat but the ropes caught, tipping out most of the people into the sea. They were mostly women. Finally the boat was lowered but it settled on the water almost full of water. Those who fell into the water were rescued.

About this time the lights of a collier were discernible through the fog, and it backed up and took aboard all the passengers. It proved to be the Collier William Chisholm bound from New York to Portland, and it was this vessel that came in collison with the steamer.

About 2.30 A. M. the lights of the steamer City of Belfast were sighted, and signals were given. She came alongside the collier, and again the passengers were transferred to the City of Belfast.

The City of Rockland was taken in tow by the collier, and headed for Portsmouth.

Mr. Faxon believes the City of Rockland was saved by its bulkheads. She was struck a glancing blow near the wheel box by the collier. The collier was damaged above the water line, some of the plating being ripped off.

The City of Belfast reached Boston

FIFTEEN YEARS' STUDY PERIOD

For Young Man Joining the Jesuit Order

A number of relatives and friends of John Dimmock, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dimmock of Manet avenue, Houghs Neck, went to Boston Monday evening to bid him farewell as he made his departure for Poughkeepsie, New York. The young man left for the Jesuit novitiate, situated at St. Andrew's on the Hudson, where he will begin his studies for the priesthood.

He is twenty years of age and has frequently taken prizes for his proficiency in studies. He is a graduate of the Boston English High school and has been attending Boston College for the past two years. For the past twenty years his father, who is a resident of Roxbury, has made his summer home at Houghs Neck. His course of studies will consume a period of fifteen years. Young Dimmock is quite an athlete and also a banjo player of no mean ability.

CRUISING EASTWARD

Squantum Yacht Meta With Jolly Party on Board

The Schooner Meta of the Squantum Yacht club cleared for the Maine coast Saturday afternoon of last week and arrived at Gloucester that night at 8 o'clock, leaving there next morning for Cape Porpous where they dropped anchor at 4.20 P. M. On Wednesday the start was made for Saco River, Maine, which was reached that night. The trip was a stormy one with continuous head winds and rain. All on board are reported well and happy. The party consisted of Captain Byron A. Miller, Mrs. Elsie Miller, Holbrook Lincoln, Malcom Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Mosman, of Atlantic and Miss Mary A. McKinney of Newburyport.

BINGVILLE PARTY.

The seventh annual Bingville barn dance will be held at Moore's summer ball room, Houghs Neck, Friday, August 16. This affair has always been the one big event of the summer season at Houghs Neck.

Invitations have been extended to members of the Boston American base ball team. Gov. Foss, Richard Olney, 2d, Hon. David I. Walsh, District Attorney Joseph C. Pellettier, Congressman James M. Curley, Hon. Joseph Walker and Senator James Timilty.

SHRINERS ON LONG TRAIL

Will Partake of Sea Food and Camel's Milk at Providence

Many Quincy Shriners will participate in the trip of Aleppo Temple to Rocky Point, R. I., August 10. A special session of the Temple will be held August 9, to admit candidates, so as to give them an opportunity to participate in the outing. The party will go by special train from Boston and will be met in Provindence by a band and escorted to a steamer. A continuous lunch will be served on the steamer. After steaming around the bay, and visiting Newport a landing will be made at Rocky Point where a clam bake dinner will be served. After dinner there will be a series of sports.

GRANITE MEN PLAN GOOD TIME

All Plans Perfect for Annual Outing at Bass Point

The annual outing of the Granite Manufacturers Association of Quincy will be held at Bass Point Saturday, August 3.

The party will leave on the train, 8.28 o'clock from Quincy Adams, 8.30 from Quincy, to Boston, thence by the 9.30 boat from Otis Wharf to Bass Point.

A full list of sports is being arranged by a committee headed by E. D. Marnock. These sports will be of sufficient importance and extent to take up the time both before and after dinner and will be held in close proximity to the hotel so that plenty of water may be obtained if any of the contestants faint.

Dinner promptly at 1 p. m. at the Bass Point House.

After dinner more sports and then return to Boston on the boat at 5 o'clock.

The attention of members is called to the fact that this trip is intended only for members of the Association or those very directly connected there with.

M. E. KELLY DEAD.

Word has been received in Quincy of the death Monday in a New York hospital of M. E. Kelly who a short time ago was one of the best known granite dealers in the country. While Mr. Kelly never resided in Quincy he was a frequent visitor to this city when in his prime, was widely known among the granite manufacturers having had business relations with many of them.

LOWER SPEED BY CHEMICAL

In Responding to Fires Owing to the Great Danger

PUBLIC DEMAND GRANTED

It is probable that hereafter the auto chemical when responding to fire alarms will not go tearing through the streets at the high rate of speed at which it has been going. Many believe that the speed is altogether too great for safety and that the apparatus driven at a less rate would arrive nearly as quick and be equally as effective. It has been the general opinion that if the high rate of speed is maintained that a serious accident is sure to happen sooner or later. Several complaints have been made to Mayor Stone and it is reported that he has called the attention of Chief Engineer Litchfield to the matter and that hereafter less speed will be maintained in responding to alarms.

SCOTTISH GAMES AND DANCERS

To Be Features of Caledonian Club Outing Saturday

The 59th annual picnic of the Boston Caledonian club will be held at Caledonian grove, West Roxbury, Saturday. It is expected that 20,000 will attend. Many features and attractions characteristically Scotch will prove attractive. Many Quincy people will undoubtedly attend.

The program includes field sports for amateurs and professionals, a football game for the Dewar trophy, quoit matches, sword dances and bagpipe playing. Prizes amounting to $325 will be distributed among the winners in the 10-mile run, open to the world. Walter Scott of New York has offered a number of special trophies in the athletic events open to club members only.

The Boston Caledonian Club was founded in March, 1853.

SQUANTUM EVENTS.

Among the attractions of Ladies' day of the Squantum Yacht club will be prize events in water sports, in charge of George H. Bean. These will include a 50-yard dash for boys under 16 years, 100 yard dash for boys 16 years or over, rowing race in tenders contestants to furnish tenders, and under-water swim. Entries are limited to residents of Atlantic, Norfolk Downs and Wollaston and should be made to G. H. Bean, 167 Atlantic street, Atlantic, or at the clubhouse.

BURIED AT MT. WOLLASTON.

The funeral of Samuel C. Dunn of 162 Arlington street, Wollaston, was held from his late home Monday afternoon at three o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial was at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery. The deceased was in his 59th year and leaves a widow.

GOLDEN WEDDING AT BROCKTON.

Mr. and Mrs. Orien E. Caswell of Brockton observed their golden wedding Monday. Mr. Caswell, who is 71 years of age served three years in the 18th Masachusetts Regiment, enlisting when he was 21 years old. He was born in Middleboro and has resided in Brockton for the past 15 years. His wife was born in Ireland and came to this country at the age of nine years. She is 69 years of age. Three children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell all of whom are living.

FAMILY ABSENT· HOUSE LOOTED

Burglars at Porter House Were Leisurely at Work

LOSS AS YET UNKNOWN

It was reported to the police Monday that the house of Henry W. Porter on Edgemere road had been entered by burglars. The family are away at the present time and it is not known just when the break was made. Captain McKay who made an investigation of the affair reports that the parties gained entrance through the bulkhead door and that they evidently came out the same way and locked the bulkhead after them. The interior of the house showed that the parties had taken all the time they wanted, for it had been thoroughly ransacked. Just what was taken could not be learned until Mr. Porter returns.

HARNESS BROKE HORSE STARTED

Thrilling Down Hill Race With Wagon Bumping Animal

THOMAS' LUCKY ESCAPE

G. E. Thomas driver of one of the Boston Tea Co. wagons had a narrow escape this morning from serious injury. He was driving down the hill on Whitwell street when part of the harness broke letting the team onto the horses heels. This frightened the animal who commenced to run down the hill. The faster he ran the more often the team struck his legs. Mr. Thomas was in the team at the time and endeavored to check the horse but was unsuccessful. As the bottom of the hill was reached the wagon struck the curbing and the next instant tea and coffee were flying through the air. The team was overturned and Mr. Thomas thrown out. Fortunately however he escaped with a general shaking up. The wagon however was considerably damaged.

JOSEPH CONLON'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Joseph E. Conlon for many years a well known motorman in the employ of the Bay State Street Railway Company, was held from his late home 86 Brackett street this morning. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at the Church of St. John the Baptist at ten o'clock by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan. The services were attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the deceased.

The musical portion of the mass was the Gregorian chant, furnished by the regular choir, under the direction of organist John Mahon. A delegation from the Street Railwaymen's union was present at the funeral. Burial was at St. Mary's Cemetery, West Quincy.

DISTRICT COURT.

Walter C. Rosmussen was fined $20 William H. Sydeman $20 and Chester E Chellman $25 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton. Chellman was making 49 miles an hour when overhauled.

James O'Brien was fined $10 and Walter S. Roule $10 for drunkenness at Milton.

Charles S. Bragdon was fined the costs amounting to $8.65 for drunkenness at Holbrook.

Harry Ives was arraigned for keeping a liquor nuisance at Quincy and was held in $300 until August 6.

Joseph Rocco was fined $25 for assault on Frank Mariana at Quincy and Frank Mariana was fined $15 for assault on Joseph Rocco.

THE WOMAN OF TOMORROW

Mrs. Mackay Treats the Subject Entertainingly

AT QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB

An interesting lecture on "The Women of Tomorrow" was given this morning at the club house by Mrs. John D. Mackay under the auspices of the Education committee of the Quincy Women's club.

Mrs. Mackay taking for her subject, "The Woman of Tomorrow," said:

Madam Chairman, My Dear Young Friends: Mrs. Sanborn, who has charge of the Summer school, has asked me to come here this morning and say a few words to you, which may be of some assistance to you after you have completed the course and gone back to your regular duties.

It is a pleasure for me to meet you. I was in charge of the Summer school myself two years ago, and many of you look familiar to me.

Since I accepted Mrs. Sanborn's invitation my first and constant feeling has been one of responsibility. I felt and always feel that one's duty is limited by nothing but his or her opportunity, and I felt that your minds are in a plastic state and any suggestion made by a person of mature years or any example set by such a one is very likely to have some influence, slight or deep, upon your minds.

If I can leave you with one new idea that is worth retaining, I shall feel repaid for coming here. And even if I succeeded in entertaining you, and we enjoyed thenext twenty minutes mutally and fully, unless I leave with you something which enriches your thought to some slight degree, then I shall have failed to effect the purpose for which the Chairman of the Education committee asked me to come here.

A few years ago, as some of you know, the Adams Academy closed its doors. The late Dr. Everett had been master of the academy for many years and students had come to him not only from many states in this country, but even from abroad. Dr. Everett taught those boys in the same subjects as were being taught in our High school and other secondary schools. And if he taught those subjects as well as other schools taught then the average person would say that he had done all that was required, that he had done his full duty

But that was not Dr. Everett's own view of it. He had a higher conception of duty, the conception which I defined a moment ago when I said that one's duty was measured by his opportunity, and he expressed it on the night of the graduation of his last class in words that could not be lost on those who heard him, at least those of them who were capable of deep thought, or even ordinary serious reflection. The graduates had spoken their pieces, according to custom and the diplomas had been given them. The time for parting had come and the Master was expected to say a parting word to his "boys." And this was in substance what he said: "If I haven't made you feel that you are under the eye of your heavenly Father even when alone in the desert; if I haven't made you feel that you must follow truth even if it lead to the scaffold, then, whatever else I may have done for you

The English dock laborers declare the leaders have betrayed them. This claim has a familiar note although it takes the betrayed a long time to find out the fact.

PLAYGROUND ENTHUSIASM.

The youngsters of Quincy, boys and girls, evidently appreciate all that is being done for them in the way of playground diversion. The attendance at the several gatherings each week, is sufficient to establish this fact.

The boys and girls enjoy every minute of the time they spend at the playgrounds and the grownups who direct and assist them in their efforts derive pleasure enough from the knowledge that they are helping youth to pass the time pleasantly and profitably. The men and women who give freely of their time in this endeavor are to be commended. It is refreshing to see people so unselfish that they are willing to give of their time and energy that others may enjoy themselves.

Aside from this very laudable enterprise the undertaking means a great deal to the youth of the city. During the vacation period many boys and girls have little to occupy their time and attention. The paths which they might pursue are varied. They might be good and they might be bad. If the latter then it would be most unfortunate for their future welfare. The playground affords them pleasant, healthful diversion which can only operate for their betterment both in mind and body. Quincy should feel a justifiable pride in this undertaking and the men and women who are engaged in it are doing a good work whose results will not be measured by paltry dollars and cents. Just at present the workers find themselves handicapped in the matter of assistants. Some young women are needed to assist in the work. Here is a chance for several worthy young women to engage in philanthropic work of the finest kind.

TERRIBLE WASTE OF WORDS.

The terrible waste of words to which the present age is prone was never more fully illustrated than in the case of a lawyer who recently submitted a brief containing 25,000 words. The judge in disposing of the case was more lenient to those concerned. The decision was handed down in about one dozen words. The judges' salary was assured. That of the lawyer evidently depended upon the length and windiness of his effort. Still it would seem that the poor disciple of Blackstone must have felt crushed when he found that his wonderous act of so much time killing effort was disposed of by the judge in such a brief and summary matter. It must have been a severe blow to his pride. And so it goes. Other lawyers will fail to profit by this experience but continue along the same line. As long as the dictionary contains so many words, and by the way, new ones are springing up every day, the lawyer will have a chance to establish his record of vocabulary.

ARE THEY FEARFUL?

The New York board of aldermen, threaten Mayor Gaynor with mandamus proceedings unless he immediately calls a special meeting of that body to investigate the recent murder car episode. Now if there is one thing more than another which might well calculate to cog the wheels of justice it is an official investigation along the lines suggested by this act of the aldermen. Looking at the situation from the present view point, it would seem that considerable progress has been made. District Attorney Whitman has been active. The police have been stirred to activity because of the terrible charge which is laid at their door. The citizens have come forward with their approval and aid to the district attorney. Under those circumstances it would appear as if much good could be accomplished. Of what particular use an aldermanic investigation would have at the present time, it is difficult to determine. There might be some unkind enough to suggest that the aldermen are getting nervous.

At any rate, with a full realization of the progress made the august body should at the present time keep its hands off. The department of justice is doing good work along practical lines which cannot be denied. Investigation, which would not investigate, but prove troublesome, should be avoided and the machinery of the law should be permitted to take its course, through the proper channels until New York can again hold its head up, free of the taint so strongly suggested that its police force and men higher up are leagued with, thugs, gamblers and other criminals.

STRAIGHTENING THE RIVER.

The Boston Herald, commenting editorially upon the Neponset river dredging and improvement says:

"It is a matter for congratulation that the improvements upon the Neponset river, which have been agitated for a generation or more, are at last to be made. Under the direction of the State Board of Health, a comprehensive system of improvements will be carried out from the source of the river to its mouth, through the towns of Sharon, Norwood, Canton, Westwood, Dedham and Milton. Though the primary object of the work is sanitary, and to reclaim for habitation and cultivation some two thousand acres of malarial marsh land it will also result in making the shores of the stream much more attractive.

The Neponset is a river with many historic associations, and of great natural beauty where man has not succeeded in spoiling it. It flows through a series of beautiful towns whose charms can be largely increased if the river is made the most of. It may be that in years to come the Neponset will be the scene of some such artistic development as has made the Charles what it is. As population grows and the idea of a greater and more beautiful Boston takes a firmer hold, this is not at all unlikely. A river park on both sides of the city, or all around it and through the suburbs, will be feasible and desirable. For the present, the wise use of the legislative appropriation, so long delayed, will be a good beginning.

SLUGGED WITH MILK BOTTLE

Frank Marina Was Completely Knocked Out by Blow

ROCCO DENIED ASSAULT

Frank Marina of 195 Liberty street was struck on the head with a bottle and knocked completely out shortly before midnight Monday during an argument with another Italian. According to the story told by Marina's son, Joseph Rocco, a neighbor was the man who struck the blow which knocked his father unconscious. The affair was reported to the police and later Officer Dinneen and Broberg arrested Rocco and locked him up. He denied striking Marina with a bottle.

When the case was called in court this morning Rocco put up the claim that he did not assault Mariana until the latter had assaulted him with a stick and that he was simply defending himself.

The court asked him if he desired to apply for a warrant against Mariana and he said he did. A warrant was then issued and Mariana was immediately arraigned. He evidently got the worst of the scrap for his head was done up in bandages.

The court then fined Rocco $25 and Mariana $15.

PESSIMISTIC IN HIS VIEWS

Granite Journal Correspondent Hands Out a Few Raps

The Quincy correspondent in the Granite Cutters' Journal writing in the July issue has the following to say relative to the public dock question.

"The Public Dock" question is again being aired by committees representing the Board of Trade. From present indications, providing that everybody gets a "move on," we shall have a "Public Dock," about one hundred years from now. Possibly it is the intent of the powers that be, to wait until aerial navigation has been so perfected that the installation of a "Public Dock," will be unnecessary on account of all traffic being by air route.

It seems strange that a scheme which means so much to the granite industry of this city should receive such scant attention at the hands of the authorities. If the price asked for is too high, why not take it by right of eminent domain? If the property held by a number of the land owners in this city, was assessed for taxation according to the price asked by the owners, the gentleman in question might not be so fond of holding so much land. The "Single Tax," system would work nicely in such cases.

TRYING TO FORCE INTERVENTION

Mexican Rebels Want United States to Step In

AMERICANS ORDERED KILLED

Rebels Disarming All Americans In Territory Overriden by Them—Blames United States For Treating Them as Rebels—Mormon Colonists Seeking Safety on American Side—American Prisoner Treated Cruelly

El Paso, Tex., July 30.—The correspondent of the El Paso Herald wired a statement here declaring that General Inez Salazar, second in command of the Mexican rebel army had made several addresses Sunday in which he asserted that all Americans in the rebel zone were to be disarmed, and all protection guarantees for American citizens withdrawn. Salazar is reported as saying that inasmuch as the American government had treated the rebels as bandits, they may as well act such parts.

The speeches followed Salazar's order to disarm the Mormon colonists at Colonia Dublan Saturday night. The colonists surrendered 100 rifles and about 15,000 rounds of ammunition, acoording to A. W. Ivins, apostle of the Mormon church. They then immediately sent 600 of their women and children to El Paso.

The rebels left Colonia Dublan with the declaration that they would enforce the same order at Colonia Juarez against other Mormons. The colonists say they were told that they could expect no further protection from the rebels, and that it was the intention to bring on American intervention if possible. Salazar, who had been in Juarez for several days, conferring with his chief, Pascual Orozco, is reported to have declared that he was acting with the sanction of Orozco.

Louis Lach, a Mormon from Bublan, who arrived here with is family, said: "General Salazar told us at Cases Grandes and again at Pearson that if intervention did not come from the Americans within the next few days the rebels will begin to kill every American they find, and keep up the massacre until America was forced to cross the border. Salazar stated that it was the direct order of General Orozco."

El Paso is already overrun with refugees, Mexican and Americans, and it may be imposible to care for all of them. Apostle Evans is arranging to send as many of the Mormons as is possible to Arizona points, where the church has several communities. Rooms cannot be found for all of the refugees here.

The United States army will be asked to supply tents for those in need.

Amado Suarez, who claims to be a citizen of New York, relates a story of cruelties which he alleges he suffered at the hands of Mexican federal soldiers at Mondova, Mexico. Suarez asserts that he was arrested, suspected of being a rebel. For three days after his arrest, Suarez declares, he was kept standing in a narrow cell, a sentry being on hand to prod him if he attempted to sleep or fell to the floor from exhaustion. Although he steadfastly insisted he was an American citizen, he says he was hung up by the thumbs for more than an hour and while in this position was given thirty-eight strokes across the back with a sabre. He fainted under the ordeal, he declares, and exhibited scarred and badly wrenched thumbs as proof of his story.

Next, says Suarez, he was imprisoned in a dungeon for forty-three days and then sent to the front with the federal troops. Finally he was released, but before leaving prison signed a statement, with the muzzles of four rifles pressed against his body as persuasive arguments, he declares, that he had received the best of treatment while being held as prisoner.

When You Crack Your Hat.

If you are ever unfortunate enough to smash a new berby hat, so that it cracks and in spite of vigorous rubbing and brushing refuses to resume its pristine smoothness of surface, try the simple expedient of holding a lighted match inside the hat close to the broken spot. By the time the match has half burned out you will find that the hat has become soft. If you will then brush it vigorously with a stiff brush for a moment it will regain its former smoothness and look as if nothing had ever marred its surface.—New York Sun.

your time has been spent in vain and my effort has been in vain."

That was a noble declaration of a noble ambition. Some people might differ from the doctor and say that even if he hadn't taught his students those things fully, if he had taught them other useful and true things his work was not in vain, but I give you his sentiment, as showing his high conception of duty.

There is one thought that I hope to impress upon your minds particularly and that is the thought of responsibility and once again, let me say, that your duty is limited by nothing but your opportunity.

I have taken for my subject "The Woman of To-morrow." Let us see what opportunities will await her and then we shall know what duties will confront her. It is a question that I hope you will think about a good deal, for it concerns yourselves. You are the women of tomorrow.

The woman of to-morrow, who is the girl of today, will be assisted and retarded or handicapped by things of to-day. As the poet Schiller said "In to-day, already walks to-morrow." There you have the idea expressed truly and concisely. "In to-day already walks to-morrow." The people who are charged with the duty of looking after your welfare and training you for your life's work are not only casting seeds into Time, as Carlyle expressed it, but they are already influencing the things of to-morrow, and to-morrow, as it were, is already born and passing today through the period of adolescence. Those of you who will be fortunate enough to go through college will have ample opportunity to grasp this thought more fully and those of you who will not be so favored can also appreciate the force of this observation by a little reflection.

The women of to-day may be divided roughly into two classes—those who do things, who are producers as the Socialists would say, and those who are merely consumers. The woman who produces things,—who makes a dress, dresses a wound, teaches little ones to read and write, keeps books of accounts, operates a typewriter, cooks food and serves it or looks after the health and comfort of her children, this woman is deserving of the highest esteem. Even the agitators respect her. She is doing something, producing things or helping in producing them. There is dignity in useful work, no matter whether it is humble or lofty. The Bible tells us this in words something like these: "Seest thou a man diligent at his work. Verily he shall stand before kings." The man or woman who is increasing the wealth of the world or ministering to the wants and comforts of others will always be respected.

On the other hand you have the woman who produces nothing, who doesn't work and doesn't think. She is represented by "The Young Lady Across the Way," of whom you catch a glimpse every morning in a Boston paper. Most of you know the character to whom I refer. If not I hope you will look her up in the paper, if you take that particular paper. You will find that she is a young woman who is leading a protected life, having nothing to do, not educated or capable of doing any thinking about serious things of life. She lives an empty life; all of her wants are evidently suplied by her father. She is one of the problems of the future. Her existence although personally she is simple and perhaps lovable in a small way, is a source of irritation to the people who are everlastingly at work and always in need of life's necessities. And yet, the idle society girl serves a purpose without knowing it or caring about it. The more extravagant her wants, the more employment is afforded for those who produce things. But this fact is not accepted as sufficient justification for the idle, rich girl.

The feeling is growing that the good things of earth should be given to those who work rather than to those who do not toil or spin. And I predict with all confidence, that the Woman of Tomorrow will be a worker, for this reason among others that it will no longer be considered respectable to eat the bread of idleness

Virtue and thrift will go hand in hand and the only idle woman will be the woman who is vicious or incapable of intelligent or skillful effort.

It is with the desire to help usher in the new reign of womanhood that this school is being conducted by busy women during the hot weather, year after year without compensation or thought of compensation, except the satisfaction of producing something, doing something useful. When you take your several places in the world you will find lots of work to do, and the better you do it, the more satisfaction you will get out of life. The idle woman who is rich and thinks she can afford it, and the idle woman who is poor and cannot afford it, the social butterfly have had their day and they are geting nothing out of life that is satisfying to heart or braiin. The social queen, and social leaders of tomorow will be the school-teachers, the nurses, the book-keepers, the housewives—all who do useful, respectable work.

If you are desirous to go in the right direction you are not in much danger of going astray. There was never a time before when so much assistance is given to those who wish to continue with their studies. If the day school is out of the question for you the authorities offer part time schools and evening classes to boys and girls.

Think of the opportunities offered to you girls in Quincy. You may go to the Boston Trade school, with no expense but car fares. There you can learn a trade so well that the Boston firms will gladly give you a position and good pay. If 200 of you girls will agree to go to a Trade School for the purpose of learning, dressmaking, millinery, cooking, power-machine-work, etc., we could have a school of that description herfe in Quincy.

Then if girls wish for the higher education, they can have it.

A great many kind people have left money to colleges to pay for the education of boys and girls whose fathers and mothers can't afford to pay for them. If you can't go to the High school and must work and still want to go to college, you can do it easily. The evening schools will fit you for college and the money for expenses will be forthcoming if you prove that you are in earnest and can and will work.

If you don't care for college work, do learn a trade and know how to run a home. How to cook well and how to keep the home clean and attractive and how to make both ends meet. That means to spend only what money you can afford to spend.

To-morow's duties will be awaiting you and see that you discharge them well. And don't make the mistake of thinking that you are helping the cause of womankind by getting into the limelight. Don't neglect to wash your breakfast dishes before you go out to do sociological work. Sociology, like charity, begins at home.

And if you hapen to believe in woman's suffrage, don t smash any windows in order to secure it. The duties of tomorrow will be pretty much like those of today. The woman of tomorrow will differ from the woman of today in being better trained for the common duties of life. As I said before it will be easier than ever during the next few years to secure a liberal education and the woman of tomorrow will be better educated. See to it that you get the most out of this course and every other educational opportunity which will open before you and when you begin to give back to society in useful work what societywill require of you bear in mind what I said when I began that your duty will be limited by your opportunities.

COLLECTOR. SAVED TIME

But Borrowed Plenty of Trouble for Himself

GIVEN A GOOD SCARE

A collector for the Citizens' Gas Co. came near getting into trouble Sunday while making collections from quarter meters. He was not supposed to do this work on Sunday but thinking to save a little time while at Houghs Neck started in to collect. He made collections from a number of meters in each of which cases the householders were suspicious that all was not right, for they never heard of the man doing this work on Sundays. Several called the manager of the company by telephone who informed them that none of his men were at work making collections Sunday and that the man was probably a fraud and should be turned over to the police.

Word was sent to the police and after the man had visited a dozen or more places he fell into the hands of the officers. After some time he was able to prove that he was a legitimate collector for the company and was released. He said that he happened to be at Houghs Neck on Sunday and thinking to save himself a little work on Monday he thought it a good time to make some of the collections from the quarter meters.

It is probable that the next time he wants to save time he will do it in some other way. As it was he got quite a scare and had some difficulty in making the police believe that he was a bona fide collector.

A CHARITY LAWN FETE.

Parasols Galore —Transparent Hat Brims and Edges—A White Moire Tailormade—Black and White Rigs.

Nothing prettier can be imagined than a lawn fete on the Hudson, in city limits too mind you, though it would have been hard to convince an outsider alighting from an air ship, that the wide lawns, great spreading trees and hundred year old mansion overlooking several miles of river with its towering barrier of palisades could be even near the hot bustling metropolis, that has engulfed this and many another quiet rural neighborhood. A well-known charity for children benefited, and the whole place had an air of old-fashioned, homelike hospitality, that was a far cry from the ordinary sale.

A PRACTICAL IDEA.

Tea was served and sold in jade colored Japanese china, and plate, cup and saucer were included in the price. All in the same ware, so that many people purchased or left orders for porch sets and the Society's coffers benefited accordingly.

It seemed as everyone had donned their prettiest frock for the occasion, and there were so many novel touches that describing them all would be an endless task.

TRANSPARENT PARASOLS.

Transparent parasols of lace, net or chiffon were just right, and transparent hat brims of shirred materials, or straw brims with the new skimpy frills or flat hems of transparent net, were seen on all sides.

A LAVENDER VOILE GOWN.

A dress of lavender voile with satin of a darker shade in bands edging the tunic and making the draped girdle, that finished in a wide spreading fan at the left side in front, where the skirt parted over a lace petticoat, and the ruffles of deep cream Venice lace, which edged the wide lace collar tucked into the belt fichu fashion. The hat of lavender English straw had strings of Bishop's purple velvet that tied at the back and floated down below the waist, was topped by deep green foliage and yellow roses. The parasol was unlined lace.

A MOIRE TAILORMADE.

Perhaps the most noticed get up was a tailormade coat dress of white moire worn with a leghorn hat caught back from the face with a panache of small ostrich tips in black.

BLACK AND WHITE.

The rigs of black and white stripes in voiles, were endless and each style seemed more fetching than the last. All sorts of devices were used to change the direction of the stripes and a touch of vivid contrasting color in the trimmings was the rule. The parasol, often in pagoda shape, was either to match this color, or in black or white, but the color note was most effective.

PAINLESS BULLET

Produces Sweet Sleep. Army Men Have Not Volunteered to Experiment

Alexander F. Humphrey of Pittsburgh is endeavoring to impress the war department with the desirability of equipping the U. S. army with his new sleep producing bullet.

According to the claims of the inventor, Humphrey sedative bullet is coated with a preparation of morphine which renders it painless for a time after it has entered the body. Instantaneous pain at the moment of impact and then sweet dreamless sleep is promised for the enemy who stops one o. the new projectiles

At the war department it is stated that no officers or men of the army have yet volunteered their bodies for experiment as targets for Humphrey's pellets.

RAN WITH LETTER TO FIREMEN

Brockton Italian Woman Used Fire Box for Mail Box

Fire apparatus from two Brockton stations had a long run Monday afternoon all because a woman tried to mail a letter in box 312, at Pine and Thatcher streets. The woman had never mailed a leter before, having only recently come from Italy. When she saw the fire apparatus coming down the street at break-neck speed she ran out and tried to hand the letter to one of the firemen, wondering all the time why it was necessary to have so much commotion.

The woman convinced the police that next time she wanted to mail a letter she would go to the right place. It was impossible to make out her name, and it mattered but little, the authorities figured

CRACKERS
For All Occasions

When one who is not familiar with our cracker department, pays it a visit, they are truly amazed at the vast variety we have to offer. There is not an occasion when a cracker of any particular sort is demanded, that we cannot supply from this department. A most varied fresh stock of quality describes it in a few words.

DENIES GUILT ADMITS CHARGES

Archbald Takes Protection Under Claimed Technicalities

Washington, July 30.—Sitting as a court of impeachment, the senate adjourned after hearing Judge Robert W. Archbald's formal answer to the charges against him without deciding if the trial shall go on this summer or be postponed until the fall.

Judge Archbald denied that he ever had used his office or his influence as a judge for profit, that he ever undertook for a consideration to compromise litigation before the interstate commerce commission, that he ever wrongfully used his position to obtain credit from litigants before him, or that he had undertaken to carry on a general business for profit or speculation in coal properties, as charged in the house indictment.

To each of the thirteen articles of impeachment Judge Archbald replied that none, even if true, constituted an impeachable offense, a high crime or a misdemeanor as defined by the constitution. Many statements contained in the allegations were not disputed, while others were totally denied and annuliment of others was asked on the ground that they were too vague to admit of proper defense.

German Excursionists Drown When Wharf Gives Way With Them

Binz, Ger., July 30.—A shocking catastrophe, causing the death of a large number of excursionists, occurred at this Baltic bathing resort. The landing stage, which was crowded to its utmost capacity during a concert given by the local band, collapsed and threw over a hundred people into the sea.

Twenty-one bodies have been recovered, but it is believed that many more people lost their lives. The excursionists had come from all parts of northeastern Prussia to spend the day on the seashore.

SWAMPSCOTT RATE RAISED

Swampscott's tax rate is $16 an increase of $1. The assessors say that the rise is principally due to the erection of the Edington street schoolhouse, which will cost $100,000. The total valuation is $12,381,405, an increase of $559,388; personal property, $2,974,081, $202,914 increase; real estate, $9,307,325, an increase of $256,474. The value of buildings erected since last year is $253,863. The number of polls this year is 1,741, 105 additional.

CHANGING THE RIVER COURSE

A Welcome Undertaking Which Every One Approves

IT WILL COST $150,000

The changing of the Neponset River from a shallow, crooked and more or less malarial water course into a sanitary one, with a good many less crooks and turns than it has at present is expected to begin within the next 20 days, plans for the work having been adopted by the State Board of Health.

The work, which will cost approximately $150,000, is to be finished by October 31, 1913, when the entire region through which the river flows, from Foxboro to the sea, will have become not only habitable but healthy. A conspicuous feature of the work will be the reclaiming of 2000 acres of unsanitary meadow land in Milton, Dedham, Westwood, Canton, Norwood and Sharon.

The plans to be followed are in the main those prepared 17 years ago, after a survey by an engineer of the State Board of Health. They involve a deepening and straightening of the channel of the river from Pleasant street, Norwood, to the dam at Hyde Park, 12 miles. A score or more of bends will be eliminated by digging a new course for the river, the old crooked course being in each case filled in.

At one point alone, in Canton, a tortuous channel that now measures 5000 feet will be reduced to 1000 feet by straightening. There will be dredging under bridges of every kind that cross the river. The material removed from the new channel will be used to fill up such portions of the old channel as are to be abandoned and to build up the lowlands along the course of the river to the grade required by the plans.

The dredging required will not be deep enough to weaken the foundations of any bridges or to disturb the Norwood sewage filter system. The channels of the Canton River and Traphole Brook will be improved in the vicinity of their outlets.

The work is calculated to insure draining the meadows in the wet seasons and keeping them dry in Summer.

BOY SLAYERS HELD

Plea of Not Guilty Entered For Two Lawrence Children

Lawrence, Mass., July 30.—After spending the night in a cell in the police station, during which they cried themselves to sleep, Henry Talbot, 12, and Henry Le Blanc, 11, were brought into court to face a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of their playmate, Louis Dion, 11, who "gave his consent" to be shot by Henry Talbot.

The two youngsters presented a pitiful spectacle as they were arraigned before Judge Rowell. Tears coursed down their cheeks in steady streams and their sobs echoed through the courtroom as they listened with awe and fright to the reading of the charge against them.

A plea of not guilty was entered for the youths and their cases were continued until today to be heard before the juvenile session.

JAPAN MOURNS LOVED RULER

Was The Great Reformer of Japan, Developing It From Wild to Civilized Country—Only Three Living Monarchs Have Reigned Longer—Did Not Walk Until 16—Born In 1852 and Reigned 45 Years

Tokio, July 30.—Emperor Mutsuhito has succumbed to his long illness, dying on the anniversary of the signing of the original treaty between Japan and the United States. Acute nephritis was given as the cause of death.

Mutsuhito, Emperor of Japan, revered by his subjects almost as a demi-god, possessed a personality of which but little was generally known. Of a quiet, unassuming nature, yet possessed of a will of iron, he accomplished great reforms. As a statesman he commanded the respect of the nations of the world. As a leader of his people in peace and in war he was loved and feared. To his virtues they attributed the victories over their enemies by land and sea. To his wisdom they credited the advance of ancient Japan to a place in the front ranks of nations. His reign began in 1867 and outlasted that of all but two or three living monarchs. Under the rule of Mutsuhito, Japan enjoyed an unprecedented era of prosperity. Civilization has made rapid strides. The arts and ideas of the western world have been adopted and Japan has emerged from darkness into light.

Mutsuhito was born in Kyoto, Nov. 3, 1852. He was the second son of Emperor Komei and succeeded to the throne on the death of his father in 1867, becoming the 121st Emperor of Japan.

In 1869, Matsuhito married the Princess Haru; daughter of a noble of high rank. He leaves one son, the Crown Prince Yoshihito, and four daughters. His predecessors lived in a complete mystery, but that custom has been changed. Mutsuhito was five feet seven inches tall, a good height for one of his race, and was of rather heavy build. His eyes and hair were coal black and his beard was worn long and narrow. He walked rather stiffly, due to the fact that his physical education did not begin until the was 16 years old. At that time he was first permitted to walk and it is said that he is the first Emperor of Japan for 500 years who acquired the art of foot exercise.

Haruko, the Empress of Japan, who is universally admired for her goodness and her graces, has never been a mother, much to her sorrow and to the regret of her subjects. But the emperor has had fifteen children by his concubines, and they are all legitimate under the laws of Japan. Most of them died in their infancy. Five of them were sons and four of them were born of the Countess Yanagiwara, mother of the prince imperial.

Prince Yoshihito was born Aug. 11, 1879, and was married in 1900 to the Princess Sada, daughter of Prince Kuo. They have three children, all boys.

Everybody speaks well of the new emperor as a young man of liberal views and progressive tendencies. He has been carefully educated by men of broad ideas, and has been especially trained for the responsibilities which he will have to assume.

The new emperor is the son of one of those twelve court ladies whom Japanese ceremonial custom has made the morganatic wives of the emperor. Under the constitution of Japan the emperor is allowed to nominate his own successor, who must be of royal blood, but not necessarily his own son nor the son of the empress.

Crown Prince Yohihito's accession to the throne was proclaimed at once. His coronation, however, may not take place for a year or more. No trouble is anticipated in connection with the change of rulers.

No immediate reorganization of the cabinet is expected, but probably it will not be many weeks before Marquis Saionji retires as premier in favor of his predecessor in office, Prince Katsura. This has been booked for a good while.

BOSTON STRIKE IS SETTLED

Believed Old Men Will Return to Work This Week

Boston, July 30.—The strike against the Boston Elevated road is considered ended.

The seven weeks of industrial warfare, marked with bitterness and rioting, and which cost more than $1,000,000 came to official close yesterday afternoon, when the directors of the company voted to accept the peace terms as ratified by the strikers Saturday night.

The strikers are victorious. They have secured the full recognition of the union and the submission of all differences to arbitration. Last night the company waived the last point at issue. This provided that the organization should name one of the two arbitrators to determine the settlement of grievances. The only question now is when the men will return to work. This will be decided by the state board of arbitration.

It is now asserted that the "L" loyalists will not go on strike against the company even if the striking members of the carmen's union are allowed to return to work with their ratings.

Neither will the loyalists delay the settlement of the strike by opposing any part of the agreement ratified by the striking carmen and the Boston Elevated directors before it goes before the state board of conciliation and arbitration.

FAINTED IN COURT

On Seeing Husband's Condition Mrs. Grace Succumbs

Atlanta, July 30.—The first day of the trial of Mrs. Daisie Ulrich Opie Grace; formerly of Philadelphia, charged with drugging and shooting her handsome husband last March, was featured by the collapse of the defendant when Eugene Grace, paralyzed from the wound, was borne in the courtroom on a stretcher.

It was the one dramatic feature of an otherwise rather dull day in court.

BURNED WIFE AND BABY

Man Kicked Lighted Lamp in Wife's Hands

Boston, July 30.—His hands swathed in bandages, seemingly taking little interest in what was going on about him, William Drislane was held without bail for the grand jury, charged with the murder of his wife and 3-weeks-old baby, John, at their home at 6 Woodbury street, Roxbury, when he kicked a lighted lamp out of his wife's hand, causing her clothes to catch fire, which resulted in the death of mother and infant she was carrying at the time.

Mrs. Drislane had been walking the floor with the baby in her arms, endeavoring to lull it to sleep. At 1:30 a. m., with the lamp in one hand and the baby on the other arm, she started down cellar to procure milk for the infant. Drislane kicked the lamp from her hand while she was on the stairs. To the police he said that it was in fun and that he meant no harm. Neighbors declare that he had been making a disturbance all night.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SOME WHITE CAKES.

DURING the summer cake is always in demand. Fruit tastes so much better if served with a piece of dainty pastry. Cakes that are light in weight and attractive in appearance are preferred, and many people think that a white cake is the most desirable.

Here are some recipes for white cakes that are worth trying:

Alpine Cake.—Take the whites of ten eggs beaten stiff. Then stir into the eggs one and a half teacupfuls white sugar. Add the juice of one lemon and two teaspoonfuls extract of bitter almond. Stir gently into this one and a half teacupfuls of flour, having one measure baking powder mixed thoroughly in the dry flour. Make an icing and spread over the top when baked. This makes an elegant cake and is economical when eggs are cheap.

Small Cakes.

White Cake.—Take three cups of sifted flour, one and one-half cups of sugar, one cup of sweet milk, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two teaspoonfuls of cream tartar, one teaspoonful of soda and a little essence of lemon. Beat the butter and sugar to a cream, then add the milk (in which the soda should be dissolved), the egg well beaten and the essence. Mix with the above two cups of the flour, and lastly add the third cup in which the cream of tartar has been stirred. Then bake in small pans in a quick oven.

Snow Flakes.—Take half a tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, the whites of two eggs, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one saltspoonful of salt, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one cupful of milk. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Cream the butter and sugar with a little of the milk. Add the whites of the eggs well beaten, next the milk and last the flour. Bake this batter in hot, buttered gem pans from twenty to thirty minutes.

An Arrowroot Cake.

Scotch White Cake.—Take a pound of arrowroot, a quarter of a pound of powdered white sugar, half a pound of butter, the whites of six eggs, flavoring to taste of essence of almonds or vanilla or lemon. Beat the butter to a cream; stir in the sugar and arrowroot graduaHy, at the same time beating the mixture; whisk the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth; add them to the other ingredients and beat well for twenty minutes. Pour the cake into a buttered mold and bake it in a moderate oven from one to one and one-half hours.

FIRELESS COOKERY.

THE fireless cooker is such a convenience in hot weather that even if you do not feel like going to the expense of buying one of the well equipped cookers which are sold in the shops you can easily make a substitute that will serve at least some purposes.

A handy cooker may be made from one of the empty wooden candy buckets which are often sold at the grocer's for a small sum. The cover must be tight fitting, and it is well to make it double, with the inner one fitting down inside. Leather hinges will do to fasten the lid to the bucket.

Cross strips should be put on the lid for fear the steam may warp it. Paper the bucket several times inside and out.

A packing of excelsior is then put around the cooking vessel, which must have a tight fitting lid also.

Start the cooking on the stove, and then place the vessel in the cooker, surrounding it with the excelsior and fastening the lid down.

Uses of the Cooker.

On hot days water may be kept warm indefinitely in a cooker of this sort.

A tight fitting box filled with hay and having a cover also makes a good fireless cooker.

Cereals if needed for breakfast may be put in the fireless cooker overnight. They should have a start of five minutes on the range and should be transferred to the cooker very quickly.

Soups or stews after being started on the fire will be ready for use after five or six hours in the cooker.

When beans are to be baked let them soak several hours, then boil them for about ten minutes and leave in the cooker for six hours. Take out and brown in the oven.

When boiling ham, soak overnight, scrape, boil on the fire for thirty minutes, and let it continue to boil for eight hours in the fireless cooker.

Eliminating Odors.

Fish may be boiled without the odor pervading the house as follows: Roll in cheesecloth after it has been cleaned and prepared for cooking. Tie the cloth and drop into boiling water into which salt and a little vinegar have been added. Let it boil on the stove for five minutes and place it in the fireless cooker for two or three hours. Drain and serve with fish sauce.

CHARGES AGAINST SENATOR

Warren of Wyoming Said to Have Illegally Used Position

Washington, July 30.—That Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming is guilty of the illegal fencing in of some hundreds of thousands of acres of public lands in his home state, and that the report on the matter which was made by Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock to President Roosevelt was a "whitewash"—these two facts are the findings of a sub-committee of the house committee on expenditures in the interior department.

The author of the reports is Representative Hensley of Missouri and the rumor it that some time before the conclusion of this session the full committee will make public its conclusions. During the past two years many charges against Senator Warren have been filed with various members of congress. These charges are to the same general effect, namely:

That the chairman of the appropriations committee has been making use of his official position in Washington to further his own personal fortunes. Another story, which has been under investigation by the house committee on expenditures in the war department, of which Representative Helm of Kentucky is chairman, is that Senator Warren has been pasturing his sheep on land purchased by the government at his request for a rifle range, and that the washings from the land thus used by Warren's flocks have poisoned the Cheyenne water supply, giving typhoid fever to many of the residents.

Too True.

A popular clergyman in an address on generosity in New York said:

"A woman remarked to me the other day:

"'Mrs. Blank is very shabby this spring. Mr. Blank adores the ground she walks on, yet he won't allow her enough to dress decently.'

"'Ah, madam,' I replied. 'It isn't always the devoutest worshiper who puts the most money in the collection plate.'"—New York Tribune.

The most delicate, the most sensible, of all pleasures consists in promoting the pleasures of others.—Bruyere.

BECKER HELD FOR MURDER

Lieutenant Accused of Gambler Rosenthal's Death

PROMISED SAFETY TO TOOLS

Charles Becker Held For Murder In First Degree Upon the Confession of "Bald" Jack Rose, "Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon—Rose Also Implicates Officials Higher Up In Gambling Graft

New York, July 30.—Lieutenant Charles Becker was arrested last night and held by Judge Mulqueen for murder in the first degree after Jack Rose, Becker's collector of gambling money, had confessed that the police lieutenant had ordered to have Rosenthal killed.

The arrest and arraignment of Becker followed swiftly after Rose's confession and the confessions of "Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon, who corroborated Rose in important points.

District Attorney Whitman questioned the three prisoners for four hours yesterday afternoon and in the evening pounded one against the other until they all broke down and said that Rosenthal was shot down in front of the Metropole by a hired gang because Lieutenant Becker wanted it done. The grand jury acted quickly thereafter, holding the first night session of that body for eighteen years.

Rose's confession, the most vital of the three, details how Becker three weeks ago told him that Rosenthal had lived too long, that Rosenthal had to be put out of the way and that the men who did the job had nothing to fear because he, Becker, was a power in the police department.

So Rose went out and spread the word that the strong arm commander said that Rosenthal must be killed. He dropped hints here and there, he did more, he sent for Big Jack Selig and held conferences with that notorious gang leader of the East Side. Through Selig ranging downward through the strata of thugs and hired assassins the arrangements were completed.

The four men who pistolled Rosenthal by this arrangement were Whitey Lewis, Lefty Louie, Dago Frank and Gib the Blood. Rose admits that he rounded them up that night and saw that they were prepared. It was for this purpose that the gray car of Libby and Shapiro was used. Rose is not sure, however, that they escaped in the gray car, but he points to Becker's promises of protection as a proof that the murderers did go clear of the police that night.

The general manager of the killing, Rose, called Becker up by 'phone a few minutes after Rosenthal was dead on the sidewalk in front of the Metropole. He told Becker that it was a horrible thing. He said it was more than he expected. He was frightened clear to his heart and he was afraid to stir without a word of confidence from his master. And Becker said over the telephone while he was making preparations for a hurried trip down to the Tenderloin, "Oh, don't worry, I'll protect you. There won't be much fuss over this."

A few minutes later in the shadows of the Murray Hill baths in Forty-Second street, just west of Sixth avenue, Lieutenant Becker, calm and collected, and with perfect confidence in his reassurance to the nervous and trembling Rose, said, "Don't you be worried about this mattetr. I'll see to it that none of the boys get into jail."

The bald gambler, who included in his confession a frank statement that for a long time he had been collecting money from gambling houses, not only for Lieutenant Becker, but for officials higher up in the police department, swears he did not know that murder was to be done on the night his hired thugs met at Bridgie Webber's and sat there waiting for the signal that Rosenthal, the squealer, the man who had shouted to the whole city that Becker had been his gambling partner and had betrayed him, was about to leave the Metropole.

Dockers Still on Strike

London, July 30.—The refusal of the dock workers in London to obey the manifesto issued by the strike leaders on Saturday declaring the strike at an end, after it had lasted ten weeks, was given practical effect when very few of the men returned to work. The strikers are generally of the opinion that their leaders have betrayed them into an unconditional surrender.

President Will Not Interfere

Washington, July 30.—Republican leaders of the Taft forces in Ohio have been advised by Carmi Thompson, President Taft's secretary, that under no circumstances would the president interfere in the naming of a candidate to succeed Judge E. B. Dillon, who rejected the Republican nomination for governor.

When a Deacon Broke Loose

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

There were only 600 inhabitants in the village of Glendale when the first meeting house, as they still call it in the country, was erected. Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians and Adventists went in together in the building and used it alternately. As the village grew the different denominations built churches for themselves, and finally the old church was left to one. This happened to be the poorest one financially, and it wasn't in human nature to look around on the newer edifices and not feel a bit envious.

As a matter of fact, the old meeting house was little better than a barracks.

"I reckon any one can praise the Lord from the midst of a brush heap in the woods, but I also reckon that he can do it with a leetle more steam in a comfortable meeting house," said Deacon Pegram.

The deacon was the financial man of the church, but it was years and years before he saw his way clear for the erection of a new edifice. Several freight cars loaded with cement got smashed up in the suburbs of the town, and the deacon was told to help himself.

He got wagon loads of the stuff, for that new meeting house was to be a concrete one. The concrete industry was then in its infancy, but Deacon Pegram had found a man to put the matter through and guarantee a satisfactory job.

Uriah struck town, and things were changed. He knew all about the cement business and was ready to take off his coat and carry the job through if any family would board him gratis in return. Deacon Pegram jumped at the chance. Uriah was told to eat all he could and go to the head of the class and manage things. He took hold as if he had dabbled in cement all his life. Uriah hustled. He made everybody else hustle. If any one lagged he was right on the spot to say:

"Now, then, don't do no loafing on the Lord. This is his job, and he expects things to move lively."

We all know now, though few knew at that time, that there are several grades of cement and that cement workers do not shovel sand and cement together in a haphazard way. There must be due proportions, according to the work to be done. Uriah simply went ahead and shoveled. Providence stood back of him with dry weather until the walls were ready for the roof, and then she got tired of a good thing. There were those who said the blocks were too soft and others who thought they could see bulges in the walls and still others who predicted that two hours' rain would spoil everything, but to all such Deacon Pegram said:

"Didn't the floods rage and the lumber come down?"

"Yes."

"Didn't we discover the sand pit in the nick of time?"

"Yes."

"Didn't Brother Higgs see the error of his ways just when we were wondering what we should do for the bricks?"

"He did."

"And didn't Providence ordain that those freight cars should be smashed up and the cement scattered over an acre of ground?"

"It looks like it."

"And then came Uriah Kingston. At the crossroads he might have turned to the left and gone to Liverpool, but Providence guided him to the right and to us."

"But it may rain, and if it does"—

"It will not rain for a month to come Providence won't permit it to."

The deacon talked that way and believed what he talked, and Uriah talked and believed still stronger. And then the rain descended. It set in at dark one day and came down in a way to soak things. Just at daylight next morning, with the rain still coming down, the two men crept forth to see how it fared with the enterprise. There were no walls left. In place of them was a small lake of mud. Every last block of concrete had melted in the rain. The deacon and Uriah stood and gazed for five long minutes like men stupefied.

And then Deacon Pegram broke loose. It was years ago, but they still date things from that day. He whooped. He threw down his hat and jumped on it. He knocked Uriah down and jumped on him. As people came out to see what the trouble was he threw them into the lake of mud and whooped again. He went home and kicked his dog and cuffed his wife's ears, and then he ran amuck through the streets and tore gates off their hinges and uprooted sidewalks. Men ran and women dodged, and it took two lightning rod men and a chicken buyer to tie him up. He continued to whoop until his voice gave out, and for three days he was expected to die. These three days allowed Uriah Kingston to get sixty miles away and the lake of mud to crust over. The deacon's pastor called when things had quieted down, and, laying his hand on the patient's head, he softly said:

"Brother Pegram, I trust you haven't lost your faith in Providence."

"Oh, no," was the reply. "I am sure that Providence has planned for us to use the old meeting house until the roof falls in and then to rent a barn somewhere."

In time the roof did cave in, but no barn was rented. The congregation went over to the Baptists.

BODY OF NURSE FOUND

Discovered In Catskill Creek but Cause of Death Unknown

Catskill, N. Y., July 30.—The body of the woman found in the mud of Catskill creek here was positively identified as that of Miss Dorcas Ijams Snodgrass, the missing Mt. Vernon nurse.

The name "Snodgrass" on the band of an underskirt furnished the conclusive link in the identification.

Mrs. James R. Crider of Mt. Vernon, sister of the missing girl, said that the description of the Catskill creek victim fitted that of Miss Snodgrass and that if the name could be found on the underclothing the identification would be complete. The word "Snodgrass" was plainly legible and blurred marks made it apparent that "Dorcas" and "I." were washed out by the water, in which physicians said the body had been for at least four days.

The body was clad in a linen crash suit. A diamond ring was on the second finger of the left hand and a Christian Endeavor Junior pin was found. Mrs. Crider said that her sister wore an engagement ring and also had an Endeavor pin, while the crash dress and the shoes on the dead girl were the same as those worn by Miss Snodgrass when she left Mt. Vernon a week ago last Thursday.

THANK YOU!

STANDARD OIL TAKES BIG JUMP

Stock Floated to the $1,000 Per Share Mark

Wall street saw the high water mark of $1,000 a share made for old Standard Oil stock Monday. The financial district has been looking forward to this event ever since the dissolution of the trust last December.

In the meantime the subsidiaries have advanced in some cases as high as 3000 per cent but Standard Oil has been comparatively slower in its boom.

At $1000 a share the market value of the old company, including subsidiaries, is represented by approximately $1,000,000,000, the capital outstanding of the disintegrated trusts being about $100,000,000.

When the dissolution took place the market value of the old stock was $675 a share, or a total market value for the entire capital of $675,000,000.

John D. Rockefeller owns about one-quarter of the old stock, or 250,000 shares. Therefore, the increased valuation has meant $81,250,000 more for him.

—Change of climate is often beneficial, but in the majority of cases change of habit is more to be desired. Few men and women who live in society and the business world order their lives according to the laws of health. They eat too much, sleep too little, and "put their money into a bag with holes." The result is that they work too hard to gain that which is not bread, and are weary, not with well doing, but with the vain attempt to burn the candle at both ends and still make it last out the appointed time. Change of climate is often good for its own sake. but more often it is good because it breaks the routine of injurious habit and gives mind and body a chance to return to normal ways. Vicious people commonly know why they suffer, but the good often endure the penalty of broken law and do not know why. The nerves of a saint may cry out with pain that is self-inflicted. Change of climate is good, especially good when it is accompanied with a change of the climate of the mind which brings rest and peace where before were worry and vexation of spirit.—Christian Register.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDACIES

Pelletier and Foss Vie With Each Other In Radicalism

THIER ACTS MUCH CRITICISED

Pelletier's Attack on Courts Unprecedented In a Prosecutor In This State—"Appeal to Labor Vote," Say Many

It is apparent that the Democratic party has on hand one of the hottest contests over the nomination for governor in the history of the party. Those who thought that District Attorney Pelletier would withdraw from the fight as soon as he learned that Governor Foss was to be a candidate have been greatly mistaken. Thus far Mr. Pelletier shows no indication of making way for Governor Foss. As a matter of fact he declares as insistently now as he did at the beginning that he is in the fight to the finish. Undoubtedly the contest will be waged with great persistency and energy on both sides. While the Democratic machine is for Foss it is apparently not so strongly committed to his candidacy at present as to embarrass their friends. It is said by some Democrats that this will be an opportunity for Governor Foss to make his own canvass for the nomination.

It has been apparent for some time that while the Democratic machine was supporting the governor the rank and file of the party had no great love for him. What it has done may have been done as a matter of policy.

Meanwhile the rivalry between the two candidates increases rather than diminishes. As one Democrat stated, they are apparently running a race to determine which one dares to go farthest in the direction of radicalism. This man stated that the lure of the gubernatorial nomination seemed to be irresistably strong with both, and that to all appearances each is determined to capture the labor vote at the state primaries even if it becomes necessary to alienate every conservative Democrat in the commonwealth.

Rivalry Over the Strike

This exhibition of rivalry in radicalism has arisen between Mr. Pelletier and Mr. Foss over the strike of the car men connected with the Boston Elevated railway. The district attorney started the strife for radical support by summoning before the grand jury some of the superintendents and other officials of the Elevated on the charge of having given false testimony before the board of arbitration and conciliation. This was followed shortly after by a report of this board finding against the Elevated railway in the strike. Governor Foss in an evident endeavor to compete with Mr. Pelletier immediately issued a statement severely attacking the Boston Elevated. The governor sought to make arrangements with the higher courts for the immediate trial of the appealed cases of strikers held by the lower courts for various offences committed in the course of the strike.

Immediately Mr. Pelletier issued a statement attacking the governor for trying to dictate to the courts in this matter declaring that it was a matter lying within the jurisdiction of the district attorney. He made this an occasion for a sensational attack upon the lower courts for the nature of the sentences imposed on the strikers brought before them for misdemeanors. He criticised the sentences imposed in the severest language as altogether too harsh and unreasonable, although he had not heard the evidence, and the lower courts had.

It must be confessed that the bench and the bar have been astounded at the attitude of both governor and the district attorney. In both cases there is said to be absoutely no precedent for such a descent from the dignity of a high office. The comments of lawyers and of judges upon the conduct of Mr. Pelletier have been most severe and the newspapers also have condemned the conduct of each of them.

"The Governor's Sinister Attitude"

The Boston Transcript heads an editorial article dealing with the governor's action in this matter with the following words: "The Governor's Sinister Attitude." The Transcript article reads in part as follows: "As he (Foss) is in the lists once more for the governorship he needs something to re-establish himself in favor with the labor vote, which he has forfeited by his veto of the peaceful picketing bill and the double train crew bill. He finds this situation ready to his hand and he is making the most of it. Success would provide him with a political offset and tend to restore one of the advantages he has lost with that element. Consistency and sincerity are not matters that trouble him. Having reconsidered his former decision not to run again for the governorship it becomes necessary for him to patch up the weak places at whatever sacrifices to public interests or fundamental justice."

Pelletier's Attitude Condemned

The statements of Mr. Pelletier have aroused equally severe criticisms. The careful Boston Transcript says in an editorial article: The more or less common toast in certain Bohemian circles has been, 'Success to Crime.'" Of course under such circumstances no one takes it seriously. It is a joke, though a poor one; but when the manifesto by the district attorney of Boston, acting in his official capacity, will admit of no other interpretation than the one expressed by the reckless toast it ceases to be a joke and becomes a very serious and menacing matter. Mr. Pelletier is running a desperate race with a fellow demagogue for the Democratic nomination for governor, and he begins bidding for the prize by conclusively showing himself unfit for the place he now occupies. "For a prosecuting officer to criticise the courts where criminal cases are tried and condemn their action is a shocking impropriety whose effect upon the courts of justice cannot be otherwise than extremely demoralizing."

Judge John D. Fallon of South Boston said in regard to Pelletier's attack upon the courts, "I am surprised beyond expression. I could not think of forming an opinion in a case before it had been tried before me, and to make an advance statement to the press is an astounding breach of legal ethics." Judge Charles M. Bruce of the Malden district court simply said in regard to Mr. Pelletier's attack, "Mr. Pelletier is running for governor."

Attorney General Parker Says, "Unprecendented"

Former Attorney General Herbert Parker said, "Voluntary assurances of promises of remission of sentences extended to persons against whom adjudications of guilt have been rendered by courts of competent authority is, I think, an unprecendented incident in the administration of a district attorney in Massachusetts, and when such assurance is accompanied by intemperate and indiscriminate denunciation of the official conduct of the judges who have heard and considered the evidence upon which their judgments were pronounced, a justifiable fear is excited that the prosecuting officer has forgotten the stern requirements of his duty, 'that he know neither fear or favor, and shall suffer no color of personal interest or ambition to taint his thought or conduct,' and above all, shall himself maintain that proper respect for the law and the court which he must himself impress upon those who are accused of its violation."

Hon. Chas. T. Gallagher said, "That is certainly a most remarkable statement from a district attorney. It is the talk of a politician running for office and is plainly an attempt to cater to the criminal classes."

$50,000 TO SHOW GRATITUDE.

City of Peru, Ind., Remembered by Tourist It Once Befriended.

To reward those who befriended him a quarter century ago, when he toured Indiana on a bicycle, E. Nicholas Churchill of Joliet, Ill., intends to spend $50,000 upon the City of Peru for the benefit of its citizens. A letter addressed to a newspaper states that Churchill's attorneys will make the distribution next Christmas.

According to the letter, the man of new found wealth will give to Peru a $5,000 drinking fountain, $20,000 for a hospital, $10,000 for a children's home and sums as follows to friends who aided him twenty-four years ago: One thousand dollars to each of Julius Woor's sisters, $1,000 to Mrs. A. B. Weckler, $15,000 to Mrs. Mary Morris, a widow with six children; $1,000 to Mrs. Dunn, J. J. Dunn's mother; $1,000 to Mary Lockwood, who gave him $1; $1,000 to Mrs. J. A. Marsh, who gave him a drink of milk; $1,000 to each of Anna Landgrave's sisters, $1,000 to George C. Strode for dinner and $1,000 to the Joe Conham estate for soup.

Churchill, the lawyers assert, recently inherited a fortune of several millions by the death of a relative in England. The man was found by Scotland Yard detectives after a ten year search.

Congressman McCall Introduces Resolution Asking For Information

Washington, July 30.—Reports of atrocities in the rubber district of Peru led Representative McCall of Massachusetts, Republican, to introduce a resolution calling upon the state department to furnish all information on the subject in its possession. The resolution was referred to the foreign affair committee. The state department now has an agent on the way to Peru to investigate.

Lima, Peru, July 30.—In his message to congress, President Leguia, after calling attention to the good relations which Peru has maintained with other countries, referred to the fact that the British government was much concerned in the Putumay district in connection with the rubber industry. He added that the Peruvian government had sent special commissions to investigate the crimes, punish the offenders and prepare a general plan for reforms.

STEAMERS CRASH

with the rescued passengers about 8.30 A. M., an experience which none of them care to repeat.

Herbert T. Whitman, the well-known civil engineer, who resides at 129 Grand View avenue, Wollaston, was a passenger on the City of Rockland and gave a very vivid account of the collision in an interview with a Ledger reporter this morning.

"We were about 18 miles outside of Portsmouth at the time," said Mr. Whitman, "and nearly everybody on board was asleep. It was very foggy and our ship, in command of Captain Blaihe, was heavily laden, both with passengers and freight. About midnight we were all awakened by a sudden crash. The impact was clearly perceptible and for a time it seemed as if disaster was imminent.

"Our ship had collided with a huge coal barge and the crash was soon known to all on board. But the officers on board the City of Rockland were equal to the occasion and it was their remarkable presence of mind that prevented a panic, and averted all signs of despair or fear among the passengers. We were all ordered to the upper deck. The life boats were manned in quick order and the word was passed to have all the women on board placed in the life boats.

"All were taken on board the coal barge, which had not suffered any damage as a result of the collision.

"Everyone was taken from the crashed steamer in safety and the only time that there seemed slight danger was when one of the lifeboats overturned in some manner or other and its occupants twenty in number were thrown into the water. But the life savers were quick to go to the rescue and it was reported that all on board had been saved.

"After the passengers had been rescued, the gaggage was taken from the steamer. Most of the passengers were lightly attired when rescued. The City of Rockland was badly damaged.

"The prow on the port side was smashed and it did seem as if she would sink as a result of the water pouring in through the opening.

"We were kept on board the coal barge, where we awaited the arrival of the City of Belfast, which took us to our destination in safety. It certainly was a trying experience, yet too much credit cannot be given to the officers of the boat, whose heroic work saved the lives f all passengers, without the slightest confusion being manifested."

Mr. Whitman further said that when the crash came he rushed on deck and stood near the Captain as the latter cried out "man the lifeboats, and lower them." Then he realized the seriousness of the collision. The Rockland was not equipped with wireless but the Captain ordered the distress signal sounded, four blows on the whistle. This was heard by the Belfast of the same line which immediately came to the rescue. It could not have been over ten minutes, said Mr. Whitman, after the crash than the water filled the engine room and the fires and lights went out.

"No one will probably ever know how much passengers lost during the excitement for the first alarm was a signal for the thieves to get at work, and as a result of their work many passengers lost their money and valuables. When the crash came of course everybody rushed out of their state rooms to see what the trouble was. Some took the precaution to lock their rooms as they came out, but that seemed to make no difference for when they returned a few minutes later for their baggage many found that the state rooms had been entered and their baggage rifled of all valuables."

Mr. Whitman heard one woman say that she had been relieved of over $100 in money and another lost a watch which in the hurry had been left on the berth for a few minutes. Many others had the same story to tell of their bags and dress suit cases being opened and valuables taken.

"Many of the passengers in their hurry to get off did not use the usual methods of reaching the life boats but jumped from the deck, some of the younger persons were caught by those in the life boats but others landed in the water and were later rescued. We were first taken aboard the Chisholm and when the Belfast arrived she came along side and we boarded her by means of a gang plank." Notwithstanding the fact that some of the crew were green men, Mr. Whitman declares crew were cool and calm and that the best of discipline was maintained and there was but little confusion after the first shock.

Miss Gladys Glover, daughter of William S. Glover of 12 Lincoln avenue, Wollaston, was also a passenger on the boat but was reuctant to discuss the collision, being deeply grateful to those who had assisted in saving her life. She too, admitted that the collision was a trying experience, but added that there was no disturbance among the passengers, a fact which she attributed to the fine work of the officers, aided by the men on board.

"I was asleep at the time and the first thing I knew, I was being ushered to the coal barge. I had heard the to a life boat, and brought from there great crash and the noise which resulted was likewise heard by all. But there was no disturbance among the passengers and thus I did not entertain any fear as to my safety.

"The officers on board went about quietly and ordered the passengers to be calm and cool. The women were all given the first chance to save their lives and I cannot commend too highly the work of those who rendered their assistance in rescuing us from all danger.

"We were placed on board the coal barge and transferred to the City of Belfast, which brought us to Boston The collision took place abut midnight and it was shrtly after three o'clock this morning that we started for our destination. At that time the steamer which had been rammed was still floating."

When a friend congratulated Mr Faxon on his escape, he responded that he thought all really should be congratulated, because he realized the situation was serious. The steamer had its full complement of passengers a majority of whom were women. The men were calm and seemed to realize the gravity of the situation.

It might have been three quarters of an hour after the collision before the lights of the collier were seen, and they were a very welcome sight. Her captain manoeuvered very skilfully and instead of coming alongside, he backed his boat, so that the passengers were able to board her at the stern.

Had the collier been sunk when struck, or the bulkhead of the steamer given way, all would have been lost It was over two hours later that the City of Belfast came to the rescue and at daylight there was not a vessel in sight from the Belfast.

Probably five boats were lowered two of which capsized. One man fell overboard, but after swimming about ten minutes was rescued. A girl about 12 years old swam about 200 feet before she was rescued.

Mr. Faxon is the largest real estate owner of Quincy, and the largest stockholder of the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co., of which he is treasurer. He is an ex-commodore of the Quincy Yacht club, and as a yachtsman has had considerable experience on the water, but says it was his closest call.

MOVEMENT IN PROGRESS

A movement is on foot for a federation of all the fraternal orders and organizations of Quincy with the idea of working along lines for the mutual good and benefit of all and at the same time helping the city.

A circular setting forth the aims and objects of the movement has been sent to 36 organizations of the city. Capt. George A. Wardwell of Wollaston, past commander of John A. Boyd Camp, United Spanish War Veterans is one of the leading spirits of the enterprise.

Henry J. Matthews another past commander of the camp is chairman of the publicity committee.

Any organization is welcome to send one or two delegates to the next meeting, but it is planned that later when organization is perfected each organization will be entitled to three delegates.

Secretaries of organizations should send a list of their delegates to D. Hansen, Wollaston, and any organization which has not received a circular and desires further information should communicate with Mr. Hansen, who is secretary of the federation.

MISS EWELL PASSED AWAY

Many friends in this city will be sorry to learn of the death of Miss Elvira Ewell which took place Tuesday at her home in Halifax on the cape. She was a member of Paul J. Revere, W. R. C., 103 and a Past Noble Grand of George L. Gill Rebekah Lodge.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Unitarian church.

NOMINATION PAPERS FILED.

The nomination papers of Roger Walcott for senator from the First Norfolk district and of George L. Barnes for member of the State Central Committee have been filed with the Board of Registrars.

VETERANS ANNUAL OUTING.

The annual reunion of the Washington M. French Hose Association will be held at Norteman's, Houghs Neck, Saturday, August 24. The old veterans will go down in the early afternoon and will sport along the beach until 5 o'clock at which time dinner will be served. The committee in charge includes Fred H. French, president of the association, Frank C. Packard, Asa A. Pope, James E. Maxim and Jesse F. Curtis.

REPORTED IMPROVEMENT WHICH WILL BEAUTIFY CITY SQUARE

Rumor That Old Buildings Are to Be Replaced by Modern Structures

Nightingale Estate the One Said to Be Changed

It is reported on the street that the property, known as the Nightingale estate on the corner of Temple and Washington streets is to be developed and a business block erected on the site. The property is controlled by Lewis Bass who could not be reached this morning as he is out of town for a week. This corner has long been an eye sore to the civic beauty of City Square. Being in close proximity to the Public Library, post office and new court house its unsightliness is all the more marked. A substantial business block on the corner would make a wonderful improvement.

The building now occupying the site is old and dilapitated. That on the corner being occupied by a shoe cobbler and a Chinese laundry. The grounds are overgrown with tall weeds and grass and the estate is anything but attractive. Adjoining the corner house is another old building now used as a restaurant. If all of these buildings could be torn down and a modern block erected one can readily see what the effect on the civic beauty of the section would be.

There was another rumor in City Square that Henry M. Faxon intended to erect a business block on Washington street between his house on the corner of Washington and Coddington streets and the building formerly occupied by the street railway. Mr. Faxon when seen Tuesday however denied this rumor.

BANDANNAS IN QUANDARY

Over the Situation Existing in Brockton at Present

DEMOCRATS NOT A UNIT

The Red Bandanna party, strong in Brockton, is in a quandary. Albert M. Rollins, president of the Roosevelt committee of 100 before the Chicago convention, has refused to continue as president or a member of the new party organization, and Eldon B. Keith, Roosevelt delegate to Chicago has refused to stand as the Progressive candidate for Congress in the new 14th district, against Congressman Robert O. Harris, who seeks another term.

Ex-Mayor Charles Williamson is to get into the congressional contest on the Progressive side, and ex-Representative Edward Gilmore seeks the Democratic nomination. Thus far Gilmore is unopposed in Brockton within his party, although local party defections diminish his chances for election, leaders admit. One wing of the Democratic party is searching for a candidate to oppose Gilmore, claiming he is not of congressional timber.

LOST MONEY AND CLOTHES

Weymouth People's Tough Experience in the Wreck

CLOTHED IN BLANKETS

Mrs. C. P. Small and her son Harold Small of South Weymouth who were passengers on the Steamer City of Rockland when she bumped into the collier William C. Chisholm off Portsmouth, Monday night lost all the clothing and money they had with them on the trip.

They were returning home and were in their respective staterooms, asleep when the crash came.

With others they were awakened by the commotion and rushed on deck in their night clothing.

They did not get a chance to return to their state rooms to secure their clothing and valuables.

They were assigned places in a life boat and sent on board the collier. They were accorded kind treatment on the coal steamer. Scantily clad as they were, the officers of the ship provided them with blankets. With the blankets wrapped around them they were taken on board the steamer Belfast and when they reached Boston were forced to borrow money to buy clothing and get to their homes in South Weymouth.

George C. Staffin of Brockton, was another passenger on the Rockland who made his escape scantily attired.

150 ATTENDED WEEKLY HOP

The weekly hop of the Quincy Yacht club, held at the clubhouse, Tuesday evening was attended by more than 150 dancers. It was announced that a special car for the Yacht club will leave Quincy Square every Tuesday evening at 7.40 and return at 11.10 p. m. for the benefit of those who attend the hops.

Guests were present from Dorchester, Roxbury, Neponset, Braintree and Weymouth. The music was by Weston's orchestra and frappe was served during the evening.

The committee in charge comprised ex-commodore Henry F. Crane, George L. F. Tupper, Andrew F. Burrill and Elmer F. Ricker.

LANGELIER A CANDIDATE

Seeking Republican Nomination For the Senate

PAPERS BEING CIRCULATED

Roger Wolcott of Milton who has had things his own way up to the present time in his efforts to secure Republican nomination for Senator from the First Norfolk district to succeed George L. Barnes of Weymouth who retires this year, is to have some opposition. There have been several rumors that ex-Representative Louis

LOUIS F. R. LANGELIER
Candidate for Republican Senatorial Nomination

F. R. Langelier of Atlantic was to enter the contest, but it was not until this noon that it became definitely known that he intended to enter the fight.

Mr. Langelier took out nomination papers this morning and today they are being circulated throughout the district.

Ex-Representative Langelier is the president of the Republican city committee and has long been an earnest worker for the party cause. He served the sixth district in the legislature for three years. He is connected with the Educational Publishing Co. of Boston.

HOODLUMS BREAK LIGHTS

Make Trouble For Electric Co. in Maintaining

SERVICE AT SQUANTUM

The Electric Light Co. is experiencing the usual summer difficulty in keeping the street lights burning on the Squantum causeway owing to the breaking of the light globes by hoodlums. Five nights in succession now the lights have been broken by these hoodlums who take delight in throwing rocks at them. Unless the police can protect the lights the company threaten to cut off the lights on the causeway.

DISTRICT COURT.

Patrick Donnelly was fined $10, James Gallagher and William J. McNaught $15 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

BERC GIRL TOLD STORY OF ALLEGED CRIMINAL ASSAULT

Crowded Court Room Awaited the Recital With Another Crowd Outside

Young Girls Eagerly Sought Admission to the Hearing

The district courtroom was taxed to its uttermost capacity this morning by a crowd of morbid persons who desired to hear the evidence in the cases of Joseph Fitzgerald, Charles Starr, Arthur B. Mulligan, Arthur Bavin and Louis Ross charged with criminal assault upon Mary Berg and with robbery on the road to Houghs Neck at midnight Sunday.

Every available seat in the court room was occupied with spectators while the corridors were also filled with men and young women. There were also several older women who came with babies in their arms all anxious to hear the case. Court officer Hultman was stationed at the door leading to the court room however and no more were allowed in to the room after the seats had been filled except witnesses in the cases that were to come up.

The remainder of the crowd however filled the corridors and strained their necks to get a look at the prisoners and the girl in question. At this time however the girl was down stairs in Court Officer Marden's office while the prisoners were locked up in the cells under the court room until such time as the case should be called.

The crowd learning that the prisoners were down in the basement flocked down stairs and it became necessary to lock the door leading to the Court Officers room. Then they went outside and tried to look down through the windows but here again they were disappointed. Nothing daunted however the crowd remained in the corridors until after the case was called.

It was nearly noon before the case was finally reached. There were four government witnesses, Mary Johnanna Berg, the girl in question, Eva P. Poulson, Frank W. Nightingale and Joseph Canolie.

The testimony of the Berg girl was of a very sensational nature and of such a character that it cannot be published. In brief however her story was that she was 16 years of age and her home was at 266 Quarry street, and that she was employed as a domestic in the family of James L. Maclary at Post Island. On Sunday evening the girl came to Quincy on an electric car arriving about 10 p. m. She stood for a time in front of Dennin's restaurant. While there Arthur Bavin, with whom she had a slight acquaintance came along and spoke to her. After talking with him a few minutes the two started for a walk. They went down Hancock street to Merrymount road near the telephone building where they remained for some time.

They then walked back to Quincy centre only to find that the last car had gone. Bavin then volunteered to walk home with her. At the corner of Washington and Coddington streets she saw several fellows to whom Bavin spoke. When near the entrance to the old pest house they met another fellow. Bavin spoke to him. They then continued on until near the entrance to the Adams farm when the fellows coming behind caught up with them. Bavin then left her to go back and speak with them. She then became frightened and took out two hat pins to defend herself and crossed over to the street railway track and continued alone down the track.

When near the entrance to Post Island all the four men came up to her They threw her down and attempted to commit an assault. She screamed loudly for help and fought the men the best that she could.

At this point Canalia, Ross and the Poulson girl appeared on the scene. Ross did not take any part in the assault, the girl said, but he did not try to help her any. Then the men let her alone and after taking her bag and watch left her. She then went home. She positively identified the prisoners as the parties concerned in the affair.

Eva P. Poulson testified that she was employed at Houghs Neck and missed the last car Sunday night and that Joe Canalie and Ross were walking home with her. Both the men behaved themselves in a proper manner. Just as they reached the entrance to Post Island she heard a girl cry "Help, Help, Help, Please help me." The two men tried to stop her from going to the girl's help but she went to where the parties were and the two men went with her. She saw the Berg girl on the ground and the four men holding her. On her appearance the men got up and left and the girl went home.

Frank W. Nightingale testified to hearing the screams and to telephoning the police of the affair.

J. J. McAnarney, counsel for the defendants, cross examined the witness at length, particularly the Berg girl, but was unable to shake her testimony, as she stuck to her original story.

At 1 o'clock the court took a recess for lunch until 2 o'clock.

HONEYMOONING IN THE SOUTH

Herbert F. Carter of Quincy Married to Miss Bragg

Herbert F. Carter, son of Leroy S. Carter of 42 Webster street was married to Miss Irene G. Bragg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Bragg, at her home, Paris street, East Boston, on Thursday evening, July 18: The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Iliffe of Brookline in the presence of a number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

The groom is well known in this city and is employed by a banking firm of Boston. After a honeymoon trip to Washington and New York, the couple will reside in Quincy.

—Perhaps some day we shall be able to buy a double-action furnace, says the Somerville Journal that will heat the house in cold weather and cool it in the summer time.

MARY BARRY FRIGHTENED

By a Man Who Jumped From Behind Clump of Bushes

OFFENDER APPREHENDED

Miss Mary Barry of 38 Bates avenue while walking through that street on her way home at 9.30 Tuesday night received a bad scare when a man jumped from the bushes at her. She ran screaming up the street. Her cries were heard by Officer Thomas A. Malone who chased the man she pointed out to him and caught the fellow. He gave his name as Coletti Chilli, aged 32 years. He denied meaning any harm. He was locked up however charged with being idle and disorderly. He claims to live on Crescent street and to be employed in one of the quarries.

ALL BILLS PAID WITH BALANCE

Financial Statement of Celebration Soon to Be Published

A meeting of the executive committee of the Fourth of July Association was held at the Board of Trade rooms, Tuesday evening. Mayor Stone, who is president, presided. Reports from the several committees having charge of the various departments of the celebration were received and accepted.

All the bills have been paid and there is a balance in the treasury. Within a few days, the treasurer will issue a financial statement showing the receipts and expenditures.

Two additional subscriptions were received, one of $15 from the Bay State Street Railway company and one of $1 from Victor Prout.

EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The great elevated strike is ended and this is a cause for general congratulation.

It looks as though Becker had reached the end of his rope, as a power in New York.

The Quincy people on the City of Rockland are to be congratulated upon their rescue.

Mr. Wilson's former writings are rising against him like Banquo's ghost.

The court has decided that the Cape Cod canal work may be pushed night and day even if a few people lose their early morning sleep.

Japan's greatest ruler has passed along to his fathers. He has left a rich heritage to his successor, one that should be a guide to him in the ruling of this progressive race.

T. R. claims a heavy Democratic slump to the new party. We can best judge of this about the first of November.

That Lynn woman now says millions would not buy her baby. The parents of the youngster have got free advertising enough. The next thing will probably be a subscription paper to help educate the child.

There is some question as to the weight of the opinion of that Denver clergyman upon men and women who elect to live a single life.

The loyal men of the elevated are somewhat anxious as to their position, now that the strike is settled.

The moving pictures are credited with the origin of that Lawrence tragedy, yet some people have advocated their introduction as a public school course.

A Cleveland man has just paid the last instalment of a $5 fine for speeding. The judge conveniently permitted him to settle up at 10 cents per week.

Siamese army officers show their patriotism by giving up a part of their pay to purchase heavy field guns.

The milk situation is getting more serious. One authority is credited with claiming that he would not be surprised to see the price boom up to 15 cents a quart. At that rate, the old pump's value is going up in leaps and bounds.

Rats and matches caused a blaze on North street, Boston, and the inmates had to flee for their lives. Where was the rat catcher and his corps of exterminators?

William Loeb, Jr., does not hearken to the siren call of politics. When he gets out of the New York custom house it will be to go into business.

Lorimer's seat in the senate is kept dusted. Some people would suggest a more heroic form of keeping it clean.

Another New York girl bobs up missing. The list is growing alarmingly each day.

HAND IN GLOVE WITH THUGS.

It would be unfair to charge all of the 10,500 police officers of New York of being on the same level with some of those whom it is claimed are the companions, partners, friends and accomplices of gamblers, thugs, crooks and denizens of the underworld in particular. If out of this great whirlpool of official rottenness, there emerges a cleaning up of some of the features which go towards its formation, then Rosenthal will not have died in vain. It evidently needed some thrilling, startling tragedy of this kind to awaken the people of New York to the terrible danger by which they were surrounded, the weakness of the police sytem as at present constituted as a protection to the public and the great need of a general house cleaning.

District Attorney Whitman showed himself the right man in the right place. He proved equal to the occasion and conducted an investigation which is creditable to his skill, ability and courage. The stories of the thugs and gamblers, the power of certain police officials, the hinting of people higher up, reveal their own gross scandal of the terrible scourge by which New York was grasped.

Nothing but a thorough cleaning up, root and branch, regardless of where the lightning strikes should satisfy the people of New York at this time. The police force should be proud of all men who are in league with the criminal classes. It is absurd to say that it is necessary to wine and dine, and be on hob nobbing terms with crooks and burglars in order to be able to get at this class at any time. In this instance it is shown that this social intercourse had more to do with the spread and hatching of crime than suppressing it.

AT SLOWER SPEED.

The strong public sentiment against the continued maintenace of terrific speed by the chemical automobile wagon, has been felt to such an extent that hereafter the speed of that machine in going to and from fires will be reduced.

While the desire of the firemen to get to the scene of action, as speedily as possible is most commendable, there were many instances in the case of this particular machine, when the high speed was not necessary, yet during it all there was the presence of wreck and damage stalking carelessly about.

Time and again have people stopped and shuddered at the pace which the machine plowed through the square. There was no let up, either going or coming from a fire. There was no need of high speed at all in the latter instances. People began to protest. The matter was treated by several correspondents in the Ledger and the Ledger took notice of the subject in its editorial columns.

It is gratifying to know that this temperate agitation has at last borne fruit. Mayor Stone notified Chief Litchfield to have the machine go at a lower rate of speed in the future. The order will be obeyed and the general public will breathe easier.

UNITED STATES PEOPLE IN PERIL

According to late advices from Mexico, people of the United States who are engaged in business on the other side of the Rio Grande are in grave danger. The rebels continue to commit depredations regardless of whether the person or property of United States citizens are endangered.

This should not be permitted to continue. People of this country, optimistic of the future of Mexico, have invested large sums of money in many branches of industry in that country. The persistent civil wars of Mexico the past few years have led to much damage to the properties controlled by the people of the United States. This should not be permitted to continue one minute longer than our government should find it convenient to get a message of protest to the Mexican capital. Mexico should be made to realize that even if she is conducting a little rebellion every once in a while, that this condition furnishes no excuse to rebels or others to endanger the life and property of United States people. The notification to this end from our government, should be prompt, strong and forceful in character so that there would be no misunderstanding its meaning.

Prison Sentences Commuted

Washington, July 31.—Representations that jail sentences would imperil the lives of Richard Hynes and A. H. Hedderly, convicted at Portland, Ore., in 1908, of conspiracy to defraud the United States of public lands, moved President Taft to commute their sentences by wiping out the terms of imprisonment on condition that they pay the fines imposed.

FINE SLATE FOR THE DEMOCRATS

May Be Scratched All to Pieces by the Voters

WITH THEIR LITTLE PENCILS

"Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, United States senator.

"Senator Joseph P. Lomasney, president of the Massachusetts Senate.

"Representative Martin M. Lomasney, speaker of the House."

This is the Boston ward eight slate for next year if the Democratic state committee succeeds in carrying out the plans formulated by the officials of the committee in their state-wide campaign for the election of a Democratic Legislature this fall.

With a Democratic Senate, Senator Joseph P. Lomasney of ward eight would be the logical man to preside over that body, his loyal supporters declare, and nothing would be more gratifying to the enthusiastic Lomasneyites in ward eight and all over the city than to see Martin replace Grafton D. Cushing as speaker of the House. Martin has been the Democratic choice for that post for the past two years, but lacked the votes, although he did give some of the Republicans a scare two years ago.

The plans which will be put up to the Democratic state committee for conducting a state-wide campaign for the election of a Democratic legislature are plans which the ward eight leaders have fostered for years. They have figured out that Democrats can win in many of the districts now represented by Republicans if the proper kind of missionary work is done in time, and they illustrate the fact by pointing to cases where Republicans have won elections to the House by majorities of less than 100 in several districts where the Democratic candidates have put up half-hearted fights.

MRS. TAFT IN WASHINGTON

To Witness the Formal Notice of Nomination to President

Mrs. Taft left the summer White House at Beverly Tuesday for Washington, so as to be present when formal notification is made to President Taft Thursday that he has been nominated by the Republican party as its candidate for President.

Mrs. Taft will take a prominent part in the entertaining which will attend the ceremonies. She will probably stay in Washington a week. The President may come back with her. He plans to make a week-end trip to Beverly on August 9, and if Congress has adjourned by that date he will come on then for the entire summer.

Miss Helen Taft and the two boys, Robert and Charlie, will stay at Beverly. The guests there this week include Miss Sophie Johnson and George Harrison of Washington and Dr. C. T. Grayson of the U. S. S. Mayflower.

JOINT PICNIC.

The Quincy branches of the I. W. W. and A. F. of L. will hold a joint picnic at New Downer Landing, North Weymouth, next Saturday afternoon and evening. A fine program of athletics has been arranged and Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn will address the gathering.

—Happy thought! Let us all stop talking, or even thinking, about the tendency of this generation to stay away from church. What effect can it have except to give those who do not think for themselves a notion that it is becoming rather fashionable not to attend public worship, and so increase the evil that it laments Enough has been said to rouse the latent energies of the churches, even if anything needed to be said of a matter so evident to those most interested in it. Beyond this the effect must be the same as that of continually telling a man that he looks ill. Suppose we form a conspiracy of silence, and set out upon a still hunt for the causes and the cure. Either there is a cure or there is not. If there is, it surely does not lie in mere lamentation; and, if there is not, lamentation will do no good, and will only spread the pessimistic spirit. The best way to cure non-attendance at church is for every one to attend. "How simple, yet how sufficient!" Why have we not thought of it before —Christian Register.

THE SYSTEM TO BE UNMASKED

New York Aldermen to Start Separate Investigation

BECKER'S FIRST WIFE FOUND

Mayor Gaynor Reverses Himself on Special Call—No One Knows How High the Graft Trail Will Eventually Lead—Lieutenant Becker's First Wife Lives In Reno, Married to Paul Becker

New York, July 31.—The entire alleged alliance between the gamblers and other lawbreakers and the police as a sideline of which Herman Rosenthal was murdered, and Police Lieutenant Becker, has been indicted for murder in the first degree, is to be uncovered. Lieutenant Becker was committed to the Tombs until Monday.

The board of aldermen will conduct a sweeping investigation and outside counsel will be hired. This will be entirely independent of the grand jury investigation now in progress under District Attorney Whitman's direction and between the two it was confidently asserted that the entire inside of the police graft payments would be revealed.

Mayor Gaynor, after refusing to sign any petition authorizing the board of aldermen to investigate the graft charges, and writing Police Commissioner Waldo directing him to keep Becker on duty, completely reversed himself.

He stated that he would sign the resolution and see that the city appropriated money enough to make the probe thorough. This followed a conference with Police Commissioner Waldo, who is understood to have urged such action.

Just where the trail will lead no one knows. Gossip has been busy with names of high officials in the political world and noted gamblers, but District Attorney Whitman frankly stated that he had no positive evidence as yet implicating anyone other than Lieutenant Becker.

They believed implicitly that Becker was about to become the head of the police department. They had seen him rise from nothing into the headship of the most powerful single factor in the department. They had seen him pursue his course without interruption from the heads of the force; instead, when questions had arisen he had always been powerful enough to have them settled in his favor. Why then, they asked, should they have doubted that even murder was within the range of his protection. They thought they knew who stood behind Becker and so they did not doubt but that nothing would come of the destruction of Rosenthal.

For weeks, said Rose, Becker had been after him to kill Rosenthal. When the first sign had come from the gambler that he no longer proposed to submit to the impositions of the gamblers and the police whose alliance had made it impossible for him to go on in business, Becker had sent for Rose and said: "This man's got to be stopped. Now there's only one way to do it. I'm giving you a chance. If you do all right, we can all go along as usual. But if you don't, I'll do the job myself, but before I do I'll send every one of you up for seven years. I'll 'frame up' something on you—I don't care what it is. I'll drop weapons in your pockets. What good will a 'squeal' do you? Everybody knows you're gamblers and confidence men—a 'squeal' will get you nothing."

From East Side days Rose has been Becker's collector. It has been profitable for both. Rose peddled out protection and did a little on his own hook in the way of business that his patron knew nothing of. Becker's money, according to Becker's alleged statement, repeated in the presence of Rose, Weber and Vallon, was divided among the uptown inspectors and two officials connected with police headquarters after he took his own share.

Reno, Nev., July 31.—In a modest cottage on the south side of Reno lives Paul Becker, a brother of Lieutenant Charles A. Becker of New York, and his wife. Only their most intimate friends know that Paul Becker is Mrs. Becker's second husband and that her first was none other than her present brother-in-law, the lieutenant of police now under indictment for murder in New York.

Until recently Paul Becker was actively engaged in the mining business, but at present eh is interested in a prosperous horseshoing establishment on the north side.

Unwillingly Mrs. Becker made a few statements.

"We have been maried since Aug. 16, 1909."

"My home was with my parents in Kingston, Can. I met Charlie Becker three years before we were married in New York city by Rev. Frank M. Goodchild, pastor of the Forty-second Street Baptist church. The marriage took place on April 28, 1898. We had one son, Harold, named after another brother of my husband, now dead. Harold is 12 years old. I have no children by my second marriage.

"Charlie Becker was not a good husband. Long after I knew, he was not keeping his marriage vows, when he had cast me aside to devote himself to other women, I stuck to him. I did this for our son Harold. I was a mother and that always came first.

"Judge Henry Gildersleeve signed the decree of divorce in New York city, on June 4, 1905, giving me an absoulte divorce.

"Charlie Becker could get out of any sort of trouble. The department knew about my divorcing him and my reasons, but he was not dismissed from the force, although this should have been his punishment for his treatment of his wife and child. Other troubles he got into were investigated, but he managed to squirm out."

Two members of the crew of the City of Rockland, Michael Glynn and James Ross, are now reported missing. They were not seen after the collision, either aboard the Belfast or the William Chisholm, nor after the crew had assembled in Boston.

PLENTY TIME TO SETTLE FINE

If He Is Permitted to Live 150 Years to Do It In

Hardy H. Whitlock, former county treasurer of Danville, Ill., pleaded guilty to embezzlement and was fined $75,000 in monthly instalments of $40. It will take 156 years and three months to pay it.

DEMOCRAT TO BE CHAIRMAN

Progressives' Selection For Permanent Organization

New Orleans, July 31.—John M. Parker of New Orleans, a Democrat, probably will be permanent chairman of the National Progressive convention in Chicago next week. Senator Dixon, Colonel Roosevelt's campaign manager, said that a Democrat would act as permanent chairman and that Mr. Parker in all probability would be the man.

Governor Hiram Johnson of California, the senator said, will make one of the speeches seconding the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt. Senator Dixon left last night for Chicago to complete arrangements for the convention. "There is a good deal more to this thing than appears on the surface," said the senator. "Governor Wilson's strength has already begun to wane and Colonel Roosevelt is growing stronger daily. Even in the 'solid south' the colonel is developing great strength."

HELD UNDER SUSPICION

Duffy Made Remarks That Caused Police to Hold Him

Pawtucket, July 31.—Circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Mary A. Stafford, 68, who was found dead in bed by her daughter-in-law has led to the suspicion that she may have been murdered.

The police took into custody Edward Duffy, 65 years old, who it is alleged was seen at the Stafford house shortly before and after the woman came to her death.

Just as Mrs. Jennie M. Stafford discovered that her mother was dead Mr. Stafford was returning to the house and in the yard was met by Duffy, who remarked: "There's a woman upstairs waiting for you."

DO BUSINESS HERE AT HOME

If you are a resident of Quincy, we suggest that you patronize the merchants of your home city. Why go to Boston for goods that can be bought handily and economically here? We stand for the interests of Quincy, and like the Quincy merchants, we give our customers good value. For instance, a safety deposit box in our vault for $5 a year that would cost you $10 in Boston.

NO TRACE OF LOUIERI

Since Released By Quincy Police Sunday Night

BROTHER SEEKING HIM

Rinaldo Louieri of East Boston was in Quincy Tuesday looking for some trace of his brother Philip who disappeared from his home 106 Chelsea street, East Boston, July 22. Philip was taken to the police station in Quincy on the night of July 28. He was in a very exhausted condition, suffering from a lame foot. City Physician Dr. J. H. Ash who was called to treat the man said that the trouble was caused by his shoe. The next morning Philip left the police station as the police supposed to go home. It appears however that he did not go home and no trace of him has been seen since. He was 34 years of age, six feet tall, dark mustache and wore dark clothes with derby hat. His brother who is looking for him claims that Philip is not quite right in his head.

SQUANTUM BRIEFS

Cards were sent out Tuesday calling a meeting of Squantum women at the bungalow of Mrs. John R. Nelson, Bellevue road and Brunswick street, at 2.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon when the matter of organizing a Woman's Auxiliary club to aid in the improvement of Squantum and to promote social affairs among the summer and winter residents, will be taken up. For some, the matter has been under discussion among the patriotic Squantum women and the calling of the meeting for Thursday is the result. The women of Squantum are just as enthusiastic as the men in their efforts to make this ideal suburb of Quincy one of the most attractive places about Greater Boston as a place of residence. The women also have in mind repeating their success of last year in the management of a lawn party in the near future.

In observance of a birthday anniversary of Mrs. C. E. Carlson, a number of her neighbors gathered at her handsome bungalow on Huckins avenue Monday night and passed a very enjoyable evening. Mrs. Gustave Wunderlich in behalf of those present presented Mrs. Carlson with a handsome cut glass vase. Among those present were Mrs. John R. Nelson, Mrs. William A. Reed, Mrs. Perley Bostwick, Mrs. Charles Bostwick, Mrs. Joseph Duff, Mrs. Joseph Uppling, Mrs. Nellie McGowan, and Mrs. Herbert A. Smith. Refreshments were served.

Work is progressing rapidly on the bungalow of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Uppling on Bellevue avenue and they expect to be able to move into their new home by the middle of August.

Many enjoyable motor parties are being given daily by those who have boats. Squantum now has a fine fleet of motor and sail boats.

BEVERLY HIT BY LIGHTNING

A heavy thunder and lightning storm accompanied by rain, visited the North shore in the vicinity of Beverly, Tuesday night. Lightning struck the house of Guy Chandler on Balch street, the bolt going down the chimney into the room occupied by the family. The flashes of the lightning were distinctly seen in a bank of black clouds to the northward of Quincy.

FIRST SHAVE BY A BARBER

For the first time in his life Michael Dunn, 86 years of age, of Arlington, was shaved by a barber Monday, and he says he's going again. Mr. Dunn has always worn a beard and shaved himself. He had no use for barbers and declared that he would never allow a barber to touch a razor to his face. His scruples were overcome, however, and now he advises every man to have a barber shave him.

BOWSER'S UNCLE.

Welcomed to the Bosom of the Family.

TALE OF RETIRING IKE HARRIS

As a Long Lost Relative on His Mother's Side the Stranger Does Not Score a Conspicuous Success, but In Other Respects—

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.]

THAT Mr. Bowser had news of some kind to communicate when he reached home the other evening was plain to be read in his face, and after he had got seated at the dinner table he said:

"One of the strangest things that ever happened to me occurred today."

"I hope you didn't buy a chicken farm," replied Mrs. Bowser.

"I was taking my noonday lunch when a man came in that I knew and called me by name. I noticed an oldish man sitting near by prick up his ears and look at me, and two or three times before I went out he seemed about to speak to me."

"Yes?"

"I had been back at the office about half an hour when he came in."

"And wanted to borrow $5," added Mrs. Bowser.

Mrs. B. Is Sarcastic.

"Woman, if you are going to begin your sarcasm I shan't say another word. Why do you suppose he wanted to borrow $5? What right have you to suppose any such blasted thing?"

"Oh, I just happened to think so."

"Well, don't just happen again. It's an insult on me. The man begged my pardon and wanted to know if he had understood my name—Bowser—aright. I answered that he had, and then he introduced himself as Ike Harris."

"A dealer in city lots at the north pole?"

"By thunder, woman, but you provoke me until I feel like boxing your ears! Are you trying to make me out a fool?"

"No, of course not, but the name Ike has a suspicious sound to me. What did he want?"

"He simply wanted me to know that he was my uncle."

"Mr. Bowser, you don't mean it!"

"That's just what I do mean, and you have been insulting him."

"Your Uncle Ike, eh? I never heard you speak of him before."

A Long Lost Relative.

"No? Well, I'm not a man that goes around saying that I've got this uncle and that aunt and such and such a cousin. Besides, the last I heard of Uncle Ike was twenty years ago, and I thought him dead. He is very much alive, however."

"And you were glad to see each other?"

"Naturally."

"And you talked over old times?"

"Certainly."

"And you haven't got a doubt left that he is your Uncle Ike?"

"How can I have? A person must be a fool not to know his own uncle. He is an uncle on my mother's side. He is about fifty years old and very rich. He doesn't put on any style, but he's got the dough just the same and has neither wife nor chick to leave it to."

"Then, if he takes a liking to you"—

"Just so, Mrs. Bowser. If Uncle Ike wants to leave me a fortune I shan't kick. He and I tumbled into each other's arms at once, but how it will be with you I don't know. You always muddle things up if there's a chance."

An Expected Guest.

"Is he coming over here?"

"Of course. He had some business to attend to first and said it might be 9 o'clock before he got around. Yes, he's going to stay with us a week or two before going back west to his gold mine. You'll see a rather shabby, but old fashioned sort of man, just the kind of an old chap to tie to, and I hope you'll do your best to make things pleasant for him."

Mrs. Bowser puzzled over the matter for a couple of minutes and then said:

"Mr. Bowser, don't be touchy about the matter, but it seems a dangerous thing to do to take a stranger into the house. How much did you question him?"

"There you go!" was replied. "I wonder if there is a person on earth you are not suspicious of? If Uncle Ike were not my uncle would he dare come here to the house?"

"It doesn't seem so and yet"—

"I'll bet my life against a nickel he's my uncle right enough. You see that the spare bed is ready for him, and you might dress up a little. I want him to see that I selected a dandy for a wife."

An Unpromising Exterior.

At 9 o'clock the doorbell rang, and Uncle Ike was admitted and guided back to the sitting room. From what Mr. Bowser had said Mrs. Bowser was prepared to see an Uncle Rube, and her surprise was great when she noticed what a foxy face the uncle carried. Men of that look work the shell game at fairs and circuses. She had seen pictures of all sorts of bad men in the newspapers, and she wasn't over a minute in making up her mind that Mr. Bowser had been played for an easy mark. She tried to be interesting, but it was the hardest kind of work.

Uncle Ike tried hard to feel at home, but it was evident that he would have been easier in his mind if alone with Mr. Bowser. After a little time had passed Mrs. Bowser asked:

"Then you are a brother of Hannah's?"

"Yes," was the reply.

Mr. Bowser's mother was not named Hannah, but Mary. Uncle Ike had told lie No. 1.

"Were there any other brothers?"

"Two others—Sam and Bill."

Some New Family History.

She knew, and so did Mr. Bowser, that there was only one brother. Lie No. 2 had been told.

"What has become of Mr. Bowser's mother's sisters? There were two, I believe."

"Yes—Sarah and Ruth. Both are dead."

The mother had no sisters. That was lie No. 3, and Mr. Bowser looked at his Uncle Ike in astonishment.

"I suppose you remember the old red farmhouse as vividly as if you had seen it yesterday."

"Indeed I do."

The old red farmhouse wasn't red at all, but white. The liar was getting along swimmingly. Mr. Bowser didn't exactly think he was lying, but laid it to loss of memory instead. Five or six times he gave Mrs. Bowser the wink to stop the cross examination, and when she persisted he said she might be excused for a time. She left the room satisfied that Uncle Ike was a fraud, but what he was after further than to borrow money she could not make out. While she wrestled with the problem the uncle was saying to Mr. Bowser:

"Nice wife you have."

"Thanks."

"Good looking and keen."

"Yes."

"But she don't like me."

"Oh, it's just her shy way. She don't take to strangers at first. In two or three days you'll be visiting like old friends."

Uncle Ike Retires.

Uncle Ike observed that he had had a long day of it and was tired out and was presently shown up to his room. When the Bowsers were alone she said:

"Look out for your Uncle Ike!"

"What do you mean?"

"He'll be trying to borrow money in the morning."

"Woman, I thank heaven I haven't your nature!"

"He's no more your Uncle Ike than I'm your Aunt Jerusha."

"Stop! Stop right there!"

Mrs. Bowser stopped. She stopped till about 2 o'clock in the morning. Then she returned from a trip downstairs and shook Mr. Bowser awake to say:

"Get up!"

"Wh-what for?"

"Because your Uncle Ike has taken a skate."

"You don't say!"

"And robbed the house of everything he could take with him!"

A DYED BEARD.

It Probably Changed the History of the Whole Human Race.

The most striking case in history of the importance of trifles is furnished by the story of Musa, the leader of the Moslem host which won from Christendom in three and a half years dominions which it took the soldiers of the cross twenty generations to win back. He had a red beard. This was a trifle.

Musa, though a very great general, was a very vain man, and he dyed his beard black. This was another trifle. One of his captains chaffed him on the subject, and Musa forthwith had him stripped and scourged. For this, at the very height of his conquering career, Musa was recalled by the caliph and disgraced. This made it impossible for him to command the Moslem army at the battle of Tours, on the issue of which, as all historians agree, the destinies of Europe and perhaps of the whole human race depended.

It is almost certain that if the genius of Musa had replaced the incompetence of the half dozen tribal leaders whose dissensions made victory impossible the forces of Islam would have joined hands from the west to the east and inclosed Europe in their grasp.—London Standard.

Gladstone and Grillion's.

Mr. Gladstone's election to Grillion's club, which took place in 1840, was far from delighting him at the time. He declared it to be "a thing quite alien to my temperament, which requires more soothing and domestic appliances after the feverish and consuming excitements of party life, but the rules of society oblige me to submit." Lord Morley adds: "As it happened, so narrow is man's foreknowledge Grillion's down to the very end of his life nearly sixty years ahead, had no more faithful or congenial member."—London Chronicle.

BELIEVED GRAY HAS COMMITTED SUICIDE

But Belfast Claims He is Now Captured

Carmel, Me., July 31.—The family of J. Sherman Gray, the farmhand for whom a warrant charging him with the murder of Naomi Mitchell at North Carmel last Wednesday night, has been issued, believe that he has taken his own life. Deputy Sheriff Roscoe Garland was of the same opinion, as are other officials.

Their belief is based on the fact that whenever he has committed an offense and has disappeared, he has always returned to his home at the Stevens house after a certain number of days and when hungry. That time has now elapsed by several days and they have seen no trace of him.

Belfast, Me., July 31.—A man believed to be J. Sherman Gray, wanted for the murder of 14-year-old Naomi Mitchell, was taken into custody at Brooks last night by Deputy Sheriff Estes of that town.

SPECIFICALLY EXONERATED

British Report Says Titanic Was Efficiently Manned

London, July 31.—The judgment of the British board of trade court of inquiry into the disaster to the White Star liner Titanic, which sank in mid-ocean with 1517 souls after collision with an iceberg on April 14, was pronounced by Lord Mersey, the presiding judge, before a large audience.

The court of inquiry exonerates J. Bruce Ismay, chairman and managing director of the White Star line, and Sir Cosmos Duff-Gordon, one of the passengers, from any charges of improper conduct.

The most important findings were that the Titanic was sufficiently and efficiently officered and manned and complied with all the regulations of the British merchant shipping act, regarding safety, but that the arrangements for manning and launching the lifeboats in an emergency were insufficient and that no drill had been held. The instructions for the voyage given prior to sailing were, in the opinion of the court, adequate, but "having regard to subsequent events they would have been better if reference had been made to the course to be adopted in the event of the vessel reaching the region of ice."

NEW BEDFORD STRIKERS SPLIT

Charge Made That the Weavers Are Indifferent

SEC'Y HOBIN CALLS MEETING

Weavers Making Strike Collections Said to Be Earning More Than at Mill Wages—So They Are Charged With Being Indifferent to a Settlement—They Are Paid 20 Percent on Receipts

New Bedford, Mass., July 31.—A split in the ranks of the strikers, caused by the alleged indifference of the weavers in seeking or assisting in a conference, has resulted in a call for a special meeting of the Textile Council for this afternoon, when it is expected that the delegates of the textile unions that came out in support of the weavers, will demand that the Weavers' Protective associataion take immediate steps foward attempting to secure some sort of an agreement with the manufacturers.

This meeting has been called by President John Hobin of the Textile Council in response to the requests from some of the other unions.

The trouble, which has been brewing for several days, comes as a result of the collections being made by striking weavers, it is said. These men are given 20 percent of all collection they bring into the union and many of them are making more money in this way than they would at work in the mill, which has led some of those on sympathetic strike to believe some of the weavers are satisfied with conditions as they are.

While they still believe that the cause the weavers are striking for is a just one, the meeting of the council was called by those members of the sympatizing unions who do not believe that serious efforts are being made to arrange an agreeable compromise with the manufacturers.

The state board of conciliation and arbitration, at its meeting, went over the tentative plan for a compromise which will be submitted to the manufacturers of this city by Charles G. Wood, one of the members. One of the board believes that if the plan is not adopted in its entirety some plan will develop which will prove agreeable to both manufacturers and strikers.

FIRE CAUSES FOUR DEATHS

Guests at Hotel In Fairlee, Vt., Perish From Flames

Fairlee, Vt., July 31.—Two persons were burned to death and two others were so severely burned that they died later, in a fire that destroyed the Danforth House. The dead are Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Perkins and Miss Effie Perkins of Flushing, L. I., and Miss Florence Albee of Springfield, Mass.

There were about thirty guests in the house at the time, and nearly all of them were asleep. The flames spread quickly to all parts of the house, and those who did escape without injury were unable to save any property except the clothes they wore.

C. E. Perkins, his wife and daughter and Miss Albee were in a part of the hotel where their exit was cut off by the flames. Miss Perkins and Miss Albee did not reach the outside. The hotel was burned to the ground. The loss is estimated at $5000.

ELEVATED FILES SEIZED

Grand Jury Sends to Offices For Cabinet Records

Boston, July 31.—Several filing cabinets of the Boston Elevated company, containing matter relative to the claim department, were seized by order of the grand jury and District Attorney Pelletier, and brought before the grand jury for investigation in connection with the strike.

It may take several days before the men can begin to return to work. The order in which they shall be taken back by the company is to be determined by the state board of conciliation and arbitration, under the agreement, and it is improbable that the board will be in a position to give the matter attention before next Thursday at the earliest.

Cannot Support Taft

Maynard, Mass., July 31.—The Maynard Republican town committee voted, 3 to 1, against Taft. Chairman Edward F. McCleary and Secretary Kenneth Damren then resigned, on the ground that, being for Roosevelt, they could not honestly remain in the Republican party. Damren is also the permanent secretary of the state National Progressive committee.

Lightning Hits Two Score

Pittsburg, July 31.—Two men were injured fatally, ten seriously shocked and burned and more than twenty others knocked down and bruised by a bolt of lightning which struck the towboat Ironsides at the Marine way, Elizabeth, Pa., near here.

BLACK CHANTILLY SHAWLS REMADE INTO DRESSES

Exquisite Frocks, Draped and Undraped In Ravishing Thin Materials

YELLOW THE STYLISH COLOR

In the torrid heat which has us all in its grasp this month, the only thing which seems worth discussing is something cool in the way of summer gowns. Coats would otherwise be of absorbing interest, for new ones in the popular Mackinac and Norfolk shapes are coming out, but who can concern herself about coats with Fahrenheit records in the nineties? Lace dresses, one would think, might appeal to a tired fancy The latest thing in that line is a revival of black Chantilly, and those of us who possess a treasured old black Chantilly shawl are indeed fortunate, having the wherewithal for a handsome dress at hand. But these, with the modern flouncings in imitation of them have to be made up over silk or satin, so we gladly defer the consideration of that subject until a more propitious time.

There are fabrics and frocks, however, which will rouse us, and really, considering the weather, we grow quite enthusiastic over their beauty. These are the dainty dresses made of the lovely cotton voiles, marquisettes, mercerized batistes and many other sheer and shimmering goods which textile manufacturers have this year conceded in abundance to perspiring humanity. Now that women have discovered that they can be chic and comfortable at the same time, thin materials are having their day. Leading in popularity and style are the striped voiles like that shown in the illustration.

This is a simply made, dainty little gown for a summer day. The dark blue of the pin stripe is matched in the crystal buttons which close the front, and the loveliest of Irish lace is fashioned into the collar and cuffs.

These voile dresses seem to have struck a popular note for they are seen everywhere. Manufacturers are getting them out ready-made for the convenience of the woman who has no time to sew, and home dressmakers are fashioning them in quaint and becoming shapes adapted to the individuality of the wearer. Both in plain and in satin stripe, voile makes up charmingly. For more elaborate gowns one can have the material with borders of exquisite flower designs. In fact, no wardrobe is entirely equipped for the summer without one such dress. Combining coolness, daintiness and freshness there are times when a woman must be provided with a gown of this kind or else be obliged to forego a coveted social pleasure. Then there are the batistes with their infinite possibilities for development. One recently worn by a woman noted for good taste was lavender and white striped. It had deep, hemstitched collar and cuffs of linen lawn. The skirt below a short rippling peplum was side pleated in accordion effect, but so cleverly laid were the shallow pleats that neither the real nor apparent width of the skirt exceeded the generally accepted standard. The superlative daintiness of the dress was accentuated by the full-pleated jabot of applique lace at the throat, with deep ruffles to match at the edge of the elbow sleeves.

The daintiest of silk muslins are also on exhibition and most welcome to the summer girl for this fabric lends itself perfectly to the prevailing modes. Those with borders, especially, are often seen in draped dresses and panniers. Panniers, by the way, spite of much sturdy opposition, are having a decided influence on the fashions, and we are all interested in watching their evolution. Both the opponents of the pannier as well as its advocates, point with pride to the fulfillment of their early predictions in regard to it. In a way, both are right, for it has not been received in the form of huge puffs over the hips in which it first appeared, but it is still with us, in the draperies which are dropped to the knee or the bottom of the skirt. After the long reign of the straight skirt a return to drapery of some kind is inevitable, for who ever before knew fickle Dame Fashion to stay of one mind for so many consecutive moons as this? The form of draped skirt is now taking is very conservative, not at all alarming even to those people who view all changes with a disapproving eye. In fact it is very graceful and when developed in silk muslin with the prettily striped or flower borders with which it comes, it makes as quaint and attractive a dress as the most coquettish maiden could desire. Panniers are not responsible for all the drapery of the present. Many of the new skirts are caught up at the side or side-front seams in folds that are innocent of any suggestion of panniers. These are tolerated, even liked, by women who would unhesitatingly repudiate the slightest bouffant effect over the hips. But for the woman who will have none of drapery, there are many lovely skirts with inset sections and lines that accent the best points of her figure.

Such a dress, represented in the cut, is made of corn colored silk mull, a soft fabric which has many admirers. The front opens over an inset section of fine embroidery flouncing and the stylish collar and cuffs are also made of embroidery. A white kid belt defines the high waistline. Suede slippers and silk stockings to match the gown in color are a fascinating accompaniment of an ideal summer toilette.

Yellow, by the way, has replaced the pink of the early spring in the color scheme of fashion, and the strictly up-to-date summer gown is in one of the variations of this daring tint. Not every woman can wear yellow, but those who are so fortunate have come into their kingdom own. The liking for yellow has made the topaz a fashionable jewel again, and amber beads are once more in vogue as adjuncts to the dress of many a dark-haired beauty. The new yellow, be it observed, is not the strong, old-gold tint of the past. Modern dyers have learned how to study nature, and the soft shades of ripe corn and the down of the canary furnish the motifs for the color which is dominating our present styles.—New York, July 29, 1912.

No Money, No Marriage.

"A fortune teller told me that you are going to marry me," said the young man with the prominent socks.

"Did she also tell you that you are going to inherit a very large fortune?" inquired the girl with the matinee hair.

"She didn't say anything about a fortune."

"Then she is not much of a fortune teller, and you had better not place any reliance in anything she says."—Washington Herald.

LAUGHTER AND TEARS.

Why an Outburst of the One May Cause a Flow of the Other.

What is laughter and why do tears so often accompany it?

On each side of the throat is an artery called the carotid. At the level of the larynx this divides, one branch, which carries blood to the brain, being called the internal, the other, which distributes blood to the face, being ralled the external. These two branches are joined about the level of the eyes by the ophthalmic artery, which forms a canal between them. This communication is the cause of the close connection between the brain and the tear glands, between laughter and grief, both of which are generators of tears.

Physiologically, a burst of laughter is nothing but a strenuous effort, like lifting a heavy weight. In both cases the muscles of the throat and stomach contract.

When laughter is excessive the whole body is convulsed; every muscle is contracted. In the place of normal respiration come short intermittent respirations, insufficient to free the lungs from the semi-asphyxia produced by the contraction of the throat muscles. The face shows the congestion of the blood vessels of the head. Apoplexy may in rare cases result. These muscular contractions compress the external carotid, which can no longer supply the brain with blood. In consequence this rushes up the internal carotid, which becomes choked and dilated. It can stand the pressure only because the ophthalmic artery relieves it. Taking this route the blood congests the tear glands, which overflow.

Tears are exactly the same as the liquid part of the blood. So it is a fair deduction that the action of crying is equivalent to a certain loss of blood, which relieves the congestion of the brain. This is why women feel so much better after a good cry.

The facial contortions of weeping persons are caused by the automatic contraction of such muscles as are needed to compress the tear glands and so help to squeeze out the tears.—New York World.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PICNIC SANDWICHES.

HERE are recipes for light sandwiches suitable for the picnic basket or for the summer lawn or porch party. Their ingredients are such that they may be served with tea, lemonade or any light summer beverage.

When making sandwiches remember that your success will be more assured if you use the special sandwich bread. Thin slices may be cut out with fancy cutters and in this form will be more appreciated by the youngsters.

Fruit Sandwiches.

Apricot Sandwiches.—Whip three large eggs, the yolks and whites together, with three ounces of sifted sugar, for ten minutes. Then add to the mixture three ounces of sifted self raising flour and whip again for five minutes. Grease a flat, shallow tin very thickly or line it with buttered paper. Bake in a fairly quick oven for seven or eight minutes, then leave till cold. When cool cut into fingers. Split each finger in two, spread liberally with apricot jam, ice the top and serve.

Mixed Fruit Sandwiches.—Take figs, candied cherries, dates and blanched almonds in equal proportions and chop fine. Moisten with pineapple juice and a little thick mayonnaise. Spread on buttered white bread cut into thin slices.

Fig Sandwiches.—Cover fresh figs with cold water, then simmer over a slow fire until tender. Add, while cooking, half a cupful of sugar and the juice of half a lemon to each pound of figs. Chill thoroughly in the icebox, chop to a paste and spread on thin white bread or on thin slices of pound cake. Use a diamond cutter for shaping these.

Dainty Confections.

Nut Bread Sandwiches.—Take one egg beaten light and stir one and one-fourth cupfuls of milk, one cupful of chopped nuts, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half a cupful of butter, four cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Bake in buttered bread pans for half an hour.

To prepare the filling for the sandwiches, stone and stew dates until soft and thick. Cool and add a sliced banana and beat. Cut nut bread into thin slices and spread with the date filling.

Marshmallow Sandwiches. — Melt some marshmallows and mix them in a bowl with chopped English walnuts. Cut white bread in star shapes and put the paste on the lower slice.

Sweet Sandwiches.—Take slightly stale bread and cut in thin slices. Spread one slice with butter beaten to a cream and the other with honey. Take care that the honey does not come close to the edge. Press the slices together. Arrange on a plate and garnish with leaves.

THE UNCROWNED MIKADO

Emperor Yoshihito and His Royal Spouse

CONTINUE MODERNIZATION

Will Be the Policy of Japan's New Ruler

Tokio, July 31.—Mikado Yoshihito, Japan's new ruler, decided to call an extra session of parliament soon. He wants to tell his subjects that it is his ambition to continue the modernization of Japan. With parliament in session he can outline his policies with the least possible loss of time to the largest possible number of the country's most influential men.

Owing to his own recent illness, his majesty is much exhausted by his long vigil at his dying father's bedside. He was hardly able to get through the elaborate ceremonial which marked his own accession to the throne.

It is reported that the proclamation of amnesty which usually accompanies an accession will include the 123 Koreans on trial for conspiracy at Seoul.

Mutsuhito's funeral will take place in about a month.

MOTHER DIES OF BROKEN HEART

Mourns Loss of Her Son In Titanic Disaster

Adrian, Ga., July 31.—Memories of the heroic deeds that marked the foundering of the Titanic, and the part Jacques Futrelle of Boston and Scituate played in the acts of heroism are once again brought to he front through the announcement of the death here of Mrs. Annie Futrelle, mother of the well-known author, who went to his death in order that others might live.

"It was a case of broken heart, if there ever was one," said one of the physicians who had been with her in her last hours. Jacques Futrelle went south and saw his mother just before he started with his wife on the trip abroad which ended so disastrously.

Borah to Force Publicity Bill

Washington, July 31.—The Henry bill providing for the publicity of the contributions in presidential campaigns was not acted upon by the senate judiciary committee. Senator Borah of Idaho, who is active in pushing the measure, is endeavoring to have a special session of the committee called together for the purpose of reporting the bill.

S. S. ROCKLAND RAMS COLLIER

Fog Hides the Chisholm Off Thatcher Island

EXPERIENCES OF PASSENGERS

In Launching of Lifeboats One Dumps Passengers and Another Fills—Rockland's Bow Damaged, but She Is Towed to Port—Crew Unfamiliar With Handling Boats In or Out of the Water

Boston, July 31.—While making her way through a thick fog, a few miles to the north and east of Thatcher island the steamship City of Rockland of the Eastern Steamship Corporation's fleet, bound from Bath to Boston, was in collision with the steam collier William Chisholm. The Rockland launched her life boats, two of them giving such trouble that fully fifty passengers had narrow escapes from drowning, one boatload being spilled into the sea by the failure of the tackle to work properly, and the other boatload suffering from the swamping of the boat, which filled with water soon after it had left the ship. So far as is known, however, no lives were lost.

The Rockland was badly damaged, a large section of her bow being torn off. The 500 passengers were safely transferred to the collier. This was a slow task, and was not finished for two hours.

Four hours after the accident the steamer Belfast of the same fleet caught the distress signals blown on the whistle of the Chisholm and reached the spot. The passengers were then transferred from the collier to the Belfast and given every possible attention. They were landed at India wharf, Boston.

The Chisholm took the disabled steamer in tow and started for Boston, pulling the Rockland stern first. As soon as the Belfast could get into wireless communication with the shore the news was sent to the Charlestown navy yard. The revenue cutter Gresham and three tugs went out to aid the Chisholm.

Several passengers were injured while being transferred to the collier. One man suffered a fractured ankle and another male passenger was badly cut and bruised.

Charges of lack of discipline and of improper fitting out of the boats have been made by passengers, while the complaint has also been made that the saloon attendants and porters of the Rockland created unnecessary alarm by telling the passengers that the vessel was sinking, immediately after the crash. Other passengers assert that no alarm was sounded throughout the Rockland, and that all of the passengers knew about the accident was what they could surmise by the force of the collision, which aroused them from sleep.

The steamship people assert that with six lifeboats and six life-rafts aboard there was sufficient accommodation for almost twice as many person sas were aboard and that the nature of the accident did not call for confusion.

As might have been expected during so exciting an experience, there was considerable difference of opinion among passengers as to exactly what occurred and how the crew acted. The calmer ones, however, said that they thought that on the whole the situation was well handled. They also declared that every passenger-carrying ship should have a wireless outfit.

Not a few of the passengers must have thought of the Titanic disaster when the crash came in the thick fog and out at sea before dawn. This may have added to their fears.

Passengers say that the officers and crew of the City of Rockland were brave in the face of the grave danger that confronted them, but many criticized the handling of the boats.

Some of the views and experiences given by different passengers were as follows:

"Everywhere the crew were courteous and brave. They stood by and helped get out the boats, never showing the least bit of panic."

One said the deckhands of the ship deserved credit for their behavior, but he could not say the same for the officers, for there appeared to be no organization of the crew.

"There is one thing that particularly impressed me, and that was the masterly way the master of the collier handled his vessel. He knows his business. The way he brought that collier up under the side of the steamer was a wonder, and showed that he was a true seaman."

"I have the greatest respect for the deckhands and the way they acted, but I'm sorry that I can't say a word in favor of the officers. It was hard enough to find the boats, but when the passengers did locate them they found the officers didn't know how to handle them. The officers also acted in a manner that tended to unnecessarily alarm the passengers."

Miss Ida Bentley, Newton, declared that after she was thrown out by the sudden dropping of one end of the lifeboat, she attempted to climb back into the boat and that two men pushed her away on two occasions.

Lewis Kimball saw the plight of Miss Bentley and left his place in the boat and swam to her assistance. With a few strokes he succeeded in bringing the exhausted woman to the lifeboat and she was hauled into it.

HOW TO KILL POISON IVY.

An Iowa correspondent writes: "In front of the house on the roadside there is so much poison ivy that the grass will not grow. I tried to grub it out, and was laid up for three weeks with the poison. Now is there anything that would kill it by spraying, or can you give me any plan to get rid of it?"

The Ohio experiment station says that spraying with a common salt solution made by dissolving common salt in water at the rate of 3 pounds to a gallon is very effective. It is recommended that spraying be repeated every three or four weeks till the vines are dead. Another method is that recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture which consists in putting a teaspoonful of concentrated sulphuric acid on the stems every week or so in the spring. If a man can be found who is not affected with the poison it will be worth while to pay him to thoroughly grub out the plants. Any one who has much work to do around poison ivy should keep in stock a lotion made by dissolving sugar of lead in 60 per cent alcohol. It is claimed that such a lotion will, if put on after one has come in contact with poison ivy, dissolve the poison which causes the trouble.—Wallace's Farmer.

LIVELY WORK FOR YACHTSMEN

Plenty Doing For the Local Tars This Week

QUINCY CRUISE SUNDAY

Yachts of the three Quincy clubs will participate in the midsummer series of the Boston Yacht club off its Hull quarters on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

On Sunday the Quincy Yacht club will have its annual run to Marblehead to participate in the mid-summer races to be held there. The annual runs of the club are always looked forward to as interesting events. The starting gun will be fired at 9 o'clock and the first boat to arrive off Marblehead will take the time of the other yachts as they arrive. To add a little zest to the run Commodore Whittemore offers a cup to the boat making the best time. The club also offers prizes of various kinds for the event.

Thursday night the Executive Committee of the club will fix the courses for the Bermuda cup race to be held September 2. It is also probable that at this meeting the judges for the Quincy Yacht club Challenge cup races will be appointed.

WARD THREE BROKE RECORDS

Playground Attendance Last Week Above All Marks

YOUNGSTERS BUSY AT GAMES

Last week's attendance at Ward Three and Ward Four, Ward Three broke all records for Playground attendance by turning in a total of 1,788; of this number 785 were boys and 1,003 girls. Ward Four also had a good week although their mark falls far short of the other two wards. 548 boys and 469 girls enjoyed the games and sports making a total of 1,017 for the week.

WARD 3 PLAYGROUND NOTES.

That the children of Ward Three appreciate the playground sports was certanly demonstrated Tuesday afternoon for over 500 of them gathered there for the three-legged race and the potato race. A large number of the older folks were also on hand to encourage their youngsters on to better efforts.

It required six heats in the youngest boys potato race before the winners could be determined and in the girls races almost as many.

Summary of events:

BOYS' RACES.

Potato race—Boys under 10 years—First, F. Aldodellae; second, L. Abad; third, J. Kelly; fourth W. Jabosson.

FRIGHT IN BATTLE.

How Grant Cured a Badly Scared Staff Officer.

One of General Grant's newly appointed staff officers had never been in any serious engagement. But almost the first day that he reported to Grant he was placed under a fire of the hottest and most severe kind. The screaming of the balls, the roaring of the cannon and the sharp crack and rattle of the musketry thoroughly demoralized him. He became absolutely sick and paralyzed with fear. He was so weak from nervous excitement that he lost physical control over himself.

General Grant came up at the very climax of his fright, and, noticing his pale face, his blue lips and chattering teeth, he said: "Captain, you are frightened. That is natural enough. You will get over it. Suppose," continued Grant, "I should come to you with a hat containing ninety-nine white beans and one black one and I should ask you to thrust your hand into the hat at a venture and pick out the black bean. Do you think your chance of getting that black bean would be very good? Well, your chance for being hit under this fire is no greater than your chance for drawing the black bean."

This officer at once took heart, and from then on he never showed the slightest sign of fear.—Life.

BATTLE OF MARATHON.

The Most Decisive Day In the History of the World.

The single day in the world's history which was fraught with the most tremendous consequences to mankind was the day on which the battle of Marathon was fought. The handful of tiny states that inhabited Greece had developed faculties which indicated that man had advanced another stage toward the highest ideals.

Foremost among those little nations was Athens, which state, too, contained the germs of human freedom. It was the forerunner of the democracies of the world. But the very existence of Athens and Greece was threatened by the huge barbaric empire of Persia. Darius had sent out his hordes of warriors to add the Grecian states to his vast dominions. Face to face his forces met the Athenians on the plains of Marathon.

Hitherto invincible in the field, the Persians looked upon the little army opposed to them with contempt. The Greeks themselves hesitated to hazard a battle with the conquerors of the world. Their generals debated the question, and the decision to fight the Persians was caused by the eloquence of the immortal Miltiades. He led his 10,000 Greeks against the Persian host and gained a decisive victory. The glorious day of Marathon beat back the advancing tide of eastern despotism and barbarism and saved the freedom and civilization of the western world.—Pearson's Weekly.

Animals That Are Always Enemies.

Many animals are born with an inherent antipathy for other animals. The excessive fear shown by young rabbits which for the first time smell a ferret and of young turkeys which hear the shrill cry of a hawk they have never heard or seen before are proved examples of the strength of these instinctive antipathies. But the case of the weasel and rat is, perhaps, more to be noticed because of the greater equality of the antagonists. The feud is so bitter that a meeting between them almost certainly means death to one or both. Friendships are not uncommon between the cat and dog and have been known between a dog and wolf, but the mutual attitude of the weasel and rat is invariably war—war that is waged to the death.

Ungrammatical.

Dusty Rhodes—Will yer please give me a dime to get somethin' to eat with? Bunker Hill—My good man, you cannot purchase a set of false teeth for 10 cents.

We owe the greatest gratitude to those who tell us the truth.

A Mind Reader.

Mr. Dorkins—Maria, why do you always interrupt me as soon as I begin to— Mrs. Dorkins—Because I always know exactly what you are going to say. What's the use of my wasting time by waiting to hear you finish?—Chicago Tribune.

CHEESE—A FOOD.

One of the most common articles of diet is cheese, and yet its value is little appreciated by the general public. One cannot say, in fairness, that cheese has not won favor in this country; for an article that is found in some quantity or other in almost every American home and the yearly output of which is considerably over 300,000,000 pounds in the United States, with a value of nearly $29,000,000, cannot be regarded as entirely unpopular. Despite these enormous figures, there is a prevalent current belief that cheese is prone to produce physiologic disturbances and that, as the expression goes, it is "hard to digest."

The nutrition experts of the United States Department of Agriculture have been investigating the case of the American public versus cheese. The facts and findings are essentially as follows: Cheese of various types, eaten raw or carefully cooked, compares favorably with other foods in thoroughness of digestion in healthy man. It does not cause constipation or induce other physiologic upsets, even when eaten in abundance. Cheese is more than readily digestible; it is highly nutritious, comparing in this respect with other combinations like meat, fish and eggs; and above this, cheese is an economical food, competing easily with the foregoing from the standpoint of cost and nutritive efficiency. If the causes for the familiar indifference to cheese as a more central feature of the diet are sought, they probably lie in part, according to The Journal of the American Medical Association, in the continued popularity of the more expensive meat in this country and in the fact that our housekeepers lack the culinary experience which would bring cheese into a more prominent role on the bill of fare.
